Thanksgiving Day 1982

Be mindful of the untold blessings

by Gen. Thomas M. Ryan Jr.
Commander, Air Training Command

We take too many of our blessings for granted today. Our forefathers made no such mistake.

America's early colonists celebrated the first Thanksgiving in the autumn of 1621 in Plymouth Colony and it gave the Pilgrims an opportunity to count their blessings and to enjoy the fruits of their first harvest in the New World.

By today's standards, we might think that small group had little for which to be thankful. Half their number had died from sickness, exposure and hunger during their first winter here. Another bitter winter faced them, but still they were thankful—for life, relative peace, and the kind hand of providence—as they sat down together to enjoy a simple meal.

The fundamental truth we can draw from that first Thanksgiving is that as a nation, and as a people, we will always have our concerns and problems. But like those at Plymouth, we should focus on our blessings, confident in our ability to meet any challenge successfully.

It shouldn't escape us that we are a nation rich in resource, talent, moral fiber and courage. Most importantly, we must not forget that we've inherited the most precious gift of all—freedom. We should be thankful for that priceless treasure and grateful that we have the might and resolve to keep it.

So, in the spirit of our country's first Thanksgiving, let us be mindful of the untold blessings that are ours in America as we join friends and family on this most meaningful of holidays.

Chief Price urges AFSA support

by CMSgt. Jerry Price
Reese Senior Enlisted Advisor

The 1982 annual Air Force Sergeants Association membership drive began Nov. 1 and will continue through the end of the year.

For more than 21 years the Air Force Sergeants Association has been working to improve the quality of life for Air Force enlisted people. A nonprofit organization, the Association concentrates its efforts on matters that span the interest of the active Air Force, the Air Force Reserve, the Air National Guard and retirees. In addition to AFSA's long history of efforts to enhance military pay and entitlements, their annual programs that provide recognition for top Air Force people have focused well-deserved attention on outstanding enlisted men and women.

"AFSA for you and me in '83" was selected as this year's theme to portray the aggressive professional lobbying efforts conducted over the years by AFSA and to highlight the many benefits available to AFSA members.

Membership is completely voluntary and authorized by Department of Defense directives and Air Force regulations. Open to all enlisted men and women, the Association also solicits membership by Department of the Air Force civilians as well as commissioned officers who served previously as enlisted men and women. All eligible personnel should seriously consider the benefits of joining this dedicated organization.

The next meeting of the Air Force Sergeants Association will be Dec. 9 at the Mathis Recreation Center beginning at 5 p.m.

For more information contact CMSgt. Rudy M. Florian, Ext. 3531, or MSgt. Alphonse R. Barboza, Ext. 3884.

A recovering alcoholic gives his story

What price is drinking worth?

by Tom H.

A Recovering Alcoholic

This question has a before and an after answer or more appropriately a bad and good answer.

I spent 20 years drinking and constantly living outside myself as I didn't want or know who the true self was. In the beginning, drinking was fun and I was one who didn't want to miss all the good times, I wanted all the gusto there was to life. Booze became my best friend in the very early stages of my career and it remained that way until the day of my last drink.

I could rely on it to provide me with everything I needed to survive. I could relax, get happy, fight, love, make a fool of myself, cry, scream, and magnify any problem I had. It allowed me to perceive reality as a big fantasy world and to live in a state of insanity thinking I was sane. At first, like I said, it was fun. I was always the first one to arrive at any social function fortified before I even got there. If the booze was plentiful and cheap in price, then to me that made it a good and worthwhile function. In fact, I would not go anywhere or attend anything unless it had booze. This attitude would remain with me through my last drunk.

The highlights of my compulsive desire to drink over anything else are many — here are but a few. Before coming into the service at age 20 I had either lost or was recommended to quit eight jobs. College was a half-hearted attempt at best. In the Air Force I am presently in my third job after the first two didn't comply with my drinking problem. One of the jobs was as an air traffic controller — doesn't that make you feel safe flying the airways? Throw in a couple of Article 15s, with a bust, numerous letters of reprimand, and finally I was offered years of hard labor and a dishonorable discharge. (Fortunately, I was proven innocent.)

For good measure there were about six car wrecks and a general feeling of let's get this fool away from here. I went through a marriage which ended in divorce, where 2 boys lived in fear of "good old dad". They never knew what I was going to do next. Finally, I personally had lost every good feeling about myself and ultimately my self-respect.

What price I pay for my sobriety is unlimited. I have friends, got my self-respect back and I have two boys who love me. Alcoholics Anonymous has shown me that by living one day at a time I can live a full and happy life. This is only a glimpse of the price I pay. It took every single drink and experience to get me where I am today. Look deep down and be totally honest with yourself — what is the price you are willing to pay?

'Ups and downs' — life would be dull without them

by Capt. Carolyn Jaskowiec
Reese Health Education Coordinator

What is stress? It's pressure from the outside that makes us tense inside. It's an unavoidable part of daily life, but too much stress can make you miserable, worried, sad and ill. Your health and happiness are affected by how you handle stress. If allowed to build up it can sometimes interfere with how you relate to the world.

Knowing about stress can help you cope. One of the main causes of stress is changes, especially sudden or disagreeable changes.

Even happy events such as sudden financial gain, retirement or pregnancy can be stress producing.

Tension produces anxiety - that worried uptight feeling. It's a vague fear that something bad or unpleasant is going to happen even when no real threat is present. Everyone experiences a certain amount of anxiety and to a degree it's a natural, helpful response, but unchecked anxiety can lead to serious problems such as ulcers, high blood pressure and the inability to enjoy life.

You can do a lot to keep tension within reasonable limits. Talk it over with someone. Take a break and regroup. Learn to relax - a few minutes away from the hustle and bustle may help a lot. Exercise regularly to let off steam. Organize your time and energy more efficiently. Be realistic when setting goals.

You can do much for yourself and others by understanding that the first step in solving a problem is recognizing that it exists. Talk it over, take it easy and keep stress in bounds before it causes trouble. Know when and where to go for help. Be optimistic. Stress is a fact of life. Everyone has ups and downs. Life would be dull without them!

A COUPLE OF CALLS came in recently about the commissary's Sixth Anniversary Sale. Some patrons were disappointed to find that not nearly as many items had been marked down as the store's advertising had indicated would be.

There are a couple of reasons for this misunderstanding. First, because of irregularities in delivery schedules, it wasn't possible for the commissary to have all sale items on hand and marked down on the opening day of the sale. They will, however, be on sale during the sale period, and for some items, well past the sale period and into December.

Second, since the commissary sells at cost, their on-hand merchandise had to be sold out at normal prices or until the store got credits from product salespeople to reduce the prices.

We're sorry for the inconvenience but we ask that commissary patrons keep in mind that, during the Fifth Anniversary Sale, Air Force Commissary Service saved patrons some $3 million Air Force wide.

AND, SPEAKING OF the commissary, a question arose concerning the store policy on closing over three-day weekends. Over a recent long weekend, the commissary closed Saturday, Sunday and Monday, prompting the caller to comment that he'd "never seen the commissary closed three days unless it burned down."

The AFCOMS policy on this is that commissaries won't close three days in a row if the three-day weekend includes a payday. Otherwise, in order to save overtime pay to employees, the stores will close for the whole three-day weekend. The weekend in question did not include a payday, so the commissary was closed all three days.

THE CHILD CARE CENTER was the subject of another call, this from someone questioning our policy of charging a minimum two-hour fee for all patrons. The policy is that all users will pay for at least two hours' use of the center, regardless of how much less than two hours their children are actually cared for there. The caller added that the policy, if it is to be used, should be better publicized to avoid misunderstandings and frazzled nerves.

Just as the children are dropped off and picked up, the care-givers must also drop in and out, depending on the number of children present at a given time. Air Force regulations provide that when an intermittent care-giver is called in, a minimum of two hours' work is guaranteed. Since our policy dictates that costs must be offset by customer payments, it follows that the two hours' pay we give the attendant must be made up by patrons of the child care center. Consequently, we have a minimum two hour charge.

Tops in Blue plays Reese

Ed Sullivan walks on the stage, and with arms folded introduces the Toast of the Town's comedian for the show. The date is July 31, 1955. The picture opens to the comics' face. He wears a floppy hat with the front brim folded up flat against the crown. As the camera widens a small whip is revealed in his right hand and as the strains of "Mule Train" begin, the camera pans down, and a small stuffed donkey 6 to 8 inches tall appears, sitting on a stool. For the next three minutes amid howls of laughter from the studio audience, the man whips the little donkey while lip-synching Frankie Lane's classic recording. The response is overwhelming. The comedian is A2C Jerry Van Dyke of the United States Air Force.

That night, 15 million people were treated by television to a program that today is without equal — The United States Air Force's TOPS IN BLUE. It was over a quarter of a century ago when Major Al Reilly, USAF (now a retired Colonel) had the idea of "family entertaining family". He believed it would provide a format for talented Air Force people to display their talent while at the same time, lifting the spirits of other Air Force personnel flung to the far corners of the world in a way no "outside" performers could. Today we know that he was right and the program reflects that truth.

Today, the stage of TOPS IN BLUE literally spans the globe. Each year, one of two hours reaches every country where Air Force people are stationed. The cast travels by bus, plane, helicopter, truck — by almost any means to reach their Air Force family. The tour isn't easy but it is incredibly rewarding. Not only do cast members have the opportunity to display their talent amid lavish costumes, exciting choreography, and breathtaking sets, but they are also appreciated, applauded, and loved. The Air Force family sitting in the audience knows the gruelling schedule, the lost sleep, the missed meals. And when performing in the civilian community the audiences immediately realize the professionalism of the performance although in reality the cast is not composed of professional entertainers but the likes of electricians, and dental assistants and mechanics. Virtually every day — six days a week — the cast travels hundreds of miles, sets up the thousands of pounds of equipment, performs one or more shows and tears it all down again ready to meet the schedule of the following day.

With a schedule so demanding the excitement of performing could soon fade if it weren't for one factor: the cast of TOPS IN BLUE cares — and the audience knows it. Because of this, it is one of the Air Force's most popular "people" programs and yet it costs the taxpayer virtually nothing. It is funded by the Air Force Welfare Board from funds generated within the Air Force.

Each year the show itself is a production from beginning to end, with specialty acts interspersed to showcase the individual talents of the cast. The variety of the show is designed to appeal to all entertainment tastes and the music generally reflects the most current achievements of the industry — from Broadway to the Grammys, every musical style is represented. The lighting is spectacular and the sound is state of the art.

The Reese Tops In Blue performance will take place Sunday, Nov. 28, at the base theater at 7:30 p.m. The show will be for ages 11 and up and free child care will be provided at the Child Care Center, compliments of the Mathis Recreation Center. Child care reservations must be made by Nov. 26.

In addition, a second performance Lubbock has been set for Nov. 29 at Lubbock Christian College at 7:30 p.m.

PROFESSIONAL MANAGEMENT BY THE QUINN-L MANAGEMENT CORPORATION

How better energy decisions make the difference

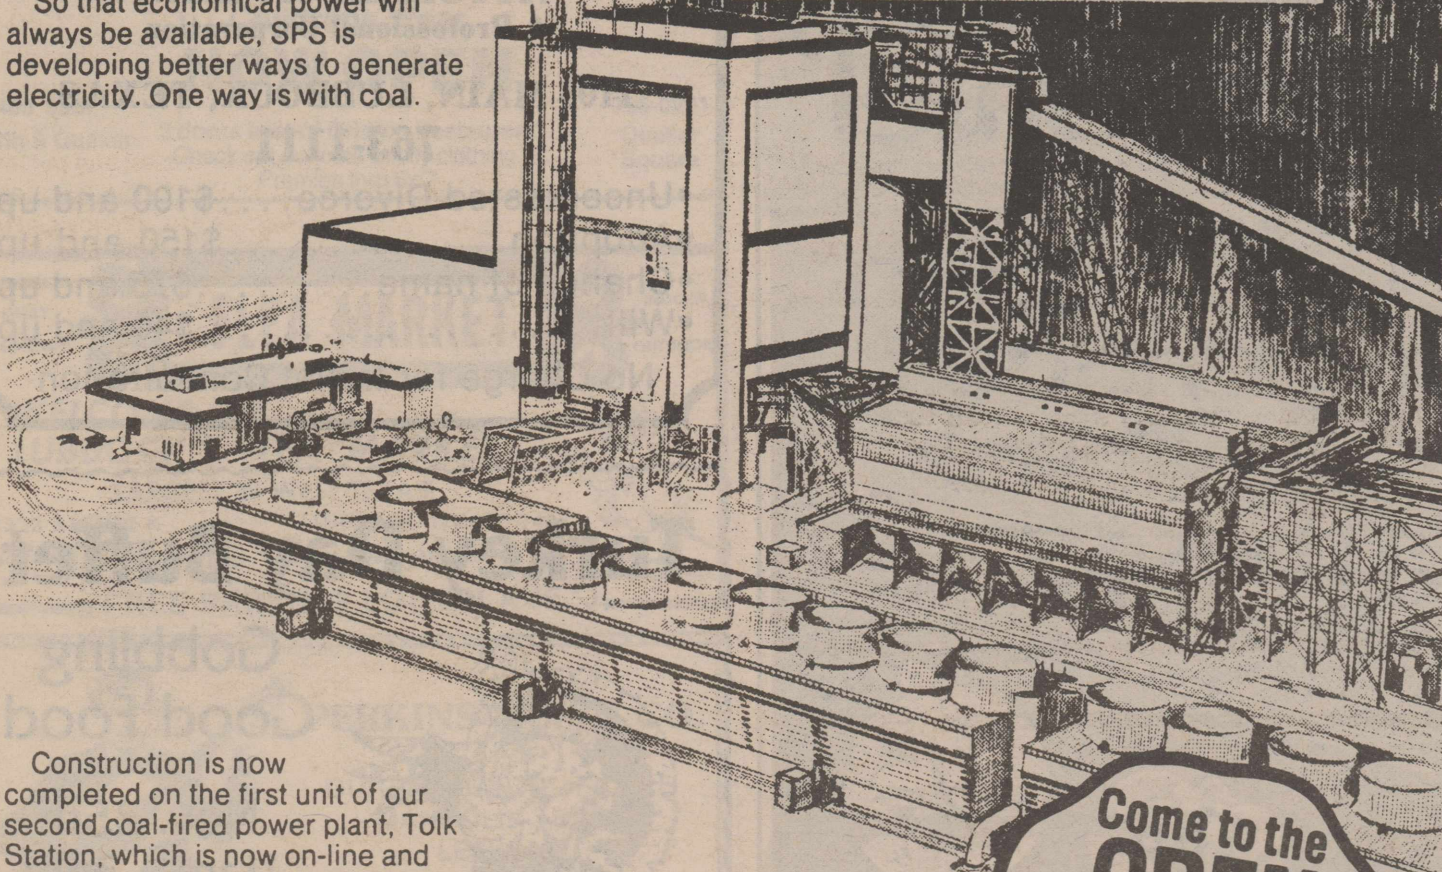

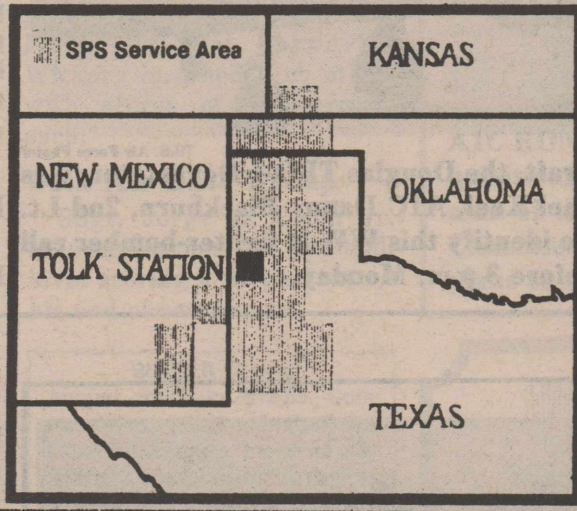

You and Southwestern Public Service Company are partners, making energy decisions that make the difference.

How you manage electricity in your home helps us make our decisions about generating power to meet the electrical requirements of the Southwest. For when you install a High-Efficiency Add-On Heat Pump, you can manage the electricity used for your home's heating and cooling — which helps SPS determine how much power you, and the Southwest, will need.

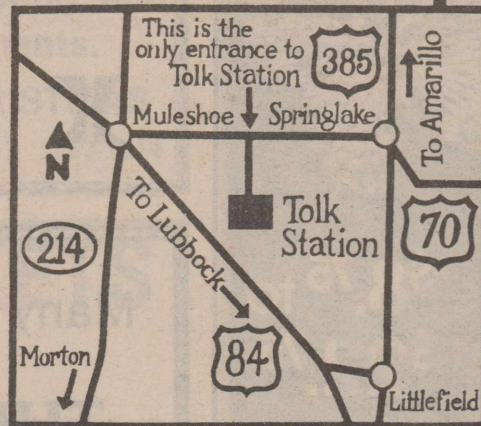

So that economical power will always be available, SPS is developing better ways to generate electricity. One way is with coal.

Construction is now completed on the first unit of our second coal-fired power plant, Tolk Station, which is now on-line and generating electricity. Harrington Station, SPS's first coal-fired power plant, has been operating since the early 1970s.

As partners we have made energy decisions which have built Tolk Station. We're proud of the new power plant as you will be too. You're invited to the Open House of Tolk Station between Muleshoe and Earth, Texas. Just follow the map and join us Saturday 10 to 4 p.m., November 20, or Sunday 1 to 4 p.m., November 21. Come as you are, dress casually. There will be refreshments and guided tours for the whole family.

Leave policy reiterated for holidays

The holiday season is approaching and it's time to reiterate leave policy. AFR 35-9 is the sole source of policy for leave and passes for the Air Force. Table 1-1 of the regulation explains chargeable leave days for individuals departing and returning on weekends. Everyone must assume a personal responsibility for understanding leave policy. Supervisors must periodically review leave policies and related practices within their duty sections.

Here's some food for thought that can effect your organization. The August 1982 TIG Brief had this to say:

"Investigation following a recent Congressional inquiry revealed a significant abuse of leave policy. Retiring members will be given "time off" from their military duties for up to 30 consecutive days without being charged leave. There is no authority for such absences. The unauthorized practice was brought to the attention of senior leadership at the base in an IG complaint ... Only then was appropriate action taken."

AFR 35-17 provides authority for members to be excused from normal duties from 1 to 5 days to complete out-processing. The specific time allowed is at the discretion of the supervisor or commander.

Review the policies in AFR 35-9 and AFR 35-17. Be responsible for your individual compliance. Abuses are detrimental to mission accomplishment, unfair to your coworkers and violations to one of our best benefits in the military.

My doctor pronounced me cured of cancer.

My boss didn't.

My boss didn't understand that I was healthy again.

So I was let go.

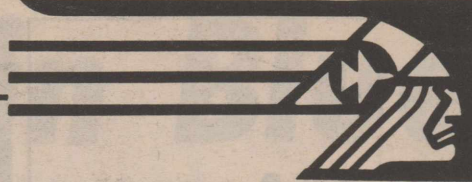

A lot of people are like my boss. They think that everyone dies of cancer. I thought so, too. Until the American Cancer Society, through one of its service and rehabilitation programs, helped me return to a normal life.

The ACS also has local Units that help Americans who've never had cancer understand it better.

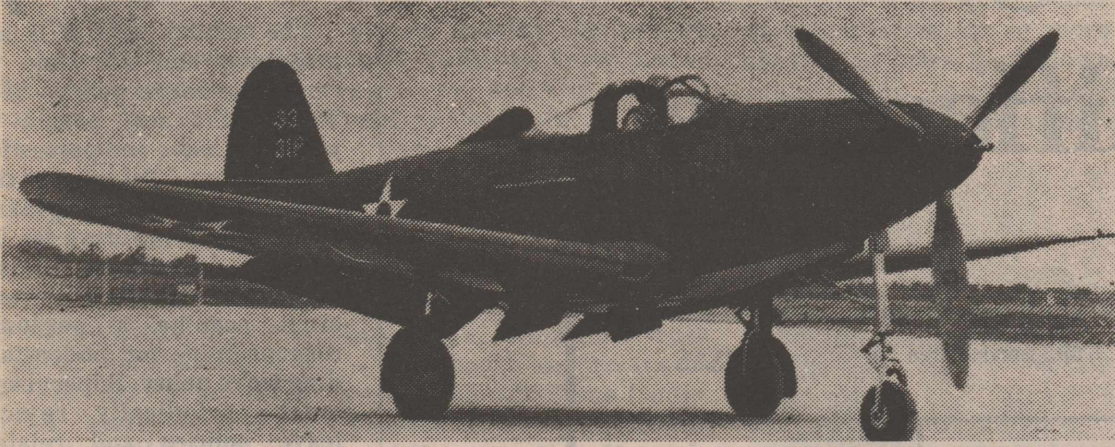

Today, more and more, cancer is a curable disease. Ignorance about cancer is curable, too.

Golfers shoot for turkeys

It was an honest to goodness turkey shoot Saturday as 40 golfers braved a brisk weekend air shooting for the traditional birds in the last Reese Golf Tournament Committee sponsored event of the year.

The committee offered the turkeys as prizes to the winning golfers based upon the bird's weight. Turkeys were awarded to each golfer in the winning groups.

John R. Hullender, Bob

Christopher, Gerry Boudreau and Carolyn Jaskowiec won the chilling golf tournament with seven under par. Their win earned them each a 22 pound bird.

At six under par, second was a three way tie. After the tie breaker, second went to Dick Alexander, Al Vargas, Skeeter Shoftner and Gerald Chock. Each received 18 pound turkeys.

Third went to Barry Timberlake, Jack

McFarlange, Rich Dennis and Don McCullough, Each received 16 pound turkeys for their finish.

Fourth went to Garland Kramer, Mitzie Hallgarth, James Ulm and Ed Ewall. Fourth place finishers each received roasting hens.

Cornish game hens were presented to last place finishers Ron Steiger, Joe Truson, Pete Cerrow and Serapio.

Women look for weekend wins

The Reese women's varsity basketball team traveled to Lackland AFB, Texas, over the weekend. During their outing, they played women's varsities from Lackland and Randolph AFB, Texas.

Kristie Allen continued her team leadership role sinking seven baskets against the Randolph women, but her teammates seemed to have difficulty getting in the spirit. The women managed only 31 points losing to Randolph in the first game.

The next day things got better and worse as the women faced off with the Lackland varsity women. Dora Lewis and Allen lead the second game scoring effort with 16 and 10 points respectively.

Scoring drives increased over the previous night, but so did the number of points the Reese women allowed the opponent to score.

Reese lost their second weekend game 70-45, but hanging in, the women are going to leave for Goodfellow AFB, Texas, this afternoon to challenge their women's varsity and "pack in a couple of wins."

Men take 3rd at Fort Bliss

The Reese men's varsity basketball team rebounded from their loss here a week earlier to take third place in the varsity basketball tournament at Fort Bliss, Texas, last weekend.

The leading scorer during the tournament was Cristobal Stevenson. Stevenson averaged about 23 points per game.

The men's team will be traveling to Goodfellow AFB, Texas, this weekend where they plan to extend their winning record.

Bodybuilder wins big at Lackland

by Sgt. Rich Tillman
Public Affairs Specialist

Billy R. Yokley has returned. And, in an impressive manner, Yokley recently participated in the Armed Services Bodybuilding Championships at Lackland AFB, Texas, where he won first place in the middle-weight class and first in the overall competition.

His recent victories represent a strong competitive spirit that has driven him to numerous athletic titles, many since he joined the Air Force ranks in 1973. Yokley was out of the sport with a knee injury eight months prior to the Armed Services competition.

The St. Louis native is in the middle of moving to Bitburg, AB, West Germany, but in a brief interview said that his present goals include going into the Mr. America competition in three to five years.

To get there, he trains for one and a half hours daily, but mention competition and that schedule grows into two 30-40 minute sessions daily until the competition date.

In the past few years Yokley has placed well in several competitions: second place in Mr. Alaska, 1976; third in Mr. Cookinlet, 1977; third in the Air Force Open, 1978; third in Mr. Americana, 1980; in the South Plains Classic he took second and also got the Best Poser, 1980; and in 1981 Mr. Americana competition he took second.

The champion body builder has set his sights high saying he plans to turn professional someday. His immediate, three to five year, goal of the Mr. America and future hopes of entering the Mr. Universe competition are "feathers in his cap" so to speak, but ones he does not plan on letting stop him from a pro career win or lose. "I'm in it for the sport, not the money," he quipped.

"I'm glad and proud he enjoys the sport, it's something he can progress in," said Yokley's wife Elizabeth. As far as going pro, she indicated that she's a little hesitant because of the time required by the sport.

The five foot, eight inch hulk of muscle first entered body building at the suggestion of a friend. At the time he was involved with powerlifting.

As a powerlifter, he held the Alaskan State Powerlifting title for two years running. In 1978 and 1979, he earned fourth place honors in the Armed Forces Powerlifting Championships. He won first in the Dallas Open Powerlifting meet in 1980.

Even with his sudden PCS move, Yokley submitted an application for the Air Force Powerlifting Training Camp.

Even before powerlifting and bodybuilding Yokley was very much into staying in shape. As a boxer he won the Arizona and Alaskan State Golden Gloves Championships for two years each. He won the San Antonio Golden Gloves title once and has boxed for the Air Force.
