Civilian Employees Form Credit Union For Loan Purposes

A general meeting will be held in Building T-58 on Wednesday, 27 September to complete the organization of a Credit Union at Reese Air Force Base. Mr. Paul Mullins, a representative of the Credit Union League of Dallas will be present at that time. He will explain the working of the Union, following which a general discussion, question and answer period will be held.

The charter for the local credit union, to be known as the Reese Air Force Base Credit Union, has been approved. It will be operated for the benefit of civilian employees and officers of RAFB and is for the purpose of promoting thrift and creating a source of credit for the members. (Airmen were not included because they have a similar organization in the Air Force Aid Society.)

The Union is owned and controlled by the members and will be operated by a board of directors elected by the members and a supervisory committee will examine its affairs and audit books. It is backed by the United States (Continued on Page 4)

Formal Dance Slated For Reese Personnel At Hotel Lubbock

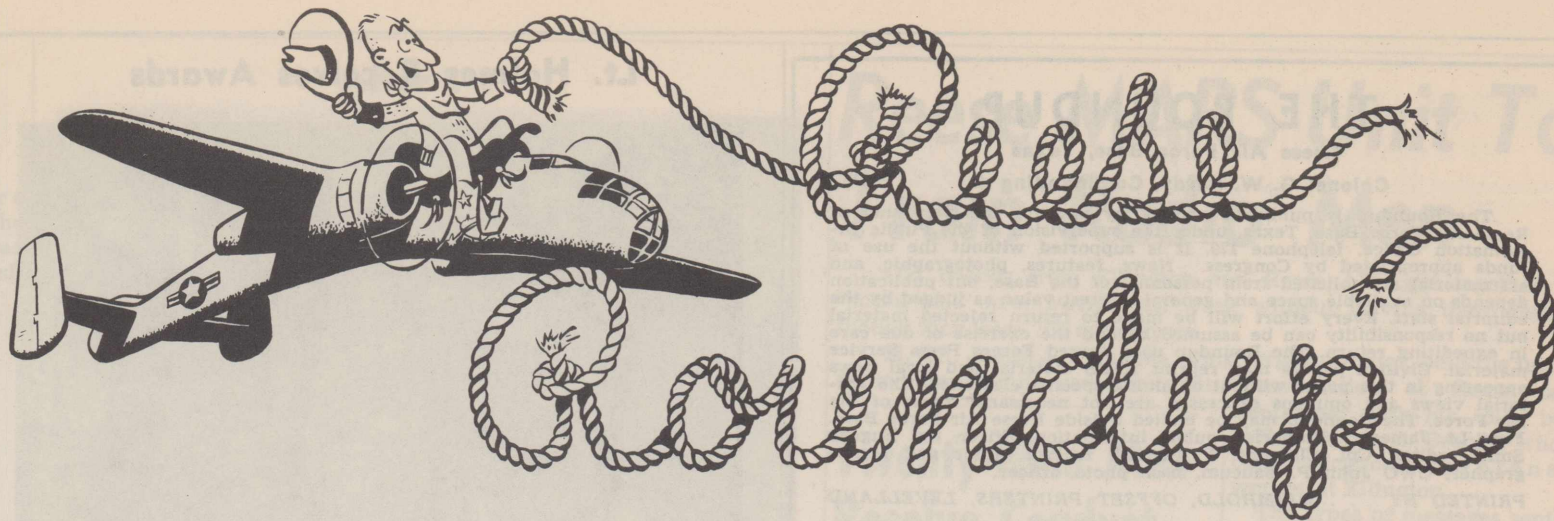

A formal dance will be held next Monday evening from 2030 to 2300 hours at the Hotel Lubbock ballroom for airmen. Music will be furnished by the base orchestra.

Engineers Complete Assignment; To Begin New Construction Jobs At Eglin Air Force Base

Having completed their project at this base, Company "A" of the 809th Engineers loaded their heavy equipment aboard flat cars and left Reese on Thursday for Eglin AFB, Florida, where they will join with the other companies of the Battalion.

Capt. Geo. A. Patrick, company commander, said that with the completion of their work here the engineers had spent a total of 48,056 man hours and 18,347 equipment hours on the various projects at this base and for the rehabilitation of Abernathy Auxiliary Field. The work at Abernathy Auxiliary required the most man and equipment hours of any other single project with a total of 23,292 hours spent at that field.

Projects at this base included in addition to the construction of the taxiway and repairing and sealing of the streets such items as removing and relocating concrete sidewalks, clearing Mesquite brush from the entire base area, building grandstands in the base gym, grading the ball diamond and the construction of the track.

Although working under such difficulties as the weather and the loss of more than one fourth of their personnel the engineers were still able to finish all projects on schedule. Captain Patrick also stated the 80% of all Bituminous street on the base had been repaired and sealed and that all of the streets would have been repaired had it not been necessary for them to use some of their supplies on a more important project.

Captain Patrick expressed appreciation for the cooperation given him and stated it had been a pleasure to work at this base.

Reese Officer Will Be Attached To USN For Duty

Captain Humphries is the second officer to leave Reese for new duties with the U. S. Navy Training Command. Capt. Jona E. Goodbread, flight instructor of Section 1, has been on duty at Corpus Christi under the exchange system for the past year and will return to Reese approximately 1 October.

In a few days Lt. Thomas H. Adams, USN, will complete his assignment here and return to duty with the Navy.

MANAGEMENT THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"A man who is right doesn't need to lose his temper, a man who is wrong can't afford to."

KADET KORRAL

50-E has departed and 51-A has arrived and a new group of classes have started down the home stretch toward graduation.

Last week appears to have been an unlucky one for class 50-G. It seems that several members were victims of everything from disappearing plates of food to vanishing runways.

Connor, we understand, is still wondering who it was that was so hungry and lazy as to relieve him of his newly filled plate while he was in the process of securing a cup of tea.

Night flying certainly came in for its share of thrills last week. Keel, getting a wing tip Monday night. Then there was Heberling, who got lost on runway 20 and washed out a wing and tail wheel.

Someone said there was a petition going around town to move the garbage pit and west fence, or else buy Heberling a pair of glasses.

There have been a number of people asking about whether or not the class book will have pictures of the graduation exercises in it.

I would like to hear from any and all who are both for and against holding up for the graduation pictures so that the committee may act accordingly. While on the subject any one having snap shots they want to place in the year book please print plainly on the back your name and turn them in to any one of the committee members. They are Anderson, Bean, Davis, R. B., Connor and Toerge.

To all of the members of 51-A, the classes of 50-F and 50-G wish to extend their best wishes for a successful completion of training at Reese Air Force Base.

Airmen Eligible For Cash Awards For Suggestions

Military personnel are now eligible to receive monetary rewards in conjunction with the base-wide suggestion program, it was announced this week by Colonel George W. Pardy, base commander. Ten dollars or less may be awarded any airman for each adopted suggestion received.

The payment of monetary awards to military personnel will come from base nonappropriated funds. The validity of using these funds has already been approved by the Air Judge Advocate General.

It is hoped that the new monetary awards to airmen will broaden and add impetus to the Wing Suggestion Program. Formerly, airmen were only eligible to receive passes or other non-financial rewards for their suggestions.

Suggestions should be placed in any of the twelve suggestion boxes, which are strategically located throughout the base, or forwarded to Major Dean B. Brown, personnel staff officer.

New Wing Chaplain Served In Korea

Korea, particularly its key cities of Inchon and Seoul, are familiar territory to Reese's new Protestant chaplain, Major Maurice R. Holt. He arrived Sunday from the Far East to take on duties of wing chaplain.

"Two years ago today I held services for American occupational troops at Kimpo Air Base, which was captured from the Reds this week by U. N. forces," he disclosed. "I know every inch of the country they're fighting on; I used to hunt over it."

Major Holt was group chaplain in Korea from 1947 to '48 at Camp Ascom, which was located in the town of Pupyung, eight miles inland from Inchon on the Inchon-Seoul highway. Then he was transferred to Kobe and Yokota Air Bases in Japan, leaving there on 14 June of this year. He arrived at Seattle, Washington about the same hour that the Korean conflict began.

He's very happy to be back in the states since he saw plenty of action during World War II in the Pacific theater with the 7th Infantry Division, which recently landed at Inchon and is now storming the gates of Seoul.

"The terrain around Seoul consists of low hills and wide valleys with numerous rice paddies in the low areas. Korean farming methods," he added, "are very primitive with all work being done by hand labor or by oxen-drawn wooden plows. Most of their transportation is by oxen-drawn or hand-pulled carts.

"Their staple is rice, and probably the world's hottest dish, called 'kimchi'. It's made out of a Chinese cabbage, very highly seasoned with peppers and garlics.

"Korean women wear very high-waisted dresses and bolero jackets. Men wear rather baggy, loose-fitting trousers and long coats, usually white. The old men, called elders, wear high, horsehair hats.

"Korea has a mixture of all the oriental religions, chiefly buddhism. The Christian missionaries, however, had a great following. So much so," he said, "that over fifty per cent of the leaders of the South Korean government came from Christian families and schools despite the fact that only a very small percentage of the overall population are Christians."

Very few Koreans are well-educated or speak English. Except for the cities with their modern-type structures and mechanized transportation, Korea is very backward.

McMinnville, Ore. (AFPS) — Larry Lowe, age 10, won a prize in the city's pet show held here recently. His entry, winning in the "biggest" class, was his four-year-old brother, Johnny.

The judges had approved his request to enter his mother's pet because he had none of his own. When he showed up with Johnny, he said: "That's what she calls him—'Pet.'"

"Your Chapel"

For the health of your body cleanliness is necessary. Your body requires not only pure food and pure drink, but it also requires clean air, clean skin, clean clothing, a clean home, a clean school. Similarly for the health of your soul a clean and pure moral life is indispensable. Your reading and your conversations must be clean; your recreation, your work, your social activities, your manners, your thoughts, your desires and ambitions — everything about your life — must be free from uncleanness. For impurity is a poison that will seep through the slightest seam.

The dangers are not always clearly labelled. The world makes it a practice to cover its filth with exterior glamor and brilliance. You must learn, therefore, to detect the dangers no matter how they are disguised. Look upon a garbage heap as a garbage heap even when it has been sprayed with perfume.

That God has placed these powerful passions under your will, reveals the confidence He has in you. He expects you to guard this instinct against all abuses and to preserve it for its proper use. It is your sacred duty to keep these instincts under control at all times, and not to excite or aggravate them. Never say that you cannot do this, for it is well known that he who says that he cannot control himself is either a whining coward, a flabby weakling, of a plain liar.

If you have not experienced strong temptations, then you must take the word of older people that impurity is a most serious danger to your immortal soul and that the lifting up of the heart and mind to God through earnest prayer is an indispensable safeguard.

Base Library Opens Civilian Employees, Dependents, Welcome

The formal opening of the RAFB library was held Friday morning, 15 September when Colonel George W. Pardy, base commander, cut the ribbon as part of the opening ceremonies. The library was officially opened to Reese personnel at 1200 hours and more than 100 persons visited the library during the day.

The opening of the library was the culmination of five months of work, during which time the library was moved twice, shelves torn down and rebuilt, and finally the remodeling of the present building, T-421, from a barracks into a model library, complete with comfortable chairs, good lighting, and a good selection of reading material.

Mrs. Helen K. Fuller, librarian, stated that a vote of thanks should go to Colonel George H. Blase, base executive officer, Capt. George A. Patrick and the men of the 809th Engineers, the men of the Installations Section, and the civilian personnel of Base Shops "who did so much to get the library completed."

The facilities of the library will be available to military personnel, their dependents, and civilian personnel of Reese Air Force Base.

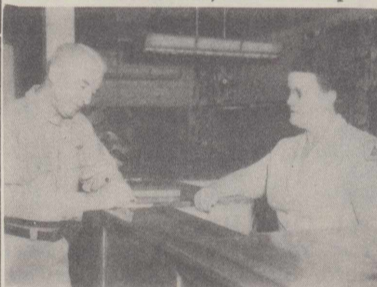

A limit of four books per person has been imposed and the checking-out period for seven days only. Books may be renewed once and renewal may be accomplished by telephone.

Operating hours of the library have been set from 1200 to 2100 hours, seven days a week. Clearances may be processed from 0800 an 2100 hours weekly and from 1200 and 2100 hours on week-ends.

Assisting Mrs. Fuller will be Sgt. Richard E. Bochte, Cpl. Robert C. Campbell and PFC Eddie Cochran. Arrangements are pending to secure an assistant librarian.

The library itself has reference books covering the nine major divisions listed in the Dewey Decimal System. Together with the books in the fiction section they total more than 10,000. A complete section has been devoted to new books and a book review column will be a feature in the coming issues of the Roundup. The latest issues of the popular magazines are also available and newspapers from other bases in the Air Force will be secured soon.

Reese MARS Unit To Train Radio Men

Old friends from Ellington and Reese AFB got together for a "social call" over MARS last week without leaving their desks, although they were 700 miles apart.

M/Sgt. James J. Flanagan, wing sergeant major, held the unprecedented ten minute radio-telephone conversation at Reese on 13 September with his old buddy, T/Sgt. James R. Brooks, who is a communications maintenance worker at Ellington.

Psychiatrist: Why don't you like to talk over the telephone? Patient: Because I always hear voices. People are liable to think I'm crazy.

The types of messages sent over MARS (military amateur radio service) are restricted mostly to personal contacts. It's purpose is to offer some program for voluntary training in communication work, to be a form of recreation for participants, and to provide radio communications in case of emergency.

A typical example of the useful functions MARS serves at Reese can be shown in the case of Mr. Louis Hernandez, a civilian radio repairman who works in the Base Shops. Daily he receives free radio reports via MARS of his father, who is in critical condition after undergoing a major operation in Houston, Texas.

Here's the way it works: Louis' mother calls the MARS station at Ellington AFB and give them a daily report on his father's condition. This information in turn is relayed to Reese.

Reese, whose call number is AF5FBA and which operates on a frequency of 7305 kilocycles, can contact all bases in the Training Command with MARS stations in addition to three other bases. They include Keesler, Sheppard, Lackland, Ellington, Goodfellow, Vance, Connally, Craig, Selfridge, and Barksdale Air Force Bases.

Reese's MARS station is now in the process of being renovated and in the near future it is hoped to be operating in tip-top condition with the installation of beam antennas, having direction power of 10 and 20 beams. The antennas will be mounted atop an 18 foot tower that will soon be erected on Bldg. T-64, the ground radio and instrument repair building, which is the new home of the base MARS station. It was moved last week from the south runway tower to its present location for convenience of operation.

At present the base has only one licensed operator, M/Sgt. Albert S. Williams, NCOIC of communication maintenance. He is responsible to the MARS director at Reese, 1st Lt. Clarence W. Tripp, for operating the MARS station and training future members.

Six potential members are taking 30 minute instructions daily at present to pass the Federal Communications Commission requirement for an amateur radio operator's license. Membership in MARS is open to any member of active military service or the reserves.

Touch Football Season Opens Squadron Teams Ready To Vie For 1950 Base Championship

Six squadron teams will clash next Monday in the first touch football games of the season. Mechanics of the 3501st Maint. Sq. will pit their razzle dazzle against the skill of the 3502nd Main. Sq.; Supply Sq. pigskin toters will battle the M & S Gp.; and the Cadets will try to down the PTG airmen.

In games scheduled for next Thursday afternoon the Cadets will take the field against PTW, the PTG officers will tangle with the Motor Vehicle aggregation, and ABG will take on the Medics. League play on 4 October will see the 3501st team vie with Installations, the PTG airmen lock horns with PTW, and M & S Gp. vs. Motor Vehicle Sq.

Final Plans Made For Basketball And Handball Titles

Personnel Services announced this week that a base handball tournament will be held 2 October in the gym. The tournament will consist of double-elimination play, so only two-man teams may enter. Teams should enter as soon as possible by signing up in the gym office or on the roster posted by the handball court, or by phoning 282 or 175. Awards will be given to the base champions and the runner-ups.

A meeting for personnel interested in playing on the base basketball team this coming season will be held in the gym at 1100 hours on Monday, 25 September. Men who play on squadron teams can also go out for the base team.

Touch football rules will be the same as last year with the exception that the clock will be stopped for timeouts in the last four minutes of the second half. This ruling was necessitated due to the numerous time-outs called in the final minutes of play during last year's games, which unnecessarily prolonged the game times.

Games will start at 1600 hours, with forfeit time officially being called 15 minutes later. The touch football fields are located as follows: A. Area across from Gym going out gate; B. Area across from Hospital; C. Area across from Officers' Club. These three fields are the only designated areas for practicing and playing touch football. Violators who practice on grass areas will receive one week in the Training Squadron without exception. Last year an airman was fatally injured playing football in a crowded squadron area so Air Policemen have been instructed to strictly enforce this regulation.

M & S Officers Lead In Volleyball Race

The officers' volleyball league, which started play on 25 August, will wind up its competition on 2 October. Of the four teams entered in the league the M & S officers hold top honors, having never been defeated. Major Charles B. Grimm is captain of the winning team.

Other teams, in the order of their standings, and their captains are PTG, Capt. David A. Parker; PTW, Lt. Conrad J. Lindemann; and ABG, Capt. Rawls C. Crossland. * *
