Reese 'Over Top' In Drive

Base Aiding Observance Of UN Week

Reese people are assisting in mapping the program for United Nations Week in Lubbock and will participate in all activities, including the Oct. 25 dinner in the Parkway Manor dining room.

Base members are on various Lubbock committees for the week. Foreign students in training at Reese will be guests at the dinner. During the week international cooperation for peace and brotherhood among free nations is especially stressed.

Speaker at the Oct. 25 dinner will be Mrs. John G. Lee of Connecticut, former president of the League of Women Voters of the United States. She will receive a red carpet reception on arrival in Lubbock.

She was president of the

MRS. LEE

League of Women Voters from 1950 to 1958 and was made president of the overseas education fund of the league in 1959.

In 1955 she was appointed to the College Grants advisory board of the Ford Foundation and was liaison officer for and member of President Eisenhower's foreign operations administration board. She is chairman of the executive committee of the board of trustees of the Connecticut College. She holds honorary degrees from Rutgers University, Cedar Crest College, Hillyer College and Drexel Institute, all honorary doctorates.

Tickets for the UN dinner may be obtained at the base information office.

Students of 30th Nation Training

Burma this week became the 30th foreign country to send students to Reese for pilot training. Two second lieutenants from that nation are among 45 members of Class 63-C arriving for 55 weeks of undergraduate pilot training.

The class includes 37 officers of the United States Air Force, the 2 Burmese, 5 students from Pakistan and 1 from Guatemala.

Training at Reese previously were students of Afghanistan, Austria, Bolivia, Chile, China, Colombia, Cuba, Denmark, Ecuador, El Salvador, Ethiopia, France, Germany, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Iran, Korea, Nicaragua, Pakistan, Peru, Paraguay, Puerto Rico, Philippines, Saudi Arabia, Thailand, Venezuela and Vietnam.

Twenty states are represented in Class 63-C, with four students from Indiana and Ohio, three from California and two each from Florida, Illinois, North Dakota, Louisiana, Kentucky, Michigan, New York and Texas.

All USAF officers received commissions through college AFOTC or Officer Candidate School. Three students hold masters degrees.

"BE FIRE WISE" is the theme most everyone has been hearing and seeing throughout Reese this week. As Fire Prevention Week draws to a close, base firemen have completed 15 fire drills for the benefit of over 2500 base military and civilian personnel in order to make everyone more fire conscious. Shown here are A1C Howard W. Chester and Chief Hays Hefner who demonstrate the use of a fire extinguisher at one such demonstration.

Enrollments In Education Classes Hit Peak On Base

The highest enrollment in education work at Reese in seven years was recorded during the July-September quarter, J. F. Reeves, base education officer, showed in his report just sent to Air Training Command.

The record shows 45 officers and 77 airmen enrolled in college courses during the quarter, most of them at Texas Tech, and that 3 officers and 97 airmen enrolled in group study classes, in addition to 6 civilians.

New enrollments in self-teaching and correspondence courses included 8 officers and 47 airmen, with 70 enrolled at the end of the quarter. From July 1 to Sept. 30, 6 civilians enrolled in ECI courses and 4 civilians, 3 officers and 22 airmen completed ECI courses.

High school GED tests were given 21 airmen and college level GED tests were given 8 men, in addition to 3 end-of-course tests and 15 other tests. The base education office also processed forms aimed at securing further education for 21 officers and 156 airmen. Two officers requested evaluation of college credits.

Ten airmen secured high school diplomas through GED during the quarter and one airman received a college degree through study under "Operation Bootstrap."

PARTY PLANNED

The 24 Reese officers designated to become captains Sunday will host a promotion party for all officers Saturday night at the Officers' Club. Coat and tie will be the dress for festivities starting at 8:30 p.m.

BASE HONORED — Each unit of the base received recognition for participation in the Lubbock United Fund campaign. Serving as a pilot base, Reese went "over the top" in total participation and funds. Its record is serving as a goal for Lubbock organizations in the drive downtown. Base units received Outstanding Citizenship awards for their contributions. Unit commanders are shown after receiving the awards. Seated, left to right are, Maj. William Warring, drive chairman; Col. Harold T. Babb, deputy base commander; Col. Joseph Payne, M&S Commander; Col. Charles W. Sawyer, PTG commander; Col. L. C. Hess, base commander; and Col. Roscoe B. Woodruff, ABG commander. Standing are CWO Basil Parker, commander of Communications detachment; Capt. Glenn O'Banion, MTD commander; Tom Ireland, civilian personnel officer; Maj. Jack Turner, Weather detachment commander; Lt. Col. Victor Correll, Engineers commander; and Lt. Col. Charles F. Ford, Hospital commander.

Base Surpasses United Fund Participation, Money Goals

Recording more than 96 per cent participation and 136 per cent of its financial goal, Reese Air Force Base went "way over the top" in its United Fund Drive, Maj. William Warring, campaign chairman, reported this week.

Seven of ten units reached the 100 per cent participation goal, with all persons contributing. Funds received totaled $10,887.56, far surpassing the goal set at $8,000.

Reese Wins Touch Football Championship

Led by former stars of the Air Force Academy and Georgia Tech, the Reese touch football team easily won the Northern District touch football tournament of Air Training Command last weekend at Amarillo. Reese grew progressively better in scoring as the tournament progressed and allowed no opposition score throughout.

Reese won its first game by forfeit from Mather AFB, when the California unit failed to appear. Sheppard AFB was the first victim, 18 to 0; then Lowry AFB was overcome, 20-0; and Amarillo became the final victim, 24-0 in the championship game.

Second Lt. Richey Mayo, who won All-America mention as Air Force Academy quarterback, was quarterback for the Reese champions, tossing ten touchdown passes and two extra points. Second Lt. Gerald Myer, former Georgia Tech end, snared seven of the passes, while 2nd Lt. James Crabbe, 2nd Lt. Robert Gilliam and SSgt. Glenn Whitsett caught one each. Whitsett also caught two passes for extra points.

Lieutenant Myer was voted the most valuable player of the tournament, with Lt. Mayo as runner-up.

Reese and Amarillo will represent the Northern District next week in the ATC tournament at Sheppard AFB, Wichita Falls.

"This is the most successful United Fund campaign ever held at Reese," Col. L. C. Hess, base commander, told unit commanders. "It is a credit to everyone here that we have been so successful."

Reese served as a pilot organization for the Lubbock United Fund Drive. Its success is being used as a goal in the Lubbock drive which opened this week.

Col. Hess at the kick-off luncheon received an Outstanding Citizenship award for the base for its part in the city campaign. The award goes to units with at least 95 per cent participation and/or 100 per cent of the financial goal.

Reaching full participation here were the Air Base, Civil Engineering and Pilot Training Groups, Hospital, Air Weather Squadron, Air Force Communications Squadron and Mobile Training Detachment. Wing headquarters hit 99.2 per cent, civilians 95 per cent and M&S Group 92.1 per cent.

Percentages on financial goal reached were: ABG 196, Hospital 171, Engineers 166, PTG 146, Weather 138, AFCS 137, Wing 137, Civilians 130, M&S 105, and MTD 100.

Maj. Warring gave credit in drive achievements to key workers in each unit and "the whole-hearted interest and participation of every person, military and civilian, in serving their fellowman by contributing to the worthwhile welfare organizations of the nation and community."

Col. Hess presented Outstanding Citizenship awards to each unit on the base for drive participation. Receiving the awards were unit commanders: Col. Joseph Payne, M&S; Col. Charles W. Sawyer, PTG; Col. Roscoe B. Woodruff, ABG; Lt. Col. Charles W. Ford, Hospital; Lt. Col. Victor C. Correll, Engineers; Tom Ireland, civilian; Capt. Glenn O'Banion, MTD; Maj. Jack Turner, Weather; and CWO Basil Parker, AFCS.

Airman Magazine Offers Army Issue

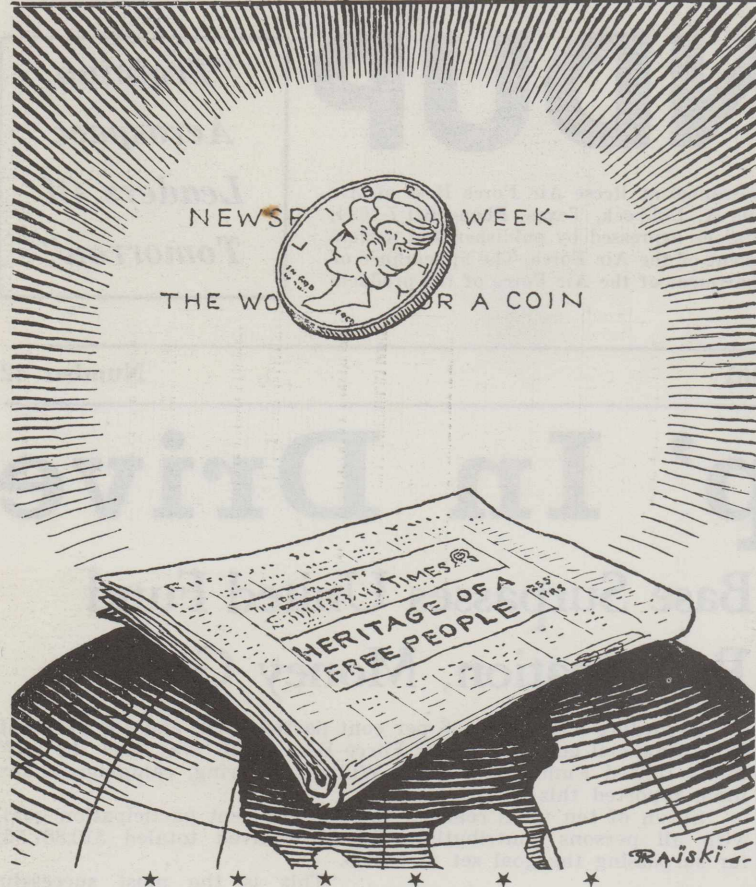

(AFNS) — The Airman Information Digest in its October issue published for its Army audience things we wanted to stress about the Air Force. Now, it's time for turn about. The November issue of The Airman will be devoted to Army topics.

It isn't that The Airman is abandoning Air Force blue. The Air Force's official organ is merely participating in a needed exchange of information with its sister service.

One big point the Army stresses is aircraft types that live in the ground environment of the soldier. Quite naturally, the Army has much to say about helicopters and short take off troop carriers like the Caribou.

Another article tells about the Strategic Army Corps (STRAC) which is soon to be a companion force with elements of Tactical Air Command (TAC) in a unified command under Army Lt. Gen. Paul D. Adams.

Other articles discuss "Aviation Within the Army," "The Primary Role of the Army," "The Combat Arms," and "Training The Soldier."

Newspaper Honored

Reese next week joins military and civilian communities from across the nation in annual observance of National Newspaper Week. It is a time when the general public pays tribute to accomplishments of daily and weekly papers and to their contributions to the welfare of the United States.

Free newspapers in this country, everyone knows, have played a big part in development of the government and nation. They have contributed to knowledge and understanding of all issues.

The ROUNDUP at Reese has sought to carry out its assigned objective, that of being a house organ. It serves the base commander and all members of his staff in informing and entertaining. It has sought — and will continue to seek — to serve the best interests of the base, the Air Force and the nation in its field.

The ROUNDUP cannot devote all of its available space to reporting strictly on activities of the base. It is more than just a room in the house. It must report on the whole house — on objectives and activities of Air Training Command, the Air Force and the nation. This means that room cannot be found for some bits of news about the base. Publication of these items would take space which must be devoted to information on wider fields.

In the future, the ROUNDUP will continue to carry the Air Force, ATC and Reese messages to its readers, and to render this service through the highest journalistic standards.

The Bench and Gavel

(From Office of Staff Judge Advocate)

In a recent case arising in the military courts the accused was charged with wrongful appropriation of money belonging to the United States. From the facts it appeared that the accused position so changed that he was no longer entitled to a certain allotment. Although the accused took some steps to discontinue this allotment, he still signed and cashed checks which he continued to receive.

The court found this man guilty of wrongful appropriation in violation of Article 121, UCMJ, 1961. In affirming the lower court's action, the Board of Review in Washington ruled that a person who receives money knowing that the owner has made a mistake in paying it to him, and who forms a criminal intent to convert the money permanently to his own use, is guilty of a larceny under Article 121, (a) (1) and if his intent is to convert the money to his own use temporarily, then he is guilty of wrongful appropriation under Army-military pay and other special allowances. Consequently, if you know, title 121 (a) (2) of the Code.

This rule will apply to erroneously paid allotments, travel funds, or have reason to suspect, that you are being overpaid, the smart thing to do is to bring it to the attention of the proper persons, and refuse to cash the checks.

Janie Needs More Slogans

Janie Dollar has received some good slogans from Reese personnel in the Janie Dollar slogan contest, opened last week, but she wants many more thrifty ideas.

Everyone is invited to submit a slogan in the contest. Each must sell "Money Tree" with short, sharp and colorful expressions attributed to Janie.

"Money Tree" is the movement to conserve Air Force material and manhours.

Prose or rhyme slogans should be written with a "taste" of Scottish brogue; entries should be limited to four-line construction; all entries must be 25 words or less; and key words should have a thrift or conservation connotation.

In the contest Air Training Command will give $10 weekly for the best slogan. Recognition also will be given persons suggesting "acorns," proposals from which "Money Trees" can grow.

Reese people should use the coupon attached and send it to the Office of Information, which will forward entries twice monthly to ATC.

Parson-to-Person Opportunities Come Frequently To Prepared Man

By Chaplain James D. Taylor

Wise is the man who knows enough to use the opportunities that come his way for betterment of his lot in life. The old statement that "opportunity knocks but once" is not true. There may come several in even one week, but it may be that only one of these is the important one. The man who knows what he wants will be prepared to make the most of any opportunity.

I would like to call your thoughts to one of the most important opportunities that come to any person each week. That is the opportunity to attend religious services. You may not agree with me in this, but I think that anything that has an influence to make man a better husband, father, and citizen is important in all our lives.

I keep inviting people to the Chapel services and not just to say we had a large crowd, but because I feel that everyone has a need of getting closer to God than they are at the present. If you do not go to church, why not try it. It may be the thing you are needing the most. Remember when you go to church you will be associating with some of the best people in the world.

Contracts Awarded For Air Force Work

(AFNS) — Contracts totaling $65,206,899 with five different companies were awarded in September by the Air Force. A letter contract with the Republic Aviation Corp. for $46,900,000 was put on a firm status for the manufacture of the F-105D aircraft. AVCO received a $1,633,736 contract to produce T-53 engines for H43-B helicopters.

Continuation of its development effort on receiving equipment by the Sylvania Electric Corp. was valued at $7,233,999, while the production of the components of the NA-1 aircraft weapon control system brought the Hughes Aircraft Co. of El Segundo, Calif., a contract valued at $1,296,337. Another West Coast manufacturer, North American Aviation, received a contract for $8,142,827 to produce kite and launchers for Guided Air Missile-83, a trainer for F-100 guided air missile capability, as well as some additional equipment.

Service Club Names Champion In Chess

Airman 2C Jack Hollis, assigned to Detachment 11, 25th Weather Squadron, was named Reese chess champion this week.

Airman 2C Robert Egger of the Headquarters Squadron, Civil Engineering Group came in second and third place went to Airman 3C John Stobierski, Headquarters Squadron, M&S Group.

From The COMMANDER'S DESK

By Col. L. C. Hess, Base Commander

It is traditional for the professional military man to exhibit pride in his personal appearance, the wearing of the uniform and the performance of his duties. This attitude is vital not only to the individual's well being, but to the esprit of his entire organization as well.

Because of the nature of our profession, each of us also has a personal obligation to keep ourself in the best physical condition possible at all times. Maintaining the proper standards of weight and physical fitness must be of vital concern to each individual for obvious reasons of good health, longevity and job performance.

In maintaining a favorable physical profile, diligent attention must be given to two important factors: proper diet and appropriate exercise.

Just as we are obliged to do our best toward the accomplishment of the assigned mission; so we are obliged to assure our personal physical readiness for these tasks. Appearance, attitude and fitness all are necessary parts of the truly professional man.

Many Captains On Major List

(AFNS) — A captain-to-major selection board in final meeting indicates that more than 4,600 USAF captains can expect their names to appear on a selection list to major in early December.

The Central Temporary Major's (Line) Board, which started its work Sept. 25, has been working in nine panels to rush its survey of all eligibles. Before this week is out, the initial spade-work will be over.

The panels are looking at three categories of captains:

About 1,350 who have been previously considered and failed to be selected; approximately 4,850 who have come into the primary zone for the first time; about 1,500 who have been nominated for secondary zone consideration by the major air commands.

The board has been instructed that the maximum number of captains that it can select for major is 95 per cent of the newly eligibles — in other words, 95 per cent of 4,850 or 4,608. Thus, 4,608 is the current magic number for captains. All categories of captains — those previously considered, those in the primary zone the first time and those nominated for secondary zone consideration — will compete for this number of slots.

The board has the authority to select up to 10 per cent "below the zone", but USAF officials expect the secondary zone selection this time to be somewhat below this maximum.

Manual Changed On Performances

(AFNS) — A number of changes will be found in the new Air Force Manual 39-62, "Airman Performance Reports," which will reach all commands this month.

The manual replaces AFR 39-62, which shows how to evaluate an airman's duty performance. It will include revisions to the Form 75 as well as the supplement sheet AF Form 77a.

Designed to follow the format of AF Manual 36-10, governing the officers performance, the new publication has an effective date of Dec. 1, 1961. This will give all commands ample time to complete pertinent supplements to the manual and obtain approval by USAF.

Pointed out in the announcement of the new manual is the value of a vigorous program of indoctrination. Provisions for the guidance and information of the individual rating an airman include several changes.

CREDIT CARDS ISSUED

Commissioned officers of the Air Force may secure Braniff Airlines credit cards by making application, it was announced this week. Cards are issued without the usual credit checks and may be used on all routes of the line.

TDY Travel Affected By Law

(AFNS) — A new U. S. customs law that drastically cuts the exemption on foreign goods an American can bring home duty-free has moderate impact on the serviceman and his family.

In a nutshell, personnel are not affected by the new law when on PCS travel. They are bound by it, however, when on most TDYs and on other travel status.

Public Law 87-132, which went on the statute books Aug. 10, reduces the free entry of articles purchased abroad for personal or household use from $500 to $100. USAF stressed that the new provisions have no effect on transporting household goods to the U. S. under AFR 75-57 and AFR 76-29.

These are the regulations which govern duty-free shipment of goods home during normal permanent change-of-station moves by military members and civilian employees. It should be noted, however, that other categories of personnel are eligible for such shipment under these provisions. The most notable are those on overseas temporary duty assignments 140 days or longer.

The new law reflects President Kennedy's call earlier this year for the adverse "gold flow" problem to be met by all Americans, not merely by our citizens in uniform.

Air Force personnel are affected by the new customs law when importing goods while on leave status. Similarly they come under the new provisions when importing goods while on most TDYs. The only exception is TDY of 140 days or longer as stated in AFR 75-57.

PLASTINAUT EXAMINATION — Capt. Joe Traynor, scientist at the Air Force Special Weapons Center in Albuquerque, examines the Air Force's first Plastinaut. Made of rubberized plastic, the Plastinaut will be used in studies of space radiation.

Earth's Lubricants No Good In Space

(AFNS) — Lubricating oils and greases used in earth's aircraft and automobiles will be of no value in space machinery, Gen. B. A. Schriever, commander of the Air Force Systems Command, told an audience recently in Phoenix, Ariz.

Speaking of the lubricating problem in space before a Materials Symposium in the Arizona city, Gen. Schriever said, "Ordinary grease and oils will evaporate in a hard vacuum and smooth metal surfaces will adhere." "The use of heavy machinery in space," he added, "will call for new lubricating materials."

These new materials must be discovered before man will be able to move about in space.

Touching on the subject of reducing weight without too great a sacrifice of strength and durability, which has often puzzled scientists, Gen. Schriever said, "Our materials must be able to withstand new temperatures of heat and cold, but also repeated cycles of temperature change. They must be reliable over a long period of time."

Radiation in space is always a hazard for personnel, the general pointed out. "We need lightweight shielding," he said, "that gives adequate protection without adding too much weight to space vehicles."

In spite of these difficulties he pointed out that several real opportunities lie ahead when we learn how to take advantage of the unusual and extreme environments beyond the Earth instead of treating them as isolated problems that must be solved.

"The vacuum of space," he said, "not only presents some of the difficulties already mentioned, it also offers a unique corrosion free environment for welding and such metallurgical techniques as forming, extending, casting, coating and plating."

"Then too," he told his listeners, "space exploration may eventually lead to the discovery of materials not now known on earth."

"Even without newly discovered materials, we may find that a material invented for some particular use will be found to have new and unusual applications."

This has happened several times in the Air Force space and missile program. Reinforced plastic designed as a material for radomes, was found to be useful in missile nose cones and even in rocket motor cases and nozzle applications. Beryllium, originally a candidate for skin or structural uses, is now found to be valuable in gyroscopes for inertial guidance systems of ICBMs as well as space vehicles.

"The Air Force," he concluded, must not only maintain powerful forces in being; it must also develop as rapidly as possible, the new weapons system capable of meeting the threat of tomorrow — and the day after tomorrow. A key to building this needed aerospace strength is the successful development of new materials."

ering Group, headed by Lt. Col. Victor C. Correll.

There's always a lot going on and a lot planned in the group. Right now, cooperation in plans for a new bowling alley, a recreation center and an instrument landing system are in the spotlight. The group supervises maintenance of all real estate of the base on the 2,862 acres.

One important mission of the Civil Engineers is that of fire protection and aircraft crash and rescue. The flight line crash station and base fire station are operated as a part of the group mission.

Col. Correll is responsible for the overall operation of the group's four main units and several sub-units. These consist of management, real property and cost accounting; engineering, drafting and engineering design; crash rescue and fire department; and the control center, the actual manpower unit of the organization.

The control center supplies the men and machines to carry out work which must be done. In this unit are the shops, preventive maintenance crews, pavement and ground crews and the machinery needed to perform all tasks.

In addition to maintaining the various areas of the base, the civil engineers have a special trouble call section under the control center to service the government housing area, taking care of everything from leaky faucets to lawns in common areas. Extension 671 is a familiar number of housing area occupants seeking assistance in many types of utility troubles.

The civil engineers wouldn't be called that unless construction filled a large part of their program.

Now in planning and partly underway is the new base recreation area at Buffalo Lakes, a project under supervision of the Reese group. Here in the near future, it is hoped, will be erected a 72 by 40 foot clubhouse with a boat storage house underneath. Engineers estimate four months for completion.

Also high in planning is the bowling alley, scheduled for completion by spring. Some funds have been made available for the structure across the road east of Mathis Service Club and the new ultra-modern eight-lane alley measuring 150 by 50 feet partly is responsibility of the engineers.

Future plans include construction of a new system for instrument landings and a new field control tower. These projects include congressional approval for use of funds. In the last fiscal year $750,000 came to Reese through Air Training Command for minor projects, mostly for renovation of flight line buildings and air-conditioning of others.

All this adds up to one thing — the 3500th Civil Engineering Group is a service group, assigned to serve the people of Reese.

REASSIGNED

Col. Kenneth E. Rosebush, former Reese squadron commander, has assumed command of a fighter wing at Richards-Gebaur AFB, Mo. Shortly after Reese was reactivated he commanded the 3501st Training Squadron, now the 3501st Pilot Training Squadron, and was director of flying. He later was director of operations for ADC and was a member of the Joint Strategic Plans Group in the Pentagon.

“Education and professionalism go together to produce top quality people. We don't have the place nor the time for a man who doesn't work at his job in a professional manner. This means he must be professional. This means constant learning and personal improvement. Many airmen and officers are now taking advantage of the educational opportunities being offered in the Air Force. Tomorrow there will be greater opportunities, but intellectual development in a military career is the same as in civilian life — desire marks the difference between the winner and the follower.”
—Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force Chief of Staff

Incentive Proposals Bring Cash Awards

(AFNS) — A nuclear probe under the Greenland ice to get a supply of fresh water, and a small, one-man nuclear weapon were two of many suggestions accepted in the Government Incentive Award program of the past fiscal year.

Both suggestions brought large monetary awards to the persons who made them.

A recently completed summary of the program shows that 110,295 government employees earned special recognition for ideas, while 79,072 were rewarded for "above and beyond the call of duty" job performance.

Command's Emblem Displayed

The smart new emblem for the Air Force's 16th major air command — the Air Force Communications Service — depicts the command's unique role in accomplishing the Air Force mission: providing the communications capability for positive command and control of aerospace forces.

The mailed fist represents Air Force commanders who exercise command and control of aerospace forces. The electronic flashes represent all forms of aerospace communications, which, as the "reins of command," provide the capability through which control of aerospace forces is exercised.

The North Star stresses navigation and flight control as distinct but integrated parts of the command and control capability of the Air Force Communications Service. The world portrays the global aspect of Air Force operations. As depicted, it is a carry-over from the former AACCS emblem, in recognition of the distinguished service of AACCS personnel. The position of the world in the emblem denotes that AFCS, as a new major air command, not only will cover the globe, but in carrying out its new and broader mission, will extend its capability in support of aerospace operations.

'White Elephant' Articles Sought

Wives of Reese officers this week were urged to turn in "white elephant" items in their homes for sale at the Officers Wives Club bazaar Nov. 2.

Mrs. Harold T. Babb is general chairman of the "white elephant" booth and has asked that donations be turned in as soon as possible. The bazaar will be in connection with an OWC luncheon.

Donations may be taken to the home of Mrs. Babb, 115 Andrews Drive, or the homes of Sylvia Lee, 1515 First Place, or Mrs. Richard Condrick, 4013 Forty-Ninth Street, Lubbock. Articles will be picked up if desired. Calls should be made to Mrs. Babb, 2481 in the government housing area; Mrs. Lee, PO 3-3270; or Mrs. Condrick, SW 9-5594.

Aircraft Braking System Developed

(AFNS) — A braking system that will stop a 2,000 mph aircraft on any runway which can now handle the B-52 Stratofortress, is under development at North American Aviation, Inc.

Hailed as an anti-skid device for the control of wheel brakes, now in the prototype stage, it provides a fifth wheel, to be used with the B-70 Valkyrie landing gear system.

Bringing an airplane to a halt in the shortest possible distance has long been a problem. The increase in size and weight, a feature of aircraft development in recent years, has only added to the pilots' problem. Pilots have lost the "feel" of aircraft motion during the landing roll.

ECI Enrollments Move To 315,370

(AFNS) — Enrollment for courses with the Extension Course Institute (ECI) has reached 315,370, according to an announcement made here. In August alone, new enrollments were 27,211, while diplomas awarded during that month totaled 13,528.

About 12,000 persons die annually in fires.

'Careless' Attitude Ruled Out

Self preservation is the first rule of human nature and yet the American public has always seemed to have a "careless" attitude. We wonder why this is so? Why has Civil Defense had such a hard time convincing the people that being prepared for emergency is the shortest way to assuring longevity?

"Most serious United States students of Soviet civil defense are now agreed that the Soviets are supporting an active and very substantial program in this field," according to Dr. Leon Gouré of Rand Corporation in a letter published by the New York Times on July 23. He also stated that:

... The Soviet Union is seriously and actively engaged in a civil defense program within the limits of a budget considerably larger than the one allocated to such a program in the United States.

Not only do ... published reports generally bear out Khrushchev's claim that 22 million trained persons are serving in the civil defense organization, including numerous units in city blocks and apartment houses, but they also provide a good deal of information on the current state of the mass-training program, the existence of shelters (including some in Moscow), unit exercises, and the availability of essential equipment.

Now, it is recognized that the people of the Soviet Union, in a great many matters, have no choice but to do as they are told, while we are truly "the masters of our fate and the captains of our souls." But, should there be a question of "choice" between annihilation or survival?

The military, especially, should be prepared to stay alive. We must survive to fight back. This is our profession, our reason for being. We, at Reese, can begin our survival right now. Learn your shelter area location, know your part in the disaster control plan ... and be alert and live. It's your duty to do so.

Base Women Invited Into AAUW Chapter

Winter Schedule Effective Monday

The winter schedule and winter uniform returns to Reese Monday with personnel reporting for duty at 8 a.m., instead of 7:30 a.m. The base has no optional period for wearing of summer or winter uniforms. Summer uniforms may not be worn after this week.

Wife's Query Given Answer

Numerous questions which may arise in the mind of an Air Force wife will be answered at the Dependents Orientation Course scheduled soon.

"What would you do if your husband was sent overseas to an area where you could not accompany him, and you and your children needed medical care where there was no military hospital nearby?"

"What would you do if your monthly allotment check was delayed for some reason and you needed money for immediate needs?"

"How much life insurance should your husband carry so that in the event anything were to happen to him, the insurance, coupled with service benefits, would provide adequately for you and your children?"

"What benefits will you and your husband have as retired members of the Air Force?"

These are typical questions which will be answered during the course.

The Orientation Course for wives will be the nights of Oct. 23 and 24 and Oct. 25 and 26 from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Reese Elementary School cafeteria. All adult dependents are being urged to attend one of the two courses on the basis of "a small amount of time will pay large dividends throughout your stay in the Air Force."

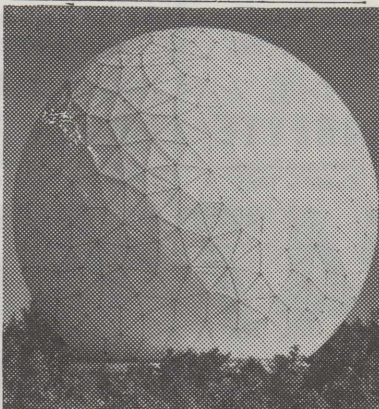

Free nursery service and refreshments will be available for those attending the Orientation. Women needing transportation may call the Family Service Center, Extension 306, week days from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. A Family Service volunteer will pick up individuals in Lubbock or the government housing area.

Already rescinded are portions of AFR 35-10 and AFM 39-9 which can deny overweight airmen reenlistment opportunities and separate them for medical causes.

WORLD'S LARGEST RADOME—This gleaming white aluminum and fiberglass sphere is the largest radome in the world. Sitting atop Haystack Hill, Tyngesboro, Mass., it will shelter a sensitive communications and space research antenna which is scheduled to be "on the air" by the end of 1962. The huge radome is the first of its kind to be built and will be controlled by the Air Force.

Sheppard Due Here For Soccer Contest

Sheppard AFB's soccer team will have a practice match here with the new Reese team at 1 p.m. tomorrow to prepare both teams for the ATC tournament, Nov. 9-14 at Sheppard.

A squad of 15 men, plus a coach and manager, were selected from about 30 who tried out for the Reese team. The bulk of the team is made up of allied students at the base.

Art Tour Tickets Available At Club

Mathis Service Club personnel announced that art tickets are available for the tour of four artist's homes in Lubbock. The artist's art rooms will be a feature in each home. The tour is Sunday, Oct. 15, from 1 to 5 p.m. Tickets are $1.00 each.

Personnel at the club stated someone on the tour will be a lucky winner of a painting in a group of 18 select paintings on display at Hemphill Wells. The paintings are each valued at $150.

Cage Season Opener Scheduled Monday

The 1961-62 intramural basketball season gets underway at 6:30 p.m. Monday with nine teams expected to compete. The schedule was to be drawn up this weekend. The M&S Group is defending champion and was expected to have three teams in competition this winter.
