

Holeman garners command award

Joyce B. Holeman, resource advisor with the Resource Management Deputate here, was picked last week as the outstanding resource advisor in Air Training Command for fiscal 1982.

Holeman will now represent ATC in the Air Force - level comptroller awards program, according to a message from the ATC comptroller, Col. Mark J. Worrick.

As base resource advisor, Holeman is responsible for composing operating budgets and financial plans and for making recommendations concerning the utilization of base funds. The annual fiscal 1982 program for her division amounted to $1,423,600, according to her nomination for the award.

She has a "reputation for honesty and hard work," read the nomination and is involved in numerous projects, both on and off base. She was nominated for the award by Col. Donald J. McCullough, deputy commander for Resource Management.

Ruby Deaton, 47th Flying Training Wing at Laughlin AFB, Texas, was runner-up for the ATC award.

Airman of the Year

SrA. Melvin M. Maxwell, SSgt. Danny R. Woodcock and SMSgt. Charles W. Roach were named as Reese's outstanding airmen of the year for 1982 at the sixth Annual Enlisted Awards Banquet held Dec. 3.

The awards were presented by Col. Richard E. Hearne, 64th Flying Training Wing commander.

Airman Maxwell, a New York City native, works as a contract repair buyer for the 64th Supply Squadron. "Airman Maxwell consistently represents the Air Force with the highest military standards," said Maj. Michael Herider, 64th Supply Squadron commander. Among his accomplishments, Airman Maxwell has garnered three Squadron Airman of the Month honors, been named as the Air Training Command contract specialist of the year and been picked as a professional performer by the Air Training Command inspector general.

Sergeant Woodcock, honored as the Reese 1982 Non-commissioned Officer of the Year, serves as a maintenance flight chief with the 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron. He is active in community projects, such as the Special Olympics and the Combined Federal Campaign, the federal government's portion of the United Way drive.

In nominating Sergeant Woodcock, Maj. Stanley Zalace indicated that Woodcock "has consistently demonstrated superior leadership and technical ability above what is expected of a staff sergeant."

Sergeant Woodcock also received a set of tech stripes. He received a STEP promotion and it was presented that night as well. He is a native of Seattle and now calls Costa Mesa, Calif., home.

Rounding out the trio of honorees is Sergeant Roach, an 18-year Air Force veteran who is the supply management superintendent for the 64th Supply Squadron. A leader among base non-commissioned officers, Sergeant Roach is the president of the local chapter to the NCO Academy Graduates Association, president of the Wing NCO Academy Selection Board, and Chairman of the Wing Enlisted Awards Committee. He also coaches the base basketball team. Sergeant Roach is a native of Cincinnati.

Construction updates help inform Reese

This is an update from the civil engineering squadron on construction projects going on around the base. The construction is monitored by the civil engineers to ensure each contractor complies with specifications.

One project is the construction of the new Temporary Lodging Facility. The cost of this facility is $578,168. It will provide 25 living units at its location on 11th Street. It will also have a laundry room and vending machine room.

Another project is the installation of new water and gas laterals in the Village. All of the gas lines were installed ahead of time in preparation for winter. They have just completed making all the water connections, and will now do clean up work. This project cost $429,071.27 and replaces deteriorated water and gas lines in the Village. Now that this project is almost over, we appreciate your cooperation in tolerating the frequent gas and water outages. We tried to warn each person in advance, but sometimes this was not possible.

The rebuilding of the tennis courts is a project that will be completed soon. Under the new asphalt on each court, a special mat was placed to keep cracks from reflecting through to the surface. This project cost $100,000, however the useable lifespan on each court is now increased significantly.

The last project I will talk about is the reroofing project in the Village. In the end 39 houses will be reroofed. This project will cost $129,029.20, but is necessary to avoid continuous repairs on the leaks in the roofs.

In the next update I will talk about some of the larger projects which are monitored by the Army Corps of Engineers. These projects include the new CBPO, Data Automation Facility, and the new Consolidated Aircraft Support System for the T-38s.

If there are any questions, please contact 2nd Lt. Williams, Ext. 3922.

Cooking can be hazardous

by Col. Normando R. Nepomuceno
USAF Hospital Reese Commander

A healthy military force is one of the major factors required in the defense of our country. However, there are occasions when we tend to relax sound hygienic practices to maintain health, especially during the holidays. Sometimes this can lead to catastrophic results. One of the most common problems is foodborne illness, commonly known as food poisoning, because of improper food handling. This is not only incapacitating, but can affect a large number of people.

Annually in the United States there are approximately 500 outbreaks of foodborne illness involving almost 12,000 individuals in both military and civilian communities. This persistent high number of incidents results despite the excellent sanitation that exists in the U.S. food industry and the increased public awareness of the scope of the problem. Outbreaks of foodborne illness are usually recognized by the sudden onset of gastrointestinal signs or nausea within a group of individuals shortly after consumption from a common source. Bacterial agents are identified in approximately 70 percent of outbreaks where a cause is defined.

Mishandling of food in homes during holiday meals and gatherings can provide excellent opportunities for bacterial food poisoning to occur. This is primarily due to the foods commonly consumed during this season (cream-filled pastries, dressings, gravies, fowl and hams) and the abundance of stored leftovers.

In an effort to reduce the risk of foodborne illness this Christmas and New Year's, we offer the following recommendations for the preparation, serving and storage of food:

Frozen fowl, roasts and hams should be moved to the chiller compartment of the refrigerator two or three days prior to the holiday to defrost. Do not defrost meat or poultry items at room temperature or immerse them in water.

The cavity of domestic and game birds should never be filled with dressing until the bird is completely thawed. It's preferable to cook the dressing separate from the bird to avoid overcooking some parts of the bird while insuring that the dressing is adequately cooked.

When cooking potentially hazardous food, observe these temperature guidelines:

Poultry and stuffed meats - 165 Fahrenheit
Pork or foods containing pork products - 150 Fahrenheit

Rare roast beef and rare beefsteak - 130 Fahrenheit

All other potentially hazardous foods - 140 Fahrenheit

Serve meat dishes hot as soon as they are fully cooked.

Never allow food ingredients to remain in the 45 to 140 F range for more than four hours during stages of preparation, holding and serving.

Before serving home-canned vegetables,

boil them for at least three minutes without stirring.

Do not allow items containing egg or dairy products to be uncovered at room temperature for prolonged periods.

Never refrigerate cooked whole fowl for overnight storage without first deboning and slicing it.

Follow these recommendations and use common sense with regard to food handling, and your Christmas and New Year's feasts will be the joyous occasions they should be.

Hispanics note religious holiday

by Lt. Col. Daniel P. Gomez
Personnel Division Director

Sunday, marks the 451st anniversary of a very special religious traditional observance for Hispanics all over the world. It is the feast day of Our Lady of Guadalupe, Patroness Saint of Latin America, and marks the anniversary of the date when the Virgin appeared to an Indian peasant in Southern Mexico in 1531.

According to the story, Juan Diego, a 50-year old Indian, saw the vision of a beautiful lady at the top of a rocky mountain named Tepeyac, near what is now the suburb of Guadalupe, in Mexico City. The lady spoke to Juan Diego in his own Indian dialect and told him to go and tell the Spanish bishop to build a church at the mountain site. When the frightened Indian recounted his experience to the bishop, the incredulous bishop told Juan Diego to bring a rose from the mountain, knowing that there were only rocks and a barren surface there. Juan Diego returned to the mountain, and the vision reappeared to him. But, instead of giving him one rose as he asked, she gave him an armful of roses, which he had to wrap in his cloak. Upon returning to the bishop, the peasant opened the cloak; the roses fell out and it was then that the bishop saw the image of the Virgin on Juan Diego's cloak, and the image was the one we know today as Our Lady of Guadalupe. A church was immediately built on the site.

Today, the basilica of Our Lady of Guadalupe sees an annual pilgrimage of over two million visitors from all over the world, but especially from Latin America.

In July 1980, I had the privilege of visiting the Basilica of Guadalupe, and finally realized a life-long dream for me. Having been raised as a Roman Catholic in the Hispanic culture of southwestern United States, I often heard of parents praying to the Virgin of Guadalupe for assistance or thanksgiving whenever illnesses or good fortune took place. To visit the actual site of the apparition and to see the original cloak with the image of the Virgin was awe-inspiring to say the least. It's really something to witness the hundreds of people at the basilica, many of whom cross the large plaza on their knees and into the church all the way to the altar, as a special promise, special thanks, or special prayer to the Virgin for a personal need. Pilgrims, tourists, and locals all flock to the 24-hour-around-the-clock hourly Mass celebrations 365 days a year.

The flocks of pilgrims swell to the millions, and it continues through the Christmas season beginning Sunday. The celebrations consist of special Masses, processions, special music, dancing, and generally, a very festive air.

One of the most interesting sights at the basilica is a four feet by four feet enlargement photograph that was made of Our Lady's eyes, which are looking downward. Looking closely, one can make out clearly the mirror reflection of Juan Diego in the Virgin's eyes, as she saw him when she appeared on the mountain. The discovery of this reflection was not made until the early 20th century.

I RECENTLY SENT a letter to all units on base in which I discussed my thoughts about the wearing of safety belts and shoulder harnesses. I'd like to re-emphasize the point of that letter here.

Everyone should know that the use of seat belts is mandated by Air Force directives. However, I'd like to approach this subject in a more positive manner and encourage every driver to consider personally the importance of seat belts and shoulder harnesses.

The statistics are overwhelming. There is absolutely no doubt that wearing seat belts reduces your chances of being killed or seriously injured in an accident. There is simply no good reason not to wear them if your car has them.

Think about it, and let's work together to help reduce the terrible cost of deaths and injuries on the highways.

A WAR HIGHWAY RESIDENT has noticed a number of speeders heading out toward the ball fields north of the base. If you're one of them, you'd better look out because the security police will be monitoring this area more closely. The speed limit is 20 mph.

A MEMBER OF THE enlisted club recently had a bad experience when he visited the club hoping to get in on the filet mignon special advertised on the club billboard outside. Unfortunately, the club was having an off-night that evening and the steak the man received was poorly cooked and was not the filet mignon that had been advertised.

The club manager apologized and presented the person a pair of free dinner certificates to be used at his convenience.

SOMEONE WHO RECEIVED a carpooling sticker some time ago hadn't gotten his carpool slot in front of Hangar 60, so he called the CARE Line to ask why.

Sorry we took so long to get the sign up. It is up now, and we think we've got the program running in such a way to avoid delays in the future. Carpooling is a good program and I think everyone who can should try it.

A RESIDENT OF DORM 220 asked why the Home Box Office in his dorm was disconnected when it looked like everyone else's was still hooked up.

Actually, HBO hookups in all the dayrooms have been disconnected. We did this because dayrooms are considered public places and the HBO bulk service rates were not in our contract with the cable television company.

FINALLY, A CALLER RECENTLY called the hospital for an appointment for a child, couldn't get one and was referred to the emergency room. After seeing the child, the emergency room attendant called for and got a pediatric appointment, causing the caller to wonder where the appointment time came from all of a sudden.

By necessity, our clinics must operate on an appointment basis. There will be days when people call for appointments in the pediatric clinic and no routine appointments are available. However, so as not to deny medical attention to any patient, callers are directed to bring their children to the emergency room if immediate care is considered necessary.

All patients presenting themselves for medical care in the emergency room are evaluated either by a physician or a physician's assistant to determine the patient's condition and the best treatment plan. If, in the medical provider's opinion, a pediatrician is best qualified to further evaluate and treat the child, the emergency room will call the clinic to arrange an appointment, as was done in the case noted above.

Further, when a child's illness is considered an emergency, a pediatrician will assist emergency room personnel in immediate treatment, regardless of the time of day.

Our goal is to provide the best medical care possible to our patients. Appointment scheduling and emergency room procedures have been established to manage our medical resources efficiently to reach this goal.

Off-base housing referral services available

Renting off-base housing is becoming an increasingly necessary style of living, especially as single family homes continue to escalate in costs. Living off-base can be an enjoyable and relatively carefree experience for many people who cannot afford to purchase a home or do not want the responsibility of ownership and maintenance. The Housing Referral Office is here to help you understand your responsibilities and rights as a resident, so that the technicalities of "leases", "deposits", and "sufficient notice" are not so bewildering.

The Housing Referral Office staff is charged with the responsibility of assisting all personnel in locating suitable, non-discriminatory off-base housing, individual counseling, and personal attention to your specific needs which enable you to choose wisely from the various types of housing available. This office also serves as the initial contact point for landlord/tenant complaints. Personnel seeking off-base housing or changing their address within the local area are required to clear through the Housing Referral Office before entering into any rental, lease, or purchase agreement for off-base housing. The Housing Referral Office provides information on the local community, public, private and parochial schools, transportation, churches, recreational facilities, sales and rental housing, VA, FHA and conventional home purchases, leases, apartments, trailer courts and rental houses listings. We encourage you to list your sale or rental property with us. This will not only help you, but will enable us to provide more listings for the newcomer. TIM GEISLER uses the Wood Hobby Center's bansaw to cut each of the wooden toys from the blocks of wood after another worker draws the design.

JOC creates Detroit

With assembly lines rolling, several members of the Reese Junior Officers Council and other private helpers are manufacturing cars, trucks and even planes.

It is all part of the JOC's toy building project now underway. Volunteer assembly line workers meet at the Wood Hobby Center, next to the Child Care Center, donating their time and effort to turning out first rate miniature transportation vehicles for children to enjoy this Christmas.

"Some of the toys will be donated to the chapel for their Christmas project while others will be given to Toys for Tots," explained JOC toy project officer Capt. Pia Caruso.

The idea behind the project is to give needy children, military dependents or not, something for Christmas. But, like other projects it takes the effort of more than a few to make things happen. Anyone, experienced or not, is invited to stop by the Wood Hobby Center, when the JOC workers are there, to help.

There are personnel at the center who will instruct the inexperienced worker about how to use the equipment.

Because of the nearing holiday, the assembly line has had to really get cracking. Captain Caruso said that the workers were going to try hard to get as much done as possible this weekend so they can paint the toys and put on the finishing touches later.

Volunteers needing more information should contact Captain Caruso, Ext. 3358; Capt. Michael Folk, Ext. 3876; or 1st Lt. JoAnn Darlington, Ext. 3561.

DAN MILLS works on the assembly line making holes in the wheels for the trucks and cars he and coworkers are producing for Christmas gifts this year.

Project Warrior

Flying Colors by William Green and Gordon Swanborough, compilers. Carrollton, Texas: Squadron/Signal Publications, Inc., 1981.

The core of Flying Colors is a series of single- and double-page, full-color spreads depicting the camouflage and markings of more than a hundred historical military aircraft. The book includes from six to a dozen artist renderings of side views of representative examples of each type of aircraft, with captions giving units, dates, and places. In most cases, though not all, the side views are supplemented with top and (where necessary) bottom plan views in reduced scale; this is a welcome touch. (Though the nonspecialist has no way of knowing, most of the aircraft depicted only in side view have standardized, easily researched color schemes.) The subjects are mostly World War II aircraft, with a smattering of between-the-wars types, a handful of World War I aircraft, and a fair, though eclectic, selection of military jets, some as recent as 1979.

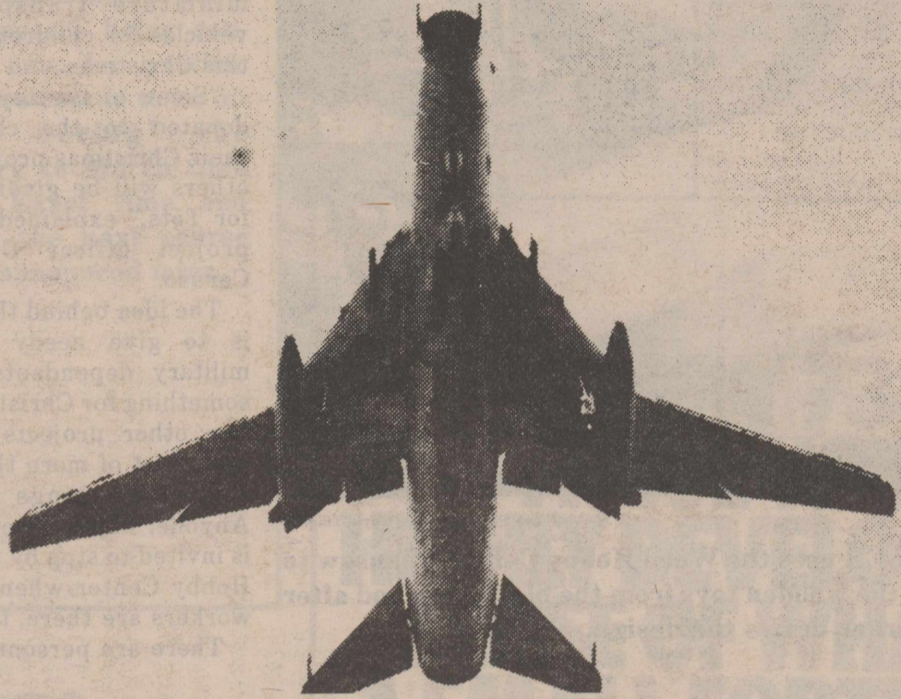

Though most of the artwork has been previously published—regular readers of Flying Review International and the Profile series of aircraft pamphlets will find little new here—the expanded format, high-quality paper, and excellent color reproduction will make this book worth the price to many buffs, modelers, and students of markings and camouflage. With the exception of an interesting ten-page introductory essay on the evolution of military aircraft finishes by Bruce Robertson, the text is virtually nonexistent, amounting to little more than brief captions.

In a nutshell, this is a blatantly commercial venture, William Green et al. mercilessly milking the excellent work of their house artists through the good offices of Squadron/Signal publications. That is not necessarily a bad thing if you know what you are getting and your interest matches the purchase price. The real fanatics, though, will burrow back through their old copies of Profile, Flying Review International, and Royal Force Flying Review to get the benefit of the technically informed-text that came with the pretty pictures first time around! J.F.G.

(Reprinted from the Sept.-Oct. 1982 Air University Review. Written by Lt. Col. John F. Guilmartin Jr.)

A NEW TWIST! Project Warrior aircraft displayed for identification in future issues will be of Soviet makes. Names will still be taken and printed for those properly identifying the aircraft. SrA. Michael Keel, Capt. Terry McCarthy, 2nd Lt. Mike Burkholder and SrA. Steve Hisel recognized the YAT-28E from last week. To identify this Soviet jet call Ext. 3843.

YAT-28 pilot visits, calls in

Maj. Frances L. Kapp, a T-38 instructor pilot with the 50th FTS, Columbus AFB, Miss., was first to correctly identify last week's YAT-28E.

Major Kapp, at Reese for the ATC ping pong tournament, not only knew the plane, but had actually flown one of the two YAT-28's built.

Shooting match won in 4.1 seconds

by Sgt. Rich Tillman
Public Affairs Specialist

Phil Gamble, Richard Whitenburg, Bobby Green and Kay Shook outgunned their competitors for each of the top three positions Saturday and Sunday during the Rod and Gun Club's handgun bowling pin match.

When the gunsmoke settled, Gamble had fired the best round for the weekend blowing the competition away at 4.1 seconds. At less than a second per pin, the last minute shooter's .45 caliber pistol seemed to direct its bullets at the targets.

The top seated women's division shooter was also a Sunday competitor who rattled off 21 shots to steal all three of the top women's positions. Shook won first blowing off her pins in 16.2 seconds for first. She used .45 to fire away second and third places too.

Saturday morning things seemed to go well for the shooters, but the longer the day the faster the times.

Third seated Green slammed down the pins in a record 8.6 seconds to hold first place. His nearest competitors, Richard Mayward and Robert Ferrante, held second and third at the days end with 8.9 and 9.2 seconds respectively.

In the women's division Vanessa Akin and Sharon Tubbs had firm holds on the women's top three positions. Akin had both first and second, leaving Tubbs to secure third Saturday evening.

Sunday things got blown all out of spectrum when Sunday shooters approached the firing line. Mike Watkins heated the men's competition firing a hot 7.1 to temporarily grab first. Second and third places in the men's division changed hands several times before the day's end.

Green returned to the firing line in an attempt to regain first. He and his .44 special cleaned the pins off in five seconds flat. For a while it seemed first was his, but Whitenburg and Gamble arrived ready to shoot.

Whitenburg fired first scoring 4.6 seconds and first place, but Gamble squeezed off five shots in 4.1 seconds to steal first once and for all.

In the women's division Shook made ready on the line and fired. When her gunsmoke cleared the air she had stolen first, second and third places from Saturday's two leaders. Her first place time was 16.2 seconds, second was 21.6 seconds and third was 21.9 seconds.

When the smoke settled and the firing stopped members of the Reese Rod and Gun Club thanked and congratulated each of the competitor's presenting the winners with their cash prizes.

Women lose heartbreaker

by Sgt. Rich Tillman
Public Affairs Specialist

The Reese women's varsity basketball team got tough last weekend at Cannon AFB, N.M., forcing the Cannon girls to fight for their 53-51 win in overtime.

Having placed third in the Sheppard AFB, Texas, varsity tournament Nov. 26 and 27, the Reese women's squad was in high gear. Patricia Dought lead the Reese scoring effort pounding Cannon with 22 points of her own. Dought's teammates rallied behind her.

Kristie Allen stayed with the double figure scoring going to the hoop for 14 points. Reese player Dora Lewis hammered home the Reese intentions scoring seven points for the team.

Struggling to avoid a home-court loss, Cannon evened the score during the fourth period and in moments turned the tables edging out Reese.

The girls "played real good against Cannon. They played team ball; I mean they are beginning to play better as a team and that's what it's all about, no one person can do it all," said Coach Joel Birdsong.

The women's varsity coach gave every indication that he expects his team to best the Lackland AFB, Texas, women's varsity squad this evening and tomorrow. Tonight's game is in the gym beginning at 7:30 p.m. and tomorrow afternoon's game begins at 1 p.m. Reese basketball fans are urged to stop by the gym and watch as the Reese women try to dribble by the Lackland women.

Maj. David M. Meier, Christmas Classic project officer, has called an escorts meeting for Monday at 12:30 p.m. in the library conference room. The 30-minute meeting is mandatory for all team escorts. Those who cannot attend should contact Major Meier, Ext. 3447, to get the information they need.

Eagles vs. Chiefs in basketball

The Community Service Council will sponsor a holiday benefit basketball game between the Eagles and Chiefs this afternoon at 3:30 in the gym.

Prior to the senior level game the junior NCOs and officers square off at 2:30.

Rumors have it that the NCO teams are out to declaw the Eagles and their counterparts.

Proceeds from the game will support the chapel's holiday food program and the base Toys for Tots campaign.

ABG retains No. 1 spot

The ABG is still at the top of the hill with an intramural basketball record of 7-1.

There's a tie for second between CES and OMS. Both at 7-2 for the season and each with hopes of upsetting ABG.

Supply is in fourth at 5-1; the Hospital at fifth with 3-3 for the season; and, in order, the 54th at 3-5; FMS at 2-4; the 35th at 2-5; Sturon at 1-6; and the SPs at 0-7.

City League

The Reese men's varsity basketball team sidetracked the Lubbock Male Service players, 72-60 Monday evening in the gym.

Reese's Tim Clark lead the base scoring drives with 18 points. Clark's teammates, Cristobal Stevenson and Willie Hayes added to the winning Reese effort with 12 points each.

ATC ping pong

Reese may have hosted the Air Training Command Ping Pong tournament, but there were no signs of favoritism, Reese took 10th place.
