Climactic Battle For Moscow Brews

Nazi Crimean Armies Storm At Oil Fields

Germans Testing Lines As Prelude To New Assault

Masses of German and Russian reserves were reported moving up to the central front today for a possible climactic battle for Moscow, while in the south, Adolf Hitler's Crimean armies were declared to be storming the fortifications of Kerch at the gateway to the Caucasus oil fields.

A Nazi spokesman said the German air force was already roaring over the narrow Kerch strait to carry the war into the great fields which produce much of Russia's oil.

Fortifications Captured German military dispatches said Nazi assault troops had captured several of Kerch's key fortifications and that the port was open to direct attack from the west and south.

On the Moscow front, Soviet reports said the Germans were intensifying their scouting operations, testing the Red army lines along the entire 200-mile defense area, apparently as the prelude to a new grand offensive.

Invaders Driven Back On the north flank, in the Kalinin sector, the Russians said they had driven the German invaders back toward the Volga river despite a hurricane of Nazi mortar, machine-gun and rifle fire.

The gravest threat on the long battlefront centered at Kerch, with the Germans apparently making final preparations to cross the Kerch strait and drive into the Caucasus.

Reuters, the British news agency, quoted the Rome radio as announcing that German and Russian forces were making their way to the port, which lies on a narrow strait separating the Crimea from the Caucasus mainland.

All Have Role In Defense Of Civilians

By F. H. LaGuardia, U. S. Director Civilian Defense. Civilian defense is new in this world. It is the united effort of a free people to defend themselves against a common foe. It is made necessary because, for the first time in recorded history, war is made upon civilians.

There is a place for everyone in the various services of the Civilian Defense Program. I earnestly urge everyone to enroll for service. Civilian Defense is the determination of a still free people to preserve their institutions against any aggressor. Defend yourself!

Four Are Dead In Car Crash HOUSTON, Nov. 13 — Two young couples were killed early today when their automobile collided with a six-wheel truck on the Galveston highway in front of Ellington field. Both vehicles burned.

Private Ed H. Cordes, Ellington field military policeman, and Van were able to remove the two young women from the car before burning gasoline engulfed the machine and the two youths.

Justice of the Peace Ben Moorhead returned an inquest verdict of accidental death. Van said that the car apparently was going to turn into one of the two gates at Ellington field, but swerved back onto the highway. He said he pulled the truck off the road to the right, but the car washed and exploded the truck's gasoline tank.

Senators Split Over Possible Pacific Clash

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. — Senator Murray (D-Mont.) said today "there is a definite possibility" that the United States may go to war with Japan, but his colleague, Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.), declared that "we now have a real chance to adjust our difficulties with the Japanese."

Wheeler thought differently. "The people of Japan, like the people of the United States, do not want war in the Pacific," he said. "There is no reason why differences between the two countries can not be worked out in a peaceful way."

Wheeler said he had "known for some time" that the Japanese would not go to war with the United States. "I have little hope that anything will come of the Kurusu conversations, because the war party is in control in Japan and it is unlikely that it will back down now. There is a definite possibility of war in the Pacific."

Vichy Leaders Again Foiled

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story is by Roy Porter, Associated Press foreign correspondent, who returned only this week from a tour of duty in Paris and Vichy.

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Nov. 13 — Gen. Maxime Weygand's secret of what he intends to do if France's African military bases are attacked by anybody is still undisclosed.

Gen. Charles Huntziger, who went to Africa to see the preparations for empire defense and to talk with Weygand, carried his information with him to flaming death near Le Vigan.

Weygand himself told part of his ideas to French cabinet ministers when he visited Vichy in mid-October. But he declined to outline his complete plan, informed sources in Vichy said, on the ground it was purely military information and dangerous to disclose them to government officials who are always prudent in their outside conversations.

Weygand had come to Vichy at a time when rumors were circulating that the Germans wanted either permission to enter French Libya or to supervise the strengthening of the strategic base at Dakar. These rumors were denied officially but off the record informed French sources said there might be developments in Africa.

Army Averages 21 Maps To Man For Carolina "War" Maneuvers

By RALPH MARTIN
NEA Service Staff Writer

FORT BELVOIR, Va., Nov. 13.—Photo-mappers of the Aristocrats 30th Engineer Battalion will be considerably irked if any soldier becomes lost in the forests during the current war maneuvers in the Carolinas.

The army—noted for its deliberate thoroughness—outdid itself in making military maps for the season's army games. More than 4,500,000 maps were made. That averages more than 21 military maps for each soldier participating in the bulletless wars.

Camouflage Discovered
More than 95 tons of paper were required for printing the maps for this single, 60-day mock war.

The soldiers are in action on a 12,000-square-mile background, but even so, the map-makers querulously insist that with an average of 21 maps per soldier, nobody should get himself mislocated very far.

Army engineers in the unique topographical unit—first organized in 1777 under Gen. George Washington, who had something of a reputation as a surveyor and map-maker himself—worked day and night on a three-shift basis for nearly three months to turn out this myriad of military maps.

The job goes into the books as one of the most thoroughly mapped military projects on record.

To meet a "must" deadline, the topographical engineers mapped approximately 150 square miles a day, taking thousands of aerial photo-maps, later sending a mobile unit to take photos during the course of the "war." This is to defeat the cunning of the camouflagers.

Aerial maps made after the mock war has started are compared with maps made before—and variations denote the work of the camouflaging artists.

After mapping incessantly for about 150 years, army engineers estimate that only one-fourth of the United States is adequately mapped and contoured. "Adequately mapped" means every point in the area is located on the map within 60 feet of its actual position on the earth's surface.

The "adequately mapped" area is in the eastern part of the country. The western sections, particularly California, are the problem children of the army mappers. Earthquakes, tremors, and landslides periodically throw the mappers for a loss.

The WPA is the topographical engineers' second worst headache. The army can spend months painstakingly plotting an area—and then the WPA will suddenly build a road through the sector, making the whole map inaccurate.

U. S., Britain Agree To Persuade Finns To Quit War

Guarantee May Be Arranged

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The United States and Great Britain may renew their efforts to end Russo-Finnish hostilities, diplomatic sources reported today, and undertake to work out some satisfactory guarantee for Finland's security against future attack.

The informed belief here was that the Helsinki government had left the diplomatic door open for further discussions along such lines, even though its note to the state department did reject Russia's initial overtures for peace.

Note To Be Studied

American officials were non-committal on the subject, pending a thorough study of the note which set forth the Finns' position and their insistence upon guaranteed security for their little republic.

Secretary Hull gave the only hint of possible future action when he voted the note yesterday that an analysis would disclose that Finland was not irrevocably committed to collaboration with Nazi Germany.

Security Is Demanded

The supreme task which providence at the present juncture has assigned the United States is the re-ensuring of prevailing conditions and ensuring the existence of millions of human beings, would be achievement of a permanent state of law between nations that would enable also a small nation to feel its existence secure.

Again and again the necessity of a guaranteed future security for Finland was emphasized in the lengthy note, made public here yesterday by Hjalmar J. Procopé, the Finnish minister.

During Course of Conversations

Welles and Procopé, another section of the note asserted, the "grave doubts of Finland, if he could, many bitter experiences, regarding the trust that can be reposed in promises given by the Soviet union, were explained to the government of the United States." (The note also indicated readiness to make territorial concessions.)

No Guarantees Offered

The United States, the note added, had not offered any guarantees of security "as a prelude of a new peace between Finland and the Soviet union."

U. S.-Jap Crisis

some time that the Chinese and some of the British want us to send an expeditionary force to protect the Burma road. He expressed confidence, however, that "the president will take counsel of the matter with the army rather than our hot-headed secretary of the navy." (Mr. Nye said, "If I do, I am sure he will not send an expeditionary force.")

Senator Johnson (R-Calif.), ranking minority member of the foreign relations group, commented tersely that "there are some people in the government who would like to fight Japan whenever it is convenient—who would like to fight the whole world."

Senator Nye (R-ND), like Johnson

and Wheeler an opponent of administration foreign policy, shared Wheeler's view that chances were good for a settlement in the Pacific.

"Great Britain can't afford to let us go to war with Japan," Nye declared, "because she needs our energies for the production of lend-lease materials. War with Japan would require shifting to the Pacific many ships which Britain says she needs in the Atlantic."

Kurusu, making a stopover at Honolulu

on his flight to Washington, told reporters it was the common responsibility of the United States and Japan to maintain peace in the Pacific.

Describing his mission as very important and very difficult, he said details must be withheld until his arrival in Washington.

Told of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's statement

that Great Britain would fight alongside the United States in a war with Japan, Kurusu laughed and said: "He might as well have said he would have breakfast in the morning."

School Records

of the 1941-42 terms will mean an enrollment at the end of the ninth month in excess of 8,500.

Expectation is, officials said, that the ratio of gain will be accelerated, especially in the influx of families of officers, non-commissioned officers and civil employees who will be assigned to the air base under construction west of Lubbock. A final total enrollment beyond the 9,000-mark would not surprise some of the officials.

Most Buildings Affected

Not only has a second-month record been set for the schools as a whole, Dr. Irvin said, but the same thing has been done at every building in the system, with the exception of Southwest Ward, which accommodates only 16 pupils. With that exception, the school is not a single building in the system has an enrollment which

First Reports To Be Given

First reports are expected this afternoon from workers in the annual Lubbock county Red Cross roll call, according to Olen Stewart, roll call chairman. Nearly 200 workers are participating in the drive, he said.

Names of community chairmen also were announced by Ed D. Allen, chairman of the group. They are H. W. Crews and George Hindman, at Slide; Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hays, at Woodrow; Mrs. Pat Patterson, at Union; and Sam Gentry, at Posey.

Big Meeting

Mrs. Jack Reaves, office secretary for the roll call, will spend each day the remainder of this week and part of next week at the American Legion hall, where questions will be answered regarding the roll call and supplies will be issued.

Coffee and doughnuts were served at the kickoff breakfast Wednesday morning. Dr. Sam C. Arnett, jr., chairman of the Lubbock county Red Cross, said more were present than had been present at any previous roll call kickoff meeting.

Youths Returned To Face Charges Here

Charles Royalty, 17, and Charles West, 18, jointly charged with robbery with firearms, had not been arraigned this afternoon, said J. T. Innon, justice of peace, a few minutes before 2 o'clock.

The youths were returned Wednesday afternoon from Sweetwater in custody of Bill Mabray, assistant chief of police, and Grady Harriet, deputy sheriff, and charged with the hijacking early Saturday morning of James Denton, service station attendant, at Ninth street and College avenue.

In addition, Moran said representatives of 55,000 members of nine other unions engaged in similar work had informed him that they would refuse to be drafted into long lines work if the strike was effective.

Up To Conciliation Service

George Breed, information supervisor of the A. T. & T.'s long lines department, said the company would leave it to the conciliation service to decide whether the dispute should be referred to the mediation board.

He contended that both the company and the union had agreed last month to leave publication of all statements in the matter to the conciliation service and that the union had violated this agreement. The company will continue to adhere to it, he said.

Big Battle At Moscow Seen

the Red army troops had beaten off a German attempt to turn the Russian lines in the Kerch area.

"The German attacks were repulsed by the joint efforts of land troops, aircraft and naval forces," Pravda said.

Russian front-line reports said the Germans were "equally unsuccessful" in fighting near Sevastopol, key Black sea naval base on the southwest tip of the Crimea, and that repeated Nazi tank assaults "failed to break through our defenses."

German bombers were pictured by the high command as blasting furiously at Soviet ships which might be used to evacuate Red army troops from the peninsula. A Nazi communiqué reported that three cruisers, a destroyer and five large merchant ships were badly damaged in nearby waters.

On the central front, Soviet dispatches declared that fierce battles were raging on both flanks of Moscow's 200-mile defense arc at Kalinin, 95 miles northwest of the capital, and at Tula, 100 miles south.

At Tula, where the Germans were reported driven back five miles yesterday, a Soviet correspondent gave this account of the battle:

"Our artillery fire destroyed the enemy fortifications at the approaches to the city. Retreating from the line, the enemy left hundreds of dead and wounded and anti-aircraft guns, tractors and automatic rifles. Fighting is now going on outside the city."

The Moscow radio said Field Marshal Gen. Fedor von Bock, commanding the Nazi central front armies, had moved up a division of Hitler's elite guards in the Vplokamsk sector, 65 miles northwest of the capital, in preparation for a new assault there.

Referring to a recent statement by Lord Gifford, undersecretary of war, that the British should concentrate their energies on defense of the eastern empire, Shinwell declared:

"For a representative of the war office this declaration was inexcusable. This would be fatal to victory."

"While large forces were immobilized Hitler would be free to reorganize his resources and squeeze the last ounce of production out of the occupied territories."

Charging that Lord Moyne had "abused" government critics and referring to his parliamentary assertion that an invasion of western Europe would be "suicide," Shinwell declared:

"If this is the decision of the government, it is hardly consoling to Russia and most pernicious that Hitler should be equally informed."

Shinwell made it clear he was not accusing Prime Minister Churchill and several others in the government of "harboring subversive thoughts," but added "we are not so sure of all the others."

Replying for the government, First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander disclosed that Shinwell had refused to accept office when Churchill first informed his government in May of 1940.

Alexander said that Shinwell apparently had decided "that in this war his role should be that of a self-appointed critic who receives the applause of the less informed among the multitude rather than to work in self-imposed discipline and silence."

"It was a waste of time and money," he said.

New Vitamin

Some startling incidental effects on other troubles have cropped up. Several women who had been sterile for years entered upon motherhood. A man reported restoration of sex life which had been lost for eight years.

A few asthmatics reported benefits. A skin disfigurement, vitiligo, in which white patches appear, is disappearing on a fair number of victims. Some reported improved appetites.

These secondary effects, however, were quite lacking on some persons, and there is as yet no explanation of the difference in reactions.

The vitamin is now made from coal, synthetically, and, in contrast to many vitamins, is inexpensive and plentiful.

The 300 cases reported by Dr. Siev ranged from 14 to 74 years. The very young had white hair mostly because of nutritional troubles. In later life may of the white-haired had endocrine gland deficiencies. Their hair color came back, or partly back, however, without gland treatment.

The first changes in color appear after about five weeks. This is a yellowing, not at the roots, but out along the hair.

Large doses of the vitamin are given by mouth, with meals, and sometimes in extra vitamin snack is added at midnight. In no case has there been any report of bad effects.

Fatal To Victory

Referring to a recent statement by Lord Gifford, undersecretary of war, that the British should concentrate their energies on defense of the eastern empire, Shinwell declared:

"For a representative of the war office this declaration was inexcusable. This would be fatal to victory."

"While large forces were immobilized Hitler would be free to reorganize his resources and squeeze the last ounce of production out of the occupied territories."

Vote Nears On Neutrality Act

the World-war, a favorite expression of the soldiers was "don't kid the troops."

"I say to you," he added, speaking directly to the Democratic membership, "don't kid America."

Meanwhile, administration leaders worked feverishly behind the scenes in order to recruit as many votes as possible for the legislation for many of them conceded the result was still "dangerously close."

While saying that "we have enough votes," Rayburn declined to estimate specifically what the margin would be.

In response to questions, however, he asserted he had "no knowledge" of any commitment by President Roosevelt or any other administration leaders to the House group seeking stronger action from the president to curb defense strikes.

Although Rayburn talked with the president late yesterday afternoon, a group of southern Democrats bolted the administration's foreign policy because of the labor situation, Rayburn said it would not be correct to assume that he had complete information as to what the president might have decided to do in the situation.

Meeting Important

Presidential Secretary William D. Hassett, asked about reports that Roosevelt had promised congressional leaders that he would propose some measure to "halt work stoppages in defense industries," told reporters:

"Nothing can be said about that in anticipation of the meeting tomorrow."

To a question whether this meant the meeting and possible strike-halting legislation were connected, Hassett replied:

"I would not say they were connected, but the meeting tomorrow is of such importance it is to be hoped that some constructive results will come out of it."

Should a coal strike develop, despite presidential intervention, some officials and informed legislators indicated a belief some form of compulsory arbitration or a "cooling off" period before strikes could become effective would be recommended by the president.

Mr. Roosevelt told a recent press conference that he was studying the question of strike-curbing legislation.

Commenting on the House vote on the neutrality act revision, Rep. McCormack (Mass), the House majority leader, after an industrious week-long canvass of members, said it looked like "a photo finish."

From what Rayburn said, the decision was to have the vote today at the conclusion of the remaining three hours of debate between 3 and 4 p. m. E. S. T. The speaker dismissed "under present plans"—the idea of deferring the final roll call until absentee members could be persuaded—a possibility that was much mentioned at the end of yesterday's session.

Leaders in both camps conceded that last-minute developments might have a decisive influence on the vote.

There was speculation current that some presidential move might be imminent to strengthen Mr. Roosevelt's hand on the neutrality issue, but nothing came from the White House to bear it out.

Uncle Sam's Attitude Tough On Finns But Russia Must Be Aided

Broad Justice Is U. S. Goal

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Journal War Analyst

The refusal of little Finland to heed America's warning that she stop fighting mighty Russia raises the issue of whether our efforts to aid the Allies shall be governed by our hearts or by our heads.

We have a similar problem, from the standpoint of hearts versus heads, in former President Hoover's renewed appeal that we feed Europe's starving children.

The fundamental question, of course, is what is the right and the wrong in these cases. What answer would each of us be willing to take before the throne of Heaven as justification for our acts.

Must Consider Affect

Unfortunately we can't base our decisions solely on the individual cases. Each circumstance must be judged in its relation to the whole vast picture of the horrible war. We must consider what effect the individual tragedy will have on the outcome of a conflict which is moulding the future of humanity for a hundred and one years.

Argued from this basis, many individual tragedies must be endured in order that a broader justice, affecting all mankind, may be achieved.

Take the case of the Finns. Mr. Hoover also intervened on their behalf and in a protest against the attitude of the United States government he said:

Circumstances Different

"Only two years ago this peaceful little nation was outrageously attacked by Communist Russia. Our whole country heralded Finland's resistance as the most heroic stand of democracy since Thermopylae. Had America lost all sense of human and moral proportions?"

There's no question that the heart of America was with the tiny David of the north in the conflict with Goliath. But we have a new set of circumstances to consider and it's difficult to believe Uncle Sam has "lost all sense of human and moral proportions" in calling a halt on the Finnish operations.

America's attitude may seem tough on the Finns, but we have to think whether it would be tougher on the world at large if Finland's war-making should result in Russia's downfall. Maintenance of the Soviet has become vital to the Allied cause. That isn't necessarily because the Allies are dependent on Red arms, but because if Hitler defeats the Bolsheviks he will have acquired vast resources which he needs. Thus Russia is a keystone of the Allied defense.

Shooting At Vitals

If Finland were down on the central Russo-German front, it wouldn't matter so much. But the Finns are shooting at Russia's vitals. Their efforts endanger the safety of Leningrad, one of the Soviet's greatest industrial centers, and gateway to the Baltic.

If Leningrad falls, the Reds will be cut off from the Baltic, and their navy will be rendered impotent. Moreover, Leningrad is the anchor of the right wing of the Russian battle-line, and its loss would mean a turning of the flank. Then, too, the Finnish action threatens to close the Arctic ports of Murmansk and Archangel, through which American and British aid for Russia is moving, thereby cutting the Reds off from the Atlantic altogether.

So the problem ceases to be one relating solely to Finland's welfare. The whole Allied cause is endangered—and what are you going to do about that?

Question Is Difficult

The question of feeding hungry children is more difficult. Mr. Hoover recently stated that a survey of Belgium showed "the shortage of meats, fats and milks is crucifying the children," and the situation in Warsaw was so bad that "the municipal newspaper was appealing to the people not to throw corpses into the streets."

And he declared:

"Hitler cannot be defeated with armies of starving children."

When you put it that way, it's pretty hard to deny him his request. However, there are two viewpoints about shipping food into Europe, and the British government has taken the stand that any supplies would in effect be aid for Hitler. It isn't a nice subject to debate, for everybody would feed the children if possible, but here again it is necessary to consider the case in its relation to the outcome of the war.

War Is Cold Business

That seems like a mighty cold way to look at it. But war is a cold and bloody business, carried out by killing and imposing such hardships on peoples as to make them collapse. You can't humanize war.

Thus we would seem to arrive at the position where we must accept the decision of the Allied high command, rather than that of our hearts, as to whether trying to feed children would by its direction be giving aid to Hitler, thus prolonging the war and perhaps defeating the Allies. We mustn't forget that the longer the conflict continues, the more will be the slaughter on the battlefield, and the greater the loss of children's lives in bombings.

Cuba has decided that regulating vacations with pay for piece workers is too complex for government decree.

Texas Tech Leads Nation's Major Grid Teams In Total Defense

Arizona Tops For Offense

BY GAIL FOWLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
SEATTLE, Nov. 13.—The rise of Arizona and Duke and the fall of Texas and Texas A. and M., featured last week's yardstick battles for total offensive and defensive football statistical supremacy.

American football statistical bureau figures released today showed the undefeated Texas Longhorns, first a week ago, suffered more than a blow at their prestige in being tied, 7-7, by Baylor. The Texans dropped from first to fourth as a total offensive unit.

Arizona Takes First
Meanwhile Arizona, winning its sixth straight game, after losing its opener to Notre Dame, moved into first place with a 33.3 yard average per game from rushes and passes.

And Duke, 13th a week ago, rolled up 700 yards in punning Davidson, 36-0, to go into second place with a 32.7 yard average per game. The Duke Blue Devils, incidentally, suffered what might be called a collapse of their aerial game. In six previous tilts they had but two passes intercepted. Then last Saturday Davidson intercepted as many as had gone astray all season—another pair, Duke has led the country in the low number of interceptions for the past five years. Now they're tied with Marquette, which otherwise ranks 14th as a passing team while Duke is 12th.

Texas Aggies, after scrambling for a 21-10 win over S. M. U., dropped to third as a total defensive team at 113 yards yielded per game to rushes and passes, but they're still only a couple of yards out of first place. Two teams with one game unreported—Texas Tech and Mississippi State—outstrip them by two and one stride, respectively.

The figure: (X) denotes one game played and unreported; XX two games played and unreported:

TOTAL OFFENSE—(Gains rushing and passing)—Arizona, 385.6 yards average per game; Duke, 372.7; Utah, 354.4; Texas, 349.9; Syracuse, 337.9; Detroit, 334.6; Tulane, 331.1; Georgia, 326.0; Clemson, 324.3; Missouri, 319.9.

RUSHING OFFENSE—Missouri, 288.4; Utah, 270.6; Syracuse, 268.7; Duke, 259.4; Texas, 245.1.

FORWARD PASSING OFFENSE—Arizona, 177.7 yards average per game; Texas A. and M., 154.7; Detroit, 163.7; Washington, 151.0; Notre Dame, 144.1.

TOTAL DEFENSE—(X) Texas Tech, 111 yards average yielded to rushes and passes per game; (X) Mississippi State, 112; Texas A. and M., 113; (XX) Duquesne, 114.4; Notre Dame, 121.5; Tulane, 128.4; Georgia, 133.9; Purdue, 134.8; Minnesota, 139.5; (X) Brown, 139.6.

RUSHING DEFENSE—(XX) Duquesne, 41 yards yielded per game; Texas A. and M., 45.4; (X) Texas Tech, 52.3; Tulane, 58.4; Notre Dame, 60.3.

FORWARD PASS DEFENSE—(X)—Boston University, 14 yards yielded per game; Purdue, 22.5; Denver, 34; (XX) Harvard, 34.3; St. Louis, 36.7.

PUNTING—Clemson, 42.12 yards average per punt; Navy, 41.66; Texas Mines, 41.38; Fordham, 41.11; Colorado, 40.49.

The Girl on Broadway says the average person is much more likely to keep a threat than a promise.

YOO-HOO, FANNY! Secretary Ickes isn't the most unpopular person in the cabinet. He's only the most unpopular man in it!

MUSINGS: How did people ever get the ultra-ultra super-duper Nth degree inside news on everything before the day of Fulton Lewis, Jooney? Do you know any person who has any faith in the ability of any other person to drive an automobile? Judging from the kind of road out over the airwaves by our little friend Ruby Lee Leary, about the most important, breath-taking, altogether serious and all-inclusive problem faced by any woman is what she shall buy in the way of clothes. Wonder that kind of a life will be living in this country 20 years from now? Will we be entirely regimented? Will individual ambition be entirely squelched by law by then? Will we all be human cogs in the machine of a paternalistic government? Well, whatever may be the life we'll be living in this country in 1961, it's a pretty fair bet that it will be as good, or better, than that of any other place on this mundane sphere!

L. (for Lemuel) Wesley Read, one of our talent coasters, recently ran across a bit of patriotic philosophy which is highly suitable for publication during this period, set aside by presidential proclamation as "Armistice Week."

YOU ARE LUCKY TO BE AN AMERICAN No dictator tells YOU to vote "yes" or "no"!

YES, SIRE! Those were the days of our forefathers, who had hairy ears and wore corduroy breeches—and as far as most moderns are concerned, the forefathers can have their days.

CHAPTER 21 MOTHER TAKES A HAND

Mrs. Barington, with some vague sense of uneasiness, dispensed with breakfast in bed, dispensed with breakfast entirely, as a matter of fact, as a tribute to the number of cocktails she'd had the night before. Not that Mrs. Barington ever was guilty of over-indulgence. But cocktails had an unpleasant tendency to add curves to a figure already inclined to plumpness. She walked out to a bench on the lawn where Freda was sitting staring at the sea with unusual seriousness. She studied her daughter for a moment. There was something different about Freda.

"You know, Freda," she finally said with her usual directness. "I'm not too pleased about last night."

"What do you mean, Mother? Last night?" Freda seemed to be coming out of a dream.

"You know very well what I mean, Freda. You're letting that little local girl get away with murder and, incidentally, with Jerry Winthrop."

"So what?" Freda asked quietly. "So do something about it. And don't use that sort of language to me!"

"I didn't mean to offend you, Mother," Freda turned to her mother with respectful attention.

"It was just that I was wondering what girl could do when a man found he loved someone else."

"What are you talking about?"

"About Jerry and Pam Queller-ton," Freda answered very calmly, as if she had faced the thing for so long that there was no more surprise about it.

"Freda, please put what you're trying to say into simple English! I'm in no mood for conundrums this morning."

"Jerry's in love with her, Mother. In love with Pam Queller-ton. Freda spoke without any dramatic emphasis. The expression of her mother's face startled her. "Well, gess gailers and good beef-steak at 20 cents a pound!"

YES, SIRE! Those were the days of our forefathers, who had hairy ears and wore corduroy breeches—and as far as most moderns are concerned, the forefathers can have their days.

In short, we say to the Michigans: Long may your red flannels wave—in Cedar Springs!

An astronomer is seeking a name for a newly discovered star which has a temperature of near absolute zero.

Our suggestion is Garbo.

That Man on Avenue Q says he's heard all his life that a woman's work is never done, but in many a case it's because she never does it.

We like this, which appeared in a recent edition of "The First Baptist," publication of Dr. C. E. Herford's church:

The man who once most wisely said: "Be sure you're right, then go ahead."

Might well have added this to wit: "Be sure you're wrong before you quit!"

INCIDENTALLY, you've heard all your life that Davy Crockett gave the world the fine slogan, "Be sure you're right, then go ahead."

Well, he didn't say it. That is, he didn't say it the way you've always heard it.

Our old college chum, Paul Bolton, of the International News Service Austin bureau and editor of the Texas Weekly—has been doing a little research regarding Bro. Crockett and his oft-quoted remark and he has found that the immortal Davy said this:

"I leave this rule, for others when I am dead: "Be always right, you are right, then go ahead."

MORE RECOGNITION FOR US

The prospect that Lubbock and the South Plains will be given specific designation on the official weather map and in official forecasts is good news, we believe, to a great many people.

It has been confusing to most people to read the forecasts for West Texas which have referred to the North, Central and Southern portions. Few have known just what territorial area was meant by references to those portions. Actually, the forecast for the "North portion" has been intended for the South Plains, although it frequently happens that weather conditions in the Panhandle and the South Plains have been very different. That confusion will be clarified if specific forecasts are made for the South Plains, as now contemplated.

Incidentally, a separate place on the weather map also will be something of a further recognition of the growing importance of the vast territory of which Lubbock is the center.

And then it was like Tom Barington to say: "I noticed that good-looking young doctor from the naval station gave you the rush at the party. Is he nice? Do you like him, Freda?"

"I think he's an exceptionally nice man," Freda said seriously, but inwardly she was smiling because she knew exactly what was in her mother's mind.

"Mrs. Barington was right when she was engineering a romance. Freda knew Doctor Leo Shore would have to watch his step, or his next one would land him right into the middle of an alliance, the mechanism of which had been set in motion by the skillful Mrs. Barington.

Freda made a mental note that she, too, would have to watch her step, for this time it would have to be right. She had looked with some envy on Pam's courtship. It must be nice to sit back and let love come to you without any scheming of your own."

Proposal Doctor Leo Shore had formed a habit of early morning walking. He was safe in leaving the post at that time, when crises were generally over and patients were getting their best sleep. On the morning after the party on the Winthrop yacht his walk had a special purpose. He circled around through the park at the end of Division Street. Finally he turned in at the gate in the Quellerion picket fence.

"Leo! There was a glad note in Pam's voice. "You're just in time for breakfast."

Melita, in the kitchen, heard the young doctor's voice accepting Pam's invitation. Her eyes warmed with a smile. Leo would make a perfect master for the big Quellerion house some day. She put three more eggs in the pan. Leo was big and husky. His appetite would be that way, too. More quava-jelly was put in the old glass dish, and extra bread went into the toaster to brown.

It was apparent that there were things on young Shore's mind that morning, something more than the charm of his young hostess as he looked across at Pam in her crisp print dress. He tried to put his thoughts into words as they stood under the big pepper tree near the gate.

"Pam"—he was looking at her earnestly—"my trip to Washington had to do with a transfer next spring. I'm to go to the post in Panama. I'm to be chief surgeon there. I'd like to arrive there with my bride. Will I, Pam? You can tell me the answer to that."

When she didn't answer immediately, he asked, "Pam, will you marry me before I go?"

Pamela Quellerion knew that through all of the rest of her life she would never be called on to make a more important decision; never would she be asked to answer a question that would mean so much in the shaping of her future. Steady, dependable Leo. Brilliant, capable, Leo.

Her brain said definitely yes. But her heart was strangely aloof. She was reminded of an old Turkish saying of her grandfather—He had probably picked it up in God's mouth knows not to utter falsehood, but he will perform each word.—Aeschylus.

Today's Thought For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.—Romans 6:23.

ON BROADWAY (Copyright, 1941, for The Journal)

I O, THE POOR CELEBRITY!! Gripping about the discomforts of being a celeb is popular—but the greatest fear of well-known has—is sinking into oblivion or the Once-Was Division.

If you really want to see what a Click looks like—look around for a face with Worry running wild across it. . . . Privacy is what I want, although most of them will indulge in the most insane publicity stunts to keep from being forgotten. . . . A headwaiter will treat a celeb like a king, but the celeb is never sure about the way his friends treat him—behind his back. . . . No matter how many favors he does—if he neglects to do one, all the nice things he's ever done are forgotten in the flash of a temper. . . . People who were his friends (before he became famous) suddenly find themselves called stooges by his rivals—because they are still his friends.

Jackie will try to embarrass him in a public place in the hope it will get them some advertising. . . . He has a press agent who praises him publicly but pans him privately. . . . When he is recognized on the street people stare and giggle at him as though he had two heads, or a tail. . . . If he spends his money freely—he winds up broke. . . . If he doesn't, he's called a cheapskate. . . . He will seldom thank a newspaperman for a good notice—and he will never stop sulking about a sour one. . . . He has to be nice to everybody—for fear that if he shows he's human and has a temper or is ven to shove some heel—he will be called a swelled head. . . . Some clunk who once said "Hello, there!" when he was a nobody—pops up as one who made him what he is today, etc. . . . Nick Kenny puts his name down in his Happy Birthday dept., which reminds the pests and clip-artists to bother him for favors or cash. . . . Free-lance writers will earn their fees by writing articles about him—most of them being poisonous pieces which might harm his attempts to continue to make a living. . . . No matter how many nice things he does, there will be some who will claim he is doing it only to grab some publicity. . . . If he tries to be modest, he is accused of putting on an act. . . . If he's modest, he is considered a livid, dammed egotist. . . . People who detest having their own privacy invaded can't find enough to read about his private life.

HE WOULD like to walk into a night club or theater naturally, but the studio's press dept. says: "That's for saps!" . . . And so he must barge or cruise in with all the ceremony of a launching.

He is always talking about taking vacations, but he is bothered into doing so many free shows and taking bows wherever he goes for relaxation that he never can find time to take it easy.

When he speaks into a public place some people will wave and shout hello to him—and then whisper things about him—things they've read or heard—and repeat—because they think it makes them interesting conversationalists—and it does, dammit! . . . Bell System's Sprawling Monopoly Feels Pinch Of Labor Woes

Phone Strike Would Cripple Communications

BY PETER EDSON Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—The wage dispute between the Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers and the American Telephone and Telegraph company may or may not be settled before the threatened strike deadline, but regardless of the outcome the potentialities of this scrap are so far-reaching they make an interesting case history to show how complicated one of these national labor rows can be. Incidentally, it will be well to bear in mind how many-sided these labor troubles are since the country is apparently in for a wave of such things during the winter.

There is no doubt about what this threatened telephone strike would do to the nation's system of communications. Local communications would not be immediately disturbed, but long distance calls, news services, ticker services, telepho transmission of newspapers, radio services, weather reporting for air services, and Army and Navy communications would all be affected.

Take first the employer, the AT&T. It is tops of what's known as the Bell System. It has a holding company function and an advisory function for 17 regional operating companies which give service in every state in the Union through about 80 per cent of the country's telephones. Outside Bell are some 8,600 independent companies. From an operating point of view, AT&T's chief function is its long lines department connecting the 17 regional operating organizations.

INDEPENDENT UNION The labor dispute in question is with the employees of this long lines department. There are about 13,000 workers below the grade of supervisor, though the union claims 15,000 members belong to the Federation of Long Lines Telephone Workers. FLLTW is an independent union, neither AFL nor CIO. It's only affiliation with other unions is through the 5-year-old National Federation of Telephone Workers which is made up of 37 independent unions, all autonomous. Total membership of the 37 unions is about 150,000; of these 130,000 are Bell employees.

men's top rates of from $66 to $72 a week and from 10 to 29 per cent for operators' top rates of from $27 to $34 a week. Further, the company contends it has already offered cumulative increases already made during the year amount to $2 million or 9 per cent of the wages of the employees represented by the long lines federation.

Some QUESTION HERE ON top of this complicated wage dispute, however, has come a demand from the long lines federation officers that this case be certified immediately to the National Defense Mediation board, or else the strike would be called. But there is a question as to whether NDMB is eligible to mediate in a dispute of this kind, since its activities to disputes over materials necessary for transport of defense materials necessary for defense? That's one for the lawyers.

Men long experienced in labor relations see in this demand a clear manifestation of the independent union psychology. Independent union leaders like to emphasize their independence, like to show what tough bargainers they are. The job of strike negotiators, therefore, has been to get the case settled before the deadline, or drop from 9 to 46 per cent for crafts-some foreign port or from some member of his crew: "Live with the head, but marry with the heart."

Marry with the heart. Could she do that? Could her head and her heart disagree on so important a matter? Leo was everything an intelligent girl could want in the man she married. He had charm and personality, a worthwhile purpose in life, the right ideas. Yet, when she thought of saying yes, it was Jerry's name that whispered in her heart.

"Pam, you know I love you," Leo was saying. "I think I've been telling you that all my life. And I'll want to tell it to you all the rest of my life in all the ways I can think of."

"Leo," Pam's voice was low. "I wish I could say yes. Oh, I wish I could! I want to more than anything else in the world. But I can't say it honestly. And I know you'd want it no other way. If we can't begin our lives with an honest basis..." She paused.

"It's Winthrop, isn't it?"

"Yes," she admitted reluctantly. "and yet I can hardly be sure even of that. Oh, Leo, what am I to do? Is there something wrong with me that I'm so weak and undecided? Jerry isn't any of the things I admire and respect in a man. He has only one thing to recommend him—his natural kindness and goodness to every living thing. I've seen him buy food for hungry dogs. I've seen him insist that boys who were teasing a helpless mouse put it out of the way quickly and mercifully. He has kindness, but so little else that I've always thought I must demand of a man I might marry. And you, Leo, have everything. Everything. Yet I can't say yes to you. Not honestly—yet, Leo."

"I see," Leo said quietly. "I see. And it's your happiness that's most important after all." (To Be Continued)

Insistence on Mediation Board action.

The danger of the situation is that if the case went up to the deadline, long lines workers might be pulled out on strike in a few places. The 37 independent telephone unions in the national federation have an agreement not to cross each other's picket lines. Interpreting that broadly, it means that no employee will do the work of an employee on strike. Calling out a few men could, therefore, easily disrupt the entire system of long distance communication.

PLEASURE BEFORE BUSINESS

BY WALT DISNEY

Brooklyn Plans New Additions In 1942

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. (AP)—If a bankroll of approximately $250,000 and some excellent trading material hold any charms for rival club owners...

In the first place, he admitted today, the Dodgers badly need a good left-handed pitcher and another outfielder who bats right-handed.

And in the second place, he said with a twinkle, both the Dodgers and the Cincinnati Reds had better get busy and do something if they expect to live in the same league with the St. Louis Cardinals next year.

"I just got through telling Warren Giles that in this letter," he said, waving a copy of his epistle to the general manager of the Reds, "Warren would like to do some trading, and I've told him I hope we can get together to our mutual benefit, because St. Louis is going to be tough."

Giles would like to have Babe Phelps. He needs a catcher, and it's no secret that we're going to trade Phelps to somebody. But it depends on what he's willing to give up to get Phelps.

"Sure, we would like to have Johnny Vander Meer. He's the left-hander we need. And so would Giles like to have our Pete Reiser. But I doubt he would give up Vandy, and I know we're not trading Reiser — though one of my rules is that no player is indispensable. Maybe we'll get together on something."

Thinking Out Loud: Now that Sweetwater has been stopped, it looks like Masonic Home's biggest obstacles to a finalist berth in the state race are Dallas Sunset and Paris.

The Masons met both teams a year ago and got past them but didn't outscore them. Won each game on penetrations. The Fort Worth kids do not have such a high point total but have a slick-working synchronized offense that scores when it has the ball.

High Scores In Spotlight: Sunset, no shoo-in in the Dallas district, but favored, has a brother act to thank for much of its success. Ken and Bill Blackburn both are backs, the former a 175-pound blocker, the latter a 150-pound high-scoring fullback.

Not only at school but at home they practice. The one to run interference, the other to carry the ball. Works well.

Tough break for fleet Marion Flanagan, Sweetwater's loss to Odessa. Means that in all likelihood the West Texan's phenomenal point-making will stop at month's end, when Sweetwater probably will end the season and Odessa's Broncs, not the Mustangs, continue into the December playoffs.

Means also that Flanagan may be passed in the individual scoring race. Perhaps by Buryl Baly of Paris, whose team seems certain to win District 5. Perhaps by Raymond Borneman of Houston Lamar, whose team can and may win District 13. To state Flanagan has 149 points, Baly, 121, Borneman 117.

It Only Happens in the Movies: Star Quarterback Dan Sweeney of Wharton's Tigers caught the mumps, was put to bed at home. The Panthers have a three-pronged passing offensive. Right-hander Humphrey, a letterman, does a lot of the throwing.

Castagna, a left-hander playing his first year of football, is another passer, and is regarded as the best of the three. And Bridler, who was the second high schoolboy scorer in the state a few weeks ago, also can throw, but prefers to be on the receiving end.

When the Westerners went on offense yesterday, their efforts were clicking smoothly. Billy Wright and Max Walthall were hitting their receivers, and Blackwell, Bechtel and company were catching the ball.

This Friday game could be an aerial battle to end all aerial battles. The teams have got the passers to make it that.

Bids On REA Work In Lamb Opened

LITTLEFIELD, Nov. 13 (Special)—Bids for the construction of 200 miles of additional lines were opened here Wednesday at a meeting of directors of the Lamb County Electric Cooperative, Inc.

Walco Engineering and Construction company of Tulsa, Okla., submitted a bid of $125,933 for the project, using self-protecting transformers. R. E. Mattison of Britton, Okla., submitted a bid of $123,038, but using conventional transformers.

H. N. Roberts of Lubbock, consulting engineer, will submit the bids to Washington, REA headquarters with the recommendation that the Tulsa firm's bid be accepted.

Approximately 430 more farm families will be served by the lines.
