CHESNUTT, MAINES TO HEADLINE

25th Annual Floyd Co.

Annual Floyd County Friends Gala that will be held Saturday, April 17, 2021, at the Unity Center in Muncy.

The doors open at 5:15 p.m. and the gala begins at 6 p.m. Over the past five years we have broken record after record, and this year will be no exception.

This year's headliner is CMA Award-winning recording artist Mark Chesnutt. Born in Beaumont, Texas, in 1963, Chesnutt grew up listening to his father's extensive country record collection (Bob Chesnutt had been a locally popular singer who never hit it big, and thus worked as a used-car salesman). Chesnutt learned both guitar and drums and made his professional singing debut with his father's band at age 15 on the local club scene. After around a decade of dues-paying, positive word of mouth finally helped Chesnutt land a record deal with MCA. Chesnutt's debut album, "Too Cold at Home," was released in 1990, and the title track became his first hit, climbing into the country Top Five. Top hits include "Brother Jukebox," "Blame It on Texas," "Your Love Is a Miracle," "It Sure Is Monday," "I Just Wanted You to Know," "Gonna Get a Life," "Goin' Through the Big D" and many more.

Opening for him will be Kenny Maines of Lubbock. Maines was the third of five children born to James and Edith Maines. James and his brothers started the first-generation "Maines Brothers," and Kenny and his brothers forged the second-generation "Maines Brothers Band." The band recorded a total of eight albums, sharing the stage with a number of country greats including Alabama, The Judds, Ronnie Milsap and Reba McEntire.

Floydada Power & Light to parcel out surcharge costs

BARBARA BRANNON | HESEPERIAN-BEACON

Floydada Power & Light clients-like electricity customers everywhere in the region after February's devastating Winter Storm Uri-have probably been holding their breaths to learn the impacts on their power bills and pocketbooks.

But the City of Floydada already got their own right before last month's council meeting, and it was a doozy. According to city manager Darrell Gooch, FP&L's charges for the power it buys were 756% above normal.

And while customers will ultimately bear the brunt of that spike, Gooch says the city is working out a plan to minimize the impact and spread it out over time.

"This was a one-in-a-hundred year storm," said Gooch. Customers and utilities alike had no real way to prepare for the sudden rise in wholesale power costs.

Starting this summer, after taxpayers have completed payoff of the current city bond, the council will add a surcharge to customers' bills that will pay off the additional cost over a period of several years. The basic kilo-See FP&L, page 3

Floydada council appoints pool, softball managers; postpones action on vendors

LIZ ADAMS | HESPERIAN-BEACON

During the regular meeting of the Floydada City Council on Tuesday, March 30, the members voted to appoint Harvey Garza the manager of the city pool for the summer of 2021. Jimmy Garcia was appointed to direct the adult softball program at Annie Taylor Park after he discussed plans for promoting the program.

The council voted to sign a letter of engagement regarding an agreement to perform their annual audit with the same company with whom the council worked for the previous two years. The audit will begin at end of April.

An update regarding the city animal shelter was given by Cassandra Garza, who reported that 118 dogs have been saved in the past ten months. A low-cost vet clinic will be held from 9:00 a.m. to noon on April 24 at the Russell RV Park facility, conducted by Animal Rescue of Crosby County (ARC), which will administer rabies and Parvo shots for dogs, as well as vaccines for cats.

The council discussed the possibility of waiving vendor fees or amending an ordinance requiring vendor registrations in order to attract more vendors, but no action was taken.

May elections were cancelled and unopposed candidates for mayor and council members for Districts 2 and 3 were certified.

Members designated Darryl Gooch Civil Rights Officer for the Texas Department of Agriculture Community Development Block Grant and voted in favor of the GDBG Civil Rights Resolution.

No action was taken regarding concerns about high electric bills due to Winter storm Uri. The matter was tabled in order to discuss options with the city attorney.

This week the cowboys' and cowgirls' challenge was to see if they could steer a calf to stay 10 seconds in various sized circles.

Taylor led the challenge for awhile, but did not win.

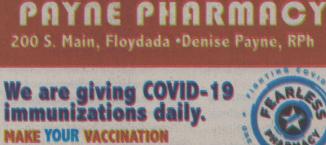

Like in many reality TV shows personality conflicts arose between two of Taylor's competitors and one of them had to pack his gear and go home.

But so far, Lockney's contestant is still on the weekly show. A new episode debuts Wednesday.

The Games People Play

As a parent, I was a little started when I heard this shouted from my kid's room. It's been an unusual year with lots of indoor time anyway and my guess is that there are probably other parents who are happy to see the nice weather so they can get their kids back outside and off the PlayStation. I've had to place limits, or life would've been all screens all the time. It's great to see kids on the baseball field again.

My brother and I played some video games that involved shooting when we were pretty young. Somehow, though, nothing on Atari or that old Nintendo seem as brutal as Fortnite. We did watch the A-Team and Looney Tunes. We played outside, too, but we were consistently exposed to casual violence for hours on TV and we've never killed anybody. Is it really a big deal?

Some education experts say video games can contribute to antisocial behavior and even translate into violence in real life. Others argue that these sophisticated games are making our kids smarter. There is evidence that regular exposure to violence in games may increase aggression, and that kids who play these games might get sent to the principal's office more often. There are definitely games that reward violence, and addiction to the games can cause problems for kids and adults. Scientists seem to agree that playing video games changes the player's brain.

But there are some positive things going on when kids play. They're getting a kind of exercise in problem solving, hand-eye coordination,

"Let me get my revolver! Shoot if you're not and spatial skills. They're also getting some practice at planning, resource management, and cooperation in teams. They have to make quick decisions and they're working on improving accuracy. The military uses video games in training to teach situational awareness. Kids are using reading for following instructions and understanding stories, and math skills for estimating. There are tons of other good reasons to play, but one of the main reasons I give the okay is the bonding when kids get to team up or face off with adult family members in a game. In the scariest times during the pandemic, it's also been a way for kids to maintain some kind of social life.

> Some of those things are the same things parents want when involving their kids in athletics. All the track teams and the Little League teams out there in the sun showing off and just having a good time remind me that I've heard the same arguments against sports. There is an element of risk, and there can be bad experiences. Sometimes there are bullies, and sometimes people don't play fair. Kids may not have talent for every sport they try, and sometimes there are sore winners and sore losers. Still, it isn't just the game that determines the outcome.

> Like any reasonable parent, I will keep watch. But there is a chance all these different kinds of games can make us better people. I'm going to cheer the victories even when they aren't obvious. I hear my kid congratulate a teammate after an online loss and it's not so different from what I want to hear on the field.

McAdams appointed to PUC. Gov. Greg Abbott has nominated Will McAdams to the Public Utility Commission, tors for more than a decade in various senior staff positions.

The PUC came under fire after the disastrous electrical blackouts during the mid-February winter storm, since it has supervisory power over the Electric Reliability Council of Texas, which controls the power grid for most of the state. Nearly half of ERCOT's 15-¬member board has since resigned.

An investigation by the Houston Chronicle indicates nearly 200 people died in the winter storm, primarily from hypothermia or carbon monoxide poisoning. More than 4 million homes in Texas were without power at the peak of the crisis. As State Rep. Rafael Anchia, D--Dallas, noted in the article, the winter storm death toll was almost double that from Hurricane Harvey in 2017.

Housing affordability, homelessness exacerbated after storm, pandemic. A Fiscal Notes report from the state comptroller's office indicates median-priced housing in all 10 of the state's largest metro areas is unaffordable to Texans with median incomes. Median income is the point where half the people earn more and half earn less. For example, the median income in Austin in 2019 was $39,418, according to the U.S. Census Bureau. In Brownsville, it was $19,432, or less than half of Austin's median. But in both metro areas, a home at the median price — $491,000 in Austin and $167,800 in Brownsville is unaffordable to families whose annual income is at or below the median. (All figures are from 2019, the latest year available.)

The report notes a strong correlation between homelessness and housing affordability. Red-hot real estate markets in those metro areas have driven up home prices and rents. After a dozen years of decreases in the number of homeless people in the state, the number has risen since 2018. The latest count of individuals experiencing homelessness on a given night accounted for nearly 26,000 in Texas.

Drought conditions blanket two thirds of the state. While drought conditions have improved in the northern Panhandle, they have gotten more severe in South and East Texas, with 68% of the state's land now under drought conditions ranging from abnormally dry to exceptional. According to the Texas Water Development Board, for the first time in five weeks the total area of the state affected by drought didn't increase.

Spiller supports bills in House session

STAFF REPORTS

AUSTIN-This week the Texas House passed seven bills focusing on power and electricity reform, reported staff of District 68 Rep. David Spiller.

The bills passed will protect ratepayers, fortify the state's power grid, reform the Electric Reliability Council of Texas (ERCOT), weatherize infrastructure and improve communications between government and industries, Spiller said. "This will ensure the fallout that we experienced during Winter Storm Uri never happens again."

Spiller coauthored and/or supported the following bills this week.

HB 10. Reforms the ERCOT board and makes it accountable to the Legislature.

HB 11. Requires electric generators to weatherize their facilities to prevent the failures we saw during the winter storm.

HB 12. Creates a statewide notification system to alert Texans about coming disasters and electric issues related to them.

HB 13. Forms a council to ensure there is communication between natural gas providers and electricity generators during times of crisis, helping prevent the kind of blackouts experienced during the storm.

HB 16. Prevents the billing plans that left consumers with electric bills running into the thousands and tens of thousands for a few days of electricity.

HB 17. Prevents cities and counties from banning the use of natural gas in new construction.

These bills now head to the state Senate for consideration.

This session, Spiller was appointed to the House Committee on Land and Resource Management and the Committee on County Affairs, both of which he said he had experience with professionally during his time as general counsel for the Jack County Hospital District and working as city attorney for the City of Jacksboro.

As the session progresses, Spiller encourages all House 68 constituents to contact his capitol office at (512) 463-0526 or email District68.Spiller@house.texas.gov.

Strawberries and Cream Cake a sweet addition to the Easter table

Nothing says spring cooking to me more than asparagus. Roasted asparagus stalks simply drizzled with olive oil and a sprinkle of salt and pepper are close to perfection. But

To infuse flavor and texture by wrapping asparagus in bacon to place over the grill is practically a meal in itself. Prosciutto works well, too.

I remember the asparagus my grandmother grew in her backyard when I was a child. That may be my earliest recollection with regard to gardening. (That, and the mint my mom had growing by the back of the house that she liked to put in her sweet tea.) I also remember the dull green, mushy asparagus that come in a can. These days, if anything, frozen would certainly be better. But it seems fresh asparagus is readily available year round. Although, like tomatoes, we know we can get them anytime, but when any fruit or vegetable is "in season" it will be at its optimum flavor.

Years ago, we served asparagus wrapped in puff pastry at our wedding reception; I believe it was the one with parmesan on top. It's a beautiful dish to serve for an elegant plate. But it can easily transport to a fun finger food, no fork or plate required.

You may have noticed my love of "everything bagel" seasoning in some of my other recipes. Pastry-wrapped asparagus looked like the perfect opportunity for me to enjoy the mixture of this seasoning. It typically consists of dried garlic and onion, sesame seeds, poppy seeds, and salt, to name a few of the ingredients. There are different versions; I've even had some containing caraway seeds. It's a treat to buy it in one handy container on the spice aisle now.

I typically use Pepperidge Farm's puff pastry sheets. For this recipe I used half a box, which is usually found in the frozen case at the grocer near the frozen pie shells. Each box contains 2 sheets. Each sheet makes approximately 14 asparagus spears.

Enjoy food made fresh!

Ricky was employed at City Auto, Inc in Floydada from 1960 until 1964, then served, in the United State Army for four years, finally returning to the family business as part owner/ employee from 1968 until 2005.

After a few years in the McKinney, Texas area, he and his wife, Rebecca (Becky) Burns, made Lubbock their home. He was then employed

SPRINKLE FOR SPRING Add a dusting of parmesan prior to roasting asparagus spears, and they reach a new level and tastiness. | ANGELINA LARUE PHOTO

1 egg

2 tablespoons everything-bagel seasoning 1 tablespoon olive oil

Preheat oven to 400° F.

Wash asparagus and pat dry with a paper towel. Trim off the woody ends.

Place thawed puff pastry on the counter and roll out just a bit to smooth out the folds (if the dough is sticky, use a little flour on the counter, and on the rolling pin). Cut the dough into 14 strips.

Wrap each spear in 1 strip of pastry dough. Note: I like to place the spear on the counter and tuck one end of the strip of dough underneath the bottom of the spear and begin rolling it upward until the dough has spiraled around it almost to the top. Leave the top inch of the spear exposed. Repeat for each spear.

Beat egg with 1 tablespoon water. Brush the top surface of each pastry. Brush exposed spear with olive oil. Sprinkle everything-bagel seasoning evenly over each pastry, which will stick to the egg wash. Bake for 20 minutes in preheated oven. Makes 4 to 7 servings.

Graham and Knueve announce engagement

Take me to the good time zone

Zoning. A mixed blessing.

A friend of mine in a distant town wants to host an arts and crafts festival at in her really big yard. She's already invited musicians and crafters. She's not zoned for fun. She could be in trouble.

What town? I'm not telling. I'm not even naming the state. Things could get interesting if the police show up. Makes me want to go the distance -- sign up to sell crafts. Or take a typewriter and sell on-demand poetry. I don't want to hear about the brouhaha after the fact. I want to say I was there for it, in the zone.

Life on the edge. The festival promoter has that gene.

Me, I have the I-don't-want-to-miss-it gene. Tell me the zone-breaking festival will likely never happen again. I'm in.

Zones. They come in all sizes. We all shop now in mobile imaginary zones with six-foot radii. Post-pandemic, will our personal spaces return to normal?

For us Anglo-American types, our space cushions are ever with us. We're more comfortable with temporary six-foot spacing than some other ethnic groups. My opinion.

Formerly a walking letter carrier, I know stuff. Ordinary White people tried not to show up when I was stuffing the mail in the box by their front door. They respectfully gave me time to step away. Only after a proper number of seconds had elapsed did they emerge to see what I'd left.

Hispanics were likely to meet me and take the mail. They were in my face like it was no big deal, which it wasn't.

I remember one mentally-challenged White guy. Like a kid, he routinely delighted in taking the mail right from my hand. My pleasure.

Am I ignoring political correctness? Probably. I'm just telling you how it was. People are different. Cultures are different. Mentally-challenged people are different – some childlike, some not. Me, I'm childlike.

Nope, there's no such thing as one-size-fits-all personal zoning. Some folks want their space. Some like closeness. Some fall in-between.

Over time, it seems Americans have become more protective of their home zones. In mid-century television shows, families of the standard "Father Knows Best" variety open their front doors to everybody. Perry Mason and his detective ring doorbells and people let them in. Did that happen only on TV? I think not.

Who remembers summers when a knock would elicit a "Come in" from whoever was home? Never mind that nobody knew who was at the screen door. A family in Chillicothe even had a parrot that said "Come in."

Since those days haven't we become less social? Less likely to fraternize with neighbors? Does such isolationism prompt stricter enforcement of neighborhood zoning laws? Maybe.

Will garage sales disappear? Probably not. It's generally understood we all need a way to get rid of stuff. Some garage sale organizers even get by with selling burritos. Maybe my friend should just call her event a garage sale with music. She could include burritos too. Give one to the policeman.

Further, the city will use its reserves to pay its own $700,000 power bill in two payments, avoiding the 3.25% carrying charge providers have offered utilities as a way to take care of that obligation. OBITUARIES

Peyton Lynn Reeves, 2020–2021

LUBBOCK-The family of Peyton Lynn Reeves held a service at 2 p.m., Monday, April 5, 2021 at Lake Ridge Chapel and Memorial Designers, as they remembered the life of their precious baby girl. Peyton's service was live-streamed at www.memorialdesigners.net. We also ask that you consider viewing her tribute video.

On February 13, 2020, Peyton Lynn Reeves was born to Justin and Jena Reeves in Lubbock, Texas. On March 30, 2021, Peyton finished her fight with leukemia in Jesus's arms. Throughout her five-month battle, she never lost the smile she was so well known for. All were constantly amazed by her strength and personality.

Those left to cherish Peyton forever are her parents, Justin and Jena Reeves of Lubbock; her grandparents, Joe and Karen Swan of Lubbock and Mike and Stacy Reeves of Floydada; her two doting cats, Queso and Tilla; and a myriad of other family members and friends.

In lieu of flowers, Peyton Reeves's family has designated Alex's Lemonade Stand Foundation, fighting childhood cancer, one cup at a time, at alexslemonade.org/contribute/7, for memorial contributions donated in her memory.

FLOYD COUNTY HISTORICAL MUSEUM First college in the county, 1980-91

As part of its mission to preserve local history, the Floyd County Historical Museum has recorded and transcribed oral histories and other documents over the years.

Fronabager of Springtown, Parker County, visited Della Plain and made preparation for the "Male and Female Institute" to be established there. Reverend Fronabager was to furnish the teachers, operate the school, erect a "school building according to specifications", maintain and supervise the school for five years. At the expiration of which, the title of the building and some town lots were to be given to him by J. R. McLain, a resident of Della Plain, who was also interested in establishing a school for higher learning at Della Plain.

C. W. Hutcherson, a graduate of Springtown, acted as principal the first year with Miss Anna Bedecarrax and Miss Emma Lewis as teachers. The school was advertised as having primary, preparatory, and collegiate departments. In the collegiate department the following subjects were listed: General History, Composition, and Rhetoric, Metaphysics and Logic, Higher Algebra, German, Hebrew, Spanish, Natural Science, Commercial Law and Art.

A letter to the public, published in THE DELLA PLAIN REVIEW, in 1890, set forth the advantages of the school.

Come to the beautiful little city of Della Plain,

Early in the spring of 1890, Reverend B. F. in County of Floyd. Send your children. They will find board cheap, but good; tuition reasonable, instruction thorough; discipline kind but rigid. Send your sons that they may get the advantages of a college course. Send your daughters that they may become skilled in the finer arts, as well as being equipped for the sterner duties of life.

> The settlers who are already here say come; those that are coming say come! Let everyone who will, come and enjoy these advantages for yourselves and your posterity.

> The school was erected, but five hundred dollars was all that Fronabager could raise. So, the next year the lumber company obtained judgment against those responsible for the erection of the building and it was moved to Floydada in 1891. Dr. A. C. Traweek of Motley County said, "It took eight big wagon wheels made from large cottonwood trees that had been growing for no telling how long. Cottonwoods flourish under the Caprock! It took posthole diggers and plenty of solid post, block and tackle, sixteen head of oxen, and about seven days to make the journey from Della Plain to Floydada."

> The building was converted into additional room for the Floydada Public Schools in 1895.

Overheard

As April approached, my heart sank. Misery was on the way. During house-cleaning week, when my mother caught spring cleaning fever, we didn't even have regular meals.

The carpets were taken to the yard for beating. All the windows were washed, inside and out. The cupboards were emptied and scrubbed and all the dishes washed.

One year I suggested we just do a room at a time, instead of the whole house at once. My mother was horror stricken. She said that would be like washing your foot and calling it a bath.

Warm, windy weather in March

During the month of March, Motley County had warm, windy days and fog with above normal temperatures and limited freezing temperatures.

On Friday, March 12, the county was under tornado alerts and one was spotted east of Matador with no damage. The following Wednesday, March 17, a gusting sandstorm with zero visibility left mounds of dirt and a film of dust on everything. It is hard to comprehend, but is verified by the Weather Bureau that on the same date as the sandstorm, there was a snow storm in the Amarillo area! There was welcomed showers of rain the last of the month.

Total rainfall for Motley County in March reported by the National Weather Bureau in Lubbock: Roaring Springs, 2.02 inches; Matador, 1.54 inches; Northfield, 1.94 inches; Flomot, 1.92 inches and Whiteflat, 2.50 inches.

Do you know what CRISPR is or what it does?

A basic definition is gene editing technology. When we edit something we think about making correction to the original. You were fearfully and wonderfully made. (Psalms 139:14) God knew you before you were conceived in your mother's womb. (Jeremiah 1:5) How does all of this fit together? Jesus said, "So it was in the days of Noah were, so shall also the coming of the son of man be." (Matthew 24:37) (Luke 17:26) We find in Genesis 6 that mankind's DNA had been compromised by fallen angels mating with daughters of men. Noah however found favor with God, being perfect in his generations, and Noah walked with God. (Genesis 6: 9) CRISPR can and will change your DNA just like DNA was changed in Noah's day. Will God recognize a changed DNA? Has God changed? Can mankind improve on what God created? I am going to leave my DNA alone, and trust in God. Someday soon you will be told mankind can eliminate disease using CRISPR. For whosoever will save his life will lose it, and whosoever loses his life for my sake shall find it. (Matthew 16:25) Watch out that no man deceive you! (Matthew 24: 4) This will change your DNA, one cell at a time. We can look at the snake on the pole or Jesus Christ. Soon you will have to prove you have the Vaccination, which will lead to the mark. Blind guides leading the blind and both shall fall in the ditch. (Matthew 15:14) Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling. (Philippians 2:12). Most adults have taken or will take the vaccine without investigating it. Go to Anthonypatch.com study, listen, read, learn, helping you to make an informed decision. Our children are at stake, please help save the children. High school students' immune systems are strong, very strong. Slow down get informed, protect your children grandchildren and great grandchildren. Sound the trumpet in Zion, sanctify a fast, call a solemn assembly; Gather the people, sanctify the congregation, assemble the elders, gather the children, and those which suck the breast: let the bridegroom go forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her closet. Let the priests, the ministers of the Lord weep between the porch and the altar, and let them say, Spare thy people, O Lord, and give not thine heritage to reproach, that the heathen should rule over them: wherefore should they say among the people. Where is their God? (Joel 2:15-17). Will all of the watchmen and women sound an alarm? Last word In Jeremiah 6: 16, Thus saith the lord. Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls. But they said, we will not walk therein. 17. Also I set watchmen over you, saying, hearken to the sound of the trumpet. But they said, we will not hearken. What will you do today? I am not a judge of any person. We do not have a spirit of fear but of love power and a sound mind. God Bless You All!!!!!!!

STAFF REPORTS

TEMPLE — The USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in Texas today announced opportunities for partners to receive funding through its Texas Partners for Conservation Program. Applications must be submitted through grants.gov by June 1, 2021.

"Conservation of our natural resources can be achieved through effective collaboration with our network of partners to leverage NRCS resources and develop state and community level conservation leadership," said Kristy Oates, NRCS state conservationist for Texas. "This partner-led approach will accelerate the development of conservation plans to address environmental quality issues on agricultural lands within Texas and improve outreach to historically underserved producers."

Priority will be placed on Conservation Technical Assistance projects that:

Provide high quality technical services that help customers achieve their conservation goals.

Increase adoption of conservation in Texas.

Increase easement outreach, training, and education.

Priority will be placed on Outreach projects that:

 Provide high quality technical services that help historically underserved producers achieve their conservation goals through NRCS conservation practice standards.

· Increase participation of historically underserved producers in conservation programs (technical and/or financial assistance) by at least 1 percent of the total number of participants reached.

• Provide training opportunities through one-on-one consultations, workshops, conferences, or any other event that focuses on historically underserved producers.

• Provide a method to follow-up with historically underserved producers to measure rate of success of their participation in both technical and financial assistance by NRCS staff.

• Provide training opportunities, outreach, and education on easements through one-on-one consultations, workshops, and conferences.

There is no cost sharing or matching requirement for this opportunity, but this factor is considered in the review process. The funding floor is $25,000, and the ceiling is $75,000. These numbers refer to the total agreement amount, not any specific budget period.

All funding applications for USDA-NRCS-TX-21-NOFO0001103 must be submitted via grants.gov by June 1, 2021. For assistance with the registration process, contact grants.gov applicant support at 1-800-518-4726 or support@grants.gov.

Tenth annual BisonFest slated for Sept. 25

LIZ ADAMS | CAPROCK COURIER

After it was postponed last year due to safety concerns about Covid-19, the Texas State Bison Music Festival announced that tickets would go on sale April 3 for this year's event.

Caprock Canyons State Park will host the tenth annual BisonFest, which helps to fund the Texas State Bison Restoration Project, on September 25. Some VIP ticket holders may have elected to hang onto their tickets from last year, but herds of eager fans attempting to purchase tickets over the last week may have experienced issues with the online system.

Returning emcee Ed Montana promises a show that will appeal to all ages. Montana has been involved with the event for most of the last decade. He has recently released a new original single, "The Ballad of Rush," in honor of the late Rush Limbaugh and inspired by fellow fan Tom Tarver.

Houston native and former Texas Tech student Cory Morrow and Austin-based Jason Boland & The Stragglers will be performing, along with Max Stalling and David Beck's Tejano Weekend. Pat Green, who also attended Texas Tech, will be headlining.

Sponsors include Bison Coolers, Reed Beverage, Lighthouse Electric Cooperative, and First National Bank of Quitaque. Valley Farm Store and Hotel Turkey are also sponsors. Directions from Dallas, Lubbock, and Amarillo are available at Bisonfest.com, along with ticket prices.

BISON BENEFIT

Located in Caprock Canyons State Park, the The Official Texas State Bison Herd are direct descendants of the herd started by famed Catteman Charles Goodnight in 1878. Goodnight began the herd on his JA Ranch in an attempt to preserve the animals before they disappeared forever.

Against all odds, one herd of genetic-related Southern bison have managed to survive all these decades. They were donated to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and moved to Caprock Canyons State Park in 1997 and represent the last remaining examples of the Southern Plains variety of bison.

THE LOCKNEY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE sponsored a "Glow in the Dark" Easter egg hunt on Thursday April 1. The egg hunt started around 8:45 p.m. at the Lockney practice football field. All the kids had loads of fun running to find the Easter eggs that were hidden on the field. There was a great turnout by the community. TERESA BIGHAM/WYATT BIGHAM PHOTOS
