Army To Display Latest Artillery On Armed Forces Day

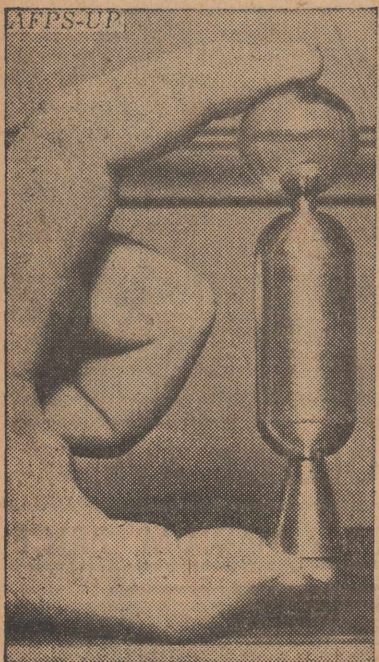

Four pieces of field artillery, each of a different caliber and normally used for a different purpose, will represent Fort Sill and the Army on Armed Forces Day Saturday.

The most widely known artillery piece from Fort Sill, to be towed, the 105 Millimeter howitzer, which requires a crew of eight. It is used in close support of the infantry and is characterized by a high rate of fire and high maneuverability.

The identical 105 mm howitzer is mounted on a tank chassis in order to perform the same mission for the armored division.

Also coming from Fort Sill are the 155 mm howitzer, 8-inch howitzer, and 155 mm gun. The 155 mm is the "Sunday Punch" of the division, having a larger range and firing a larger projectile than the 105. Special arrangements have been made to move the 8-inch gun to Reese AFB. Width of each carriage is eight and a half feet.

Fort Sill is to send 11 pieces of equipment along with 13 officers and 34 enlisted men. The personnel, qualified on the weapons, will welcome questions from the Armed Forces Day visitors.

SATELLITE MODEL — Pictured above is a 1/25th actual size model of America's first space satellite. Project officials estimate the satellite will stay aloft two weeks. The sphere (Pop) is the satellite and is attached to the thirdstage rocket which will give it a final push, then drop away.

Service Power Grows; Planes, Ships Added

NEW YORK (AFPS)—In the 12 months since last Armed Forces Day, the services have gone ahead developing new weapons and modifying long-standing battle concepts to keep this country prepared for the long pull of either a hot or cold war.

This was the year the Navy introduced the USS Forrestal, a new type of aircraft carrier—the world's largest. This high-speed mobile airbase could carry 100 planes a distance of up to 1,000 miles in 4 hours. Five more in this class were on the way.

The Navy allocated funds for construction of the first nuclear-powered surface ship—a missile firing cruiser. The service also announced plans for six more atom-powered submarines to join the Nautilus, already on duty.

Meanwhile, the Air Force was rapidly replacing the B-36 with the B-52 heavy bomber, which Chief of Staff Gen. Nathan F. Twining called the best bomber in the world.

The Army, convinced that, in the final analysis, it is the man who takes the ground who holds the key to winning a war, was adding increased mobility to its fighting power.

The service was working out new techniques, tactics and organization of its units for the rapid dispersal and concentration of forces. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chief of staff, looked forward to a time when entire divisions could be transported by air around the world at relatively low cost.

The Marine Corps further developed its new techniques of "vertical assault," using planes and helicopters to establish a beachhead. The Corps adopted a new antitank weapon, "The Thing," which was equipped with six 106-mm recoilless rifles.

Guided missiles continued to get top attention from the services.

The Air Force announced it was developing two types of intercontinental ballistic missiles—Atlas and Titan—and one of medium range—Thor.

The service continued to make progress in development of strategic, tactical and air defense missiles.

Matador squadrons operate with the U.S. Air Forces in Europe. Supersonic interceptor planes are being armed with air-to-air guided missiles like the Falcon.

Already developed and deployed were the Army's surface-to-surface Corporal and Honest John rockets. Nike, first operational surface-to-surface guided missile, was on site protecting vital defense areas in U.S. The Army's new intermediate range guided missile, Redstone, was undergoing extensive tests at Redstone Arsenal, Ala.

Commander's Greeting

Reese Air Force Base stands today as a symbol of the might of the United States in preserving world peace. Its primary mission is to train pilots to serve the needs of American citizens wherever they are and to defend against any would-be aggressor.

The United States Air Force is but one of several branches of the armed forces which are constantly serving for world peace. At Reese AFB today are assembled equipment and information of the Navy, the Army, the Marines, various Reserve organizations, the ROTC and AFROTC, and the Texas National Guard, as well as the Air Force.

On display for your information and enjoyment are powerful weapons for the peace of the world, attended and explained by well-trained personnel. This equipment belongs to you, as citizen and taxpayer. See it—and learn what it will do.

On this Armed Forces Day every unit of the Department of Defense, and every individual in it, is hopeful that the United States citizens will learn and take pride in what has been accomplished and will be accomplished. As a representative of these units, I welcome you to Reese Air Force Base. I hope that you will enjoy and profit from your visit with us.

DROSS ELLIS
Colonel, USAF
Commander
Reese Air Force Base

Thousands To See Nation's Defenses

Reese Air Force Base is ready to welcome thousands of South Plains residents for the seventh annual observance of Armed Forces Day being held at the base.

Representatives of all branches of the service have joined in setting up displays on the base for residents to view from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Eleven flights of aircraft are scheduled to fly over the base and surrounding area during the open house. Flyovers will be by F-86 and T-33 jets, B-29 bomber and the B-25's. Sunday the 10 engine B-36s and B-47s and KC-97 tankers from Walker AFB, Roswell, N.M., will fly over the base and other areas.

Armed Forces day films and free movies for the kids will be held in the base Theater. All displays will be centered in the large new hangar and surrounding area.

On display on the parking ramp will be 15 types of aircraft for public inspection. Included are the B-25, the T-34, T-28 and T-6 single engine trainers, T-33 jet trainer, B-29 superfortress, KC-97 refueling tanker, T-29 flying classroom, C-119 flying boxcar, and the F-80 and F-84F jet aircraft. The Navy will have the AD, and S-2F aircraft while the army will have the H-23 and H-21 helicopters on display.

Participating units have been working together for many weeks, preparing an outstanding celebration. Murrell Tripp is Lubbock chairman and Maj. Ross D. White is project officer for the base.

Texas and Lubbock police officers will cooperate in traffic movements to and from the base, while the air policemen on the base will attempt to keep traffic moving. Large parking areas have been set up, and adequate rest rooms have been designated for public use. Facilities to locate lost children have been arranged.

'Power for peace' again is the 1956 Armed Forces Day Theme. The many displays at Reese AFB will give an indication of how the United States is preparing to preserve the peace. The array of aircraft also should demonstrate what is meant by the Air Force slogan, "A Decade of Security Through Global Airpower."

MARS Radio Service Available For Public

Free transmission of radiograms to any part of the world will be made from the big hangar at Reese Air Force Base during the Armed Forces Day open house at the base.

The Military Affiliate Radio system, commonly called MARS, will have two airmen on duty, Staff Sergeants Harold Allison and Charles Stahl, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Saturday at the MARS exhibit at the northeast corner of the hangar, it was announced. Radiograms will be accepted from any visitor and sent anywhere without cost.

The MARS sending and receiving units will be in constant touch with other units of Flying Training Air Force and with civilian amateurs during the day. Visitors also will hear how the units operate explained by trained technicians.

Air Force Youth Education Fund

Air Force wives can do a real service for their country and for the Air Force by telling deserving Air Force teenagers about the General Henry H. Arnold Educational Fund.

Named for the late General Henry H. Arnold, the two-million dollar fund helps children of Air Force members get college or vocational training above the high school level. The Air Force Aid Society administers the fund by giving scholarships—in the form of partial loans or grants—to Air Force dependents who can't pay for higher education themselves. No interest is charged on loans.

To be eligible for an Educational Fund scholarship, an Air Force dependent must be unable to pay for the training himself. If possible, he must also provide part of the money for his schooling, either by getting a part-time job or in some other way.

To be eligible for first-year college training with Arnold Educational Fund aid, an Air Force dependent child must be in the upper half of his high school senior class and must pass the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

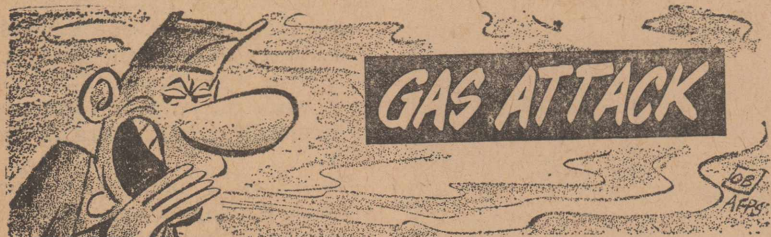

Applicants may select the educational institution they wish to attend. They must be accepted by the college or university before their applications will be approved.

Requests for applications for an Arnold Educational Fund scholarship should be sent to Director of the Air Force Aid Society, Washington 25, D. C. More details on the Fund are available at Air Force Aid Society chapters throughout the country and from Educational Services officers at Air Force installations.

Applicants who want to request loans or grants for the coming entire school year should get their applications into Washington by July 15, 1956. Applications received after that date, but before December 1, will be judged only for the second semester.

As Air Force wives are well aware, our Country needs more people in the vital defense fields that require higher education. But many promising young men and women can't afford to go on to college.

So—if you know Air Force dependents that fall into this category—tell them about the Henry H. Arnold Educational Fund. You'd be doing them, the Air Force and your country a big favor.

Gossiping—also known as gassing, throwing the bull and by several less dignified names—is one of Sturdley's favorite ways to waste time.

Following the trend toward specialization, our boy has picked a particular field in which to concentrate. Personnel matters are his specialty, and to hear him talk he's got the "scoop" direct from the Pentagon.

His little tidbits of information don't agree with the official story, he confides to his buddies, because (1) this stuff is so hot it hasn't come down through channels yet, or (2) the "Old Man" is holding out to keep us from fouling up his plans.

Of course, there is another reason why Sturdley's tips are never confirmed. They just aren't true.

The purpose of passing out all this misinformation is to make Sturdley a "big shot" with his gullible friends. When someone in authority hears of our favorite blowhard's activities, the result is apt to be a swift change in Sturdley's personal status.—(AFPS)

To Married Men Only

If you're a married man, nobody needs to tell you that a wife doesn't like to be left out of anything that vitally concerns her husband. Yet, that's what's happening to lots of Air Force wives.

"I feel so far removed from base activities," you'll hear a wife say. "In fact, I seldom hear what's going on out there."

And when you ask how often she sees the ROUNDUP, the complaint is, "Practically never!"

Sad truth is, you husbands just don't think to take the paper home. Maybe you didn't know that you'd be doing yourself a favor—as well as your wife—if you'd make her a regular reader of ROUNDUP. A well-informed Air Force wife—informed about the Air Force, that is—often is a happier wife. She can follow progress of "fringe benefit" legislation pending in Congress, news of changing policies on promotions, transfers, concurrent travel, etc.

In addition, she keeps up-to-date on happenings at the base—the social calendar at base clubs, dependent schedules at base swimming pools, availability of more base housing, etc. She can keep in touch with what goes on and take an active part in your organization.

And while she's glancing over the paper, she probably picks up a lot of general information about the Air Force. She learns more about the Air Force mission, the base mission, and other vital facts that can make her a valuable spokesman for our Nation's air arm.

So today, and every Friday, do yourself, your wife, and the United States Air Force a favor.

Take ROUNDUP home!

The ROUNDUP is the unofficial newspaper of Reese Air Force Base, published every Friday by Dennis Bros. Printers, 1820 19th St., Lubbock, Texas, in the interest of personnel at Reese Air Force Base. The ROUNDUP receives AFPS material. AFPS material appearing herein will not be reprinted without written permission of Armed Forces Press Service, 641 Washington Street, New York 14, New York. ## Armed Forces Day Prayer

Almighty God, on this Armed Forces Day, we give Thee thanks for all those who by their sacrifices and devotion to duty have made our heritage of freedom secure. Grant that we may prove worthy of our birthright and that in the days to come our land may be a power for peace in accordance with Thy will. Thou dost hold us to account for the use of all our powers and our privileges, thus keep us ever mindful of the responsibilities our citizenship requires.

Protect and assist all those who at home and abroad, on land and sea, and in the air are serving our country. Shield them from danger; keep them strong and steadfast; give them courage and faith. Uphold their hands that they, with all those who stand ready in reserve, may faithfully perform their duties and at all times remain true to the precepts of their Code of Conduct.

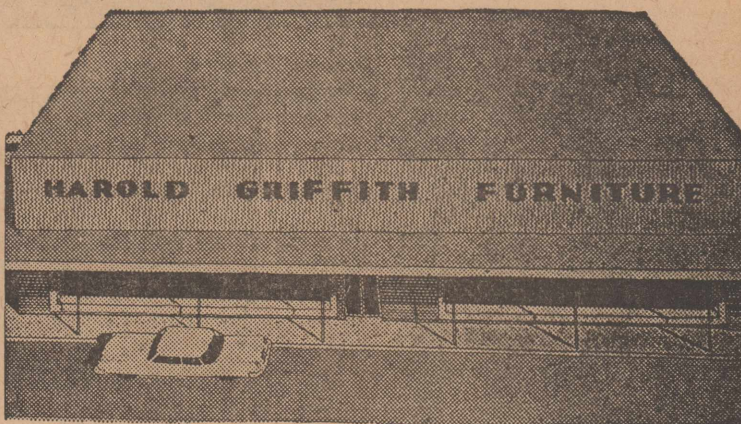

Finally, we pray that we may remain Thy good servants, more completely surrendered in our devotion to Thee and to our country, and that Thy peace may return to this world to Thy honor and glory.

—The Armed Forces Chaplain Board.

Services Trim Weight In Programmed Move

WASHINGTON (AFPS) — The numerical strength of the armed forces continued to decline during the past year as the services got down to fighting strength by removing some excess poundage.

Three of the services, the Army, Air Force and Marine Corps—were programmed for a manpower drop during the year while the Navy was given a slight increase in strength.

A year ago the U.S. had 2,968,810 men under arms. By June 30, 1956, the end of the current fiscal year, there will be 2,814,074 men and women on active duty.

Present Defense Department planning calls for the strength of the services to climb upwards once again during the coming fiscal year. By June 30, 1957, it is anticipated that there will be 2,839,458 personnel in uniform, unless there is a critical change in the world situation.

Here is the way the services will look by next June 30:

ARMY — Authorized 1,034,300 men with 19 divisions (three in the Far East and five in Europe), 10 regimental combat teams, 137 AAA battalions and six army training centers. By June 30, 1957, it is planned to have an army strength of 1,034,500.

NAVY—Authorized 662,774 men with 994 ships (403 war-ships) and 12,548 aircraft. Plans call for the Navy to have 663,223 men in uniform by the end of the 1957 fiscal year.

AIR FORCE — Authorized 916,000 men. 131 wings and 26,429 active aircraft. Nearly 90 per cent of all planes, except transports, are jet equipped. By June 30, 1957, the AF is expected to have 936,000 men, 137 wings and 26,736 aircraft.

MARINE CORPS — Authorized 201,000 men with three divisions

(one in the Pacific area) and three air wings (one in Japan). By the end of fiscal 1957, the DOD proposes to increase marine strength to 205,735 men.

COAST GUARD—Under jurisdiction of the Secretary of the Treasury, this service has a force of 28,500 men and 342 vessels (33 cutters).

WELCOMES MALE NURSE — Col. Dross Ellis, base commander, welcomes 2nd Lt. Francis Zankle, first male nurse to be assigned to Reese AFB. (Photo by Houchin)

"On this seventh Armed Forces Day we mark another year of peace. We in the United States Air Force rededicate ourselves to the preservation of freedom and to continued peace. Our Air Force is a powerful deterrent to aggression. We will never commit aggression ourselves, yet we must stand ever ready to defeat it wherever it threatens free people. We salute our sister Services. The Air Force is proud of its position on the integrated defense team, for only in this manner can we best protect our heritage of freedom." — N. F. Twining, General, Chief of Staff, U. S. Air Force

Safety Is Stressed To AF Day Visitors

Visitors to Reese AFB have been urged by Capt. Bernie C. Mullins, ground safety officer, to "Watch your step Saturday".

The captain pointed out that thousands of people annually visit the base on Armed Forces Day and in looking over the aircraft and other exhibits meet some unusual situations.

"There is a tendency among our thousands of visitors to get just a little excited when they see the weapons for peace which are demonstrated," Captain Mullins commented, "Then, too, there generally are crowds around each aircraft and other pieces of equipment. This adds to the hazard. We are hopeful there will be no injuries this year, for each injury takes away from the pleasure; and we want everyone to have the best time ever."

He pointed out that smoking in the aircraft area and slips on the ramps leading to aircraft were the larger accident potential areas. The captain said that danger of explosions or fires were present where persons smoked near aircraft.

"We are hopeful this year will be as good if not better than last Armed Forces Day," Captain Mullins said.

The ground safety office staff is charged with carrying out such campaigns and other actions as are necessary to prevent accidents, both first aid cases and disabling incidents. The staff has been quite successful during the five and a half years since the base was reactivated. During 1955 Reese won top honors among Flying Training Air Force bases and was second during the last fiscal year among the 43 Air Training Command bases.

Ground Safety workers seek to eliminate unsafe areas on the base, to set up preventions where possible, and to keep all personnel thinking and acting cautiously in order to eliminate accidents. Special precautions are emphasized during holidays periods and on special celebration days.

The Reese track enthusiasts will have a chance to show their might Saturday and this coming week in meets with area Air Force Bases.

Saturday the Reese team journeys to Webb AFB for a return meet with Webb and Goodfellow AFB. Next Wednesday through Saturday the team will be entered in the Southwest Conference track meet at Sheppard AFB, Wichita Falls.

In their first meet with Webb and Goodfellow the local team came in second behind Webb AFB.

Expected to be with the Reese Track team Saturday are; 2nd Lt. Henry Eykelhoff, coach; 2nd Lt. Bud T. Hall, and 2nd Lt. Bob LaRue, Pilot Training squadron; S/Sgt. Walter Elliott, PTG; S/Sgt. Jack Moore, Food Service; A/1C Robert Bethea, 3502nd Maint.; A/1C Joseph Mackey, Hospital; A/1C Allen Perryman, Motor Vehicle; A/1C Carl Meguess, PTG; A/2C Norman Brinkley, Support; and A/3C Richard Bradford, Food Service.

The Base softball team will meet Sheppard AFB in a return double header Tuesday afternoon and evening. The first game will start at 2 p.m. and the second at 6:30 p.m. In their previous meeting the two teams split a double header.

Safety officials at the base have issued a word to the wise in taking that first good sunning. Take it easy the first day out. A sunburn can be painful and very dangerous.

As the dummy softball league nears the halfway point it is very hard to determine which team has the best combined strength from one game to the next. What we do know is that there is a big demand for pitchers. Less than a third of the games played have turned into a low scoring pitching duel, while several of the teams have had good batting and base running practice with something like 36 runs scored by both teams during one contest.

Reese Golfers Score 20 - 7 Victory Over Webb AFB

Victors by a wide margin in their first meeting of the year, the Reese Air Force Base golf team today looked forward to a return match with the Goodfellow AFB team of San Angelo. The Reese team scored a 20 to 7 win over Goodfellow on the Hillcrest Country club course this past Thursday.

Col. R. C. Crawford, Goodfellow AFB commander, headed the visiting team as No. 1 man. He teamed with M/Sgt. A. J. Billo, No. 2 in meeting 2nd Lt. Sandy Sadler and Captain Alex Nagy of Reese, but ended up on the short end of the 9-0 score.

Second Lt. Thomas S. Turner, former West Point letterman, and 1st Lt. James J. Blessing of Reese scored a 7-2 win over 2nd Lt. R. W. Hoyt and M/Sgt. R. W. Gafford of Goodfellow, and Maj. Sam L. Osver and 1st Lt. Jay Picking of Reese were topped by Capt. E. L. Eubanks and M/Sgt. J. J. Conover of the visitors.

In the scoring one point went for eight nine holes, one for each 18, and three points for each team match. Lieutenant Sadler shot a low 78 and Captain Nagy trailed him by one stroke.

The teams will meet at Goodfellow AFB on May 31 in a return match.

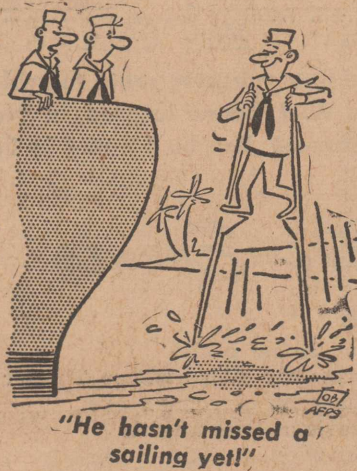

Swimming pool Number 1 (base gym pool) will open Saturday, a week earlier than anticipated, it was announced Wednesday by Personnel Services. Maintenance of the pool and surrounding area was completed earlier than expected.

The pool will open its doors each day at 10 a.m. Sunday, Monday, Wednesday and Friday the Pool will be open to airman and their dependents and to cadets, officers and their dependents Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Safety will be closely watched by three qualified life guards on duty at the pool. The three are, A/1C Robert Kidd, A/1C Herbert Hardin and A/3C Pat Doyle.

The life guards will be responsible for maintenance of the pool and surrounding areas, and perform daily work needed for the upkeep of the pool.

To insure sanitation the base surgeon is making daily inspections of the swimming pool and lifeguards making six chlorine residual tests per day and two pH determinations. The sanitation and industrial hygiene engineer is making at least one chlorine test and one pH test daily in addition to bacteriological samples weekly.

Scores for the weeks play are

3501st Maint. 14, Installations 3
3505th Hq. M&S 14, Air Police 8

ECI Course Library Established At Base

Establishment of an Extension Course Institute library in the base education office was announced this week by J. F. Reeves, educational specialist. He said the ECI library consists of one volume from every course offered by the institute. Reese personnel were urged by Reeves to inspect volumes before selecting a course of study.

ECI recently activated its ninth course in the armament career field, an A-Series Gun-Bomb-Rocket sight mechanic, No. 3223, a two-volume course of about 78 hours. The course covers operation and trouble-shooting techniques on the particular sight.

ECI offers a variety of courses in technical fields, such as personnel, photography, weather, installations, and military law. Details on all courses may be obtained at the base education office in the library building.

Twin Airmen Apart After Almost 3 Years in Service

The Hewitt twins of Reese AFB, whose home is at Levelland, have been sent to different military assignments for the first time in their service careers, which started July, 1953.

Doyle R. Hewitt is being assigned to Saudi Arabia and Dale T. will go to French Morocco. Both left Reese AFB Tuesday, taking a leave before reporting for overseas shipment.

Both entered the Air Force July 8, 1953 and were assigned to Shepard AFB to aircraft mechanics school after completing basic training. The twins came to Reese AFB in March, 1954, assigned to the 3505th Maintenance Squadron.

They are the sons of Mrs. Ella Hewitt, Route 2, Levelland.

FOUR TIME WINNER — The Reese AFB Library publicity scrapbook has been selected as the best in FTAF for the fourth year. A check for $100 is presented to Mrs. Helen Fuller librarian by Col. D. Ross Ellis, base commander for some beneficial use by the library, as Col. Clayton A. Scott, Air Base group commander looks on. (Photo by Houchin)

Up-To-Date Form Aids USAF Officer Reports

Air Force Form 625, the officer assignment and preference record, is being used exclusively by Headquarters USAF in making overseas assignments and should be constantly up-to-date, Maj. Richard W. Davis, military personnel officer, said this week.

The major said that effective October 1 all officer personnel who have been in the zone of interior for seven or more consecutive years will be reported to headquarters USAF for re-assignment in accordance with Air Force Manual 35-11, and all assignments will be based on Form 625.

He pointed out that the intent of the program is to allow each officer to express his desires and to assist USAF in planning.

"The lack of a current form in headquarters, USAF, or non-receipt of an advance copy of Form 625 by a gaining commander can serve to the detriment of the individual officer and the organization," the major commented. He added that the forms may be revised by the officers whenever information is incomplete or not up-to-date.

"Each year on the third Saturday in May, the Armed Forces of the United States, including the Reserve components and auxiliary Services, make a special effort to increase public understanding of our national defense program which is, and has been from the beginning of our Republic, dedicated to achieving and maintaining peace.

"In the present world situation, it is most important that our own people, and others throughout the world who believe as we do, should be cognizant of all aspects of our national strength—the spiritual and the moral, as well as the material and the military—and be reminded of our continuing efforts for peace.

"The purpose of Armed Forces Day is to increase public understanding of, and to emphasize, our peaceful aspirations. I hope that all Americans, as well as many of our friends in other lands, will accept the invitation to visit our Armed Forces at this time."

Honorary Jaycee Named At Base

Honorary Jaycee for May as announced this week by the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce, is Capt. Richard C. Roswurm, military training coordinator with the 3500th Pilot Training squadron.

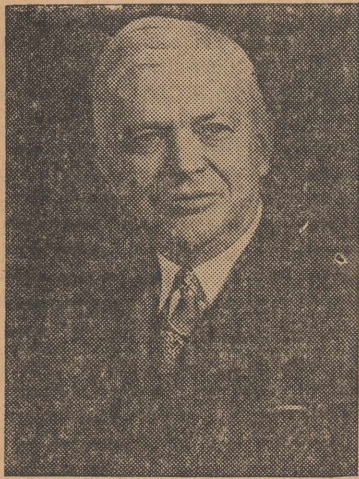

The captain was selected for the award for his loyalty to the service and civic activities. During his tour of service the captain has been a member of the PTA, serving on various committees.

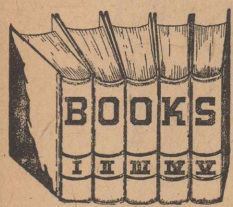

Capt. Roswurm

Captain Roswurm was nominated for the honor by Maj. Tobias Schindler, his commanding officer.

The captain, his wife, and two children live in Reese Village.

"The seventh annual observance of Armed Forces Day is a major effort to increase public understanding of our defense system and of every individual's part in this Power for Peace. On behalf of the Active and Reserve forces of the United States, I cordially invite and strongly urge all Americans and friends in other lands to visit our Armed Forces on this occasion and lend support to community programs which contribute to the accomplishment of the Armed Forces Day mission." — Charles E. Wilson, Secretary of Defense

At The Base Library

By Mrs. Helen Fuller

Millions of Americans will begin planning vacations—both week end trips and extended tours—during the next few months.

Anyone planning a trip is interested in what there is to see; the best way to see it, how to get there; accommodations and cost.

Reese personnel interested in travel in the U.S. by family car, bus, or train will be interested in the following:

DUNCAN HINES VACATION GUIDE

This timely booklet lists the annual events of interest in the various states as well as pertinent information about the various sections of the U.S.

LODGING FOR THE NIGHT by Duncan Hines, lists good places to spend the night. This is a directory of hotels, modern courts, guest houses, and also vacation resorts. It not only lists the type of accommodations, but the price range for the various accommodations.

ADVENTURES IN GOOD EATING

This timely booklet lists the good eating places along the highways and in the cities of America. Prices are given for the various meals for which the eating places are well known.

These booklets are at reserve desk at Base Library. You'll enjoy using them as you plan that vacation.

Student Officers Receive Tour Of Food Service Sq. Sections

Student officers in training at Reese AFB visited the consolidated mess kitchen and dining room today to learn what is going on. If they missed today, they visited yesterday, or the day before. For nearly everyday some of the students get some training in the mess hall.

It is all part of the Officer Development program in progress to make sure that student officers are kept alert to their officer duties other than flying.

It wasn't just a fleeting glimpse of Food Service the officers received; it was an honest-to-goodness training period. There were lectures on operation of the dining hall, a lecture on how the big stoves function, a walk through the butcher shop where there was a lecture on how best to cut meat for best utility and flavor, and a lecture in the pastry shop on what the military person likes best, and how to fix it.

M/Sgt. James O. Green conducted the tours this week, talking on the mission of Food Service and its effect on morale.

"If any of the food is not flavored to suit the troops, or something else happens, such as food getting cold before it is served, then we hear about it," the sergeant said. "We in food service think that nothing is more important than good food. Just remember that; someday you may be a food service officer and if you don't work toward serving the best food you can, then you'll hear about it quick."

The sergeant also outlines requirements of field ration issues, how to obtain the best supplies, problems of operating a dining hall, sanitation and preparation of foods, and other subjects.

Tours, in the main, are during the period of preparing the noon

"Each individual must contribute to raising the prestige of Air Force personnel." —USAF Vice Chief of Staff, General Thomas D. White meal, a busy period. The visiting student officers asked questions. Most of them said they learned a lot they had not thought about before. They were required to submit written and oral reports on the visit. Most of the student officers were ready.

Cadet To Receive Pilots Wings; Traffic Accident Causes Year Delay

Aviation Cadet Ronald Lawson of Oroville, Cal., feels confident that after 31 months he'll become a commissioned United States Air Force pilot after all. He was within two days of his pilot wings and a commission in February, 1955, when an automobile accident eliminated him.

"I expect to make a career of the Air Force and to be a jet bomber pilot some day; I don't want anything to stop me," Lawson said at Reese Air Force Base, where he was recently assigned.

Cadet Lawson entered the training program as a cadet at Bartow Air Base, Fla., in October, 1953. He continued his training until February, 1955. When he was scheduled to be graduated with Class 55-H on February 7. But on the night of February 5 he received serious injuries in a highway accident. His class was graduated without him and for two months he lay in the Goodfellow AFB hospital at San Angelo, the base from which he was to be graduated. He spent another month with his back in a cast. Then he was told his flying days were over for the time being. Last June he was dropped from training for physical reasons and in September he was separated from the service.

On April 23 he presented himself for re-enlistment. Physical examinations showed his back was fit for further piloting. He came immediately to Reese AFB and is undergoing refresher training, which includes 30 flying hours under direction of 1st Lt. Leon Hooten, instructor pilot.

"It's been a long time, but on June 13 I expect to get those wings and be an Air Force pilot," Cadet Lawson said. "That's what I've fought for."
