Ribbon Cutting Celebrated for City Pool, Park Playground Upcoming

By Kay Ellington
 The Hesperian-Beacon

On the eve of the Old Settlers Reunion, one of Floydada's most enjoyed traditions, Friday got the weekend off to a festive start with the ribbon-cutting of the new Floydada park playground and pool.

"I am proud to recognize this endeavor that the citizens of Floydada voted for," said mayor Bobby Gilliland in remarks to a crowd of about seventy-five at the park. "This is a good facility, and I'd like to thank city employees who pitched in to help wherever they could. Their efforts helped us contain costs on both the playground and the pool."

Gilliland, city manager Jeff Johnston, and chamber manager Kim Perez were flanked by city employees for the ribbon cutting. City staff also joined together to cook hamburgers and hot dogs for the public for the occasion.

Residents from Floydada and Floyd County began lining up to swim in the pool-

- which featured a Grand Opening Day discount of only $2 a person—an hour before the official opening.

Amanda Zavala from Lockney had driven over from her hometown for this day. "I wish we had something like this there," she said. "We have a pool, but this is really nice. I have five children, and they are really excited by something like this."

City manager Jeff Johnston said when voters passed the bond election for the parks improvement plan in 2013, the hope of the city and voters was that this water park-type pool would "help retain

The 501 Reconciling the Irreconcilable

Johnny Depp and Amber Somebody are getting a divorce. Why? Irreconcilable differences.

I didn't catch her last name, but I know Depp. I saw him in a movie once.

What got my attention wasn't their star status or the retelling of the last time they made news together, when they smuggled their dogs into Australia. (I sided with Australia then. I still do.)

The term "irreconcilable differences" caught my ear. Don't all couples have those?

Yep, today I've had to turn to morning television for inspiration. Sorry.

Regarding irreconcilable differences, those are the arguments nobody ever wins. Right?

I'm thinking of pillowcases. My husband actually thinks the open ends should go toward the center of the bed never to be seen under the shams. Must be how shams got their name. They cover up things that aren't right.

Come to think of it, some marriages are shams, aren't they?

Meanwhile, my husband is wrong. I may follow his misguided pillowcase policy, but I'll never reconcile myself to it.

Shakespeare comes to mind: "To thine own self be true, And it must follow, as the night the day, Thou canst not then be false to any man."

I like to think that maxim empowers all swashbuckling goal-oriented characters. Picture Johnny Depp in a pirate's cap. Those types win all battles and leave lesser people behind, left and right. But it's my maxim too. I turn pillows the wrong way but never feel right about it.

Who would I be if I gave up my pillow beliefs? I'd be a sham. I think my husband would rather be married to the real me than a sham, as long as I go along with his pillow policies, not to mention the illogical placement of the kitchen garbage container and the direction the refrigerator door opens. Like I said, not to mention.

As for the divorce of Johnny Depp and Amber Heard (I looked up her name), did they list specifically their irreconcilable differences in court? I'm guessing not. A catch-all term like "irreconcilable differences" does not beg explanation - not even if the couples' fans would like all details. We're left only to speculate who's getting custody of the famous Yorkie-poops, and I may not have the breed named correctly. I wasn't listening that closely when this morning's news went to the dogs. Beats suicide bombings.

Meanwhile, newflash, Depp's newest movie is "Alice Through the Looking Glass."

I've never understood Lewis Carroll - not "Alice in Wonderland" nor that famous sequel.

And even though I can quote Shakespeare, I've never understood him either. Both writers are beyond me. But there's always hope. Maybe Depp's interpretation of the Mad Hatter will bring Carroll into focus for me. Or not.

Oops! Gotta go. "I'm late, I'm late for a very important date!"

Parting advice: If you can think of nothing else to say, quote Carroll's White Rabbit.

Easy for me. I'm always late. Tardiness is an irreconcilable difference between the real me and who I'd like to be.

The Paperboy No generation like the greatest

Over 16,000,000 Americans fought in World War II. Think about that number ... which is about twice the population of New York City.

Of that 16,000,000-plus, 800,000 are still alive. Over the past several years we have worked to find the remaining WWII veterans in the communities we represent in an effort to get their stories in print. If you know of any WWII veteran which we have not done a story on, please call the newspaper office so we can arrange it.

CHRIS BLACKBURN

The Greatest Generation, those Americans who fought for and supported the U.S. during WWII, saved this planet from tyranny.

I'm not so sure such an effort would be remotely possible today.

In today's world, we are a self-consumed bunch busy casting judgment on one another on social media instead of correcting the ills of the world.

Today, we slap a hashtag on a slogan and feel like we've made a difference in society.

The truth is we are lost in the wilderness. We are a people without leadership.

To say we have lost our morale compass is an understatement. It's more like we took a sledgehammer to it.

So will there ever be another great generation to rival those incredible men and women which saved the planet?

I suppose it's possible, but take a look at the extreme situation it took to help form the first one.

In today's world, we look at other Americans as the main enemy. We vilify each other. And while we're distracted, who really knows what is happening around the world? It's not as if we have a trustworthy media to inform us properly. No sir. Everything must be political.

I still contend, that despite our differences, we have much more in common than not. But without leadership, those commonalities are going to be shoved to the back while political factions bicker about idiocy.

I remember a time when Americans seemed happy. A time when we didn't automatically look for something to get angry about.

Like many of you, I want those days back. I want to be able to look at my fellow Americans and think of the good they have accomplished and not their political affiliation.

As my boys get closer to fighting age, my worries over this world intensify. What out-of-control situation will they be faced with? Will they have to fight? Will things continue to deteriorate to the point there is nothing worth fighting for?

When you are angry at the leadership of your country, it's hard to fathom wanting to fight for them.

Protect my family and home? Sure.

Travel to the Middle East and fight for who knows what? I don't think so.

My prayer is that we find ourselves in the not too distant future. I pray leaders emerge. I pray our political discourse subsides. Most of all, I pray for peace.

Health officials: Zika likely to spread in Texas

Special to The Hesperian-Beacon

AUSTIN — Texas has identified 33 cases of the Zika virus that all have been associated with overseas travel, but the virus is expected to begin spreading locally within the state during the sweaty upcoming summer months, top health officials said Tuesday.

Department of State Health Services Commissioner John Hellerstedt told a Texas Senate health panel that potential hot zones include Dallas, Houston, the Gulf Coast and the Rio Grande Valley. Poor areas are likely to be hardest hit since they tend to be rife with standing water and bits of old tires that are breeding havens for mosquitoes, which carry the virus.

"We do believe that Texas will, at some point, likely experience mosquito vector transmission," Department of State Health Services Commissioner John Hellerstedt told a state Senate health committee meeting. "We don't know when and we don't really know at what level that will occur."

There have been 500-plus cases of Zika in the continental U.S., but so far all involved travel to foreign locales. Hellerstedt said the virus had now been detected in nearly all of Latin America and that some cases of local transmission had been reported in Mexico, though not along the U.S. border.

"One of the big advantages that we have over other parts of the world in terms of Zika is our ability to see it coming and prepare for it," he said.

Testing for the virus can be complicated since one method involves drawing blood that will only come up positive in people infected for a window of up to seven days after exposure. Also,

Texas only has the capacity to conduct a few dozen such tests a week, meaning an outbreak could overwhelm the system. Gov. Greg Abbott has created an infectious disease task force, and academics and scientists around the state are also working on a vaccine — but don't expect it to be ready by Memorial Day, when peak mosquito season begins.

The key to containing the virus is mosquito eradication, most of which is funded locally. Dallas County and other areas have recent experience with spraying from the air to curb the mosquito-borne spread of the West Nile virus — but such efforts aren't likely to be successful since Zika is spread by the Aedes species mosquito, which is harder to fight from afar than other species.

Flag Retirement

In a Flag Retirement Ceremony on Tuesday, May 24, at the Floyd County Memorial, Boy Scout Troop 357 retired the U.S. and P.O.W. flags donated by the Floydada VFW Chapter that have been hanging at the memorial. The U.S. flag was presented to Jo Wilbanks to honor her late husband and United States Air Force Veteran Nile Bryant and his service in the Korean conflict. "We appreciate them very much. This is such an honor for dad...for them to do that...we just treasure this and know that he is just so loved here and we love everybody here, too. Thank you," shared Nila Ball, of Plainview, daughter of Nile Bryant. Wilbanks said "I'm very thankful that I live in Floyd County. The people here are so generous, kind and loving and we wouldn't be here today if it weren't for all my friends and neighbors." The P.O.W. flag, which was flown for all P.O.W.s, was presented to Phillip Wilbanks for his military service. Scout Master Bobby Gilliland, Assistant Scout Master Curtis Emert, Boy Scouts Lewis Alaniz, Logan Emert, and Blake Arebuelo retired the colors and then reposted the colors donated by Adolfo and Irma Garcia. The flags will fly for three months and then be retired. To donate a flag, contact the Floyd County Historical Museum in Floydada.

MEMORIES 1979 - John and Marilyn Huey

By John and Marilyn (Leckie) Huey

My parents, James Clarence and Mertie (Lusk) Leckie came to Floyd County when they were first married in 1905. They met when my dad was recuperating from a rattlesnake bite and went to visit the Gains family from whom my mother was taking music lessons. Dad worked on the Newman Ranch in northeast part of Floyd County. Later they moved to Whit, Texas, birthplace of my mother (born 1881). Dad's grandparents were born in Scotland and settled in Georgia. Dad came to Texas when he was a young man. Mother and Dad moved to Floydada in 1932, bringing five of their seven children with them. He began farming for the Grundys then two years later started farming for himself until he retired. They lived in Floyd County until their deaths. Dad in 1959 and Mother in 1965. They belong to the First Baptist Church. My father served as trustee in the Muncy District about 1935.

We had some hardships during those years. The drought and the depression left their mark on us as well as many families. My dad believed in earning what one has and jobs were not always easily found.

John's (Bud as he was known in Floydada) parents were John William and Mary Etta (Phillips) Huey. Mr. Huey was born in 1887 in Waldren, Arkansas and Mrs. Huey 1892 in Trading Post, Kansas. They were married in Oklahoma moving later to Collin County, Texas. Then in 1923 they and their three children moved to Floyd County. Mr. Huey was a farmer; Mrs. Huey taught piano. They had three other children after moving there. They were active in community "Old Time" singings and the Primitive Baptist Church. They moved to San Diego, California, in 1942 never returning to Floydada to live, only to visit old friends. Mrs. Huey died in 1969 and Mr. Huey in 1949 in San Bernardino, California.

John and I met in 1938 at one of the Muncy

Christmas programs. No doubt his family participated in the program as they often did, playing several musical instruments. We were married by Rev. Shaw the following November in the First Baptist Parsonage in Lockney. Those attending were Aline (Leckie) Waller and Mamie (Leckie) Gillmore, Sam Huey and Katherine and John Race. Several nights after, we were in an old time "Shivaree" and John had to push me down the main street in Lockney with friends looking on. Following was a party at the Huey home.

I attended Muncy, Floydada Elementary and graduated from Floydada High School in 1939. I loved their plays and holiday programs at school. Some of the teachers I remember and respected were Bruce Blackford, Mr. Grimes, Floyd Murry at Muncy School. Miss Ruby Norton, Mr. Meyers at Andrews Ward School and Miss Rea, Miss Wade and Mr. A. D. Cummings in Floydada High. John attended Pleasant Valley, Sand Hill and Floydada.

We farmed near Muncy and Cedar Hill. We had one child, Tony, before moving to San Diego in 1941, in December. We came back in 1944 and John joined the Army. He had his training in San Antonio and Mineral Wells, Texas, then was sent to the Philippines. I returned to San Diego. John was seriously wounded in 1945 and was sent to Modesto to recuperate. We live in Modesto where John works in real estate and I am employed as a part-time supervisor at Tillie Lewis Foods.

We have six children and five grandchildren. Four of our children and their families live in California. Our oldest son and his family live in Cheyenne, Wyoming, and our youngest son is attending college in New York.

I well remember the JJ. Smalley family; they were dear friends and Mary McCarly and her brother were so kind to our family when we were getting started in 1932. The sandstorms are something I will never forget. Our days in Floyd County will be long remembered.

National Ranching Heritage Center hosts Western Art, Gear Show

Special to The Hesperian-Beacon

More than 30 Western artists and craftsmen will exhibit nearly 100 pieces of art at the third annual Summer Stampede Western Art and Gear Show from 5 to 11 p.m. Saturday, June 18 at the National Ranching Heritage Center (NRHC) in Lubbock.

Sponsored by Capital Farm Credit, the art show and sale will include dinner on the patio at 6:30 p.m. and an evening of Western Swing dancing to the music of Jake Hooker and the Outsiders beginning at 8 p.m.

"A Western art show fits well with our mission to preserve and interpret the history of ranching," NRHC Executive Director Carl Andersen said. "You can walk through our front door and see art that depicts the ranching way of life, and then walk out the back door into our historical park and see actual ranch structures like the Matador Half-Dugout, the Four Sixes Barn, and the Pitchfork Cookhouse."

Collectors of Western art will have an opportunity not only to purchase new art pieces but also to meet the artists and craftsmen. "The majority of our exhibiting artists will be at Summer Stampede," Andersen said. "They like to come to this show because we have a younger crowd than you see at most art shows."

Andersen said the art show is designed to draw both baby boomers and millennials by offering a popular and affordable art and gear for collectors.

Limited tickets are available and must be purchased in advance either online at ranchingheritage.org or by calling Vicki Quinn-Williams at (806) 834-0469. The cost is $85 for the general public and $75 for members of the Ranching

Heritage Association (RHA), a non-profit membership organization that supports the mission and programs of the NRHC.

Twenty percent of the proceeds will benefit educational and restoration programs of the NRHC.

Paintings and gear that aren't purchased at Summer Stampede will remain on exhibit and available for purchase in the Mary Belle Macy Gallery for two weeks after the event.

Supported by Texas Tech University and the RHA, the National Ranching Heritage Center is a 27-acre museum and historical park offering educational programs and exhibits that promote interest in ranching history and contemporary ranching issues.

The center is located at 3121 Fourth St. and provides 49 authentic ranch structures relocated from some of the nation's most historic ranches.

Wit and Wisdom

By Charles Keaton

The Hesperian-Beacon

(Note: all quotes come from Ralph Waldo Emerson)

A friend is one before whom I may think aloud.

A hero is no braver than an ordinary man, but he is braver five minutes longer.

A man of genius is privileged only as far as he is genius. His dullness is as insupportable as any other dullness.

All our progress is an unfolding, like a vegetable bud. You have first an instinct, then an opinion, then a knowledge as the plant has root, bud, and fruit. Trust the instinct to the end, though you can render no reason.

Be not the slave of your own past. Plunge into the sublime seas, dive deep and swim far, so you shall come back with self-respect, with new power, with an advanced experience that shall explain and overlook the old.

Character is higher than intellect... A great soul will be strong to live, as well as to think.

Do not go where the path may lead, go instead where there is no path and leave a trail.

FINDING OUR WAY

"You have spoken arrogantly against me," says the LORD. "Yet, you ask, 'What have we said against you?'" —Malachi 3:13 (NIV)

As a volunteer tutor at a community center, I had been assigned to help a student named Tony with his math homework. For more than an hour, I had worked with him, but Tony was not interested in my tips. In fact, during most of the tutoring session, he had grumbled and complained, explaining that he did not see any value in learning math. After listening to his complaints, I began to tell him why I thought math was important. Several minutes later, Tony looked at his math problems, apologized for his behavior, and said that he was ready to work on his assignment.

It does not take much for us to start complaining. Just like the Israelites in today's reading from Numbers, we too can find ourselves grumbling and expressing our doubts toward God. Often these doubts come as a result of not understanding what God is doing in our lives. But God knows what is best for us and has a plan for us. If we obey God and rest securely in God's promises, God will open our hearts and our minds, enabling us to see the way ahead.

PCE Convenience Gets Coca-Cola Freestyle Machine

By Kay Ellington
The Hesperian-Beacon

Producers Co-Op now has the only Coca-Cola Freestyle machine between Lubbock and Plainview. The Coca-Cola Freestyle is a touch screen soda fountain introduced by The Coca-Cola Company in 2009. The machine features 165 different Coca-Cola drink products, and custom flavors.

The machine allows users to select from mixtures of flavors of Coca-Cola branded products which are then individually dispensed.

The Coca-Cola Freestyle app gives consumers the chance to explore the 100+ drink choices, create their own custom mixes by combining the choices, and then use the Location Finder tool to find a Coca-Cola Freestyle machine near you to scan your device and pour your creations. If creating a mix isn't your thing, you'll get exclusive mixes from the Coca-Cola Recipe Book that come pre-loaded in the app and are just for app holders.

The Coca-Cola Freestyle app also has Offers & Push Notifications - This app uses background location services to send discounts and special offers when in proximity to a participating restaurant, movie theatre, or theme park.

AgriLife Extension to offer food service certification ness.

If under the Texas Department of State Health Services (DSHS) jurisdiction each food establishment is required to have one certified food manager on site.

Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service, Hale County, is offering a 2-1/2 day professional food manager certification training course. This program will be offered for $125.00 on June 22-24 at 225 Broadway, Suite 6, Plainview, TX 79072. Cost includes 2-day training (9 AM-5PM), materials, and a national food manager certification examination with a review on the third morning. Albany eliminates Longhorns

By Charles Keaton
The Hesperian-Beacon

HERMLEIGH – Weather played havoc with the second game of the Albany Lions and Lockney Longhorns Regional Semifinals contest. The two teams started in Abilene at McMurray University then after five and one-half innings, several lightning delays and continued threat of weather, the teams, fans and media packed up to move 68 miles west and north to Hermleigh to finish game two and if necessary, play game three. The Lions overcame all the issues then scored four runs in the bottom of the sixth to seal the victory and take the Regional Semifinals Championship with an 8-2 victory and a 2-0 series sweep.

With two outs in the top of the first, Lockney's Daylen Gatica singled but was left stranded. In the bottom of the inning, Albany scored two runs. Alex Faith led off have both worked hard for the betterment of this community through their professions and private lives. One spent many years as a public servant and the other worked tirelessly to help educate the children of Floydada. Together they have dedicated themselves to what they consider the most important part of their lives; their belief in God and service to their church.

William Dwight (Bill) Hardin was born in MacAdoo, Texas to Pearl and Bryan Hardin in 1927. He was one of six children raised on the family farm. He graduated from MacAdoo High School and shortly after went to serve in the Army of Occupation in Japan. There he learned a skill that his family has been very grateful for. He was a cook for the officer's mess. Many in this community have come to enjoy his labors in this area, especially his family.

After the army, he attended Lippert's Business College in Plainview. He began working for the 110th Judicial District of Texas as District Court Reporter until he retired in 1977 after twenty-five dutiful years of service. Bill farmed after retirement but felt the need to serve Floyd County in 1986 when he was appointed to Floyd County Judge. During his twenty years as County Judge, Bill garnered the respect and admiration of many in the community. He was honored for his service to Floyd County when he was inducted into the Floyd County Hall of Fame in 2015.

The land Bill tended to while farming was homesteaded by Thomas Franklin Montague in the late 1800's. Thomas was the father of Kitty May Montague who married Robert Aaron Garrett.

William's future wife, Roberta May Garrett, was born to May and Robert Garrett in 1932. Roberta graduated from Floydada High School and went to Wayland Baptist College, Hardin Simmons University, and received a Bachelor's of Science Degree from West Texas State University. After teaching for a year in the Lubbock Independent School District, Roberta returned to Floydada to teach Special Education until the birth of Rosemary Hardin. Roberta started back after a few years in the school's migrant program continued to teach there until her retirement in 1994.

During her college years, Roberta was home for a weekend and attending a morning service at First Baptist Church. District Judge Alton B. Chapman was sitting in front of her and turned around to introduce Roberta to the new District Court Reporter, Bill Hardin. They were married on November 28, 1954 at the same church where they met in a double ceremony. Roberta and Bill were married alongside Roberta's sister and brother-in-law, Edith and Norman Muncy. Roberta and Bill are still going strong after 61 years of marriage. Their daughter Rosemary was born in 1959 and she married Jim Finley in 1981. Bill and Roberta have devoted their lives and love to their family and grandchildren, Jesse and his wife, Amy, and Robert.

Bill and Roberta have served First Baptist Church in numerous ways and continue serving to this day. William was the Sunday School Superintendent for several years, served on several committees such as the committee to rebuild the church after it burned in 2000, and he is still serves as a Deacon for the Church. Roberta was a Sunday School teacher and was the Church organist from 1981 to 2004.

Bill and Roberta have strived to make this community and county a better place for the future through their efforts in their professional and personal lives. Coming from hard working families that helped settle this area, they have continued to exemplify these values that made this county a great place to live and raise a family.

2016 PIONEER WOMAN OF THE YEAR - NANCY BISHOP LAWSON

Nancy Bishop Lawson was born October 22, 1929.

Nancy Alice Brown has been a lifelong resident of Floyd County. She was the youngest of four children born to Thomas Sydney Brown (December 24, 1894-April 12, 1982) and Dora Orman Brown (January 30, 1897-December 12, 1894). Nancy's siblings were Sydney Winston Brown (deceased), Geraldine Faye Calloway (deceased), and Florine Teal, now in assisted care living in Lubbock.

Nancy's grandparents, born in Arkansas, were Henry Washington Brown born July 29, 1849 and Nancy Jane Fortenberry born January 7, 1853. The young couple were married in Arkansas August 20, 1874 and soon after began a long journey to Wise County Texas with six children, Virginia, Dennis, Roy, Syd, Nancy Annie and Goldie.

Henry and Nancy Janes ancestors were among our early colonial settlers, migrating westward and finally to Floy County, Texas where they settled in the Cedar Hill community in 1897.

Henry Brown came to Wise County, Texas soon after the Civil War. Nancy Jane Fortenberry Brown's family came to Texas in 1869 from Arkansas.

The Fortenberry's traveled in wagons with all their household belongings and livestock. It took them from December 1, 1869 to February 1, 1879 to make the trip. The mother rode a horse and the father drove the wagon and team. Children walked most of the time. When they came to a steep hillside, the heavier belongings were unloaded to lighten the wagon and when the hill top was attained the belongings were carried up the hill and reloaded into the wagon. They must have been very sturdy and determined people.

Nancy started school at the age of five at Cedar Hill and graduated grade school there. She then rode the school bus to High School in Floydada for four years and graduated at the age 16 in 1946. She was honored to be Carnival Queen in 1944.

The Brown family friends and neighbors at Cedar Hill included the Fortenberry, Taylor, Mizes, Whiteheads, Ginns, Lackeys, Stansells, Welches, Kellys and Cyperts.

She began temporary work at the USDA (now FSA) in 1946 and worked in that capacity for four years.

She was married to Howard Gene Bishop on November 27, 1947. Mike was born January 16, 1951 and Greg was born January 4, 1958. The family lived and

On Friday, Fonty Carthel gave a historical reenactment of the Battle of San Jacinto that gave Texas her independence, as told by the last survivor, Alphonso Steele. Steele's great-granddaughter, Lillian Steele, married Babe Carthel and their descendants still live and work in Floyd County. Fonty Carthel, of Plainview, is the son of Royce Carthel, Grandson of "Cap" Carthel and great-grandson of Babe and Lillian Carthel.

farmed in the Lakeview community.

Howard's parents were Holt Bishop and Lena Thomas Bishop. His grandparents were Harve and Nannie Thomas and Earl and Lillie Bishop. Mike and Greg were fortunate to have all their grandparents and two sets of great-grandparents.

Farming was the way of life. They sold a milk cow to pay for Mike being born. Howard always hated milking cows and told Mike later he was sure glad the cow was gone. Cotton and grain sorghum were the main crops but there was always a huge garden. Along with family and friends many long but pleasant days were spent harvesting and processing and canning vegetables for winter. Pickles were always a favorite and Nannie Thomas and Lena and Nancy always made peach pickles as well. The kid's favorite was peach syrup made from peach peelings. Dora Brown made chow chow which Howard loved.

The family was blessed with wonderful neighbors and their families. Odell and Genelle Breed, Dee and Nita Lou Adams, Q.D. and Joyce Williams, James Lee and Eva Lee Nichols, Louis and Virginia Pyle, and Norman and Edith Muncy. Also the Ham-brights, Harrison's, Alexanders, Neffs, Wrights, and Johnsons.

Lakeview was a busy community with a country store and a cotton gin and a church and school. It's all about dried up now. Almost every quarter section had a house and family. All were good people.

Nancy returned to work at the ASCS office in 1959 and worked twenty-five more years retiring as Chief Clerk. She enjoyed her work and tried to help each farmer. She was honored in March 1990 as an outstanding employee at the Texas State Office in College Station. She was honored several times for her work at the ASCS. Some of those were a 10-Year Service awarded by District Director Buddy Hughes, a 28-Year Special Recognition awarded by Bob Lotspeich, CED. Also she was recognized at the State ASCS office in College Station as a 30-Year Outstanding employee from Jerry Harris, Chairman of the State ASCS Committee. Following her retirement, Nancy served on the ASCS County Committee for several years.

Nancy is a faithful and lifelong member of the First Baptist Church and worked in the church nursery for several years when her boys were young. She also worked many summers during the church Summer Bible School.

Howard Bishop died March 1, 1994 from lung cancer. They enjoyed 41 years of marriage before his death. He was serving as Commissioner of Floyd County, Precinct 2 at that time.

Nancy was a widow for seven years and then married Gene Lawson. Gene was a fine man and both families shared many fine times. Gene served in WWII and fought in Europe. Gene passed away June 9, 2012.

The Bishop family regards Gene's family as family and they are.

Nancy loves to attend church with her granddaughters, Caitlin and Sydney. She attends the Senior Citizens Center and has many friends in Floydada.

She makes the best pecan pie and chicken and dumpings in the world and loves to work in her flower gardens.

2016 PIONEER MAN OF THE YEAR - WILLIAM "DUB" HALLMARK

William Hugh Hallmark or "Dub" was born in Hamlin, Texas on July 6, 1936. He grew up in Hamlin and graduated there in 1955. At that time, the draft for young men was still in place so he put his name at the top of the list and was drafted after graduation and sworn into the army on June 15, 1955. He served in guided missiles for two years. Dub was proud to serve his country and is still thankful for the experience.

He and Peggy were high school sweethearts and were married in 1958. They will celebrate 58 years of marriage in September. They have two sons, two daughters-in-law and five grandchildren. Brent Hallmark lives in Oklahoma City and works for Boeing. Todd Hallmark is the high school principal in Lockney.

After graduating from the University of North Texas in 1962, Dub taught elementary school in Amarillo for one year and then taught and coached for six years in Big Spring.

When the position came open in Lockney to teach and coach, his wife said

During the business meeting at the Old Settlers Reunion, Rance Young spoke about those who have come before us and the contributions they have made to the quality of life that we enjoy. In a speech reminiscent of God's words to Joshua when the Israelites were entering the Promised Land, Young said that our predecessors were "strong and courageous" in upholding the Christian values that make living in this county great and they have passed the baton on for us to carry. Those in attendance took time to honor the 178 Floyd County residents who have passed away since May 2015. New officers for the Floyd County Pioneer Association were elected as well. The new officers for 2016-2017 are Mac Sherman, president; Sherry Smith, vice president; Connie Palarez, treasurer; and Dorothy Turner, secretary.

"Where in the world is Lockney?" Dub and Peggy arrived in Lockney on June 1, 1968 with a one-year-old intact. Thinking this would be a stepping stone to bigger and better things, they intended to stay two or three years. They have now been in Floyd County for 48 years.

After a year of teaching and coaching, the Junior High principal's job was available and Dub served in that capacity for 8 years. In 1977, he became the superintendent of Lockney schools and served in that capacity until he retired in 1993. During that time, several buildings were added to the school as well as improvements made in the library and classrooms. He represented Region 17 as Superintendent of the Year and was the representative for Region 17 to the Commissioner of Education in Austin.

Dub served as president of the Chamber of Commerce in Lockney and served on the Mangold Memorial Hospital District. He is a deacon at the First Baptist Church in Lockney.

After planning to stay three years, Dub and the family decided the people were friendly and supportive, the schools were great and the weather was wonderful, especially in the mornings and evenings.

Floyd County is a good place to live. Dub is proud to call Floyd County and Lockney home and is not going anywhere. He and Peggy each have a plot in the Lockney Cemetery.
