Looking Back: Lockney withdraws offer to lodge stranded German seamen

Community opposition forced the City of Lockney to withdraw its offer to provide wartime housing for 450 German seamen who were stranded in the United States during the early stages of World War II.

Lockney offered safe haven in 1940, but then withdraw it after a large number of residents voiced their opposition at a public meeting the following week.

According to an article in the Sept. 8, 1940, edition of the Sunday Herald, Lockney Mayor T.Z. Reed said he and the Lockney City Council had made several overtures to Capt. Wilhelm Daehne and U.S. immigration officials with their offer.

Daehne was captain of the German passenger liner Columbus, which was scuttled off the U.S. coast.

Reed said the council made the offer after learning that the German seamen, who were rescued after their ship went down, were being lodged on a small island off the coast of California.

According to that Herald story, the Columbus was underway about 250 miles inside the neutrality zone off the New York coast on Dec. 19, 1939, when a British destroyer was sighted.

Due to a state of war between Germany and Great Britain, Capt. Daehne ordered his ship to be scuttled rather than risk it being captured by the British warship. Following the sinking of the 32,000-ton German vessel, its 579 crewmen and officers were rescued by the U.S. cruiser Tuscaloosa and taken to Ellis Island.

Reed said a three-acre tract in Lockney, complete with a city hall building, was planned for an internment camp for the stranded seaman, should the German captain, U.S. immigration officials and city officials agree. The land and improvements likely would be rented, and barracks built to house the 450 seamen.

On Sept. 9, 1940, U.S. Immigration Service Inspector N.D. Collear and Capt. Daehne came to Lockney.

city council and several Lockney citizens, Collear and Daehne discussed the possibility of the federal government constructing two complete CCC units near the Floyd County community as well as leasing the Municipal Auditorium, swimming pool and park for recreational facilities.

Collear told the Lockney officials that the Columbus was a trans-Atlantic luxury liner that traveled from New York through the Caribbean, and that most of the crew were men of families who had been working with the

Floyd County has more Quarterbacks play in Blondes vs Brunettes Fundraisers for Alzheimer's Research

By Nick Long

June 21 was another busy schedule of Blondes vs Brunettes flag football games to help fight Alzheimer's with games in Amarillo and Lubbock. In both contests Floyd County had a quarterback playing. In Amarillo, the Brunettes were led by Becky Warren of Canyon (Floydada HS graduate) to a convincing 37-18 victory. While in Lubbock, Becky Fortenberry was a quarterback on offense and a cornerback on defense for the Blondes in a narrow 20-19 loss.

Both games were played in significant sports venues in their respective cities. Amarillo was indoors at the Civic Center on a 50-yard field which is the home turf of the Amarillo Venom arena football team. Lubbock's was played in the larger Jones AT&T Stadium where the Texas Red Raiders play on a full 100-yard field.

This was the third year that Warren has led the Brunettes to a victory. The previous two were played at Amarillo Caprock HS on a 100-yard field.

"It was definitely faster on the smaller field and cooler in the air conditioned facility. Plus no wind," Warren said.

The Amarillo game was tied 18-18 at

Roy Gray Baxter

Roy Gray Baxter, age 89, of Floydada passed went home to his Lord on Saturday, June 28, 2014.

Roy was born in the Campbell Community on June 18, 1925 to Walter and Etta Mae (Gray) Baxter.

He graduated from Floydada High School where he played football. Lots of friends thought he was good enough that he should go play football in college. But Roy stayed in Floyd County and became a farmer, one of his true passions.

Roy is survived by his wife, Neva Harrison Baxter of Shepherd's Meadow Assisted Living Center. They married in September 1956 - a 57-3/4 year marriage. Wow...young people take note. You need God as a third partner in your marriage to make it last this long!

Roy had four brothers and one sister, all of whom have preceded him in death.

Roy and Neva started mission work in the late 1980's. Roy gave up farming so he and Neva could travel and work with the Texas Baptist Camp Builders. They worked in this ministry for about 20 years. They also did other volunteer work in Texas and some other states when not busy with the Camp Builders.

Roy enjoyed his construction work with the Camp Builders. And after his health began to fail, he still used his tools around the house and barns. He liked having a hammer or a screwdriver in his hand.

Several churches in Amarillo have benefitted from Roy and Neva's love for their Lord and especially for their love of serving their Lord.

Roy, surely, was greeted by Jesus with "Well done thou good and faithful servant."

Memorial services were held at 10:00 a.m., Monday, June 30, 2014 at the First Baptist Church Chapel in Floydada. Pastor Tim Franks officiated.

Author, speaker Beth Moore to visit Lubbock

LUBBOCK - Beth Moore, Houston-based Christian author and speaker, is bringing her Living Proof Live conference to Lubbock as part of a 10-city tour during 2014.

Lubbock's event, planned for July 11-12 at the United Supermarkets Arena, is the fifth stop of the year for Moore, who has written more than 20 Bible studies and books focusing on applying biblical principles to life. She is a favorite of women's ministries around the world, with church groups gathering for her studies since she began writing in the late 1990s. From her first Bible study on the ministry of Paul (To Live is Christ) to the newest released May 1 (Children of the Day: 1&2 Thesalonians), millions have sat under her teaching through taped segments and accompanying study guides.

"Beth's Bible teaching has changed the way women study scripture. She brings the Bible to life in such a down-to-earth way; you don't have to be a bible scholar to understand her studies," said Jennifer Burke, who is serving as city coordinator for the Lubbock event. "She takes the stories from thousands of years ago and applies them to today's life."

Ever the storyteller, Moore is known to pepper her teaching with stories and poems written from the perspective of pertinent characters. Besides her active writing career, she also hosts a radio ministry, and she appears weekly on TV's "Life Today with James and Betty Robison." Moore hosts a weekly interdenominational Bible study for women at Houston's First Baptist Church, her home church for more than 25 years before she joined her daughter and son-in-law at Bayou City Fellowship Church in Houston, where he is lead pastor.

Living Proof Live includes worship through music led by Travis Cottrell, a Dove Award-winning artist who also serves as worship pastor at Englewood Baptist Church in Jackson, Tenn. Moore is the only speaker, sharing a word from God that varies by event location. The Lubbock event begins at 7 p.m. on Friday, July 11 (doors open at 5:30 p.m.) and ends at 9:30 p.m., resuming Saturday morning at 8:30 and concluding at 12:15 p.m. A bookstore with resources will be available on site as well.

"Living Proof Live is an opportunity for women of all ages to come together and experience Beth's teachings live and in person. There is a word for each person who attends; you do not leave one of these events unchanged," Burke added.

Tickets for Living Proof Live are $69 per person, all general admission. They are available for purchase through www.lifeway.com/events or the Lifeway Christian Store in Lubbock. Specially arranged hotel rates are available on the Lubbock LPL page as well.

In conjunction with Living Proof Live, Lifeway is also bringing its YOU Lead training event for women to Lubbock. That two-day event will begin the afternoon of Thursday, July 10, and wraps up early afternoon on Friday.

YOU Lead is a leadership training event designed to help women effectively reach and disciple other women for Christ. The focus is life-changing discipleship that leads women into a life that reflects Christ through their thoughts, words and actions.

The training is designed for women seeking to lead women in the church or women's ministry teams seeking leading-edge training in spiritual growth, discipleship, evangelism, missions, and prayer.

Speakers include Chris Adams, senior women's ministry specialist at Lifeway Christian Resources, and Mary Margaret Collingsworth, women's project coordinator at Lifeway, with worship led by Kaye Hurta.

The training includes plenary sessions as well as breakout sessions on topics from engaging younger women in ministry to ministering to women in crisis.

Tickets for YOU Lead, to be held at Southcrest Baptist Church in Lubbock, are $89.

For more information or to register, visit www.lifeway.com/youlead.

Bundle tickets for both events are available at the same website with some discounting.

The Paperboy The birthday we all remember

On July 4, 1776, the Continental Congress approved the Declaration of Independence.

That changed the course of 13 British colonies, setting them squarely on the path to freedom as a sovereign nation.

Our forefathers, the signers of the Declaration of Independence, thought long and hard before making this stance, knowing full well that their action would likely lead to bloodshed. It did, and for the United States of America, it was worth it.

Is America perfect? Not hardly. Was the idea behind America perfect? I'd say it was pretty close.

Some 238 years later we continue to celebrate this great land of ours. And while we may not agree on the issues, I hope we can all agree that it is indeed a privilege to be a citizen of this country.

So Friday we celebrate. We fly Old Glory proudly, we shoot fireworks, have parades and millions across the country enjoy cookouts.

The following are some facts you might enjoy regarding July 4:

- The estimated population in July, 1776 was 2.5 million. Today: 318.4 million.
- There were 56 signers to the Declaration of Independence. • Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, Roger Sherman and Robert R. Livingston comprised the Committee of Five who drafted the Declaration. Jefferson, regarded as the strongest and most eloquent writer, wrote most of the document.
- The value of fireworks imported from China in 2013 was $213.8 million.
- U.S. exports of fireworks was $10.2 million in 2013, with Israel purchasing more than any other country ($2.7 million).
- The dollar value of trade in 2013 between the United States and the United Kingdom was $100 billion, making the British, our adversary in 1776, our seventh-leading trading partner today.

Here in this region, we have been given the green light to shoot fireworks this year. That's what abundant rain will do. Something else we need to be thankful for.

Above all else this July 4, we need to reflect on those who came before us and defended the freedoms we enjoy today. We should also tip our collective hat to those whose ingenuity built this country into the greatest economic force the world has ever known.

While it's true that no republic has ever stood the test of time. It is my hope that the United States of America can be the first.

Happy birthday America!

Texas A&M Forest Service urges citizens to use caution during July 4th holiday

COLLEGE STATION, Texas - There are many ways to celebrate July 4th, and while sitting by the campfire, grilling a favorite dish, or using fireworks are common activities - they could spark a wildfire.

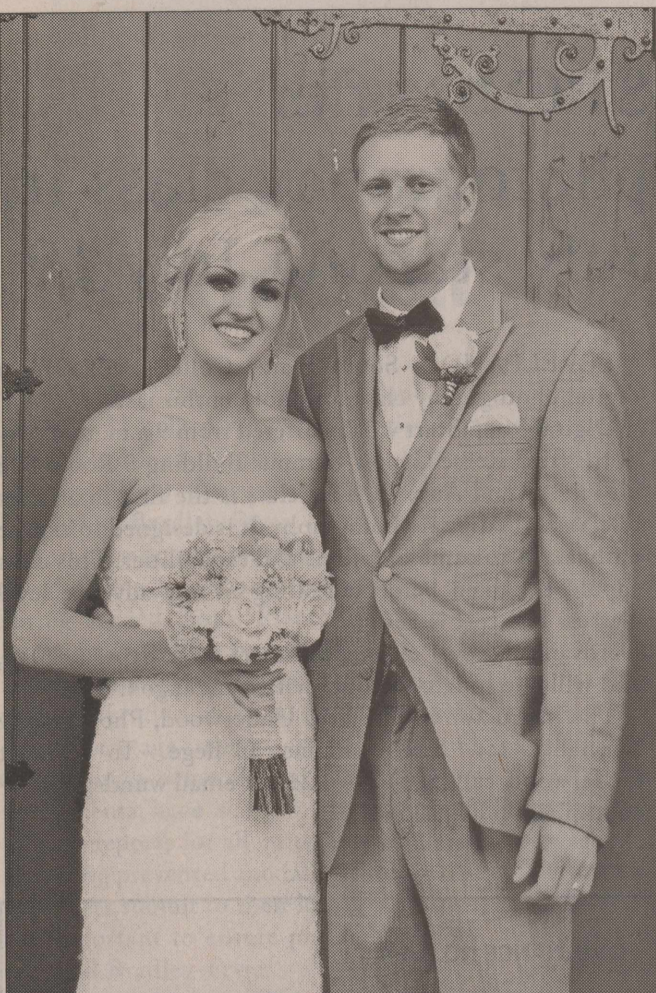

According to Texas A&M Forest Service Prevention Specialist Jan Amen, 90 percent of wildfires are started by humans, so it is imperative to be mindful of the risk of starting a fire - even with recent rainfall.

"In Texas there are currently no areas of concern over the holiday but it's still important locally to be careful with the use of fireworks," Texas A&M Service Predictive Services Department Head Tom Spencer said. "It's still possible to start a fire."

Due to the recent rains in May and June the potential for wildfire has decreased across much of the state. However, TFS encourages everyone to use caution and stay safe this Independence Day.

Fireworks safety tips: • Before you celebrate, always check with local government officials to ensure fireworks and outdoor burning are allowed in your county. Be sure to comply with all restrictions. • Read and follow all warnings and instruction labels on fireworks. • Use fireworks only under close adult supervision and in safe areas away from structures, dry grass and brush. • Keep a hose, bucket of water and wet towels nearby in case of a malfunction or fire. • Dispose of used fireworks in a bucket of water. • Never ignite fireworks in a container, especially a glass or metal container.

Note: Burn bans and fireworks restrictions are determined by county government. Texas A&M Forest Service does not take a position on the use of fireworks, nor does the agency determine, set or lift restrictions.

AGRICULTURE

USDA Reminds Producers of 2014 Acreage Reporting Requirement

(FLOYDADA, TEXAS) , June 30, 2014 — U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Floyd County Farm Service Agency (FSA) Executive Director CED Stephanie Bradley-Fryer reminds agricultural producers that July 15, 2014, is the deadline to file an acreage report for spring seeded crops. Planted acres must be reported to FSA by July 15, 2014. The Agricultural Act of 2014 (2014 Farm Bill) requires producers on a farm to submit annual acreage reports on all cropland. "Although some federal farm program enrollments have not yet started, timely acreage reports for all crops and land uses, including prevented and failed acreage that producers submit to their local FSA office, are important to ensure program eligibility," said Bradley-Fryer.

Acreage reports to FSA are considered timely filed when completed by the applicable final crop reporting deadline, which may vary from state to state. Perennial forage crops intended for grazing or haying were required to be reported last fall, whereas perennial forage crops with an intended use of cover only, green manure, left standing, or seed, must be reported by July 15.

Although July 15 is the most common deadline to report acreage for spring seeded crops, this date may be different in locations with climates that are warmer or cooler than average.

Producers should contact their county FSA office if they are uncertain about acreage reporting deadlines. Bradley-Fryer said that failed acreage must be reported before the disposition of the crop and that prevented acreage must be reported within 15 calendar days after the final planting date for the applicable crop.

For questions on this or any FSA program, including specific crop reporting deadlines and planting dates, producers should contact their county FSA office-www.fsa.usda.gov.

Today's announcement was made possible through the 2014 Farm Bill, which builds on historic economic gains in rural America over the past five years, while achieving meaningful reform and billions of dollars in savings for the taxpayer. Since enactment, USDA has made significant progress to implement each provision of this critical legislation, including providing disaster relief to farmers and ranchers; strengthening risk management tools; expanding access to rural credit; funding critical research; establishing innovative public-private conservation partnerships; developing new markets for rural-made products; and investing in infrastructure, housing and community facilities to help improve quality of life in rural America.

A year after moving into our new home, I can say it's been a fun experience pioneering our piece of northwest Texas and dealing with the challenges therein. Just building a house and serving as both a general contractor and a sub-contractor on some jobs proved to be a colossal juggling act that took patience and perseverance. Taking a piece of ground from a raw mesquite patch to a titled piece of real estate isn't at all impossible from a do-it-yourself perspective. It simply takes paying attention to details. Specifically, understanding the title process on a home and having a clear understanding on the overall work plan and timeline of all your subcontractors. Communication goes a long way in solving most problems. Despite a few negatives, building the house (and now living in it for a year) has been overwhelmingly positive.

Where we built our house isn't too far out of town but is far enough to be in some incredibly rich wildlife habitat. On any given day you are liable to see a mule deer crossing the county road or a whitetail deer hanging out in the yard. Cottontail rabbits are abundant and have no fear of us as they go about their business while we are out in the yard. Songbirds greet us with their bubbly songs. My favorite song is the simple three note call of the bobwhites as they whistle their tune in search of mates.

Wild turkeys frequently escape the sun by panting in the shade of our porch or next to one of the mesquite trees we left in the yard. Reptiles are common. Thankfully we have an abundance of Texas horned lizards that are fat from gorging on red ants. We have our share of lizards who look comical when they run away on two legs when you startle them. In addition to the reptiles we like, we've also had to deal with less desirable reptiles. So far, I've seen four different diamondback rattlesnakes in the front yard alone.

There's no telling how many are around that I haven't seen. Wild hogs are present as well. As many as twenty or more have been in the yard at one time or another: taking their turn eating milo from the platform of the bird feeder I placed in the backyard.

Living with wildlife has been good despite our garden and vineyard being nibbled upon by anything that enjoys fresh greenery. It's okay, though. Whatever challenges we've faced with the home are relatively minor. Sitting on the front porch and listening to coyotes in the evening make you forget about all of them.

Weather Whys

Q: You often hear the weatherman talk about a "dry line." What is it?

A: Simply put, a dry line is very much like a cold front, says Brent McRoberts of Texas A&M University. "It's sort of a boundary between very humid air and air that is dry," McRoberts explains. "The difference between a cold front and a dry line is that the temperature on either side of a dry line doesn't vary much, as opposed to a cold front, where the temperatures can vary a great deal. The advances of dry lines can adversely affect the weather in your area as they pass through."

Q: Does a dry line mean rain is coming?

A: Very often, that is the case, McRoberts adds. "Clouds often form along dry lines during the afternoon and these can grow into thunderstorms," he points out. "Dry lines typically form in the Midwest and the Great Plains states and these almost always move slowly from west to east, usually in the spring and summer months. A dry line will move eastward during the afternoon, retreat at night and often reform again the next day, and these often produce some heavy thunderstorms as they develop, especially just to the east of the dry line."

Red harvester ants pack a punch

By Dee Derr
The Red River Sun

It may surprise you to know that the insect with the most potent venom isn't a spider, a bee, or a wasp - it's the harvester ant. Ten of the 22 species of harvester ants found in the United States are native to Texas and Oklahoma. The type most commonly found in these areas is the red harvester ant.

Harvester ant colonies are generally easy to spot. These industrious insects prefer wide open spaces and are not inclined to invade homes, barns, or other buildings. Their mounds consist of an entry way to their underground tunnels surrounded by a circle of bare earth three to six feet across. Worker ants clear away the plants and any debris leaving behind scattered loose soil which they've removed from their underground tunnels. They will often clear foraging trails or corridors which can be seen radiating outward from the central mound area like the spokes on a wheel.

Worker ants tend to perform one of three primary duties as nest patrollers, trail patrollers and foragers. The patrol ants provide protection for the colony while the foragers goal is to return to the nest with food. The harvester ant's diet consists primarily of seeds which they store in an underground granary.

Dee Derr/The Red River Sun
A harvester ant colony is easy to identify due to the three to six foot circle of cleared vegetation around their nest. This colony is located in the 1500 block of Ave. E NW in Childress.

Red harvester ants generally mate after a rainfall during the months of August and September. Winged male and female ants will emerge from the colony and are attracted to each other by pheromones. After they mate, the males die and the fertilized female will establish a new colony by burrowing into the ground to lay her eggs.

Like their distant cousin the fire ant, harvester ants use a venomous sting to protect their nest when threatened. They use their powerful jaws, called mandibles, to hold onto their victim. Then the ant will pivot while repeatedly injecting venom with a stinger located on the end of their abdomen. The ant venom contains a pheromone which acts as a chemical signal to alert the other ants in the area to attack as well.

Once for ounce, harvester ant venom is more potent than the venom of some snakes, however, it's released in such a minute amount that while extremely painful, it's rarely fatal. However, some fatalities have been reported in people who experience an extreme allergic reaction, particularly after being stung by species of the fire ant family.

Because of their large size, burrowing abilities, and in ability to climb the glass walls of their habitat, red harvester ants are the most common species of ant sold to hobbyists for use in 'ant farms'. The average life span of an ant is normally around 90 days however under ideal conditions in captivity, harvester ants have been known to live from two to six months.

Harvester ant colonies are generally easy to identify and to avoid contact with, however, if they become a nuisance you can contact your local pest control company.

half-time. Warren had one TD pass at that point. It was a 15-yard scoring strike on the first play of the game. In the second half she threw two more TD passes from 25 and 2-yards, plus a 3-yard run into the end zone as Brunettes opened up the margin.

Fortenberry alternated on offense and defense in the Lubbock game playing equal time on each side of the ball. She seemed more pleased with her play on defense by knocking down a few passes, but on offense she threw a pass that was intercepted by the Brunettes and returned for a TD in the decisive second half.

"I hated it that I made that pass, but it motivates me to come back next year and get my team in the end zone. We worked hard in preparing for this game," Fortenberry said.

Fortenberry did have nice runs on offense and made several first downs, but never got her team any points.

Fortenberry has another motivating factor to play in this fundraising game because of her husband Sam, who is a resident at Raider Ranch in Lubbock.

Fortenberry said, "Sam has Frontal Temporal Dementia brought on by early-onset Alzheimer's. He was officially diagnosed with this disease in 2012, but some relatives and friends noticed changes in him nearly 10-years earlier. She said it is an awful disease and she has wondered how many people have dealt with this before really knowing."

You could tell if raising money for research will find a cure - Fortenberry is all for it as are many other Blondes and Brunettes that have played in the flag football game previously.

Fortenberry said, as far as playing the game, "It was a great experience. I learned a lot about football. It forced me to get into shape with nearly three months of workouts, plus we got to use the Red Raiders locker room and rub the saddle horn before going down the ramp at Jones Stadium. That was a thrill!"

The Lubbock game exceeded $44,000 and the Amarillo contest grossed more than $40,000 for the Alzheimer's. You add that to the $48,000 from the Plainview game on June 7 shows there are people who are taking a stand against Alzheimer's.

Aime Teeple was the top fundraiser for the Blondes in Plainview and Becky Fortenberry was the highest fundraiser in the Lubbock game as both hit $2,500 individually. Amanda Hinsley was MVP at the Plainview game that also included Cristin Brooks of Floydada and Heather Golden of Lockney. Becky Warren was Captain of the Brunettes in Amarillo.

When the three Quarterbacks (Amanda Hinsley, Becky Warren and Becky Fortenberry) were asked if they will play again next year, they all said "Yes" in a convincing tone. Thank you ladies for a job well done in using your talents in fighting Alzheimer's.

Results from area contests: Plainview at Bulldog Stadium, Blondes 31-23 raised $48,000; Lubbock at Jones AT&T, Brunettes 20-19 raised $44,000; and Amarillo at the Civic Center, Brunettes 37-18 raised $40,000.

Camp Hereford POW Camp Chapel is located at the site of the internment camp for World War II Italian POWs. It was the second largest POW camp in the US during the war. The first POWs arrived in April 1943 and the last left in February 1946. The Italians built the 13 square foot chapel in two months in memory of five Italian POWs that died at the camp. The Chapel still stands south of Hereford about a mile west of FM 1055 on County Road 1 and a quarter-mile south on County Road H/507 on the Deaf Smith and Castro County line.

Because of wartime conditions, Collear said, efforts to get the crew back to their homeland had finally been abandoned in the months following their ship's intention sinking, and the federal government decided to attempt to provide adequate living quarters in the U.S. for duration of hostilities.

Collear said if the camp was established in Lockney, the German crew would be under ship discipline at all times, and would leave camp only with a pass, just as they would when leaving their ship when it was docked.

The immigration official praised the crew's discipline during the eight months they had been on Angel Island which, he pointed out, did not have adequate facilities for the group which necessitated the search for other arrangements.

While several Lockney businessmen favored the proposition on the grounds that it would mean building activity and other business advantages to their community, ultimately strong public sentiment forced the Lockney mayor and city council to withdraw their offer.

The United States wouldn't enter World War II for another 15 months, when Japan attacked Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

A prisoner of war camp for captured Italian soldiers was established near Hereford during the war.

WIND FARM

Wind again," said Westerly CEO Steve Schauer.

"Westerly Wind remains focused on continuing to build value for our shareholders and partners by advancing and monetizing our existing and future development projects."

Westerly, a portfolio company of US Renewables Group, provides development capital and expertise to wind development projects and currently has approximately 250MW under development.

Tri Global formed the Floyd County Wind Farm in 2010 under the company's Wind Force Plan, where projects are owned by local landowners, community investors, managers and Tri Global.

In 2012 Tri Global, Floyd County Wind Farm and Westerly Wind formed the South Plains Wind Energy development company, which proposed a 500MW project on 51,000 acres.

"We are pleased with the sale of Floyd County Wind Farm and the resulting financial gains that the local landowners and community investors will receive," said Tri Global CEO John Billingsley, Jr.

Terms of the sale were not disclosed. Billingsley said that the Floyd County Wind Farm landowners and community members are "receiving a rate of return of several multiples of their cash investments" and stand to receive "millions of dollars of future wind royalties."

A First Wind subsidiary will acquire, construct and operate the wind farm.
