Mary Aulgur Named Base Sweetheart

Miss Mary Aulgur, representing the Maintenance and Supply Group, was honored as Sweetheart of Reese at the annual Valentine Dance of Mathis Service Club Thursday night. She was escorted in the Grand March by A3C Don McLaughlin.

Miss Aulgur is the daughter of MSgt. and Mrs. Raymond P. Aulgur. She is a senior in Frenship High School and recently represented her school in the state music contest at which she was a featured soloist. She is a member of the Chapel Choir and for many months has been active in Service Club affairs.

At the dance she was presented with a bouquet and a six-weeks scholarship to the Robert Spence Modeling School, Lubbock.

Judges were Miss Lynne Ather, R. Campbell and S. Raulerson of the Spence school.

In the Sweetheart contest each group nominated a sweetheart, with larger units nominating more than one.

Winning second place was Miss Sallie Jo LeMond, escorted by A1C Thomas L. Crookston and representing the Pilot Training Group. She is a civilian employee of the base, assigned to the standardization board.

Third place went to Miss Janet Stark, escorted by A2C Bernd Roesnick and representing the M&S Group.

Other nominees were Mrs. Kenneth Chance, Civil Engineers; Miss Shirley Frazier, Air Base Group; Mrs. John K. Shannon, ABG; Miss Linda Stewart, M&S; Miss Johnny Paiste, representing the Rescue, Weather and Communications detachment; and Miss Sarilyn Bay, Hospital.

Local Boxes In Postoffice Replace Mail Room Activity

Unit mail rooms were closing this week and Reese people were trying out combinations to new post office lock boxes as the shift to the new postal system of the base gathered steam.

Some mail rooms in squadrons closed early this week and personnel were assigned new boxes in the base post office. Other mail rooms are closing this weekend and all will be eliminated early next week.

The post office renovation was completed last week and effective changes will all be in operation by the middle of next week.

With the changes are coming a drastic revision in distribution of pay to the troops. Effective immediately pay checks formerly distributed through first sergeants or others in the squadron day rooms will be placed in individual post office boxes. Persons living in the government housing area, trailer park of elsewhere who do not have Reese post office boxes will get their pay checks at the general delivery window.

Persons who have directed that their pay checks be mailed to an off-base address or to a bank will receive the same service as before and will not be required to go to the Reese post office to pick up their checks. The pay will be mailed to indicated addresses, as before.

Pay checks distributed through the base post office will be ready for pickup at 7 a.m. on each pay day, starting Feb. 15.

In the post office renovation, 1,580 boxes with combinations were installed and assigned to military people at Reese. The lobby was made smaller and the box area greatly enlarged in the move.

Reese 'Money' Plans Receive USAF Notice

Five management improvement programs used in "Project Money Tree" at Reese have been recognized by United States Air Force headquarters. None of the 25 other bases in Air Training Command received this many mentions in the 1961 report.

"Project Money Tree" is in use throughout the Air Force and is aimed at stressing all forms of management improvement and economies. The report citing Reese was from the Air Force Materiel office in Washington and was sent as general news to all commanders. Each base, in the project, is expected to originate and put into practice as many proposals as possible and to propose "acorns" from which "Money Trees" may grow at numerous bases.

Reese received mention for evaluating methods of shipping household goods and for insistence on use of proper size cartons to save time, space and man-hours.

It also was mentioned for simplifying records of household shipments and for use of better records to expedite shipments and trace movements.

Reese's methods in using obsolete cards to keep warehouse records of supplies in files and warehouse space was cited for use at other bases.

The base also was cited for use of buses in movement of aircraft and Hi-Valu parts for short distances. The base was mentioned for using a system which required less handling of shipped parts, less possibility of loss, and more movements at hours of minimum use of transportation facilities.

Reese's fifth method of economizing in "Project Money Tree," the system to cut costs and improvement working operations, came through use of new forms which eliminated errors and brought more speed in traffic management.

In addition to being cited by USAF, Reese also received special mention from Air Training Command for its "Money Tree" activities.

ATC, in its report for the last quarter of 1961, mentioned the base as making three other moves which were worthy of consideration.

One citation was that Reese, through useage surveys, had deleted 16 non-powered and 5 powered items from its supplies, thereby adding $28,316 to savings.

Another said the base had expanded its local repair program 12 items and had reduced repair shipments off-base, thus extending its self-sufficiency.

Reese also was mentioned for its foreign object savings work in that its people already had acted to insure an effective program in this field for the new T-38 Talon supersonic jet trainers due to start arriving next fall.

Tabernacle Talk Features Luncheon

Mrs. Ernest Whatley of Lubbock will be guest speaker at the Protestant Women of the Chapel salad luncheon at 1:30 p.m., Feb. 13, in the Chapel Annex. She will speak on "The Tabernacle" and will do visual construction of a tabernacle and explain parts as she speaks.

All interested women are invited and are asked to bring a salad for eight. Hostesses will be Mrs. Elwin G. Kirby and Mrs. Don Morris.

Smoking Rule Being Revised

Base directives prohibiting smoking in bed are being revised at Reese in line with moves being made throughout the Air Force, Truett S. Canford, fire chief, said this week.

The chief cited that carelessness with matches and smoking caused 925 fires in the Air Force during the last fiscal year, as compared with 642 the year before. He also pointed out that fires in family housing jumped from 259 to 431 during the same period.

"Smoking in bed appears all too frequently in the report of fires," said Cranford. "While the total monetary effect of such fires generally may be relatively small, each incident represents one or more potential fatality."

The chief said his organization will continue its no-notice daily inspection of dormitories and that disciplinary action will be sought against persons found smoking in bed. He added that an educational program will be aimed at seeing that Reese people continue caution in use of matches and in eliminating fire hazards in their homes.

During the first 131 days of Fiscal Year 1962, Air Training Command had an average of a fire a day. Of the 135 fires, 85, or 63 per cent, were caused by careless smoking habits.

Reese Dependent In-Patient Care Halts Temporarily

Dependent in-patient care at the Reese Hospital will be temporarily discontinued on Feb. 15 while Ward I and Ward 2 are being re-painted, Lt. Col. Charles F. Ford, Hospital commander, has stated.

Work on renovation will start Feb. 19 and should be completed by March 12, the contractor has indicated.

During this period Medicare permits will be issued to dependents where conditions warrant hospitalization, it was announced. All out-patient clinics and Ward 3, the obstetrical ward, will continue in operation while the painting project is in progress.

Information on ways to help preserve freedom is available at your free library.

PROMOTIONS SET

WASHINGTON — (AFNS) — A 505 promotion quota has been set aside by USAF for Reservists and National Guardsmen now on active duty. The promotions are separate and are not at the expense of the regular force.

Capsule Law

... "BUT THE MAN SAID HE WAS A TAX EXPERT!"

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act does not remove you from liability for Federal Income Tax as a member of the Armed Forces. In the U. S. or overseas you must file a return before Apr. 15. Willful failure to file is a criminal offense!

For proper guidance in preparing your return be sure to see your legal assistance officer. Beware of the well-meaning friend who says he is a tax "expert". He could get you into real trouble. For proper forms and procedures see your legal office early to avoid the last minute rush which always occurs around Apr. 1!

Individual Comes First

The primary goal of our representative democracy was set on July 4, 1776. On that day the Continental Congress adopted the Declaration of Independence as drafted by Thomas Jefferson and amended by the Congress. That goal is: to guard the rights of the individual, to insure his development, and to enlarge his opportunity.

The Constitution for the United States of America came into being on Sept. 17, 1787, at the Constitutional Convention in Philadelphia. To safeguard the rights of the individual and of the states, the Bill of Rights (the first ten Amendments to the Constitution) after ratification by the states became a part of the Constitution on Dec. 15, 1791.

While the last of these acts took place some 170 years ago, Americans ought never to view them as "ancient" history. The status of the individual was of prime concern to our Founding Fathers; it must be of prime concern today, tomorrow and in all future years that the United States remains a nation.

All other institutions — government, social, economic and religious — are designed to enhance and insure the dignity of the individual. The intelligent citizen understands this. He understands, too, that every right that he possesses is balanced by an concurrent duty. Thus, if he has the right to free speech — he has the duty to use the gift of language for the common good of his neighbor and his nation. If he has the right to worship God in his own way — he has the duty to recognize that right in his fellow citizens.

While opinions may differ, as indeed they must among intelligent people, Americans can still glory in their unity of purpose. That unity of purpose is to preserve freedom and individuality and to extend the example of freedom to all the world.

Millions Of Runways

World attention recently has been focused on the Berlin Wall. But this wall is only part of an enormous system of Communist barricades through which more than 10 million people have escaped since 1945.

The number is a third as many as the total Communist Party's present membership. And more people will break out every day. The Wall is strong, but freedom is irresistible.

Perrin NCO Two-Time Slogan Winner

First Lt. Richard E. Sharp, of the 3555th Maintenance and Supply Group at Perrin AFB, has become a two-time winner in the Air Training Command sponsored "Janie Dollar Slogan Contest."

Lieutenant Sharp's second cash prize-winning jingle reads:

The New Year means ideas galore;
It's time to think of what's in store.
It's time to plan, be smart and save;
And of yerr thrift your boss will rave.

A $10 cash prize is given each week by Headquarters ATC for the slogan that best denotes the idea of saving through thrift and conservation.

Entries should be written with a taste of Scottish brogue and limited to 25 words. They should be sent to your base Office of Information which will forward them to Command headquarters for judging.

Parson-to-Person Commandments Set Obligations, Condemn Gossip

By Chaplain Leo E. Pesek

Two of God's Commandments are concerned with our duties towards two possessions of our neighbor — his material goods and his good reputation. Because human beings are inclined to be selfish and neglectful of the rights of others, God considered it necessary to lay down the explicit commands: "Thou shalt not steal" and "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor."

Like the other Commandments, these two actually prescribe more obligations than those which they explicitly assert. The seventh Commandment forbids every type of dishonest dealing, not only stealing; the eighth forbids not only falsehood, but also many other sins of the tongue, such as gossiping and unlawful revelation of secrets.

From The COMMANDER'S DESK

By COLONEL L. C. HESS, Wing Commander

Next month Air Training Command inspectors will make their annual visit to Reese. Although we should strive constantly to maintain our operations in inspection-ready condition at all times, we must pay particular attention right now to "sprucing up" for the coming event.

This inspection, as with all such programs, is designed to give General Briggs, the commander of Air Training Command, detailed information regarding how well we are doing our jobs. The inspectors are the eyes and ears through which he can further evaluate our management efficiency, our effectiveness and economy of operation, our unit readiness for mission accomplishment, adequacy of our facilities, and our compliance with various directives.

The objective observations and recommendations received from the inspectors will assist us in carrying out our mission even better. Moreover, we should keep in mind that the coming inspection will give us a fine opportunity to show ATC and the Air Force our dedication to the mission and our pride in accomplishing our objectives.

We have the finest organization in the Air Force and now is our chance to prove it.

Reeseites Invited To Park Activity

Suggestors Receive Awards

Six management improvement suggestions estimated to save almost $14,000 annually for the Air Force have been recognized at Reese. Half were offered by military men, half by civilians. An award of $25 and letter of commendation went to SSgt. Sterling C. Burris for a suggestion on repair of nozzle diaphragm assemblies for T-33 aircraft. The suggestion has been forwarded to higher headquarters for consideration. It is estimated to save upward of $13,000 annually. SSgt. Wilford J. Cummings proposed greater use of canvas aprons in aircraft maintenance work, an improved safety practice which won him a three-day pass and letter of appreciation. A1C Dan Lewis suggested use of a new form of benefit office procedures, thereby winning a letter of appreciation and pass. A suggestion certificate went to Henry H. Robbins for a safety sign. A proposal for a special tool to repair T-37 aircraft won $15 for Foy E. Thompson and Hubert O. Stephens. Adoption of the proposal saved $249 a year. A $15 award went to Alonzo Petty for a suggestion on an amplifier mockup. Adoption of the suggestion saved $227 annually at Reese.

Collections On Freedom Opens

"Facts for Freedom," a collection of books to help people to keep informed on backgrounds of the news, both here and abroad, was started this week at Reese Base Library. "Never before has there been such a need for information, for continuing alertness on the part of every citizen," said Helen K. Fuller, base librarian, in announcing the exhibition. "To help meet this need, the library will continue a small permanent display of this general subject, featuring different topics and areas. In this collection, as well as elsewhere in the library, individuals can find facts to help them understand the background of world problems, and books that might suggest ways in which informed citizens can meet them. "Included in the collection will be copies of the basic documents of our freedom, setting forth the principles on which the country was founded. Many people, in re-reading and pondering these, have found reassurances and illumination in helping them meet today's challenges." An attractive leaflet, briefly listing the ways in which books and reading increase the "Freedom to Serve: the privilege of the individual in our Democracy," is being distributed free to everyone visiting the display. The Reese Library is open from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 6 to 9 p.m. Mondays through Fridays, and from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

School Lunches

Lunches planned for the Reese Elementary School next week are:

Zuckert Once More Heads Health Agencies Campaign

(AFNS) — Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert again will head the fund-raising campaign among federal employees for the Joint Crusade and the National Health Agencies. The drive for the two agencies will be conducted concurrently from March 1 to April 15. Benjamin W. Fridge, special assistant to the Secretary of the Air Force (Manpower, Personnel and Reserve Forces) has been designated as the chairman for the Air Force part of the campaign.

Hailing traditional American generosity to those in need, Zuckert said: "To effect a measure of improvement to the health and welfare of our fellow man we support such organizations as the National Health Agencies and the Joint Crusade Agencies. I have every confidence that both military and civilian members of the Air Force will give their full support to the 1962 campaign."

In a reminder of the unceasing fight for better health in America being waged along an expanding frontier, President John

F. Kennedy pointed out the 1962 campaign "provides an opportunity for all of us in Federal service to demonstrate again our belief in the dignity and importance of man as an individual."

Funds raised for the Joint Crusade for Freedom and the American-Korean Foundation.

The health campaign embraces the American Cancer Society, American Heart Association, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, National Association for Mental Health, National Association for Retarded Children, National Multiple Sclerosis Society, National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, National Society for the Prevention of Blindness and the United Cerebral Palsy Association.

Book Emphasizes Freedom Concept

Reese people interested in the nation's freedom will find help in noting the basis of freedom as set forth in the Constitution. A book, "The Constitution and What it Means Today," by Edward S. Corwin is becoming quite popular at the Reese library, where it is available for reading and loan.

"Persons interested in the preservation of our freedom will be interested in this book which explains our Constitution — the main guarantor of freedom," said Helen K. Fuller, base librarian.

Corwin's book is in its 12th edition. It explains constitutional law and has held a place in literature for three decades. The volume discusses the Constitution section by section, explaining briefly and clearly what it means and judicial interpretation. Beginning students find it assists in orientation, while more advanced students find it a convenient reference.

Uniforms Given Family Service Aides

Family Service uniforms have been awarded four additional volunteer workers at Reese who met qualifications of 25 hours of work within three months time and attendance at an Orientation Course.

The uniforms, worn by volunteer workers at all bases, were presented by Mrs. Anne Todd, coordinator, to Mrs. Jean Bennett, Mrs. Zelta Goldsberry, Mrs. Marilyn Bedke and Mrs. Blanche Paiste.

Mrs. Bennett has served as an office worker since July, 1961.

Mrs. Goldsberry, assistant coordinator since last month, has been in Family Service a year and has been assistant chairman of the housing committee and an office worker.

Mrs. Bedke has served as a volunteer since March, 1960, doing office duty, and serving as assistant chairman and then chairman of the housing committee.

Mrs. Paiste, a volunteer since November, 1960, has performed office duty and is assistant chairman of the welcoming committee.

Handles Allotments

The special equipment which directs checks to banks, insurance companies and credit unions is used in the Directorate of Allotment and Retired Pay. Not only can it write the checks but can also double check the information.

ANDREWS AFB, Md. (AFNS) —The unprecedented "Officer Career Motivation Congress" has adjourned after pushing through a long list of immediate actions, largely in the assignments area, to make the Air Force more attractive to young lieutenants with five or less years of service.

Support to off-duty education, formation of junior officer councils, and an earlier crack at a below-the-zone promotion to captain were other actions the "Congress" felt it had a clear USAF mandate to attack immediately.

An equally long list of other recommendations, including more AFIT education, more welfare funds for recreational facilities and more medals were earmarked for additional air staff review.

The "pay and promotion" to rated status and its benefits, and dental care for dependents obviously require action by the U. S. Congress.

Accordingly, these recommendations were sent to USAF headquarters not only for air staff review but also for possible inter-service coordination, the first step in the process to become part of the Department of Defense Legislative program.

Recognized as a great source of career dissatisfaction, assignments were tackled on a broad front.

First, the Congress said junior officers on their first tour of duty should be assigned only to larger bases. This would permit a wider-range of jobs to be offered.

Second, the Congress ruled that junior officers on their first tour of duty should not be assigned to large headquarters such as numbered Air Forces and major air commands. This action would put the younger officer at a lower level where he could get a job with great responsibility.

Third, consecutive remote duty tours were ruled out for obvious reasons.

Fourth, formation of junior officer councils at base and wing level were authorized. The idea here was to get the word out, to correct matters on-the-spot. It has been found, for example, that well over half the junior officers who are leaving the Air Force never had anyone talk over the career the service has to offer.

The Congress wanted to consider lieutenants as early as possible for below-the-zone consideration to captain.

With the length of major technical training and flying schools taking nearly three and a half years, it was considered that four and one half years would be the earliest possible time to get a reading on just more than school grades. A proposal to make the promotion point of first lieutenant come after 12 months, instead of the current 18, was referred to the Air Staff for further study.

The government already authorizes the payment of 75 per cent of tuition and books for off-duty educational programs at the college level.

ATC Alert To Best Teaching Methods

Air Training Command has been among the most alert of all commands through the years in seeking out the best means of teaching. For ATC, the mission is to produce proficient and qualified men and women for all commands.

In ATC there has been a continual search for methods and means of performing present — and future — training tasks in the most efficient way. There has been a constant attempt to increase the quality of training through streamlined programs and the introduction of new and better equipment.

Meanwhile, the mission of ATC is people, trained to think and trained in the skills necessary for modern defense. The Air Training Command remains the largest schoolhouse in the free world — dedicated to training the men and women who fill the ranks of today's Aerospace Force.

Space Man Eating Poses Big Problem

(AFNS) — Development of special foods that can be squeezed from toothpaste-type containers may help future space travelers when they are in a weightless state.

Need for this type of scientific development was stressed by Maj. Gen. Oliver K. Niess, U. S. Air Force Surgeon General at a Tokyo press conference.

Even space kitchens are being considered in the overall studies of space travel, but complete answers to weightless problems and others will come only after "we have had a main space orbit for a prolonged period," he said.

New Shorter Range Missile Intended To Do Service In 'Theater' Areas

(AFNS) — The Air Force has been given the go-ahead by Department of Defense to develop a new, second generation missile for shorter range "theater" missions.

Its name — Mobile Mid-Range Ballistic Missile (MMRBM) — suggests refinements of the roles currently filled by some "air-breathing" missiles and first generation liquid fuel rockets that have gone by the name, Intermediate Range Ballistic Missile (IRBM).

The shift in names indicates a refinement of the missile art more than anything else. The MMRBM is expected to exceed the IRBM in range but is designed by definition for lesser distances than Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles (ICBM).

While Air Force thinking is not definitely set, experts believe the bird will be a solid-fuel, two stage missile that can be carted around on the highway in one package firing control and the missile combination.

Plans call for the MMRBM to have a further flexibility, to be pre-aimed.
