Base CWO's Get Elevations From USAF

Results from the Temporary Warrant Officer selection board show that two Reese warrant officers, Weldon L. Faulkner, base commissary officer and Stephen Hutzaluk, property accounting officer of M&S Group, will be promoted by special orders issued by USAF headquarters on Oct. 1.

CWO Faulkner, who has been in the service for 22 years, five overseas, will be promoted to temporary W-4. He is the recipient of several medals; among them are the American Campaign, American Defense, World War II Victory, National Defense, and others. Mr. Faulkner is married to the former Mable Reagan of Philadelphia, Pa. They are the parents of two daughters and one son.

CWO Hutzaluk, who has a total of fifteen years of service with three overseas tours, will be promoted to temporary W-3. He has received several medals also. He is married to the former Olga Nichiporuk of Detroit, Mich.

Air Force-wide, 201 will be promoted to W-4 and 496 to W-3. A total of 378 W-4's and 1501 W-3's were considered by the pentagon board that began meeting May 8.

Secretary Studies AF Resignations

Secretary of the Air Force Eugene Zuckert has ordered a special study into the reasons why regular and career reserve officers resign or request separation.

Checking into officer career motivation, Mr. Zuckert requested that commanders interview until July 18 all officers who are requesting separation and submit information on the interviews.

Data should include rank, years of active commissioned service, aeronautical rating, component, DAFSC, reason for leaving, factors which might influence the officer to remain on active duty, and determination if past or future large scale removals from flying status have been a major factor in the officer's decision to leave.

Information is due at USAF headquarters, by July 19.

RED CROSS GETS IT

They asked for blood and got it—a statement that sums up the situation that American Red Cross officials are finding themselves in with their blood donor program. By the middle of June, the 30 millionth pint since WW II has been donated, Red Cross President Alfred M. Gruenther announced.

GOES MECHANIZED—Leave accounting for all Reese military personnel becomes mechanized as SSgt. Kanah P. Johnson, NCOIC of the new mechanized personnel section, and Mrs. Delores Collins punch the first card to account for leave on an IBM Printing Card Punch. The system becomes effective July 1. ROTC Summer Encampment Schedules Training, Visits

Two hundred AFROTC cadets from 37 colleges and universities of the United States this week were learning how a competent Air Force base functions as they moved through the first week of the Summer Training Unit program at Reese.

The cadets, from schools across the nation, arrived Sunday and immediately entered training intended to show them various phases of base operation. Some will be commissioned on graduation next month, while others will complete another year in college prior to becoming second lieutenants. Eight trainees are from Texas Tech.

Col. Harold T. Babb, deputy base commander, told the cadets in his welcome address that their 28 days of training would be intense and vigorous, serving to test them as potential Air Force officers.

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce is planning to take the cadets to farms and ranches of West Texas for visits. Some of the cadets have never been on a ranch or farm.

Recreational events planned for the training period includes a July 3 dance at Mathis Service Club. Girls interested in attending the function will be provided transportation to and from the base. Inquiries may be made at the service club.

OCS, OTS MOVES SLATED

USAF headquarters has announced scheduled moves for the Air Force Officer Candidate and Officer Training Schools from Lackland AFB, Tex. to the former Atomic Energy Commission installation at Medina, Tex. The new location, approximately one mile from Lackland, will be known as the Lackland Training Annex. The OTS move is scheduled for later this month. The OCS contingent will move in late September.

Mrs. Mires Wins Safe Driver Prize

Mrs. Marilyn Mires, Hospital civilian worker, has been awarded the first monthly cash prize as the most courteous and safe driver on the base.

The award is being offered by the American Federation of Government Employees and nominations may be made by anyone. Mrs. Mires was named winner for courtesy and safety in granting another driver the right-of-way at an intersection.

Col. Harold T. Babb, deputy base commander, presented the award at a meeting of the base ground safety council. He also presented a $100 cash award to the Pilot Training Group for its .002 cents average accident cost per person for the past three months. Capt. Francis R. Patino accepted for the group.

Congress Sent Solution To Promotion Problems

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — A bill (H.R. 7697) to solve the Air Force's field-grade promotion problem was submitted to Congress last week as part of the Department of Defense legislative program scheduled for congressional attention before the summer recess.

Its main provisions were two-fold: temporary authorization of an "overage" for one year of 3,000 lieutenant colonels now, and permanent, across-the-board revision of the Air Force's Officer Grade Limitation Act (OGLA) later (tentatively scheduled for the next congressional session that begins in January, 1962).

In the bill's letter of introduction to the Speaker of the House, the Office of the Secretary of the Air Force said, "Pending completion of consideration of the recommendations of the Department of Defense Ad Hoc Committee (Bolte Committee) a temporary authorization for an additional 3,000 lieutenant colonels is proposed for the period ending June 30, 1962."

"This authorization will permit the Air Force to continue its FY 1962 promotion plan pending final action on Bolte Committee recommendations," the secretary's office explained. "It will allow the Air Force to select for promotion to the grade of lieutenant colonel 80 per cent of the 7,612 majors who will be in their 18th and 19th year of active commissioned service, 3,000 of whom can be promoted in March, 1962," the letter elaborated.

"These promotions will be divided about equally between regular and reserve officers. Promotion of the remaining number selected would depend upon final resolution of the question of a permanent grade distribution table."

The letter noted "without legislative relief" promotional opportunities for active duty reserve officers would dry up indefinitely. "As long as the Air Force requires the active duty service of reserve officers, it is morally obligated to allow them to compete with regular officers for promotion to the higher active duty grades," Mr. Zuckert said, adding that, "The requirement to continue a substantial number of reserve officers on active duty for the foreseeable future is self-evident."

"The procurement and retention of regular officers is also a matter of considerable concern when the career progression opportunity in the Air Force is confined to the mandatory permanent promotion phase points as currently prescribed in law for regular officers (7, 14, 21 for captain, major, lieutenant colonel respectively)," the USAF letter told Congress.

Both situations are incompatible with the great emphasis which has been placed on the retention of young officers in the service by the Air Force, the Department of Defense, and the Congress," the letter concluded. "The Air Force was composed of relatively young officers in 1954 when Congress passed the Officer Grade Limitation Act, and as a consequence received a lesser per cent of field grade authorizations than other services received. "This action provided a limited career progression opportunity for a large majority of Air Force officers," the secretary's letter said. In every category, except in the grade of major where Congress allowed a temporary 3,000 overage two years ago, the Air Force is behind its sister services.

In a nutshell, the temporary relief in the lieutenant colonel's bracket is addressed to the same problem that occurred two years ago in the major's bracket. The permanent relief envisioned — for example, the Bolte Committee (See PROMOTIONS, Page 2)

7,500th Pilot Gets Diploma

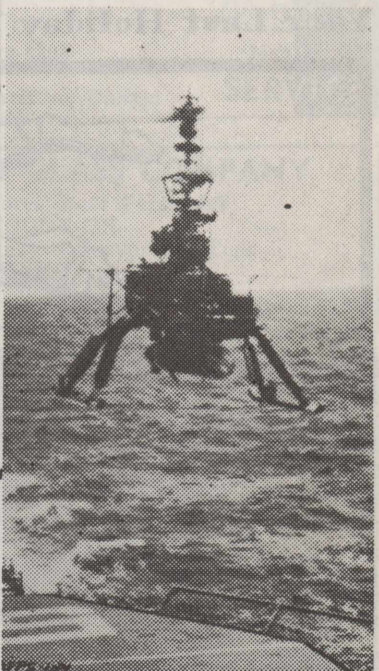

A Pakistan aviation cadet, Amjad H. Faizi of Lahore, became the 7500th graduate of pilot training at Reese Air Force Base when he received his diploma during graduation exercises this morning at the base.

Reese graduated 6,789 student officers and aviation cadets, including 257 students of foreign countries, during training in B-25 conventional aircraft and has run its total graduates to 7,479 in classes previously graduated. Members of Class 61-G-2 received their wings today. Cadet Faizi was the 21st member of the class to be graduated.

He is a high school graduate who received a degree in biology from the Government College in Lahore in 1959 and completed study in the Pakistan Air Force College in Risalpur, West Pakistan in 1960. He participated in debating and essay writing, along with cricket, in college.

THIRD LIEUTENANTS REAL

About 194 "3rd Lts." will be leaving the Air Force Academy this month to various Air Force installations. All members of the class of 1962, the Academy First Classmen shove aside textbooks to put into practice theories learned about being a junior officer.

UNMANNED CHOPPER — Hovering in free flight over the flight deck of a destroyer, the Navy's new DASH (drone anti-submarine helicopter) goes through its paces. Suspended under the drone's body is a homing torpedo, the mainstay of the DASH system.

Graduation Adds 27 Air Force Pilots

Graduation of Class 61-G-2 from basic pilot training at Reese today added 27 additional pilots to the United States Air Force and gave Pakistan and Colombia qualified jet pilots, also. Pilot wings and diplomas went to the 27 aviation cadets who took their oath as second lieutenants during graduation in the base theater. Six Pakistan cadets and a Colombian officer also were awarded diplomas.

Second Lt. David S. Robinson received the Daughters of American Colonists Award as highest ranking student of the class in Air Training Command. He also was presented with the Commander's Trophy as highest ranking student of the base and was recognized as a Distinguished Graduate. Second Lt. Curtis Norling also was recognized as a Distinguished Graduate.

Attorney Waggoner Carr of Lubbock, twice speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, was the graduation speaker. He was introduced by Col. Harold T. Babb, deputy base commander, who also was to make other awards to graduates.

Distinguished graduates received awards from Col. William A. Martin, commander of the M&S Group, and Col. Charles W. Sawyer, Pilot Training Group commander, presented the Daughters of American Colonists Award.

Col. Casimir Myslinski, commander of the 3500th Pilot Training Squadron, served as master of ceremonies, Capt. Lucian Ferguson, flight commander, administered the oath of office to aviation cadets who became second lieutenants today, and Chaplain James D. Taylor gave the invocation and benediction.

From The COMMANDER'S DESK

By Col. L. C. Hess, Base Commander

General Curtis E. LeMay, who will become the Chief of Staff for the United States Air Force on July 1, has said that "one of the greatest needs facing the Air Force today is to improve the quality of our writing.

"It takes us too long to get our ideas down on paper, we use too many words to say what we mean, and too often our meaning is not clear. Then, because of poor writing, our readers have to waste their time trying to understand us."

The quality of your writing has a lot to do with how well you perform your duties. If your writing is not clear, the reader does not know what you want him to do. If you do not say what you mean the first time, he has to ask for clarification. Poor writing means a loss to the Air Force.

Air Force Manual 10-4 "Guide for Air Force Writing" is an excellent publication that can help us write more rapidly, concisely and clearly and, in turn, what we write can be read more quickly and with more assurance of understanding.

All Air Force Personnel who write or approve the writing of others should read and study this manual and apply its principles.

Loyalty, All Or Nothing

In one of the old effectiveness report forms, now obsolete, there was a scale upon which a man's loyalty could be graded. This was quickly rescinded when it was generally agreed that it was not possible to be a "little" loyal any more than to be a "little" alive. One is either loyal — or he is not.

On many orderly room walls commanders have posted these words on loyalty as written by Elbert Hubbard:

"If you work for a man, in heaven's name work for him.

If he pays your wages which supply your bread and butter, work for him, speak well of him, stand by him and stand by the institution which he represents.

If put to a pinch, an ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness.

If you must vilify and condemn and disparage, resign your position. And when you are on the outside, dance to your heart's content. But as long as you are part of the institution, do not condemn it.

If you do that, you are loosening the tendrils that are holding you to that institution, and at the first high wind that comes along you will be uprooted and blown away — and you will never know the reason why."

Probably in no area of society is the virtue of loyalty more necessary than in military life. Loyalty to leaders and to the organization result in unity and promptness of action. It is evident that such a virtue does not appear full-blown in times of danger only to recede during peacetime. Unless honor, truth, integrity, square-dealing and loyalty mark our workaday lives in the Air Force, we labor in vain.

"We must make certain the Russians do not lead in missiles or in space vehicles. Only because our Strategic Air Command still makes risk of surprise attack unacceptable to Russia's rulers have we been saved from dire consequences."—Rep. Clarence Cannon, to the new session of Congress.

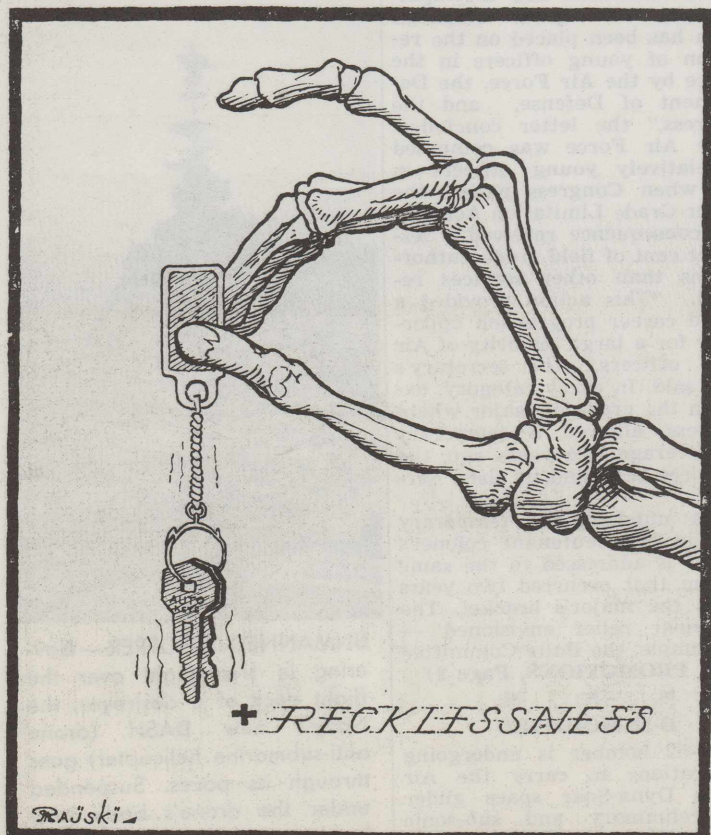

Within its total resources, the Air Force clearly recognizes the need for capabilities to meet the broad spectrum of possible armed conflict. Included in this effort must be combat and support elements which would be particularly adaptable to counter limited war aggression. We have such forces in our airlift units, our overseas tactical air forces and in our Tactical Air Command based in the continental United States.

General Thomas D. White, USAF Chief of Staff

"Any comparison of overall American strength with overall Soviet strength finds the United States not only superior, but so superior both in present weapons and in development of new ones that our advantage promises to be a permanent feature of United States-Soviet relations of the foreseeable future."—Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Parson-to-Person Basic Question Shows Purpose

By Chaplain Jerry L. Rice
The basic question of life — "What are you for?" It seems a natural question to ask. Certainly, unless we decide this, life cannot be meaningful.

Everything has a purpose in life. Forks are for dining; hoes are for gardening; automobiles are for transportation. You don't eat with an automobile, ride on a hoe, or garden with a fork. Why not? Because that is not what they are for. If you don't know what a thing is for, how on earth can you use it?

A Christian believes that you were made by God, to serve and love Him. So if you are aiming for wealth, popularity or pleasure — DON'T — just aim at loving God — because that is what YOU are for!

recommendation — is addressed to the entire problem.

One of the Bolte committee recommendations, still under study by the Defense Department, calls for a uniform officer grade limitation structure for all services on this formula: Col./Capt., 5.5 per cent; Lt. Col./Cdr., 12.35 per cent; Maj./Lt. Cdr., 17.70 per cent; Total, 35.55 per cent.

Adoption of Bolte Committee recommendation on OGLA would result in a net increase of 5,600 field grade slots for the Air Force. It would give USAF 1,600 additional colonels, 4,800 lieutenant colonels, and 800 less majors. More importantly, it would give desired flexibility as grade authorizations can be applied down, that is, colonel's slots being filled by lieutenant colonels, lieutenant colonel's by majors.

What of the effects of this legislative proposal on previous 1961 lists of officers selected for promotion to lieutenant colonel and major?

As it looks now, all lieutenant colonels on the previously announced selection list will be promoted by August. More than two-thirds of the new majors also should be promoted in August.

Air Force Receives Safety Award Again

The highest recognition this country can give for reduction of ground accidents, the National Safety Council's Award of Honor, has been handed again to the Air Force.

This makes the 11th consecutive year that USAF has won this honor! It's a record never equalled by other government agencies, municipalities or industrial concerns.

In winning this year, the ground accident rate was reduced by 12 per cent.

SPACE DUST SOUGHT

An Aerobee-Hi sounding rocket has been fired more than 100 miles above the New Mexico desert in an attempt to trap and recover extraterrestrial dust from outside the earth's atmosphere. It was explained that these dust particles or micro-meteorites pose a potential threat to space travelers.

WINGLESS FLIGHT — A new man rocket controlled flight is demonstrated by the Army Transportation Research Command. The rocket, attached to the back, has flown man to the top of 30-foot hills and traveled ground distances up to 300 feet. It is powered by a twin-jet hydrogen peroxide propulsion system.

FLASH! Congressional Action Starts

Sub-committee No. 1 of the House Armed Services Committee, the Kilday Sub-committee, heard the OGLA Temporary Relief Bill on June 21, and voted to report a clean, new bill to the full committee on Armed Services. The new bill will contain one major change — it will authorize an average of 4,800 lieutenant colonel authorizations for one year.

The administration bill, H. R. 7697, asked for an average of 3,000 lieutenant colonel authorizations. The sub-committee approved the bill for temporary relief. This congressional session, permanent relief is expected by congressional action next year along the lines of the Bolte Committee recommendations.

Next step is approval by the full House Armed Services Committee before the bill is referred to the floor of the House. Similar action will follow in the Senate if the House passes the bill.

Bill H. R. 7651 would grant sliding scale percentages of flight pay beginning at a minimum of 50 per cent for 10 years rated commissioned service and ending at a maximum of 100 per cent for 20 or more years of rated service. It was scheduled for presentation to the Kilday Sub-committee June 22.

Next step, if the sub-committee approves, action will follow the same pattern as the OGLA proceeding.

Commands Initiate Central Control Of Assignments

Centralized control of officer assignments will start at major command level Jan. 1, 1962, USAF headquarters has directed.

Commands have been instructed to put into effect "the following minimal controls":

1. Assignment of individual officers to operating locations.
2. Specification and change of duty AFSC only at major command level.
3. Intra-command PCS assignment only at major command level.

Tactical Air Command headquarters at Langley AFB, Va., already has established its major command level assignments and reports that it has resulted in greater job satisfaction, greater efficiency, and savings in manpower and money.

The USAF directive to centralize officer assignments was forecast May 29, when Pentagon officials told of an entirely new career management program for officers. While most of the program was geared to the long-run view, some actions could start immediately, one official said at that time.

Centralized officer assignments is one of the immediate steps.

What it means to the individual is that he will have a better career opportunity since command-wide vacancies by definition will be wider in scope and in types of jobs than comparable openings at base level.

"Self development kits" which can be used by the individual officer to chart his career measured by progress of his contemporaries are in the process of being made up. A handy book of facts to include information now found in various regulations about prerequisites for promotion, service schooling, etc., also will soon be published.

And USAF headquarters is currently revising AFR 36-23, which concerns officer career management.

TAC says of its experience with command level centralized assignment that officers get the word quicker on their new assignments.

VA Seeks Better Rights Knowledge

Peacetime veterans are complaining to the Veterans Administration that they were improperly counselled about their rights on leaving the service.

The Veterans Administration says that many peacetime vets claim they were told on discharge that they were eligible for VA medical care.

This is decidedly not the case, notes the VA, except for those peacetime veterans who were discharged for disability.

AFP 34-4-a, "Going Back to Civilian Life", covers this subject, and USAF headquarters wants officials who monitor separations to insist on accuracy of information regarding veterans' benefits.

HOP PLANNED

Reese's Junior and Senior Teen Club will have a combined record hop and picnic this evening, from 7-11 p.m. at the base picnic area.

PIGGYBACK AIRLIFT—Artist's drawing shows an Air Force C-133 carrying the second stage of a Saturn C-1 missile in piggyback fashion. The method was proposed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to airlift the second stage from tests in Sacramento, Calif., to its launch site in Cape Canaveral, Fla., in only 10 hours. The original plan, requiring 24 days, called for shipment by barge.

Youth Activities

Free baton twirling instruction will be given to all Reese youths from 9-10:30 a.m., June 26-28, at the base tennis courts.

Mrs. Sharon Kersenbrock, a member of the National Baton Twirling Association, will conduct the clinic.

Batons will be furnished to those who do not have them.

'Suggestion Award'
Incentives Greater

Well over half a billion dollars have been saved during the six-year-long Civil Service "Suggestion Award" campaign, and the Civil Service "Suggestion Award" campaign, and the Civil Service Commission has embarked on newer incentives to bring about further savings in governmental operation.

Under the new rules that becomes effective July 1, the minimum cash award will be increased from $10 to $15, but will only be awarded when amounts up to $50 are saved. This provision will lower the preceding cost.

'00th News

By Capt. William Roth

Capt. Lucian B. Ferguson, Flight 7's commander, graduated his flight today. Families of the graduates visited the squadron Thursday, when they had an opportunity to observe squadron operation.

Capt. Ferguson has been re-assigned to Flight 9 as flight commander. The move is in conjunction with the realignment of instructors in the squadron required by the new Phase II class which will join the 3500th PTS in August.

Capt. Charles R. Penola is the new Flight 7 commander and Capt. John R. Des Jardins is assistant. Capt. Gale L. Hearn will assume Capt. Penola's former duties as Flight 6 assistant flight commander.

Flight 6 has soloed 100 per cent of its students, only five weeks after the first scheduled flying day. This is a record which compares favorably with class checkouts in the T-33, although most of the Flight 6 students had never been at the controls of an aircraft prior to joining the flight.

HITS RECORD

The 41st Pilot Training Squadron at Laredo AFB has flown more than 30,000 accident-free hours in its training program. The record started in August, 1957. Commander of the squadron now is Lt. Col. Buford W. Barker, former wing operations officer and former Pilot Training Group executive officer at Reese.

"How" Of Artificial Respiration Listed

News columns have been filled recently with dramatic accounts of lives being saved by mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration to re-start breathing. How to do it is another matter and not often publicized.

Rescue breathing, or mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, is done by carrying out the following steps:

1. Place patient on back.
2. Clear his mouth of debris.
3. Thrust his head backward.
4. Lift his tongue and jaw.
5. Pinch his nostrils.
6. Seal your mouth over his mouth.
7. Blow until his chest lifts.
8. Remove your mouth and listen for breathing.
9. Blow again and repeat 10-15 times per minute, as necessary.

BEST DRIVER—Mrs. Marilyn Miers, selected as the base's safest and most courteous driver for May, receives her award from Col. Harold T. Babb, deputy base commander. She was most courteous at a highway intersection and was selected from many nominees in the monthly contest.

BEST RECORD—Capt. Francis R. Patino, school secretary, left, accepts a check for $100 from Col. Harold T. Babb, deputy base commander, as an award for the Pilot Training Group ground safety record. The group had a .002 cent average accident cost for three months.

Leave Records Mechanized

Mechanized leave records will be established July 1 at Reese as the first in a series of steps that may eventually lead to complete mechanization of personnel records.

Under the new leave system, individuals applying for leave will fill out their request for leave in three copies, using ATC Form 2. The leave request is then left in the orderly room where the leave order number is assigned. When an individual desires to depart on leave, he will report to the orderly room where the commander or his authorized representative will enter the hour and date of departure and furnish the individual with a copy of the authorization.

Upon return from leave, the individual again reports to the orderly room and has the hour and date of return entered.

The new leave mechanization program is expected to provide a more accurate, efficient and rapid system for processing leaves and leave accounting.

Twice a year commanders will receive machine rosters giving the amount of accrued leave for each individual. This will facilitate establishment of the unit's annual leave schedule.

Details of the new leave procedure are spelled out in Wing Regulation 35-22.

Canada, U.S. Agree To Share Defense

The Canadian and United States Government has signed an agreement concerning the air defense of the North American continent and production sharing between the two countries.

According to the terms of the agreement, the United States will procure in Canada F-104G aircraft on a production cost sharing arrangement between the two countries.

The United States in addition will furnish at a time yet to be set, F-101B all-weather interceptor aircraft to Royal Canadian Air Force squadrons specifically allocated to the North American Air Defense Command. The cost of manning, operating and maintaining these aircraft (except for certain initially furnished spares) will be the responsibility of Canada.

Upon signing of the agreement, Canada will assume all United States financial responsibilities in connection with operation and maintenance of five radar stations. In addition, on dates to be agreed upon, Canada will assume all United States responsibilities in connection with financing, manning, maintaining and operating 11 other radar stations.
