JAG explains new rules

Withholding on interest and dividends

by Maj. James N. Potuk

Reese Staff Judge Advocate

Now that the dust has settled after the signing of the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982, what can be said about the new rules on withholding on interest and dividends? This article will briefly examine the background for this change in procedure, who will be affected, and how to soften the impact of the procedure.

Why was this system implemented? This new tax collection method was the result of a 1981 IRS study, which estimated that only 89 percent of interest income and 85 percent of dividends was being reported. It was further file for a refund. estimated that the treasury lost at least $7.7 billion on these two items. By contrast, about 99 percent of wages were reported, primarily due to the system of wage withholding.

Is this a new tax? Will companies and banks pay less? No. According to the Tax Service published by Prentice-Hall, three misunderstandings relating to the new rules are anticipated:

You might think you will be paying a new tax, but that's not so. You will only be prepaying a tax you probably owe. If it turns out that you do not owe that tax, you can

You might conclude that your financial institution is paying less interest/dividend than they should. For example, if you anticipate a payment of $400, but only received $360, the institution is not paying less than it should, it has just deducted the $40 due the Government.

You might think that you are required to withhold on money or private loans on which you are paying interest. This is not true. The rules apply only to financial institutions and corporations.

To whom will the rules apply? Among others, the rules bonds, notes and debentures. Interest paid on bank deposits, except all-savers certificates.

Interest on dividends of mutual savings banks, savings and loans, credit unions and similar institutions paid on deposits, certificates or

Interest paid on deposits with brokers.

Interest paid on amounts held by a regulated investment company or invested in other pooled funds or trusts, such as money market funds and mutual funds.

Taxable corporate dividends whether paid in cash, stock, or other property and whether paid by the corporation or by a stockbroker in substitution for the corporation. When will the tax be withheld? The system begins for interest and dividends paid or credited after 1 July 1983. As a general rule, the tax will be withheld at the time the payment is paid to you or credited to your account. However, banks will be allowed to defer tax withholding until the last day of the year on checking and savings accounts. But, and this is important, they must keep enough money on account to meet your 10 percent obliga-

What if I close my account or write a check for my balance? If you try to close the account, the institution must retain 10 percent of the interest paid and send it in, and if you write a check for the balance, the check will probably bounce.

Will tax be withheld on accounts? No. Withholding is not required on payments that will be no withheld on it.

Interest paid on taxable more than $152 for the year as a whole.

> Will everyone be subject to withholding? No. Several categories are exempted.

> You can be excluded if you owed less than $600 in federal taxes in the previous year (or $1,000 on a joint return).

> You can also be excluded if you are 65 or over and owed no more than $1500 in tax the previous year ($2,500 on a joint return). Only one member of the couple has to meet the age requirement.

Are the exemptions automatic? No. You have to file for the right to be exempted. The procedure for requesting the exemption has not yet been established. So you should watch for publicity next year.

Can splitting of accounts in the same bank bring me within an exception? Probably not. The IRS will probably require payers to combine all interest paid to each

Will there be withholding on capital gains dividends or mutual funds? No.

What about tax-free dividends? Theyw ill also be exempt. This includes dividends that are considered a return of capital and those utility stock dividends eligible for the $750 or $1,500 tax exclusion.

How will I recoup the withheld tax? When you file your return, you will claim a credit just as you do for tax withheld from your pay.

What if the withholding will result in an overpayment of tax? You can reduce your estimated income tax payments or salary witholding during the year by amounts equal to the amount

Tops in Blue plans two West Texas shows

Tops in Blue will be making two area performances this weekend. They will appear at the Simler Theater Sunday evening beginning at 7:30 and then again Monday evening at Lubbock Christian College beginning at 7:30.

The Reese performance is for ages 11 years old and older. The Reese Child Care Center will take care of younger children while the parents attend the show. The child care is being provided by the Mathis Recreation Center. Reservations for child care must be made with the child care facility before close of business today.

The LCC performance is sponsored by the U.S. Air Force Recruiting Center in

CHERRY RANSOM (center), discusses the officers' wives' club's Dec. 9 fashion show and these dresses with OWC members Kathy McCorkle, (right) and Anna Marie Mudd. Penny Ryan, wife of Air Training Command Commander Gen. Thomas M. Ryan Jr., will be the fashion show's guest of honor. The OWC show will be held at the officers' club at 11 a.m.

A grateful or gross people?

by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Philip E. Grimmett Installation Staff Chaplain

As you read this you will either be celebrating Thanksgiving Day or it will be shortly after our national holiday. No matter what the time it is important for us to consider the place of thanksgiving in our lives, as individuals and as citizens of the United States. What then are we to say about Thanksgiving Day and thanksgiving in general?

It is significant that the celebration of a national thanksgiving is inherent in the history of our nation almost from its inception. It is well known that the Pilgrims resolved to express their gratitude even in the face of hardship and adversity. That is a quality that has lasted through the years of growth in our nation. It is an expression of the strength of our nation that proclaims that as Americans we are grateful for the blessings that the Creator has bestowed. On the other side of the coin, Americans can still be grateful and give thanks even in times that appear to be a rough and hard.

America has traditionally portrayed the truth of the statement of Samuel Johnson, "Gratitude is a fruit of great cultivation; you do not find it among gross people." The ideals, the principles, the heritage of the American nation is based on the act of thanksgiving to God which makes us strong and able to withstand the worst of hardship. We would, indeed, be a gross people if we were not, as a nation, a thankful people.

I fully realize that in many ways the future of this world looks grim. I fully realize that for many it may be difficult to find expressions of thanksgiving at this time. I think that has been true for any point in history. So, as Americans, we should not let that serve as an excuse to neglect our thanksgiving. Rather we should devote our efforts to finding in our lives things for which we can be thankful. And from what I know of this world Americans should have the easiest task when it comes to finding those areas. Yes, even for the ones who have it the roughest. Our history will bear this contention out, I fully believe.

America has always been a strong people. We have never been a gross people. That truth lies in part because we have been a thankful people. May we continue to be so convinced of the goodness of God and living in gratitude for his blessings.

Demand excellence, no apology

by Brig. Gen. Richard A. Ingram Commandant, Air Command and Staff College Maxwell AFB, Ala.

The Air Force needs leaders who will live the good example, who are willing to get involved in the lives of their people, who aren't afraid to work shoulder-to-shoulder with them

Let me tell you about an NCO who provided me with that kind of leadership. His name was Sergeant Baker — he was a master sergeant, and I was a young one-striper.

I reported in on a Tuesday. He said he needed a typist, but when I told him I couldn't type, he said that was all right — I wouldn't have to start typing forms until next Tuesday. You can imagine my frustration. He not only wanted someone to type, he wanted the finished product to be perfect!

But Sergeant Baker made it easier for me. He had me work evenings and Saturday! Once, when my girlfriend came for a visit, I asked for a Saturday off. He said, "Fine. I'll see you after chapel on Sunday."

You see, whenever I worked evenings or weekends, he was always there too. He set the standards. He worked at least as hard as I did. Sergeant Baker was being honest to his charter as a leader.

I remember how proud I was the day he finally put in for leave and told the squadron commander, "Ingram can handle it — I'm putting him in charge."

I've heard people say we can't make that kind of demand on our all-volunteer force:

our reenlistment rates will drop. As I see it, young people are very often motivated to enlist because they are looking for something and someone to land substance to their lives. They don't want "just a job."

We fail when we don't know our people, about where and how they live. When we don't care about our people, it shows. I've found that people in this situation intuitively feel that the institution has failed them.

Let's grab our young people earlier and demand excellence from them without apologies. We need to care for them the way Sergeant Baker cared for me when I was a one-striper. If we do this, I believe we'll have a greater number of satisfied, productive members of the Air Force. All of us will benefit.

Drinking & driving, is it worth it?

Have YOU dealt with reality lately?

by Sgt. Frank Gutierrez Drug & Alcohol Counselor

"Drinking and Driving," is it worth it? Over 50% of all traffic fatalities are caused by Drunk Drivers. Do you Drink and Drive?

What exactly leads a person that has been drinking, to get in his/her vehicle and drive off, taking not only "his" life in his own hands but "others" lives as well? Have "YOU" taken anyones life in your hands lately? I believe it is safe to say that, that's exactly what happens when you drink and drive.

When you drink what excuses do you use in deciding whether or not to drive home?

Who can say that a person is thinking of when he or she undertakes such a needless act? Can you tell me?

"REALITY". So simple and to the point. If you drink and drive their is a very good chance that you will be involved in an accident. So simple but yet so hard. Still, accidents and death occur daily throughout the entire nation because of this irresponsible act, which is practiced by many.

What has to occur for people to understand or just own up to reality? Do each and everyone of us have to experience the loss of a relative or friend to this dreaded disease of Drunk Driving. Is this what has to happen?

If the point hasn't come to mind yet, think of this: What if we were the people that were drinking that night and decided to drive and caused an accident that killed someone? Would that not be quite a burden to carry around for the rest of our lives? Is this what has to happen to make us realize, "Alcohol and Driving" can cause us emotional, physical, and financial problems if we let it?

"When are we going to own up to reality"?

"Reality is at your doorstep people, all you have to do is open that door and accept it."

"HAVE YOU DEALT WITH REALITY LATELY"?

"I WAS JUST WON-DERING why Reese doesn't have its own irrigation well," asked a caller recently. She figured that, instead of the facsimile windmill we now have in Founders Park, we could have a real one pumping water for irrigation and for use during disasters when the normal water supply would be disrupted.

Reese actually has four operating water wells that are run by electric pumps. The water from them is used for everyday housekeeping, and for industrial and irrigation requirements, and is considered in our base disaster planning. We had, in fact, been using six wheels, but the dwindling underground water supply led us to abandon two of

The windmill concept would be fine except that a windmill wouldn't generate enough pressure to run a large-scale irrigation system.

A CALLER HAD SOME trouble with The Roundup delivery recently. Most of his paper got caught in the West Texas wind, leaving him with only about a third of it to

The publisher is responsible for ensuring the papers are delivered inside screen doors to keep them from blowing away or getting soaked rainstorms. We've talked to him about the recent incident. If anyone has a similar problem in the future, please call the Roundup in the Public Affairs Office, at Ext. 3843 as soon as a problem with delivery arises.

FINALLY, I'd like to pass on a compliment we received not too long ago about the fine job the people at the Enlisted Open Mess are doing. One caller was particularly pleased about the recent "Bosses Day" luncheon and called to say so. I'm glad to pass on such comments because the people behind the scenes at Reese are so often the unsung heroes of our operation. So, to everyone concerned, keep up the good work.

First place display wins $100, second earns $50 and third gets $25. Space for cards will be assigned. Each card must be in place by noon Dec. 13 to be in the contest.

Reese jock wins 17th AF award

Maj. Gerald V. Boesche, instructor pilot with the 35th Flying Training Squadron, was recently picked as the outstanding F-4 aircraft commander in the 17th Air Force for 1981.

Major Boesche, a 1969 Air Force Academy graduate, was assigned to the 526th Tactical Fighter Squadron, Remstein AB, West Germany before moving to Reese.

He was cited by Col. Larry Keith, Deputy Commander for Operations, 86th Tactical Fighter Group, Ramstein, as a "true professional" and a recognized expert in a number of facets of his unit's mission. The major has also compiled a noteworthy record as an air combat training instructor pilot: "His performance adds immeasurably to the squadron's training and level of proficiency, and he has singly trained many of the news in low-altitude flying for Red Flag '82," read his nomination.

The 17th AF, located at Sembach AB, West Germany, comprises units at Zweibrucken AB, Bitburg AB, Hahn AB, Spangdalem AB, Ramstein and Sembach West Germany; and at Camp New Amsterdam, the Netherlands.

Tops in Blue plays Reese Sunday

Tops in Blue will be at the base theater Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m. performing to the Reese audience. The show is for ages 11 and up. Free child care will be provided by the Child Care Center, but reservations must be made by close of business today.

Tops in Blue will also play at Lubbock Christian College Monday beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Family Services sets December schedule

Family Services volunteers will hold their regular monthly meeting at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Family Services Center, Bldg. 6100. All volunteers are encouraged to attend and to bring along two dozen of their favorite holiday cookies with the recipes, for a "cookie exchange." Ormanents for the lounge Christmas tree will also be welcomed.

There is still time to make reservations for the Family Services Christmas dinner buffet, Dec. 5 at 5:30 p.m. in the Family Services Center. A sign-up sheet is available in the office.

Child care services for both these events will be provided by the Child Care Center but each volunteer who wishes to use the service must make individual reservations at Ext. 3541.

Family services volunteers are also invited to go Christmas caroling Dec. 20. For more information, contact Ann Fitzgerald or sign up at the center.

Family services will be closed Dec. 22 through Jan. 2 in observance of the Christmas holiday. Anyone wishing to borrow items from Family Services should plan accordingly. Normal operating hours of Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. will resume Jan. 3.

Library sets children's story hour

Children at the Base Library's story hour last Wednesday enjoyed Maurice Sendak's Night Kitchen and Gregory, the Terrible Eater, by Mitchell Sharmat; after which they made butter to eat with crackers. Story hour with related crafts is held each Wednesday, 10 to 11 a.m. and 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

New books in the juvenile section include The Cat's Elbow by Alvin Schwartz, Outside Over There by Maurice Sendak, The Value of Respect by Ann Johnson, and Where the Sidewalk Ends by Shel Silverstein.

Airlift command to check uniforms of all traveling servicemembers

A recent decision by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the commander-in-chief of the Military Airlift Command, will enable MAC terminal personnel to insure that traveling servicemembers of all services comply with their service's regulations governing travel in military uniform.

AFR 35-10 provides that Air Force personnel be in uniform on all MAC flights, regardless of whether they're in leave status. The only exceptions to this policy are when the member's travel orders specify travel in civilian clothing, or when civilian clothing is required by the USAF Foreign Clearance Guide.

The new policy now makes it possible for terminal personnel to apply each service's uniform policy to members of that service and to decline to process and board servicemembers who are not in uniform.

It applies to duty and leave passengers traveling on military and MAC-controlled (Category B) civil aircraft departing from military airfields and commercial gateways.

Trainer resource manager slates Reese meetings

Capt. Tom Jackson, Air Training Command trainer resource manager, will visit Reese Dec. 2 and 3 for briefings on the First Assignment Instructor Pilot program.

Exact times haven't been set yet, but the Thursday briefing will be during the afternoon at the 54th Squadron, and the Friday briefing will be in the morning at the 35th Squadron. All FAIPs and other interested parties are invited.

Death at 55 It happens quickly

Although 55 has been touted as the speed that saves lives and gas, it can't save you if your personal driving habits are reckless.

One small slip as you gaze at the horizon or turn your head to light a cigarette could propel you into eternity, in less time than you might

The automobile research division at Cornell University Medical College has provided terrifying pictures of what happens to steel and glass, and flesh and blood, in the split-second a human is hurled to death. This is a reconstruction of what will happen when your car, traveling 55 mph, hits a tree.

One-tenth of a second: Your front bumper and chrome frosting of the grill collapse. Slivers of steel penetrate the tree one and one-half inches or more.

Two-tenths of a second:

(ATCNS)-At 55 mph, Your hood crumples as it death comes quickly. rises, smashing into your windshield. The spinning wheels leave the ground. The grill disintegrates. Your fenders come in contact with the tree, forcing the rear part to splay out over the front doors. Your body continues to move forward at the vehicle's original speed, a force of 20 times gravity, your body weighing 3,200 pounds. Your legs ramrod straight, snap at the knee joints.

> Three-tenths of a second: Your body is off the seat, torso upright, broken knees pressing against the dashboard. The plastic and steel frame of the steering wheel begins to bend under your death grip. Your head is now near the sun visor, your chest above the steering col-

Four-tenths of a second: The car's front 24 inches are now demolished, but the rear end is still traveling at 55 (Continued on page nine)

Project Warrior

This week's Project Warrior book report is: The Allies on the Rhine, 1945-1950 By Elena Skrjabina, translated and edited by Norman Luxemburg. Carbondale: Southern Illinois University Press, 1980, 159 pages, Born in Novgorod, U.S.S.R., Elena Skrjabina, now a Professor of Russian at the University of Iowa, grew up in Leningrad, where she was pursuing graduate studies in French literature when the Germans attacked in 1941. Her firsthand experiences and eyewitness accounts of those tumultuous years of World War II have been chronicled in a trilogy of volumes which in diary form present the uniquely human perspective of a Russian wife and mother.

Covering the period from 27 March 1945 to 30 May 1950, the diary of Elena Skrjabina helps keep alive some of the memories of that largely forgotten period, the Allied occupation of Germany. Her final entry, written after her emigration from war-torn Europe, signaled the start of a new life for Elena and her son Yuri. "We have just passed the Statue of Liberty." Lieutenant Colonel Dallace L. Meehan, USAF Air Command and Staff College Maxwell AFB, Alabama mph. The half-ton motor block crunches into the tree. The rear of the car rises high enough to scrape bark off the low branches.

Reprinted from the Air University Review, May-June 1982, by Lt. Col. Dallace L. Meehan, USAF, Air Command and Staff College, Maxwell AFB, Ala.

LAST WEEK'S PROJECT WARRIOR aircraft was the Bell P-39 Airacobra. The World War II fighter-bomber was recognized by 1st Lt. Pete Kirk, SrA. Steve Hisel, Jack Crawford, SrA. Michael Keel, A1C Danny Blackburn, Amn. David Miller, A1C Jay Cote, A1C Brad Cressman, Gary Biggs, 2nd Lt. Jim Clees and 2nd Lt. Dean Becker. To identify this prototype WW II high-altitude bomber call Ext. 3843 after 2 p.m. today, but before 3 p.m. Monday.

Five-tenths of a second: Your fear-frozen hands bend the steering column. Jagged steel punctures lungs, blood spurts into your lungs.

Six-tenths of a second: Your feet are ripped from your tightly laced shoes. The chassis bends in the middle, shearing the body bolts. Your head smashes into the windshield. The rear of the car begins its downward fall, spinning wheels digging into the ground.

Seven-tenths of a second: The car body is forced out of shape. Hinges tear, doors spring open. In one last convulsion the seat rams forward hitting you against the steel steering shaft. Blood leaps from your mouth. Shock has frozen your heart. Elapsed time: seven-tenths of a second. You are now dead.

The picture isn't pretty. It isn't supposed to be. It's supposed to make you think about how you drive as you cruise down the highway at

I-M basketball standings

As of Monday morning the ABG had held on to their intramural basketball lead increasing their season record

Other standings throughout the I-M league look like:

Supply moved from fifth to second with a 4-1 record.

OMS held their third place seating with a record of 4-1 for the season.

CES fell from second to fourth with a season record of Hosp moved from sixth to fifth in the overall standings with a record of 2-2.

The remaining order of team placement is: 54th at 2-4, FMS at 1-2, 35th at 1-4, Sturon at 0-3 and the SPS at 0-3.

Rod and Gun Club

The Reese Rod and Gun Club will sponsor a handgun bowling pin match Dec. 4 and 5 at the base small arms range. Shooting begins at 8:30 a.m. each morning, but the

by Sgt. Rich Tillman Public Affairs Specialist

Friday was a good day for volleyball, especially for the officers—junior officers in this case. The junior officers defeated the junior NCO team in a two out of three matchup prior to the Eagles vs. Chiefs volleyball series.

The junior officers soundly beat the junior NCOs giving up only eight points during the game while spiking and serving for 15.

Cordell Kyllo ended the first match serving for the final two points.

The NCOs began the second game, but the serve went back and forth until Michael McGovern began serving. Kyllo saved the serve twice before sending the ball over for the score. Once the ball was in action again, Kevin Illsley spiked for a second point. Subsequent volley gave the officers a 4-0 edge.

Bob Allen got in a line drive spike to win the serve. The score now 4-1, Allen added two making it 4-3.

The officers added one, but when the NCOs got the serve they tied things at 5-5.

Illsley lead the officers back out front with four points, 9-5.

Jo Cobb helped the NCOs gain three to bring the officers within one, 9-8.

Skeeter Shoftner added two for the officers, but netted his third serve.

Towards the end of the second game things were tied at 12 each, but then Allen began serving.

He served three direct hits scoring everytime and in the end winning the game for the NCOs.

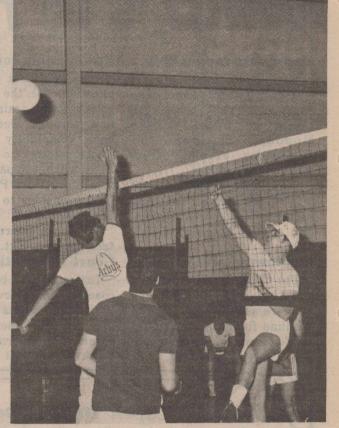

Tied at one game each, both teams went into the third match looking for the decisive win. The NCOs, hot off a win, scored two with little problem, but the officer's Darrell Smith squeezed in one point, 2-1.

A penalty cost the officers one point and Allen capitalized on the situation scoring to make it 4-1.

At one point, the NCOs lead the officers by five points, 8-3, but the point spread began to close. The officers came within three of going ahead of their NCO counterparts, but Allen served a pair of aces to rebuild the NCO lead.

The NCO lead did not last long. Kurt Brandt sent the NCOs five serves and the officers as a team made the most of each of them to tie the game at 11-11.

For the next couple of points the lead went back and forth, but at 13-13, Kyllo took the serve for the officer team to drive them on to victory.

Chiefs capture runner-up spot in volleyball

by a disinterested party

In what was described by some as one of the most significant sporting events at Reese, the base chief master sergeants, despite being the visiting team, captured the runner-up volleyball title Friday.

The event started with a coin toss between Col. R. E. "Hurricane" Hearne and CMSgt. Jerry "the Runt" Price. Although the colonels won the toss, points soon began accumulating for the Chiefs.

One of the great plays for the Chiefs happened just four minutes into the game; Col. John R. "Strong Arm" Hullender slammed a shot across the net to CMSgt. Robert "Rocket" Christopher who quickly shot the ball back to Col. John D. "Happy" Herbert. The speed of the ball was so great that Col. "Nice Guy" Nepomuceno collided with two or three of his teammates.

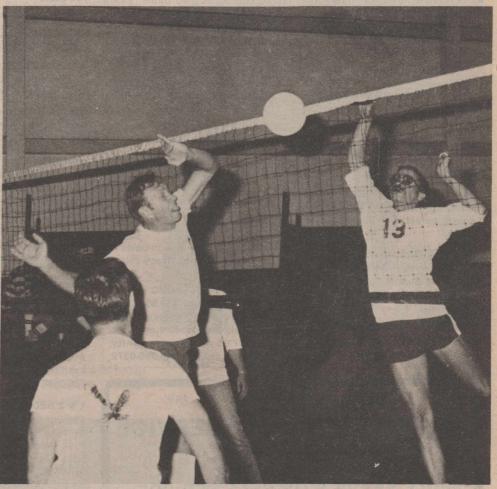

In a somewhat skillful move, Col. J.P. "Stretch" Ulm recovered the ball and managed to get it back across the net. However, Chief "Crafty" Jones, Chief "Never say die" Melvin and Chief "Hitman" Wittich intercepted the ball and put on a dazzling display of ball handling for the fans which finally resulted in a point for the Chiefs. One wonders why Colonel McCullough left town before the game.

The Chiefs coach Taft Turner said that he was totally impressed with the athletic ability of the Chiefs. The two referees "Honorable" Ed Herron and "Noble" Earl Hutchins said that they had never seen a team like the Chiefs and would be willing to referee them anytime.

Back to the reason for the game, aside from fun, the Chiefs vs. Eagles volleyball matchup was designed to collect toys, food and money for the Reese chapel's Christmas Fund. In that respect both teams won because the games were a total success for the chapel's fund.
