U. S. Solon Warns Japs: "We Will Destroy Your Navy!"

U. S. SHIPS ORDERED TO SAFE PORTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—Headquarters of the 12th naval district said today that orders have been issued to all American merchant ships in Asiatic waters to put into "friendly ports" immediately.

The district's public relations office said that the orders went out by radio. Shipping circles took the orders to confirm that the international situation in the Pacific was rapidly approaching a climax.

It was reported one U. S. flag merchantman, the maritime commission freighter Perida, had already turned back to Shanghai. In addition to the maritime commission, American Lines, the Matsun-Navigation company, and the major oil companies operate American vessels in the Pacific.

Emergency Meeting Called
American President Lines, operating from San Francisco and Los Angeles to the Philippines, Burma, Dutch East Indies, Shanghai, Hong Kong and other Far Eastern ports.

Henry F. Grady, president of American President Lines, called an immediate emergency conference of all his operating heads. American President Line officials said Philippine, British and Dutch East Indies ports would probably be considered "friendly" within the meaning of the navy's orders.

Many Ships Affected
The orders were expected to affect a major portion of the American merchant fleet now engaged in carrying oil and sugar supplies to the Russian port of Vladivostok, and in taking war supplies to Malaya for transfer to the Chinese army.

American ships plying the Southern Pacific return with strategic materials such as chrome, tungsten, and manganese from China, tin from Burma and rubber from the Dutch East Indies. The bulk of American shipping that would be affected is in the South Pacific, plying the "line-route" from Malaya, the Indies and the Philippines.

In recent weeks the northern route to Siberia has been receiving emphasis as a defense supply line. American ships have been carrying water materials to Russia over this route in increasing quantities and in so doing passed within sight of the Japanese coast.

School Bands To Play Here
As additional bands were added to the list, indications this morning were that approximately 1,200 musicians would take part in the annual Band Day program at Texas Technological college Saturday.

17 Visiting Bands Coming
Seventeen bands from West Texas and eastern New Mexico high schools have notified Wiley they will be here, and, in addition, the Texas Tech Band and the Tech Reserve Officers Training corps band will take part.

Stern Attitude In War Crisis Is Demanded

Uncle Sam Urged To Act If Attack Made On Russia

(By The United Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Rep. Charles E. Faddis, D., Pa., today urged in the House that the United States "serve notice on the Japanese that if they move in any direction we will destroy their navy."

"Let us not repeat our former mistake of speaking softly to Japan," Faddis said. "Germany's success in Russia has once again inspired the Japanese war party. If they move against Russia, we must stop them."

Should Serve Notice
"We should serve notice on the Japanese that if they move in any direction we will destroy their navy."

Japan Goes Under Military Leaders
Japan today went under the military leadership of Lieut. Gen. Eiki Tojo, pro-Axis former war minister, chosen as premier to succeed Prince Fumimaro Konoye amid a growing crisis in Japan's relations with Russia and the United States.

Moscow Grim But Unafraid At Zero Hour
Japanese quarters in Tokyo said general and admirals would probably predominate in the new cabinet, and newspapers warned the people of the extreme gravity of the times.

New Threat Feared
"A fundamental disagreement exists between Japan and the United States," said the Tokyo newspaper, Nichi Nichi. "Japan is facing a rise or fall and a difficult time never paralleled in history."

Front Is Enormous
Moscow told a story of hundreds of thousands of its men, soldiers and civilian volunteers, fighting over an enormous front in length and depth against the steel clad German forces.

Boost In War Output Urged
WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—OPM's research and statistics chief Stacy May told the United Press in an interview today with Adolf Hitler could be beaten if the United States shifted 50 per cent of its productive capacity to armaments.

Actual Exhibits at the Army Medical Museum prove, however, two truths which should be given widespread circulation.

Would Double Goal
That goal is double the peak rate now expected to be reached in the fall of 1942. We are now consuming about 15 per cent of the national income for defense, May said, and by late next summer or early fall it will reach its peak of 25 per cent—at most 27 per cent.

Moscow Grim But Unafraid At Zero Hour

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Moscow's home guards marched through the streets of the ancient capital today on the way to the front to reinforce the Red army, hard-pressed by German hordes driving steadily in from three directions.

It was a fight of men against machines in which it was admitted the Germans, at the cost of frightful casualties, were pressing the central Russian army into an ever smaller area.

Destroyer Is Hit Off Iceland; Ship On Patrol Duty

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The United States destroyer Kearny was torpedoed in the North Atlantic today, the navy announced, but survived the attack with no reported casualties and was able to proceed under her own power.

The news brought a prompt demand from Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) that the navy retaliate "with two sinkings for each assault" and a comment by Representative Cox (D-Ga.) that if the Germans are guilty, "it is probably the incident for which we have been waiting."

Financial Campaigns To Be Launched By Presbyterians

School To Be Free Of Debt

(By The Associated Press) DALLAS, Oct. 17 — Financial campaigns including substantial sums for additional endowment and equipment for the institution which will grow out of a merger of Austin college and Trinity university were authorized yesterday by two Texas Presbyterian synods.

The Texas synod, Presbyterian church, U. S., meeting in Dallas, set up a $762,500 campaign, of which $500,000 will go for Austin college when it is joined with Trinity, over and above present unencumbered assets of the school.

To Be Free Of Debt That the school may enter the merger free of debt, the synod voted to raise $100,000 to pay liabilities, and authorized the raising of $50,000 for the Westminster campus and $75,000 to build a new church at A. and M. college.

The U.S.A. synod, meeting in San Antonio, agreed to raise $500,000 for additional endowment and equipment for the merged institutions, and $750,000 as the synod's part of a united world emergency fund.

This synod named as its college merger commission, the Rev. Rasmus Thomsen, Amarillo; Dr. Jasper Manton, Dallas; Rev. Harry Searles, Fort Arthur; Judge O. M. Fitzhugh, San Antonio, and C. H. Coleman, Athens.

These five, with five from the Texas U. S. synod, constitute a temporary board of trustees for both institutions and will have full power to function in all matters relative to the merger.

The Texas U. S. synod named Pat E. Hooks of Itasca; Dr. Frank C. Brown and Dr. Henry Wade Dubose, both of Dallas; Dr. E. M. Munroe of Houston, and Dean J. M. Gordon of Lubbock, members of its committee.

The Dallas News said San Antonio, Tyler, and Houston, as well as the present sites of the schools at Sherman and Waxahachie, were being considered as locations for the merged institutions.

Both synods accepted invitations to convene in Fort Worth in 1942.

Machine Does Work Of 75 Hop Pickers

INDEPENDENCE, Ore., Oct. 17 (AP)—Automatic portable and stationary picking machines were used during the recent harvest season at the largest hop ranch in the world, the E. Clemens Horst yards near here, when an acute shortage of seasonal workers caused by the national defense program threatened growers with heavy economic loss.

The six machines used on the 500-acre ranch were designed by Horst in 1935, and are being used by growers in California, and in the Grants Pass and Yakima areas of Oregon.

A crew of nine men using the portable machine can pick from 10,000 to 12,000 pounds of green hops in a 10-hour period under good conditions. Between 75 and 80 persons would be needed to match that work.

The stationary devices are even more extensive in their operations. These machines require a crew of about 20 men and in a good day will pick approximately 30,000 pounds of hops or the equivalent to 7,500 pounds of the dried product, or 27 bales. They do the work of between 150 to 200 average pickers.

Frank B. Kennedy, ranch supervisor, said production troubles had increased greatly in recent months because of delays in getting original and repair materials for the pickers.

Experts In Civilian Life May Find Same Jobs In U. S. Navy

By NEA Service WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 — You may think the new work of your Joe, who has just joined the navy, is something very different from the job and hobbies he had in civilian life.

Likely as not, you'll be wrong. The navy needs plenty of such civilian life workers as clerks, storekeepers, stenographers and typists. If Joe was an expert typist as a civilian, likely as not he'll become a yeoman in the service.

The navy also makes use of hobby skills, and if Joe was an ardent radio "ham" at home, he'll probably end up a radioman at sea.

All navy ships, except submarines and destroyers, have two top jobs for yeomen. One is ship's writer, or secretary to the executive officer. The other is captain's writer, or the boss' secretary.

To get one of these top jobs, perhaps as a chief yeoman, Joe must be an expert typist and be able to take 200 words a minute shorthand. In addition he must know how to handle the myriad navy forms and do complicated filing.

Clerking in civilian life is likely to lead to Joe's wearing the crossed-keys insignia of storekeeper on his sleeve. Legible handwriting and typing skill are important for storekeepers. Joe must learn, if he wants to reach the top, how to requisition, store and issue supplies and how to plan and ration the amount and kind of food necessary for a given crew.

Carefully Trained The navy's radiomen, like civilian amateurs, which many of them were before enlisting, have been the heroes of many a mishap. In an emergency, their shipmates' lives may depend on their competence, and so nothing is spared in their training.

If Joe has the necessary aptitudes and qualifications he may be sent to the radio school at San Diego, Calif. After that he must show his stuff in practice. Before he'll be qualified for a chief radioman's rating and $126-a-month pay he'll have to be able to operate receivers and transmitters, encode and decode messages, operate and adjust direction finders, antennae and all sound equipment on his ship.

Then, before he can reach the top, he must go back to school—the navy's radio material school. After that he'll be able to operate and maintain all types of naval radio, telegraph and telephone transmitters and receivers.

Sooner President Is Leading New Program NORMAN, Okla., Oct. 17 (AP)—Joseph A. Brandt, former newspaper city editor who became president of the University of Oklahoma, has proposed 16 changes of university policy to stir the campus and the state with a torrent of academic and extracurricular debate.

Among other things, the former Princeton University Press director wants to: Abandon the school's traditional song; stop students from enjoying week ends in nearby Oklahoma City; institute community singing programs under campus trees; change college department heads every three years; and adopt English rugby and lacrosse as a college sport.

Brandt, a graduate of Oklahoma and a former Rhodes scholar, tossed out his proposed innovations and, after the students, faculty members and alumni were engaged in debate, he announced that he had accomplished his No. 1 goal.

"I have students discussing university policies," said Brandt. "I am not certain that any of these reforms will be instituted." The students have been awakened, however.

The greatest furore was created when Brandt suggested abandoning "Boomer Sooner" as a university song because it is sung to the tune of Fats' "Boa-Boa."

Students protested. Editorial writers took sides in the controversy. Alumni discussed the question. Song writers got busy. But the proposed changes are still in the argumentative stage.

British Group Also On Move

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The British military mission which had been in Moscow is "on the move," an authoritative source said today following reports of a movement of members of the Russian government from their menaced capital.

This source added that London now was out of touch with the mission and lacked late news of the assault on Moscow.

Unofficial reports that the British diplomatic mission also had left Moscow were carried by British Press association.

The reports that members of the Russian government were moving to the interior city of Kazan were interpreted by observers as new evidence of Soviet plans to fight on against the German offensive.

Among them was U. S. Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt and his staff.

Accounts from Teheran, Iran, said a group of 250,000 on the Kazanka river near the Volga 450 miles east of Moscow long had been prepared for use as a temporary capital. Skeleton staffs were said to have been set up there by both the United States and British embassies in June.

Washington, Land Of Dreams, Also Is Full Of Nightmares

By LUCRECE HUDGINS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Men's Paradise and Women's Hell, the wise guys call Washington because this is the place where the women outnumber the men by more than 31,000 and that means 31,000 girls have nobody's hand to hold except their own.

It's true that the marriage rate in the District has gone skyrocketing. In the first six months of this year 6,635 marriage licenses have been granted, an average of 26 a day.

But so is the population increasing at the rate of 4,000 to 6,000 a month. And every time 900 men step off the bus, a thousand girls step off the train. That leaves 100 girls who are going to have to sit out all the dances.

Still They Come
Still the girls pour in—from Sleepyville, Phony-Creek, Strawtown and Crossroads, U. S. A.—with Civil Service rating in their pockets and their heads crammed with dreams.

They've been told that the capital is the liveliest place in the whole world right now and that this is the place to come to make their fortunes and get their men.

But nobody ever told them that Washington is the city of broken hearts. Nobody ever told them about the girls who only sit and wait for the good time that never comes.

"I've been here three years," said Marguerite K., who works in the treasury department where the girls outnumber the boys by more than 3,000. "And the only fun I've had has been the half dozen times I've gone to selectees dances as a volunteer."

Janet S., a clerk in the war department, lived for 10 months in one of those co-educational guest houses where boys and girls eat and play together after hours.

Examples Noted
"They were the loneliest months of my life," she says bitterly. Reason? In that house, as in most, there were three girls to every one boy and Janet S. just happened to be one of the unlucky ones who was counted out when the gang paired off.

Lorraine H., a pretty youngster working in the Veterans' administration where there are only about a thousand more girls than boys, was lucky enough to find a congenial mate—congenial, a nice boy from her part of the country.

Finance Drive For Scouts Tops Quota

Annual finance drive for Lubbock Boy Scouts was over-subscribed, according to announcement at a victory dinner celebrating the close of the three-day campaign in Lubbock hotel Thursday night.

Roy Furr, colonel of the winning red army, snipped the shirt-tail of C. H. (Brownie) Hamilton, who headed the blue army. Furr's army amassed 1,879 point through collection of $1,342.70 to the blue collection of $1,170.20 and 1,736 points. The total was $1290 above the goal of $2,500 for the drive.

A moose steak was awarded Furr by George P. Kyvkenkall, vice president of the South Plains council. Hamilton's dinner was elk steak instead of beef liver. A scout statuette also was presented to Furr.

Within $500 Of Goal
Robert E. Maxey, captain in the red division, was "high" captain, with 44 points representing $322. His team members received ties and scout booklets.

W. B. Irwin, solicitations chairman, was unable to attend the dinner. The solicitations total, together with $1,500 subscribed in the "big girls" drive, put the entire campaign within $500 of the $4,800 sought. Alex McDonald is big girls chairman.

Captains in the solicitations drive were L. G. Harmon, John Shewmake, G. G. Kersey, G. V. Fulton, O. J. Sexton, Maxey, R. P. Fuller, Boyd Scott, Sam Reid and H. J. Reds' Problems Seem To Grow Graver By The Hour

But Hitler Has Headaches Too

BY FRED VANDERSCHMIDT
Journal War Analyst

Stalin's Russian government today appears to be making certain that when, or if, Hitler enters Moscow, he will find little more than the flames which mocked Napoleon.

The Red armies, at the least, will fight a staunch and possibly prolonged rear guard battle in the narrowing Moscow defense perimeter while officials and corps diplomatique move 450 miles eastward to the Tartar city of Kazan. That Moscow may fall before many days or weeks in this so-called last German drive of the year must, however, be considered, and even now one may ask: What then?

May Offer Peace

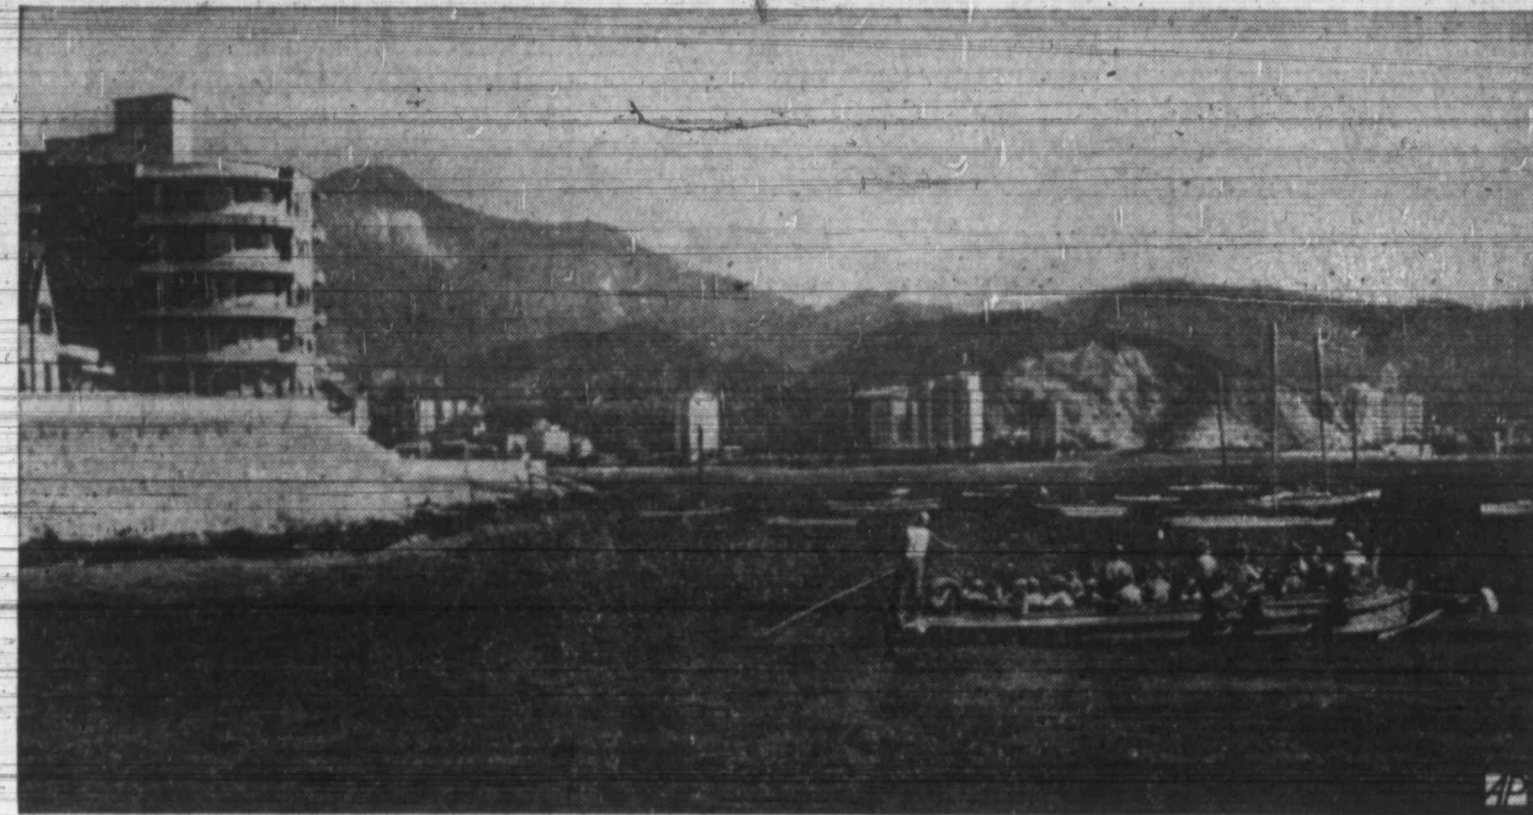

It has been pretty broadly hinted that Hitler, after Moscow, will pursue what the Axis press calls a "moral" or "political" advance—that is, he will try to bring about at least a tacit armistice with Russia's fighting forces and will make another peace offer to England. That implies a pause in his military operations eastward. But if the Russians succeed in organizing and supplying a real offensive-defense beyond Moscow and in the south, and if Hitler finds nobody who can or will talk truce, the pause won't last long.

Admittedly Stalin's problems of defense, after Moscow, are staggering in both the military and economic spheres. He must prepare to defend the 2,000 mile-line of the Volga and Don, involving a vast eastward movement of untold troops and a successful withdrawal of a considerable force from the Moscow defenses. His rearward industrial plants, must carry a double or triple load. Above all the Red army in the south must stand firm on the Don line, pivoted on the Volga around Stalingrad, and defend the Caucasus and Astrakhan to the last in order to keep open the Persian supply route for British and American goods of war. Russia's only other practical inlet for outside material is Far Eastern Vladivostok.

Advice To Russians

The hard lessons learned by the British in Flanders, published today in the dispatches of General Viscount Gort, who was commander-in-chief of the B.E.F., apply now to the Russians as well as to their British allies.

Even with its huge reserve of manpower, Stalin's high command may well ponder such conclusions as: "The pace of modern war has been so accelerated by the partnership between offensive aircraft and modern mechanized forces that the reserves available for the defense are of little use unless they are fully mobile or already in occupation of some reserve position." Or, in the prepar-

Prosperity Wave Rolls Over New York With Rising Tide Of Defense Money Being Spent

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Folding money is back and New York is riding the flood tide of the boom. While the nation spends billions for defense, important money is changing hands in the big town for luxuries and for fun. The little and the middle men are having the fun. The shows are $6.60 top for a first night and the night clubs are booming. The imported wines and liquors are fading as rapidly as the prices on them are rising.

But the gold is in the luxury market. A customer cupped the article in question in the palm of his hand and asked "How much?"

"One million dollars," Harry Winston said. "We'll talk about it some more," the customer said. "Don't sell it till you hear" ation of the new defenses: "The speed at which armored units can advance, once they have broken into a position, calls for a more elastic conception of defense than would be necessary were it designed solely to hold up a marching enemy. Consequently, frontages may, in the future, be considerably shorter." Or still another lesson: "... Troops must be trained to stalk tanks by day, to keep track of their movements, and to attack them in their harbors at night."

That was in an office high above Fifth avenue. Within the radius of a five-minute walk a woman ran her fingers through a platinum fox pelt and ordered a fur coat for $10,000; Dr. A. S. Wam Rosenbach thumped through inquiries for a collection of naval documents worth hundreds of thousands of dollars; a movie director bought the diamond spray pin of Marie Antoinette.

Clerks at Gimbel's rushed the job of cataloguing a $5,000,000 collection of old masters and rare porcelains.

"There are 30,000 new collectors," Dr. Armand Hammer said examining the rare pieces and the swiftly diminishing items of the fabulous Hearst collection which he is selling.

New York is beginning to stir with the tide of the boom that has gained more momentum elsewhere.

Diamonds Bring Inquiries

Take the case of Harry Winston. That pigeon-sized chunk of crystallized carbon is the Jonkheer diamond. Winston bought it, had it cut and shaped into one of the great stones of world history, priced it at $1,000,000. That's big money anywhere, anytime. But recently people have been asking about it, looking at it, wondering. "It will be sold," Winston predicted. The Jonkheer diamond isn't all that Winston has been asked to show lately. Someone wanted a price on the Nassak diamond, a brilliant blue-lighted stone of 44 karats and intense historical value. Winston told him $250,000 and it may be a deal soon.

Market Is Good

He has a pink diamond at $125,000 and so encouraging has his business been recently that he is rushing the cutting of stones from the President Vargas, one of the largest diamonds ever found. It is being shaped into one 50 karat stone and 23 diamonds of 10, 20 and 30 karats each.

Dr. Hammer also deals in jewels—historical pieces. Gregory Ratoff, film producer, bought a pair of emerald earrings from the Russian crown jewel collection.

"Definitely an increase in this type of custom," Dr. Hammer said. "It may be for an investment or against inflation or just because there is more money around. Anyway the market for important jewelry is good."

Prices Much Better

Dr. Hammer is astounded at the way the expensive pieces of the William Randolph Hearst collection have been going. He sold also the $5,000,000 Clarence Mackay collection and the brisk trade led him to close a deal for the famous collection of Warner S. McCall of St. Louis.

"I would say there is enough money in the proper channels now so that art objects—even Gainsboroughs, Van Dykes and Tintoretts—can be disposed of at exceedingly good prices," Dr.

KEY MAN—Donald Nelson, who has been directing buying for the Office of Production Management, will wield chief power in nation's revamped defense setup. He's executive secretary of the new supplies, priority and allocations board.

Hammer said. "Not 1929 prices, of course, for they were fantastically high. The buyers we get nowadays are willing to spend but the difference is that they want assurance they are getting good value."

Boy Has No Trouble Giving Away Money

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 17 (U.P.)—Anyway it was fun while it lasted.

A 9-year-old boy walked into a filling station while the attendants were busy and "borrowed" all the money in the cash register—$400.

Then he strolled out. Five blocks away he met another boy, age 9, and handed him a $20 bill. The second boy appreciated it so much he told his father who notified police.

The officers immediately started on the trail of the young Santa Claus, who continued his little game.

"Want some money?" he asked everyone he met, shoving a greenback at them.

He got no refusals. Two hours later the police caught up with the sunshine spender—thanks to his trail of money.

He had disposed of $204.65 and was looking for a likely person to accept the remaining $195.35. Police turned him over to juvenile authorities for a lecture.

Panama's Coup Has Approval

BY LAWRENCE HAAS
United Press Latin American Editor

The coup d'etat in Panama, resulting in the ouster of the pro-Axis administration of President Arnulfo Arias, is considered the most important development on the hemisphere defense front that has occurred in the past year.

Arias, in his attitude toward hemispheric defense and toward cooperation with the United States government, showed what political observers interpreted as pro-Axis leanings, and some of his close advisers were anti-United States and in favor of an Axis victory in the war.

The re-establishment of a pro-democratic regime in the republic which straddles the Panama Canal has eased a situation that had dangerous potentialities, and although Washington official circles maintained a discreet air of reserve, it was evident that the occurrence brought great relief to the heads of the State, War and Navy departments.

Other Advances Made
Two other developments in Pan-American relations also sharply outlined the progress of Washington's policies toward the Latin American nations — policies that are closely linked with national defense. They were:

1. Announcement by the United States and Argentine governments that a new reciprocal trade treaty had been completed between the two nations.

2. Indication in official circles that an over-all agreement with Mexico on long-standing and bitterly contested problems was at the point of settlement.

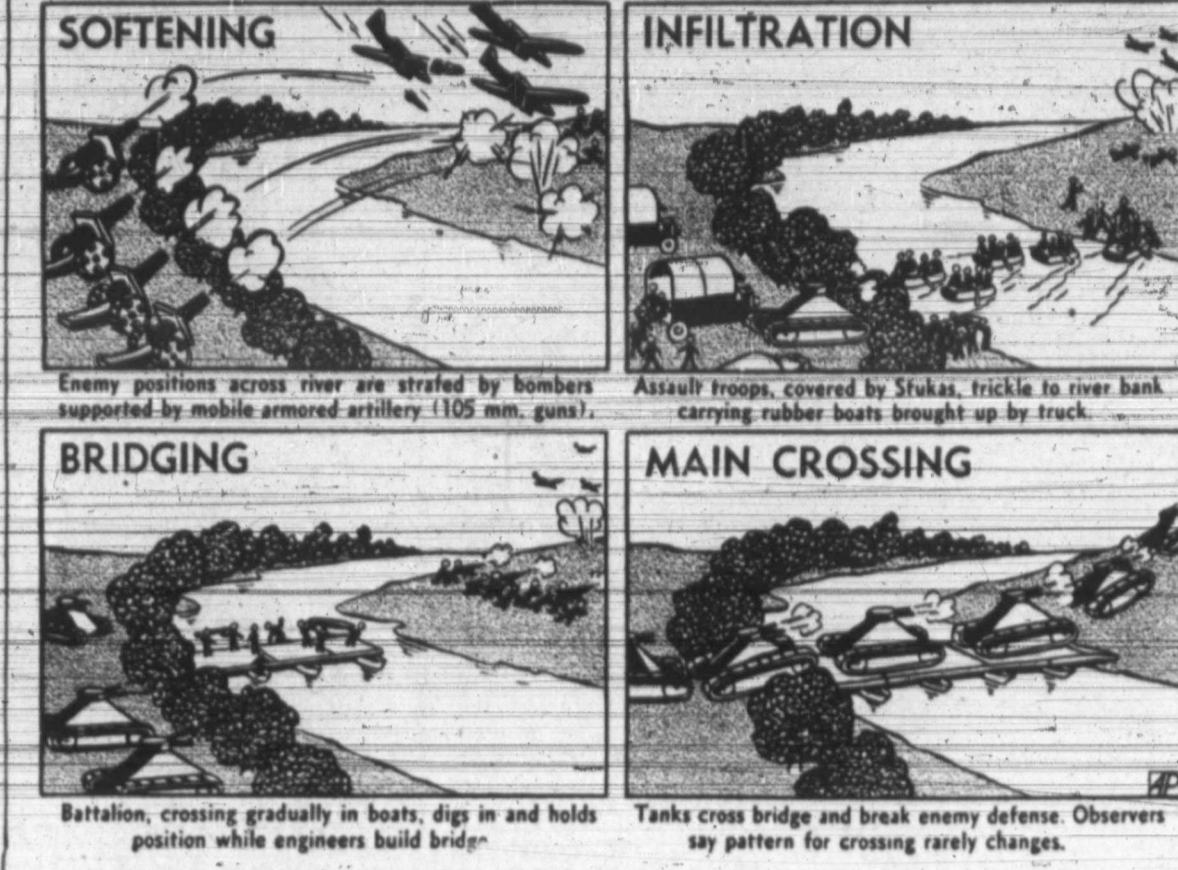

Trade Pact Important
The Argentine-United States trade pact was considered of the utmost importance. Previous efforts to negotiate a treaty had failed, but on this occasion the negotiators, and especially on the United States side, entered the talks determined that success was imperative.

Expansion of the United States market for Argentine products, which the treaty provides, will have a strong bearing on political relations between the two countries, on the one hand, and will, by the reduction of duties on certain Argentine products, make these products available for the defense industry on a larger scale and under more favorable conditions.

The market for United States goods, mostly manufactures, will be stabilized, and it was believed that the pact was negotiated with an eye on post-war conditions as well as current ones.

Mexican Settlement Near
Finance Minister Eduardo Suarez of Mexico went to Washington to direct the final stages of drawing up the Mexican-United States agreement, an indication that a settlement of the most im-

Enemy positions across river are strafed by bombers supported by mobile armored artillery (105 mm. guns).

Assault troops, covered by Stukas, trickle to river bank carrying rubber boats brought up by truck.

Battalion, crossing gradually in boats, digs in and holds position while engineers build bridge.

Tanks cross bridge and break enemy defense. Observers say pattern for crossing rarely changes.

Freshman For Fourth Time Never Failed

AUSTIN, Oct. 17 (UP)—Can anyone equal the record of Ernest Speck, University of Texas student from Llano? Speck has never failed a course, yet he is enrolled as a freshman for the fourth straight time.

It happened this way: Speck enrolled first for only part of the freshman course. He passed his work, and enrolled again as a freshman. This time, he dropped out of a school. Speck registered last for a third time as a freshman, and passed all his courses.

When he enrolled again this fall, it was learned that Speck lacked six hours of having enough credits to be a sophomore. So it is freshman-Speck once more.

WILL COMPLETE ROAD LAMESA

The Ozark mountains rise in Illinois and extend into Missouri and Arkansas.

NEW SUPERVISOR

HE SAW SUBMARINES

Leonardo da Vinci, famous painter, visualized the submarine more than 400 years ago. He refused, however, to put it on paper "on account of the evil nature of men, who would practice assassination at the bottom of the sea by breaking the hulls of boats and wrecking them with all on board."

Lisbon shook with one of the worst earthquakes of history on November 1, 1755, when 30,000 people were killed by a shock that lasted only three minutes.

Harold McCormick Claimed By Death

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Oct. 17 (AP)—Harold Fowler McCormick, capitalist, industrialist and patron of the arts, is dead at the age of 69.

The son of Cyrus Hall McCormick, inventor of the reaper, died yesterday of a cerebral hemorrhage after a five days' illness.

At his death were his third wife, the former Miss Adah Wilson; his son, Fowler McCormick, president of the International Harvester company; a daughter, Mrs. Mathilde Oser of Palm Springs, Calif.; and a sister, Mrs. Emons Blain of Chicago. He will be buried here and a memorial service will be held later in Chicago.

The former president and chairman of the board of International Harvester had been ill with arthritis and heart trouble for many years, but his California physician, Dr. J. Duncan Frick, said he had been in comparatively good health prior to his fatal illness.

Uncle Sam On His Toes At Mexican Border

El Paso Area In "Hot" Spot

By MARSHALL HALL
NEA Service Staff Writer
EL PASO, Oct. 17.—"Your citizenship, please?"

A U. S. Immigration Service inspector in forest-green uniform, stationed at the north end of a Rio Grande bridge connecting El Paso and Juarez, Mexico, asks the question of a bridge crosser attempting to enter the United States.

"The inspector may vary the form of the question but he seldom says, 'Are you an American?' Any illegal alien might master the pronunciation of a simple 'Yes.'"

Do not doubt that enemies of this country are seeking entry along the Mexican border. Agents of Totalitarianism have been using this back door to the United States for years, and now find it more convenient than ever.

Tricks Of Totalitarianism
The Dies committee charged recently that quantities of subversive propaganda are being slipped into the U. S. across the Rio Grande. Dr. Kurt Heinrich Rieth, former German minister to Austria and a Hitler undercover man, crossed the border as "a retired capitalist." He was caught in Manhattan.

Border officials don't talk much, but they know what is going on. Totalitarian agents have tried every conceivable trick, from forgery of documents to swimming the river, in their efforts to enter the U. S. Once a group of Communists, believed to have been on sabotage missions, was caught in the vicinity of Texas army posts.

Pose As Refugees
A favorite method of foreign agents is to pose as refugees. One of these overplayed his hand by requesting medical treatment for injuries allegedly received at the hands of Nazi persecutors. Public health officials who examined him became suspicious and a subsequent investigation showed the self-styled refugee to be a Nazi agent.

The El Paso immigration district sprawling over a vast region of desert and mountains in West Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, is difficult to guard, and hence a beckoning doorway to subversive agents. Just now the district is charged with keeping an eye on 400-odd Nazi sailors who scuttled the liner Columbus and now occupy an old CCC camp 130 miles north of El Paso.

Inspector Job Big
The yeoman service of Immigration Border Patrolmen, who cover the frontier by automobile, horse, autogiro and radio, and on occasion meet in bloody combat with smugglers, is well known. Not so well known is the work of immigration officers stationed at the regular ports of entry, where most aliens enter, legally or illegally.

Immigration director for this district is Grover C. Wilmoth, and Henry M. Blackwell is acting inspector in charge at the international bridge at El Paso.

At the El Paso immigration station, largest port of entry on the border, inspectors have a tough job. There were 4,800,000 crossings at the El Paso-Juarez bridges last year. Immigration inspectors stationed on the bridges must watch this heavy stream of traffic 24 hours a day. They know that among the thousands who cross the bridges daily are some who have no legal right to enter the United States; that some are dangerous enemies.

Laws Humanitarian
An inspector is well trained. He watches the faces that flow by, alert for accents, racial giveaways, phony stories, bogus documents. On the majority he makes an instant decision.

An alien applicant for admission to the U. S. gives his personal history to inspectors, and if they are not satisfied the alien gets a hearing before a board of special inquiry. If the board's ruling is against him, the alien can take his case to a board of review in Washington.

Refugees from Europe often go to Mexico to await quota numbers, but these have decreased in number since the war broke out. Our immigration laws are humanitarian, a fact which some aliens use to their advantage.

Human Interest Stories Told
A Czarist Russian exile, twice a convicted felon in the United States, went to Europe to continue his criminal activities, but when the war broke out he decided to seek the safety of this country again. He got to Mexico, made his

Canny Gardener Is Urged To Team Up With Dame Nature By Preparing Garden In Fall

A time to reap and not to sow. As seasons go, there has been the traditional concept of autumn.

But the canny gardener who would team up with Dame Nature and steal a march (no pun intended) on his neighbor's flower bed will sow seed and plant bulbs this fall—and fall planting means October and November.

Why plant tulips, roses, lilies, pansies and many other varieties in the fall? Well, for one thing, it's just good sense to co-operate with Nature. The lady knows a definite preference for many things planted in the fall. In the second place, fall planting gives your garden a valuable head start in the spring. The plants are sturdy and firmly established before the long winter sleep begins.

Hardiness A Factor
Probably tulip and lily bulbs take first rank as fall planting favorites. Hardiness and a summer-long blooming period account for much of their popularity.

According to one authority, any soil that will grow good potatoes will grow good lilies. And lilies need little cultivation. Planted in the fall, they will bloom around the end of May and continue in bloom until severe frost, which may be in September or November.

With few exceptions, lilies are hardy perennials, and if planted with proper regard for their flowering periods, will assure a brilliant garden for a good part of the summer.

Tulip Bulb Supply Ample
Tulips are extremely effective for mass planting of course, and their bulbs may be placed in the soil any time up to freezing. Despite the war and resultant cutting off of many foreign supplies of tulip bulbs, domestic varieties are available and quite up to standard.

The daffodil—or narcissus if you insist—is a familiar harbinger of spring but should be planted early in the fall. It is unusually prolific.

Universally loved among garden flowers is, of course, the rose, and there is no time like the present to set out your bushes. If well planted, they can survive considerable neglect. Planted now, they will bring a blaze of color to your garden in the spring.

It still is not too late to sow way to Juarez, and illegally entered at El Paso. U. S. Immigration men nabbed him, but the Russian didn't worry.

He claimed he would be shot if reported to Soviet Russia, knowing that our country does not send political refugees to their death. Today he is free in the U. S.

Many a human interest case crosses the desks of immigration inspectors. One concerned the philosophic attitude of an aged Mexican who had lived many years in El Paso, got the wrong street car by mistake, went to Juarez, and couldn't return to El Paso because he had no passport. The Mexican was offered help in getting his entry legalized, but he declined, saying that it made no difference to him where he lived.

SOMETHING TO SHOOT AT.—Auratum in full bloom. Early and late varieties of this lily will keep the garden bloom for two months or more.

FOR FALL PLANTING—Bulbs of the English Sceptre, which frequently grows to six feet, has blossoms of deep rose pink over ivory base.

pansy seeds for transplanting in the early spring. When the plants show two or three leaves, authorities assert, they should be separated and placed in a sheltered place, and covered with straw or leaves until ready for planting in the spring.

Fall Gardening Hints
Plant as many hardy bulbs as the pocketbook will allow.

Set out hardy, deciduous shrubs, trees and vines.

Cover late outdoor flowers to protect from frost.

Burn tops of plants that may carry over disease or insects.

Stake all newly planted trees

Phenomenon Has British Pilots Dizzy

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, Oct. 17.—Maneuvers so violent that the force of gravity seems negated for seconds at a time are becoming commonplace for pilots of the Royal Air Force.

A wireless operator of a Lockheed Hudson bomber of the Coastal Command gave a graphic account of the phenomenon when the sea with both craft suffering hits by machine gun bullets.

When the Nazi fiercer have time to reach the floor but continue to fall with the aircraft until the speed is checked. Then they hit the floor with a wallop.

"The camera was the craziest of floating articles. I watched it wallow about until it hit the gunner a crack on the head. He got a bad shock because he thought he had been struck by a bullet."

Phenomenon Explained
"All articles that were not clamped down took off by themselves and began to float around the cabin," the wireless operator recounted.

A camera, box of biscuits and a bottle of milk were suspended at the level of my head. This phenomenon of evasive action is astounding.

"It is caused when aircraft hurtles down so swiftly that articles which have been thrown toward the roof never have time to reach the floor but continue to fall with the aircraft until the speed is checked. Then they hit the floor with a wallop."

"The camera was the craziest of floating articles. I watched it wallow about until it hit the gunner a crack on the head. He got a bad shock because he thought he had been struck by a bullet."

Nations Shudder When The "Fat Ghost" --Inflation--Begins Walking

Germans Know Vicious Spiral

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—As spiraling prices daily cost Uncle Sam millions in defense dollars, the boges word—inflation—has again on people's lips throughout the land. But of those Americans who use the word there are a few who know what 100 per cent inflation means in terms of dislocation of a nation's economy.

The Germans know what it means. The word still sends cold shivers up the backs of thousands of them. The fact of inflation was one of the steps in the ladder up which Adolf Hitler climbed to his present power.

Let me set down factually how it worked in Germany in the fatal year 1923, when the German printing presses began rolling off "money." I was never in Germany when the dollar bought millions of German marks instead of a mere four. The highwater during my business visit was 60,000 to the dollar.

Was terrifying
Now see how it worked. For the German it was terrifying. His salary or his wages could not keep up with the soaring prices. The laboring class fared better than others, because through their strong unions they could demand and secure more wages to try to cope with the price of things. But in that way the vicious spiral began.

Because wages went up, prices went up still farther. The white collar class—clerks, teachers, government officials, salaried employees—having no unions, suffered the most. They could not enforce salary boost after boost. Middle-aged and people, who had retired, having invested their money in government bonds whose interest in ordinary times enabled them to live comfortably, now found that often a whole year's interest bought one ham sandwich. These were the first victims of the vicious spiral of inflation.

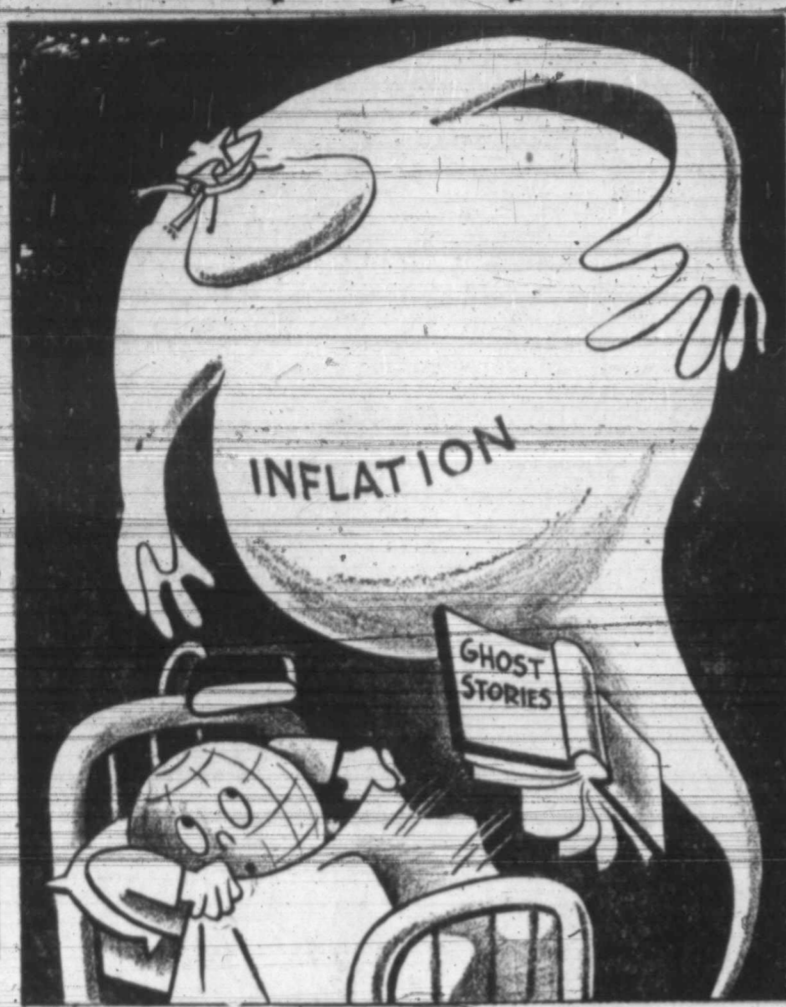

Taxis Were Luxury
I traveled from Essen about 300 miles to Hamburg. On arrival, I took a taxi, to my hotel, eight blocks away. The taxi fare was more than the railway fare. The reason: the state owned the railways. It could not raise fares as rapidly as the mark fell in value, because if it did, people could not afford to travel.

But taxis were considered a luxury in those times and gasoline, bought in the world market, cost heaps of debased marks. Hence, the taxi fare went up as rapidly as the mark went down. One of the results of this was that the taximeter could not be changed quickly or often enough. Hence each day in each town a multiplier was issued.

The day I landed in Hamburg it was 60. Here is how it worked: the meter showed 5 marks for the ride. Multiply that by 60 and you get the fare for that trip—300 marks. Add 30 marks, as a ten per cent tip, and the voyage cost 330 marks. At par valuation of the mark this would have been $2.50.

German Joke Related
In the big department stores, dressed were displayed on forms in the windows, but the prices were given. Each dress had a number. A woman would go inside and ask the clerk what was the price of dress No. 14. She would be told the price was 2,250,000 marks and would be striving to get it in a matter of an hour later it might be marked up to 1,500,000.

Hence the following German joke: a railway conductor came through a passenger coach and saw a valise in the aisle beside a fat German.

Conductor: "You know better than to put a valise in the aisle."
Passenger: "Pardon me, that is not a valise. That is my purse."

Played Into Hitler's Hands
But inflation was no joke to the German people. It ruined many of the middle class. It helped in the already swelling army of unemployed. It played right into Hitler's hands. He appealed to both those great classes of the population; who blamed all their misfortunes on the republic. Inflation was finally stopped when the government practically repudiated all the masses of the paper money in circulation and began again with so-called "renten marks," also made of paper.

Thousands of Americans, Englishmen and Dutch, who had bought quantities of the inflation money as a speculation, had their fingers burned. The main-gainer was the government which had issued the stuff. And—grim aftermath—when the whole tragic situation was arrested, peddlers on the streets of London could be heard: "Here you are, Billion-mark German notes as a souvenir. Only one penny!"

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 17—The first map of the mechanism of hearing is nearing completion at the University of Oregon Medical School.

The general outline of this map is that of a coiled pipe, with no outlet, which is the general shape of the inner ear. That has been known for many years.

New Wrinkle Introduced
The new part of the map is the labelling of thousands of tiny hairs which hang from the walls of the coil. They are in tufts of 10 or 12 each.

Their job is to pick up the vibrations of sound, which come into the inner ear, and pass them along to the brain. The astounding thing which this map shows is that each little bunch of a dozen hairs picks up only one of the thousands of sound frequencies entering the inner ear.

The mapping is under direction of Dr. O. Larsell, professor of anatomy. He does the mapping on ears of opossums, which have a structure similar to human ears. These opossums when born are still embryonic, maturing later in their mother's pouch. In this stage their hearing develops and it is possible to trace the miracle.

A baby opossum will twitch at a sound, after its hearing starts, not before. At 50 days of age, the twitch comes at the sound of 1300 frequencies, a high-pitched note.

At this time only one little tuft in the canal has developed enough to hear. The other tufts develop one by one, and each one responds to a different frequency. In this way it is found that each tuft hears only one frequency, and that the tufts for each sound are always in the same place in the canal.

Around the roots of these hairs are the nerves of hearing.

WARNING ISSUED

SNYDER—Local officers have warned farmers and others of a new stunt being worked here. A man, claiming to be an engineer for a farm machinery house calling on farmers and others, inspects the machines and suggests they sign his order blank for books, pamphlets or parts. Signatures are then forged on checks drawn on local banks for various amounts of from $125 to $340. Each employee of the company carries proper identification papers with him, it was said.

Dark eyes generally are stronger than blue eyes, reports the Better Vision Institute. Light-colored eyes tire more quickly and are more susceptible to glare than are dark eyes.

Jap Soldiers In Indo-China Find "Protective" Role Precarious

Nippon Forces Fearing Trap

This is the first of two articles analyzing military conditions in Japan's occupied areas.

(By The Associated Press)
SAIGON, French Indo-China, Oct. 17.—Among those who view Japan's occupation of French Indo-China with deep misgivings are many of the occupying forces. Particularly, the Japanese buck-private.

There are about 40,000 Japanese troops in Indo-China now, ostensibly to "protect" the big French colony. From what? Some weeks ago, unspecified Japanese quarters reported "evidences" that the British, in nearby Malaya, were preparing to attack Indo-China. The Japanese came, officially, as guardians.

The common soldier will tell you, privately, that the occupying troops may become "rats in a bag," if war breaks in the Pacific. This is a favorite Japanese military expression to describe a trap.

Indo-China is a long way from the nearest Japanese base. Communications inside the sprawling country are poor.

Out On A Limb
The native population, while unarmed and quiescent today, is basically hostile and potentially dangerous. On one border are the Chinese; on the other, the British. And should the United States fleet enter the picture, the combination could be a very unpleasant bag, indeed, for an unwary rat.

The Japanese soldiers know this. They know they can be cut off. The only avenue of supply and retreat is the ocean—if they could reach coastal ports, find transports waiting there, and their own fleet commanding the sea-lanes.

It's a long and creaky limb to be out on.

Little Recreation
The soldiers are largely confined in barracks. When they go sight-seeing, it is usually in groups, with an officer commanding. They are under very strict discipline, respecting civilians, whether French, Chinese or Annamite.

It is quite a different life from the one they knew in China. There are no dance halls in Indo-China, few cheap bars.

Life is not so bad for the officers. The top-rankers have moved into good hotels or big French homes, where they have far more comfort and better food than they knew in Japan.

(Mondays: Thailand's in the middle, but ready to fight.)

Steel For Defense Available In Boston

BOSTON, Oct. 17, (AP)—There are several destroyers, quantities of shells and guns and even a couple of oil tankers anchored in the Atlantic avenue, according to the Boston Better Government association, which would like to see them put in active service.

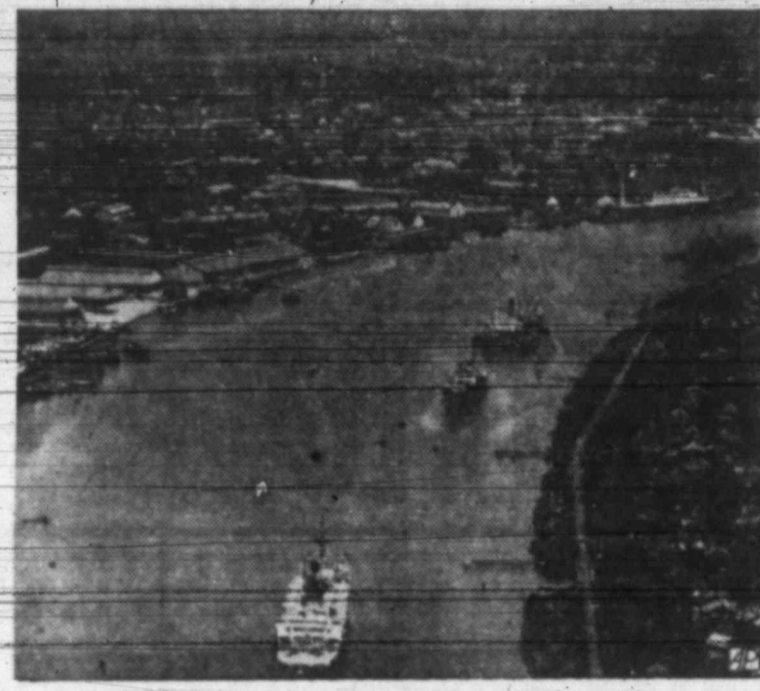

At present they're in the form of thousands of tons of abandoned elevated structure, property of the Boston Elevated Railway Co., and the Better Government association is quite frankly tired of seeing it standing there, a traffic obstruction which winds for about two miles along the waterfront.

The line has been out of operation since Oct. 1, 1938, and realty associations have backed the better government group in demanding that it be torn down. A plan proposed by them would have the government supply the means and expense of demolishing the structure, taking the scrap iron and steel for defense purposes.

There's only one flaw in the plan. The trustees of the "B" are asking a compensation for the $2,200,000 land damages they paid before they constructed the line. If that can be ironed out, the Better Government association and the realtors expect to float those destroyers and oil tankers out of drydock and into the Atlantic avenue safe for vehicular traffic.

ARMY OFFICERS of Japan live well... BUT PRIVATES live by discipline alone.

Marine Chief's Ideas Are Put Into Action

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—If a Chinese diplomat happened to enter the navy department office of Major General Thomas Holcomb, commander of the United States Marine Corps, more likely than not his host would say: "Nin hao."

That is Chinese for "How do you do?" Moreover it is Mandarin Chinese, the language spoken by the cultured Chinese everywhere. Having begun so, General Holcomb would not have

Gen. Holcomb exhausted his vocabulary and reverted to plain American. He knows some 4,500 Chinese words. He spent most of the years from 1905 to 1914 in various capacities in China, studying the language all the time. He was the first officer in the Marines to learn Chinese thoroughly.

Real Fighting Man
"I think a man ought to know the language of the people in whose country he is serving," he observes. "It enabled me to travel pretty well over much of that vast country except the southern and far western part."

Holcomb is no amateur play-soldier. He's a fighting man in an outfit that is noted as a fighting organization. From February, 1918, to July, 1919, he served in Europe with the American Expeditionary Force. At first he was in command of the 2nd Battalion of Marines and later was second in command of the 8th Regiment, Chateau Thierry, Soissons, St. Mihiel, the Argonne—he was in all those battles in which the Marines wrote their fame forever.

His own service netted him the top decorations of the U. S. and her Allies.

He is not only a fighter, but an expert with the shooting-irons. He was a shooting member of many Marine Corps rifle teams. Owing to his enthusiasm, initiative and example the Marine Corps is probably the best bunch of all-around shots in the world.

His experience was wide and varied before he was made tops in the Marines on Dec. 1, 1936. He was reappointed for further service as Major General Commandant Dec. 1, 1940.

The office in the navy department building in which he works here is quite unique. Its walls are lined with photographs of famous Marine Corps officers. The rest of the available space is a veritable museum of Marine Corps triumphs—trophies, flags and banners won by the Marines throughout the years.

American transformers and dynamos are used in a new government power project in the Philippines.

he holds today. His shop works three eight-hour shifts without any time out for lunch—the men voted to grab a sandwich at the machine instead, and they munch from time to time while the machine is making a long cut and can be watched with one eye for a few minutes.
Joe now gets 75 cents an hour. He started at 50; but is now rated as semi-skilled, and while he sometimes has to help in setting up his machine for an operation, once the job is laid out he can carry it on. He will have brought home nearly $2000 in wages to his bride by the time they have been married a year.
Joe still bowls with the league in his shop, but is thinking of giving up at least one night a week of that recreation to take an advanced course in night school in shop mathematics, which he needs for more rapid advancement. Joe and his bride, a fellow high school student, are renting the upstairs of a double house not far from the plant, for which they pay $35.

"Conqueror's Smallpox" -- Spirit Of Revolt -- Threatens Axis Hopes

Rulers' "Jinx" Facing Hitler

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Adolf Hitler has finally shown symptoms of the disease that has afflicted all the dictators who preceded him in world history.

It's conqueror's smallpox. In this war, conqueror's smallpox is a third front. The first is the English channel. The second is Russia.

Conqueror's smallpox is the miasma brought on by people who are willing to risk their lives to protest conquest. So far, Hitler has not caught the disease in its most virulent form. Most international observers suspect the outbreak in European states may be premature, and will not become violent at this time.

Several Reasons Studied

There are several reasons: Hitler has more powerful antidotes than any previous dictator ever had. The airplane and the tank can do more to stop revolt than any other weapons of history. Rifles and small arms are pop guns against planes and tanks. In the second place, the outbreak is not well enough organized to impede Hitler's war efforts. It is too sporadic.

Meanwhile Hitler has an excuse to kill off leaders in nations where revolts have occurred, together with their "tools."

Spirit Lives On

How and why no dictator ever escapes this disease is a mystery peculiar to history. Tons and tons of literature have been written about it, but none of the explanations is wholly satisfactory.

Outstanding example of a ruler who suffered from conqueror's smallpox is Charles V, the first king who actually tried to set up a United States of Europe.

In his old age, Charles V sat in the saddle for months on end, in a desperate attempt to hold together the nations he had conquered. At last he gave up, and retired to a monastery.

Most historians suspect the chief symptom of conqueror's smallpox is an unfilterable virus known as "the spirit of nationalism." Nothing seems able to kill this spirit if it has the will to live. Genghis Khan, Alexander, Napoleon could not muster enough terror, enough force of arms to kill this spirit.

Hampers Nazi Efforts

Draw a ring around the places where major incidents of anti-Nazi rebellion have flared. Despite censorship, the showing is impressive. How many hundreds of unarmamented, minor—but ultimately exhausting—incidents have occurred nobody knows.

Every "incident" is doubly debilitating to Germany. First, it detracts from the war effort against Russia and Britain. Second, it takes the effort of German occupying forces to hunt down the saboteurs.

Every German soldier required to keep the peace in a conquered country is a man lost from the fighting front. Furthermore, he sometimes is a man lost from productive enterprise in Germany. Proper, because it has been necessary to call up older reservists to replace young fighting men needed at the Russian front.

Germany has shown no slackening of her policy of militant reprisal for sabotage and terrorism. Hundreds have been shot by firing squads in pursuit of that policy, hostages admittedly innocent of the crimes for which they died.

It's possible that sheer terror may deter conquered populations from further depredations. It's also possible that it won't. If

SCANDINAVIAN ERUPTIONS

German sentries in Norway murdered by night... mysterious fires harass Nazis... raids reported on munition dumps... Danes shun German soldiers. In reply, Germans shoot Norwegian labor leaders, proclaim martial law.

FRENCH LOWLAND FLARE-UPS

Dutch protect downed RAF pilots, provide beacons for RAF raiders... German colonel stabbed in Paris subway... Paris trains derailed... "slow-downs" reported in French factories. Germans retaliate by shooting scores of French hostages.

CZECHS IN OPEN REVOLT

Sabotage slows Czech arms output 50%... German troop trains crushed in tunnels, London hears... Secret Czech station broadcasts nightly. Gestapo's "tough guy" imported, orders execution of hundreds, including premier.

BALKANS BOILING

Mountains teem with Serbs who are digging up guns they buried after German invasion... Roving bands force closing of rail lines... In Greece, Axis soldiers disappear... Axis has rushed reinforcements to Yugoslavia.

Unusual Dogs Trail Lions

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 17.—Training a lion is a full-sized job, but training a lion dog is no cinch itself, says Homer Pickens, New Mexico game warden recognized as an expert in this field.

A lion dog is a dog trained to aid men in hunting mountain lions. Pickens currently is beginning another long training routine with a pup of Sue II, which he says is "the best lion dog in the country."

A lion dog, according to Pickens, is a study in contradictions.

"They're fierce and gentle and gentle," Pickens asserts. "Sue II has participated in 30 kills. She isn't afraid of anything alive. But on the other hand when not hunting she is so sweet tempered I let my young children have her for a pet."

Here is Pickens' lion dog training routine:

"Training the young dog is hard. You've got to know him first. After the dog is matured, the best thing to do is to let him run with an old one, who will show him the tricks. Then you have to get him over the idea of following a deer trail. That's the first thing they want to do—run deer."

"The best lion dog is a combination of bloodhound, red-bone and black and tan hounds. You don't want too fast a dog—that's why you want a bloodhound strain—and you want a dog that can follow a cold trail—that's the hound strain."

Skirt Mountain Ridges
On a lion hunt, the dog pack is permitted to run along ridges to pick up the trail and then follow it.

"The dogs always go wild when they see a lion," Pickens says. "They rush at it and the lion usually climbs to the top of a tree."

The hunters, not the dogs, make the kill.

A good lion dog, says Pickens, costs around $200, and he adds that "there aren't many."

He hopes to train a "good one" from Sue II's recent litter of 12 because the mother's usefulness as a lion dog has been ended. She tangled with a bear and came out second best, requiring several months to recover.

Indian Summer Arrives Soon, Steeped In Colorful Legend

(By The United Press)

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 17.—The mild, sunny weather has brought to the fore the perennial argument—When is Indian Summer?

Has it come already, or will it arrive in October or November? Dr. E. Bates, adviser on Indian extension at Cornell university, says the time is definitely around half moon in November after the first hard frosts. The reason? Well, here is the answer in the legend of the Great Spirit who gave the "lazy farmer" a second chance.

The moon this year enters its full phase in November on the third day, or Monday.

The bluebirds and the robins long since have flown to the land of the south wind, and the honk of the wild geese is heard as the smoky haze is wafted westward at sunset.

Harvest Time For All
The gathering of the ripened corn in the cleared land beyond the villages has been completed by most of the villagers, and most of the animals have garnered their winter store of nuts.

hasn't to date. If it doesn't, the third front may turn out to be the extremely important.

A new instrument to measure aniseikonia, a condition in which the visual images in the two eyes are unequal in size, has been developed.

Turnpike Starts And Ends In Cow Pasture

CHELMSFORD, Mass., Oct. 17.—Chelmsford has seven miles of super-highway made to order for motorists who don't want to go anywhere in the shortest possible time.

This Road to Nowhere is a modern, double-track six-lane turnpike which starts in the middle of a cow pasture and ends in the middle of another. Construction is nearing completion, and when the road is finished the engineers and workmen will just pick up and go away, leaving this town with the finest modern highway that was ever done between two pastures.

Here's the catch—the road is part of a proposed super-highway from Boston to the White Mountains, but further construction will be postponed until 1944 or later.

TEACHES IN ALASKA

FLOYDADA—Joe Dolph Montgomery, son of Mrs. W. M. Dorsey, who has been in Alaska since July, is now a teacher of the ninth and tenth grades in the Anchorage schools. He went to Alaska to work at an army air base. He was in school at Fort Collins, Colo., where he had registered for the draft. His number is down the list.

Dr. Bates says he has found this legend among the Kennebecs of Maine, the Chippewas in northern Michigan, Menominees of Wisconsin.
