Independence Day 1982

Celebrating 206 years of freedom

Reese plans July 4th, AHW activities

Across the United States and Armed Forces' Bases throughout the world, Americans will celebrate their 206th year of freedom Sunday and American Heritage Week beginning Monday.

The Reese populus is invited to attend various activities throughout the week and weekend commemorating Independence Day and the A.H.W.

Tonight at the Enlisted Open Mess there will be a country and western band featured. The Copper Creek Band will play 1950's style country western music from 9 p.m.-1 a.m. Admission is free to members and $3 for non-members.

Activities kick off Saturday morning with the Reese Annual Golf Championship. Tee off is at 8. The tournament plays through Monday.

Reese members will march in the Fourth of July parade Saturday at noon. The parade begins at the Lubbock Civic Center and ends at the Texas Tech University's Jones Stadium.

The bike parade through Reese Village begins at 2 p.m. Saturday. Children participating should decorate their bikes, tricycles, unicycles and strollers in order for judges to select those with the best decorations and costumes.

A "Night of Escape and Illusion" begins at 7 p.m. at the Simler Theater. The show features Bob Doggett performing magic and creating illusions with the help of a lion, tiger, boa constrictor and his own pet cougar. Mike Russo an escape artist, will also be performing in the show. Russo challenges anyone here to produce a restraint from which he cannot escape.

"More than six-thousand people a year are injured due to fireworks. Some of the accidents are caused by malfunctioning fireworks, lack of supervision and knowledge of safety practices," according to Base Security Police. Reese regulations prohibit the use or possession of fireworks within the base and Reese Village grounds.

According to Maj. Keith Stuart, Lubbock Police Department, "possession of fireworks within city limits is illegal."

Reese members planning to be out of the area for the holiday should be sure to take precautions against injuries and fires that fireworks may cause. Make this holiday a safe one.

Make sure the manufacturer's label and instructions for use is on each firework item. Illegal fireworks seldom have instructions. Store your fireworks in a dry, cool place and avoid rough handling. Adults should supervise their children. Young children should not play with the fireworks. Cleaning out an area to insure that there are no flammable items within the area. When the fireworks have been fired, soak them and duds with water.

Continuing into the week more activities are planned as the beginning of American Heritage Week gets underway. Tuesday at noon a swim meet will pit squadrons against each other at the Enlisted Pool. A bowling tournament will also begin that day at the bowling center from 11 a.m.-1 p.m. The tourney will continue through Thursday.

Ryan sends July 4 message

On this the 206th anniversary of our nation's independence, we recall the great vision our forefathers had for their newly formed republic. Their philosophy of government — truly revolutionary for its time — reflected their strong conviction that the power to govern rests solely with the people themselves and that every human being has the birthright of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Some may consider these merely hollow words, but for most Americans they are worthy goals which have remained unchanged through successive generations. Unchanged, but certainly not unchallenged; our nation's history is replete with examples of heroic, yet ordinary people who rose to the occasion, often with their lives, to preserve the ideal and protect America.

We can do no less, for the struggle against tyranny and oppression is far from over. Those of us in uniform have a special responsibility for we have committed ourselves — our lives and work — to preserving the values and principles upon which our nation was founded. On this Independence Day, 1982, let us summon the same courage, the same patriotic fervor remain of those who have gone before us so that America will forever remain the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Commander, Air Training Command

Productivity increases pay off

By Col. Donald McCullough
Deputy Commander For Resources

The ever-increasing demands for improving the quality of Air Force training and education, combined with the anticipated reduction in resources authorized to accomplish these tasks, make it mandatory that we find ways to do our job better with less costs.

This may seem like a strange way to do our job, but as the price of almost everything continues to spiral upward with inflation, we must look for ways to improve the use of our resources and obtain the best return possible for the taxpayers' dollar. As managers of public funds, each of us has a responsibility to seek economies and efficiencies in all that we do.

Your reaction so far may be "it's not my job" to increase productivity. What you must realize is that the Air Force needs your help. An example of savings realized by increased productivity is seen in the results of the Fast Payback Capital Investment Program (FASCAP).

In 1980-81, 275 projects were initiated under this program with estimated life cycle savings of over $60 million. This represents a return on investment of 7-1 for these projects. Another example is the Air Force Suggestion Program.

In 1980 alone, some 90,000 suggestions were received. Of these, approximately 20,000 were adopted for a total savings of over $72 million. What does all this have to do with you? A lot! Now you can get in on the action—in fact, there is no action unless you get involved. Every base in the Air Force is developing a Base Productivity Enhancement Plan.

At Reese, we have developed a council that will be working with every functional area to develop ideas and identify areas or initiatives that may make your job easier, more enjoyable, or more productive, but we need your ideas. You can do your share starting right now! When your unit starts putting together your functional productivity plan—support it. Let's work together and make the Air Force the most effective provider of defense possible. In the end, it all comes back to you as a taxpayer.

Capt. Wells defines Project Warrior

By Capt. Mark Wells
Project Warrior Project Officer

The recent implementation of Project Warrior by the highest levels of the Air Force caught many of us by surprise. Those of us who have studied military history and the employment of airpower had been resigned to an Air Force pushing the more scientific or technological aspects of the business. In an age dominated by technology, the study of hard science, engineering and mathematics appeared to be the key to a successful Air Force. During the last few years we have been proceeding in that direction, as surely as an algebraic equation results in an answer.

What we had been forgetting, at least in small measure, was that war and its successful prosecution are as much an art as a science. Technology may give us the necessary implements of modern aerial conflict but it does not give us the wisdom to employ them. For this we must look to ourselves and our past.

We must, for example, understand completely that we are first military professionals; officers and airmen serving as a team in the greatest Air Force yet assembled. Our job, quite simply, is the defense of this great nation. While we may have individual specialties, each of us must be prepared to face the ultimate test of our commitment—I'm speaking, of course, of war. It's easy enough to ignore the disturbing possibility while working regular hours and enjoying the "good life". Those of us serving in a peace-time training capacity might even have it better than most. But to forget or isolate what you are doing on your day-to-day job from what you might have to do in a time of crises is worse than dangerous; it's almost disloyal.

One of the ways we can remind ourselves of our grave responsibilities is by studying history. This reflection on the past, particularly on the heritage of the Air Force, is vital to the strength of our service. The intention, of course, is not to turn everybody into academicians or history majors. The purpose, rather, is to impress us with the variable circumstances of war. We can learn from our predecessors in the great conflicts of this century; they were, after all, not so different from us. Their actions during times of great stress, even their mistakes, can serve to enlighten us about the nature of war.

If we can carefully apply some of the lessons of the past, without rigidly following outmoded or archaic doctrines—we will truly "learn from history." That is one of the reasons for PROJECT WARRIOR.

Care Line

The CARE Line is prepared by Col. Monte Montgomery, 64th FTW commander. All information provided to the CARE Line will be held in strict confidence. Callers are urged to give their name and duty number so that a personal reply may be made, however, neither are mandatory. Callers are urged to use their chain of command to air complaints or comments if possible. If not, call the CARE Line at Ext. 3273.

RECENTLY A SENIOR AIRMAN called and expressed his concern about people who do not show proper respect for our flag. He also asked some questions that lead me to believe that some of us really aren't sure of the proper procedures for showing our respect. With this in mind, perhaps it will help to go over the proper procedures to honor our flag.

To begin with, a brief explanation is in order. At Reese our ceremony consists of the playing of two songs. The first song is a bugle call entitled "Retreat" this is followed by our National Anthem.

The actions you should take are covered in AFR 30-1, Section A, para 4d(3). In brief, the procedures are as follows: When you are outside you should stop and go to parade rest during the playing of "Retreat"; at the first note of the National Anthem you should come to attention and render the salute (in uniform use the hand salute, in civilian clothing remove your hat and place over your left shoulder, if not wearing a hat, place your right hand over your heart). The salute should be held until the last note of the music and the flag is grasped. If you are in a vehicle (military or civilian) simply stop and sit at attention. If you are riding a motorcycle you should dismount and render the proper salute. If you are present at a formal retreat and not a part of the ceremony these same rules apply. Do not follow the commands given the formation.

I wholeheartedly agree with the caller that all Americans (military and civilian) should know how to honor their flag and more importantly, do it. You should never be in such a hurry you can't take a few minutes to respect this symbol of our country.

THE RESULTS of the May 1982 seat belt survey are in, with the surveyed sample scoring 99 percent in all three areas: private vehicles, government vehicles and overall score. Congratulations to all concerned. Now, what about that one percent who weren't wearing their belts?

PROBLEM along Hangar Line Road, near Hangar 82, as one caller reported recently. The problem stems from a faulty valve which controls the filling of a water storage tank. The tank has been overflowing, leaving standing water which has become a breeding area for the mosquitoes.

We've tried to fix the problem ourselves, but it hasn't worked so we're getting a contractor to have a look at it. Until we can get it fixed, though, we'll just have to control the bugs as best we can. Please bear with us.

WE ALSO HAVE A "BUG" in the diving board installation at the enlisted pool. Safety officials identified a tripping hazard caused by the incorrect installation of the board and at least one caller complained about it, too. The problem has since been corrected and we're looking at the overall construction to make sure it's proper. Thanks for the tip.

WE HAD ANOTHER CALL on what someone considers lax security at the front gate, which has been closed to traffic, but the call was cut off before he could say any more about it. In any case, I'd like to remind everyone that base security is everyone's business—not just the security police. If you see people who look like they don't belong here, don't be afraid to challenge them.

Schneider named "top stick"

SECOND LIEUTENANT CHARLES Schneider smiles after graduation ceremonies as his father, William Schneider, pins Air Force aviators wings on his chest. Lieutenant Schneider was the "top stick" of Class 82-06 earning the Air Training Command Commanders Trophy, the Flying Training Award and was selected as a Distinguished Graduate.

Fifty-eight of the original members of Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 82-06 completed a years intense training June 25 as they entered the echelons of Air Force pilots.

Nine graduates excelled beyond their fellow pilots taking top class honors.

Second Lieutenant Charles Schneider highlighted the morning graduation ceremony when he earned the Air Training Command Commanders Trophy and the Flying Training Award. The "top stick" was also named as a Distinguished Graduate.

Lieutenant Schneider, an Arlington, Texas native, will be flying an F-15 once he arrives at Bitburg AB, Germany.

Other distinguished graduates included 2nd Lts. Jeffery Blessing, Louis Durkac, Stephen Simons, David Stoner and Benjamin Swinford.

Capt. Raymond Schnabel, section one, and 2nd Lt. Janice Benham, section two, were cited for their leadership skills as each was presented with their section's Leadership Award.

Second Lieutenant Jesse Gossner's hard work and study paid-off as he accepted the Academic Award.

As UPT Class 82-06 members walked the stage's red carpet to accept their wings and diplomas excitement and pride filled the auditorium.

Enthusiasm and esprit-de-corps ran from new pilot to new pilot as each accepted their wings and remembered the words of graduation guest speaker Maj. Gen. Jack I. Gregory.

General Gregory is the commander of the U.S. Air Force Tactical Fighter Weapons Center, Nellis AFB, Nevada. During his oration, he told the new pilots to employ teamwork and professionalism throughout their Air Force careers.

General Gregory also told the pilots to "ask for the dirtiest rotten job, and then do it better than anyone else ever had." The general quipped that "leaders really show their stuff when things get tough" and that their acceptance of those aviators wings put them into a leadership role as well as that of a pilot.

The members of 82-06, wings on chest, had crossed the short, but challenging isle of the theater — they are now pilots. The 58 had met the challenge sent forth by Col. Monte Montgomery, 64th Flying Training Wing commander, just short of a year before when their predecessors had accepted

Brothers get together at the academy

SECOND LIEUTENANTS BARTON (L) and Jeffery Blessing take a final look at the rear seat of the T-38. Both brothers received their wings June 25.

Barton and Jeffery Blessing — the seemingly inseparable brothers — were the first team of brothers to graduate under-graduate pilot training together this year.

The UPT class is not the first time the brothers have been together during their Air Force schooling, both were graduates from the U.S. Air Force Academy Class of 1981.

The Air Force brothers, though not twins, joined each other in their college sophomore year at the academy.

Barton was first accepted into the academy for the Class of 1979, but because of knee injuries he was medically discharged. He then continued in a civilian college and reapplied for the academy and again earned acceptance, but was dropped from the Class of 1980's roster due to academic problems.

Barton was forced to finish his freshman year at a civilian school.

Both Jeff and older brother Barton then applied for the class of 1981 and both were accepted. During their three years together at the academy both worked toward degrees in astronautical engineering.

Following their graduation and commissioning from the academy both received orders to Reese for pilot training.

Reese meant home so to speak for Barton who quipped, "I began my Air Force dependent career here." He explained that he was born at the Reese hospital during his father's tour here as a B-25 instructor pilot, 1956-57.

Now having earned their aviators wings both anticipated Reese would be the last they were to be together, but they got a surprise. Both brothers joked that when the assignments came down they thought they would be flying together for a few more years at Oson AB, Korea.

"The computer had printed my assignment twice," said Barton. After some investigation the mistake was found and Jeff got an assignment to Shaw AFB, S.C.

Even with the change of permanent assignments separating the brothers after four years of Air Force training they will continue together in forward aircontroller school until Dec. 15.

The brothers explained their assignments as challenging describing what is expected of FAC pilots. "They are the ones who lead the fighters and bombers into hostile areas lining up the targets as they go," they agreed.

Jeff will be flying the OV-2A at Shaw and Barton will fly the OV-10 at Oson. Barton explained that each of the three year assignments they had were a must at some point in every Tactical Air Command pilots career.

Both agreed that they had become closer as a result of being together these past few years. Following their current assignments Barton hopes to get an F-15 and Jeff wants an F-15 assignment.

Ivan plans return trip to Reese

Ivan is coming. A Soviet Awareness briefing team from the Soviet Awareness Directorate, Bolling AFB, Washington D.C. will present the eight hour briefing.

The briefing will begin at 7 a.m. at the Simler theater. There will be a lunch break from 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m. during the day long briefing. The briefing is classified so those planning to attend should check with their unit security monitors or Soviet Awareness project officer Capt. Mickey Johns, Ext. 3740.

Members who chose to attend the briefing must stay throughout the course of the day.

Reese wins AFRAP Base of the Year

Reese made a clean sweep in Air Training Command competition being chosen as the AFRAP base of the Year. The special program/project category winner was credited for the 7th Annual Reese Christmas Classic Basketball Tournament and as ATC's most improved base AFRAP over the past year.

Hospital gate gets holiday closure

The hospital gate will close for the holiday Monday.

Motorcycle club gets going

There are over 300 motorcyclists here, and now select members of the Reese cycling community are starting their own club. The club will be open to bikers both retired and active duty riding dirt or street bikes.

Plans for a new motorcross track are being reviewed by Col. Monte Montgomery, 64th Flying Training Wing commander.

The club needs the support of all community bikers. To find out more contact Capt. Patricia An-drepoint, Ext. 3800, or A1C Russell Noble, Ext. 3296, or Amn. Jeff Greenberg, Ext. 3296.

ASMC to elect new chapter officers

The Reese Windmill Chapter of the American Society of Military Comptrollers will meet Tuesday at the officers' club at 11:30 a.m.

During the meeting the group plans to elect new chapter officers. Members and interested parties are encouraged to attend.

Contact 2nd Lt. Michael McElhaney, Ext. 3448, for more information.

P.O.W.-M.I.A. Day declared for 1982

President Ronald Reagan has proclaimed July 9 National P.O.W.-M.I.A. Recognition Day — dedicated to all former American prisoners of war and to those still missing, and to their families.

Since Gen. George Washington complained of the treatment suffered by captured soldiers of the Continental Army, the proclamation read, the United States has recognized the unusual hardships placed on our military prisoners during times of war.

President Reagan urged all Americans to honor those who were called upon to defend the American ideals while undergoing extreme hardships while in the hands of countries violating prisoner-of-war moral standards and international codes. (AFNS)

Behind-the-lines tour set

A behind-the-lines tour of Reese for dependent spouses conducted by Col. Richard Hearne, 64th Air Base Group commander, July 13.

The tour is one of the few times dependents will be able to visit operational areas that they might not otherwise get to see.

Tour activities begin at 9 a.m. with a mission briefing in Room 204, Building 800. The tour will conclude at 3:30 p.m.

Because of limited transportation, the tour size is limited to 60 people. For planning purposes those wishing to attend should contact Exts. 3520 or 3655 to make reservations before July 12.

Parking will be available in the chapel parking lot and the child care center will be open. Reservations are encouraged for those thinking of using the child care facility.

AFOSI offers unique job opportunities

Looking for a unique and interesting job with high demands and rewards alike?

If you are an NCO with a good record, you may be able to become an Air Force Office of Special Investigation special agent.

The AFOSI is stepping up its efforts to identify qualified people to serve in challenging roles from criminal investigation to counterintelligence matters to providing personal protection for dignitaries and high-ranking Air Force officials.

The AFOSI's need for mature and experienced Air Force members has increased significantly over the past several years. The AFOSI is also looking to increase its minority special agent manning during this recruitment drive.

To learn more about the AFOSI or to apply for an opening contact AFOSI Detachment 1117 at Exts. 3666 or 3414, Washington (AFOSINS)

64th FTW receives the Lahm trophy

The 64th Flying Training Wing sewed up the 1982 edition of the Brig. Gen. Frank P. Lahm trophy, presented annually to the Air Training Command unit with the most improved flying safety program over the preceding year.

The trophy was presented by the Order of the Daedalians, the military pilots organization. Col. Monte Montgomery, wing commander, accepted the award for the wing at a Saturday night dinner at the officers' club from Brig. Gen. Jack Charles, ATC Deputy Chief of Staff.

Following 1980, when it suffered two major aircraft mishaps, the wing accumulated more than 88,000 major-accident-free hours in 1981. During that year's time it produced 348 pilots for both the Air Force and six foreign air forces. The wing also augmented its local training effort with T-38 training detachments at Grand Forks AFB and Minot AFB, N.D. and Ellsworth AFB, S.D., in support of the Strategic Air Command's Accelerated Copilot Enrichment Program.

Besides showing no major mishaps for 1981, the wing also showed a decline in both mishaps and in-flight emergencies.

In his recent letter to Colonel Montgomery congratulating him on the wing's award, Gen. Thomas Ryan, ATC commander, cited the "hard work on the part of each member of your wing," and praised "the professionals at every echelon" of the 64th FTW.

To date, the 64th Flying Training Wing has continued their unblemished record in 1982.

"'Twas like losin' a friend the day George Killian stopped brewin' the Red."

An old friend, if you ask me. For nearly a hundred years, the lads all over this part of Ireland knew you could count on the Red. And count on the Red they did.

"It was George Killian's family who brewed it. And for five generations, they was holdin' true to the taste. And if you ever had just a sip or two for yourself, you'd thank 'em for it, too.

"But then came the black day George Killian stopped brewin' the Red. Some say it was the changin' times that backed him to the wall.

"'Modernize,' they said to George.

"'Compromise,' George said to them. 'And I'll have none of that. Before I change the taste, I'll close the doors.'

"And close the doors he did—though a few of the lads came close to tears. And George Killian came close to tears, himself. Or so they say.

"Then something grand happened. Over in America, Coors asked George if they could help him bring it back.

"'Brew me Killian's Red?' George asked. 'Aye, I'd be proud to brew with you. If you be brewin' it my way.'

"Now George's way was never the easy way. It means slow-roastin' the malts. Takin' a bit more time. And a bit more trouble.

"But that's what brings out the taste. And that's what brings out the glorious red color.

"And I hear that's just the way they're doin' it. One sip, they say, and you'll know they're brewin' it George's way. Of course, brewin' the Red George's way is just what the lads all expected.

"They don't forget what George Killian always says:

"'I stopped brewin' it once. And I can stop it again.'"

Drug abuse is intolerable

Drug and alcohol abuse is "incompatible with the Air Force mission; we do not tolerate it; and we hold commanders at all echelons responsible for preventing it," says the Air Force director of personnel plans. Maj. Gen. William P. Usher discussed Air Force efforts to prevent drug and alcohol abuse when he appeared before the Senate Armed Services Committee in a joint hearing of the subcommittees on manpower and personnel and preparedness.

"Our basic objectives are prevention of abuse; discipline and rehabilitation for those who need it; and separation of those who cannot or will not be rehabilitated," General Usher said. He believes the Air Force can achieve success only through strong leadership and the involvement and commitment of individual commanders. He said commanders fully understand that aggressive pursuit of the problem is vital, and this approach has resulted in a significantly lowered rate of abuse among Air Force people.

A Department of Defense worldwide survey conducted in 1980 showed the number one problem among all ranks to be alcohol abuse. Marijuana used by junior enlisted members is the second greatest drug problem, according to the DOD survey.

General Usher cited the special project under way to test portable urinalysis equipment to detect and deter marijuana abuse. "Over the next several months, we will conduct no-notice urine tests at Air Force bases in the United States." The general said the project will not only assess the new portable devices and the Air Force drug-abuse prevalence, but will "clearly demonstrate to Air Force personnel worldwide our intolerance of drug abuse."

The general said top Air Force leaders are intensively involved in support and guidance of the drug abuse program and require "continuous tough and concerted response from commanders at all levels." This, he says, is a "constant theme in the Air Force and the key to our success." Washington (AFNS)

Reflecting.....

Shooting oneself down?

A U.S. Navy pilot flying a Grumman F11 Tiger fighter actually managed to shoot himself down when, during air gunnery practice, he fired a burst from his 20 mm cannon, executed a shallow dive

(thus picking up speed) and pulled up — directly into the path of his own cannon shot. (He ejected safely.)

Motorcycle show set for American Heritage Day '82

There will be a motorcycle show July 10 at the base picnic grounds across from the commissary. Showtime is 10 a.m.

The American Heritage Week bike show is open only to motorcycles that have been registered to travel on base. Each of the bikes entered must also be in good mechanical condition at showtime.

Bikes participating in the motorcycle show will be competing in one division: 50-125cc; 250-450cc; 500-650cc; 750-920cc; and 1,000-1,300cc.

Following the show there will be prizes awarded to some of the cyclists. Entry fee is $5.

To find out more or to enter, contact Capt. Patricia Andrepont, Ext. 3800, or SSgt. J. "Mac" McIntosh, Ext. 3167. They can also tell people where to turn in entry fees and completed registration forms.
