Orders Promote Sixty-Three Airmen; One Named By ATC

Sixty-three Reese airmen this week sewed on stripes of higher rank as they were listed on the October promotion list. Six went to staff sergeant, 19 to airman first class and 38 to airman second class.

Elevated to staff sergeant as especially well qualified in a frozen career field was Thomas F. Reeves of the commissary. He was selected by Air Training Command from among candidates from all bases.

Varied Plans Will Highlight Special Week

Many activities, highlighted by demonstrations at the main fire station, will mark observance of Fire Prevention week, Oct. 8-12, at Reese. Maj. John L. Johnson, Jr., fire marshal, and Truett S. Cranford, fire chief, will direct the program.

The daily demonstrations at the fire station will include presentation of a lecture on fire hazards, demonstrations of extinguishers, and smell and smoke tests. All base people and dependents will attend.

Demonstrations are scheduled for 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. daily. Monday the Air Base Group and Pilot Training Group people will attend. Tuesday is set aside for the Civil Engineering and Hospital Groups, Wednesday for the M&S Group and Reese Elementary School children, Thursday for the Student Squadron and attached units, and Friday for Pilot Training Wing personnel and dependents living in the government housing area and trailer park.

Fire prevention pamphlets have been distributed to housing areas; a fire prevention banner is at the main entrance; displays are up in the base theater and BX; and a miniature cemetery has been set up on the main drive, with safety slogans on each headstone.

Large posters have been placed over the base, a slogan and poster contest has been conducted for school children and fire drills will be held at the elementary school. Saturday has been set aside as Kids' Day and fire hazard demonstrations will be held at each station.

"We expect to have one of our most successful Fire Prevention Weeks," said Chief Cranford.

Insurance Policy Premiums Assured

(AFNS) — Payment of premiums and interest on commercial life insurance policies, held by reservists and guardsmen called to active military service in the buildup, will be guaranteed by the Veterans Administration.

The VA will pay premiums to the commercial companies during the policyholder's period of active service and for two years afterward. The total amount that the VA can guarantee will not exceed $10,000 on each individual. The guarantee of the premium payments is possible under the provisions of the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act.

Men called in the Air Force buildup are reminded, however, that the protection of their policies by the payment of the premiums is in reality a loan against the policy which must eventually be repaid.

Ten per cent of fire deaths result from smoking in bed, on a sofa or in a chair.

GIVES 'THE WORD' — Lt. Col. Fred Dietrich discussed the Air Force program in his Tuesday talks in the base theater.

★ ★ ★ Closer View Of AF Plans Offered Here

Reese personnel Tuesday received a closer view of the Air Force program of the present and future as Lt. Col. Fred Dietrich of the Minuteman Missile Section, Los Angeles, visited the base for two one-hour discussions.

The colonel, assigned in the USAF Speakers Program, is an honor graduate for 1961 of the War College.

He reviewed the Air Force arsenal, both missiles and manned aircraft, pointing out roles and capabilities. He showed a movie on the Minuteman ICBM and told how Minuteman wings will be used. He also said major work is being done on defense against missiles.

Col. Dietrich reviewed the mission and role of the Air Defense Command, stating that the Air Force carries 73 per cent of the burden of defense against air attack.

He also discussed the Strategic Air Command mission, citing that it is the primary deterrent to war because of its B-52's, complemented by various missiles, including the Hound Dog and Skybolt. The Hound Dog, with a range of over 400 miles, and Skybolt, with a range of over 1,000 miles, will be carried under the B-52 wings.

Col. Dietrich spoke of the President's lunar program, illustrating with slides how the lunar vehicle would take off from the earth, then take off from the moon to enter the atmosphere.

Throughout his talk, which also was given to a Lubbock Kiwanis Club at noon, the colonel used upward of 60 slides, in addition to the movie.

Oct. 15 Set For Elevation Of Twenty-Four To Captain

Captain ranks at Reese Air Force Base will be increased by 24 on Oct. 15 as the result of promotions.

Col. L. C. Hess, Reese commander, Tuesday notified the 24 first lieutenants that they become captains on that date and may put on the double bars which signify the higher rank.

The colonel counseled the men being promoted that their responsibilities become greater and they must continue leadership.

Included in the 24 who are elevated to captain are 16 instructor pilots and check pilots in the undergraduate pilot training program at Reese, 7 students in pilot training and 1 officer assigned to the Weather Detachment. Five first lieutenants recommended by Reese, but reassigned recently, and two former students of the base are on the promotion-to-captain list.

Present instructors and check pilots moving to captaincies are 1st Lieutenants Ernest A. Bedke, Donny D. Clemens, Thomas M. Colman, William F. Dean, Jr., Frederick H. Faulkner, John P. Gardner, Richard S. Gregory, Lloyd G. Kile, James K. Kuhns, Albert R. Langford, Jr., James K. McPherson, William D. McWilliams, III, Leonard E. Niski, Lyn R. Officer, Robert A. Rasmussen and Ronald D. Tingley.

Students being elevated in rank are Myrwin H. Anderson, Douglas C. Bell, John E. Hernandez, William B. Mahone, William J. Matthews, Paul H. Schnucker and Robert B. Wagner.

Moving up also is 1st Lt. David W. Mugg of the Weather Detachment.

Former Reese officers who are being promoted are 1st Lieutenants Carl R. Gregory, Karl H. Grosh, Ronald F. Kibler, James A. Tillotson and Ronald J. Tucker. Former students designated to become captains are Charles C. Decker and Charles L. Wilmot, Jr.

The Reese new captains are among 8,072 brand new captains as of Oct. 15.

Of 7,879 line officers considered, 7,740 were selected, with 93 passed over for the first time and 46 for a second time.

Space 'Sandwich' Stronger Booster

(AFNS) — A space "sandwich" consisting of two pieces of lightweight metal around a honeycomb type filling may be the key to lighter and stronger space boosters for Air Force missiles. The honeycomb sandwich structure, although not a new development, is being tried for the first time in a rocket motor case at the Aeronautical Systems Division's Manufacturing Technology Laboratory at Wright-Patterson AFB.

One of five fires daily is caused by faulty heating systems.

Skeet Range Opens In Saturday Rites

Grand opening of the Reese skeet range is scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday following the wing inspection.

After the ribbon-cutting, a skeet team from Air Base Group is scheduled to meet a team from the Pilot Training Wing in a one-round match of 25 shots.

Shooting for ABG will be Col. Roscoe B. Wodruff, Lt. Col. Dwain A. Rockie and Majors Joe Setnor, Harold Barber and Richard Conn.

AIDE NOMINATED

(AFNS) — Col. Godfrey T. McHugh, Air Force aide to President John F. Kennedy, has been nominated for promotion to brigadier general.

CAPTAINS-TO-BE — Reese first lieutenants designated to become captains on Oct. 15 gather in front of wing headquarters after being notified of their pending promotions by Col. L. C. Hess, base commander, who joins them for the picture.

Dependents Orientation Courses Set

The first in a series of two Dependents Orientation Courses planned by Family Services will be held at the Reese Elementary School Cafeteria from 7 to 10 p.m. Oct. 23-24. A second course will be held on Oct. 25-26 at the same time and place.

Preparations for overseas movement, casualty benefits, life insurance, service retirement, medicare, and legal aid are only a few of the many subjects to be covered by speakers in the lecture and question type course.

Free nursery service, refreshments, and transportation will be available for those attending the course.

The purpose of the course is to give dependents of all Air Force personnel a better understanding of service benefits and services. All those who complete the first and second day of either course will receive a certificate of completion. All dependents should plan to attend since the topics covered are of vital interest in service life. Those dependents who have attended previous orientations are encouraged to attend as a refresher since there have been changes in some of the topics to be discussed.

Rules Defined For Reupping

(AFNS) — The first term reenlistment objective for Fiscal Year 1963 will amount to 13,614 airmen, spread over 42 career fields, major air commands have been told.

This quota represents the input by career field to sustain the Optimum Airman Plan (55/45).

For purposes of selective reenlistment, first term airmen are those who are serving their first enlistment in the Air Force.

Not eligible under this definition are former enlistees or inductees of any of the armed services who have served a minimum continuous period of active duty exceeding six months.

To insure maximum selectivity all first term airmen with a DOS during the period from July 1, 1962, to Dec. 31, 1962 will be considered, providing they meet the basic eligibility criteria (AFM-39-9).

Certain first term airmen may become eligible for reenlistment subsequent to the time selections are made but before their date of separation if they have been promoted. They may then voluntarily extend their enlistments for the purpose of being considered for reenlistment during the next selective reenlistment cycle.

GENERAL ON TOUR

(AFNS) — Maj. Gen. C. L. Ceuppens, commander, Tactical Air Command, Belgian Air Force, will tour a number of Air Force bases and manufacturing centers during his visit to the United States, Oct. 8-22.

Keep The Good Name

Like a gigantic diamond, the Air Force has many facets. You are one of them. Not only are you one of the facets of the Air Force, but of its brain, muscles and heart. There's an Air Force regulation that deals with this, although it doesn't say it in quite the same language. One long paragraph of the regulation addresses itself to you as a military or civilian member of the Air Force.

It says, in effect, that what people think of you, as an individual, has an impact on what they think of the Air Force as a whole. And it levies on you certain specific responsibilities for maintaining the good name of the nation's aerospace arm. It's AFR 190-6, on the Air Force Information Program.

It says that you are a representative of your service in both official and unofficial contacts with the public, and that you have opportunities to affect public impressions and public opinion. Your contacts with people outside the Air Force, it says, must reflect the highest standards of moral, social and professional ethics.

It says you must refrain from public pronouncements on foreign affairs — "diplomatic matters" is the language it uses. Also on political and legislative matters and on matters "the treatment of which tends to prejudice discipline."

If you write on subjects that will have any circulation among people outside the Air Force or propose to write, speak or take part in some activity that may involve implications of public or community concern, you must obtain review and clearance from the information officer of your organization.

This is not a new regulation; it has been in effect generally in this form for years. It's another indication that wherever you go and whatever you do, you carry the respected name of the U. S. Air Force.

Take as good care of it as you do your own good name.

The Bench and Gavel

(From Office of Staff Judge Advocate)

Most of us in the Air Force are familiar with Article 31 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice. Not only does it protect an accused from having to make incriminating or degrading statements about himself — it authorizes him to remain completely mute throughout the questioning.

This protection arises out of the old American principles of encouraging humane treatment of suspects (after all, they may be completely innocent), and promoting more efficient police work. Thus, incriminating words must come voluntarily or not at all. Police may not relax their efforts to thoroughly investigate offenses by coercing confessions through threats.

In March, 1959, the Court of Military Appeals (COMA) upheld a conviction and stiff sentence of an Army private based upon his intentional falsifications contained in a sworn statement he gave to a Criminal Investigation Detachment agent during a pre-trial investigation.

The court said.

"No investigator can compel any witness — particularly one suspected of an offense — to give sworn testimony, but . . . to let down the bars and permit anyone in the armed services to falsify under oath without fear of any criminal sanction reasons, we hold that a false statement by a suspect under oath would be injurious to military jurisprudence. For the foregoing to an investigator, constitutes the offense of false swearing."

The right to refuse to answer does not carry with it the right to falsify. A man is free to refuse to answer, or to refuse to take an oath to tell the truth when he is suspected. But, he is never free to swear to tell the truth, elect to answer incriminating questions, and then knowingly tell untruths. Oath breaking is serious and punishment severe. The crime of perjury is punishable by a dishonorable discharge and five years confinement at hard labor. The lesser crime of false swearing carries maximum punishment of a dishonorable discharge and two years confinement.

When you certify or take an oath that certain statements are true, be sure that you make every effort to tell the truth.

Cash Awaits Slogan Makers

Janie Dollar, a pert Scottish lassie clad in kilt and tam, has announced that cash prizes await Air Training Command personnel in the "Janie Dollar Slogan Contest."

Janie, who stresses thrift and economy in ATC operations, has started the contest in connection with "Operation Money Tree."

In a letter to Reese, she outlined the slogan contest rules.

"The suggested slogan should sell 'Money Tree' with short, sharp and colorful verbal expressions attributed to me (Janie)," she said. The ideal sayings would have a taste of highlandish money philosophy, coupled with a clever twist, rhyme of such.

"The important thing to remember is that the slogans should always stress 'Money Tree' conservation."

Entries should be submitted to the Office of Information, which will forward them to ATC twice monthly. The command is giving $10 cash a week to the airman sending in the best slogan each week.

Janie also is giving recognition to persons submitting the best "acorns," management suggestions which may grow into "Money Trees."

Parson-to-Person Talents Awaiting Period To Appear As Work Elements

By Chaplain James D. Taylor

The American people have a habit of throwing away so many things that could be useful. When we eat an orange we always throw away the peeling. To us the peel is worthless. Chemists have been called in to study this same orange peel. After research, they discovered a valuable oil in the orange peel — now used in d-ugs, perfumes, soap, ice cream, candy, dyes, plastics, and many useful and important products. Civilization is infinitely richer today because men are finding countless gifts God has placed in the trees, plants, animals, and minerals of this earth. Unlimited discoveries are being made in the realm of science.

Human nature, however, contains more hidden possibilities than anything else, for our lives are packed with undiscovered talents only waiting to be put to work. God has given each of us abilities that can be used in His service, and Christ taught that the usefulness of a person's life is found in what he accomplishes for his Lord.

What about your life? Are you throwing away some talents that could be used for the Lord and the betterment of human life?

From The COMMANDER'S DESK

By Col. L. C. Hess, Base Commander

Although we are continually on the lookout for safety hazards and conditions which may produce accidents, many of us too often unintentionally ignore one of our greatest domestic dangers — fire.

Since next week, October 8 through 12, has been designated as Fire Prevention Week, this period offers us an opportunity to re-examine our areas, both at home and work, for any potentially dangerous conditions. Fire Prevention Week serves also as a reminder for us to maintain a constant vigilance against fire hazards, especially in view of the impending winter season and heating necessities.

The precautions necessary to preclude a costly fire are simple. When we consider the terrible consequences which can be wrought in terms of lives and property because of a fire, any precautions, however difficult, are minor in comparison.

Exercise Swift Strike Sets Record

The largest peacetime military maneuvers in 20 years — Exercise Swift Strike — swept through the Carolinas last August, establishing an all-time record for airborne training operations in the U. S. and spotlighting a new word for the nation's current events vocabulary — STRAC.

What is STRAC — where does it fit into the nation's small war capability, and how does the Air Force help to make STRAC a formidable limited or general war deterrent?

These and other questions concerning STRAC are answered in this week's ROUNDUP, with the first of a two-part feature.

STRAC also will be the subject of a brief but informative Commander's Call talk to be given by Reese unit commanders. Rounding out the October Commander's Call program are the Air Force News Review and a feature film.

With interest in Teen Club activities sharply increasing, Mrs. John L. Johnson, club chairman, said this week that chaperones to supervise weekly functions are needed. "It is necessary for a chaperone or chaperones to be present at each activity," she said. "If every parent will take his turn in sponsoring an activity, no one will be inconvenienced because of the large number participating. Parents chaperoning have found it an enjoyable and enlightening duty." She said parents of all teenagers will be asked to take their turn. The Junior Ten Club, made up of dependents in the seventh and eighth grades, meets Friday night, the Senior Club of older children on Saturday nights. Representatives on the executive committee are Pat Atchison, Judy Westbrook, Glenda Wulf, Jack Darby, David Strack and Gary Paiste. September chaperones were Maj. and Mrs. John Johnson, Mrs. Charles Ford and Mrs. Delmar Atchison, CWO and Mrs. W. L. Faulkner, TSgt. and Mrs. George Williams, SSgt. and Mrs. Basil Smith, Maj. and Mrs. Daniel Shiderly, MSgt. and Mrs. James Woulard, CMSgt. and Mrs. George McGary, Capt. and Mrs. Floyd Longwell, SSgt. and Mrs. Irreal Yardon, Capt. and Mrs. James Mangum and SSgt. and Mrs. Lee Patterson. Mrs. Johnson was hostess for a joint meeting of the Teen Club executive board and adult council Monday.

By Col. L. C. Hess, Base Commander
Although we are continually on the lookout for safety hazards and conditions which may produce accidents, many of us too often unintentionally ignore one of our greatest domestic dangers — fire.

Since next week, October 8 through 12, has been designated as Fire Prevention Week, this period offers us an opportunity to re-examine our areas, both at home and work, for any potentially dangerous conditions. Fire Prevention Week serves also as a reminder for us to maintain a constant vigilance against fire hazards, especially in view of the impending winter season and heating necessities.

The precautions necessary to preclude a costly fire are simple. When we consider the terrible consequences which can be wrought in terms of lives and property because of a fire, any precautions, however difficult, are minor in comparison.

Former Air Force Academy grid star 2nd Lt. Richie Mayo and 2nd Lt. Gerry Meyer are leading Reese's 3501st Student Squadron in the Northern District ATC touch football tourney, in progress at Amarillo AFB. Also playing for the Students are former Academy gridsters, 2nd Lt. Phillip Woods and 2nd Lt. Robert Wagner, both linemen.

Base, Professional Golfers Win In First Reese Pro-Am

of West Texas and Eastern New Mexico.

Tied behind Garrett with 69 were Earl Jacobson, Caprock Country Club, and Eddie Jones, Tulia Lake Country Club, Tulia.

In the pro-am contest, the foursome of J. R. Hundly and O. C. Garner of Meadowbrook and Maj. Richard Condrick and Col. Roscoe B. Woodruff of Reese won first play with 55 in low ball competition. Second place with 56 went to Frank Baker and Paul Emery of Hillcrest Country Club, Lubbock, and Lt. Col. Hanford Wright and TSgt. F. G. Tennison of Reese.

Shooting a 65, Duke Kinkade of the Clovis, N. Mex., Country Club and Earl Jacobson of the Caprock Country Club won the pro-pro contest. Shooting 66 were Garrett and Jake Bechtold, Midland Country Club.

The tournament, which lasted until dark, was followed by a steak barbecue for all contestants in the golf course clubhouse.

Flying List Sent To Field

(AFNS) — About 4,000 Air Force flying officers have been placed in a restricted flying status that excuses them from making proficiency flights, but they will still receive flight pay.

USAF headquarters took the action, putting into effect new Congressional authority which permits excused from flying provisions to begin at 15 years of rated service instead of the previous 20 years.

A roster of veteran fliers affected already has been sent to the field. Instructions said to enforce the new status Oct. 1.

The number in the excused category is considerably under the approximately 7,500 the Air Force had planned to use in the similar flight accrual pay program.

The main reason for the reduction is that cockpit requirements are greater now in the buildup than they were in June when the Air Force outlined the major points of accrual legislation to the House Armed Services Committee.

To the flying officers concerned, there are important money differences between the two programs.

Under the accrual plan, which is still pending in Congress, they would receive a percentage of their flying pay, from 50 to 100 per cent. This would be figured on a sliding scale from 10 to 20 years of rated service.

Under excused status, they will receive 100 per cent of their flying pay as long as the minimum 15 years is met.

For a flier meeting the requirement, it boils down to this: accrual pay would give him 75 per cent of his flight pay; excused status gives him 100 per cent.

Basketball League Sets Oct. 16 Start

Starting date for the 1961 intramural basketball league at Reese will be Oct. 16, with the winner of the season's play representing the base in ATC competition.

Many teams have been working out for the past few weeks and all base organizations who plan to enter a team in the league should organize their players at once. Teams may carry as many players as they wish and all players are committed to play on only one team unless transferred to a different organization.

Deadline for all entrants in the league will be 12 noon, Wednesday, Oct. 11. All entries must be in writing and contain the manager's name, rank and duty phone, plus two officials, with their name, rank and duty phone numbers.

IS WATER PURE? — Marvin J. Clark, one of Reese's many handicapped employees, runs an oxygen test on water used on the base. He's responsible for many duties at the water and sewage plant where he has served with the Air Force for ten years. (Photo by Young)

Base Handicapped Employee Role Larger Than Last Year

Reese reported an increased percentage of disabled persons on its employment roles this week as it joined in observance of Employ the Handicap Week.

A total of 126 of its 648 civilian employees are disabled to give a percentage of 19.3. Included are 93 disabled war veterans and seven women. Last year the percentage was slightly above 16 for Reese.

Typical of the handicapped persons on duty is Marvin J. Clark, a water-sewage plant worker since March 28, 1951.

Clark lost his left leg from just below the knee when he was wounded in a World War II battle near St. Lou, France, in 1944. He was an enlisted man in the infantry.

He spent 11 months in a hospital after his injury and has been back "so many times I can't remember." From 12 o'clock midnight until 8 a.m. he is alone on duty at the Reese water plant, starting and stopping wells, filling up underground tanks for storage, filling overhead pressure tanks, and helping maintain five wells.

"I'm on my feet at least half the time, but I am highly satisfied with my job and the treatment is just fine," comments Clark. "I feel that any handicapped person can perform well in the right job."

Clark is a graduate of a water treatment plant in Atlanta, Ga., sent there by the Air Force to help him do his job.

He wears an artificial leg and periodically must return to a hospital for elimination of deposits on his leg which cause the artificial leg to cause him pain.

He is a native of Lubbock and attended schools here.

He has a son, Marvin Ray with the Army in Germany.

President Kennedy has informed the executive departments that employment of the physically handicapped will continue to be a policy of the federal government.

"It is fitting," he said in a policy directive, "that the government, as an employer, should lead the way in selective placement of physically handicapped persons, so as to utilize their skills and abilities."

For a number of years the Air Force, a leading employer of civilian workers, has found that the physically handicapped are productive workers and capable of doing their assigned tasks. At present the Air Force employs more than 20,000 physically handicapped persons.

Protestant Women Officers Installed

Officers of the Protestant Women of the Chapel will be installed at a luncheon at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Chapel Annex, with Chaplain 1st Lt. Jerry Rice in charge.

New officers are Mrs. Vera Bloomer, president; Mrs. Elizabeth Wallace, first vice president; Mrs. Kay Harrell, second vice president; Mrs. James Kuhns, third vice president; Mrs. Don Morris, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Foch Benevent, visitation chairman; and Mrs. Glenn Kirby, reporter.

Mmes. Robert Rankin and Thomas Colman will hostess the luncheon, with all interested women invited. Each is asked to bring a salad for eight. Reservations are not necessary. Free nursery service will be provided.

Change Announced In Promotion Plan

(AFNS) — Recommendations for promotion to senior and chief master sergeant need not be individually prepared for Fiscal Year 1962, according to a letter sent out to all major commands by the Directorate of Military Personnel, USAF headquarters.

Previously, a promotion board considering an airman for promotion to the grades of E-8 and E-9, was furnished a folder containing, among other things, a commander's recommendation. This is no longer necessary. The appearance of an airman's name on a nomination list or priority listing will be sufficient for consideration to promotion to the super grades.

If a commander wishes to make specific comments on an individual, it will be permissible, but long letters of recommendation are discouraged.

Overall spaces for the E-8 and E-9 grades will be known shortly. Some delay in the publication of these figures has been attributed to the current build-up of Air Force personnel.
