

RED FEATHER CAMPAIGN SET

New FlyTAF Deputy CG is Promoted to Brigadier

Hq FTAF, Waco, Tex. — Air Force headquarters in Washington announces promotion to brigadier general of Colonel Russell L. Waldron who will arrive in Waco Monday to become deputy commanding general of Flying Training Air Force.

Announcement of Gen. Waldron's promotion reached FlyTAF headquarters last Thursday. It was announced by the president Wednesday. When Gen. Waldron arrives it will be the first time since FlyTAF headquarters organized in Waco May 1, 1951 that two general officers have been on the staff.

Gen. Waldron and Brig. Gen. Gabriel P. Disosway, FlyTAF commander, are among the nation's youngest generals. Both are 42 years old.

Gen. Waldron has been commander of Vance AFB, Okla., an air base in the FlyTAF command. He replaces Col. Tom W. Scott who leaves Saturday for duty on Okinawa. Col. Scott has been second in command of FlyTAF since the command organized as an element of Air Training Command.

The new FlyTAF general began his Air Force career as a private 22 years ago. He graduated from pilot school and became a second lieutenant two years later in 1932.

When World War II began he was stationed at Hickam Field, Hawaii, one of the first targets of the Japanese. In 37 months overseas he flew 50 combat missions for 450 combat hours. He has been awarded the Legion of Merit.

Before he entered service Gen. Waldron was a school teacher in Ohio. He is married to the former Miss Ruth Smith and they have four children.

AF Teaching Navy; -- One at a Time

Navy-Air Force relations have taken a switch this week.

For a year now, 1st Lt. William G. Aman, Jr., a Reese pilot instructor, has been on TDY to the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station to learn Navy flying techniques and instill Air Force ideas there. In exchange, the Navy sent Lt. Gerald M. Ley, USN, to Reese for the same reason, in reverse.

Now the two have returned to their respective branches of service and two more fliers will join the exchange program.

LCDR William C. Mitchell, USN, has arrived at Reese while Capt. Norman J. Fowler, Jr., representing the Air Force and Reese has packed his bags for a year's stay with the Navy.

Lubbock Jaycees Invite new members

The Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce is presently conducting its annual membership drive for new members who are interested in joining a fine civic organization composed of forward looking young men in the city of Lubbock. The Junior Chamber of Commerce is a world wide organization and functions in practically every city in the United States.

All men between the ages of 21 to 36 years of age are eligible for membership. Dr. J. W. Kinard is the present president of the Lubbock Jaycees. Anyone interested in obtaining additional information contact Mr. A. Belous, extension 521 on the base.

Wherry Housing Project is Titled "Reese Village"

"Reese Village" is the title selected for the Wherry housing project here, officials announced this week. It is hoped that construction on the dwellings will begin sometime before the end of this year.

Located across was highway 5, directly east of the main gate, the project has been under construction for almost two years. The go-ahead came last month with the letting of the contract to low-bidder Lewis Grinnan Company of Dallas.

Totaling 418 units, the housing area would provide homes for 1,500 or more persons. Included among the units are four and three-bedroom single units and three and one-bedroom duplexes.

The main street of "Reese Village" is Mitchell boulevard which runs directly into the main gate across was highway 5. The curved boulevard will have dividing islands. All of the streets in the village have been named for American air heroes. Others are Andrews drive, Harmon drive, Arnold drive, Wagner street, George street and McGuire street.

The homes will be rented to Reese officers and airmen, with additional vacancies being made available to certain civilian personnel.

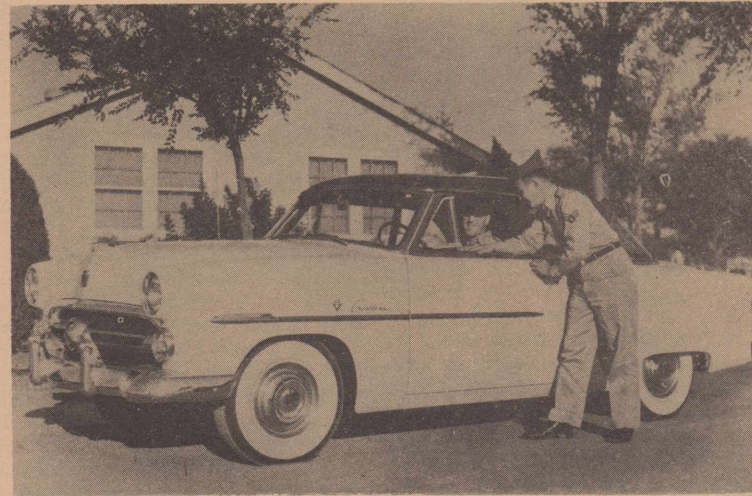

Enemy Air Force? Ram It! Says Mag

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 24 — What's the Air Force's last-ditch defense against invading enemy A-bombers? It may be ramming, the October issue of AIR FORCE Magazine says.

Now that a single A-bomb getting through our air defense could mean the destruction of an entire city, the magazine points out, our defense "batting average" must be boosted. Piloted rammer aircraft seem to AIR FORCE to be one answer.

Such planes would be of delta-wing design, stoutly reinforced to insure that the pilot would survive after he had sliced through the wing or tail surface of his target. In fact, the rammers would be little more than jet-powered, armor-plated shells — unarmed and without electronic gear that the enemy could jam with countermeasures.

That's why we need rammers because radar, our interceptors, and even guided missiles can all be jammed.

ALL THE ACCESSORIES, including radio, heater, overdrive, turn indicator, windshield washer, wheel rings, and white side-wall tires, go along with this 1952 Ford "Victoria" which will go to some lucky ticket holder at a drawing to be held 5 November. The car was furnished at cost to the Reese Community Chest drive through the courtesy of the Lubbock Auto Company. Mr. Harry Morris, president. At the wheel of the auto is S/Sgt. George Morris, manpower and management, while A/1C Don Mitchell military personnel, looks on.

Hiring Handicapped Good Business, Air Force Finds

The President has designated the week of 5-11 October 1952 as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week. During this week special national, state and local observances will again focus attention upon the desirable results of employing physically handicapped workers.

Of the civilian workers at Reese, 13.3 per cent are physically handicapped. This figure is higher than both the national and the Air Force average. Reese has experienced the advantages of hiring physically handicapped workers and not their disabilities.

Handicapped are good workers. Relatively few persons are physically perfect in all respects. Physical limitations of varying degrees of significance will be found in any group of applicants being recruited from the pool of available labor.

Physically handicapped persons in the United States have been estimated to number 28,000,000 and each year 250,000 men and women of work age suffer disabling accidents in the home, on the highways, or on the job.

In an extensive survey of physically handicapped workers in 109 manufacturing concerns, comparison was made between the work performance of 11,000 impaired and 18,000 matched unimpaired workers subject to the same job factors and incentives and exposed to the same work hazards. The results showed that properly placed physically handicapped workers were equally as productive as properly placed unimpaired workers. Impaired workers produced at a slightly higher rate, but fewer disabling work injuries, and showed a slightly lower rate of absenteeism than did the unimpaired workers on identical jobs.

Large numbers of physically handicapped workers have been integrated into the Air Force. Statistics reflect that approximately one out of every eight of our civilian employees, or 12.5 per cent, is a qualified physically handicapped person. This is indicative that Air Force installations have taken full advantage of selective placement. (Continued on page 3)

Giving Away '52 Victoria During Drive

A brand-new 1952 Ford "Victoria" — complete with all the accessories — will be given away in conjunction with the Reese effort in the Lubbock Community Chest drive slated to begin later this month.

Maj. Ramon R. Melton, drive chairman, said in announcing the auto raffle that Reese must help as much as possible the project to raise $159,807 for local Red Feather Agencies. Last year, he noted, the base contributed $2,795, topping the 1950 mark by almost a thousand dollars. However, he said, the Lubbock USO, a community chest recipient, was budgeted 24,000 last year.

The drawing for the new four-door car, purchased from the Lubbock Auto Company, will be held at noon Wednesday, 5 November, in the area surrounded by the base theater, service club and base exchange. Tickets are available at a dollar each to airmen at their squadron orderly rooms. Civilian personnel office will designate persons to sell tickets to civilian employees of the base.

Dependents of both military and civilian personnel are eligible to purchase tickets on the auto with as many as desired being made available to anyone, Major Melton added.

The Community Chest campaign is one of three officially sanctioned by the Air Force. (AF Aid Society and the Red Cross are the others.) The President, Department of Defense, as well as the Air Force is urging all personnel to participate to the fullest extent in this current worthwhile drive.

Twelve agencies are supported by the annual Community Chest drive, a single campaign to serve Lubbock in the fields of welfare, social service, character building and planned social activities. The groups are; Lone Star Junior Optimist Club; Girl Scouts; Boy Scouts; Camp Fire Girls; Social Service Exchange; Lubbock Boys' Club; Milam Home; Salvation Army; Carver Heights Nursery; Well Baby Clinic; Lubbock Day Nursery, and the USO, through which the local organization receives funds.

"The Nest Egg"

How's the nest egg coming along—or have you given it any thought in the last umpteen years?

There's not much in your life that's more important than the nest egg so, if you've forgotten about it, you'd better start thinking and right now. Whether you signed up for your first hitch last week or you've passed the half-way mark towards retirement, that bank account (if any) is going to mean an awful lot to you.

Sure it's tough to save. We know all about the fact that the average American family spent $400 more, in 1950, than it earned. We also know that there never was a time when it was easy to save a buck.

There's only one way to save—and that's to save.

Double talk? Not quite. No matter whether you're a basic airman or a master sergeant with hash marks all the way up your sleeve, you've got to make up your mind to stash away a certain percentage of your pay as regular savings. Maybe you can save 25 percent—or perhaps only five percent. The exact percentage of course depends on you

The trick is, however, to decide on the amount and sock it away every payday!

How you save it is your business but the Air Force will be glad to help you if you'll give it a chance. The finance office will send any amount over $5 you want to allot to your favorite savings account—or you might investigate the benefits of Airmen's Deposits.

There's a deal that's hard to beat!

And you owe it to yourself to buy a Savings Bond just as regularly as possible. A Class B allotment can take care of that.

We've mentioned three ways of building up the nest egg that were tailor-made for the airman. Any one of them, or all of them for you—and all you have to do to get the ball rolling is to drop in to see the squadron pay clerk.

Don't wait for tomorrow. Do it today. Incidentally, yesterday would have been still better.

Most of the things you're asked or told to do in the Air Force are for the benefit of the country. Here's a deal that's strictly for your benefit.

You can't miss.

KADET KORRAL . . .

Cadets Fete Milam Home Boys to Day at the Base

Lost . . . several scalps of varied colors and sizes . . . by cadets . . . on Saturday, 27 September. These scalps can most likely be found in the vicinity of the Milam Home in Lubbock

What's this all about? Simple! The cadets entertained six youngsters here on the base this past Saturday. Or, it might be said the youngsters entertained the cadets. Either way, all enjoyed themselves.

Breakfast was eaten at the cadet mess after the kids arrived at the base by bus. From there, most of the boys rode piggy-back to the flight line. After climbing all over the T-6's and B-25's, they were quite sure that a pilot was the most wonderful thing in the world. The Captive-Air B-25 is now definitely "Class 26" since the invasion of the youngsters.

From the line, the procession led to the PX, where all the boys were given USAF T-shirts, at which time the candy department also suffered quite a loss of stock. The future pilots were given $5.00 each to spend on their own whims. The money for this purpose was donated by the cadets.

Three of the boys bought bow-and-arrows, tomahawk and Indian headdress sets and really acted the part. However, casualties were kept to a minimum.

The boys got a chance to watch the cadet squadron perform some monkey drill in their dress blues. But the "tigers" found it hard to hold their interest when it was learned that they were about to have a ride in the new fire truck. So, off to the crash station we went.

A ride around the ramp and an exhibition of the various types of fire fighting by this new truck brought many "Ohs" and "Ahs" from the boys as well as their escorts. It looks like the Air Force will really have to do some fancy recruiting to show the advantage of a cadet over a fireman.

We hope this visit can be repeated. We also wish to thank all the departments that gave their cooperation in making this visit a memorable one for the youngsters and cadets alike.

THE WORD OF LIFE

This week has been a very significant one in the history of the world. That which has made news has been the work of eminent scholars over a period of years.

Among the Protestants has come a revised Bible known as the Revised Standard Bible; among the Catholics the first eight books of the Bible have been completed in what is known as the Confraternity Bible. All of this tremendous task has been accomplished with the view to giving English-speaking people the Word of God in our modern living language.

Some of you may wonder why it should be necessary to bring out new versions. Should you ask the question it is easy to give the answer. Words sometimes lose their meaning over the centuries. The English that we speak today is far different from the King's English that was spoken in the beginning of the 17th century. Hence the average layman as he reads his Bible in a version that old has difficulty in understanding it. Furthermore there have been hundreds of archaeological discoveries in the form of manuscripts that have added meaning and insight.

It is a general feeling that the revised edition will prove to be a great blessing. It will be easier for all of us to read. It will be easier to teach. But, truths contained remain the same. Nothing as far as the meaning has been changed that will affect any doctrine or theology.

However, the Bible, or the Word of Life as it is so often referred to as, will not be able to affect a change in the hearts and lives of men if it remains unopened. It must be read, studied, and meditated upon so that the truths contained in its pages become an integral part of our thinking and action . . . it must become our FAITH!

It is within our power to overcome the forces of evil and hatred and bring about more of the love of God and the brotherhood of men if we will let the pages of this BOOK reveal to us the Son of God who said: "The words that I speak to you are Spirit and they are Life."

"Hot dog," Joe Svboda says to me the other day, "I see the bond election in Lubbock last Saturday was carried. You know that means a four-lane highway all the way to town. Pretty keen, huh Dusty?"

"Sure, I says, "now you can really make good time when you see your girl friend . . . uh, I mean good time traveling into Lubbock."

Joe gives me a dirty look and then more from habit than anything else we head for the supply room where Rollo Knutsen puts in his time to see if Rollo wants any coffee because it's just about that time of day.

We walk in real quiet like, as if we wanted to surprise him, because maybe he's goofin', when we hear Rollo eating out this big guy who's got about eight more stripes on his sleeves than Rollo. "Wattaya mean, you want a couple pounds of ten-penny nails, and have we got any paper napkins you can have?" Rollo is almost shouting.

At first we couldn't believe it. "Look, punk," says the big guy, "I been getting plenty of stuff out of this supply room long before you got here."

Rollo interrupts, "Well you ain't gettin' no more."

"I swiped footlocker$ in England in 1943, you fresh kid," the old guy goes on, "I made a small fortune in Italy on the black market, and I even made off with an Army jeep in Germany."

Rollo don't back down none. "I don't care what kind a cheater you are," and his voice is real calm now, "you're not gypping the government as long as I'm passing out the supplies."

"Whatta you mean, 'cheater'?" the sergeant asks, "I'm a good American and I don't consider I'm 'gypping the government'."

"Look," Rollo comes back, "when you knock down on the boss' cash register, you get fired. If you don't pay your income tax, the revenue boys come after you. When you rob a bank, you're a hunted man. I don't see no difference in what you're asking. It's plain old 'gypping the U. S. A.'"

The guy gets so mad he can't talk no more, so he walks out shakin' his fist.

Svboda sticks his head in the door and says, "Please, General Knutsen, can I have a drink of government water?"

Rollo sees him and kinda grins, but he says, "Okay wise guy, you're just like the rest of them thinkin' the government owes you a livin'. Sure, you're welcome to all the things you got coming, but that doesn't mean you can take all you can get. I'm getting mighty sick of these two-bit grafters. They're worse parasites than Communists."

"Aw, I was only kiddin', Rollo," Joe says, "I agree with you about this business of gypping Uncle Sam. Besides, you never gave me nothin' from this supply room . . . and I'm darned if I want anybody getting more than I do."

Which, after all, is one way of looking at it.

CHAPEL 'ROUNDUP' PARTY THIS SUNDAY

The base Protestant Sunday school picnic will be held on Sunday afternoon, 5 October, beginning at 1700 hours at the chapel annex (building T-31) and the adjoining playground. If the weather is inclement the picnic will still be held and all activities will be indoors.

According to Chaplain (1st Lt.) Elmore P. Nelson, Religious Education Chaplain, the "Roundup" will center around a Western theme. The children and their parents are urged to come dressed in dungarees or jeans, ten gallon hats, boots, and even toting along their "six-shooters". There will be pictures taken so everyone will want to look the part.

Games, races, etc., will start shortly after 1700 hours and there are prizes to be awarded those excelling in the individual contests. These games will carry over for the adults as well. Two of the games featured for the parents will be the ladies nail driving contest, hog calling, and husband calling. After everyone is thoroughly exhausted from the strenuous games activity there will be a call from the chuck wagon to "come and get it!" The chuck wagon will be the chapel annex kitchen. From this little welcome room will issue forth hot coffee, cold drinks, potato chips and dixie cups. Each person or family is requested to bring their own sandwiches.

Laughlin AFB is Switched to CTAF

Hq FTAF, Waco, Tex. —Transfer of Laughlin AFB at Del Rio, Tex., from Flying Training Air Force to Crew Training Air Force jurisdiction was announced by FlyTAF officials this morning.

FlyTAF and Crew Training Air Force (CrewTAF) both are components of Air Training Command.

Reactivation of Laughlin, which has been monitored by FlyTAF, is scheduled to be complete in January 1953, FlyTAF programming officials said. The base has not been operational as a FlyTAF training base.

MEET . . .

The Men Who Teach 'em How

By Lt. Charles R. Wood

This is an introduction to a man who has experienced something that nearly every pilot at Reese, old hand as well as newly graduated, has probably wondered about at one time or another.

The man is Capt. Robert C. Anderson, who recently returned from Korea. But, to backtrack and start at the beginning of "Andy's" flying career, he received his wings with class 43-G, at Willie Air Patch. He then journeyed to the ETO, where he put in forty missions with a night fighter outfit, flying the British Beaufighter. Completing this, he returned to the United States and reported to Lackland Field at San Antonio, where he served as a supply officer.

At the start of the police action in Korea, Andy went to Japan with an AC&W outfit and then on to Korea, where he was assigned to the 6147th Mosquito Group. By now you have guessed it. Yes, Andy is one of the men who flew the Terror-six in Korea. In fact, he flew 92 missions while there.

According to Andy, the mission of a mosquito pilot is to find targets and make area reconnaissance, as well as acting as fighter control during strikes, between the front line and the bomb line.

Capt. Robert C. Anderson

Altitude along this quite often narrow zone ranged from 50 to 1500 feet. Equipment consisted of rockets, belly tanks, occasionally .30 caliber guns and .064 Alclad armor(?), as well as all the necessary radio equipment.

Andy feels that it was a good job, as well as an important one, because you could see your results and feel that you were really helping somebody. He says that ground fire was not too great a problem, because the Gooks learned early in the game that bothering one of the Mosquitos meant bringing a flock of fighters down on their necks.

Andy has what he feels is a good job now, too. He recently joined Flight 2 in Section I and is still flying his old standby, the Terror Six. While Andy is just one of the many men of wide experience at Reese, we welcome him to the group and know that many can profit from his experiences. He lives at 3509 24th Street in Lubbock, with his wife and two children, only one of which the Air Force can hope to get to follow in his father's footsteps.

"What Do You Think?"

Yanks or Bums - Who'll be the Champs?

By ED DALY

The World Series opened in Brooklyn this week, officially marking the close of another chapter in baseball history.

All eyes were turned toward Greater New York as the second "Subway Series" in as many years commanded top billing on the nation's sport pages.

Here at Reese, as everywhere else in the country, rabid baseball fans picked their favorites after carefully figuring out why "they can't lose. The Roundup asked several airmen what they thought would be the final outcome of the 1952 Yankee-Brooklyn series and some of their answers.

A/C Charles R. Riley, Personnel Administrator — "It's the Dodgers in seven games. I'm pretty sure the series will go the limit this year and there are a couple of 'if's' as far as the Dodgers' winning those four games is concerned. First, Joe Black's got to beat Allie Reynolds in the opener. Black's a gamble and it's got to pay off if the Dodgers are to take the series. Brooklyn's got better hitting, more speed and better fielding I think the Yanks have the edge in the pitching department. I think, though, that the winning Yankee pitcher will be Raschi. I think the Dodgers can beat Reynolds and Lopat although I do think Raschi will win his game. I think Roe's going to beat the Yanks this year, too. I think Mantle will shine for the Yanks and think Snider will star for the Dodgers in the series."

A/2C Donald G. Huffman, Hq. Sq. Sec., ABG — "The Yanks will The Dodgers may take two games but no more. It'll be the same old story—pitching — and the Yanks have it and the Dodgers don't. I think the Big Chief (Allie Reynolds) will win two games this year. Raschi and Lopat will win at least a game apiece to make the four games necessary for the series. The Yanks have hitting power, too, and I look for them to outwit the Dodgers. Berra and Reynolds will be the Yanks' big guns this year.

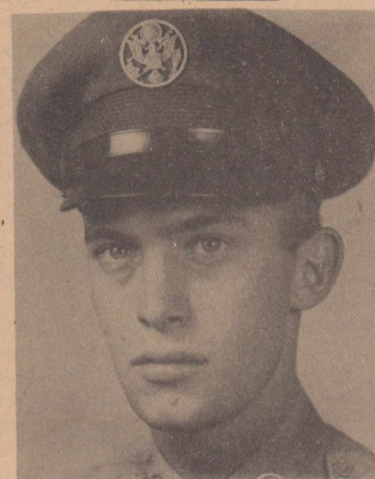

I think Black will be the goat of the series, too. The Yanks, who'll draw better when they're home, will have more moral support which will go a long way toward winning that fourth game."

A/3C George W. Stoddard, Fire Department — "The series? Brooklyn — four straight. The Dodgers have too much power for the Yanks. Sure, the Yanks have good pitching, but they haven't faced as powerful a team as the Dodgers in a long time. They'll hit anybody, including Reynolds, Lopat and Raschi. The Dodgers will play over their heads, too, since it's the series. Black may not go all the way in the opener, but he'll be effective while he's in there. He'll be around for relief, too, probably as early as the third game. Labine or Erskine will relieve Black if necessary. then they can use Roe or Loes. George Shuba or Jackie Robinson will be the Dodger stars, I think. The series' goat? Casey Stengel, who thought he could win. The odds (8-5, Yanks) are pretty high now, before the series starts, but I think they'll drop after the second game and the Dodgers will go out at 2-1."

A/2C James Sunderland, Education Office, and A/1C Lester Ellis, Stat Control — Can't figure out why everybody thinks the Dodgers will lose the series. The "Yankee Myth" will be shattered this year. New York has a sound club and a great manager but they've finally met their match. We'll concede the Yanks the edge on pitching but don't forget that Brooklyn's pitching staff was second in the National League in earned run average. Black and Roe must and will produce in the World Series. Just compare the teams a little—we'll take Hodges over Collins, Robinson over Martin, Reese over Rizzuto, (look at '52 records), Cox over overrated McDougald and Campanella over Berra. The outfielders are about even, both outstanding, Brooklyn having more speed and three of the best throwing arms in baseball.

"We'll take the Dodgers in six or seven games—their only losses will be due, probably, to 'bad breaks'. Okay—so we are Dodger fans—but this time we won't have to say, 'Wait until next year'. By the way, keep your eyes on the old pro's, Reese and Robinson."

A-1C Herman W. Stevenson of the 3502nd Maintenance squadron was selected squadron "AIRMAN OF THE MONTH" for September through a program established by the character guidance council of this squadron. The requirements were based on:
A—Adaptability
I—Interest in work
R—Reliability
M—Military bearing
A—Awareness of responsibility
N—Neatness

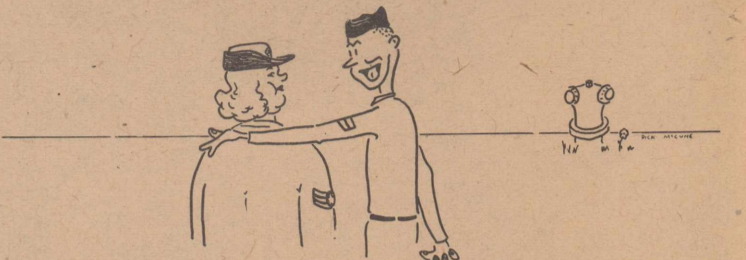

"How did you get that black eye, Mrs. Hogan?"

"Well, sir, my husband got out of prison on his birthday—and me with my big mouth wished him many happy returns!"

At the end of his sermon, the minister softly said: "We will now pass the collection plate, and those members who are in the habit of putting buttons in the plate will please not pull the snaps from the pew seats."

"Has the florist any children?"
 "Two. The girl is a budding genius and the son is a blooming idiot."

Sign stuck on squadron bulletin board by airman who had his three-day pass turned down: "In case of fire, just call the first sergeant. He'll throw a wet blanket on it."

"Listen, dear . . . they're playing OUR song!"

Maryland, T.U. Lead Top Teams Into Rough Week

By A/2C BOB ROOKER

Texas University, ranked fifth in the nation, entertains Notre Dame, currently holding down the number 19 spot, in what should be the top game of the week. This will be the first game of the '52 season that the Longhorns play on their home field. The Irish barely gained a 7-7 tie with Pennsylvania last week while Texas eased by North Carolina University 28-7. We pick the Steers to send Notre Dame home with bad memories of Texas football.

We evidently do not have an 'avid' reader in the person of Mr. Joe Kelley, Lubbock Evening Journal sports writer. Kelley seems to think we were a little 'strong' in our statement that "Tech usually falls flat of its face when it meets a Southwest Conference team." He adds that we should check up on our records. We did. . . here they are. Out of 62 games played against SW Conference teams, Texas Tech has won a paltry 15, tied one, and lost 46. The 34-7 humiliation that Rice hung on Tech last Saturday seems to bear out our "falls flat . . ."

Incidentally, while we are on the subject, let's take the College of Pacific to edge the Raiders when the two teams meet tomorrow in California.

Maryland has squeezed through their two games this year by the barest of margins. We pick them to execute another "squeeze" against a strong Clemson squad this weekend.

Texas Christian University, who has failed to cross a goal line this year, plays a hot and cold Arkansas team in Ft. Worth. We'll try one more time and take TCU over the Hogs.

The closest game of the day may be the Kansas-Colorado contest. Kansas has whipped a reportedly strong TCU team and Colorado held mighty Oklahoma to a tie last week. We take Kansas and its top backfield to beat Colorado.

East meets West in the Southern California-Army encounter. The cadets may find SC too wild and woolly to take home a victory. SC over Army.

Purdue journeys to Ohio State's home field. The Boilermakers don't seem to have what it takes to beat Ohio. The Buckeyes to take Purdue fairly easily.

Other top games around the country should come out like this: Navy to beat Cornell.

Oklahoma to slaughter Pittsburgh.

Michigan State over Oregon State.

Georgia Tech in a surprisingly close one to take SMU.

To date, we have predicted 22 games and picked 81 per cent correctly. Army and Houston U. took their games this last weekend to account for our two misses.

In the last 30 years more than a thousand commercial varieties of fruits and nuts have been introduced.

Your boy, Jack, has taken advantage of his afternoon off to head up Amarillo way to lend a listen to Mr. Ray Anthony and his orchestra, currently gracing the bandstand at the Club Aviatrix there — giving me the opportunity to vent my frustrations and play at being a colymnist once more. . .

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING DEPT. Temporarily overshadowing the political campaigning, the big topic for speculation throughout the nation this week has been ye olde World Series, aired in this area over KCB D. However, on the local scene, football has stolen the spotlight in a big way, resulting in much controversy. Among the most noteworthy of these disputes is the wrangle involving the sports editors of the ROUNDUP and the AVALANCHE JOURNAL, respectively, and the ROUNDUP'S radio reporter, carried on in the pages of these periodicals. Has to do with the capabilities and disabilities of Texas Tech's Red Raiders, which the ROUNDUP sports scribe picked to lose to Rice. I have no desire to enter the debate, but — let's face it — loyalty to the home team is a fine thing, but when making predictions, continue to call 'em as you see 'em, 'Boy!

KCB D-MBS: Leather will no doubt fly (through the air) when the Lubbock High School Westerners lock horns with Ft. Worth's Northside Steers Friday night at Farrington Stadium in Fort Worth. Bill Taylor will make the play-by-play. The "big-time" stuff will follow on Saturday at 8:00 p. m., when Southern Methodist meets Georgia Tech.

A new musical series was inaugurated this week, featuring the music of such Famed Ones as Freddy Martin, Woody Herman, Jimmy Dorsey and Vaughn Monroe. Give a listen any weeknight from 10:35 to sign-off time.

Homespun comedy lovers will be glad to learn that Fibber McGee and Molly will start having trouble with that closet again on Tuesday at 8:30 p. m.

If you haven't caught the Television Exhibit in the Merchants Building at the fair, you haven't much time left. Youse "city-slickers" will probably feel a twinge of nostalgia at seeing your favorite shows again. Among them: "Your Show of Shows" starring Sid Caesar and Imogen Coco (I still call it the best show on TV); "The Dinah Shore Show", and the 1951 Football review. To y'all who have never witnessed the "miracle medium", all I can say is — y'all ain't lived yet!

KSEL: The Pigskin Pageant proceeds here, too, as the announcement is made that all of the Dallas Texans, professional team, games will be broadcast, both home and away, every Sunday.

Stand by this weekend as they clash with the San Francisco Forty-niners.

Also in the line of sports (?) KCB D resumed, this week, it's Fall and Winter broadcasting of the wrestling matches from Jamboree Hall in Lubbock. The complete card is relayed every Wednesday night, starting at 8:30 p.m.

In the way of music, Bob Murphy's organ is to be enjoyed twice a day, Monday through Friday. His morning show is at 9:15, his evening performance at 6:16. Monsieur Murphu plays a variety of tunes to whet anyone's musical appetite.

ATTENTION HILLBILLIES, The Lubbock Square Dance Federation now has 30 minutes on the 1st and 3rd Thursdays of each month. The time is devoted to broadcasting the "frantic diggins" from the ballroom of the Hotel Lubbock at 9:00 p. m. on the appointed Thursdays. Ah-h-h Ha-a-a! San Antone!

KFYO-ABC: Flight Fans won't want to miss the bout between Johnny Saxton of New York City and Ralph "Tiger" Jones of Yonkers, N. Y., this Tuesday night. The boys, welterweights, will go 10 rounds (they hope). The conflict airs at 9:00 p. m.

You Blood-and-Thunder fans will go for the radio adventures of the famed sleuth, Michael Shayne, starring Donald Curtis. This new show takes the 7:00 to 7:30 p. m. slot on Tuesday nights. Then if you like your blood a little on the chilled side you'll be happy to learn of the return of the Mystery Theater, every Wednesday night from 7: to 7:30.

If you prefer lighter fare, Ozzie & Harriet (and the kids) return for the Winter season this Friday night at 8:00 p. m. Our teen-age friend, Corliss Archer, also gets back into hot water the same night, immediately following.

Back on the gridiron scene, who'll want to miss this one? Texas U. vs. Notre Dame, aired at 1:00 p. m. Saturday. And at 8:20 p. m. the same night you might want to tune in on Texas Tech vs. College of the Pacific, broadcast direct from Stockton, California.

In the realm of the news commentators: Drew Pearson's time on Sunday evenings forward from 5:00 to 5:15 p. m., and the great (he says) Walter Winchell returns to the ozone this Sunday and ever Sunday thereafter, from 8:00 to 8:15 p. m.

Until next week, remember. . . Nothing's sure but Death and Texas.

Twins Win Prizes On "Oth" Birthday

A set of twins born here last week will receive a new combination washer and dryer plus 750 cans of Gerber's Baby Food from the Westinghouse Company.

Westinghouse decided to introduce a new twin feature, washer and dryer, on 23 Sept. The Company announced it would give all twins born throughout the country on that day the new machine plus the baby food.

The twins, Rochelle June and Ricky Joe Fuller, were born at the base hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lee Fuller of 706 Penn St., Lubbock. Mr. Fuller is a truck driver in the U. S. Navy.

Capt. F. W. Hudgins delivered the twins who were born five minutes apart on the afternoon of the 23rd.
