American State Bank set to merge

By Homer Marquez

Later this year, American State Bank will be going by a different name as the bank puts the final touches on a merger with the Texas based Prosperity Bank.

"If we were going to merge with a bank this is an extremely good bank to merge with, one of the strongest banks in the nation," commented Floydada ABS branch president Zach Cummings.

The merger, which has been approved by both bank boards, will take place around September.

"All the local branch personnel will still be in place and we'll all be here to serve them as we always have been," explained Plainview ASB's branch president Danny Glenn as he spoke with the Plainview Herald, "the biggest thing that they'll see is a change in the name of course, to Prosperity Bank and maybe some small changes in some of the products. Everything in place will still be the

One of the biggest advantages that customers will see from the Prosperity Bank merger will be the customer's access to 215 bank locations across central and east Texas, including locations in Dallas/Ft.Worth, Austin, Houston, San Antonio and Corpus Christi. This will be a vast increase compared to the 37 locations currently under ASB.

"That's going to be a huge change for our customers; that they will be able to do business. If they leave here, they can stop at a branch down in those areas and do business as well," added Cummings.

The merger of the two banks will create the second

Gilroy inducted into Hall of Fame

By Doug McDonough Herald Managing Editor

CANYON — Two women who spent decades working in the newspaper industry within the region were inducted Friday into the Panhandle Press Association Hall of Fame.

The induction ceremony was a highlight of the group's 102nd annual convention, held on the campus of West Texas A&M University in Canyon.

Honored this year by their peers were Alice Gilroy, who spent 23 years editing and publishing the Floyd County Hesperian-Beacon, and Debbie Aylesworth, who was associated with the Canyon News for 12 years.

After eight years in law enforcement in Houston Gilroy moved to Floydada in 1985 to take over operation of the newspaper, which was owned by her father, Pulitzer Prize-winning publisher Ken Towery. She left the paper in 2008 to move to Austin to be closer to her parents, who has since re-entered the law enforcement profession.

SUBMIT AN APPLICATION FOR AN UNDERTOLD MARKER

AUSTIN, Texas-Beginning May 1, the Texas Historical Commission (THC) will accept applications for undertold Texas historical markers. In an effort to address historical gaps and promote diversity of topics, the THC utilizes general marker application funds to sponsor these markers that represent an untold or under told aspect of Texas history. Through this program, the THC can assist local sponsors and county historical commissions with selected topics, by paying for the foundry cost of a historical marker, or assisting with the research necessary to submit and complete a qualified application. The deadline for submission is June 15. Previous under told markers honor real places and significant individuals like the Pleasant Hill Rosenwald School near Linden,a historic schoolhouse for African American students, or Emma Tenayuca of San Antonio, who fought for Mexican-American workers' rights.

One of the most visible programs of the THC, historical markers commemorate diverse topics from the history and architecture of houses, commercial and public buildings, religious congregations, and events that changed the course of local and state history, to individuals who have made lasting contributions to Texas. This year is the 50th anniversary of the popular program that has placed more than 15,000 markers throughout the state.

The helicopter flew in low over the hotel and dropped a teenage girl and an elderly Hispanic woman onto the roof. Then it flew off. The helicopter was on fire, but the flames were confined to a small rear area. My sense of the situation was that the pilot would be able to land the craft safely and survive. Neither of the passengers was injured in the drop-off.

The older woman said something to me. She spoke English with a heavy accent. She seemed nice.

Then somehow I ended up with the teenager, a disgruntled child of wealthy parents. She'd been hobnobbing with one of our ex-presidents and his wife. She disparaged both, the former first lady in particular.

Once in the lobby of the old hotel, amid dark Craftsman-style woodwork and white curtains, a plan took shape. I, the reporter, would whisk the troubled teen away on a cross-country motor trip. I visualized the route. She promised me exclusive rights to her story.

I soon found myself worrying about two things: the price of gasoline and the validity of her comments. She was critical of the former first lady for talking about overcoming a serious illness. Strange.

Then I woke

Once I shook myself free of the dream, my first feeling was relief that I'd not be driving from New York to Los Angeles with a spoiled teenager.

Next I congratulated myself for my skepticism. As the dream ended, I'm sure I was about to tell the tell-all girl to find a different chauffeur-reporter - maybe someone working for a sleazy tabloid.

In dreams we take elements of reality and weave them into scenarios designed to let us practice handling different predicaments. Or so I've heard.

If ever a sensational story comes my way that sounds too good to be exclusively mine, I hope I'll indeed think twice.

My other hope is never to be on a flaming helicopter.

INTERNET DREAM RESEARCH PAUSE.

After 20 minutes of reading differing theories about the significance of dreams from Wikipedia's dream team -- Sigmund Freud, Carl Jung, Calvin Hall, Ann Faraday, Antti Revonsuo and Keith Stevens - I still have no specific interpretation for mine.

Online dream dictionaries to the rescue. Ah the Internet. So many answers.

If you see a helicopter, you're pursuing your goals. A fire under control equals internal drive.

To be high in a building indicates "understanding, awareness or success." What could be better than being on the roof? Even the lobby was raised.

Dark woodwork means you're stuck in the past. Well, OK.

Light-colored curtains mean you can successfully postpone disclosing the truth.

The president symbolizes authority.

A map means you know where you're going, although in my case I didn't want to go. Gasoline equals energy and spirituality.

Bottom line, somebody could make a killing interpreting dreams. Come to think of it, psychiatrists already are. Couldn't a regular person also memorize those dictionaries? Why not?

Daniel Webster's comment comes to mind: There's always room at the top.

By: Shani Ross- Staff Writer

Have you ever wondered what all goes into a day in the life of a school secretary at FISD? Mary Emert offered her daily routine to help us appreciate the hard work they do. School secretaries keep the school running smoothly and make sure everyone is where they are supposed to be.

"When I get to school I clock in and then turn both of my computers on and log in. Then I wait for the D.A.E.P. fax of their attendance and then I do the school's attendance throughout the day. I also send out disciplinary letters to parents if necessary, and I put anything into the computer that is needed," of-

Although many may think this job isn't glorious, it does have its own highlights.

"The highlight of my day is always seeing everyone," said Emert.

After years of work, the secretaries have a set schedule and routine they follow everyday unless an unexpected kink interferes.

"Usually when I have to do something that is not a normal part of my day, it just makes me stay later at work to get my usual work done," noted Emert.

FJH and FHS Students/ Teachers Attack Their First STAAR

By: Taylor Orr- Staff Writer

This year began the transition from the state mandated TAKS test to the new STAAR test. Many teachers at FJH and FHS are concerned about the change from the TAKS test to the STAAR test. Although concerned, many teachers were surprised at how easy the transition has been from one test to the other.

"Preparing for the STARR test is very similar to preparing for the TAKS test, however the standards that guide our instruction are more focused. As a teacher, it's easier to prepare for the STAAR test than the TAKS," observed eighth grade English teacher, Eason Campbell.

One of the most evident changes is the level of knowledge and higher level thinking skills that the students are required to know by the date of the test.

"The level of rigor is higher for the STAAR test than the TAKS. The process in reading and reading comprehension is very similar, but now we have more guiding principles to help our students prepare for the test,' stated Mr. Campbell.

"The STARR test was a lot more rigorous and a lot of things that were on the sophomore level TAKS test are now on the freshman level test. We had to review

a lot of things that normally we wouldn't have had to review, and I also had to teach them skills to help them complete the test in the timed process," remarked, freshman English teacher, Brandi

With all of the things the teachers have to teach their students, it's no surprise that some are stressing about how their students performed on their STAAR

"I always feel like I never have enough time to review my students for tests. All of my students said they felt confident, which makes me feel better about their performance, but I am confident in the review we've done all year," announced Mrs. Cook

While many administrators were worried about the higher level of knowledge that students were required to know, many students were confident in their performance on the STAAR test.

'I thought the STAAR test was a lot easier than the TAKS test," claimed freshman, DeAndre McCann. Not only did freshman students think the STAAR test was easier than the TAKS, junior high students had some of the same thoughts as well.

"The STAAR test was much easier than the TAKS test," commented Brayden Campbell, a 7th grader at FJH.

"I didn't think the STAAR test was harder or easier than the TAKS, I thought the level of difficulty was about the same on both tests," offered Calvin Seago.

A possible explanation for the student's confidence in their test scores could be because of the hard work and many hours of preparations done by their teachers as well as the skills they've been taught to do well on their STARR test.

'We have been working and studying hard on all of our new curriculums trying to prepare for the STAAR test," said Brayden

Many teachers believe the resources they use to teach students throughout the school year is easier for students to understand as it is taught in a chronological

"From a teaching standpoint, all of the information that our students are required to know by the state are laid out in such an order that whenever we began the year, we were able to build upon the skills and concepts they learned last year. As we prepared for the test, it was sort of similar to having a tool box that we keep adding more tools to," explained Mr. Campbell.

Pre-Prom Panic

By: Taylor Orr- Staff Writer

Glitter and gold, heels and hair, makeup and manicures, all these things mean it's time for Prom! While most girls dream of prom dress shopping and picking out all of their accessories, a few girls at FHS have had anything but an ideal pre-prom experience.

"My prom dress shopping experience has been very hassled and the experience wasn't what I expected at all. I hoped to have a stress free experience, but it hasn't exactly been that," said Merritt Johnson, a junior at FHS.

Many of the girls ordered their dresses several weeks ago and were guaranteed they would be in many weeks before prom, but with prom fast approaching and the dresses still not being here, girls at FHS are beginning to

"I'm really worried that my dress won't be here by the week of prom, and if it isn't, I don't know what I'm going to do," commented Johnson

The way the company, store, or website reacts to your situation can make it better or worse. While some of the companies have been helpful at trying to get the dresses to the girls on time and the way they ordered them, others have made the process that much more difficult.

"The representatives at the store I ordered my dress from haven't really been cooperative," junior, Taylor Orr, said. "During the process of choosing and ordering the dress, the reps were very helpful, but after that they seemed to disappear. We've called the store over 8 times in the past 3 weeks and they haven't been assisting us in trying to locate my dress at all. We finally found out that they had to ship my dress from overseas to the warehouse and then from the warehouse it would be shipped to the store, but initially, we weren't told that," continued Orr. Not all companies make the buying process too difficult. In fact, some FHS girls dealt with companies whose main goal was to get their dress to them the right way and on time.

"The company that I bought my dress from has been really helpful in trying to get my dress to me. We called and were transferred to the warehouse manager. We spoke to her and she tracked exactly where my dress was, how many days it would take to get to me, and we were given a number we could call if we had any more questions or problems," explained senior, Hannah Griffin.

While some students who are experiencing difficulty finding a prom dress are juniors, other girls facing the same situation are seniors and have experienced dress shopping from last year.

"Last year, I didn't have as much difficulty getting my prom dress in as I have this year. I ordered it off the Internet and my dress was in sooner than I'd expected," commented Hannah.

While it's not pleasant to think about, the girls must have an alternative in case their situation isn't resolved and their dress doesn't arrive in time for prom.

"Since I have two older sisters who are both around my size, I could wear one of their dresses to prom if mine didn't come in in time," explained Hannah.

Unlike Hannah, who has a back up plan, other girls will be out of luck if their dress doesn't arrive in time for prom.

"I really don't have an alternative if my dress doesn't come in. If it isn't in at least a week before, we'll request the store give us our money back and hopefully I can find one somewhere that fits perfectly, with no alterations required," concluded

A favorite Floydada dine out is Nielson's Restaurant and Catering. Although Nielson's has been in the town for years, it continues to produce great food and service to its community. The restaurant offers a wide diversity of delicious foods ranging from American to Tex-Mex. Varieties of burgers, fajitas, sandwiches, salads, and basically anything imaginable is available at Nielson's. It is difficult to recommend any particle food item because all dishes are mouthwatering! Nielson's also offers tasty buffets, which include fish, fajita, and different Mexican cuisine. One cannot forget to mention the yummy chocolate pie and other desserts served at this establishment. The food although spectacular, is only made better by the great service. A friendly smile from the staff is always part of the exceptional customer service. This goes along with the atmosphere in the café. It has a warm, vintage feel that relaxes anyone. Furthermore, Nielson's is a catering business. This restaurant serves its delectable food to large crowds anywhere near the area. With that being said, if it's catering you're in need of or just looking for a good meal in a welcoming atmosphere, drive on down to Nielson's on the main highway (Second Street) in Floydada; your stomach will thank you!

Horns perfect in district and tied for first

Back to back wins against Valley and Olton have put the Lockney Longhorns in a district tie for first place with the Hale Center Owls. Last Monday, the Horns improved to 4-0 in district after a three run walk off homerun by Ian Dunbar put the final touches on a 16-4 victory over Valley. The win kept the Horns in a perfect standing in district after beating Olton 12-2 late last

The district championship race will finally have a sole leader on Friday, as Lockney faces the Owls in Hale Center. With a little under 10 games left in the season the Horns are putting the pedal to the metal as the race towards a playoff run. Overall, the Horns are 9-6 in the 2012 season.

After suffering a 5-1 loss to Ralls on Friday, the Lady Horn's softball team got their revenge with a 17-1 victory against Ralls that following Monday.

During Friday's game, Lockney's only score came in the 5th inning as Meagan Dunn singled and was able to capitalize on a sacrifice hit by McKenzie Kemp to cross the plate. The loss dropped the Lady Longhorns to a district record of 5-2 and tied in district with Ralls for second place and leaving Sundown alone at first.

On Monday, despite a slow start during the first inning, the Lady Horns were able to rebound beginning in the 2nd to capture a victory over Crosbyton. Defensively the Lady Horns gave up only one run and one hit to Crosbyton. In the second inning the Lady Horns got busy with their bats following Sunny and Dixie Williams being walked at the bottom of the 2nd inning. Gabby Peralez, McKenzie Kemp, Kennedy Hallmark, Tanya Hernandez and Jennifer Ybarra all hit to rally 7 points to end the 2nd inning. The top of the 3rd inning, Crosbyton was able to capitalize on a fielding error to score their only run of the game. Gabby Peralez and Kennedy Hallmark were able to connect with the ball in the bottom of the 3rd inning, allowing Peralez and Meagan Dunn to score. Lady Horn Pitcher Katie Jackson was able to shut down Crosbyton during the 4th and 5th innings, by recording consecutive three up and three down outings.

In the bottom of the 4th inning, Jennifer Ybarra and Katie Jackson singled followed by a hard hit triple to left field by Sunny Williams allowing Ybarra and Jackson to score. Gabby Peralez and Meagan Dunn both singled and Rayann Race was walked on balls. A hit by Hallmark allowed Peralez and Dunn to score. Jennifer Ybarra connected with a pitch that brought in Rayann Race. Katie Jackson returned to the plate and hit an out of the park homerun over Left center field fence scoring Jackson, Hallmark and Ybarra.

The game improved the Lady Horn's district record to 6-2. Ralls defeated district leader Sundown, creating a 3 way tie for first in District 5-1A between the Lady Horns, Ralls, and Sundown.

Floydada rebounds from last week

By Coach Seago

With last week being a learning experience that we must get better, Floydada tried to rebound from their two pervious loses by going on a northwest trip when they traveled to Friona for their fifth district game of the year. Maybe losing a couple opened some eves because the Whirlwinds started the week on Tuesday 3/27 with a 13-0 victory over the Chieftains of the high plains.

Hunter Galvan was the starting pitcher and finished the game as he went 5 complete innings; facing 18 batters in which he walked two and did not give up a hit to Friona till the 5th inning when one was bleed into right field. Galvan struck out 6 batters and pounded the zone all day. The defense did a great job as they recorded 9 putouts without an error. "Hunter and Jon Chavarria did a great job all day long. Jon kept the game moving behind the dish and Galvan worked at a fast pace, which in turn kept the defense live and ready to make plays for him."

As for the offense, Floydada had 9 hits and produced 9 RBI's on the day. Benselado Perez, Jose Martinez, and Seth Nielson lead all hitters with two hits apiece and Perez had a double as one of his hits and produced three RBI's. "Our hitting was better today, but we still need to grow into that team that attacks more on quality fastballs and makes teams pay for allowing us on base." The Winds struck-out four times', walked a team high 8 times and stole 7 bases with Mike Cisneros and Jose Martinez having two each.

On Saturday, 3/31; the Whirlwinds came back home to face the Wildcats of Littlefield. With Littlefield sitting in the district race at 3-2 and the hometown Winds at 4-1, today's game was a big one for each team as it was the last game before the turn to begin the second half of District 2-2A. Will it was a big game that saw Littlefield jump out to a 4 run lead in the first inning, but the Whirlwinds fought back and won the game 5-4 in the seventh inning when Seth Nielson hit a shot to center field over the head of Zach Johnson to bring home Jose Martinez for the Floydada victory.

Seth Nielson was the starting pitcher and went the distance; 7 innings, 4 hits, 4 runs, no earn runs, stuck out 7 batters while walking one and hitting one batter. Nielson faced 26 batters and threw 90 pitches with 22 first pitch strikes. The defense did there job behind him after the first inning. 4 errors in the first inning lead to 4 Wildcat runs, but the defense settled down and recorded 11 putouts to help him.

The offense came though by getting 9 hits off of starting pitcher Matt Johnson and pushed across 5 runs with 3 RBI's. Hunter Galvan, Jose Martinez, and Benselado Perez lead the offensive production with 2 hits apiece. Perez had a double that drove two runs across while Galvan had one RBI.

"What a great game today and a awesome effort by our kiddo's. We have put our-WINDS continued on page 9

On March 24, Homero Ramirez participated in the UIL State Powerlifting Meet in Abilene, Texas. In order to qualify for the state meet, the athlete had to place in the top two at the regional meet of his weight class. Ramirez placed second at the regional level. Along with other students from our area, Ramirez placed sixth overall at state.

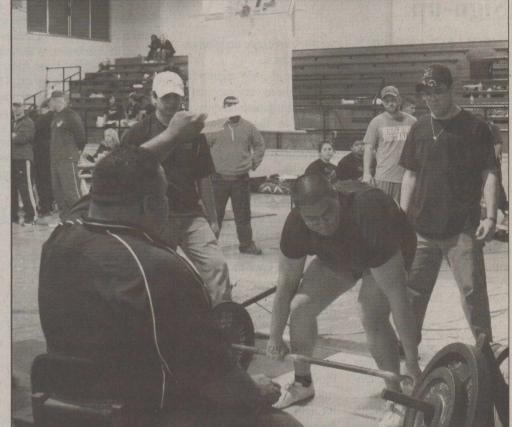

"The competition at state is pretty tough," said Ramirez. "It's state, so the best of the state goes."

Coach Levi Bandy has prepared his powerlifting athletes all year in hope of all of them competing at the state level.

"We start off in pre-season with real light weight with heavy reps, then we go to moderate weight to moderate reps, and then a heavy weight to a light rep," said Bandy.

Throughout the season, Ramirez worked really hard in order to qualify.

Lady Winds comeback on Dimmitt, but drop to Littlefield

A loss looked likely for the Floydada Lady Winds when they trailed by seven runs in the fifth inning, but the Lady Winds were able to capture the lead with a an RBI single by Stephanie Lerma in the seventh inning, spurring a 19-18 win over Dimmitt last Wednesday.

With the score tied at 18 in the seventh inning, Lerma came to the plate and singled, bringing home Kelsey Nutt.

Both squads had things going at the plate, tallying 37 runs and 40 hits, including four extra base hits.

Nutt racked up six RBIs on three hits for Floydada. Nutt doubled in the first inning and singled in the sixth and seventh

M Quiroz racked up four RBIs on three hits for Dimmitt. Quiroz singled in the first and fifth innings and homered in the seventh inning

Even though Nutt allowed 18 runs over seven innings she still recorded the victory. The Floydada Lady Winds pitcher struck out 11, walked 10 and surrendered 16 hits. ·The Winds hammered Dimmitt's pitching, as eight hitters had a field day, combining for 22 hits, 16 RBIs and 18 runs scored. On Saturday, the Lady Winds lost 10-0 to the Littlefield Wildcats despite Ana Mora's two-hit day at the dish.

The Littlefield Wildcats' Macha kept Floydada Lady Winds off the scoreboard for all five innings she toed the rubber. She pitched a shutout, allowing no opposing players to cross the plate on four hits while ringing up five.

Texas FSA Reminds Producers of Approaching Deadline for CRP General Sign-up

(COLLEGE STATION, TX), March 30, 2012 — Farm Service Agency Texas Acting Executive Director James B. Douglass today reminded landowners, farmers and ranchers in Texas that the opportunity to enroll in the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) general sign-up 43 ends on Friday, April 6. Producers who want to offer eligible land for CRP's competitive general sign-up may enroll at the Farm Service Agency (FSA) county office where their farm records are maintained.

"I strongly encourage all interested producers to contact the county office before the April 6 end of CRP signup deadline," said Douglass. "Any offer that is not submitted by this April 6 deadline will not be considered for acceptance during the 43rd signup for CRP."

CRP is a voluntary program that assists farmers, ranchers and other agricultural producers to protect their environmentally sensitive land. Producers enrolling eligible land in CRP plant long-term, resource-conserving covers in exchange for rental pay-

"So far, the 43rd signup for CRP has been very successful and we anticipate landowner interest in the program to continue throughout the signup period," said Douglass. "I can't stress enough the need to act now rather than wait until the deadline date so that our staff can provide the much-deserved individual attention to all producers interested in the CRP program."

As of February 2012, Texas has approximately 3,360,870 acres enrolled in CRP. On Sept. 30, 2012, approximately 826,863 CRP contract acres will expire in the state. Producers may choose to reenroll their land or sign up for new acres that qualify for the program. Contracts range from 10-15 years. The competitive selection is based on factors such as land that erodes easily or where habitat for rare or game wildlife can be assured.

Producers are encouraged to contact their local FSA service center or visit FSA's website at http://www.fsa. usda.gov/crp for additional information regarding CRP.

Panhandle-Plains Land Bank Announces Record Patronage

AMARILLO, Texas— Directors for Rader. "With this $3.8 million, Panhandle-Panhandle-Plains Land Bank announced a record cash patronage for 2012. This year, the association will return $3.8 million in cash payments to its stockholders. Based on interest paid during 2011; the amount is approved by the board following an endof-year financial review of the association.

The cash distribution is the largest paid by Panhandle-Plains in its eight year history of the patronage program. Owned by its member-borrowers, Panhandle-Plains Land Bank annually returns a portion of the interest paid by borrowers.

"We are proud the association is in a position to make this level of distribution to our customers," said Chairman Steve Plains Land Bank has put more than $20.5 million back in our customer's hands since 2005. At a time when our area is struggling with drought and much economic uncertainty, our association is proud to be able to benefit our customers in such a significant way," explained Rader. Annual payments have been made under the patronage program since 2005. Including 2012, the association has returned an average of 18 cents of every 1 dollar paid in interest.

Association CEO Gregg Lloyd described this year's payment another way, "A strong patronage reflects the association's financial strength. We cannot make this level of cash payment without the support of area producers and their excellent repayment history." He further explained the payment's cash aspect, "no reserves are necessary for the association, no retained earnings to be paid later, it's 100% cash in Payments will be made at the association's annual stockholder's meetings in April. More information will be provided to stockholders in the near future. Panhandle-Plains Land Bank provides long-term credit to farmers, ranchers, and agribusiness in 17 counties of the Panhandle and South Plains. Offices are located in Amarillo, Pampa, Perryton, and Plainview.

Floyd County Farm Bureau shows support to our WWII veterans

By David True

The primary reason we are able to function as Americans today is because of the sacrifice of our World War II Veterans. They left their homes, families, and jobs to fight for the freedoms we take for granted every day. These honored veterans are dying at a rate of 1,000 per day.

America Supports You Texas is both privileged and honored to be able to organize Honor Flights to recognize those who gave so much. A flight is scheduled to depart Lubbock the first week of October 2012. The priority is to take as many WWII Veterans as can go from our South Plains area. They will be flown to Baltimore, Maryland then bused to Washington, D.C. to tour the various memorials. They will spend two nights in Washington and return to Lubbock on day three. veterans are covered 100%. This is not only a moving way to show our appreciation for their sacrifices but is also long overdue.

Floyd County Farm Bureau supports this organization and has made a $500 donation. We challenge all other county Farm Bureaus in District 2 to contribute as well. We will ask Texas Farm Bureau to match all of the contributions given by the county Farm Bureau's. Together we can be a corporate sponsor, yielding very favorable publicity for Farm Bureau; but most important is the honoring of these veterans. The flight from Lubbock will cost approximately $200,000.00 - All of which must be raised very quickly.

Please join us in helping fund this very important event.

FROM THE ARCHIVES

OF THE FLOYD COUNTY MUSEUM =

From the Floyd County Hesperian January 8, 1970 I REMEMBER, I REMEMBER THAT REMINDS ME By Homer Steen

As usual, anything that happens reminds an old-timer of something that happened way back when, that is quite interesting to him. He begins right off to tell about it. This vexes many regular people, who make it handy to hurry off to see a man about something.

I suppose that is why you see so many oldsters talking to oldsters. The one who is listening is doing so with what patience he can. He also has something interesting he has just recalled that needs being told.

What happened that made me recall something was the report in the newspapers to the effect that the use of DDT is being banned by the federal authorities in every way possible. We have arrived at that time in our lives when the synthetic is beginning to be a definite menace to people. DDT, they say, has now penetrated into almost every form of plant life, as well as into many bodies of water and into the systems of animals intended for human consumption.

DDT LOSES FAVOR

When DDT was first discovered it was hailed as the great panacea. Humanity had at last won its battle with insects. Flies in particular. I recall the first summer it was available here I used it with complete success on concentrations of flies. Before hand I had been almost helpless, now I was in control.

But I had another think coming. The story was not told so easily. The very next year the flocks of flies were almost completely immune to DDT. Nature strives for survival in whatsoever form it exists. That was about 25 years ago. We still have the flies with us.

And that reminds me of something else. I remember a period just about 50 years ago (about a quarter of a century before DDT). Farmers and ranchers began using arsenic for grasshoppers. It looked like we had they whipped there for a time. But about the third year after the use of arsenic began a grasshopper dropped into a drug store to buy a soda. 'Spike it with arsenic," he said. "These farmers have made a fiend out of me."

HE OWNED A JAIL

At great risk to his reputation as a truthful person Jack Armstrong declares he once owned a jail. It was at Wall, South Dakota, a few years after he retired after a career as a police officer in a West Coast city. He returned to the midwest and was attracted to South Dakota because he could not find grass

After he acquired title to the lot on which the jail stood authorities wanted to continue to use it. Jack refused, except for once when the Jaycees or somebody was allowed to use it to enforce a rule about wearing beards in anticipation of a whing ding of some sortrodeo, reunion of some sort-rodeo, reunion or something. Later he got rid of the prop-

From the Floyd County Hesperian January 22, 1960 I REMEMBER, I REMEMBER By Homer Steen HE WAS A TEXIAN

I wrote recently about J. C. Gaither who came out from central Texas about 1909 to make his home in Floyd County. For lack of space (to keep the squib within readable length) I did not mention some interesting things. I want to try a re-do.

The earth scars and litter of the battle of San Jacinto were still in evidence when he was born to a Falls County planter. This was in 1849, three years after the flag of the Republic was furled and the state flag took its place, in 1846.

His father was a man of considerable stature in that part of the state, and the Gaither home was a stopping place for people, great and small. Thus, as a boy, J. C. Gaither had personal knowledge of many of the men who survived the Republic, who made and would make the state's history for the remainder of the century.

HOUSTON AND ROBERTS

He knew Sam Houston as a visitor in the Gaither home. Also Oran M. Roberts, "The Old Alcalde", a man of entirely different pattern to Old Sam. He had much to do with shaping the direction of Jim Gaither's young adult life. (Roberts was the first governor chosen by the people after the carpet bagger's regime.) (Mr. Gaither may have been his sec-

Judge Gaither's wife Mary was a Hatch. The Hatch family came down from Maine. They sailed before the mast. I do not have any documentary or other evidence of the date, but Mr. Gaither's talks led me to believe the Hatch family were colonists of one of the impresarios. The old records would be evidence but I do not dig that hard for my

THE SAN JACINTO PAINTING

I suspect there are more lists than one of the men who served under Sam Houston at San Jacinto—conflicting lists, I mean. The list I have from the Texas State Library is W. L. Kemp's "The Honor Role of the Battle." This "role" does not include the name of any Gaithers to my disappointment. Time and again I have been told that the youngish fellow on the horse behind Sgt. Sylveste3r in the painting "The surrender of Santa Anna," was Wee Willie Gaither. He was one of the personalities of the scene along with Deef (not Deaf) Smith. It seems to me Mr. Gaither himself said as much. Maybe he didn't.

The painting is the one that graces (or did) the wall of the House of Representatives to the left of the speaker's rostrum. It is supposed to catch the moment when Santa Anna was brought before the prone General Houston under the big live oak.

Wee Willie, in my story, is one of the squad which Sgt. Sylvester led on the search for Mexican soldiers after this battle. They found Santa Anna in an abandoned shack in the marshes. The general had just donned dry clothes he found after wandering through the night.

BRAZOS RIVER FALLS

Falls County, named for Brazos River Falls, was organized a year after Mr. Gaither was born. He knew the Brazos when the falls were 12 feet high. The river changed its course in the 1860's and by passed the falls, says Sue Flanagan's "Sam Houston's Texas." Vital statistics give Mr. Gaither's birthplace as South Carolina, but definitely he told me more than once of incidents in Falls County in his youth. One of these—his father taking a stand in the glen to slay a deer when the family meat supply ran low.)

In none of his conversations did Mr. Gaither mention more than in passing the years of the Civil War or the long, weary years of the Reconstruction. Nor did it seem any of the men stood tall to him on the Austin scene in the 80's and 90's when he was there. But he did delight in little yarns about the Texians-not only the Houstons, the Burlesons, the Johnsons, but also of many men who played lesser but just as interesting roles.

Word images and tales came easy about the people—great and small—who strode the stage in the days of his youth—the Texians. One spring, he said when heavy rains made grass and weeds in the cotton a serious menace, the men faced a serious dilemma. They were going to have to tackle that crabgrass.

As good fortune would have it there was a serious Indian scare and they had to mount and leave overnight in a campaign against the Comanches. Unter the circumstances, with their husbands and fathers off fighting to protect their homes from the savages, it was only right the women and children should take to the fields and save the cotton crops.

at the seafood chain to pay chocolate ganache, topping his way through college at Texas Tech University, where he earned his degree in restaurant, hotel and institutional management.

The menu- which includes the spinach salad garnished with cinnamon and sugar roasted pecans and crumbled feta; cilantro and lime marinated Atlantic salmon; and chocolate mousse cake glazed in a dark chocolate ganache- is a compilation of student inspirations, Hayes said.

"I try to make it as real world as possible," said Hayes, stopping to remind senior Jake Fowler to continually stir the melting chocolate and cream mixture on the stove so it of relishing the leftovers of doesn't burn.

Once melted, Hayes then demonstrated to junior Patrick Garcia how to ladle the ganache over the individual cakes resting on wired racks.

Garcia, who often cooks at home and has earned a name in the class for his pastry work, said he formulated the cake recipe from online food sites and his own ideas. He's tweaked it by glazing it with dark it with mint leaves and raspberries and serving it with a raspberry coulis and sweet vanilla cream sauce.

The students served a rendition of the cakes a couple of weeks earlier when the class catered a Valentine's Day dinner to more then 100 guests in two

"I think this one is even better than the Valentine's Day cake," Hayes said, after Garcia and Fowler finished topping the cakes with the mint and raspberries.

"Yes, it's good," Garcia said, licking his fingers. "We just downed an extra one about 10 seconds ago."

Besides the advantages the work, Fowler credited the class for launching his interest in cooking.

After graduation, he plans to attend Johnson and Wales College of Culinary Arts in Denver, Colo., with dreams of later owning a restaurant.

"It's the appreciation factor, Fowler said of his culinary affinity. "I just like making food and seeing people happy eating the food."
