Village Home Hit
 By Fire; Reese
 Gives Help Quick

Reese personnel rallied this week to the cause of S-Sgt. Percy I. Laughlin and family when fire heavily damaged the sergeant's home and destroyed much of his property.

The fire, last Thursday afternoon was the first in Reese Village since the housing area was opened less than a year ago. It broke out in a bedroom closet and destroyed virtually everything in the bedroom, including new furniture and all clothing belonging to the Laughlin children. Smoke and water damaged furniture and other belongings throughout the house and damaged clothing of Sergeant Laughlin and his wife. All of the furniture was new and uninsured, except a few pieces which had been insured by the Lubbock business firm which sold them.

Even while the Reese fire department was controlling the flames, which were discovered about 1600 hours last Thursday, residents of to replacement of damaged furniture Reese Village began contributing.

"Several people handed me money that I had never seen before while I stood in the yard waiting for the fire to be put out," the sergeant said.

The Officers Wives Club sent a check for $100 from its treasury, and the NCO Wives Club also sent a check, Sunday a shower for the Laughlin's was held by the latter organization in the NCO Club and a large amount of clothing for Mrs. Laughlin and her children was contributed.

"We can't possibly think everyone who has helped us," Sergeant Laughlin told the ROUNDUP. "People I have never seen before and don't know have come by the house (224 Mitchell boulevard) to give us money and clothing. Our friends have done everything they can to help us replace what we lost and to get settled again quickly. We want to express our deepest appreciation and thanks to all through the ROUNDUP."

Mrs. Laughlin was in the backyard of her home when her son, Jimmy, 4, ran into the yard to inform her of the fire. She ran into the house and rescued her year-old baby from the bedroom where it was asleep. Neighbors called the fire department. Smoke and fire were too heavy for removal of any property from the house.

DEATH NARROWLY AVERTED

Three Airmen Suffer Injuries When Car Overturns

Three Reese airmen miraculously escaped death early Wednesday morning when the vehicle in which they were riding went out of control and overturned several times about one-fourth mile east of Carlisle. The driver reportedly dropped off to sleep while driving at a high rate of speed.

Two of the three sustained serious injuries in the accident, and were Air Evacuated to Sheppard AFB hospital immediately.

Injured in the accident were A-3C John D. Mays, who suffered a broken leg and will be confined in the hospital for six weeks; A-3C Donald R. Collins, received a fractured thigh and is expected to remain under treatment for three months and A-3C David T. Chapin, who escaped with only comparatively minor lacerations and bruises. All three are assigned to the Reese Motor Vehicle squadron.

Ground Safety Engineer Joe Lopez said that the accident would cost the Air Force approximately $3900.

This mishap marks the first serious one the base has suffered this year.

Aviation cadets who falsify their records or agreements relative to marriage will be court-martialed, but those with outstanding records may still stay in training, FTAF notified Reese this week.

Young men entering cadet training are required to state they are unmarried at the time of applying and also agree to remain unmarried until their training is completed. The policy has been to eliminate those making a false statement or breaking the agreement.

FTAF has ruled, however, that effective at once marriage alone may no longer be considered as reason for elimination from training, but rather shall be considered as a cause for immediate court (Continued on page three)

Base Safety Award
 Goes to Food Service
 For Lowest Costs

The base safety award for the month of January was awarded to the Food Service squadron this week by Col. Murray W. Crowder Jr., Wing executive officer. The organization has achieved a record of going three months with an average cost per capita of four cents.

Col. Crowder told Maj. Charles Danolds, squadron commander, and his top NCOs that... "it is evident that you are conducting a well balanced safety program. This excellent safety record can be attributed to good supervision. It is gratifying to note that you possess good sound supervisory qualifications such as knowledge, ability, leadership, and respect which is reflected by your outstanding achievement."

The base Ground Safety engineer, Joe Lopez, reports that the Food Service squadron has not suffered a private vehicle accident in six months.

Lopez commended all squadron personnel, and especially singled out the performances of S-Sgt. Otto Sample, M-Sgt. Harold Straughan, M-Sgt. Gilbert Honey, and S-Sgt. Neal Peters, plus many others.

Graduates of Base's First Legal School Receive Diplomas; More Classes Slated

Under the direction of 1st Lt. Mario L. Ventura, staff judge advocate, instruction was given in such subjects as code of military justice, non-judicial punishment under Article 15, conduct of courts-martial and types of evidence. Assisting Lieutenant Ventura were 1st Lt. Richard M. Donaldson and

Airmen Invited To Free Revue

Sunday night Reese military personnel and their dependents will be treated to an hour and a half of variety entertainment when "Tops in Blue" appears for one presentation.

The 22 airmen will present a fast moving, vaudeville type revue. The nucleus of the show is composed of winners of the first annual Air Force Variety Talent Contest held last summer at Rapid City, S. D.

"Tops in Blue" features three entertainers who are familiar here—"The Trojans." These acrobats are, all A-2C and assigned to the 3502nd Maintenance squadron, Keith B. Anderson, James J. Beifuss and Peter Dopuoja. In show business since 1949, they have performed throughout the country with many outstanding stars of the entertainment world.

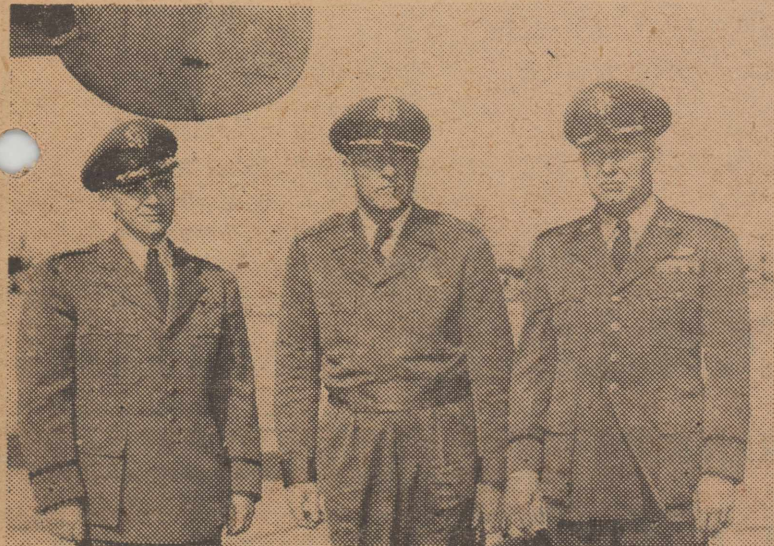

Their breath-taking mid-air leaps, daredevil antics and intricate handstands build to a frenzied climax and is topped with a ladder fall to the stage, leaving the audience gasping with excitement.

Other highlights in the show are A-1C Olga Ford, a young comedienne who walked off with Air Force honors; A-2C Doris "Bobbie" Johnson, who has been vocalizing over the air since she was four years old; A-1C Happy Gallagher, whose droll expression belies the name and who resembles the late and renowned W. C. Fields; A-2C Doug Moppert, who danced in the original "Call Me Madam" cast and on the "Show of Shows" accordion soloist A-3C Lee Sparks; vocalist A-1C Tommy Zang and the Tops in Blue combo.

The show premiered in Washington D. C. last July and since that time has given 165 performances, traveled over 18,000 miles and played to over 240,000 military personnel and their dependents. Included in the wanderings was a 90-day visit to the Far East that saw the group give 56 shows in 34 days in Korea.

"Tops in Blue" will arrive here after a two-day stand at Lackland AFB, perform here and depart almost immediately for Sheppard AFB.

Here is one of the greatest groups of entertainers ever assembled to display their talents at Reese. It's free! Don't miss it.

INSPECT REESE HOSPITAL — Brig. Gen. Clyde L. Brothers, ARTC surgeon, center, is shown as he arrived on the base Monday afternoon. The general was accompanied by a party of high ranking ARTC medical officials who made a brief tour of the base and inspected facilities at the 3500th USAF hospital. Greeting General Brothers on his arrival were Col. Raymond A. Lawn, left, hospital commander, and Col. C. P. West, base commander.

Reese Cagers to Meet
 Texas Tech Freshmen

The Reese basketball team will match their talents against the Texas Tech freshmen tonight at the college gym.

Tonight's contest will reveal the merits of the Reese cagers who will compete in the West Zone tournament here next week.

Game time is 1815. It is a preliminary to the match between Texas Tech and Arizona State at Tempe.

2nd Lt. John D. Lagg, Jr., both of the staff judge advocate's officer. The course was held after duty hours in room three of the academic building.

Skits were used during the course to emphasize various points and a 'moot' court was held during the final session in the SJA courtroom with students participating to give the class an example of how a special court-martial should be conducted.

Examinations were given at the course's conclusion and the two top men in the class, Maj. Tobias Schindler and Capt. John H. Lloyd, were awarded diplomas magna cum laude. The next three top students, Maj. Donald H. LaCount, Lt. Col. Charles E. Wilson and 2nd Lt. Robert F. Roeser, were awarded diplomas cum laude. Regular diplomas were given the 22 other graduates.

Future plans indicate that the school will be held quarterly and that NCOs will be able to take later courses. The first school was attended mainly by group and squadron commanders and present court members.

Don't Kill A Good Thing

(This is the first of two editorials on post exchange privileges)
 Do you want to keep your post exchange, Mr. Serviceman? Do you really like being able to buy cigarettes and soap and sandwiches for less than you'd have to pay in town? If you do, there's something you can do to keep the privilege. Don't brag about the good deal you've got when you're away from the base.

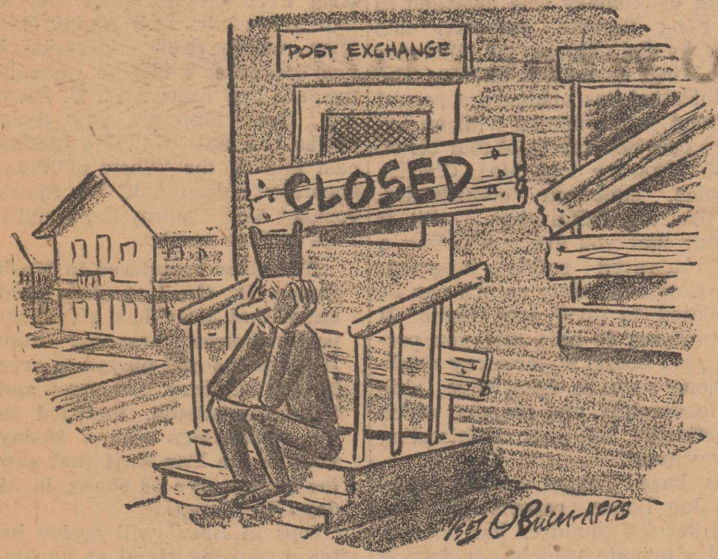

Next time you're in town and notice that the price on some item is more at some civilian store than it was back at your exchange, don't tell the merchant he's trying to cheat you. Just take it as one of your Service benefits and keep quiet. Remember that PXs don't pay high rents or have heavy advertising expenses.

The same advice holds when your girl friend's brother shows you a new watch he has just bought. Maybe you'll see that he paid much more for it than you would have—but don't tell him you could have gotten it for less. Just forget it.

It's thoughtless talk such as comes out of situations like these that closes down exchanges. The merchant you yell at it likely to complain to his local business association. Then the congressman from that district will get an indignant letter suggesting that PXs be eliminated.

Or the jeweler who sold the watch might hear that you had told your girl friend's brother that he had been rooked. If he gets heated up, it could mean another complaint that the Armed Forces compete unfairly with local merchants.

This is no joke. Loose talk already has resulted in cutting out some of the exchange privileges such as the exemption from the 20 percent Federal Retailers' Excise Tax. It was your dough which was lost when this happened. So just keep quiet—and keep your PX. (AFPS)

Hit Parade Tunes by Irving Berlin Featured in "Annie Get Your Gun"

One of the most delightful features of the smash hit musical comedy, ANNIE GET YOUR GUN, which comes to the stage of the Reese theater February 27, direct from Broadway with an all star professional cast, is the scintillating hit parade score written by Irving Berlin.

In composing numbers for this smash musical Irving Berlin has outdone himself. Romantic song, comedy songs or hillbilly tunes flow unceasingly from his pen. The show's tunes have been at the top of the hit parade for many months and played on records and juke boxes thruout the land.

Among the top tunes of the show are "Doin' What Comes Naturally," "No Business Like Showbusiness," "Falling in Love," "My Defenses Are Down," "You Can't Get a Man With a Gun," "Sun in the Morning," and many others.

If there were such a title as "composer laureate," it should be bestowed upon Irving Berlin who richly deserves it for contributing more of his work for the benefit of the country than any other writer of music in history. In the first world war he wrote "Yip Yip Yaphank" and in the second, "This is the Army," both of them complete and vastly successful musical revues. In addition he wrote the President Birthday Ball in aid of the late Pres. Roosevelt's Infantile Paralysis Fund and allocated the proceeds of God Bless America to several Youth Organizations.

The best known, most prolific and successful of American song writers, Mr. Berlin is an extremely modest, shy and sentimental person. He doesn't consider inspiration an important factor in creative work.

"Inspiration," he says, "seems to mean a special mood a person has to get himself into to do, what is after all, just a job. Most of my songs have been written deliberately, while my business associates stood around me in a circle, assuring me that if I didn't come thru with a hit soon, our publishing business would go on the rocks.

In the popular field of music Berlin has written such well remembered and oft sung tunes as "Why Not Take All of Me," "My Blue Heaven," "Easter Parade," "White Christmas" and others too numerous to mention. In the legitimate field he has written "The Music Box Revue," "Louisiana Purchase" and Berlin's Brevities in addition to "Annie Get Your Gun."

Recreating the role of Annie originally sung in New York by the famous Ethel Merman, Lynne Torres sings all the hit tunes in the Guild Production of this fabulous attraction.

All seats for the two performances here are on sale in squadron orderly rooms and scaled at $2.40, $1.80 and $1.20.

martial action under the charge "conduct considered to be prejudicial to good order and military discipline," or a similar charge.

The new ruling states that a cadet found married at the time of application for training or who marries before his training is completed will be found guilty and will be tried by a faculty board, which may recommend retention in training of cadets who have outstanding records and are considered capable of becoming excellent Air Force officers. Cadets not so recommended will be eliminated. FTAF will consider the recommendations and in cases where retention of the trainee seems proper, will waive the record of court martial.

Lt. Anne L. Berry, AFNC, has completed her tour of duty with the Air Force. She has been at Reese since February 1952. On February 27, Lieutenant Berry will become the bride of Lt. James Maloney, student. They will be married at the base chapel at 1000 hours. A reception will follow at the Officers club.

Base Hosts Students From College Units

Two groups of AFROTC cadets from three colleges are now visiting here in conjunction with the flying training program for college students.

Two students from Texas Tech and two from the University of New Mexico arrived today to start a four-day tour as a temporary Air Force cadet. While they are at Reese they will live, eat and sleep cadets. When they return to the respective institutions the true picture of life as a student in flying training will be related.

Three officers and eight cadets from the AFROTC unit at North Texas State College at Denton spent a few hours visiting Reese this morning. They received an orientation lecture, then left to compete in a rifle match at Texas Tech.

Weather Officer Report to Base

Capt. Germanus J. France has reported to Reese this week to take over the post of weather officer. He replaces Capt. Howard V. Cassels who has been given six months TDY to attend the University of New Mexico under "Operation Bootstrap."

The new captain arrived here from Mather AFB, Calif., where he served as a navigational instructor.

Captain France entered service Dec. 9, 1942, and received a commission as a bombardier November 1944. From 1945 to 1946 he served in the central Pacific theater. In March 1946 he reverted to inactive duty status, but resumed his service career about one year later and has served continuously since that time. The captain spent two years in Alaska starting in 1949 and returning to the states in 1951.

Captain France attended Loyola college and the University of Maryland in Baltimore, which incidentally is his home. He holds a B. S. degree in physics and chemistry.

All of us to a certain extent are, or have been, "hero worshippers." We have particular individuals in mind who represent for us certain levels of attainment.

During the month of February George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Edison stand out in our thinking as individuals who were definitely heroic in their different fields. More worthy examples can't be found by those seeking inspiration in the higher levels of achievement.

Many, I'm afraid, in their quest for heroism, are looking up to those who don't represent the highest virtues in living. We are thrilled by things and people that don't have real lasting qualities. That which sticks in our minds and leaves a lasting impression does not in reality represent true heroism.

We tend to overlook the seemingly unglamorous areas of living where many of the truly great battles are fought and won, where examples of heroism are seen that do not so readily catch the popular imagination.

Of course the baseball player who gets the clutch hit or makes the spectacular catch appeals to a large part of our people. The war hero who goes beyond the call of duty in the fight for his country's safety rightfully deserves our warmest praise and admiration. But we forget or overlook the person who fights a personal battle with himself and wins — who overcomes and makes the best of some crippling handicap — who conquers fear, doubt, and pride.

To me one of the noblest acts of heroism is the act of Christian forgiveness on the part of him who has been unjustly wronged.

He is a hero staunch and brave
Who fights an unseen foe,
And puts as last beneath his feet,
His passions base and low;
Who stands erect in manhood's might,
Undaunted, undismayed,
The bravest man who ere drew sword
In foray or in raid.

The finest types of heroism calls for something more than brawn or muscles. To conquer enemies who march not with banner, plume, and drum calls for something not easily seen by the naked eye. "Hero worship" can become dangerous when it is lopsided — overlooking these areas of battle which rightfully deserve all our praise and admiration.

Cadets to Match Athletic Strength; Top Squadron to Get Long Weekend

Reese aviation cadets who are in the flying program here will take a day off from the usual routines of military life to match athletic prowess in a giant field meet tomorrow morning.

Competition will get underway at 0800 hours with six events scheduled. All cadets, with the exception of those who have medical excuses will participate in the race to capture laurels for their squadrons.

A point system has been devised to select the winning squadron. Champions of the team sport tournaments will receive 50 points for their squadron. Squadrons will be awarded 10 points for each team game won.

Champions of the singles and doubles tournaments will receive 25 points for their squadron. The winning player of each match will receive five points for his organization. The meet winner will be the squadron compiling the greatest number of points.

Teams and individuals failing to show up within 10 minutes of scheduled events will forfeit the game or match and his squadron will be fined five points.

Awards in the form of a "long weekend" will go to the squadron compiling the greatest number of points in the field meet, plus the scores earned in an open-ranks inspection and parade last Saturday. These three events will carry equal weight for scoring purposes.

Volleyball, basketball, softball, handball, tennis and horseshoes are planned in the field meet schedule. The location and time of each event are:

VOLLEYBALL

Each squadron will enter a team composed of not more than 10 or less than six men. One man from each squadron will act as referee for other squadron games.

The team winning two out of three 15-point games will be declared match winner.

The volleyball court is located behind the academic building. Schedule — "A" vs. "B" at 0800, "C" vs. "D" at 0900, championship at 1000.

BASKETBALL

Each squadron will provide a minimum of 10 men for this event. Games will consist of two 10-minute periods. In the event of a tie score, overtime periods of three minutes will be allowed. Games will be played at the base gymnasium.

Schedule — "B" vs. "D" at 0800, "A" vs. "C" at 0900, championship at 1030.

SOFTBALL

A minimum of 16 players will be provided by each squadron for this event. All games will be of five innings duration, except in the event of a tie, in which case the game will go into extra innings.

Games will be played on the two diamonds across from the Cadet club. Schedule — "A" vs. "B" at 0800 on number one diamond, "C" vs. "D" on number two diamond, championship at 0930 on number one diamond.

HANDBALL

Each squadron will enter three men in this event — one for singles and two for doubles. Matches will consist of two out of three 21-point games. The winning player must win each game by at least two points.

Games will be played at the base gymnasium. Schedule — doubles, "A" vs. "C" at 0800, "B" vs. "D" at 0845; singles, "A" vs. "B" at 1015, "C" vs. "D" at 1145. Championship game for doubles at 0930, championship game for singles at 1145.

TENNIS

Each squadron will enter one man for singles and two men for doubles in the event. One set will constitute a match. Courts are located behind the base gymnasium. Schedule — "A" vs. "C" at 0800, ship at 1000; Singles, "A" vs. "D" "B" vs. "D" at 0900, championship at 0800, "B" vs. "C" at 0900, championship at 1000.

HORSESHOES

Each squadron will enter two men for doubles matches. The games will be played in the pits behind the academic buildings. Schedule — "A" vs. "D" at 0800, "B" vs. "C" at 0900, championship at 1000. These are doubles matches only.

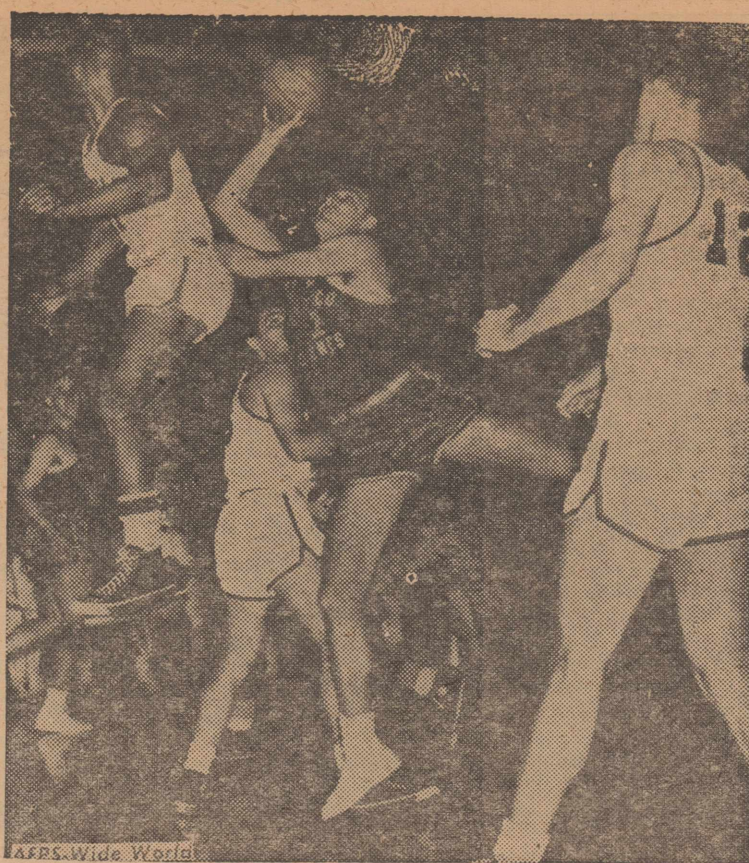

Hq. Sq. ABG Boosts Four; Cagers Slip Past Supply Five

Promotions this month found four men from our squadron gaining stripes. Leading the pack was Ed Jones of the Communications section who was upgraded to staff sergeant. Doyle Burton, orderly room, and Bob Dickson, Base Operations, were promoted to A-1C, and T. C. Page, Post Office, advanced to A-2C.

Closing out the intramural basketball season with a 50 to 49 win over Supply squadron, our squadron team captured fourth place, winning seven and losing three. This means a chance for the double elimination playoff crown in March. In the game against Supply, Eddie Grier's two free throws with a minute to play brought us from a 48 to 49 deficit to the margin of victory. Grier led the winners with 19 points, and Hensley followed with nine. The team, which has improved greatly during the past month, is looking forward to the chance to battle for the playoff title. Slim Boyette is expected back from Sheppard soon and his return will be a terrific boost to the ABG team.

Despite a 573 series bowled by M-Sgt. Raupp and WOJG Wolgemuth's 465, the bowling team dropped three out of four points to the Medical group bowlers. Still in third place, we face Supply next week.

M-Sgt. D. M. Tourtellot, formerly stationed at Ellington AFB, is our new squadron supply sergeant. M-Sgt. Wayne L. Woods, a recent returnee from Clark AFB in the Philippines, is NCOIC of the Education Services office. After a TDY assignment in Denver, A-3C Hoffman and A-3C Welin have resumed their duties at Reese in the Photo Hobby-Shop and Photo Lab respectively.

DUQUESNE'S Si Green (way up in the air) really used his head in this play. When Paul Arizin, leading scorer of the Quantico, Va., Marines, tried to sink a one-hander, Green leaped high off the floor and blocked the ball with his head. Team-mate Dick Ricketts (12) recovered the ball. The "Iron Dukes," rated second in the country, downed the stubborn marine quintet, 81-68. The victory won't count on Duquesne's record because the NCAA recognizes only games played against four-year colleges.

Colonel Explains Overweight Suggests Reducing Methods

By Col. R. A. Lawn
Hospital Commander

It is well recognized that the Air Force is setting the example in assisting their officers to achieve best physical health, and one of the most important factors in that program is assisting those who have a tendency for overweight.

There are many reducing systems, all of which are effective, and as we all know, the punch line in most of these reducing diets is that you steel yourself to "push away from the table" before you have eaten more than you need.

It is not a question of nutrition factors because we, as Americans, have the greatest amount of food available to the population and, particularly in the military, are not short of food of high nutritional value.

In a nutshell, we could get the vital factors important to our diet in just a small amount of food, and the larger amount that we eat, which in many of us causes overweight, is not utilized by the body, but is thrown off as excess or, shall we say, increases the deposition of fat.

Recently many items have appeared on the market which aid individuals in pushing away from the table by decreasing the psychic stimulus of hunger. This is a real stimulus which most of us desire to respond to. But with the assistance of some of the newer products, this stimulus can be almost neutralized before one sits down to eat, thereby helping you to "push away from the table" at the proper time.

In passing I might mention that the PX now stocks these items at very reasonable prices, and, if directions are carefully followed, good results will be obtained. However, as a general rule, it may be best to consult with one of the physicians on the base before starting the use of these items to insure that you have the proper information in regard to a well-rounded diet along with these items which reduce your appetite.

Base Bowling Team Places 6th in Meet

Reese was well represented at the San Marcos Southwest conference bowling tournament last week as the base delegation walked off with sixth place in a field of 24 teams.

The tournament winner was a high flying squad from Walker AFB. Following were Sheppard AFB, Gary AFB, Brooks AFB, Vance AFB and Reese. The winning team compiled a total score of 2984 pins to 2625 knocked down by Reese.

The base team was composed of Capt. Edward E. Holtkamp, M-Sgt. Robert M. Raupp, T-Sgt. E. L. Lewis, S-Sgt. G. W. Spencer, A-3C George C. Fornoff, and M-Sgt. James L. Barger.

Capt. Cannop Given New Job at Reese As Motivation Head

Capt. Carl R. Cannop, instructor pilot at Reese since last January, has assumed new duties as student motivation officer of the base. He has been a senior pilot since July 1950, and has flown over 3600 hours, upwards of 2000 of them as an instructor.

Captain Cannop enlisted Feb. 9, 1942, and entered pilot training the following September. He was commissioned on conclusion of training June 22, 1943, and became a captain November, 1946. He left service a short time later, was recalled in 1948 and left service again in July, 1950, to enroll at the University of Houston, getting a bachelor degree in government in 1952. He was recalled as a captain last January and came to Reese.

Captain Cannop served in the European theater in World War II during 1944 and 1945, winning the Air Medal with 10 oak leaf clusters and participating in five major campaigns. The latter part of his 1948-50 tour was as an instructor pilot at Reese.

Air Force Officers To Get General Slots

Washington — President Eisenhower has asked the Senate to confirm the appointment of Gen. Otto P. Weyland as Commander of the Tactical Air Command.

The President also nominated Lt. Gen. Earle E. Partridge for promotion to four-star rank to succeed Gen. Weyland as Commander of the Far East Air Forces. Gen. Partridge was previously deputy to Gen. Weyland. The present commander of the Tactical Air Command, Gen. John J. Cannon, is retiring.

Another Air Force officer, Lt. Gen. Orval Cook, was nominated for a four-star assignment as Deputy Commander in Chief of the European Command. He would succeed Army Gen. Thomas T. Handy, who also is retiring. Also nominated by the President: Lt. Gen. Edwin W. Rawlings, Chief of the Air Materiel Command, for promotion to the rank of general; Lt. Gen. Bryant L. Boatner to succeed Gen. Cook as Deputy Chief of Staff for Materiel; and Maj. Gen. Truman H. Landon to succeed Gen. Boatner as Air Force Inspector General with the rank of lieutenant general.

These promotions will give the Air Force nine four-star officers. At present the Army has eight, the Navy has four four-star admirals and the Marine Corps has one four-star officer. (AFPS)

A-C Selection Team Need Qualified Men

Aviation Cadet selection teams are not being filled fast enough by qualified personnel, claims a recent message from FlyTAF.

Airmen who possess AFSCs of 70270 or 73270 are encouraged to apply for this duty. Personnel may request geographic areas desired as vacancies exist or will exist throughout the U.S.

The normal tour of duty for airman personnel on A-C selection teams is three years.

TOP MUSICAL — Here is a scene from "Annie Get Your Gun," which will be presented in the base theatre February 27, at 1800 and 2030 hours. This show offers many top tunes from the pen of composer Irving Berlin. Tickets are on sale in squadron orderly rooms for $2.40, $1.80 and $1.20. Personnel are urged to pick them up soon because a sell-out crowd is expected.

Students to Inspect Visiting 'Superfort'

A B-29 from Randolph AFB is scheduled to arrive here Monday afternoon to aid in the student motivation program, reports Capt. William C. Woodrum, Wing plans and training officer.

The aircraft will carry representatives who will brief all cadets in training here on the prospect of future training at Randolph. Cadets and student officers will be given an accurate picture of the training program, living conditions, facilities and possible assignments.

The giant B-29 will be available for student inspection.

Mental Activity Helped Gen. Dean Retain Sanity as Commie POW

By Maj. GEN. WILLIAM F. DEAN, USA, and WILLIAM L. WORDEN

(This is the fifth of six articles, condensed from a series running concurrently in The Saturday Evening Post. In the fourth article Gen. Dean told how he tried to take his life rather than take the chance of revealing information to the enemy. He was later told that U. N. forces were about to be driven off the Korean peninsula. That was mid-January 1951.)

This was the beginning of my worst year — a year of two houses, two caves, many flies, malaria, a succession of odd guards, bad news and terrific boredom — all was the year when the North Koreans appeared to forget Dean entirely and when I had difficulty myself in remembering who or where I was, and in maintaining any sort of sanity.

My days were spent sitting in the doorway between the two rooms, so the guard could see me, or behind the partition, so that wandering Chinese troops could not. My food was a mixture of rice and barley with garlic tops, seaweed or other greens.

My hands were swollen by disuse, so I worked out a cross-finger exercise. I did this with my hands at my side — by then knowing better than to let the guards see me doing anything unusual. But as a guard passed me he saw my lips moving. Immediately, he said in Korean, "What are you doing?"

I said, "Counting — il, ee, sahm, sah, oh."

He scowled. I must not, he indicated, count without permission.

My morale continued to sink. I started working simple algebraic problems in my head and playing mental anagrams — how many different words can be made out of Sacramento? Then one day I began working on square roots and memorized the squares of numbers from 1 to 100. Then I began hunting for fast systems of squaring.

(For example, the squares of numbers between 10 and 20 have the same right hand digits as those between 60 and 70, and the relationship follows through. So the square of 40 is 1600; and the square of 41 is 1681 and the square of 42 is 1764, and the square of 90 is 8100, the square of 91 is 8281, and so on.)

I finally rationed myself — I could square 500 numbers a day, but no more.

I was studying flies and I think eventually could have hit 350. The trick is never to swat a fly when he's standing still. Wait until he starts walking or lifts his front feet to walk. Then you bust him, because he can't take off without shifting position first.

Just to keep the vitally important record straight, my top day in 1951 was 492 kills, but my all-time best, in 1953, was a 522-fly day. I killed 11,016 in 1951; 25,475 in 1952, but in 1953 lost interest and murdered only 4,180, or a grand total of 40,671. Anyone who wants to challenge my three-year record will have to show me the flies.

(Gen. Dean suffered from boredom, poor food and rigid restrictions on exercise. He had attacks of malaria. Then his luck began to change. He was permitted to write a letter home. He was given a new suit of clothes. He was visited by Korean officers who promised better treatment.)

But one evening I began to understand the hoorah of the previous few hours. Just as I was getting ready for bed, I heard people outside. When I looked from my room into the guard's quarters, a whole group was coming in — all but one Chinese or Korean, many with cameras. But at the head of the group was an Occidental, removing his boots. He strolled across the room — which wasn't much of a stroll — grinned widely and held out his hand.

He said, "Hello, Gen. Dean."

Airman Scores High on GED Test

One of the highest scores ever obtained locally turned up this week when the results of a Reese Airman's GED test were received at the Education section. This high scoring airman is A-3C Andrew Sweeten of Headquarters Squadron, Air Base group. He works at MARS radio station as a radio operator.

The GED is a test in general educational development designed by the United States Armed Forces institute (USAFI) and administered by the testing section of Education office. GED comes both in high school and college levels and is administered on the airman's or officer's request to determine his proper educational level.

Most high schools and many of the nation's universities recognize the GED as equivalent to high school graduation or for university credits. In addition, USAF recognizes these tests as education levels on official records.

In the case of Airman Sweeten, his scores indicate his answers to the five parts of the GED averaged higher than have those of 91 per cent of those persons taking the tests. This is revealed by available local files and just about sets a new record.

In addition to the GED tests, USAFI, thru the base Education office, offers more than 350 courses in high school, college and technical-vocational work, plus evening classes on-base and at Texas Technological college in Lubbock. Military subjects from the USAF Extension Course institute are also available through the Education section.

Three other airmen completed work with USAFI this week, thereby increasing their potentials in the Air Force as well as in civilian life. These three are A-3C Billy G. Schmidt of the Air Police Squadron, A-3C William D. Dunlap, 3502nd Maintenance Squadron and A-3C Leon F. O Neil of the 3505th Field Maintenance Squadron.

J. Floyd Reeves, civilian education director at Reese, said that enrollments in evening courses at Texas Tech are on the upswing as the new spring semester gets underway. Further, says Reeves, educational minded Reese airmen have been securing high school diplomas through the Education office at the rate of more than 10 per month. During the past three months approximately 350 persons from Reese have either taken tests or registered for study on their own time, an indication that interest in USAFI's educational program is gradually rising.

College Students Inspect Reese

Reese was visited last week by 17 students in the AFROTC program at the University of Wyoming. The students toured the base in conjunction with the current drive to get more personnel into pilot training.

Under the direction of escort officer Maj. Billy S. Hockaday, directory of military training in the Student squadron, the cadets were shown the various operations of the mission at Reese.

The cadets arrived here Sunday and were quartered in the Aviation Cadet barracks. They received their meals at both Cadet and Officers clubs during their two-day stay.

The men are sophomores at the University and are now at that point of AFROTC training where a decision must be made if they wish to enter the flying program. Upper division students are required to elect flying training upon graduation if they wish to stay in advanced AFROTC.

Tall Tale Contest Seeks Out Biggest Fibs; AF Personnel Offered Top Cash Awards

A chance to put those tall tales, so prevalent in the barracks, in print is being offered all military personnel here. Sponsored by ATRC, the contest winners will receive substantial prizes at base and command level.

A letter from ATRC said that all military personnel within the command, including foreign students, are eligible. The purpose of this contest is to provide an opportunity for participation in a recreational activity during off-duty hours. Patients in the base hospital are expected to be particularly interested, the letter mentioned.

86 Future Flyers To Arrive Thursday

A new class of 86 pilot training students, Class 54-N, will come to Reese next Thursday to begin training which ends June 22, base officials have been notified by FTAF. Included in the new class will be three foreign nationals, who will boost students from other lands at Reese to 23.

The new students took primary pilot training at four contract training schools, 22 of them at Bainbridge Air base, Ga., 16 at Bartow Air base, Fla., 25 at Spence Air base, Ga., and 23 at Stallings Air base, N. C. One of the foreign nationals trained at Bainbridge, two at Bartow. Local officers have not been notified of nationality of the new trainees.

Already training here are nine members of the Imperial Iranian Air Force, five officers from Thailand, two Saudi-Arabian officers, and five members of the Ecuador Air Force.

First, second and third place winners at command level will be awarded prizes of $35, $30 and $25, while winners at base level will receive $10, $7.50 and $5. In addition, there will be fifty honorable-mention awards of $3 each.

In order to facilitate concealing the identity of a contestant during judging, the name, rank, squadron, and base of each contestant will be typed on a single line across the top of each entry, beginning three-fourths of an inch down from the top left edge.

Individuals may submit as many entries as they desire, the message said.

Entries may not exceed 150 words, must be typed and double spaced, must be submitted in five copies, and must be free and clear of libel. Entries will not be returned to individual contestants. They are to be judged on originality, humor, imagination and style of presentation.

All entries must be mailed from bases directly to the Tall Tale Editor, Box 475, Scott AFB, Ill., to arrive not later than April 1, 1954.

KADET KORRAL

Reese-Based Cadets See Social Life Boom

Tomorrow will mark the first inter-squadron athletic competition between the Cadet squadrons at Reese Air Force base. The event is part of the physical training program and has been incorporated in the schedule to promote and stimulate athletic competition.

The program is being set up by A-2C York who is the physical training instructor for the Cadet group.

Among the various events that will take place are softball, basketball, volleyball and horseshoe pitching. Double and single matches will be played in both tennis and handball. The softball, volleyball and horseshoes matches will be played in the field opposite the academic building while the basketball, tennis and handball matches are played at the base gym.

The winning squadron of each individual sport will receive 50 points and will also be awarded an additional 10 points for each game won within the sport.

The individual horseshoe matches will be worth five extra points.

The winners will not be selected solely on the merits of athletic competition, the parade and open ranks inspection which took place on February 13 will be equally considered. To date there has been no mention of what the winners will receive as an award but whatever it may be it should prove interesting.

One of the highlights of the social calendar this past week was a dance, sponsored by "C" squadron, at the Cadet club Saturday night. Entertainment was provided by "K" Carter and his orchestra, and "refreshments" by "Joe and Duke."

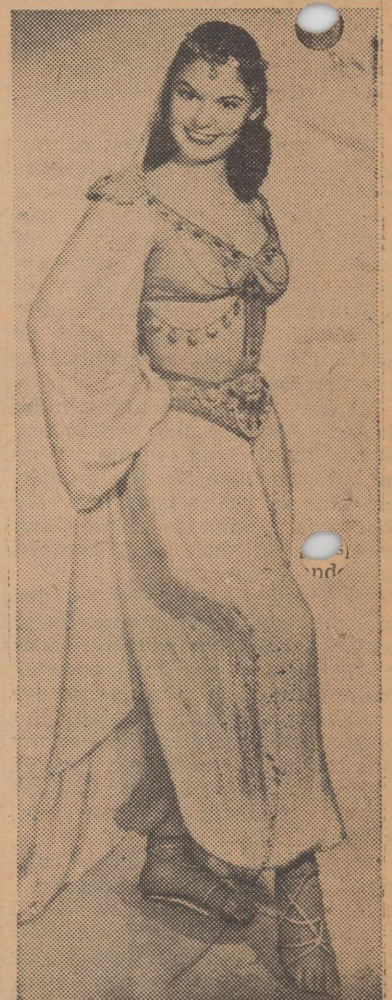

The local debutantes... attested to the popularity of the music and the "Quiet" atmosphere, while A-C A. Ruta, that man of distinction, expressed his appreciation of the refreshments in an enthusiastic manner. We would like to express our thanks to A-C Volkema for making it possible for the Fire House Five Minus Two to appear at the Cadet club last week. A-C Wheeler you were magnificent on purchase your tickets for "Annie the drums."

Time is running out for you to Get Your Gun" a very worthwhile investment.

Till next week then when we get together we say adieu and reminding you that this weeks top tune on the Cadet hit parade is that ever popular "Waltz" — TOUR-mented—
