of the 1960s—The Mysteries.

A host of members of the Floydada High School Class of 1968 reunited this past weekend to celebrate 50 years since their high school graduation.

The committee has been working diligently, hoping for a large response, and their work paid off. Twenty-two class members, along with spouses and significant others, registered for the activities, which culminated in a "rockin" live concert by the local Floyd County band

"We used to have dances every Saturday night," explained class member Bobby Gilliland. "It would be in Floydada one week, and then the next week it would be in Lockney. We almost always had live music, and we knew how to have fun."

The Embassy Suites hotel, Lubbock, hosted the weekend activities, but the banquet and concert pushed their occupancy limits. There was standing room only throughout the energetic performance.

Yesway Honors First Responders and Military Members

By Deon Fincher
The Hesperian Beacon

Des Moines, IA— July 2, 2018 – In celebration of the July 4th Independence Day holiday, Yesway, the fast growing and innovative convenience store chain, honored America's first responders and active and retired members of the military with "Free Fountain on the 4th!" Customers who currently serve, or have served, on their local police force, fire department, EMT service, first responder support teams, or any branch of the U.S. military, who visited their local Yesway store on Wednesday, July 4, 2018, received a free any size fountain drink.

Yesway also invites its customers to join it in supporting first responders and active and retired members of the military as it celebrates America's independence on this 4th of July – and throughout the year. As part of its recently launched charitable giving program, Yesway Gives Back, Yesway is donating five cents ($.05) from the sale of every specially-marked bottle of Yesway-branded water, up to $25,000, to Operation Homefront, a national nonprofit organization whose mission is to build strong, stable, and secure military families, so that they can thrive in the communities they have worked so hard to protect.

"We launched our Free Fountain on the 4th celebration to show our appreciation for the honorable men and women who serve us so faithfully each and every day," said Brian Trout, Yesway's Senior Vice President of Operations. "It is very important to us as an organization to recognize the many first responders and members of the military who live and work in the communities we serve and also to express our appreciation to our many loyal customers.

Comanchero Rendezvous Attracts Record Numbers

Deon Fincher/Hesperian Beacon

Henry B. Crawford, in full Comanchero dress, was in attendance at the Comanchero Rendezvous in Quitaque. Crawford, "The Face of Texas Living History," creates authentic costumes in which he depicts characterizations of people in a particular window of time. He is able to create 'a look' relative to multiple time periods, from the American Revolution through WWII.

An arrow point fashioned from a barrel hoop by Cotton Elliot during the Comanchero Rendezvous at the Comanchero Canyons Museum in Quitaque this past weekend. Elliot uses basic tools such as axe heads and handles, crude files, chisels and a hammer to create authentic arrow points, fabricating much like the native Americans would have during the Comanchero Era.

There was a nice southerly breeze blowing around the corner of the building as our group relaxed under the shade of the awning. Four youngsters were sitting on the tarped ground amongst a scattering of rock chips. All eyes were intent on the master's hands. A leather patch protected his palm from the edged rock and the pointed tools he was using.

creating stone arrowheads, knives and scrapers by chipping excess rock off of an edge—a necessary process within the Native American tribes. From experience gained and honed, Keeter creates arrowheads from boulders—one, minute, deliberate chip at a time. An artist who has refined his skill so completely that he can transform a "blank" into an intricately, stunning keepsake within a 20-minute window. This arrowhead wasn't found on a rocky escarpment. This tip was fashioned through the same process used by native Indians centuries ago. He offered the hand-crafted arrowhead to me. With pride, I slip this exquisite piece of historical art into my pocket.

On the other side of the building, the "ping" "ping" "ping" of hammer hitting iron calls to Terry and me. We mosey over and pick out a spot of ground at the feet of the blacksmith. I was awestruck by the simplicity of his tools—the axe wedged into an old tree stump was his anvil, a few ragged files rested on the wood surface, a time-worn chisel, a simple hammer, and a strip of metal.

As metal struck metal, Cotton Elliot explained, "I wanted to use tools that could have been utilized by the Indian craftsmen. I wanted the 'authentic' experience." The tapping of hammer to chisel accompanies his words. "Like this piece of metal. It would have been much like the barrel hoops that would have been readily available to the Indians and Comancheros."

The triangular shape is scored, then separated by another "tap." He holds the arrow-shaped piece up and eyes it critically.

"That looks good. Let's give it an edge," he suggests as he mulls through the few tools at his disposal. The shape's edge gleamed silver from the filing.

Lockney City Council Meeting

By Deon Fincher
The Hesperian Beacon

The Lockney City Council met on June 26 at City Hall. Those councilmembers present were Mayor Michael DeLeon, Dart Carthel, David Cole, Tyler Duniven, Donnie McLaughlin and Aaron Wilson. Also present were City Manager Buster Poling and City Attorney, Lanny Voss.

Poling announced that the software glitch that had been handicapping the reconciliation of the city's past accounting records had been resolved and that the office staff had complete, verifiable financial records through December 2015. Staff members continue to work to reconcile the accounts through September 2017 in order to prepare for an official audit. Lea Stuke-CPA continues to work closely with the City of Lockney toward the completion of this goal.

Terry & King CPAs, P.C., Lubbock, Texas proposed that they perform the auditing compilation requirements for 2013, 2014, 2015 and move to a certified audit for the 2016 and 2017 years. This firm has worked with numerous local communities to resolve issues and provide audited financials.

Poling had vetted the firm and felt confident that they could provide the service to the city. He also stated that having audits in hand by September would open up some opportunities for grant applications.

Motion was made to accept the recommendation to contract with Terry & King CPAs. The vote was unanimous.

Sheriff Paul Raisseze had been asked to give a brief report on streets that he believed needed STOP signs. It was recommended that signs should be placed at the intersection of SW4th & Bryant, SW 5th & Willow. Discussion was made regarding additional intersections, but the cost of the signs needed to be determined. Members requested that Poling get cost information and then work with the Sheriff on a reasonable list of intersections. The goal is to have the new signage complete before the start of the 2018 school year.

It was motioned that Poling could go ahead and order the signs to mitigate the length of the delivery period. The vote was unanimous.

Brant Guthrie, EDC Secretary, gave a report on the activities of the EDC. All legal paperwork and record-keeping requirements are complete. A list of projects will be put together and discussed at the next meeting.

A request from SW Advantage was made to sell door-to-door within the community. It was recommended to deny this request. The vote was unanimous.

The Old Fashioned Saturday organizers had made a request for the city to close Locust Street from 8:00 a.m. Saturday until Mid-night of the same day. All paperwork is completed and is ready to send to TxDot for approval.

Consent Items were approved, and motion was made to accept the records. The vote was unanimous.

About Town...

As I was scanning the files of Hesperian News editions from year's past, I was looking specifically for 4th of July celebrations. Interestingly, I didn't find many from the 100+ years of editions! What

DEON FINCHER

I did find was an article about how "unusually quiet" Floydada was on the Fourth of July in 1928. Look for that complete article in the "This Week..." clips in this edition.

Thank goodness that our neighbors in Lockney have diligently worked, year after year, to plan and put on a July 4th Parade. This year is no different. And, unless the county gets blown away in a tornado, that parade will have been outstanding!

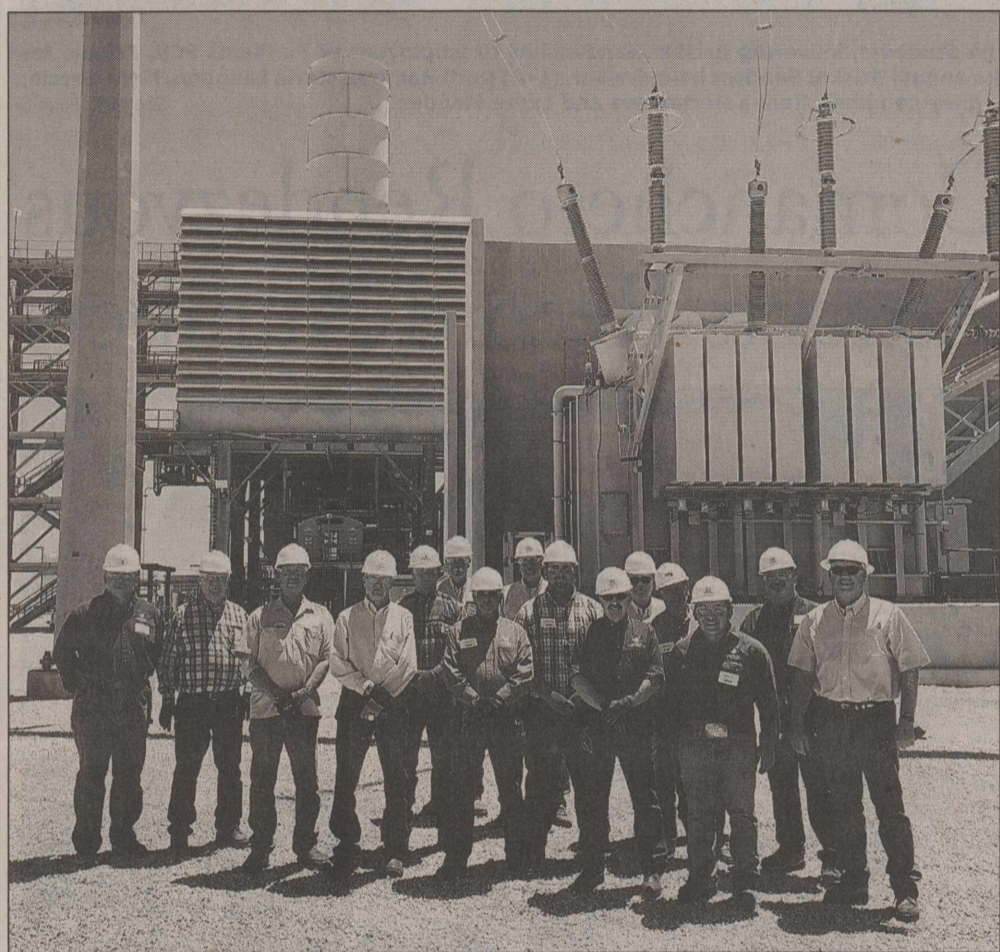

What we do have comes this weekend. St. Mary Magdalen Church's Annual Community Jamaica celebration explodes onto the streets of Floydada, full of games, music, water slides, and, of course, the food! It's our own 'Fair!' Activities begin at 10 a.m. and will culminate in live music until 11:00 p.m. A car show, talent show, a pageant as well as the raffle should bring everyone out to celebrate with and support this church. The raffle tickets are AMAZING! Be sure to bring the cash to buy some of those before they are sold out!!

It seemed as though I was pulled from every direction this week from stories that needed to be covered. I'm confident that I got to the ones I knew about, and one or two that just happened to fall in my path. But still! I'm just a little bit relieved that this edition is in the books!

I have been following the ACE (Afterschool Care Program) Summer school. It has been a delight to see the smiling faces of these kids each week as I took in their Thursday programs--which always included a lot of excitement. The program ended the summer with a water day. Needless to say, it was a hit! (Go to our Facebook page to see some pictures.) It is my plan to gather up all of the photos from the summer school and feature them on the back cover in color. Look for that feature to be printed before the end of the month.

I continue to count my blessing that I am living here in Floydada. The friendships and acquaintances that I have made are priceless. Hopefully, you feel the same.

Lighthouse

Lighthouse Board of Directors and employees toured the Antelope Elk Energy Center in Abernathy last Thursday. The net generating capacity of the Antelope Elk Energy Center is 740 megawatts.

"How about some notches," he paused, weighing the finger-length arrowhead in his hand.

"Tap-tap-tap-tap-tap." Notches were cut into the stem, and then filed a bit.

"It's just that easy, and all with the tools and materials that would have been obtainable." He hands Terry the crude, yet dangerously sharp tip.

We sat down to eat a bite. Both of us enthralled by the craftsmanship that had been demonstrated today. A Comanchero, in full dress, took a seat beside us. On a normal day, we would have been curious; but, not today. Why wouldn't one expect to eat lunch with a historical character at Quitaque's annual Comanchero Rendezvous? It was a day to remember!

Looking around, numerous individuals were contributing their knowledge and experience. If you had a fossil identified, Rick Day was happy to help. Perhaps it was a button, a buckle or just an old scrap of 'something', Dr. Paul Katz was eager to share his evaluation and the related history.

The Caprock Comanchero Museum, located in Quitaque, Texas is full of artifacts gathered on the bluffs and in the canyons just east of Floydada. Our land is rich in history! History of Indians, US Cavalry Regiments, Mexicans, Texans, and the hord of white settlers coming from the East. This museum tells that story--from peaceful native communities to the chaotic skirmishes with the Mexican Army to the onslaught of the U.S. Cavalry and it's multiplying regiments. Hundreds of artifacts are displayed--buttons, .44 caliber wad for reloading, rings, suspender buckles, scrap metal--day to day items that paint a picture of days gone by. Additional displays notating military expedition maps, Indian villages, and natural waypoints hang from the walls. One can't help but notice the art pieces--beautiful scenes full of color and activity, some whispering of a tranquil land, and others depicting the wrath and intensity of war.

Those that have contributed time, artifacts, research and manpower have created a place where the displays speak volumes, transporting viewers back to a time brought to life by the locals that work so diligently to tell the story. Five counties--Briscoe, Crosby, Floyd, Hall, Motley and Swisher. This local land has a vivid story to tell.

The Comanchero Canyons Museum is located at 200 S. 3rd Street, in Quitaque, Texas. It is open on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. <http://comancherocanyonsmuseum.com/>. The museum is a grassroots effort funded by local donations and some grants, including the CH Foundation of Lubbock and the Amarillo Foundation.

The 501: Lawn mowers with horns

Our lawn needed mowing. Now it doesn't. The cows got it. They also fertilized, trimmed trees and rearranged the lawn chairs.

Yep, just when we were planning to turn the whole herd into the far pasture, they decided to break into the yard instead.

HANABA MUNN WELCH

It's not like we caught them in the act, but they dropped clues.

I arrived at the scene well after dark. My headlights shone on out-of-place manure. Some here. Some there. Not good.

I soon found the point of entry -- our most obscure gate. The latch had failed. Even good baling wire breaks if you don't use enough strands. Lesson learned.

It was nearly midnight. The errant bovines were nowhere to be seen. They have a curfew.

I seized the moment and closed the gate securely, threading a hefty chain around the steel pole to replace the wire, "thread" being the operative verb because it had to go through the minimal space between said pole and the piece of old corrugated sheet metal (part of a wall) attached thereto. Task accomplished by flashlight.

It didn't seem like the time for me to call my husband to announce the change in our lawn mowing schedule. So I didn't.

That was last night. Still now cows have appeared. I guess they're somewhere sleeping it off. Not only did they gorge themselves on Bermudagrass but also on a big round bale of hay stored in the side yard. They were fat already.

As for that above-mentioned curfew, I made that up.

Incidentally, if you let cows graze your lawn and you have some obnoxious weeds, you still will. Cows are good at not eating some stuff. Our mare's tails -- or mares' tails -- are all standing tall, daring me to uproot them all. It rained last night. The ground is soft. I'd rather nail down that apostrophe.

MARE'S-MARES' TAIL RESEARCH.

Look up that weed on the Internet, and you end up in the clouds. Mares' tail clouds, by any other name, are cirrus uncinus, meaning "curly hooks." It must be incorrect to call any such cloud a "cirrus" cloud because "cirrus" is a noun -- never an adjective. Somebody tell the weatherman. That's what usually happens when I look something up via Google. I end up in the weeds -- clouds this time. After wading through lots of clouds I finally arrived at a weed called "mare's tail." It's enough to make me think the cloud people got the name first and the weed people had to settle for the one-word spelling, wherein an apostrophe would raise issues. On the other hand, many plants have combo names: bermudagrass, johnsongrass, ryegrass. I should have known to look for "mare's tail." Maybe next time.

By the way, mare's tail seems to be both plural and singular, not that it matters. There's never just one.

Meanwhile, the cows are back, looking at me wistfully through the fence, as if to say they'll eat the mare's tail if I let them back in. I'd sooner trust them to keep curfew.

Longoria and Muniz exchanged marriage vows one year ago

MR. AND MRS. DANIEL EDWARD LONGORIA
(nee Christina Elizabeth Muniz)

One year ago at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, June 3, 2017, Daniel Edward Longoria and Christina Elizabeth Muniz married at the First Baptist Church. Surrounded by family and friends from all over they celebrated their love.

The pews in the sanctuary were decorated with floral bouquets and satin silver ties. The stage was simply decorated with an arch that had white fabric intertwined throughout it and two large floral arrangements that resembled Christina's bouquet.

The ceremony began with Christina and Danny's families being escorted in to Train's "Marry Me". Christina's grandfather, Eddie Muniz, was escorted by his daughter, Carmen Muniz, and son, Eddie Muniz Jr. Danny's grandparents, Servando and Josie Longoria, walked in next followed by Christina's grandparents, Jerry and Julie Finley. Danny's parents, Leonel and Benita Longoria, walked in followed by Christina's mother, Jana Muniz, being escorted by her nephew, Trey Muniz, who was dressed in his Coast Guard service dress blues.

Once all the family members were seated, the bridal party came in to "A Drop in the Ocean" by Ron Pope. Pastor Tim Franks, followed by Danny and the groomsmen, entered the church from the side door. The groom, his best man, Dimitri Villegas, and groomsmen, Thomas Longoria, Marcos and Jesus Rossy, and Bobby Horton, all wore light grey Joseph About suits with Danny-wearing a lilac tie and vest, and the groomsmen wearing matching ties and grey vests.

The bridesmaids followed by walking down the aisle holding bouquets of purple roses, white roses, white hydrangeas, and purple vine flowers. Christina's maid of honor, Allison Muniz, and bridesmaids, Emily (Prisk) Griffith, Carly Carthel, Angela Longoria, and Anika Miles, wore knee length, lilac chiffon dresses each in styles of their own choosing.

With all the bridal party positioned, the music faded off and Penny Giesecke began playing the Bridal March. The back doors of the church opened and the crowd stood. Christina, being escorted by her father, Mike Muniz, dawned a huge smile. Christina held a large bouquet of white and purple hydrangeas, purple and lilac roses, and large white peonies. She wore an Oleg Cassini ivory satin, strapless, sweetheart trumpet gown with silver and ivory corded lace appliques all over, accentuated with hand sown beads that sparkled under the sanctuary lights. The back of the dress had satin buttons falling all the way to the end of the train. She wore a cathedral length veil that had beautiful lace trim.

Former First Baptist Church Pastor, Tim Franks, officiated as laughs, their love story, and vows were shared. They sealed their vows with a kiss, and Tim presented the couple for the first time as Mr. and Mrs. Danny Longoria. They walked back up the aisle absolutely beaming as Penny played the Wedding March.

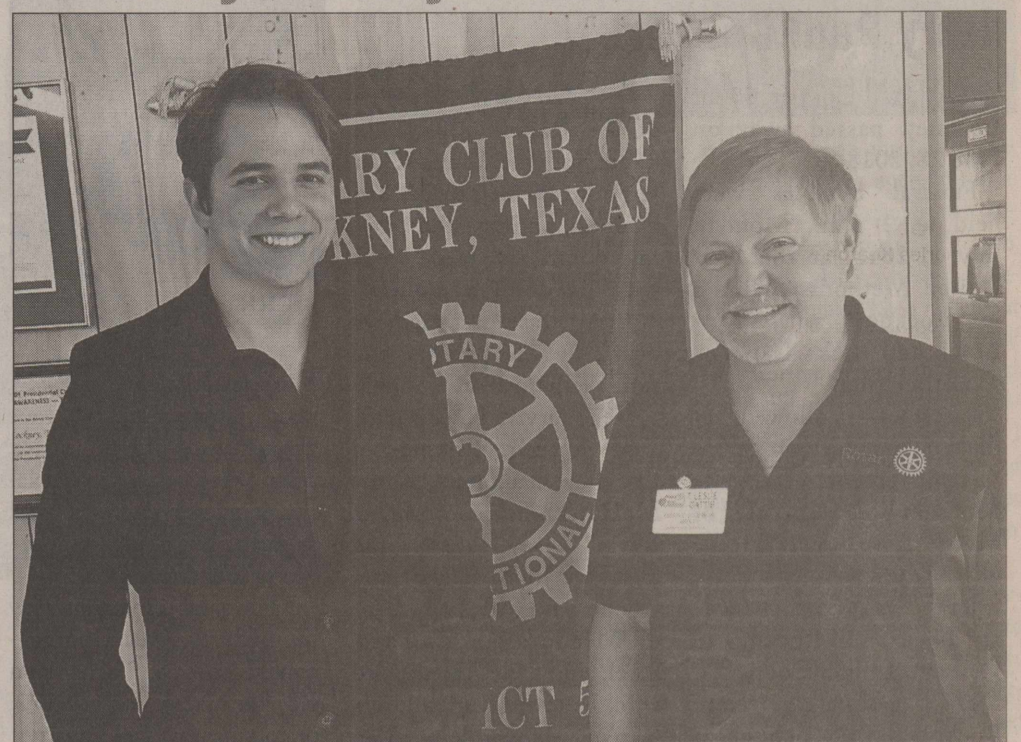

The reception area was beautifully decorated. Christina and Danny's head table stood out from the rest as it sparkled with a purple sequin tablecloth. Behind their table was a white drapery, where a monogram of their initials hung painted in their wedding colors. To the left of their table was the brides table. Christina's cake was a four tiered, almond amaretto flavored cake with white buttercream icing and live purple roses descending down around the cake. The cake topper was an acrylic L that was personally designed by Christina. Also on the brides table were napkins that had Christina and Danny's name and their wedding date printed on them. Their toasting glasses were decorated with Mr. and Mrs. and their serving set was engraved with a delicate lace pattern. To the right of their head table was the grooms table. Danny had a homemade cheesecake made especially for him by Trina Cornelius, and the guests were served assorted cheesecake bites. Half of the guest tables had a large floral centerpiece with floating candles, while the other half of the tables had arrangements of floating candles as centerpieces. There was a light meal of meats, crackers, cheeses, fruits and punch served.

Christina and Danny were announced by Tim Franks as they entered the reception as husband and wife. After they served each other their cakes and made their toasts, they walked through the tables greeting guests and thanking them for coming. They sat down to take a quick bite as Allison started her maid of honor speech. Allison shared how happy she was to see Christina and Danny "finally" get married and shared other sweet stories. The best man, Dimitri, then stood up to give his speech. He shared how he and Danny met, and funny stories from their time in college as roommates that made everyone laugh and even shed a tear.

As the bouquet and garter toss were finished, Christina and Danny thanked a few more guests, and it was time for them to leave. The guests filed out into the parking lot, each with a cone full of paper confetti to toss. As Christina and Danny left the church through the line of guests, they were showered in cheers and confetti.

JOHNS COX

William Johns Cox- son of Elijah Caleb Cox and Fredona Ruth Casey Cox born August 4, 1907 in the Lone Star Community, north of Lockney-attended Roseland School and Methodist Church in Sterley. Vera Elba Sweat Cox-daughter of James Henry (Jim) Sweat and Alabama America McLain Sweat. Born March 7, 1908 in Oklahoma-came to Lockney by covered wagon at age 15 and settled southwest of Lockney; married Jan 2, 1927 at Methodist Parsonage in Lockney. Children-Majorie Louise Cox Martin Holcomb-Lockney; Nova Jean Cox Ivy-Mansfield, Texas; Wanda Mae Cox Marble-Hart, Texas. Grandchildren; Bruce Martin-Charlotte Martin Blaizer both of Stratford, Ricky Ivy and Shiela Ivy Young, both of Arlington; Larry and Marlin Marble, both of Hart. Great-grandchildren, Carl Wayne, Carey and Carla Martin, of Stratford; Lisha Ivy and Jason Young, of Arlington.

Seventy years in the same town, surrounded by relatives and friends, begins the history of the Johns Cox Family. His life began north of Lockney, and then his married life to Vera Sweat was near the same place. The couple has never lived over 20 miles from where they started housekeeping. They have only moved five times in their wedded years and one of those times was just across the drive into a new house.

Early remembrances included the long walks to school, cold winters, dust coming through the walls during the dust bowl days, long hours in the fields and then the first irrigation wells and electricity.

When Johns and Vera began dating, she was working for Maude Stalcup's parents. After a short courtship, they were married at the Methodist parsonage. They have spent many hours together down the rows on the farm located south of Lockney, which they call home. They purchased the farm from W.T. Hayter Estate after Mr. Hayter's death. He had been their landlord on two different farms.

They purchased a farm near Hart, Texas in the 1940s but never could leave Lockney and after several years sold that farm.

Vera recalls arriving in Lockney and going to the post office run by the Baker family, many, many years ago. Progress through the years has been a highlight of her years in this area.

Taking care of parents is a trait of Johns and Vera. After her father's death in 1936, her mother moved into the Cox home and lived until her death in 1956. When Johns step-mother became very sick in California, his dad, E. C. Cox, returned to Texas and made his home with the Coxes and in the Lockney Nursing Home until his death in November, 1977.

Wit and Wisdom

By Charles Keaton
The Hesperian-Beacon

(All quotes are from American actor/comedian George Burns)

Don't stay in bed, unless you can make money in bed.

I look to the future because that's where I'm going to spend the rest of my life.

I was always taught to respect my elders and I've now reached the age when I don't have anybody to respect.

I'd rather be a failure at something I love than a success at something I hate.

If you ask what is the single most important key to longevity, I would have to say it is avoiding worry, stress and tension. And if you didn't ask me, I'd still have to say it.

The secret of a good sermon is to have a good beginning and a good ending, then having the two as close together as possible.

Too bad the only people who know how to run the country are busy driving cabs and cutting hair.

You know you're getting old when you stoop to tie your shoelaces and wonder what else you could do while you're down there.

Retirement at sixty-five is ridiculous. When I was sixty-five I still had pimples.

If you live to be one hundred, you've got it made. Very few people die past that age.

CHURCH DIRECTORY

Standing Firm

Jesus said, "Everyone then who hears these words of mine and acts on them will be like a wise man who built his house on rock." — Matthew 7:24 (NRSV)

Following years of declining health, Daddy's death was not unexpected, but it felt like the earth had shifted under my feet. I felt as if I were no longer standing on firm, level ground.

The funeral took place in the church Daddy attended all of his life, the same church where he and my mother raised four children. When I entered that familiar building, I remembered how — decades before — my father had helped move massive amounts of earth, making the ground solid and level for an expansion of the church. This thought helped me to stand with renewed confidence that the physical ground beneath me was solid.

Then other memories from my childhood filled my mind — scenes of Daddy reading his Bible, praying, listening, asking questions, helping a neighbor in need. So many thoughts reminded me that my father built his life on a foundation of faith. Like the wise builder of the parable who builds his house on solid ground, we can put our trust in God. With such trust we can find comfort and assurance, allowing us to stand with confidence through the challenges of life.

—Marti Williams (Tennessee)

TODAY'S PRAYER

Dear God, strengthen our faith. Help us trust in you and abide in your love even during times of struggle. Amen.

After Senate Approval, Farm Bill Heads to Conference

By Tony St. James
www.ALLAgNews.com

WASHINGTON, DC— One large step closer to delivering on promised certainty, U.S. Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Pat Roberts (KS-R) and Ranking Member Debbie Stabenow (MI-D) applauded the passage of the Agriculture Improvement Act of 2018 on a strong bipartisan 86-11 vote Thursday. “Today marks an important day for farm country. We are one step closer to providing farmers and ranchers a Farm Bill with the certainty and predictability they deserve,” said Chairman Roberts. “I thank my partner in this journey, Ranking Member Stabenow, as well as many of our Senate colleagues who offered leadership and expertise. I am proud we have a strong, budget neutral Farm Bill with broad support.”

The Senate Agriculture Committee favorably reported out the Agriculture Improvement Act of 2018, commonly referred to as the Farm Bill, on June 13, 2018. The bipartisan 5-year legislation encompasses a broad array of agriculture, nutrition, conservation, and forestry policy. Click here to watch the meeting. “The 2018 Senate Farm Bill proves that bipartisanship is a tried and true approach to getting things done,” said Ranking Member Stabenow. “By working across the aisle, we crafted a Farm Bill that strengthens our diverse agricultural economy and all the jobs it supports in Michigan and across the county. I want to thank Chairman Roberts for his leadership and partnership, along with our Senate colleagues who contributed their ideas for improving American agriculture.” The legislation now heads to a Conference Committee with House lawmakers to work out differences between the two bills and will be chaired by Roberts. Leaders from both chambers want to pass a new Farm Bill before the current law (2014 Farm Bill) expires on September 30, 2018.

I just got back from buying seven tomato plants. Yes—I am having to replant at this late stage. I described what was going on with my tomatoes in last week’s article, and although I had some explanations, the knowledge did not mysteriously cure the malady. I’m not a patient person, so when I was visiting a friend and her tomato plants were actually bearing fruit (!!!) I gave up on mine.

One of my loves is growing flowers. Those that live in my neighborhood get rewarded from all of my dad’s growing knowledge. The rains have certainly brought up some new varieties, and my front entrance is looking very “English Garden-y.” I would love for some of you to send me pics of your spectacular blooms.

Terry and I have been all over the county and into surrounding counties this week. We have seen some well-established cotton, some “working on it” cotton, and a few places where the cotton looks to have been rained out completely. All in all, the fields of our primary agricultural product are looking good. These intermittent rains are helping, but I know that a couple of inches of moisture would set those crops up for a good growing season. Keep your fingers crossed.

As to our gardens this week, everything has seemed to burst into life. I picked some yellow squash, and I have half-a-dozen spaghetti squashes that will be harvested soon. Finally, my cucumbers are flourishing—although, I’ve only found one cucumber. There are lots and lots of blooms, so I am still hopeful that we get enough to make some pickles.

Black-eyed peas have come out of their “hailed on” funk and are shooting out produce. My watermelon and cantaloupe vines make me think of Rapunzel every time I go out to the gardens, but I haven’t found any little orbs forming yet. I did find a volunteer pumpkin plant outside of the fence that is sporting a softball size pumpkin! That is exciting! And last but not least, my corn has outgrown me, Terry, our fence and is working on getting as tall as the eaves on the house—yes, we have some ears of corn on those fast-growing stalks.

I would love to hear your gardens’ progress! Reach out to me at deon@blackburnmedia-group.com.

USDA Reports Soybean, Corn Acreage Down

By Tony St. James
www.ALLAgNews.com

WASHINGTON, DC— The U.S. Department of Agriculture’s (USDA) National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) estimates 89.6 million acres of soybeans planted in the United States for 2018, down one percent from last year. Corn area planted is estimated at 89.1 million acres, also down one percent from 2017. The latest expectations from USDA were highlighted in the Monthly Crop Report for June 2018. In addition, farmers planted 13.5 million acres of cotton, seven percent more than last year while wheat plantings increased four percent over year (47.8 million acres). This represents the second lowest all wheat planted area since records began in 1919.

Soybean producers planted 94 percent of the acreage using herbicide-resistant seed varieties, unchanged from 2017. Corn producers planted 92 percent of all corn acres planted in the United States to biotech varieties, unchanged from last year. 94 percent of Upland cotton planted acres are biotech varieties, down two percent from 2017.

NASS also released the quarterly Grain Stocks on Friday providing estimates of on-farm and off-farm stocks as of June 1. Soybeans stored totaled 1.22 million bushels, up 26 percent from June 1, 2017. On-farm soybean stocks were up 13 percent from a year ago, while off-farm stocks were up 33 percent. Corn stocks totaled 5.31 billion bushels, up one percent from the same time last year. On-farm corn stocks were down three percent from a year ago, but off-farm stocks were up seven percent. All wheat stored totaled 1.1 billion bushels, down seven percent from a year ago. On-farm all wheat stocks were down 32 percent from last year, while off-farm stocks were down two percent.

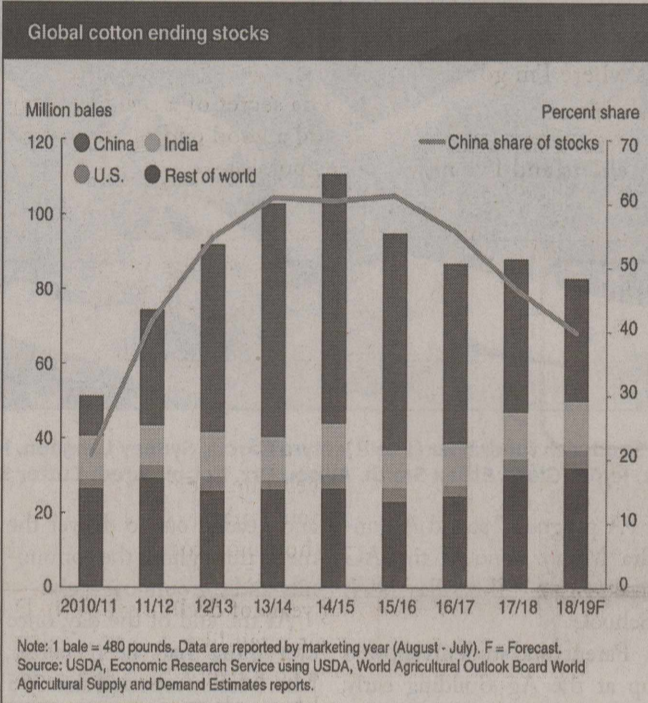

Chinese Share of Global Cotton Stocks Continues Decline

By Tony St. James
www.ALLAgNews.com

WASHINGTON, DC— The latest USDA cotton projections for 2018/19 indicate that global cotton stocks will decrease, following last season’s relatively small increase. Worldwide, USDA projects ending stocks at 83.0 million bales for the 2018/19 marketing year, nearly six percent below last season and the lowest since 2011/12. Global cotton stocks totaled a record 110.8 million bales at the end of 2014/15. China held 60 percent of the total, reflecting Government policies at the time that led to unusually large stocks in its national reserve. Subsequently, China implemented policies to reduce its surplus stocks and thereby lowered world stocks.

For 2018/19, stocks in China are projected to decline further to 33.1 million bales, or 40 percent of the global total, while stocks outside China are expected to rise only slightly in 2018/19. In the U.S., stocks have risen progressively and are on track to be their highest in a decade at 4.7 million bales.

outside China are expected to rise only slightly in 2018/19. In the U.S., stocks have risen progressively and are on track to be their highest in a decade at 4.7 million bales.

Record Sales for FFA Brisket Sandwiches

By Deon Fincher
Hesperian Beacon

On Monday, July 25, the Floydada FFA students were canvassing the community taking orders for their Brisket Sandwich Fundraiser. The sandwich meals would be delivered on Friday.

"We are just extremely blessed to always have our community's support for our FFA program," stated Alejandra Munoz, one of the AG teachers at Floydada High School.

Parents and students showed up at the Ag Building early, Friday morning, to make the sandwiches, divide the pickles and onions, bag everything up, then hand it off to the record-keepers. From there, the FFA students loaded their full ice-chests in their trucks and headed out to deliver the meals throughout the community and surrounding areas.

At the end of the day, once everything had been tallied, Mrs. Munoz reported that 385 sandwiches had been sold. The sales were more than any past year.

"We are so thankful to everyone who bought a pulled pork sandwich or donated money. This will allow us to send a large group of students to the State Convention in Ft. Worth." The twelve students will leave July 9 and come back on July 13.

INTRODUCING...

The Hesperian-Beacon sent a simple questionnaire to our teachers, aides, coaches and administrators who all work so diligently during the school year. Their answers give us a little bit of an insight into who they are outside the classroom. A big "THANKS!" to all who participated this week. -- Deon Fincher

Mrs. Penny Giesecke

District Librarian, A.B. Duncan Elementary School

How many years have you been teaching in FISD? I just completed my 35th year of employment with FISD. What is your favorite cafeteria food? Our cafeteria staff prepares an amazing Thanksgiving lunch every year. Your favorite afternoon "pick-me-up" snack? Anything savory – nuts, popcorn

As a student, who was your favorite teacher and why? Polly Cardinal, my high school English teacher was someone who demanded each student's very best and did so in a manner that encouraged us to always strive for improvement and ultimately, success. She looked for the best in each student and invested 100% in her students as people, inspiring us to higher personal expectations and standards. Mrs. Cardinal's very demeanor and character inspired me as a teacher. Name one "thing" on your bucket-list that you still have to do: I love to travel and would love to spend time further exploring our own beautiful country.

Where is your "happy place"? Anywhere my family happens to be.

Away from the classroom, what is/are your hobby/hobbies? Music and piano are my passion.

What is your favorite teaching "prop"? Books, old or new, I can introduce to, or share with all the students

If you could study one more topic, what would that be? I would continue my music education.

What country would you like to visit? The many beautiful coasts of Italy

Mrs. Teysha Cornelius

How many years have you been teaching in FISD? 3 years-going on 4!

What is your favorite cafeteria food? Mmmm, the spaghetti!

Your favorite afternoon "pick-me-up" snack? Honey Mustard Pretzels

As a student, who was your favorite teacher and why? My 1st grade teacher, Mrs. Ellis, in Brownfield, Texas. She showed she cared about each of my classmates and myself...

EVERYDAY! She also made learning fun! I wanted to go to school everyday in 1st grade.

Name one "thing" on your bucket-list that you still have to do: Go to Fiji!

Where is your "happy place"? At home with my husband and daughter!

Away from the classroom, what is/are your hobby/hobbies? Baking

What is your favorite teaching "prop"? ?

If you could study one more topic, what would that be? I am not sure??

What country would you like to visit? Hmm, Bahamas!

Mrs. Regina Orr

2nd Grade at AB Duncan Elementary

How many years have you been teaching in FISD?

I have worked within FISD intermittently for 11 years.

What is your favorite cafeteria food? Fettuccini Alfredo is delicious!

Your favorite afternoon "pick-me-up" snack? I like Sweet & Salty snack mix for an afternoon snack.

As a student, who was your favorite teacher and why? My 2nd grade teacher, Mrs. Lindsay had very high expectations and inspired me to give my best effort in my schoolwork.

Name one "thing" on your bucket-list that you still have to do: Tour several places in Europe.

Where is your "happy place"? With my family spending time together.

Away from the classroom, what is/are your hobby/hobbies? I enjoy reading & watching a good movie.

If you could study one more topic, what would that be? I would like to be fluent in a second language.

What country would you like to visit? I would love to visit Israel.

Floydada Is Unusually Quiet Over July Fourth

An occasional burst of a giant fire cracker or the 'spurt' of a chaser were the only outbursts that disturbed the unusually quiet "Fourth of July" in Floydada yesterday. Every business house in town, with the exception of a few garages and filling stations was closed to observe the Declaration of Independence holiday.

Floydada, in a sense, moved out of town. A large group of pleasure seekers from the city spent the day at Silver Falls Lake, near Crosbyton where the management was holding an all-day rodeo, barbecue and celebration. Several hundred people were spending the Fourth at the "Playground of West Texas."

Picnics and celebrations in both Plainview and Amarillo drew many from this city yesterday, alone. Many of the Floydada Country Club members spent the day at the Club grounds and others just "took the day off."

Wednesday evening crowds in Floydada attended a carnival attraction in this city, and the two picture shows, which had special attractions for the fourth.

Mesothelioma

may occur 30 to 60 years after exposure to asbestos. Many workers were exposed from the 1940s through the 1970s. Industrial and construction workers, along with their families (second hand exposure) are among those at risk for mesothelioma, lung cancer or gastro cancer (throat, stomach, colon). Even if you or your loved one settled an asbestosis case in the past, this may be a new claim, so call now.

Little League Season Ends with Awards

By Deon Fincher
The Hesperian-Beacon

Congratulations to each and every player!!

The Floydada Little League season has come to an end, after nine weeks of games, two-, three-, sometimes four days a week...as well as practice. High-Five to all of the coaches, parents and kids that showed up everyday to guide, support and participate in this valuable activity.

At the end of the season, all teams combine to make All-Star Teams. Those All-Star games took place June 16th, with the Championship Games being played on June 23rd.

Our thanks go to all of those individuals that serve on this board and make this activity available to our community. The Executive Board Members are President-Lance McHam, V.P.-Kaidria Weekes, Sec.-Mary Jane Cisneros, Treas.-Lindsey Pyle.
