

Prevention Of Fire Week's Aim

Observance of National Fire Prevention week, October 9-15, at Reese AFB will include several special features, with demonstrations and lectures scheduled, 1st Lt. Robert W. Benzinger, wing fire marshal, has announced.

One feature expected to attract a lot of attention is "Kids Open House," at 4:30 p.m. Friday, when the youngsters are invited to a demonstration in the fire house of dangers resulting from playing with matches and electrical appliances. At the open house the boys and girls may inspect first hand the fire fighting equipment and fire trucks.

Student officers and cadets will attend the aircraft fire and crash rescue demonstration at 2 p.m. Friday on the northwest side of the field.

An open house at the main fire station is scheduled for Reese personnel all week. Demonstrations performed by fire fighters will be designed to show the operation of several types of fire extinguishers on fires that could easily start in homes, Truett S. Cranford, fire chief, said. A miniature house has been built and rigged to show the effect of the dangerous practice of inserting pennies to bridge an ordinary light fuse, while another feature on display will show the do's and don'ts of home appliance wiring and use.

Lieutenant Benzinger said emphasis for Fire Prevention week is on the importance of observing safe practices throughout the year.

One aspect to be stressed is that fires are easily caused by careless use of smoking materials. During the past year Air Training command found in an analysis of fire losses that nearly 30 percent of losses were attributable to smoking materials. Smoking in bed remains one of the chief violations of safe smoking practices.

Colonel, Enlisted Aide, Find They're From Same City

Informal conversation in the Pilot Training group office at Reese Air Force Base may turn to discussions of Albany, N.Y., most any time. Lt. Col. John J. Brennan, Jr., group commander, and his new sergeant-major, M/Sgt. Lawrence K. Kelliher, both are from that city.

Colonel Brennan came to Reese AFB early in June and has been serving as group executive officer. On September 15 he became temporary group commander. Then recently, Sergeant Kelliher, sergeant major of Anderson AFB, Guam, for almost two years, reported in as the group sergeant major. It wasn't long before he found the colonel's mother still lives in Albany and the colonel found out Kelliher lived in Albany until his assignment to Guam.

"It's a small world," the colonel commented.

Colonel Brennan has been in service since July, 1940, serving three tours in Europe. He holds several decorations. He is a former Villanova college football player who came to Reese AFB from duty as installations officer at F. E. Warren AFN, Wyo. His record shows he is qualified to fly 24 types of aircraft.

Sergeant Kelliher has been in service since 1941. During World War II he was in the Pacific and Burma, participating in three major landings and the capture of North Burma as a member of Merrill's Marauders.

Class 55-12 Graduated From BIS; Members Given Instructor Duties

Graduation ceremonies were held today for Class 55-12 in the Basic Instructor's school at Reese Air Force Base, with Col. James F. Mears, wing executive officer, as speaker.

The school has been conducted at Reese AFB for the past year to train instructor pilots in proper procedures and techniques. Most students are newly assigned instructors. The course consists of 60 hours of flying, 30 hours of briefing and critique, and 73 hours of academic instruction in which the best methods of instruction were given. Flying includes transition, instruments, formations, and navigation. Emphasis is on making the pilots the best instructors possible, Col. C. P. West, base commander, said.

Class 55-12 was composed of Capt. Samuel Goldstein and Stanley E. Bartelt, 1st Lts. Paul L. Munson, Jr., John D. Carrington, Amos O. Fox, and Charles E. Funderburg, and 2nd Lts. Clarence D. Fried, James P. O'Pry, Charles W. Gauntlett, David T. Gruman, Chester E. Urey, Jr., and James R. Gaston.

Squadron commanders, flight commanders, and assistant flight commanders of the Pilot Training squadrons welcomed the instructor pilots to their new duties following graduation. The assignments were six to the 3500th and six to the 3501st Pilot Training squadrons.

What Are The Odds?

Your chances of being killed by lightning are about 350,000 to one; the odds that you'll die in a fire are an alarming 102 to one.

With odds so small, it is the duty of every Reese AFB person to take up the fight against fire. An insignificant match, a pile of oily rags, or a cigarette in bed might easily result in costly fire damage to government property, or your own property.

Fire prevention is a year-around function. Unless everyone takes a vital concern, the possibility of fire and heavy losses to property and even lives will continue to mount. Fire department officials have the job of putting out fires, but you, and you alone, can prevent them.

Fire hazards should be reported immediately. If you help the Fire Department now, they may not have to help you later.

Stop and think for a moment. Do you know the number to call in reporting a fire? Learn to be familiar with the correct procedure in reporting a fire.

The 1954 Air Training Command fire loss was over $800,000. With cooperation of fire prevention conscious personnel, the amount can be sliced to a minimum. Next week, during Fire Prevention Week, everyone can learn a lot by cooperating in observance of the occasion and in noting demonstrations and lectures scheduled.

Reese September Re-Enlistments High, Keep Up Summer Averages

Another outstanding month in reenlistments for Reese AFB personnel was marked up in September when 51.9 percent of eligibles agreed to stay in service, Maj. Homer L. Parsons, reenlistment counselor, announced.

The major pointed out that 54 men left service who were eligible for reenlistment, and 28 returned for a new tour of duty. The month's results were slightly above the average for the past five months.

The major pointed out that since May 1 a total of 281 airmen have been separated who were eligible for reenlistment and that 143 had signed for a new tour, giving a reenlistment rate of 50.9 percent, an average much above that set as a goal by the United States Air Force. Averages per month for Reese were May 51.9 percent, June 41.9 percent, July 50.6 percent, August 53.5 percent, and September 51.9 percent.

"It certainly is good for the Air Force and for the nation to see these experienced NCO's and airmen begin new tours," Major Parsons said. "It also is good for the men who reenlist and obtain the

Officer Takes Flight For Olympic Try-Outs

Ordered to Germany for 25 days to try out for the Armed Forces olympic soccer team, 2nd Lt. Henry J. Eykelhoff, ground equipment maintenance officer at Reese Air Force Base, left Tuesday on an air journey to Europe.

The lieutenant, directed on short notice to the temporary duty abroad, will fly to McGuire AFB, N.Y., then on the Westover AFB, Mass., and thence to Weisbaden, Germany, and the try-outs.

"I never was so surprised," the lieutenant said.

Lt. Henry J. Eykelhoff

Lieutenant Eykelhoff, from Watertown, Conn., won four letters in soccer at the University of Connecticut, where he was captain in his senior year. He also won all-New England honors. He was commissioned in August, 1954, when he completed work toward a degree in poultry husbandry at the university. He came to Reese AFB early the past summer.

Me Worry?

"Relax, kid," a new recruit often is told by his relatives and friends. "You've got nothing to worry about for the next couple of years. Just let other people do your thinking for you. All you have to do is take it easy and let it happen. Not a care in the world. What a racket!"

What a load of malarkey.

But the trouble is too many men don uniforms believing that they aren't expected to think—just eat, sleep and use their backs.

Most servicemen quickly realize how cockeyed this notion is. But how many do serious harm to their own careers and to their service by making the mistake in the first place? Quite a number.

In the normal course of his duties, a serviceman has plenty of thinking to do. He has plenty of worries, too. Any job—civilian or military—has its worries. It wouldn't be much without them.

Properly performed, a service career is no soft touch. It requires thinking men. Mental loafers apply elsewhere. (AFPS)

Chaplain's Chat

By Chaplain (1/Lt.) Robert E. Quigg

The late Harry Houdini was an escape artist who could get himself out of handcuffs, chests sealed and wound round with chains and rope. Blackstone is a magician who makes people appear and disappear as he wishes. Dunninger is a mind reader who can tell you the number of dollar bills in your pocket.

These three once had dinner together in New York City. Dunninger took them to the restaurant in his car. He parked the car in the street while they dined. After the meal, when they came out to get in the car, Dunninger, mental genius that he was, found that he had mislaid the key and couldn't get the car door open. Blackstone tried, but for once his fagic failed him; he just couldn't do anything with the door. Houdini, who claimed he could get any lock open, under any circumstance, couldn't open it. They just stood and stared at it and sent for a man from the garage.

We try to solve the riddles of life with tricks, through human experts. But there comes a time when human resources are inadequate. Then, if we are wise, we will call upon the living God who has in Himself the only effective solution.

Private Vehicle Accidents For Base Personnel Mount During September

September at Reese Air Force base was the worst month of 1955 for private vehicle accidents, Capt. Bernie C. Mullins, ground safety officer, lamented Thursday.

"During the month there were seven private vehicle accidents involving Reese personnel," he said. "There were eleven injuries, five of them disabling. Our average per month for the year is 2.5. That means Reese last month had double the average for disabling injuries. And, already this month we have a disabling."

Captain Mullins said every proven and recommended means of keeping personnel alert to possibility of injury was being used in efforts to keep the base near the top of Air Training command and Flying Training Air Force bases.

"September certainly was a dark month on our records," he said. "We have hopes that October will be vastly better. We have a bad start again, but is everyone stays alert we will come out all right."

Nine Reese Officers Win Captaincies

Shining new captain bars for nine Reese officers began appearing Thursday as promotions from first lieutenant to captain in the Air Force were announced.

First of the new captains to pin on his new insignia was Chaplain Henry N. Dunkel, Catholic chaplain of the base. His date of rank was October 5. At about the same time, over in the hospital, captain bars replaced the single bar for Benjamin Kislin, optometry officer, whose date of rank was October 5.

On November 2, 1st Lt. George M. Herda will become a captain, while early in 1956 six others, promoted under the Reese quota, will advance to Captain. They are Richard R. Wright, instructor trainer, January 18; Richard R. Jarvis, commander of the pre-cadet detachment, January 31; James P. Lundy, instructor pilot, March 9; Eugene A. Smith, instructor pilot, March 23; Elden C. Winters, finance officer, recently transferred to Bryan AFB, March 27; and Henry A. Rieder, academic instructor, March 28.

Promotions of captains to majors are scheduled to be announced late in October.

Capt. C. R. Cannop Ordered To Japan

Capt. Carl R. Cannop, training analysis and development coordinator at Reese Air Force Base, has been re-assigned to Furumaki, Japan, reporting in January, Col. C. P. West, Reese AFB commander, announced Thursday.

Captain Cannop is one of two officers assigned to Reese who was on the base at its re-activation, October 1, 1949. He left service for two years to return to college, reporting back to Reese AFB in January, 1953. He served as instructor pilot prior to assuming his present duties.

Captain Cannop, from Monticello, Ga., enlisted in 1942 and was commissioned in June, 1944. He served in Europe during World War II, winning several decorations. He is a 1952 graduate of the University of Houston.

Aeronautical Terms Rule In Mess Halls Of Academy; Cadets Taught At Every Turn

Colorado Springs, Colo.—Cadets don't eat at the new Air Force Academy unless they make a three-point landing.

Academy authorities believe a good way to sharpen a young cadet's memory is by association. So, in the dining hall, tables are called ramps, and the kitchen is a hangar.

Usually, each ramp has two ATO's; the ramp commander and an assistant ramp commander. At each meal the cadets change positions at their tables to serve as navigator, crew chief, hot pilot and co-pilot.

The navigator procures food, the crew chief stacks the dishes between courses, while the hot pilot and co-pilots serve hot and cold drinks, respectively.

To keep on the beam, cadets go through a routine when dismissed after a meal. The cadet calls the tower — the ATO — requests permission to take off, assumes his take-off position on the runway and awaits further instructions.

When the permission to "roll" is given, the cadet replies, "Sir, Air Force Academy Jet 301K, rolling."

Etiquette at the table is a must also. If the rules of good manners are broken, the cadet must suffer the consequences.

As an example, one cadet passing a glass to another cadet touched the lip of the glass with his fingers. He was required to hold the glass properly for several minutes. (AFPS)

Transferred

S/Sgt. Darrell W. Jackson of the Support squadron has been re-assigned to Laredo AFB, reporting next Tuesday.

Physically Handicapped Perform Well In Jobs They Fill For The Air Force

A slim, middle-aged man reached up to the top shelf of a warehouse at Kelly Air Force Base, Texas. With obvious ease, he lifted a 75-pound box with only his right hand, and moved it to a lower shelf.

A casual observer might have wondered at such tremendous strength in one arm. A second glance would have told him that the man's left sleeve was empty.

This warehouseman helps store airplane instrument parts at Kelly Air Force Base. His performance is so outstanding that a fellow employee once remarked:

"You're the second one-armed man I've worked behind and I don't ever want to work behind another . . . they'll work you to death."

The disabled man is teaching other employees at Kelly that physical handicaps can be overcome—with hard work and perseverance. He and other handicapped workers on the base have chalked up outstanding performance records.

This attitude is also prevalent on many other Air Force bases. Thousands of blind, deaf, partly-paralyzed and other disabled persons employed at scores of different Air Force jobs have proved that it's good business to hire the physically handicapped.

Giving maximum employment opportunity to handicapped persons is the purpose of a nationwide program in which the Air Force has been recognized as leading the other Services. General Nathan F. Twining, Air Force Chief of Staff, has announced that our goal for the next year should be not just the best program in the Armed Services but the best record in the Nation.

Next time you see a physically-handicapped person at work on an Air Force base you can be pretty sure he's there because he's a top-notch worker. Like most of the rest of us, he's dedicated to doing his bit for the Air Force mission. He's worked hard to overcome his handicap, and he's proud of his production record.

At times when we feel like letting down, we can think of these physically-handicapped colleagues of ours—for inspiration.

Headquarters, USAF, reported reenlistments were higher than ever, with immediate reenlistments up to 74 percent and return to day after leaves also at top levels.

Personnel in headquarters interpret the rise in immediate reenlistments as airmen's satisfaction with new personnel policies and career benefits, as well as efforts of reenlistment officials to provide airmen with information on why an AF career is to their advantage.

Latest figures for USAF show the active reenlistment rate was at 42 percent for July, highest since February, 1954.

Base Cadet Choir Ready For Engagements; Plans Concert In Near Future

There is now active on Reese AFB an organized Cadet Choir. It has been organized by Chaplain (Maj.) W. J. McDaniels and the Choir has been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Ira Schantz as its director. Mr. Schantz is one of the outstanding musical figures in the area and he is a professor in the Music Department of Texas Tech.

The group is comparatively new, having been active for about two months, but already they are prepared for limited engagements. Chaplain McDaniels said that they are planning a concert for the near future.

The Choir holds its practices every Saturday morning at 9:30 and all Aviation Cadets, Student Officers and Pre-Cadets are eligible to join.

Little Reese Girl, Born In Germany, Becomes Naturalized U.S. Citizen

There is a new citizen this week among the Reese folks. She is four-year-old Carol Ann Hoover, adopted daughter of M/Sgt. and Mrs. T. J. Hoover, 2609 Forty-fifth street and of the base hospital.

The little girl, native of Germany, was adopted by the Hoovers in Weisbaden when she was a few months old. Her application for citizenship was filed by her parents.

The sergeant went overseas for the express purpose of adopting a child when he found difficulties in the United States because he was in the service. The Hoovers took the little girl when she was very small and started adoption proceedings then. They complied with adoption laws of Texas, the Air Force, the Army, the city laws of

Benton's Clothing Store Has Opening

Numerous Reese AFB personnel and their families were among the large crowd with visited the new Bill Benton men's clothing store at 14th street and Avenue J last weekend at the store's formal opening. The store is said to have the largest men's clothing sales-room in Lubbock, over 9,000 square feet in which 2,000 suits, 5,000 pairs of slacks, and thousands of other items are displayed. James Caron, executive supervisor of the Bill Benton organization, said the firm operates on a low margin of profit. He also cited that the Lubbock store will remain open until 9 p.m. for convenience of Reese and other personnel.

Photo Hobby Shop Will Be Improved

Major improvement in the base hobby shop is planned within the near future to make the place more useable and attractive, Hal P. Spencer, chief engineer of Installations group, announced this week.

He said bids are being opened for new darkrooms, for enlargement of facilities, and for air-conditioning and heating units for the hobby shop in T-37.

"We have a good shop, but we plan to make it much better," Spencer said.

In federal court this week the oath of allegiance was waived for Carol Ann, who stood with her parents and eight others who became citizens.

Renovation Of Hospital Wards Nears Completion

Air-conditioning and modification of Ward 1 in the base hospital has been completed and work has started on Ward 2, engineers of Installations group said this week. Efforts are being made to speed up the project.

3501st Pilot Training Squadron

Flight 5 Gets New Operations Officer

Capt. Peter Yuhas has moved to a new post as Flight Operations Officer for Flight 5, Maj. Sam L. Osver, 3501st Pilot Training Squadron Commander, announced this week. Captain Yuhas, formerly an Element Leader in Flight 4, is replacing Capt. Thomas V. Banfield, who is leaving for the Far East.

Captain Yuhas was assigned to Reese last January after completing B-26 transition at Vance AFB. He attended Basic Instructors School here before being assigned to Flight 4.

A graduate of multi-engine basic training at Vance, Captain Yuhas was a SAC navigator-bombardier at Lockbourne AFB,

A/2C Jan R. Miller of the Motor Vehicle squadron leaves soon for new duties with the 315th Air division in Japan. He is taking a month's delay enroute before reporting for shipment from Parks AFB.

B.F. "Not exactly. You see, the captain asked for volunteers, and everyone else stepped back."

Go On Leave

Two instructor pilots from the 3501st Pilot Training Squadron recently departed on leave.

1st Lt. Richard A. Townsend of Flight 3 is visiting his hometown, Auburn, New York, with his wife and son.

2nd Lt. Richard C. McMahon left Flight 4 last week for Kansas City, Mo., to spend several days visiting relatives.

Major Golf Course Improvement Starts

Major improvement to the Reese golf course is underway and should result in much better appearance and enjoyment for players, Hal P. Spencer, chief engineer, made known this week.

An additional 1,200 feet of four-inch pipe has been laid and all watering pipes are being connected to a new pump which will bring moisture from Lake Emhoff.

"We'll never run out of water for the greens," Spencer said.

Two new greens are being added, other greens are being improved, and the course will be greatly altered when the project is finished, it was announced. Shrubs of all kinds, costing around $2,400, will be planted, Spencer said.

OVERDRAFT ON GLORY by James Helvick—

Here is a rich, rare novel. One which fizzes like champagne, massages the brain and tickles the fancy. The central figure is Grant Foraker, a man of explosive action, of exciting vision, a man years ahead of his time. He is a genius in aeronautics, inventing the jet plane in 1908, a man who breaks the chairs he sits in, loves the very young and the very old, develops the neatest trick to date to solve the labor problems, and once predicted the end of the world at eight and almost carried it off.

Yet, doubts of his greatness do arise among assorted types who surround him in his Paris flat or on his mysterious trips to the south of France. The lovely Delia from Ohio has her doubts about the eventual success of the "Foraker Principle," the unique scientific formula which guides the great man's inventions. The equally lovely Martha, a poem of a stenographer, has no doubts whatsoever. But young Ned, private secretary to the great Foraker, wonders a great deal, especially when a quartet of spies seeks his services and reveals Foraker's past.

Halm, the financier, and Rosen, the eminent physicist, and Lenoir, the representative of a secret cadre within the War Ministry, fill out a tableau of those waiting for Foraker's invention to prove itself. Fears intensify, as amid a deluge of disasters Foraker's statue seems to dwindle. And then the terrifying climax settles the issue.

OVERDRAFT ON GLORY has freshness and pace. It is swift, dramatic and brilliant.

Captain Payne Given New Assignment In Washington; To Report In January

By A/2C Maurice B. Ziegler

First let it be stated that A/2C Maurice Zeigler, editor of this column, is in charge of some mess attendant functions this week and he has a ghost-writer. He has always wished for a ghost-writer and the Halloween goblins have made his wish come true.

Now that the World Serious is over, more attention can be turned to events on the campus of Fort Reese. To hear some of the athletes talk, there may be a Johnny Podres or Whitey Ford of the gridiron right here on the base. These lads will be pitching the touchdown passes.

The heavy dew of this week forced cancellation of three of the touch football games scheduled, but Sergeant Charles McKinney of Personnel Services has flatly stated the winter schedule will be in full swing, come next week. He says competition will be spirited and he hopes the players will be ground-safety minded and not get hurt.

The agents report a team to watch in this touch football is the Support squadron. From out of the midwest, the secret operatives report, has come a touchdown passing quarterback who is coach-player. The star-to-be is none other than 2nd Lt. Jack Lee, Personnel Services officer. He played guard for Notre Dame in crunching football and won a lot of honors with a skill which SMU and Texas players of the past few years will testify was outstanding. Whether he can throw those passes with perfection is the question mark of the Reese season.

Then at 3 o'clock next Monday afternoon comes the magic hour for the basketball players. That is the hour candidates for the Reese Rattlers will report to Sergeant McKinney in the gym for try-outs. McKinney 'lows the Rattlers might be right tough this year and he wants all airmen and officers who think they can play to report for practice. Games will be on Thursday and Friday nights, in the main.

Bowling has been started for the winter and a lot of eager men and women are doing some practicing on the base alleys. From early scores it looks like the going might be a bit too energetic and professional for your old typist.

Well, anyhow, Zeigler will be back next week and he might have other ideas on the entire picture.

Saturday everybody ought to be out to see the cadet tennis tournament on the Reese courts, starting a 9 o'clock in the sunlight. The secret agents report some of the competitors have the professional ability and outlook.

And, to quote the Sampson AFB PORTAL JOURNAL, if you are driving this weekend, be sure you have wheels.

Bums Now Champions--Dodgers Take World Series From Yanks

For the first time in the history of the Brooklyn Dodgers ball club, they have brought home the title of "World Champions". On the 4th of October, they won the seventh and deciding game of the 1955 World Series, defeating the New York Yankees by a score of 2-0.

Johnny Podres, winning pitcher for the Dodgers, pitched brilliant baseball to share honors with teammates Sandy Amoros and Gil Hodges for the win. Sandy Amoros, playing in left field, initiated a threat-killing double play when he made a great one-hand catch deep in the left field corner off the bat of Yankee catcher Yogi Berra. Gil Hodges took credit for driving in both Brooklyn runs with a sharp single and a long fly ball.

Bumper Baby Crop

Cherry Point, N. C. (AFPS) — Strong winds from hurricane Ione forced the stork to make an emergency landing at the naval hospital here. The result: 16 babies were born during the height of the storm.

Ione showed a definite prejudice for members of her own sex. Fifteen of the 16 tots were girls.

Two Of A Kind

Slugging seems to run in heavy-weight king Rocky Marciano's family. Here's Pfc. Lou Marchegiano, younger brother of the champ, who hit .348 this season and led Ft. Lee, Va., to the Second Army baseball championship. Lou is also Ft. Lee's boxing coach. He retains the original family spelling of their name.

Base To Play Host To Tennis Champs In Saturday Meet

Reese AFB will be host for one of the last Cadet Conferences, since it is anticipated that all conferences in the future will be Student Conferences due to the decreasing quota of Cadets.

Bases entered are Harlingen, Hondo, Bryan and Ellington, with Reese as host base.

The matches will commence at 9:30 A.M. Saturday morning, the 8th of October, and will be played all day.

Three men will represent each base. Representing Reese in the Singles competition will be A/C John Haney. A/C's James Kinney and John Tyler will make up the Doubles team.

Trophies will be awarded at a buffet supper at the Cadet Club for players, coaches and officials.

Heads For Korea

S/Sgt. Jack V. Ming of the Motor Vehicle squadron has been reassigned to the 58th Fighter Bomber wing in Korea. He will leave next week, taking delay enroute before reporting to the port of debarkation November 9.

AF Academy Football Team Coins New Gridiron Terms

LOWREY AFB, Colo. — When the AF Academy freshmen football team takes the field with its secret weapon, the spectators will probably take to the shelters.

The coaching staff at the academy has compiled a football glossary which includes such expressions as "blast off", "buy the farm", "afterburner", and "sonic boom".

Confused? It's simple, once you understand the glossary. For example: a player who assumes the take-off position, blasts into a bogey and gives the latter the afterburner is merely taking his stance, charging into an opponent and turning on an extra amount of steam to drive him back.

On the other hand, a cadet who takes the runway, makes a hot start and busy the farm has jumped offside, made a serious error and in general, loused up the operation.

As the academy enlarges to a four-year institution, other expressions will undoubtedly be added to those already compiled. But by that time everyone will be able to decipher such basic terms as hard hat (helmet), sand bagger (player who is a spectator rather than a doer), flame out (power failure), barrier buster (good tackler or tackle), and hassle (tough contest).

Base Rodeo Winner Will Undergo Eye Operation; Growths Hamper Competitor

A/1C Juan M. Bernal, Reese AFB and Air Training command representative in the Air Force Motor Vehicle Rodeo, next week will undergo an operation on his eyes to remove growths.

Bernal competed late last month in the AF rodeo at Wright-Patterson AFB, finishing sixth in the staff car or sedan class. He had won the Reese, FTAF, and ATC competition. The victors in all classes won because they manipulated their vehicles just a little better through obstacles than the others. Victory was sometimes by a fraction of an inch.

"The others were just a little better at Wright-Patterson than I was," Airman Bernal said. "I should have done better. Those drivers were really good."

He had nothing but praise for the 16 other competitors in his class. But enroute home he was noted to rub his eyes and shake his head, as if his eyes bothered him. Back home, he was sent to the hospital. The operation is a result.

Those who saw the Air Force competition said Bernal was not as sharp as he had been in other contests. They said he missed his mark most of the time by just inches or less.

"These growths on my eyes did bother me," Bernal said. "But those other drivers were keen. I am not giving these eyes as an alibi."

Clipper Rooms Get New Foil Surfaces

Elimination of water is the main objective of renovation of clipper rooms in the consolidated mess, Hal P. Spencer, chief engineer of Installations group, said this week. He said work is completed on installation of foil surface on two clipper rooms and indications are that water off the ceiling will be eliminated. He said the foil was stuck to the ceiling and will serve a major utility value, although the foil is slightly wrinkled. Spencer said the foil was tried after paint had failed to prevent the moisture.

Base Photographers Ready For Contests

Reese AFB amateur photographers were advised this week to get ready for entry into the Air Force photography contest which will be started soon. The deadline for entries into the FTAF competition is December 15, leaving limited time for base entrants to get ready. Winners will move up through channels to the ATC, Air Force, and Interservice competition. Finals for the Air Force will be at Andrews AFB.

Rules of the contest, announced by 2nd Lt. Jonh Lee, Personnel Services officer, provide a variety of subjects, permit all military personnel to enter, and set January 1, 1955, as beginnning the period in which photos may be taken. Interested photographers may obtain all information from the lieutenant.

Last year S/Sgt. Joe Kent of Reese picked off a couple of FTAF prizes.
