Safe Christmas Period Sought In 'Homesafe'

A program aimed at elimination of all accidents during the Christmas holiday period starts Monday at an "Operation Homesafe" luncheon attended by Reese, state and city of Lubbock traffic leaders. A variety of activities intended to bring cautious thinking and action to base people will be outlined to the visiting leaders and cooperation in national, state and local safety programs pledged.

In past years "Operation Homesafe" has been highly successful for Reese. So far this year no highway accident has occurred involving base people on any holiday weekend.

"Operation Homesafe" in the Air Force also has brought outstanding results and praise has come to this base for its part in the program.

The operation this year is stressing individual responsibility of each driver, emphasizing that proper actions and driving procedures will avert accidents.

The "Operation Homesafe" executive committee, with Col. Charles W. Sawyer as project director, has recommended that no person going on Christmas leave be permitted to depart prior to 6 a. m. on any day in order that proper rest will be had prior to departure. Group and squadron commanders are expected to follow the recommendation.

Each unit also will write letters to parents of younger airmen, asking cooperation in assuring that the airman returns safely to the base on termination of leave and that he drives safely while at home.

Group commanders have been directed by Col. L. C. Hess, base commander, to personally counsel each person going on leave as to proper thinking and actions.

Some squadrons will require persons going on leave to submit a trip plan showing distances planned for each day's travel.

Reese people driving their own automobiles on leave will be required to have cars inspected for brakes, lights, horns, condition of tires, and other parts prior to leaving.

Each person will be asked to sign a pledge that he will use caution and obey traffic laws.

Billboards urging safety will be placed on the base and all packages from the base exchange and commissary will be stamped with a safety message as in past years.

The base fire department is coordinating safe measures for use of Christmas trees and other decorations in the homes.

"During all of 1961 everyone on the base has given wholehearted cooperation in safety matters during holiday periods," said Joe Lopez, ground safety director. "We are hopeful that this cooperation will continue right down the line and that another Christmas period without a single accident of any sort will occur. We can have another accident-free holiday if everyone will remain alert and concentrate on safety thinking."

Base Parties For Children Set On Dec. 16

Boys and girls from 1 to 12 years old will be guests at the annual Christmas party scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 16, in the Mathis Service Club. Children living on or off the base who are dependents will attend.

Two parties are planned for the morning, the first at 9:30 a.m. for children living in homes or trailers with odd street numbers. A second party at 11 a.m. is for boys and girls living in even numbered houses.

Santa Claus will be present at each party and parents who have children 1 or 2 years of age may bring the babies to the club at noon to see Santa and to receive gifts.

Each child will receive a gift at the party, one to best fit his or her age group.

Entertainment at both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. parties will be the same. Ted Quam, magician who performed at the 1960 parties, is to offer several tricks. He is associated with the Ming Tree in Lubbock.

The Reese Junior Choir, under direction of Mrs. Pat Sexton, is to sing several Christmas carols and hymns.

A dance routine will be given by Cheryl Ford, Meri-Lyn Wright and Jan Longwell, members of a Reese dancing class.

Parents have been asked to have their children participate in the proper party since the club is not large enough to accommodate all children at once.

Christmas Roundup To Appear Dec. 19

Because of a busy holiday season and a rush of work, The Roundup publisher will not issue an edition next Friday but will combine the last three issues of the year into a large Christmas issue to be distributed on Tuesday, Dec. 19. Copy for the edition should be in The Roundup office not later than noon next Thursday. The first issue for 1962 will appear on Jan. 5.

Ten Promoted To High Ranks

Four new master sergeants and six additional technical sergeants were at Reese this week, following promotions effective Dec. 1.

Elevated to master status were Lewis O. Hefner, Delphan L. Hoopes and William R. Milam of the Maintenance and Supply Group and Donnie D. Parker of the Hospital.

New tech sergeants are William T. Glennon, Dale R. McCawley, Richard L. Nicholas and Robert K. Perrine of M&S Group and Clarence E. Sanders and Robert W. Strickland, assigned to wing headquarters duty.

More Promotions Seen Next Year

(AFNS) — Airmen promotions during fiscal year 1962 and into the next fiscal year, will continue to improve, according to USAF Headquarters.

Within the manning authorization for the top six grades, an increase of about 32,000 airmen authorizations during fiscal year 1962, enhances present promotion opportunities to the top six enlisted grades by about 19,000.

Stop-loss actions, resulting in the extension of airmen previously scheduled for release, will reduce these 19,000 promotion vacancies to about 12,000.

Release of Air National Guard, Air Reserve and stop-loss personnel will result in addition vacancies.

During fiscal year 1963, depending upon program approval, these vacancies will be available for active force promotions to be made in 1963.

Air National Guard and Reserve units which reported on Oct. 1, were actually below their active duty authorizations by grade at the time they entered active duty. All such units, however, have been programmed at a grade authorization in the top six grades comparable to those authorized the regular Air Force.

Goodfellows Need Volunteer Packers

Reese volunteers are being sought to assist the Lubbock Goodfellows in packaging bags to be distributed to the city's needy Christmas morning.

The Goodfellows provide food and toys for needy families and will do the packaging Dec. 21 and 22 in a downtown location. Workers will perform in shifts, one from 8 a.m. until noon and the other from 1 to 5 p.m.

Last year numerous Reese people assisted in the program. Volunteers this year are asked to call the office of Information, Extension 578 or 324, not later than 4:30 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 13.

'Busiest' Man Leaves Reese

After more than seven years assignment to Reese Air Force Base, MSgt. E. W. Bohl has been reassigned to Lackland AFB, San Antonio, as a tactical training instructor.

The sergeant has been one of the busiest airmen at Reese. For the past five years he has been scoutmaster of Troop 148, Boy Scouts of America, and previously served two years as a board member. He has taken his Scouts on camping trips in winter and summer and has supervised the Year-Around toys for the needy repair program of the base. Following the recent Hurricane Carla damage, his troop shipped about 2,000 repaired toys to the Galveston area.

Sgt. Bohl is a former president of the Reese NCO Club and has been a leading member of the Youth Council during almost his entire stay on the base.

He also has been one of the most active of Reese AFB assignees as a speaker throughout the South Plains.

As survival training instructor in the undergraduate pilot training program, he has made hundreds of talks to civic clubs, high school students, Civil Air Patrols, reserve units and other organizations in many communities. His principal subject has been survival, using rattlesnake meat, grasshoppers and other delicacies to serve to his listeners.

Sgt. Bohl also has served Reese AFB pilot trainees as weapon systems instructor.

In 1959 he was nominated by Reese as its most outstanding airman in competition for selection of the best airman to represent Air Training Command at the annual Air Force Association convention.

In 1958 he was named Academic Instructor-of-the-Quarter by all instructors in the Reese academic section. Critiques from students which rated him highly assisted

Housing, Pay, Allowances Under Study At Top Level

(AFNS) — A top level group plans to look into ways to improve housing standards and to get better pay and allowances for young officers.

Making the announcement, officials said these are only two proposals of a wide-sweeping 12-point agenda of the coming Air Force World Wide Officer Career Motivation Congress.

High-ranking representatives from USAF and the major air commands will hold seminar sessions at Andrews AFB, Md., with the aim of drafting concrete proposals to make an Air Force career more attractive to young officers.

The career motivation congress already has gained highest Air Force attention, Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert will keynote the meeting. Gen. Fredrick H. Smith, vice chief of staff, and Lt. Gen. Edward J. Timberlake, deputy chief of staff, for personnel are scheduled to attend the conference.

Topics on the agenda are: personnel policies, prestige and recognition, pay and allowances, the career motivation program, career management, assignment policies, procurement policies, educational requirements and opportunities, junior officer problems, promotions, officer housing.

The Air Force anticipates that no single solution will magically redress adverse retention rate of young officers.

Officials concede that many improvements might contain built-in-time-lags, possibly involving legislative proposals. But USAF is placing heavy stress on turning up with as many "in-house" improvements to convince more young officers to make a career of the Air Force.

The conference is specifically directed to young officers — those with five or less years of service.

Officials are frank in approaching the problem, saying that only about 40 per cent of our young officers are electing to serve after five years when at least 50 per cent are required.

A grass roots approach has been underway for some time. Some of the proposals are to offer more regular commissions, to provide better assignments and to promote earlier to captain.

Freedom Must Be Lived

No one can properly defend what he does not understand. Our way of life has been subjected to tremendous criticism in the past decade. Do the principles found in the Declaration of Independence and in the Bill of Rights fit in with our way of life? Isn't security more important than freedom?

It is true that we have been through a period of laxity. Nationally headlined television scandals, corruption in some police departments, teenage crime, and tax dodging by some leading citizens have cast a shadow over American character and integrity. The important thing, however, is that we recognize that corruption, slackness and moral softness are not to be accepted as "right" or as "normal" for Americans.

Recognizing that the nations of the free world look to the United States for leadership, President Eisenhower in the last part of his term in office set up "The President's Commission on National Goals." The members of the commission were directed to examine our democratic roots in the past, the status of representative democracy at present and the goals that should be set for Americans in the future.

The findings and recommendations of the committee give recognition to the fact that we are still a great and free nation. We shall continue to be great and free as long as each citizen recognizes his personal responsibility to preserve his own liberties, and to assist in extending the area of freedom throughout the world. To accomplish this end, we must understand our American heritage, for the only way to preserve freedom is to live it.

USAF Part In Defense Supply Agency Centers On Electronics-Electrical Items

(AFNS) — The Air Force's contribution to the newly created Defense Supply Agency probably will be specialization in the electronics-electrical areas and providing top management talent.

A planning group headed by Maj. Gen. Charles Root, USAF, was to report the number of electronic-electrical items that can be centrally managed. The "Root" group also was expected to recommend a headquarters site for central management of electronic materiel.

The Defense Supply Agency (DSA) was established Aug. 31 by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to manage a multi-billion dollar inventory of common services and supplies for all military departments.

The Army's Lt. Gen. Andrew T. McNamara, first director of DSA, has been authorized to run warehouses and depots in the continental United States, to provide supplies and materiel that involve retail distribution, and to assume inspection and planning responsibilities.

DSA will not conduct research and development projects, allowing the military departments to operate independently within its recommendations.

Officials describe DSA as a logical development of the "single manager" procurement one type of materiel for all services.

Organizationally, DSA is an independent agency that reports directly to the Secretary of Defense. It manages its own budget and controls its own civilian spaces.

It does not, however, have its own military personnel. This manning will be drawn from all services.

Christmas Theme

Lost When Hopes Are Not Reborn

By CHAPLAIN JERRY L. RICE

The first Sunday of the Advent Season symbolizes Mary and Joseph's journey to Bethlehem. Next Sunday will bring to mind Joseph's attempt to find shelter for his wife, and the actual birth of the baby Jesus.

The birth of Jesus must take place once again in our hearts. If this does not happen, then we have lost Christmas. To revindicate our basic human hopes of brotherliness, good will and peace; of righteousness, justice and mercy, by a stout avowal of those hopes is the supreme privilege that comes to us at Christmas time. We create, thereby, an inner environment in which Christ can be born. For, of course, what matters it, "If Christ a thousand times in Bethlehem be born; until he is born in me, my soul is all forlorn?"

in the selection.

Sgt. Bohl was assigned to Reese AFB in 1954 to have charge of radio maintenance. He was reassigned to teaching duties soon after. During the Korean conflict he was a radio announcer in Korea for the Armed Forces Radio Service. He briefly was a part-time disc jockey for a Lubbock radio station after arriving at Reese.

The sergeant is a graduate of high school in Chicago and completed aerial gunnery and radio operator school in service, as well as survival school. During World War II he flew 65 missions as a gunner, winning the Air Medal with 12 oak leaf clusters.

He reports for Lackland AFB duty Monday.

A "gavel club" for high school dependents of Amarillo AFB personnel has been added to youth activities at the base. It's associated with Toastmasters International.

The presence of children can do much toward making any community a happy, pleasant place in which to live. This is true especially when the children display good behavior and conduct themselves as responsible young citizens.

Although our schools expend a great amount of effort instructing youngsters in good citizenship and civic responsibility, the real guidance and supervision comes from the home. Parental concern in this area is of vital importance to both the children and their elders.

Parental responsibility is certainly a solemn one. It is also an obligation which will return heartwarming rewards as our children develop into productive, dependable citizens.

Marine Colonel Named For Orbital Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Astronaut Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn, Jr., has been selected by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) to make America's first manned orbital flight.

The announcement came shortly after the recovery of a Project Mercury space capsule from the Atlantic Ocean after it "successfully" circled the globe twice with its chimpanzee passenger, Enos. Tapped to be Col. Glenn's backup astronaut is Navy Lt. Comdr. M. Scott Carpenter. Pilot for the second U. S. manned trip will be Air Force Maj. Donald K. Slayton, with Navy Lt. Comdr. Walter K. Schirra designated as backup.

Col. Glenn's proposed mission is expected to take him three times around the earth at a speed of more than 17,000 mph. The 40-year-old Marine made headlines in 1957 when he was the first man to fly at supersonic speed from Los Angeles to New York.

Astronaut Enos made the trip in a Project Mercury space capsule in 3 hours and 21 minutes. The test, conducted by the NASA, launched the 37½-pound chimp into space with a powerful 93-foot Atlas missile. The capsule travelled 50,000 miles and reached a speed of 17,500 mph.

NASA officials said that Enos' first orbital trip was perfect. He banged away at a panel of levers as he had been trained to do and received banana flavored pellets and water as a reward. His penalty for making a mistake was a slight electrical shock to his foot.

On the second pass, scientists monitoring the flight from 18 points around the globe, discovered that trouble had developed with the cooling and control systems during the orbit. It was decided to forget the third planned orbital trip. A signal from the ground fired the space craft's retro-rockets and brought it back through the atmosphere to an early landing.

During the flight, the space craft came within 99 miles of the earth on its closest approach and soared 147 miles from the globe at its most distant point.

The orbital flight was the first for America with an animal aboard. Earlier this year a Mercury space capsule was orbited and travelled around the globe, but it was unmanned.

Landing about 250 miles south of Bermuda, the capsule was picked up by the destroyer Stormes 1 hour and 25 minutes later.

STRIKE Gets Initial Home

(AFNS) — The nation's newest unified military command — United States Strike Command — will call MacDill AFB, Fla., its first home.

Its stay there is only temporary and will not change the scheduled inactivation of MacDill, a Department of Defense announcement said.

The Tampa headquarters site for the newly combined elements of the Tactical Air Command (TAC) and the Strategic Army Corps (STRAC) was selected because MacDill has sufficient facilities "to allow a small headquarters to get to work without delay."

STRIKE's permanent home will not be named until further studies are made, DOD said its choice "will take into consideration the mission and the location of the forces under its operational command."

As for a target date, the announcement said, "it is expected to be operational by the end of the year."

The Air Force's Lt. Gen. Bruce K. Holloway is the Deputy Commander of the new bi-service force under the command of the Army's Gen. Paul D. Adams.

USAF air transport expert, Brig. Gen. Clyde Box, has been named Assistant Chief of Staff, Plans.

The Army's Brig. Gen. Clifton F. VonKann was named Assistant Chief of Staff, Operations. A second Army man, Brig. Gen. Robert B. Neely was selected Assistant Chief of Staff, Logistics.

Two more assistant chiefs — for Personnel and for Intelligence and Communications — will soon be designated.

The command's new name has an obvious phonetic similarity to its principal elements — TAC and STRAC.

X-15 Test Pilots

Awarded Trophies

(AFNS) — Maj. Robert M. White, USAF experimental test pilot, was one of three aviators awarded the Harmon International Trophy for Aviators by President John F. Kennedy at a ceremony at the White House.

Major White, together with former Navy pilot A. Scott Crossfield and Joseph A. Walker, NASA chief engineering test pilot, was honored for flying the X-15 research vehicle over 4000 miles an hour. The award is given annually for outstanding international achievements in the arts or science of aeronautics for the preceding year, with the art of flying receiving first consideration.

The Communist Party, directed from Moscow, demands complete obedience from all its members. Each must accept "iron discipline." To disagree or question any Party doctrine or to disobey an order is called deviation. This is a most serious crime, calling for purge and expulsion from the Party. Arrest and trial most often are secret. The guilty deviator may expect imprisonment, death, or confinement in a slave labor camp.

Dyna-Soar Built To Stand White-Hot Heat

Hurling from earth at 10 times the speed of a rifle bullet, in a stubby-winged craft made to withstand white-hot friction heat, the USAL's first Dyna-Soar pilot may well usher in the era of interplanetary flight.

Dyna-Soar — short for "dynamic soaring" — is more than the most advanced aerospace research system now under development by the Air Force. Embodying a unique combination of aircraft, missile and satellite, the Dyna-Soar project can give the technology and demonstrate the capability for manned space flights.

Such flights would end with landings at typical air bases in a routine, operationally supportable manner and with the inherent reliability of piloted aircraft.

Dyna-Soar is a glider-like aerospacecraft controllable by the pilot throughout its flight. The aerospacecraft is capable of flying at any speed from orbital velocities to those required for conventional landings.

Here, in a capsule form, is the fundamental technique which will be used with Dyna-Soar.

At first the glider flies in the upper fringes of the atmosphere, deriving its lift from centrifugal force as well as aerodynamics. After fuel burn-out, the vehicle will fly much like a glider, the pilot gaining or losing speed by changing altitude or banking as he would in conventional aircraft, ending with touch-down on a pre-selected air base.

This, of course, is not as simple as it reads.

Upon re-entry, for example, the Dyna-Soar glider is traveling at a speed equivalent to that of being dropped off a tower higher than 2,000 miles. The job that the Air Force is undertaking is slowing down the glider so that it can be landed like an airplane, while giving the pilot complete flight control throughout re-entry into the earth's atmosphere.

What Makes Beef Good?

Aging does it.

Start with good beef, yes. But proper aging does wonders. It brings out the flavor — makes the meat tender and juicy.

We age our beef carefully. It costs us money (shrinkage, etc.), but we like to sell good beef. We believe it is good for us. We believe it makes our customers happy.

You've heard them say that in Texas, the Big Cattle State, it is difficult to buy good beef.

Don't believe it. Nowhere in the Nifty Fifty can you buy better beef than you can buy in our store. Any size, any cut—you tell us what you want.

Won't you come in and give us a chance to prove that we're not stretching a point? Or, if you wish, call in your order and we'll have it ready for you to pick up.
