Sesquicentennial Ceremonies Slated Next Wednesday

Wednesday will be a 'red-letter' day for Muleshoe, when Lee Storey Program Officer for the Texas 1986 Sesquicentennial Commission from Austin arrives in Muleshoe.

A special assembly is planned at Muleshoe High School in the auditorium when the Muleshoe/Bailey County Texas 1986 Sesquicentennial Commission sanction ceremony will be conducted.

The Muleshoe High School Mighty 'M' Band will perform for approximately 15 minutes, beginning at 2:15 p.m., followed by brief remarks by Muleshoe Mayor Charles Bratcher and Bailey County Judge Gordon H. Green.

This will be followed by Toni Eagle, chairman of the Muleshoe/Bailey County Sesquicentennial Commission who will introduce local members. The local members include Jeff Smith, Gerald Reid, Tom Watson, Vivian White, Billie Downing, Lonnie Adrian, Jackie Johnson, Nelda Merriott, R.T. 'Bob' Newton, Billy Balderas, Doran Reynolds, Jim Ella Clemmons, and Dudley, an SCAC Representative and Clea Williams.

Mrs. Eagle will introduce Lee Storey who will outline the history and goals of the Sesquicentennial Commission and perform the sanction ceremony. The program will last for approximately 45 minutes, and any interested person is invited to attend.

Richland Hills Baptist Church Hosts Meeting

Richland Hills Baptist Church will begin a series of revival services beginning at 11 a.m. today, Sunday, March 10, at the church located at 17th and West Avenue D. Sunday evening services will begin at 6:30 p.m. and the service time for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday is 7:30 p.m.

W.L. West, pastor of First Missionary Baptist Church in Morton, will be preaching at each service. Special music for each service will be supplied by different groups, according to the local minister, Brock Sanders.

Sunday morning specials will be by Peggy Sanders and the Children's Primary ensemble. Sunday evening will feature Billy and Terree Donaldson and the Sunbeam chorale. Monday night, Coach Scott Murray and his wife, Gwyn, will be the featured duo. Also, Julie Sanders will be performing, followed by a youth skit by the RHBC Players. Tuesday evening, Pastor Steve Davis of the First Assembly of God, will be the guest soloist with a piano concerto.

The Men's Quartet of RHBC will also perform. Wednesday evening, Louvena Garlington and Cindy Brown will be the spotlight artists, followed by the debut of pastors, W.L. West and Brock Sanders.

"This promises to be one of the great weeks of preaching and singing in the history of Richland Hills Baptist Church," said the RHBC minister, Sanders. "Brother West has pastored many of the great churches in the State of Texas. He has a varied and colorful history.

"He refers to the time when he pastored a church with the 'best music man in the country, his father, Bro. West spent nine years serving with

If you missed the annual Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture banquet Thursday night, you perhaps missed the best speaker to be in this area for years. If you were one of the 320 plus persons at the Muleshoe High School cafeteria, you enjoyed quite a treat.

Michael Broome, with a fast-paced talk, kept the audience both captivated and rolling with laughter.

Chuck Smith presented the Man of the Year Award. He told of the background of the recipient, and outlined his many accomplishments since moving to Muleshoe in 1971 as cashier of the Muleshoe State Bank. Bob Finney was named 'Man of the Year' by the Muleshoe CofC.

Recipient of the 'Woman of the Year' award had spent most of her life in Bailey County, and is well known as a person who is among the first to offer to help with any project. Vivian White presented the award to Janie Moraw of Needmore.

A special plaque was presented by Lonnie Adrian, immediate past president of the CofC. An award which is not normally given, or at least, not on a yearly basis, was presented to Wayne and Joyce Holmes as 'Couple of the Year' for their work with young people and the Mule Putt Maniature Golf Course.

Recipients of the 'Farm Family of the Year' were not at the banquet to receive the award for that honor. Tub Angeley gave background of the recipients, and reported that the Harrol Redwines of Lazbuddie were off at a stock show and not available to receive their award.

Larry Clawson of the Bula community was presented the 'Conservation Farmer of the Year' award by Lewis Wayne Shafer of the Blackwater Vally Soil and Water Conservation District.

Retiring officers and directors were presented plaques for their service with the Chamber of Commerce. They included Jim Lutz, Mike Perez, Leon 'Tuffy' Dent, Bill Liles, Robert Montgomery, Kathryn Taylor and Dianne Nieman.

Also receiving plaques were

Lonnie Adrian, Hubert Kidd, Charles Moraw, and Eddie Morris.

Nelda Merriott of the Jennyslippers outlined an impressive list of credentials and accomplishments for the recipient of the annual scholarship presented by the Jennyslippers to a MHS senior.

Appraisal Officer Resigned

Dale Jones, chief appraisal officer, Bailey County Tax Appraisal District, has submitted his resignation as the head of the local taxing office, effective May 17.

He became the chief appraisal officer in September, 1980, and since that time has seen a lot of changes in tax laws.

"Every tax law has changed since I have been here," he said Friday afternoon. "And, every change has been implemented in this county."

"There has been so much cooperation from individual taxpayers, businesses and government entities on the Appraisal Review Board, I just wish I could repay everyone for the courtesy and cooperation shown."

"There's nothing I can ever do to show everyone how much I appreciate them here."

When he came to Muleshoe, Jones, who had formerly lived here during his junior high and high school years, personally walked every street in town and drove every road in the county familiarizing himself with all the property in the county.

He said of the tax office, "It's working, and working well, and the people get a lot of credit for making it easier with all the state-mandated changes."

At this time, Jones has no plans for the future. He does not have another position at this time, and has currently sought no other job. "My wife and I may just get in the car and travel for awhile," he said.

Bruns Regains Horses; Says He May File Suit

Tuesday, L.F. 'Les' Bruns came by The Journal to bring a copy of the Sunday edition of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal in for re-production. The story contains the latest information available on the charges filed against Bruns for alleged "Cruelty To Animals," filed last fall.

Bruns confirmed to The Journal that most of the information contained in the story is accurate, and reiterated his plans to file a law suit.

The story from the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal states:

By Phillip Hamilton
Avalanche-Journal Staff
"Although the Lubbock Humane Society has been able to secure funds to continue operating at least through March, the organization's financial problems continue to grow."

"Much of the organization's financial problems have been attributed to a cruelty to animals suit brought last year against L.F. 'Les' Bruns of Muleshoe."

"But now, Bruns is threatening to return the favor and sue the Humane Society. He alleges that the society failed to properly feed and care for 28 of his horses and caused the death of another horse while the animals were impounded."

"Bruns was arrested July 27, 1984, after Humane Society employee Gail Gallagher signed a criminal complaint. An investigation had revealed two dead horses found near the pen where Bruns kept the horses.

"A civil complaint accusing Bruns of being an unfit owner and requesting that the horse be sold was signed by a Bailey County Sheriff's deputy. Both cases were filed by Bailey County Attorney Linda Elder."

"Justice of the Peace Jack Bates ordered the horses impounded and placed in the custody of Bailey County. The county requested that the Lubbock Humane Society care for the horses."

"Bates found Bruns guilty of the criminal charge, but the case was appealed to County Court. Following a change of venue, Bruns was found guilty by the Randall County Court and ordered to pay a $300 fine. That case is still on appeal."

"Bruns also lost the civil suit and appealed to County Court. The case was moved to Ector County on a change of venue. The court dismissed the charge against Bruns. Bailey County appealed the dismissal to the Court of Appeals for the 11th Supreme Judicial District in Eastland."

"The appeals court dismissed the case Feb. 14 after Mrs.

Annual Dinner Theater To Feature 'King Lear' And Local Models

Muleshoe Fine Arts Boosters will be giving local citizens an opportunity to see the talent and enthusiasm of Muleshoe High School youth. Their annual Dinner Theater will be held on Tuesday, March 19 at the Muleshoe High School cafeteria. Dinner will be served from 6:30 - 8 p.m. and will feature ham and all the trimmings. Musical entertainment during the meal will be provided by the high school jazz band which recently received a "superior" rating in competition.

Local models will be walking among the guests to show the latest in current fashion trends. And, in order to allow the models to move freely, the tables will be placed individually, and covered with pastel cloths.

At 8:15 p.m., the speech department will be performing the one act play entitled "King Lear." Also, art students will have various art works on display for guests to view and enjoy.

"The boosters are working hard to make this a memorable evening with the finest in entertainment available-- OUR OWN YOUTH -- so please come out and enjoy the evening," said a spokeswoman for the group.

Cost for the entire evening is $3.50 for students and $4.50 for adults. Tickets are expected to go on sale tomorrow, Monday, and may be obtained from any fine arts student or booster club member, or may be purchased at the door.

Proceeds from this annual Dinner Theater will be used to assist the speech, band, and art departments with their yearly

Around Muleshoe

City Manager Dave Marr said renovation of the railroad crossings in Muleshoe has started.

The first crossing with work being done is the crossing just north of Wiedebush on the west side of Muleshoe.

Marr said the workmen would work the crossings from west to east until all city crossings have been redone. The only crossing not scheduled to be redone is the main crossing at Highways 84 and 70.

All officers and interested parents are asked to attend a joint meeting of the Muleshoe Youth Baseball, Inc. and the Muleshoe Junior Babe Ruth League.

Jerry Redwine said this organizational meeting will be Thursday, March 14, at 8 p.m. at the Richland Hills Baptist Church.

A Muleshoe Youth Center Dance is scheduled for Saturday, March 16, 8 p.m.-midnight at the American Legion Hall, 15th and Avenue B.

Teenagers 13-19 are encouraged to attend the dance with the music by KZOO of Clovis, N.M.

Muleshoe Athletic Boosters will meet Tuesday, March 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Muleshoe High School cafeteria, according to Dr. Jerry Gleason.

This will be a very important meeting, said Dr. Gleason, as the athletic banquet and the MHS track are both on the agenda for discussion.

South Plains Community Action Agency, formerly located at 222 West Second Street, has moved to the Tradewinds Plaza building at 800 West American Blvd.

Jamie Newton, the Tahoka youngster who needed a liver transplant, has now had his transplant and has come through 'in flying colors.'

Although he is doing well, he is expected to be hospitalized for some two months.

A local benefit was held for the youngster, who needed the transplant in order to live and donations are still being accepted.

Healthful Hints From Your Ambulance Service

Summer is coming fast, and with the warm summer days comes the urge to get active. But as mother nature knows slow is the best way to bring change. So, when you get the summer itch to start jogging start slow. Warm up by doing a few leg stretches, bending down and touching your toes before you jog.

Jog 1/4 to 1/2 a mile the first week and gradually increase each week. By starting slow you help to prevent tearing and sudden pulling of tendons and ligaments.

The best way to have a happy, fun, and active summer is to stay healthy. Start now to get in shape so you will be ready for the summer activities. But, remember, whatever you do, "moderation" is a good preventive medication. "Have a Great Summer" Misti Prater EMT-P.I.

Fuller A AUW Speaker

The Muleshoe Branch of the American Association of University Women met Monday, March 4 at 7:00 pm in the home of Mrs. J.D. Cage. Co-hostesses were Dorann Jones and Elizabeth Watson.

Dorann Jones, president, announced that the week of March 4-9 was a very historic period. Texas Independence Day, Public School Week, AAUW Week, and Women's History Week were spotlighted on these special days.

Virginia Bowers, program development chairman, introduced H. John Fuller, Muleshoe I.S.D. Superintendent, who spoke on "Public Support for Public Education." He stressed three points that can be utilized to gain community support for public education. The mission or goal of the schools must be translated to the public; there must be collaboration or exchange of information between the school and the community; research shows that one of the characteristics of effective schools is that the lines of communication are open between the public and the school.

"While the two cases were going through the lengthy appeals process, the Lubbock Humane Society provided feed and veterinary care for the horses. The society has not paid any legal fees for the two cases but has spent almost $6,000 for veterinary care.

"The society still must pay the feed bill and the rent for the pastures where the horses have been kept.

"Now Bruns wants some compensation. He claimed his horses were not properly fed and that proper veterinary care was not administered. He says the result of the neglect is that the value of each horse has dropped from about $2,500 when impounded to $500. Bruns said it will take about two years to bring the horses back to good health and that the animals will never regain their full value.

"The rancher also wants to be compensated for the value of a horse which died a few days after the animals were impounded. Bruns claimed he lost money because of the loss of crop of foals while the horses were impounded.

"Gary Ward, Bruns' attorney, said the horses should have been given supplements and treated for worms. He claimed the animals were put out to

H & R BLOCK GIVES COMPETENT SERVICES

Nearly nine million Americans continued to place their trust in H & R Block at tax time last year.

Why do millions of people keep coming back to H & R Block? Because they like many things about the service, including the care and accuracy of the work; the competency of the tax preparers and their thorough knowledge of all the new tax laws; and, especially, the tax dollars many have saved.

But that's not all. Block's pasture and neglected.

"Les had to go out there and break the ice out of their troughs so they could get water this winter," Ward said. He added that after the growth in the pasture was eaten his client had to put hay along the fence around the pasture so the horse wouldn't starve.

"Bruns said that he will try to settle out of court, but warned, "If I don't get compensation, I'll sue them."

"Officials for the Lubbock Humane Society refused to comment on what effect a suit might have on the organization. Miss Gallagher, an employee of the Lubbock Humane Society, said the society needs to get more information before commenting.

"There are no grounds for a lawsuit. That's all I can tell you right now," she said. "I can't make a comment until we know more about it."

"The potential lawsuit also could affect the future plans of the society. People for Animal Welfare (PAWs), another animal protection group operating in Lubbock, has offered to allow the Lubbock Humane Society's membership to join their organization.

"The humane society has indicated that they plan to maintain their charter even if some services have to be cut. But, if at a later date the society decides to accept PAWs' offer, the lawsuit could bankrupt both organizations.

"Ward said PAWs would become liable for the treatment of the animals if the two groups merge.

"It would be just like two corporations merging," he said. "The successor would assume the liability."

"Gail Findley of PAWs said her organization would allow Lubbock Humane Society members to join PAWs but would not assume the liability of the society. She noted that some of the board of directors of the society probably would have to be placed on the board of directors of PAWs.

"It wouldn't be like a corporate merger," said Mrs. Findley. "They would just join us."

"However, Ward said that the joining of memberships and boards would constitute a merger and make PAWs liable in the event Bruns should win damages against the Humane Society."

NO. 1 KILLER

DALLAS -- Cardiovascular disease is still by far the most common cause of death in the United States, killing almost 1 million annually in spite of advances in research and treatment in a report by the American Heart Association.

New Feline Vaccine

Is Available Here

"Thanks to an innovative new vaccine, cat owners can now protect their pets from feline leukemia, one of the deadliest diseases affecting cats," says Dr. Barry Cowart of the Muleshoe Animal Clinic. "The world's first commercial feline leukemia virus vaccine has been introduced to veterinarians in the United States and Canada by Norden Laboratories, and it is presently available in Muleshoe at the Animal Clinic."

Feline leukemia is generally considered to be the most significant life-threatening infectious disease of cats. This is because feline leukemia virus suppresses the immune system of infected cats. These cats have limited ability to resist other infections, and as a result they are susceptible to a wide variety of diseases. Cats that survive these associated disease often go on to develop malignancies, or tumors. In either case, death is often the end result. Until now, there has been no means to control feline leukemia infection, said Dr. Cowart.

Of 50 million cats in the United States, an estimated 1.5 million cats (three percent) are thought to be permanently infected with feline leukemia virus. Incidence of permanent infection is highest in households with more than one cat. This fact is significant because an estimated 70 percent of cats in the United States live in multi-cat households.

The new feline leukemia vaccine, tradenamed 'Leukocell', demonstrated its ability to protect cats in extensive tests prior to government licensing. 'Leukocell' reliably protected cats from feline leukemia virus infection, added the local veterinarian. It also protected them from feline leukemia-associated diseases and lymphoid tumor development. Test cats were observed for more than two years to determine long-term effectiveness of the vaccine, and immunity was maintained during that period.

'Leukocell' was developed from a prototype vaccine created by Dr. Richard Olsen at Ohio State University, and is the culmination of a 10-year research effort at OSU and Norden. The major obstacle was suppression of the immune system caused by the feline leukemia virus. However, because of a unique, patented production process, 'Leukocell' offers protection without immunosuppression.

This safety feature was demonstrated in tests conducted at Norden. Vaccination with 'Leukocell' did not cause disease in uninfected cats, nor did it change the course of disease in cats already infected with feline leukemia virus.

Safety of 'Leukocell' was confirmed in extensive field tests of the vaccine by veterinarians. Occasional post-vaccination reactions, ranging from stinging on injection to hypersensitivity, were reported by some veterinarians.

Dr. Cowart said initial vaccination with 'Leukocell' consists of two doses given two to three weeks apart, beginning as early as nine weeks of age. A third, booster dose, is given two to four months later. Annual revaccination is required to sustain immunity.

In accordance with Norden's long-standing policy, 'Leukocell' will be sold exclusively to veterinarians. The vaccine is being distributed now to veterinarians in the United States and Canada.
