

Allied "War Council" Is Meeting In Washington Today

Roosevelt, Churchill Leading Discussions For United Victory

Two Chiefs, U. S. Army, Navy And British Officials Called Into Important Session

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23 — President Roosevelt called a conference for 4 p. m. Central standard time today with American Army and Navy officials and British Prime Minister Churchill and his staff. The White House said this group might be called the "war council."

The American group invited Secretary of War Stimson, General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff; Major General Henry H. Arnold, deputy chief of staff for air; Secretary of the Navy Knox; Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations; Admiral Ernest J. King, new commander of the United States fleet, and Harry L. Hopkins, special assistant on lend-lease affairs.

With Britain's prime minister, who arrived here last night, were to be Lord Beaverbrook, supply minister; Admiral of the Fleet Sir Dudley Pound; Air Chief Marshal Sir Charles F. A. Portal, and Field Marshal Sir John Dill, who retires as chief of the imperial general staff Christmas day.

Speed Is Keynote In announcing the conference, Press Secretary Stephen Early told reporters: "That group you might call the war council. This was to be the first conference between the president and the entire British mission. Even before the capital recovered from its surprise at Churchill's dramatic arrival, the conversations were under way and the White House had become, for the present, the G. H. Q. for the worldwide battle against totalitarian arms.

The British prime minister reached the executive mansion early enough last night for President Roosevelt to have the whole evening with him, and their preliminary exchange of views continued today.

The questions before them were monolithic—global strategy for

Bridges Demands Law To Curtail Strikes

Senator Assails Leaders For "Quibbling While American Boys Are Dying" In War

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23 — Sen. Styles Bridges, R. N. H., demanded in the Senate today that Congress take action on anti-strike legislation because President Roosevelt's industry-labor conference is "quibbling while American boys are dying."

Bridges said he was "dismayed, disappointed and disillusioned" to see President Roosevelt's conference fail to reach any understanding.

Should "Freeze" Shop Status — "If they can't agree, with a war on, with the country in danger, with war on both sides, then it is time we took this thing back and passed legislation," he declared.

It is saddening to me to read that they are on the point of breakdown on the closed shop issue.

AGREEMENT REACHED — Labor and management representatives agreed today to freeze strikes and lockouts for the duration of the war and to settle all disputes by peaceful means.

The agreement was worked out by representatives of industry, labor and the government after four days of deliberation.

President Roosevelt was recommended that labor be similar to the one in operation in the last World War to handle disputes.

The closed shop issue should not be brought up at this time. We should freeze existing shop conditions.

Bridges recalled that he joined with other members of the Senate labor committee in deferring action on the House-approved Smith bill after Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Sidney Hillman, and William H. Davis, chairman of the national defense mediation board, had appealed for delay until after the president called the conference.

Deplores Welder's Strike — He criticized the labor committee's chairman, Sen. Elbert D. Thomas, D., Utah, for offering the conference a "government plan" which was rejected.

Bridges deplored the existence of a welder's strike "while American boys are dying on the sea and in the air."

Meanwhile, Sen. Tom Connally, D., Tex., telegraphed Gov. Paul B. Johnson of Mississippi that "regardless of action on any other labor measures" he intends to press for passage of his plant seizure bill immediately after the new session convenes.

Shouting At Movie Of FDR Brings Arrest — CHICAGO, Dec. 23 (AP) — Rose Hoffman, 40, German-born dishwasher, was held on disorderly conduct charges today for allegedly shouting curses at newsreel pictures of President Roosevelt signing a declaration of war against her native country.

Miss Hoffman denied she had cursed the president but admitted she shouted objections to applause for Mr. Roosevelt.

"I was sick of war news and went to the movie to forget," she said. "I was born in Germany but I'm an American citizen. I want America to win the war."

One of Farmer J. P. Gotcher's hens laid an egg with the rising sun Japanese emblem. One side of the egg was flat and the rising sun resemblance was markedly noticeable.

GENERAL IS DEAD — ROME, Dec. 23 (Official German Broadcast Recorded by UPI) — Gen. Giulio Borsari, 61, retired of the Italian army was reported today to have died from wounds suffered while leading the Trento division in action in Libya. An official announcement said he was the seventh Italian general killed in front line combat.

Attack On Tanker Heard For Miles On West Coast

(By The United Press) S A N FRANCISCO, Dec. 23 — Twelfth naval district headquarters announced today that an unidentified submarine shelled the Richfield tanker Larry Doheny off Estero bay at 3 o'clock this morning.

The submarine, presumably Japanese, did not sink the Doheny which was able to dock at Estero bay.

Fifth Since Thursday — It was the fifth submarine attack on U. S. shipping off the California coast since last Thursday morning.

The attack on the Doheny was 50 miles north of Point Arguello where a submarine shelled the Standard Oil tanker H. M. Storey yesterday morning.

13 SURVIVORS LANDED — CAYUCOS, Calif., Dec. 23 (AP) — Thirteen men, presumably crew members of an unidentified tanker believed to have been sunk by a submarine before dawn, were landed here today.

The Larry Doheny, a vessel of 7,038 tons, was built in 1921 by the Sun Shipbuilding company, Chester, Pa. It is 100 feet long.

It was formerly known as the Fold-enford. Its home port is Los Angeles.

Heard For Miles — The attack on the Doheny was heard for miles up and down Estero bay and also in San Luis Obispo, four miles inland.

Residents reported they heard a loud explosion followed by two others giving rise to reports the submarine had shot torpedoes at the Doheny. The Navy, however, said the submersible only attacked

Peak Of Mail Rush Reached

Peak of the outgoing Christmas mail for Lubbock postoffice was reached Monday, said Postmaster Amos Howard this morning in reporting approximately 85,000 pieces of mail were run through the cancelling machines during the 24-hour period. Adding parcel post matter and mail from the 15 stamp machines in the city, better than 90,000 pieces were handled.

Incoming mail was expected today to set a peak. Every possible extra clerk and carrier was on duty to work out and deliver mail that was received.

Trucks Aid Carriers — Mail for Lubbock, both local and incoming, is worked in a special room in the basement of the building. Extra trucks carry the mail in sacks to designated boxes over the foot routes, so carriers in the residential districts do not have to carry such heavily laden sacks from the postoffice to their routes.

Japs, Practical Jokers Who Wrap Up Dive Bombers And Peace Envoys In Same Parcel, Lose Market For Gadgets Which Annoyed Your Friends And Caused Barrel Of Laughs

(By The United Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 23 — Our local cut-ups and hot sketches are about out of exploding cigars and rubber chewing gum.

For the Japanese, those cute little practical jokers who wrap up dive bombers and peace envoys in the same parcel, are out of their "japs" market—except in Nippon—for the big laugh that comes for only a dime, ten cents, no more.

Washington has a number of tourist shops—where these side-splitting devices have been on sale for years. Without exception, so far as could be learned, the ones marked "made in Japan" have either been junked or buried in the basement.

Enemy Forces Are Battered In Luzon Area

Nipponese Land On Wake Today; Fate Of Men Unknown

(By The Associated Press) U. S. Army mechanized forces were reported speeding to reinforce American tanks locked in battle with Japanese invasion columns 125 miles north of Manila today amid persistent but unconfirmed reports that 47 Japanese transports had been sunk off the Luzon coast.

Halfway between the Philippines and Hainan the Navy announced, Japanese forces of unspecified strength have landed on U. S.-owned Wake Island, where a tiny band of American Marines has been holding out since the first days of the war under repeated Japanese air and sea bombardments.

"Filipinos Plenty Mad" — The invaders landed this morning, the Navy said. Information was not immediately forthcoming whether the "leatherneck" defenders were still resisting.

Late dispatches from Manila said heavy casualties resulted when Japanese warplanes bombed a center reserved for persons removed from the Philippine capital and other towns.

First eye-witness accounts of the Japanese invasion front north of Manila said "the Filipinos are plenty mad and morale is excellent among troops and civilians."

A long line of Japanese ships, faintly discernible through a low-lying mist, were reported off the coast and the thunder of heavy artillery fire rolled incessantly across the water.

Japs Fought To Standstill — An American observer said he saw U. S. mechanized units heading toward the tank battle, but the movements of both armies were so fast he could not size up the situation accurately.

Good news came from Hongkong, where a gallant British garrison was reported still holding out, and from the Malay peninsula, where the Japanese onslaught toward Singapore had apparently been halted.

Philippines, a U. S. Army bulletin indicated that American and Filipino defense fighters had fought to a standstill the vanguard of powerful sea-borne Japanese forces which landed at Santa Tomas, 125 miles north of Manila.

Axis Fortunes Are Tolerating

Adolf Is Believed Seeking New Front

(By The Associated Press) Sharp new reverses jarred Adolf Hitler's invasion armies on two fronts today — in Russia and North Africa — as the world speculated on the possibility of a sudden berserk thrust by the fuhrer in an attempt to retrieve his tattered military fortunes.

European observers predicted that Hitler, in his new role as supreme war lord of the German army, would soon try to open a new front in regions less hostile to blitzkrieg campaigning than winter-frozen Russia.

Likely Targets For Attack — Turkey and the Middle East, Spain, Gibraltar, French Africa and the British Isles appeared the likeliest targets of attack.

A Soviet broadcast said that German-dominated Bulgaria was speeding war preparations along the Turkish frontier and that announcement of Bulgarian mobilization was expected shortly.

The broadcast said the Bulgarian port of Varna and the Rumanian port of Constanta were now in German hands, and that the Black sea were in complete German control—evidently ready to serve as bases for some new German thrust.

Forces Are Massing — Powerful German forces have repeatedly been reported massing in Bulgaria in recent months.

Berlin and Rome both hinted that important military developments were imminent, with Nazi and Fascist commentators, using the word "defensive," while Stockholm observers predicted that Axis operations would be moved "from east to west."

On the Russian front, counter-marching Soviet armies were reported to have driven the shivering, ill-clad German invaders from 15 more villages, and fierce Russian guerrilla bands were now said to be blocking the Nazi retreat, abandoning their hit-and-run tactics for stand-and-fight blows.

Thousands Are Killed — Of the 750,000-man army Hitler sent against Moscow, the Russian newspaper Pravda declared more (Turn to Page 8, Column 3, Please)

Convict Plans Trap Laid For Jap Invaders

(By The United Press) LANSING, Kans., Dec. 23 — Charles W. Fargo gets a parole in January and he says he is going straight because he can't let his inmate friends down.

Fargo, a convicted bank robber, suffered amputation of both legs when he was shot during a hold-up. Although he has been a model prisoner and eligible for parole, officials had hesitated to free him for fear he would not be able to support himself outside.

They All Chipped In — The other prisoners decided to do something about it. They chipped in from their earnings and pensions and raised a fund of $336.46 to give Fargo a stake in his new start. More than 500 inmates shared in the project.

Fargo said he planned to buy a trailer and peddle candy, gum and magazines near an airplane plant at Wichita.

"My buddies have been mighty good to me," said Fargo. "I'm going straight. I can't let 'em (Turn to Page 8, Column 1, Please)

Hitler Claimed Favoring Plan

Germany's Experts Said Against Idea

(By The United Press) STOCKHOLM, Dec. 23 — Adolf Hitler fired Field Marshal Walther von Brauchitsch and installed himself as commander-in-chief of the German army because v. n. Brauchitsch had opposed a new plan for immediate invasion of the British isles, an usually well-informed source with German connections said today.

Hitler's troubles with his military command do not end with v. n. Brauchitsch, this source said.

"Hitler isn't only at war with half the world, but also with his own officers," he said.

Invasion Plan Said Offered — His differences with v. n. Brauchitsch were said to have stemmed from the conduct of the Russian campaign, but to have come to a head during a military council early this month.

Hitler summoned all his commanders from the Arctic ocean to the Black sea, and laid before them a new plan for immediate attack upon the British isles with every man who could be spared from Russia and the occupied countries.

Gen. Alfred Jodl and Col. Gen. Erhard Milch favored the plan, it was said, but v. n. Brauchitsch and other generals, immediately declared their opposition. They argued that the season was the least favorable of the year for such an invasion.

Hitler then announced he had (Turn to Page 8, Column 7, Please)

(By The Associated Press) ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 23 — Rear Admiral Russell Willson, naval academy superintendent, was ordered to duty today as chief of staff to Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet.

Academy officials said Admiral Willson would assume his new duties about Jan. 1. Willson succeeded Rear Admiral Nelson Brown as naval academy superintendent last February.

Served During Emergency — The new chief of staff to Admiral King served as superintendent here during the expansion of the academy and the shortening of the academy course, necessitated by the approach of war.

Admiral Willson, born in Fredonia, N. Y., Dec. 27, 1883, attended school at Washington, D. C., and studied at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology before he was appointed to the academy.

California Youth Asking Santa To Help Find Missing Mother

(By The Associated Press) LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23 — Bobby McClanahan of suburban Inglewood is putting Santa Claus to the supreme test. For Christmas he wants: His mother.

Bobby, who lives with an aunt and uncle, wrote: "Dear Santa Claus: 'Will you find my mother for a Christmas present? I have not seen her for four years. She was in Santa Ana, Calif. I have been in the hospital and I am sick to see you, mother dear. I pray every night for you to come to me. I go to church and I want to be good so the Lord will send her here to me. That is all I want. Please, Santa, if you see her, her name is Catherine McClanahan. Send her to me. I would be so happy.'"

Bobby's letter went to the social service commission, which is helping Santa in the search. The commission did not know Bobby's age.

Japanese favorites may already be rolling off the assembly lines. The Japanese version of the comic raveling joke may also reappear in a new and better twist. In the old days, you recall, you annoyed your friends and caused a barrel of laughs with what was apparently a raveling on your sleeve? The one which in reality had its roots in a hidden tin pool of thread.

Gifts for the time being, are the Japanese ersatz cigarette butt (5 cents) and the Japanese imitation lighted cigar (10 cents) to park on your hostess's grand piano. Gone also are the Jap false teeth (uppers 10 cents, upper and lowers 15 cents).

The Japanese rubber eraser has "vanished along with the rubber cigar and the "black widow" spider. A realistic looking fly, too small to label, remains on the market. You can stick it into grandma's butter-pat and converse her on Christmas day for only 15 cents.

Strike Guards Are Removed

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—Army troops were withdrawn today from outside four bay area shipyards despite protests of striking independent welders that their picket lines needed protection. Ralph Sheafe, spokesman for the welders, said that while his pickets had no intention of disturbing the peace that has reigned over the yards since the welders began their walkout Saturday, he feared "some heads might be broken" when American Federation of Labor members attempt to cross the picket lines. Anthony Balsani, president of the California State Metal Trades Council (AFL), confirmed that the AFL considered the strike an outland jurisdictional affair and ordered its members to go through the picket lines. Fourth Army headquarters, which yesterday placed 680 helmeted soldiers with bayonets and loaded rifles around four of the nine struck plants to prevent violence, withdrew them shortly after midnight last night after a day of peace. "Troops on duty at several plants in the San Francisco bay area to prevent molestation of men wanting to enter to work have been withdrawn," the Army announcement said. "They are available for further duty at the plants if the need for them arises."

"When she doesn't care to be read to, play gin rummy, laugh, rhumba, talk, or learn French, however, she'll take Brent."

We're sorry—
Many Christmas Long Distance calls will be delayed

We simply do not have enough long distance lines to handle at a moment's notice all the calls that flood our offices after important war broadcasts, and after 7 p.m. on almost any evening nowadays. It is as if thousands of citizens in every community appeared at the railroad station at the same hour, hoping to catch the same train. Even before the outbreak of war we had foreseen that delays inevitably would occur on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. Now it appears the volume of calls will be even heavier than we had anticipated. We have done and are doing all we can to make ready for these big rushes, but they are setting all-time records. Thousands of conversations vital to the Army and Navy—vital to the defense of this nation—go over the telephone lines each day, each night. Some of them may delay your calls. We are sure you understand. We appreciate your co-operation, your patience. SOUTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

"Despite The War, The World Will Go On—" New Chief Says Byron Price, A Newsman's Newspaperman, Goes To Washington To Head Censorship

BY S. J. WOOLF
World Staff Writer
NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—Byron Price, Tuesday President Roosevelt laid his cigarette on the edge of his desk, and smiling at the reporters who filled the executive office, told them he had appointed Byron Price director of censorship.

He did not have to tell any one who Byron Price was. Most of the newsmen knew the new appointee, many were his friends. For he had worked in Washington for twenty-two years. He went there first as a reporter for the Associated Press, later became its news editor there and finally was made chief of its bureau. Five years ago he came to New York to become executive news editor of the entire service.

Is Nothing New To Him
I saw Mr. Price the day after he was named. He was still somewhat surprised, for he had heard of it but a day or two before the announcement was made. "Censorship is nothing new to me," he said after he got settled in a large leather chair. "I ran up against it myself forty years ago. I was ten years old at the time and I decided that my home town of Topeka, Indiana, needed another newspaper. Accordingly I made up my mind to publish one and I got out the first copy with the help of a pencil. The censor clamped down on me shortly after publication. He was my father, and he did not approve of some of the things I had written about my relatives."

He will not speak about what he is going to do in Washington for he says he can not tell until he takes it over. One thing is certain, however, and that is that he will not forget that getting news is a reporter's job and publishing it a paper's function. He keenly appreciates the duties and responsibilities of the fourth estate and he is not going to restrict or hamper it more than is necessary for the public good.

He fully realizes that in some ways his job is going to be a thankless one, for as President Roosevelt put it: "all Americans hate censorship as much as they do war."

His chief work will be that of coordination, of seeing that the releases of one department are not at cross purposes with those of another. Up to the present this has not been done. Only recently an American correspondent in one of the war areas is speaking over the radio told certain facts. Yet when he incorporated these in an article for his paper the censor cut them out.

War Said "Played Up"
During the last war all releases came from the department of information; now reporters will continue to get their information from the same sources that have always given them out. Their only contact with the censorship will be in the case of exclusive stories. Although Mr. Price would say little about what he was going to do, he had much to say about papers and their functions.

"I have felt strongly," he told me, "that for some time before we entered the war our papers were playing it up too much. I have never hesitated in saying this. This does not mean that I did not realize the importance or gravity of what was going on but that I felt that there were other subjects which were also of importance."

There Are Other Things
He stopped for a minute and looked down on the crowded street below him.

"Despite the war, the world will go on. Even now with us in it, Santa Claus must get around and there are reindeer down there in the plaza. In times such as these the papers must not forget that there are still some light things in life."

"Of course, it is to be expected that for the next few weeks the war will take up most of the space. The people are entitled to know what is happening, no matter whether the news is good or bad. I do not believe in living in a fool's paradise. The only news that should be kept secret is that which will aid our enemies."

"But I think that in a short time the papers will get back to a more normal state and play up other news besides that of the war. Sports again will take their proper place and so will a lot of other activities and happenings

Japs Learning Lesson Quick

BY WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Writer

So here's to you, Filipino, with your skin of natural tan, your "fiery" fighting man, and here's to you, Filipino, and we do not mean perhaps. You've already shown us what it takes to slip it to the Japs.

The little, silent, serious men, best known to Americans on Pullman club cars in white coats and blue uniform caps, are doing all right in khaki, too.

That's no surprise to the American army of nearly 100,000 men who from 1900 to 1902 spent months of the most arduous campaigning to subdue Aguinaldo's guerrilla forces. The little, tan-skinned men whose military equipment was largely restricted to a "shirt-tail" and a "bolo," fought desperately against the American army of occupation, as they had against that of Spain. General Arthur MacArthur, the father of Lieutenant General Douglas MacArthur, was only one of many who could testify to the fighting quality of the Filipino. He was with the "Army of Pacification" which finally subdued them.

The "Yankee soldiers, plunged into a campaign in pathless tropical jungles, with languages and health problems of which they knew nothing, had to enlist native help. A hundred Macabebes, descendants of Artec Indians brought to the Philippines from Mexico by the Spaniards, were hired as "quartermaster scouts." This force grew, and gradually assumed more and more military characteristics.

Tagalogs, Visayans, Ilocanos, Cagayanos, Bicolos, Moros and Igorotes were incorporated into the scouts. As the prestige of the service increased after the final collapse of Philippine resistance in 1902, many of the former insurgents joined up, and were received without prejudice.

Join American Forces
American uniforms, methods, and training gradually replaced the scanty uniforms of the tribesmen, education went with their military training, and the force gradually became an exemplary small army. Gradually members moved up through non-commissioned into commissioned rank, and though U. S. supervision remained, it became, to all intents and purposes, a Philippine Army.

There were about 8,000 Philippine Scouts when the present crisis broke over the world in 1931. Proud of their khaki, neat, eager, agile, strong and healthy acclimated to the tropic service, the Scouts won the praise of officers and observers.

Native officers moved into commissioned positions as high as major, and the whole military force was supplemented by a Philippine Constabulary, a semi-military "colonial police force," charged with maintaining police order in the remote and scattered islands.

Defense Developed
In 1935 it was decided that the Philippines, if they were ever to have a chance of maintaining their own independence in a troubled world, must have a modern army of their own. General MacArthur was sent out to take charge of building it, under auspices of the new Commonwealth government headed by Manuel Quezon. MacArthur was also charged with developing master plans for defense of the islands.

The plan called for ten years to develop the new Philippine Army, only half of which time was realized before attack came. Nevertheless, MacArthur is believed to have at his disposal pretty close to 12 divisions of men in various stages of training and equipment—roughly 125,000. With American reinforcements, MacArthur may have a force of 200,000 at his disposal to fight off the Japanese invaders. The whole force has been incorporated during the emergency into the United States Army.

Also Have Pilots
The miniature West Point at Baguio has been turning out officers trained by the same methods by the U. S., and not less than 100 skilled pilots have been graduated from the "Philippine Randolph field."

Today the Filipino air pilots trained by Kelly and Randolph field veterans, since the 1935 program went into effect, are flying wing to wing with the Americans.

Allies Awaiting Roosevelt-Churchill Decisions

Meeting To Be Blow To Axis

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Wide-World War Analyst
Typically Churchillian is the British prime minister's risky crossing of a war-time Atlantic in the interests of Allied unity, for he always has been a direct actionist and has courted adventure ever since the days when he was graduated from Sandhurst, England's West Point, and started hunting double under gun-fire.

His devotion to duty has served the cause well, for this demonstration of solidarity and determination in Washington already is having its beneficial effect on the morale of the Allied peoples at a highly critical moment. And let none believe that the Axis is overlooking a historic meeting which so patently means business.

Vital Steps At Stake
From the military standpoint this conference is vital for the co-ordination of Allied efforts. Momentous questions must be settled in such manner as will give the greatest efficiency. And since this is a war of resources and production, there must be co-ordination in this field as well.

The matter of immediate urgency is, of course, the battle of the Pacific in which the Allies are fighting at a disadvantage because of the nature of the Japanese blow in the dark. Perhaps it is a good omen that as Roosevelt and Churchill get down to cases in Washington the news from the Far East is not unfavorable.

Must Consider Ultimate Victory
The Yanks and Filipinos are reported to have fought the invading Japs to a standstill. The British are holding their own on the Malayan peninsula above Singapore. Even gallant Hongkong is hanging on by its teeth in the face of tremendous odds.

Still, we cannot blink the fact that the Allied bases are in great danger. At any moment the defense may be called upon to decide whether American reserves shall be thrown to the support of the vital base of Singapore with the risk of losing the Philippines temporarily. There is the question of whether Russia shall join the Allies against Japan is likely to become a burning issue. All these problems must be pooled and settled in the interest of the common good, namely the winning of the war as a whole.

Japs Holding Bag
The Washington conference looking to the establishment of unified control is a notable step towards victory. Obviously it couldn't be held earlier, because America wasn't in the war, but it means much that the Allies are acting promptly in concert at the earliest possible moment.

It would be worth a bit to know what emotion stirs the minds of the Japs as they view this Washington conference. It would be especially worth while to learn what they are thinking as they see the Germans doing a Napoleonic retreat from Moscow just after Nippon has come into the war with the idea (or so one supposes) that Herr Hitler was about to put his foot on the Muscovite neck.

It looks very much to me as though the fuhrer sold the men of the island empire a bill of goods. There he was, poised in the stance of victory before a doomed Moscow. Certainly the Red capital would fall just as Japan launched her attack against America and Britain, and then the Axis would romp home to a grand triumph.

Only Hitler could have held that stance long enough to entice Nippon into the war, for his weary and shattered troops even then were fighting on sheer nerve as they flung themselves against the enemy. But the Nazi chief hung on with that amazing aplomb which has marked all his leadership. He hung on until he had the Japs signed up and already steaming out across the Pacific to do what they did do—heaven forgive them. Then, with the Japanese holding the sack for him, he allowed the retirement which the Russians hope to turn into a debacle.

This position on the Russian front is another vital problem for the Allied command—how best to take advantage of it. Then, too, Hitler undoubtedly is getting ready to strike elsewhere in an effort to repair his fortunes, and this must be dealt with.

January Oil Hearing Set

(By The United Press)
AUSTIN, Dec. 23—Railroad Commissioner Jerry Sadler announced today that the January oil hearing, recessed last Monday, would be resumed here tomorrow morning.

His announcement came after receipt of a telegram from Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior and federal oil coordinator, recommending that production of Texas oil be jumped 94,000 barrels daily next month.

To Release Information
In a lengthy telegram, Ickes suggested that January allowables be lenient enough to produce a daily average of 1,573,500 barrels from Texas fields. Sadler declined to reveal what specific recommendations were made for the state's oil areas and indicated he would release the information contained in the telegram at tomorrow's hearing.

It would be a continuation of the regular monthly hearing held Dec. 15 and recessed on the advice of Robert E. Allen of Washington, director of production in the office of the petroleum coordinator. He said that the "situation arising from the war prevents our furnishing certain essential information to the Texas railroad commission for your hearing" and suggested that the hearing be put off.

Nominations Heard
The commission, before recessing, heard producers' nominations and indirectly committed itself to allow increased production should the federal government deem it necessary.

Commission Chairman Ernest O. Thompson has repeatedly advocated all production possible without physical waste while Sadler has teamed with Commissioner Clin Culberson in a majority holding position in line with the U. S. Bureau of Mines estimate of market demand.

Sadler last night announced receipt of Ickes' recommendation that Texas production beginning January 1 be set at an average of 1,573,500 barrels daily. This compares with a December allowable of 1,512,000 barrels and a U. S. Bureau of Mines December esti-

Japan's Army Strength Is Placed At 2,000,000 Men

(By The United Press)
CHUNGKING, Dec. 23—An official Chinese spokesman today placed Japan's army strength at 2,000,000 men—slightly more than 2,000,000 men—and said that "short of a miracle Japan cannot raise enough divisions to meet her commitments."

General Lieu Wei Chang, vice chief of China's military operations board, said the Japanese have 36 divisions tied up in China, 33 in Manchuria and four in India.

Ickes' January estimate is 94,000 barrels more than the December estimate.

China and Thailand: Chang estimated that Japan is using five divisions in Malaya—and must double and quadruple its forces there to make them effective, and that she is employing three divisions in attacking the Philippines, where she will need at least 10.

The Japanese have 1500 planes in the South Pacific; 600 in Manchuria; 100 in China and 500 to 600 in Japan whereas Russia has more than 1000 planes in Siberia alone, Chang said.

For Miss Worley
A series of parties is honoring Miss Freddie Marie Worley who is to marry Burt Koeninger Christmas Day.

Mesdames W. W. Morris and Joe McIlhenny sang and a reading was given by Mrs. Gladie Bownds, sister of the honoree. Accordion numbers were presented by Dorothy Ree. Mrs. Wylie gave several piano selections.

Carols, holly
The table was laid with an Italian cutwork linen cloth and was centered with red carnations and holly. Red candles were on either side and a silver service was used. Christmas holly and greenery decorated the house.

Bobby Wylie, dressed as a Santa Claus with a pack of gifts on his back presented a shower to the honoree. Other gifts were presented from a Christmas tree.

About 75 guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Worley, 2204 Twenty-ninth street, will entertain tonight with a dinner for out-of-town relatives and members of the immediate family.

Supper Wednesday
A buffet style dinner will be served Thursday at 12 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bownds Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock. Guests will be Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Herford; Messrs. and Mesdames H. W. A Christmas dinner will be served Thursday at 12 o'clock at the Bownds home. A reception will follow the wedding ceremony.

Cars Are Requested To Aid Goodfellows
A reminder that automobiles will be needed to assist in the distribution of Christmas packages to needy children of Lubbock Thursday morning was given today by the Chief Goodfellow.

Three or four hundred cars will be needed to do the job to be done, he said.

Cars are to be loaded, he added, in front of 1214 Tenth avenue, where the toys, fruit, candy, nuts and firecrackers are being put into packages. Drivers are asked to be on hand by 7 a. m. Packages bearing addresses will be loaded into the cars by Boy Scouts, who are to be on hand in uniform.

The building is on the west side of the street and the Chief Goodfellow suggested that those helping in the work approach the address from the north. Police Chief Don Reeder has given assurance that a squad of traffic officers will be on duty where needed.

The Chief Goodfellow expressed the opinion that the whole job, including the delivery of the packages, probably can be completed within an hour.

Meet A Lubbock Business Girl

We The Women
BY RUTH MILLETT

Two years ago there were two girls—friends—who lived in the same small town. Both wanted husbands.

The girls were equally attractive, and had there been any eligible men around, neither would have had any trouble landing one. But—as is the case in so many small towns, there was a decided scarcity of eligible young men.

One of the girls (we'll call her Sue) after giving the matter considerable thought, decided to do something about the situation before she got any older. So she gave up her job, kissed her family and her comfortable home good-bye, and went to a nearby big city where she got a job.

On that first job, she found she wasn't meeting any more eligible men than she had met back in Podunk, so she looked around until she found one that was better from that point of view.

Next, she realized that her social life would be pretty cramped and spinsterish as long as she lived in a woman's hotel, with no place to entertain. So she teamed up with another attractive girl and rented an apartment.

Then she put her mind to entertaining the people she met through her work and the few social contacts she had made. Today, Sue has a husband—the thing she wanted most in the world two years ago. She has him because she was smart enough to know that whatever you want—you have to go out and get it.

MUST STIR AROUND
Mary, the other girl, just as anxious as Sue to be married, lacked Sue's get-up-and-get. She is still living in the same small town, working at the same dull job. She has even fewer contacts than she had two years ago, and she doesn't even know a man she'd consider marrying.

Time is hurrying along and Mary is getting less, rather than more, attractive because the discontent she feels is beginning to show in her personality.

Mary still half-way plans on marrying some day. But chances are she never will. Because she forfeited all sureness of getting what she wanted when she refused to go after it herself.

One Of Best Grid Battles Of Season Seen Tulsa Hurricane Gets Around, Too, As Red Raiders Likely Will Find Out In Sun Bowl

BY JOE PIERCE
Journal Sports Writer

JOIN THE TEXAS TECH football team and see the country. Or join the Tulsa university football team and play with teammates from all over the country.

The Red Raider footballers do a lot of traveling, but a glance at the Tulsa roster indicates that the Hurricane recruits do even more. There are guys on that football team from all over the country. Even a few from Oklahoma.

Take John Wickham, Big Guy, that weighs 231 1/2 pounds (notarized weight, strictly attested to by N. E. Day, noted public in and for the state of Oklahoma). Stands 6 feet 5 inches tall. Came all the way from Findlay, Ohio, to get an education at the University of Tulsa, and then had to wait three years to earn a regular tackle position.

Or Charles McGinley. According to the Tulsa publicity department, McGinley played basketball, baseball and football for Colestock high school in Pittsfield, Pa., winning seven varsity letters and captaining the football and basketball teams.

Perhaps Glen Henicle had to go west from Waynesboro, Pa., for his health. He doesn't do the health of Tulsa opponents any good, though, operating with his 203 1/2 pounds from a guard position.

Maybe those football teams from Duquesne and Pennsylvania, U. and Villanova and Penn. State could win all their games instead of just 90 per cent of them if they didn't let Tulsa and Miami get so many Pennsylvania boys.

Oh, yes, there are some Oklahoma boys on that Tulsa team. Glenn Dobbs, for instance. Home town, Frederick. All-state in high school. For the rest, we refer you to the Tulsa university publicity department.

Considered by many as one of the greatest passers and kickers ever developed in the state of Oklahoma, he led the nation's punters during the first half of the 1940 season. Not only passes, kicks and runs in all-American style, but is one of the best pass receivers on the Tulsa squad.

Named all-Missouri Valley back in 1940, his sophomore year. Wonder if he can block? In support of the press releases we offer the following from the record: For the 1941 season, Dobbs kicked 44 times for a 37.07 yard average, completed 34 of 69 passes attempted for a percentage of 478 and 507 yards gained; carried the ball 65 times for 232 net yards gained.

Dobbs was one of SIX Tulsa players named on the Missouri Valley all-conference team. The others: END ELSTON CAMPBELL, a senior from Tyler, Texas. Very speedy and aggressive. He's a 175-pounder, six feet tall. Received 12 passes during this season, scored two touchdowns.

TACKLE CHARLES GREENE, a senior from Shawnee, Oklahoma, playing his third season as a regular, and nominated all-conference player for the second straight year. Chosen to play the Sun Bowl game in the all-star game at Monticomm, but declined so as not to risk injury that would keep him out of the Sun Bowl game. A 195-pounder.

GUARD ROY STUART, senior from Shawnee, playing his third year on the varsity. A chatterbox of "watch-charm" proportions, he's the smallest regular lineman on the Hurricane team at 178 pounds. That "watch-charm" is quoted from Tulsa publicity — down here in Tulsa we call a 178-pounder a pretty fair-sized footballer.

CENTER DICK MORGAN, a senior from New Lima, Oklahoma. Played end in high school, has just won all-conference honors for the second straight year. At center in 1940, led the Tulsa in run-backs of intercepted passes with seven for 210 yards. Weighs 179 pounds.

BACK N. A. KEITHLEY, junior halfback from Miami, Okla., who was all-state quarterback in high school. Weighs only 157 pounds, but that's 157 pounds too much for the guys who try to stop him. Another one of those triple-threat guys, he's carried the ball for 297 yards, passed it for 274 more this season.

DOBBS was the other Hurricane to make all-conference this year. His record and ability have already been outlined.

In addition to those listed, FULLBACK L. D. MOORE won all-conference honors as a junior a year ago but didn't repeat, largely due to injuries. He's a line-cracking fullback.

Wichita-Temple Clash May Be "Battle Of Hills"

Wildcats' Star Will Be Test

Coyotes Also Have Good Ground Game

BY TOM W. MILLER
United Press Sports Writer

Texas schoolboy football's finalists face a mountainous task—leveling a couple of Hills.

So far it hasn't been done. Little Gene Hill of Wichita Falls, 144 pounds of passing perfection, and tall Wayland Hill of Temple, 174 pounds of all-around ability, are the two Hills in question.

Gene Hill also runs. Something will have to be done about them and it's more of a probability than a possibility that the team which does the best job of Hill-climbing will be the 1941 state champion.

Gene Hill's accurate right arm is the Coyotes' No. 1 offensive weapon. When he passes the ball to the receiver and his tosses — mostly to Back Robbie Dee Smith and End Troy Stewart — have comprised the heavy majority of the 1,727 yards Wichita Falls has gained through the air.

Hill is extremely hard to take care of, even when his passes are screened. Against Dallas Sunset, it looked like the Wichita Falls' march was stopped on four occasions because rushers — got through before Hill had a chance to get the ball away. And four times he tucked it under his arm, squeezed past the oncoming linemen and got away for substantial gains.

Temple's Hill is Spark. It's well known by now that actually Wichita Falls' ground game has gained 56 yards more than the passing attack. But no one—especially not Coach Ted Jeffries who saw his value and worked long and diligently to take advantage of his ability—can fail to see Gene Hill's worth to the Coyotes.

Temple will have to cut down that Hill.

For the Wildcats Wayland Hill is more than just a fine punter, a better than fair passer and a combination-line plunger-breakaway runner. He's not only a triple threat; he's a quadruple threat. That fourth threat is Hill's steady influence on the team. Temple centers around Hill and it is he who sparked those amazing upsurges that have permitted the Wildcats when outplayed to suddenly come to life, score quickly and win ball games.

He was never better than last week against Houston Lamar. He gained all but 50 yards of the National Semi-Pro Baseball league and contributed more to sandlot baseball than any other states.

President Ray Dumont said a review completed by the national organization showed that the leading sandlot teams of the nation came from these two states.

A club from Oklahoma has won the national championship for the past three years and a Texas entry has been runner-up during the same period, the records disclose. Duncan, Okla., won the title by annexing the national tournament at Wichita, Kansas, in 1939. Enid won the same crown the next two years. Mount Pleasant, Texas, was national runner-up in 1940, 1939 and 1940, and during the past season Waco, upheld the prestige of the Lone Star state.

was ill. Center F. G. Martin, hard luck boy of the team who has been either injured or ill most of the season, came out of the bruising game with Lamar of Houston last Saturday with another injury, but is expected to be ready Saturday.

Football Vying With Santa For Attention South Becomes Mecca For Grid Greats As Bowl Elevens Prep

(By The Associated Press)
NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 23—With the arrival of the Fordham squad at Bay St. Louis, Miss., today, the total of gridiron greats in training in this section will soar to more than a hundred, and the beefsteak supply is in for a big out during the next ten days.

Already on the gulf coast at Edgewater Park, Miss., are the Missouri Tigers who have a big jump on the Rams in practice sessions for the New Year's Day-Sugar Bowl clash here.

Arriving last week, Coach Don Fauror's boys have had a hard workout and several lighter drills, but Coach Jim Crowley has ordered an intensive training schedule for Fordham so that the Rams may catch up with their rivals.

Coach Crowley en route, said he was confident of his varsity's ability—but was a little concerned about the two-week layoff following the New York university game.

The western All-Stars who play Jan. 3 in the East-West charity game, transplanted here from California, found themselves in almost the same position as the Rams. They arrived in New Orleans yesterday and are several workouts behind their eastern opponents.

The west squad borrowed some Tulane university uniforms yesterday and went through a workout before going to Baton Rouge where they set up permanent training headquarters at Louisiana State university.

Coaches Orin (Babe) Hollingbery of Washington State, Bill Jones of Nebraska and Bernie Moore of L. S. U., ordered two drills daily for their charges beginning today.

Meanwhile, Coaches Bernie Bierman of Minnesota and Andy Kerr of Colgate have had the eastern gridders working hard at their Biloxi, Miss., training site.

Teams Observe Yule Holidays Both Elevens Are Pronounced Ready

The Christmas holidays began this morning for football teams representing the University of Tulsa and Texas Technological college.

The vacation ends for both Saturday, when they return to their respective practice fields for final drills before the New Year's Day Sun Bowl game at El Paso.

Plans Are Similar
Perhaps by accident, perhaps by design, the training and traveling schedules of the two teams coincide almost to the hour. Each was slated to work out this morning, and each was due to take a three-day holiday before reporting back Saturday.

Each team leaves its home base next Tuesday morning. The Raiders will arrive in El Paso Tuesday night, the Hurricanes Wednesday morning. Each will work out light on Kidd Field, scene of the game, Wednesday.

Tech To Be In Shape
The Red Raiders were originally scheduled to begin their holidays after Monday afternoon's drill—but in an intra-squad scrimmage, the two squads as divided by the coaches battled to a 13-13 tie.

Neither was satisfied to quit without a decision, so they were given another chance this morning.

All hands on both teams are now reported in top shape, with one or two minor exceptions. Robert Duncan sustained a severe mouth injury in Monday's scrimmage, but is expected to be able to play on New Year's.

Fine Game In Prospect
For Tulsa's only Joe Bob George, reserve lineman, will be missing. He lost an eye in a hunting accident recently and won't play. Quarterback Joe Gibson and Fullback L. D. Moore reported for practice late last week after missing several workouts due to illness.

Both squads are said to be in tip-top mental condition, indicating a battle between two fine teams at their very best. The Red Raiders are described officially as being "set about the game, but not tight."

Coach Henry Frnka declares his boys are "in the pink," both in physical condition and mental attitude.

Coyotes Back At Work For Game With 'Cats
WICHITA FALLS, Dec. 23 (AP)—The Wichita Falls' Coyotes scrimmaged Monday in preparation for their high school championship football game with Temple in Fort Worth Saturday.

No injuries were reported. Little Gene Hill, whose rifle-throwing arm has been largely instrumental in the Coyotes' drive to the finals, continued his phenomenal passing in workouts today.

More scrimmage was promised by Coach Ted Jeffries today.

It has been found that earthworms go as much as six feet below the surface of the ground.

Riddle Tops Major League Mound Aces

Cincinnati Star "Pitcher Of The Year;"
Dodgers' Staff Finest In National Loop

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 23—Elmer the great Riddle, still a comparative unknown to many fans despite his sensational hurling for the Cincinnati Reds last season, received today his accolade as the "pitcher of the year."

The National League released its official pitching records showing the stocky 24-year-old Georgia boy had surpassed all other twirlers in the major leagues in both earned-run average and winning percentage, bringing the pitching championship to Cincinnati for third straight year.

Best Era Since Hubbell
Riddle won 19 games and lost four while achieving the low earned-run average of 2.24 per nine-inning game for the best mark of effectiveness since Carl Hubbell set the league record for left-handed pitching at 1.66 in 1933.

The young righthander had to win 11 straight to pry the public's attention away from the Whitlow Wyatt and Bobby Fellers, and even then his real value scarcely was realized.

Elmer was even a riddle to his own manager till the teams were deep into the schedule. He rode around with the Reds for the entire 1940 season, but pitched only 34 innings. He hurled one complete game and appeared in a relief role in 14 contests, 12 of which he finished.

Had Amazing String
For that freshman year, largely a tour of observation, Riddle had the spectacular low earned-run average of 1.85. This intrigued manager Bill McKechnie, but not enough for him to give his quiet, almost bashful sophomore a starting chance this year until the Reds were hopelessly out of the race and the Boston Braves were in town on May 20.

Riddle won that game and 10 more before he was defeated by Brooklyn July 23. From the time Elmer started his string till the end of the season the Reds were the most consistent club in the

When 50,000 cabbage plants were unexpectedly received by a farmer near Whitshire, England, he appealed for help to the local Boy Scouts, who soon had the cabbages planted.

Wildcats Are At Full Strength For Coyotes
TEMPLE, Dec. 23 (AP)—At approximately full strength, the Temple Wildcats began hard work Monday for their state high school championship football game Saturday in Fort Worth with the Wichita Falls Coyotes.

G. W. Brock, a substitute tackle, from Springdale, Ark., weighed 194 pounds.

The idea we've been trying to put over, if we have to explain, is that the Red Raiders face a rough afternoon come New Year's Day. Of course, as Capt. Ty Babin might say, "Us guys know a little bit about this football business, too, you know."

When a couple of football teams like that get together, the sure winner is the fan who comes looking for a real gridiron contest—and keeps his money in his pocket.

Picard Wins Harlingen Play; Pros Turn Eyes Toward Beaumont And $5,000 Meet

(By The Associated Press)
HARLINGEN, Dec. 23—Gold-dom's nomads started the last lap of the 1941 trail of gold today after Henry Picard won the Rio Grande Valley Open in a stretch fight packed with drama.

Another $5,000 open starting at Beaumont Friday, closes out the year.

There's nothing left but cash to battle for. Wee Ben Hogan already has clinched the Vardon trophy and is the top money winner, with $17,708 by virtue of his fifth place in the Valley Open yesterday.

Champ Led All The Way
Picard led all the way in winning the 72-hole tournament with an 18-under-par 266 but he had to fight off the last finish of E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, the Little Rock pro who fired a bristling 132 on the final round.

In fact, with only seven holes to go, Harrison had drawn even with Picard.

Lebow Enters Golden Gloves
Who'll be next?
Curtis Lebow of Plainview, three times a district winner, was the first to toss his hat into the ring for the 1942 Golden Gloves campaign—and now the lists are open for other boxers, experienced or inexperienced, expert or amateur, big or little.

Lebow's entry was received by authorities Monday afternoon after entries were thrown open Sunday. It was the second straight year he had been the first to enter.

Lebow has grown some more, and this year will compete as a featherweight. Last year he won the bantamweight title, after winning the flyweight crown two seasons in a row.

Other entries are expected to come in shortly, though many of last year's fighters won't be back this season.

One certain to be missing is Jack Lovin, the Lubbock slugger who won the middleweight championship a year ago. Lovin has entered the army air corps as a flying cadet, and reported to Kelly Field in San Antonio last week.

Dates and site for the district tournament will probably be announced Sunday.

Bud Ward Enlisted
In Army Air Corps
SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 23 (AP)—National Amateur Golf Champion Marvin (Bud) Ward was inducted into the U. S. Army air corps today and assigned to Fort George, Wright, second air force headquarters, for his initial training.

Ward enlisted last week. His final physical report came through today.

Hongkong Is Making Deaf Stand

Allies Holding Off Invaders

(By The United Press)
 HONGKONG, Dec. 23.—(10:10 a. m.—8:10 p. m., Monday CST)—British empire troops, aided by civilians of the colonial civil service, still are fighting today in prepared positions and in isolated strong points, against the attacking Japanese.

Canadian, British and Indian of the garrison are defending the southern and southeastern parts of the island.

Aided By Civilians
 They are aided there and in isolated dense posts in other areas by civilians and the normally unarmcd, and completely untrained, administrative military personnel.

"Fighting continues along the lines held yesterday at the southeast corner of the island of Hongkong and there have been local successes for us in the south," this morning's communique said.

Showing Great Courage
 The communique, noting the participation in the last stand of administrative and military personnel, said that they were fighting in advance posts and showing great determination and courage.

"In many cases, it was noted, they are beating off enemy units which are attempting to overrun their positions."

"In other areas they are fighting to the last," it was added. "The value to operations as a whole of such fine resistance by isolated parties cannot be overestimated."

Major Battle Looms In Malayan Sector

(By The United Press)
 SINGAPORE, Dec. 23.—Dispatches from the front indicated today that the biggest battle of the Malaya campaign was imminent along the east-west British empire line, 300 miles north of Singapore.

Non-essential civilians were evacuating the vicinity of Ipoh in the western area for Kuala Lumpur, 100 miles to the south, though it was said there was no mass evacuation.

Japanese Planes Active
 A Malaya command communique reported the front generally quiet. It reported some fighting yesterday and said Japanese planes were active. Three Japanese planes were believed to have been shot down during the day and the loss of three British planes was admitted. Six Japanese planes were damaged severely in a British raid on a Japanese-held air port.

Singapore had its first air raid alert in a week during the night. Innumerable searchlights crisscrossed the sky, so star filled as to seem moonlit.

No Bombs Dropped
 Anti-aircraft guns were seen to be trained on one point but no enemy planes were seen and no bombs dropped. Many British fighter planes were in action.

Reports from the front said the Japanese were not bombing the Ipoh area to any extent, apparently hoping to capture it intact.

Services For Slaton Wreck Victim Held

Last rites for Frank Mercer Young, 25, resident of Slaton, route 1 who was killed in a non-collision car accident on Lubbock-Brownfield highway about 1:45 o'clock Monday morning, were conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon in Slaton First Baptist church.

Rev. W. F. Ferguson, pastor, officiated. Burial would be in Slaton cemetery.

Palbearers were Raymond Standefer, Bill Frank White, Howard White, Troy Milliken, A. R. Milliken and Ralph Milliken.

Haskell D. Cooper, 32, of Slaton remained in St. Mary's hospital this morning for treatment of minor injuries suffered in the accident. The car Young was driving overturned after Young jerked it back on the pavement after it went off the highway on the right side and struck loose gravel, highway patrol investigation indicated.

Longhorns To Enter Oklahoma City Meet

DALLAS, Dec. 23.—Five members instead of four from the Southwest conference will play in the Oklahoma City All-College invitation basketball tournament this week end.

The University of Texas is the latest added to the list. Arkansas, Southern Methodist, Texas Christian and Baylor had previous been reported as entries.

Shots Of Golf Balls Is Reported

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—New York had a shortage of good golf balls today after the city's largest sporting-goods stores experienced a buying spree of record proportions.

The rush for the golf balls began last Thursday when Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced a war ban on the production of non-essential rubber items.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Page and daughters, Frances and Beverly, are leaving today for San Antonio to spend Christmas with their son and brother, M. M. Page, Jr., who is stationed at Kelly field. They will return Sunday.

Thomas M. Prudeaux, a medical student at Tulane university, New Orleans, La., is spending the Christmas holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Prudeaux, 3123 Nineteenth street.

Officers Issue Warning After Airgun Shots Fired At House

Police and fire department reports this morning supplied the evidence that luck was with Lubbock Monday.

As a consequence, a woman visitor to the city was without injuries and Lubbock still has a baseball park.

The visitor is Mrs. A. A. Bearup of Roswell, N. M., the mother of Mrs. W. W. Brunson, 2403 Nineteenth street, whom she is visiting.

Mrs. Bearup was endangered, according to the report to police, when two volleys of shots from an airgun were fired, apparently deliberately, into windows of the Brunson home. One of the volleys broke the glass out of a window and one of the shots narrowly missed Mrs. Bearup, who was reading beneath a light. Mrs. Brunson related, the other series of shots, fired later, penetrated the screen of another window but failed to break the glass.

The incident drew a warning from police that those found shooting airguns in the city limits may expect their weapons to be confiscated.

The baseball park was endangered when brush blown high against the fence caught fire, according to the fire department report. The fence caught fire in two places, but was extinguished before damage was done. A few more minutes probably would have meant a serious fire, members of the department said.

Three other grass fire alarms were answered during the afternoon. They were in the 2400 block on Twenty-fourth street, the 1900 block on Ninth and at Twenty-eighth street and Avenue V.

British Block Enemy Retreat

(By The United Press)
 CAIRO, Dec. 23.—British mobile columns have reached the gulf of Sirte, south of Benghazi, cutting off the Axis retreat into Tripolitania, British general headquarters for the Middle East announced today.

In addition to cutting off retreating Germans and Italians, the British rushed reinforcements to positions covering Benghazi, capital of Cyrenaica, where pressure on the Axis forces is increasing, a communique said.

Many Are Captured
 "It now is reported that along the whole line of the enemy's retreat west of Mekeil the countryside is littered with abandoned material," headquarters said. Mekeil is a vital highway junction south of Derna.

Many Germans and Italians have been captured and details are not available because British troops are concentrating on pursuit and destruction of the enemy, the communique said.

Ground operations were aided by the Royal Air Force which, although hampered by bad weather, made successful attacks on transport.

Many enemy vehicles were destroyed and the RAF inflicted heavy casualties on the enemy.

The communique said British mobile columns operating south of Benghazi Sunday night raised an enemy airdrome at Jedabiyah, 100 miles south of Benghazi, destroying 37 grounded planes.

Fireworks Warning Offered By Police

Police warned this morning that they may have to deal sternly with those who persist in discharging fireworks within the city limits in violation of city ordinances.

More calls to police have been caused the past two or three days on account of fireworks than for any other reason, officers said.

One of the cases investigated Monday night was at a house which had been set afire by fireworks which exploded against the planking. Other complaints were from homes in which sick people were being disturbed by the noise.

 DALLAS, Dec. 23.—Organization of the Texas branch of the civil air patrol to coordinate civilian-aviation resources for national defense proceeded today under the direction of D. Harold Byrd, Texas wing commander.

Byrd yesterday announced the launching of the Texas branch of the national organization created by order of F. H. LaGuardia, director of the Office of Civilian Defense.

Applications for enlistment for both men and women are available at the organization's headquarters at the White Plaza hotel. Byrd said the program would begin as soon as applications have been checked and classified.

Three Persons Held For Clovis Officers

Two men and a woman, all described as residents of Lubbock, were held in the city jail today following their arrest by police Monday night at the request of Clovis, N. M., authorities.

Police intercepted and stopped their car, description of which had been furnished them by Clovis authorities on a side road branching from North College avenue, according to Bill Mabray, assistant chief here.

Also held in possession of police pending further consultation with Clovis authorities was a quantity of clothing and jewelry as having "value of probably a few dollars." Police said they expected that Clovis officers would be here during the day.

The Plainsman Says

That girl on Broadway says why is it that although a person has two eyes and only one tongue, he likes listening so much quicker than he does at talking?

In these days and times it is advisable to expect the worst, double it—and then prepare to stand the shock of something even worse!

NEWSPAPER people are being counseled on every hand to the effect that in times like these, the responsibility of the press is even greater than in a normal era.

That's true. There's no doubt about it. Furthermore, the newspaper people we know do not object to having others call their attention to their added responsibility in wartime.

Someone has said that "these are times which try men's souls, and they certainly are. And newspaper people—especially the editors who direct the presentation of news, and who express their personal views in editorial columns—are likely to undergo more soul-torturing throughout the war than anyone else, outside those in high places in the administration and in the rank and file of the armed forces."

However, as the responsibilities of newspaper people mount, so do the responsibilities of others—including radio broadcasters and those who direct their activities.

In some respects, broadcast-ers must be more careful than those who set down facts with ink on paper, because after a word is once spoken, it cannot be recalled.

The men who speak through microphones in this day and time must—for the nation's good—be careful what they say, AND also HOW they say it.

MOST of the better announcers are men trained in speech and inflection. An announcer of the ability of KFYO's Wes Youngblood, for instance, can read "Mary Had a Little Lamb" into a microphone in such a way that the usual listener may become considerably disturbed over it—and we're not wisecracking when we say that.

Especially in announcing news of an unpleasant nature—such as air raids, ship sinkings, great land or naval battles in which the advantage may seem to rest with the enemy—the young men of radio will do well to remember that they should contribute to the up-building of national morale, not to disturbing it, or tearing it down.

This is an era which needs no duplication of Orson Welles' assign-ment "Invasion by Mars" program. Instead, it is an era in which radio may best serve by being calm—and entirely factual.

Thirteen is an unlucky number for a lot of people—especially if it is made up of a judge and jury!

You can't blame the kids for wondering why they have to go to bed when they're not sleepy—and then have to get up when they are!

Each year for a good long time, The Plainsman on Christmas week has presented two old favorites for the edification of readers in general—and for mothers with young children, in particular.

From time to time we've wondered if perhaps people were getting tired of the old favorites, and have asked for expressions from readers on the subject. And every time we have been deluged with postcards and phone calls, urging us, "as usual," to present "Visit From St. Nicholas," (which most people recognize as "Twas the Night Before Christmas") and "Is There a Santa Claus?"

Folk just seem to like the old favorites of the Merry Yuletide and have a real urge to mull through them every year.

So this Christmas season we will again present both the famous holiday articles, although in a somewhat altered form.

We'll give you "Is There a Santa Claus?" here, and now, and "Visit From St. Nicholas" in The Journal of Christmas Eve and "The Avalanche of Christmas Mornings."

"Visit From St. Nicholas" will not appear in this column, but, instead, in the advertising columns, for its presentation this year has been purchased by a group of business firms, using two full pages for the purpose.

ALMOST as much a part of the Christmas season as the evergreen trees and the holly in the oft-reprinted "Is There a Santa Claus" letter which first appeared on September 21, 1897, in the

Lady By Request

By HELEN R. WOODWARD Copyright, 1941. NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: "I lost my inheritance of $2,000,000 if I do not marry by the time I am 35," says handsome Stephen Curt, famous writer and commentator, to Diana Tucker, whose beauty and impulsiveness, she told her employer Richard Thorpe to go to the devil, have captured his fancy. "Will you marry me for six months and $10,000?" he asks, going on to explain that the woman he loves is married to another man. Diana is amazed, finally considers his offer as a business proposition that will solve the problem of finding a job so that she will not have to return to her downstate farm home. Curt asks her to come with him to meet his stepmother, Ellen Curt, who must pass judgment on her.

A CHALLENGE TO ELLEN CHAPTER V When Stephen Curt ushered her into his stepmother's presence Diana thought, "This isn't real. It's a play. Old ladies like that are only on the screen. It's make-up that causes her to look like that!"

But when Ellen Curt spoke there was no mistaking her genuineness. "So, Stephen, you've come to your senses at last!"

Now 52 and a grandmother, Virginia O'Hanlon still lives in New York.

And in millions of minds still lives her simple, childish letter and Mr. Church's immortal answer.

We quote first, the letter: "Dear Editor: I am 8 years old. Sometime ago my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says 'if you see it in The Sun, it's so.' Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?"

"115 W. 9th Street, New York City."

CERTAINLY Francis Pharcellus Church had a happy thought when he gave serious attention to the letter of a little girl who turned to the Sun for an answer to what, to her, was a most important question.

Replied he, in the columns of the Sun: "Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds are Virginia—whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with God, as measured by the intelligence-capable of grasping the whole truth and knowledge."

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as surely as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its greatest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no child-ness, no romance, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We would have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished."

"Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. No body can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world. You say that baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men could ever lift, and who is to lift that veil for you? Only one thing is certain—the old woman said imperiously, 'Go on.'"

"Mr. Curt was in the office when I worked when I lost my job. I think he must have felt sorry for me. And so he explained the terms of his inheritance to me. He asked me to marry him. That's all. I see you're greatly surprised, but I don't see why you should be. After all, he's been forced into marriage that way. I think he's a very nice fellow."

Old Mrs. Curt gasped. Could the girl have suspected that it was she, herself, who had persuaded

HELP FINISH THE JOB! By far the happiest job of the Goodfellows each year is the distribution of packages to needy children of the city on Christmas morning.

It is a heart-warming job, but it is a big one. The Chief Goodfellow has issued his usual appeal for automobiles. Several hundred will be needed.

There never has been any difficulty in the past in obtaining enough cars. No difficulty is anticipated this year unless too many drivers fail to appear because of their belief that their help won't be needed.

So if you can assist in the distribution, be on hand before 7 o'clock Thursday morning at 1314 Texas avenue. Boy Scouts will be on hand to load packages into cars. Each package will be clearly addressed. The deliveries won't require long. And the probabilities are that each driver will find children waiting for the only gifts they are to receive for Christmas. Most of those who take part in these activities are going to finish their part of the job with a lump in their throat. It will be an experience to make them humble and thankful—one they never will forget.

Remember the place—1314 Texas avenue, and the time—by 7 o'clock Thursday morning. Your help will be needed and appreciated.

didn't think you'd let me get away from you. Sit down, both of you, and tell me where you found this girl."

Diana sank into a small, arm, overstuffed chair, but Stephen strode restlessly about. Mrs. Curt sat on a straight-backed sofa as if she scorned anything soft and yielding.

She was small and fat, but there was an alertness about her that centered in her little twinkling black eyes. They seemed to see to the very core of your being. Looking at her you were sure she knew a great deal more than she ever let on. You knew it would be useless to try to fool her. Her hair was gray and curled neatly. Her gown was gray, too, of a stiff, rustling material, and on her tiny feet were pearl gray satin slippers. She thrust her feet out in front of her and surveyed them, from time to time and Diana believed that she must be very proud of her small daintiness.

"Well, begin, Stephen! Tucker, you say the girl's name is—what is she and where did she come from?"

Concealing, being discussed as if you weren't present. Diana didn't like that. She sat forward on her chair. "You'll let me tell you, won't you?"

Diana glanced at Stephen, saw him stop his pacing to watch her face. She hoped she wouldn't say too much, but she couldn't lie to this clear-eyed old woman.

"I've followed your stepson's work for a long time," she said slowly. "Both I and the members of my family have admired him greatly. We think he's a very great man."

"Of course he's a great man," Ellen Curt repeated, tapping her little gray slipper.

"Today I met him for the first time," she thought the black eyes opened wider, and for a moment she expected an outburst of indignation, but after a short pause the old woman said imperiously, "Go on."

"Mr. Curt was in the office when I worked when I lost my job. I think he must have felt sorry for me. And so he explained the terms of his inheritance to me. He asked me to marry him. That's all. I see you're greatly surprised, but I don't see why you should be. After all, he's been forced into marriage that way. I think he's a very nice fellow."

Old Mrs. Curt gasped. Could the girl have suspected that it was she, herself, who had persuaded her late husband to insert that clause in the will? At any rate she was not at all accustomed to having strange people ask if she was being fair. She really didn't see where fairness came into it if she was getting her own way. And this time she knew he was doing what was best for Stephen. She knew very well where his heart lay, and could see him in her mind's eye growing into a crabbed, lonely old man. Anything, she thought, was better than that. Anything was better, too, than having him fall prey to some adventures. Many brilliant men did, especially when the woman they loved had married someone else, and had their careers ruined thereby. Stephen would be saved that. She meant to choose his wife herself. But this girl whom he had brought for approval was something quite outside of her experience.

"It's nothing to you, young lady, whether what I do is fair or not. It may not have occurred to you that I have a very good reason in wanting to secure Stephen's happiness. His father was concerned only with his welfare."

"But didn't think enough of his judgment to allow him to choose a wife for himself?"

"That's enough. Evidently you've agreed to the proposition, or you wouldn't have come here. 'Not if I can't get it all,' Diana answered coolly. 'And you wanted to look me over, and I certainly claim the same privilege. I have not made a decision one way or the other.'"

Stephen's eyes were dancing delightedly. Not in years, he knew, had anyone spoken so freely to him. He had suspected that old Ellen was enjoying the tilt, too. From the way her eyes snapped, from the way the little gray satin slipper tapped the floor.

"Oh, I suppose then you'd have approved of me?"

"Certainly. You wouldn't want someone in the family who wouldn't like you, would you?"

"Humph! Well, then—what do you think of me?"

Suddenly Diana smiled. She had seen beyond the forbidding exterior. "I think," she said, "you could be rather a darling if you'd let yourself."

Old Ellen Curt actually looked embarrassed. It had been so very many years since anyone had called her a darling. She had lived since her husband's death in this comfortable, stuffy apartment with only one maid, Dabney Brown, who "did" for her and acted as her companion as well. She did not see a great many young people and Diana Tucker was like a breath of springtime. Pretty, the old woman thought, and like Stephen she recognized the strength of character in the girl's face. Stephen had been a fool for picking a girl at random like this—but surprisingly, it was

WHEN the Pacific Fleet was surprised in Pearl Harbor a yell went up right away for an inquiry—how come and how come? Some Congressmen screamed. "How very tick-tick-tick pass the scalps." But nobody mentioned one possible reason why the Navy had its guard down, to wit—Congress itself. Both houses played copper on the ships right up to war time. Any effort to strengthen the fleet started the fault-finders accusing the Navy of trying to pick a war. Anyway, the inquiry is still to come. Maybe a lot of men, etc. etc. only to look at the next deck to find out what they were asking.

The United Press claims the first victory over the Japanese in New York City. The office of Osaka Mainichi and Tokyo Nichinichi are "morgue."

It might be news to a certain mob of Senators that among the "morgue" are the flippers to feel the war slump were the Axis stories. The ones these senators found to hand on the poor abused Axis are being rejected by the cash customers as too nabby-pamby . . . In the theatre, also, serious plays about the Nazi and Fascist evils have been squelched at the box office. The drama can't compete with a declaration of war. The plays show you how the Axis works. The gov't wants to show you how it won't.

At Forest Hills, the other day, a mild-mannered gent with a pinenez, rubber, umbrella, etc. walked into the police station and signed up for duty as an air raid warden.

When he was finished with the fingerprinting, case history and such, he asked for a gun. "A gun?" echoed the sergeant. "What's an air raid warden need a gun for?"

"Oh, dear," he complained. "You mean we don't get to sit on the roof and shoot at those deleted by the Editor?"

When Rome summoned the citizens to the radio to listen to Hitler's address to the Reichstag, the Fascist announcer should have announced: "Immediately fall in from our sponsor."

THIS is supposed to have happened at a literary tea, according to Nat Karson, given on the occasion of publishing a book, now a best-seller. The writer's wife, buttonholed the publisher and asked him, "Where's that pretty maid who was passing out cocktails?"

"Oh, I'll get you one," said the publisher politely. "If you're looking for a girl, I'll get you one." "Don't bother," replied the wife. "I'm looking for my husband."

Tokio broadcasters told their hoodwinked listeners not to be too surprised if even New York fell. . . . The city obliged the boys by immediately falling—all over the local Japs.

NEW York, like the rest of our towns, is trying to figure out a way to warn the people when the bombers come. Those who've met the bombers say very little warning is needed—that the people catch on. They tell of Lacy, the Stalling's telegraphed warning to his colleagues in Ethiopia—which they savvied quick. "Confetti coming." Stallings wired, "duck it!"

Fourteen spies working for the Nazis were convicted in Brooklyn, on trial since Sept. 8. It's supposed to be good tactics for lawyers to stretch out the trial, bettering the rap. In this case "the news" carried the cases from penitentiary to wartime. The verdict probably wouldn't have been different, but you'll never get the convicted 14-16 believe it.

FROM "Trial by Fury." Craig Rice's movie novel: "Her voice didn't have a lip but her wide eyes did." . . . You know, flashing eyes!

The State Supreme court ruled against a legit-theatre hiring-a-critic. The opinion was that anybody holding a ticket has a right to go in and see the show. . . . We've always argued it wasn't the show's business to keep critics out—but to keep them in. The show's business is to keep more shows than the lockout has helped.

CLYDE Hager relays the one about the little English boy, here with kin for "the duration," who liked to play without his coat of hat—in the rain. "You mustn't do that," scolded his American aunt. "I had a brother seven years old, who one day took his scooter out in the rain. He caught pneumonia and died three days later. You see?"

"Rightly," exclaimed the kid, "where's his scooter?"

Brief Patriotic Speech

This Sounds Like Something Ripley Could Use, But: U. S. War Communiques To Be "Straight Stuff"

BY PETER EDSON Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23—The process behind the writing of official U. S. war communiques is fairly simple. Daily code reports come into Washington Army and Navy headquarters from commanders in the Philippines, Hawaii, and so on. Sometimes two or three reports may be received during any given 24 hours. Whenever they think they have something important to tell, these official reports are boiled down to a few lines by the public relations departments of the services, checked with the intelligence sections of the general staff to make certain no military secrets are given away, and then put into the form of the terse bulletins given to the press.

President Roosevelt called the signals on the nature of these communiques in announcing the general policy of giving everything to the public, providing the "everything" conformed with two conditions—the news must be accurate and it must not give aid and comfort to the enemy. Naturally, a whole lot can be left unsaid under that latter condition, and under the first restriction, writers of the communiques are reluctant to put out anything they might have to take back later.

The actual writers of the communiques say they are working unofficially under one of these presidential passions for anonymity, but Gen. Alexander D. Sures for the Army and Rear Adm. Arthur J. Heburn for the Navy put the final okay on their respective communiques before they're released. Sometimes, where a communique involves information relating to both services, they get together.

In general, this policy seems to indicate that our communiques will be straight-stuff. They may not tell all there is to tell, but what they do tell won't be baloney mustard with hoey.

FIRST WAR DECLARATIONS DECLARATIONS of war on the United States by Japan, Germany and Italy mark the first time major powers have taken this action, although the United States has been in eight wars—nine if you count the Revolution, and if you count the War Between the States. Only previous formal declaration of war against the United States was made by Tripoli in 1800. The catch on that statement is other nations with which the United States has fought either did not take formal action in declaring war, or were content to declare that "a state of war existed," or some such "diplomatic that wealth."

"Because," Rose answered, "you can't get applause from all wells!"

More Strikes? SHIFT in the character of labor disputes is becoming apparent to federal labor conciliators. Since the Wagner act was passed, most of the arguments have been organizational wrangles over recognition of unions and such issues. Before that time wage disputes were most common. Now wage disputes are becoming more frequent, and while the declaration of war by Japan had an immediate effect on stabilizing the labor situation, a resurgence of change issue strikes is expected, particularly if the cost of living is not pegged by price control.

Another development labor administrators fear and are trying to check is a return of the plying of employees from one employer to another. There was a lot of this competitive bidding for skilled laborers at the beginning of the defense effort. Aircraft plants in particular were accused of raiding older establishments for highly skilled machinists. Recently, this condition has been quieter, but now, with all the impetus to three-shift operation of war industries, the demand for skilled workers will increase and the old labor scouting expeditions may break out again.

THE President's decision to withhold from the public the full casualty lists and merely to inform the next of kin in each case is slightly different from the practice of the last war, though it is common practice in all countries engaged in the present conflict.

In the last war, there was a publication known as "The Official Bulletin," which carried lists in full, and this publication was distributed to newspapers and officials of the government, and was posted in all post offices. A little larger than business letter paper size, the Bulletin was published by the Committee of Public Information, of which George Creel was civilian chairman. It varied in number of pages from day to day, contained all official orders on the war, all communiques, and in its first issue of May 10, 1917, the Bulletin stated its purpose was to inform the public as fully as military exigencies will permit, on all subjects relating to the war.

Some days there were no casualty lists, on others there were pages and pages of names, including epidemic. By mutual understanding, newspapers agreed not to carry the casualty lists, but they were open to the public through the Bulletin.

going to be all right. The girl admitted that she admired him and if Stephen had any flesh and blood emotion at all, he'd soon succumb to her charm. Right there in her own mind old Ellen Curt figured it all out—saw them and their children living a happy life to the end of their days. If she had even suspected the fact that a divorce would be arranged in six months, she would have been purple with rage.

They talked together for a long time — Diana told about her people and the farm and old Ellen nodded wisely. "Good, plain stock," she muttered, and at last she said, "You'll do. You must marry Stephen at once!"

But Diana answered quickly. "I'm sorry, but I'll have to talk to my father about it first."

"Very well," Stephen said. "When can you leave for home?"

"Tomorrow."

"That's Sunday. How long would you want to stay?"

"Until about Wednesday, I think."

"All right. Give me instructions as to how to get to the farm. I'll drive down for you on Wednesday. I can get back for my broadcast Wednesday night."

"Yes, I'd like that. We could talk to my father together."

And so it was arranged and old Ellen Curt sat on her straight sofa and watched them go. Her little black eyes were alight with interest. Nobody's fool, that girl. No cringing before her, either, suing for favor. Straightforward, honest. Already Stephen was attracted to her—going down for her on Wednesday. Old Ellen was smiling as she went to her room for the night.

Stephen drove Diana back to the rooming house and it had never looked so shabby before. He held her hand warmly at the door. "You're a good sport, Diana Tucker, for even considering it," he said gravely. "I shall see to it that you're not sorry. Thank you—and goodby until Wednesday."

When he had gone she went slowly up to her little room and began to put some of her things into a suitcase. Then she called her landlady.

"I'm leaving tomorrow," she said. "I don't think I'll be back. But will you keep my trunk until I call for it?"

Why had she said that? she wondered. Had she already made up her mind?
