ELEVATED - NCO's of the M&S Group who are being promoted to higher rank of Dec. 1 seemed highly pleased when informed of their elevation by Col. Joseph E. Payne, group commander. The colonel also told the men their higher rank means more work. Airmen left to right are SSgt. Gerald Tomblin, SSgt. Louis Berk, SSgt. Dewey LeBlanc, TSgt. Charles Gray, SSgt. Walter Moeller, TSgt. Dewey

Cammack, SSgt. Buster Martin, TSgt. Joe Hritz, SSgt. Cleve Shikle and SSgt. Clifford Duncan. Missing on TDY is SSgt. Wilford Cummings, also moving to tech sergeant. (Photo by Roach)

19 Promoted In December Reese Action

Nineteen Reese Air Force Base non-commissioned officers on Dec. 1 will move to higher rank, four to master sergeant and 15 to technical sergeant.

Promotions to the two ranks will become effective throughout the Air Force on that date and for the first time those selected have been notified prior to the promotion date.

Going to master sergeant at Reese are Joseph J. Hritz, Dewey W. Cammack and Charles S. Gray, Jr., of the Maintenance and Supply Group and Charles H. Chamberlain of the Civil Engineering Group.

Promoted to technical sergeant are James F. Mangum of the Hospital; Robert C. Snyder and Russell L. Johnson of Pilot Training Wing; Carl H. Rumlow, Charles L. Padgett and Roy E. Erwin of Civil Engineers; James J. Nooney of Pilot Training Group; and Gerald D. Tomblin, Walter E. Moeller, Buster Martin, Cleve Shikle, Louis Berk, Wilford J. Cummings, Clifford F. Duncan and Dewey A. LeBlanc of Maintenance and Supply Group.

Each of the NCO'S was notified Wednesday by his unit commander of his selection for promotion. Air Training Command named those for elevation from lists of nominations submitted by bases. Selections were based on merit, with no quota given any base.

Sergeant Hritz, at Reese eight years, is aircraft maintenance analysis technician. Sergeant Cammack, resident of Coleman, Tex., is a flight chief; and Sergeant Gray is supervisor of on-the-job training for the M&S Group. Sgt. Chamberlain is in charge of scheduling of civil engineering activities.

Sergeant Mangum is is unit supply at the hospital; Sergeant Snyder is in charge of the wing duplicating section and Sergeant Johnson is chief of the supply contract branch for base procurement.

Sergeant Rumlow is supervisor of metal processing, Sergeant Padgett is building maintenance supervisor and Sergeant Erwin is sheet metal supervisor. Sergeant Nooney is training device technician.

M&S sergeants have varied duties. Sergeants LeBlanc and Moeller are aircraft maintenance technicians, Sergeant Martin is Aircraft Analysis technician, Sergeant Tomblin a supply inspection technician, Sergeant Shikle test cell technician for jet engines, and Sergeant LeBlanc a utilities supervisor. Sergeant Duncan is an airborne navigation equipment technician.

PTA Fall Festival Tomorrow

The annual Reese Elementary School Fall Festival opens at 4 p. m. Saturday in the school, with more than 10 types of entertainment planned, Capt. Bethel B. Larey, PTA president, has announced.

The various classes are sponsoring special events for fun and profit, with attention to adults and children.

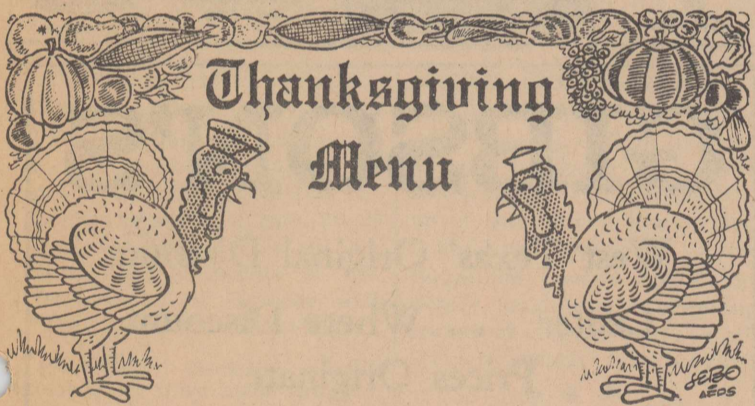

"All of those rowdies who hanker for a genuine western-style barbecue had better line up at the school cafeteria's chuck wagon between 5:30 and 6:30 for more good food than they have ever got at the modest price of 60 cents for adults and 40 cents for children," Captain Larey said.

The meal will include meat, bread, potatoes, beans, drink, and dessert.

A professional magician will be on hand during the evening to give illusions "and confusions designed to revoke worry invoke amazement and provoke laughter."

Support of the Festival will permit the PTA to secure funds for worthy projects, the captain said.

"In the USSR almost 91 per cent of all the means of production belong to the state."

Bono Sets T-38 Mark

Captain Richard Bono, former Reese instructor, has written a new record into Air Force history.

He was the pilot of T-38 No. 558 when the plane passed its 500th hour in the air at Randolph AFB on Nov. 1. Flying with him was Capt. Robert Hammerle, student-pilot assigned from Webb AFB.

Captain Bono, who flew the T-38 Talon to Reese last May (continued on p. 2)

Colonel Talks Weight

An important article by a former commander of the Reese hospital and a tribute to Air Training Command hold major interest in the November Airman Magazine just placed in dayrooms here.

"High Cost of Excessive Baggage," is the title Col. I. Louis Hoffman, commander of the Westover AFB medical group, has taken for his discussion of controlled weight and how lack of it may bring on disease and other troubles.

The back cover of the magazine shows pictures of ATC activity, including a briefing room shot, and states "the men who wear the Air Force uniform with pride - who are dedicated to duty and the highest standards of professional competence - These are graduates of the Air Training Command."

Other writers in the November issue of The Airman detail operation of the Peace Corps and how Air Force people are carrying out its objective, actions taken to assure the most operative manned spacecraft, pointers on benefits and life ahead for retired servicemen, summer flight training of Air Force Academy cadets, how the base library is contributing to Air Force success, and a story of flying aces of three wars.

Plan Special Dinner

A special dinner in the wing dining hall will be a feature of the Thanksgiving observance at Reese, with personnel urged to bring their families and permitted to bring other guests.

The menu will include roast turkey and baked ham, with all the trimmings and dinner will be served from 1 to 4 p. m.

Breakfast is on the holiday schedule and no supper will be served.

Airmen not on separate rations will eat without cost, while airmen on separate rations will pay 45 cents for the meal. Wives will be charged 65 cents and children under 12 are to pay 30 cents. (continued on p. 2)

Man Unreplaceable

"People today sometimes are overcome by the importance of the machine," said Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, commander of the Air Force Systems Command, to the ROTC students of The Citadel last January. "We have machines," he told them, "that sell us soft drinks, wash our clothes, and figure our income tax. Sometimes we may be tempted to think that machines alone will be able to defend us militarily."

"This is not true. Machines can help, but they can never replace man. It is men, not machines, that fight the wars; it is men who make the peace. You cannot build creative ability into a machine; you cannot design a circuit to take the place of courage; and you cannot enclose dedication to freedom in a magic black box."

It is true that scientific achievement in our life-time has reached boundaries beyond even the imagination of men living in 1900. In one-half a century America has seen more scientific progress than the world has seen in the entire period of written history.

There is always the temptation on the part of indolent citizens to lean back and contemplate that within a few short years the push-button will have eliminated all need for work and at the same time, all need for responsibility. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Man cannot be replaced by the test-tube or by the machine. He will always remain a person. He cannot hand over his responsibility or his conscience to an institution whether it be a state, a class, or a racial group. His thoughts and his actions will remain his alone and for them he will assume personal responsibility.

No matter how advanced our science or how perfect our machines, they will always remain subordinate to man. Nothing on this earth is more excellent, more valuable, more sacred than man. He is the irreplaceable factor in all progress. He alone makes or unmakes the world in which he lives.

CHAPLAIN ASKS LIFE DIRECTION COME FROM GOD

By Chaplain James D. Taylor

Did you ever get lost in such a fashion that you did not know where you were? I remember as a boy going through an East Texas woods and missing the trail. That was one of the most trying times of my life. For about two hours I traveled in a circle in those woods and had become thoroughly frightened. Finally I happened to come to an old logging road that I knew came to the main road a short distance from my grandmother's house. I certainly did rejoice in knowing I was once more in a fam-

Promotions Studied

WASHINGTON (AFNS) -- Records of thousands of Air Force officers are running through the promotion hoppers as the annual screening of records for promotion to lieutenant colonel and colonel grades is under way.

A USAF board is studying the records of some 782 majors and 526 lieutenant colonels in the secondary zone, serving in headquarters positions, for promotion consideration.

The bulk of the screening will not take place until the colonels board begins its deliberations on Jan. 14. Records of eligible lieutenant colonels in both the primary and secondary zones will be studied by the board. The exact number of eligibles in each zone was not revealed because the final figure will not be certain until shortly before the board convenes. An educated guess, however, was that there would be some 4,000 eligibles in both zones vying for the 650 slots available.

Two weeks later, the lieutenant colonels board will meet to screen records of majors who will be eligible for promotion to some 3,000 lieutenant colonel slots. It was estimated that some 5,000 eligibles in both zones will be considered during the board meeting.

Umbrella Set

General William F. McKee, Air Force vice chief of staff, said it in September before the Air Force Association convention:

"I am convinced that our aerospace power advantage has not only deterred the general war threat, but that it also proved itself to be the key to deterrence of lesser aggressions. In other words, an aerospace power advantage founded upon a clear-cut margin of superiority at the highest level of conflict and, therefore, must have first call on our resources and resourcefulness."

The knowledge that we did possess this aerospace umbrella for deterrence contributed more to negating the threat of a nuclear war during the Cuban crisis than any other single factor.

The potential aggressor recognized that our resources were of a superior nature and that our resolution to employ these resources to alleviate the crisis could not be swerved one iota by any threats he might make.

The capability of the Strategic Air Command had a profound effect on the enemy's thinking when the width of the crisis narrowed. The resoluteness of our President, coupled with the enemy's knowledge of the United States Air Force's retaliatory capability, brought a new understanding from the enemy camp.

The crisis, which reached near explosive proportions, was severe. At the same time, its severity was eased when the full impact of determination, backed by the power to prevail, was weighed by our adversaries.

This "aerospace superiority" provided by the United States Air Force again deterred what could have become a world holocaust. It reined the aggressor as it did in 1948 during the Berlin blockade and later in 1950-51 during the Korean conflict.

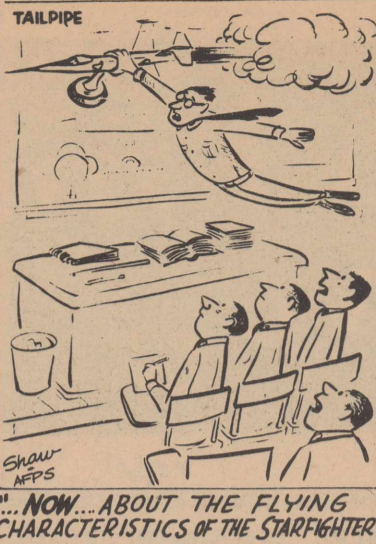

POWER MARKED

WASHINGTON (AFNS) - The 20th anniversary of man's first controlled release of the power of the atom will be observed here during Nov. 26-29 when the Atomic Fair will be held. All elements of the Department of Defense will take part in the observance.

Overloaded electrical circuits cause every third home fire.

RANK INCREASED

WASHINGTON (AFNS) -- The Air Force list of first lieutenants will be increased by 2,956 as the result of the recent call-up of Air Force Reservists, it has been announced. A 2nd lieutenant review board recently completed screening names of eligible reserve officers currently on active duty.

Club Activities

Mathis Service Club

The "Ad Libs" will provide music for the special Thanksgiving Day dance at Mathis Service Club. Dress will be casual and dancing is to begin at 8:30 p. m.

The final Christmas floral design workshop will be at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

The November Airman's buffet supper has been re-scheduled for Friday, Nov. 30 from 5 to 7 p. m. Airmen planning to attend should register on the club bulletin board.

The base level ping pong tournament will be Nov. 27. Entrants should sign in orderly rooms.

COMES OF AGE

ELLINGTON AFB, TEX. (AFNS) -- The Civil Air Patrol, volunteer civilian auxiliary of the Air Force, will mark its 21st birthday on Dec. 1. The organization, founded in Washington, D. C. on Dec. 1, 1941, became a civilian auxiliary of the Air Force in 1948.

ESCAPE CAPSULE GIVEN TESTING

A preliminary high-speed calibration sled test of an escape capsule for aerospace vehicles was completed recently at Edwards AFB, Calif. by AFSC's Flight Test Center. An experimental project of the Aeronautical Systems Division's Flight Dynamics Laboratory at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, the capsule is designed to provide safe escape from standstill to a speed of 2,800 miles per hour, up to 100,000 feet altitude. The capsule would permit a pilot to fly without cumbersome pressure suit or other protective personal equipment.

ATC OFFICERS GET DECORATIONS

Two staff officers of Air Training Command headquarters recently received Leigon of Merit awards for "exceptionally meritorious" service.

Col. Frank P. Wood, ATC's deputy chief of staff, Personnel, and Col. Roger B. Payne, chief, office of Information, were presented the awards by Lt. Gen. James E. Briggs, commander, ATC, at a ceremony conducted at ATC headquarters, Randolph AFB.

The aerospace industry employs the largest number of scientists and engineers in the United States -- 95,000 or 12 1/2 per cent of all scientists and engineers at work in American industry.

NEW RAINCOAT SALES BEGIN AT EXCHANGES

WASHINGTON (AFNS) -- The long-awaited new Air Force raincoat is now available at some base exchanges and from commercial sources, according to an announcement by the Permanent Air Force Uniform Board. It will be on sale at clothing sales stores in June, 1963.

An extended production testing period, completed in Philadelphia, disclosed that the material selected for the raincoat, a polyvinyl-butylal coated nylon, is feasible for Air Force use. Announcement of the availability of the raincoat is contained in Change "D" to AFM 35-10, "Service and Dress Uniforms for Air Force Personnel." Other uniform changes listed include:

Officers will wear the overcoat instead of the optional topcoat when officers and airmen participate jointly in formations or ceremonies and wear of the overcoat is prescribed.

Authorization for the optional wear of a new lightweight blue cotton broadcloth shirt for men and a shirtwaist for blue cotton broadcloth shirt for men and a shirtwaist for women with all blue service uniforms. These items are available at present at base exchanges or from commercial sources.

An authorization for a miniature Guided Missile Badge and an embroidered badge in both regular and miniature sizes for optional wear on the service and white uniforms.

A description of the positioning of the first sergeant's device on the E-8 and E-9 chevrons. This device will be centered on the dark blue background between the top and bottom "V" of the chevrons.

Authorization to wear certain Public Health Service decorations on the Air Force uniform, including instructions for wearing other non-military decorations.

Permission for airmen to wear the long-sleeve Army shade 46 poplin shirt with the tan shade 1193 summer uniform. This shirt is available at base exchanges and from commercial sources.

Finally, Change "D" to AFM 35-10 provides that Air Force personnel holding a basic parachute rating will be required to wear the Basic Army Parachute Badge.

AIRLIFT AIDING INDIA WITH ARMS

SCOTT AFB, ILL. (AFNS)-- The Air Force this week announced it had deployed men and mobile communications equipment from Toul-Rosieres AB, France, to Calcutta, India to support the United States airlift of arms to India. Twenty-nine men and their equipment from the Air Force Communications Service Unit at Toul-Rosieres AB arrived in India Nov. 6 by two MATS C-124 aircraft. The mobile communications center (2d Mobile Communications Squadron) will handle all messages pertaining to the MATS operation of its arms airlift to India.

Tools for repairing spacecraft in a state of weightlessness must be specially designed. Using an ordinary wrench or screwdriver would rotate a crewman, while a welding torch would act like a rocket motor and would propel him out into space.

VISITORS - High officials of the Spanish Air Force are visiting Reese this week to learn all they can of the flying safety program, including systems, importance, organization and operations. The vis-

Payne; Lt. Col. Cesar Elvira, deputy commander of the 6th Fighter Wing; and Maj. Abolardo, professor, Spanish Air Force Academy. Col. Payne worked with Major Benito while with the Joint U. S. Military Group in Madrid.

Air Force Reserve and Air National Guard units are participating in special training missions with the Military Air Transport Service to bolster the airlift capability of MATS.

TAC Perfects Drop

HURLBURT FIELD, FLA. (AFNS) -- A new aerial resupply method guaranteeing delivery with pinpoint accuracy has been developed by Tactical Air Command's Special Air Warfare Center here. It allows a C-123 to deliver up to 15,000 pounds of cargo onto short, unimproved landing strips such as might be found in forward areas.

The advantages are that the cargo is delivered intact just where it is needed and the aircraft can operate out of strips as short as 400 feet.

The method employs a basically simple off-loading system known as "extraction".

The cargo is loaded aboard the aircraft on wooden pallets. Dangling hooks are attached to the pallet. On the airstrip, steel cable and nylon webbing is stretched six inches above the ground between two energy absorbers placed 75 feet apart.

Approaching the landing strip, the pilot prepares for a normal landing. Touchdown is made just before reaching the cable. As the plane rolls across the cable, the nose of the aircraft is raised so that the hooks dangling from the cargo pallet catch the cable. Power is then applied just as in a touch and go landing. The cargo is jerked onto the ground and the aircraft continues to a normal takeoff.

Cargo is thus delivered exactly where intended and is not scattered over a large area as would be the case in a normal paradrop. Paradrop delivery is often hindered, and sometimes made impossible, by a dense canopy of heavy foliage obscuring the drop zone.

Congress first voted money for air mail service in 1916-- but the money (50,000) was not used because prospective mail service bidders were unable to furnish a suitable airplane.

Between June 26, 1950, and July 31, 1953 MATS transported 43,196 Korean conflict casualties to the U. S. for further hospitalization.

"We believe that the STRIKE command is the best place to develop a plan whereby we can deal with joint Army and Air Force phases of aviation" - Roswell L. Gilpatric, deputy secretary of defense.

Finance Office Wins

The efforts of 1500 personnel in Air Training Command's accounting and finance office has earned ATC its second consecutive Best Performance Award.

Accurate and timely submission of financial data determine the winner of the annual plaque given by the Air Force Accounting and Finance Center in Denver, Colorado.

Lt. Gen. James E. Briggs, ATC commander, was informed of the award by Finance Center commander, Maj. Gen. Paul Schiedecker. ATC has won the only two awards presented since competition started in 1960. In winning, ATC competed against other major Air Commands, including Strategic Air Command, Air Defense Command, Air Force Systems Command and United States Air Forces in Europe.

Judges considered 7200 financial reports and 440,000 ATC documents during the evaluation period. This was a small portion of the total number of documents and reports handled by the command during the year.

Military pay records and allotment documents were among the 23 types of forms evaluated.

OFFICER ASSIGNED

Second Lieutenant Richard L. Neal, graduate of Purdue University and recent graduate of Officer Training School, has been assigned to Reese as personal affairs officer.

be worn by the men, cocktail or evening dresses by the wives!

OWC newcomers and wives of Lubbock city officials will be guests at the Dec. 13 formal Christmas tea and style show, Mrs. Elwyn G. Kirby, chairman, has announced.

The Officers Wives Club bowling league will open Nov. 28. The league will accommodate 32 women, Mrs. Kenneth Pearson states. Morning bowling will be done. If there is enough interest in an afternoon league, one may be formed.

Captain and Mrs. David Reiner left Nov. 5 for a visit in Ohio before he goes overseas.

PTG After Points In Race For Trophy

Seeking to add points to its leadership in the 1962 race toward the Commander's Trophy, the Pilot Training Group this week sent its soccer team to Sheppard AFB for the annual Air Training Command Tournament.

The group has 1,440 points, with Air Base Group in second spot at 760 points. The Pilot Training Group has won in basketball, volleyball, swimming and diving, golf, softball, and touch football.

Captain Charles E. Rasmussen is coach and captain of the soccer team which left Tuesday for ATC competition. Accompanying him were Second Lieutenants Hellmut Sell, Manfred Vanderstien, Ahmad Jamil, Nang Yalai, Mir Omar, Gale A. Coronel, Arturo M. A. Guevara, Reimer Runge and Fredrick E. Tilton, Staff Sergeants Horst Horn, Manfred W. Ettrich and Guenter W. Schmidt and Airman Timoteo Castro.

Last Sunday the Group lost an exhibition game to Webb AFB, 2-1. There was no score at halftime, but Webb scored twice in the third period. Lieutenant Coronel scored for Reese in the fourth period.

Wins at Sheppard will add to the Commander's Trophy score for the group and add to the base points in ATC competition.
