Senate Approves Higher Pay

Base Veterinarian Promoted To Captain

Dr. Frederick M. Holmes, Reese veterinarian since October, 1956, received word this week he has been promoted to captain. Lt. Col. O. A. Mays, wing surgeon, pinned on his new bars Tuesday, shortly after notice of the elevation reached the base. The promotion was effective April 23.

Captain Holmes, in service since August, 1956, is from New Woodstock, N. Y. He is a 1949 graduate of Cazenovia Central is a 1955 graduate of Cornell University. He had a veterinarian practice a year and a half in Glens Falls, N.Y., prior to going on active duty.

The new captain is married to the former Shirley Harris of New Woodstock. They have two daughters, Terry, 5, and Debra, 2.

RE-UPS DECLINE

Base re-enlistments declined sharply for April, going from 55.5 per cent for March to 29.4, records show. Of the 17 enlisted men separated, 17 were eligible to re-up, but 5 extended. Of the 17, there were 12 early-outs, some of whom plan to re-enlist at other bases.

A pay boost for the military apparently moved a long step forward Tuesday when the Senate, 87-0, approved a $577 million pay raise bill designed to attract and hold atomic-age fighting men.

The bill was passed after less than three months of debate on Capitol Hill and without controversy. The bill was returned to the House, which earlier passed a $683 million raise. A conference committee to reach a compromise probably will be necessary.

Almost everyone in uniform with more than two years service is scheduled to get an increase of at least six per cent on present pay as a cost-of-living boost. Proficiency pay is also involved, ranging from $50 to $150 a month to a limited number of people.

The increases will be effective the month after the President signs the legislation.

Federal Employees Will Attend Rally

A majority of Reese civilian employees and their families, as well as key staff members on the base, are expected to attend the rally of federal employees next Thursday in Mackenzie State Park.

Federal workers of the county are joining in celebration of the 75th anniversary of the federal civil service next week and Lubbock leaders are cooperating.

The Thursday night gathering is sponsored by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce. The principal speaker will be Rocco Siciliano, President Eisenhower's special assistant for personnel management. Chairs for 1,000 persons will be before the speaker's rostrum, with Lubbock city officials on hand.

Attending families may bring their own lunches or may buy a fried chicken dinner for $1.50 per plate. Sponsors said they hoped a large crowd will hear Siciliano. Federal workers in several fields are cooperating.

More Than 150 Airmen Here Expect To Change

Upwards of 150 Reese enlisted men will begin retraining into new career fields under a revised program announced by ATC, base personnel officers estimated this week. Considerable interest is being shown in the program, it was said.

The new program opens the door for retraining into needed skills for a great number of airmen who were previously not eligible to apply, it was said. It sets up prerequisites for retraining in formal basic or lateral training courses.

Eligibles must meet prerequisites for the selected technical training courses as outlined in the USAF Training Prospectus and must have adequate aptitude index scores.

Airmen in the rank of A/2C or higher must be in their second or subsequent enlistments, or, if with two years of active duty, may be discharged and re-enlist for retraining.

Airmen second class, A/1C, and staff sergeants with less than eight years service must have sufficient military service remaining immediately prior to departure from the home station for retraining to insure a minimum of 18 months retainability subsequent to completion of the course. Staff sergeants with eight or more years of active duty and master and technical sergeants must have sufficient active military service remaining immediately prior to departure from the home station for retraining to insure a minimum of two months retainability subsequent to completion of the course. Extension of enlistment or re-enlistment to meet retainability requirements is authorized.

Careers Listed

Applicants for retraining must possess one of the following resource skills as a control AFSC. Also eligible, if otherwise qualified, are NCOs who possess a 3 level or 5 level CAFSC leading to one of the following resource skills:

Eastern Priest Opens Mission Here On May 11

The annual Catholic Mission at Reese will open Sunday, May 11, with the Rev. Henry Kane, C.S.S.R., conducting. Father Kane is a member of the Redemptorist Fathers, stationed at St. Mary's Rectory, Buffalo, N.Y.

The mission will open with 9 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. masses on May 11. In addition, there will be an evening service at 7:30 p.m. The week's schedule calls for masses at 7 a.m. and 5:05 p.m. daily, and night services at 7:30 p.m. The Mission will close Friday, May 16.

Father Kane, native of Boston, received primary education in that city and then entered Boston Latin School. His study for the priesthood included work at St. Mary's Preparatory College, North East, Pa., a year of ascetical study and training at St. Clement's College, Baltimore, and six years of philosophy and theology at Mt. Alphonsus Seminary, Esopus, N.Y.

After his ordination, Father Kane was assigned to the Redemptorist Fathers foreign mission group in Brazil. He worked in Campo Grande and Aquisauana, State of Matto Grosso, both in the interior. His last assignment in Brazil was in the State of Parana.

Injury To Civilians Hits Reese Record

Six first aid injuries to civilian employees of the base cut heavily into the ground safety record of Reese last week, M/Sgt. Milton Sexton, ground safety technician, reported. An NCO and three airmen also suffered first aid injuries and an airman was also disabled in a fight.

The disabling injury was recorded as resulting from a fist fight between the airman and a civilian in Levelland. The airman's knuckle became infected following the altercation.

The NCO was injured while driving. His hand slipped from the steering wheel and hit the door.

Widespread Bond Purchase Allotment Expected On Base

The annual U. S. Savings Bond campaign officially got underway at Reese today as project officers for various units perfected final plans at a meeting in the wing conference room. The drive got into motion at once and will be continued through May, 1st Lt. Bobby Hayes, chairman, said. "Officials at all levels are wholeheartedly behind the 1958 campaign, and we are all hopeful that regular bond buying will become a part of many more lives of Reese personnel," he commented.

Plans call for every person assigned to the base to have an opportunity to make a payroll allotment for bond buying as a major portion of sound saving programs.

"No pressure will be placed on any military or civilian person, but the many advantages of regular bond buying will be stressed," Lieutenant Hayes commented.

The payroll allotment plan is the key to the bond program.

More than a quarter million Air Force members are saving about $7,500,000 monthly through payroll deductions, the USAF reports. The number of persons authorizing payroll deductions is growing annually.

"Last year Reese was among the leaders in bond purchasing as the result of our drive," Lieutenant Hayes said.

"We noted this result with pride. It always creates a good feeling to know that we, as individuals, are on the winning team. We all hope Reese will complete this current drive near the top among Air Force units."

Confidence By Living

By Chaplain William D. Franks

A tornado can be a vicious thing. It can strike fear into a community as it rushes in with the sound and the fury of a thousand locomotives. It's a thing over which man, at present, has no control.

I heard of a young lady recently who expressed the attitude that she had no time to be afraid of tornadoes. She had so much to do and to think about in the course of running a home and caring for her children that the fear of tornadoes could not find room to exist in her life. On the other hand, I have seen persons who became highly nervous and extremely afraid at the smallest cloud and the slightest wind.

Here are two approaches to something which is beyond our control and yet affect our lives drastically.

How many more of these things we could mention — an unavoidable mechanical failure in an aircraft in which we are flying — disease — and accidents of various kinds that could kill or mutilate us.

William Ernest Hocking, one of the greatest living philosophers wrote, "Only as I can alienate life, can I fully enjoy it." This doesn't mean that we should throw caution to the winds and invite disaster through carelessness, but it does mean that when we face that which we cannot control or manipulate, and that which we cannot understand, there is no need for worry or undue fear. Such worry and fear can control us completely. The religious person is able to commit such things to God in whose realm the answers lie and thus is able to live in a spirit of confidence and trust.

He can rise above the physical threats of accidents, tornadoes, earthquakes, aggression by an enemy or what have you, and say in the same spirit as a man whose tragedy we have recorded in the Old Testament, "Regardless of what should come my way, whether it be misfortune or even death, yet will I trust in Thee!"

Airman, Summoned To French Service, Wins Citizenship

AIRMAN DELOBEL

Citizen Roger Delobel, dental technician and airman second class at Reese, doesn't care any more exactly what his native France does about that old draft notice.

Last Thursday Delobel took his oath as a citizen of the United States, an action he had been awaiting for many, many months. He tried to hurry up his citizenship a couple of years ago, but was told he must wait until he had been in the United States five years. That five years was finished last December and the April naturalization ceremonies were the first since that time which he could attend.

Citizenship was paramount in the airman's mind when he came to this country. He's been working toward it ever since he landed.

In September, 1956, it looked like there might be complications in his life. The French government wrote to him to report as soon as possible for induction in the army. Airman Delobel wrote back that he was in a four-year enlistment in the USAF which had about three years to go. He said he couldn't report to serve France until he had finished his current enlistment. He also suggested that since he was in the Air Force that France withdraw its request that he become a French Army inductee.

Delobel has not received further correspondence on the subject, although almost two years have elapsed. Until citizenship day, he was fearful of a letter most any day. Now he doesn't care; he says France is without any jurisdiction, whatsoever.

Also in the naturalization class was Fritz Jakobsmeier, former BX jeweler, and his family.

IPPON SEOINOI — That's the Japanese name for the Judo shoulder throw technique WO Thomas R. Turner of Weather is practicing on Leonard Pickett of the Air Police. S/Sgt. Lynn Clement of the Reese security section gives instruction. Clement, "brown belt" holder and Judo instructor, has been tutoring Turner and Pickett, white belt holders, for several months.

Sergeant Clement Old-Timer In Judo; Active As Tutor, Competitor 19 Years

By A/2C George Burkharis-Meier

Rendori, meaning free movement, was a therapeutic cure for S/Sgt. Lynn Clement's back injury. Rendori is the Japanese term for Judo and the sergeant began instruction from his father, then a "brown belt" and also a Judo instructor. Clement was eight years old then and has been active in Judo for 19 years.

World War II interrupted his training due to return to Japan of his instructor of that time. Clement returned to active match competition in 1946 and phased into wrestling the following year.

"On returning to Judo, I found that wrestling, strangely enough, helped me in Judo. Much of the action in a Judo match is on the mats — that's where the wrestling helped," the sergeant said.

Judo-men are classified on a proficiency basis by colored belts. A white belt signifies the first stage and progression is through brown and black belts; with some variation for sub-classes.

Sergeant Clement has been a "brown belt" holder since 1953, when he won a match on a perfect throw. Matches in this country are now under AAU sponsorship and competitors are selected on a proficiency basis. But rules are according to the Kodokan, or Japanese "University of Judo." Matches may be won — (a) by, most desirably, a clean throw or perfect technique; (b) by gathering points; (c) submission of opponent; and (d) by "emobilization" of opponent or complete control of opponent on the mat for a period of 30 seconds. Deliberate fouls lead to disqualification.

"Known to the Japanese as the gentle art, Judo is a sport and, contrary to popular opinion, is not 'dirty,'" Clement pointed out. "It is a refined form of wrestling and technically is applied to self defense."

The art is based on the three principles of balance, position, and timing, plus the laws of leverage and momentum.

Clement has taken Judo training and received certification through the Kodokan. As instructors, he's had Motoyama and Komura, the latter being the ranking black belt holder in the United States, and the Kodokan representative for this country.

In addition to giving instruction in the Reese Air Police program, Sergeant Clement was a Judo instructor in the Air Police schools at Tyndall (1950) and Parks AFB's (1953).

"I hope for a future assignment to Japan — I want to train in Kurati, a disabling specialization," he said.

'02nd Reese Intramural Bowling Champs; Flight 5 Tops Officers As Season Closes

New Reese intramural bowling champion is the '02nd Maintenance who polished off the '05th Maintenance in Wednesday night's championship roll-off.

The '02nd cinched the first place trophy by posting a 2516 series while the '05th rolled a 2358. High individual marks of the evening were set by Bill Chappell, '02nd, who had a high series of 574 and Ritch Tafoya, also of '02nd, with a series of 561.

Each of the teams was winner of half a season's play, '02nd winning the first half and '05th the last half, requiring a roll-off to determine base championship.

Trophies were awarded after the roll-off.

Ken Baker of PTW took the trophy for the season's high game, 254, and high series, 596, both scores being all time high marks at Reese.

Flight 5, which held the lead from the second week of the season, concluded the Officer Bowling League competition as champions this week, although the finish was a bit weak.

The flight had 66 wins and 24 losses at the season's end, Wednesday night, but lost two of three games for the night to the M&S Oilers. Flight 5 went into the league leadership the second week and stayed there, sharing the top spot with the Wing Wizards for one week on two different occasions, records show.

The Wizards dropped two of three games to the Flight 7 Highs Wednesday night, finishing the season in second spot with a 63-27 record. The M&S Greasers were third with 60½ wins and 27½ losses. A postponed three game series for the Greasers is yet to be tabulated and there is a possibility of position change.

Little League Try-Outs Set For Tomorrow

New candidates for Reese Little League baseball teams will have try-outs at 9 a.m. on the diamond in the rear of the elementary school the next two Saturday's. All boys between 8 and 12 years old are eligible to compete, provided they are not now assigned to a team.

To avoid confusion, boys presently assigned are asked not to attend the try-outs.

Following the two workouts, managers of the four teams of the league will arrange for assignment of candidates to teams. Boys who played last year and are still eligible will continue with the teams.

Penthalon Bids Open To All Personnel

The Air Force, in cooperation with the U. S. Army, is screening each command for possible candidates for the U. S. Modern Penthalon Training Squad, said Lt. Charles Gauntlett, personnel services officer, this week.

Reese-ites should contact the base gym (Ext. 612 or 283) for screening at base level and entry.

Candidates will be sent to Fort Sam Houston to train and compete for a berth on the squad. Final selectees will remain indefinitely — possibly two or three years for concentrated training in the five events of riding, fencing, shooting, swimming and running.

Ex-Reese Officer Returns As Student

First Lt. Theodore E. Dahlfors, former personnel officer at Reese, is back on the base — this time as a student member of Class 59-C. He came in from Moore Air Base, where he was a flight leader.

The lieutenant brought with him a Commendation Medal, recently awarded for "meritorious service" as director of the Reese Volunteer Band during 1955 and early 1956.

"Lieutenant Dahlfors devoted many long and tedious hours in organizing and training the Reese Air Force Base Volunteer Band," the citation read. "Although faced with many adversities, including lack of musical instruments, shortage of time and a large proportion of partially trained personnel, the Volunteer Band was able to perform in base parades and retreat ceremonies after only a brief two-weeks' practice period."

Reese Singers Win In Conference Meet

Two Reese-men, S/Sgt. William T. Glennon and A/2C Walter Jackson, both of M&S Group, placed in the Southwest Conference of the Air Force Talent Contest held at Sheppard April 23.

Sergeant Glennon brought home a second place male vocalist trophy in western music and Jackson took third place in the male vocalist popular music category. Glennon is eligible for entry in the Air Force Wide Talent Contest but will not participate because of illness in his family.

Leathercraft classes will begin at the service club at 7 p.m. Tuesday and will be preceded by a movie Monday evening titled "The Art of Leather Carving," said Mrs. Daphne Hargett, club director. A second movie, "The Mission of The USAF" will also be shown as part of the regular Monday movie-night program.

Mr. Noble Anderson, widely known Lubbock dance teacher starts teaching square dancing Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. Girls from downtown Lubbock will be on hand as dancing partners for single men and couples are invited, it was announced.

"We're in the process of forming a choral group and welcome everyone interested to attend our choral group meeting at 8 p.m. on Wednesday," Mrs. Hargett added, "We hope to have a good group and have community sings in the future."
