'67 LITTLE LEAGUE STARTS: McCRANIE, LAWSON HURL WINS

PLAY BALL!

These were the words echoed throughout the Reese Little League Park Monday night as the 1967 Little League season opened here.

Col. Ernest T. Cragg, wing commander, opened the event by tossing out the first ball of the season.

Prior to game time Col. William C. McGlothlin Jr., deputy commander for Operations, spoke to the little leaguers about the game of baseball.

The colonel said, "You'll enjoy the game if you work hard, play hard and listen to your coaches. I hope the players show good judgment throughout the season, and they receive the support of their parents by coming out to the games."

FIRST GAME

In the opener The Flyers defeated The Yankees, 10-2, in the Pee Wee League. In winning the game, Roy Lawson only allowed two hits and struck out seven for his first win of the season.

Larry E. Ellis was the starting pitcher for The Yankees, but was relieved by Larry Evans in the first inning.

SECOND GAME

The Dodgers outthit The Braves four to one to win their first game of the season to climax the evening activities. The final score was 7-1.

Losing pitcher, Mark Leewright, allowed six runs before being relieved by Keith E. Kissinger in the sixth inning. Keith allowed one run. Winning pitcher was Rodney S. McCranie.

Players in the Major League include:

DODGERS — Rodney S. McCranie, Kenneth R. Zeiber, Arthur Rennick, Henry Davis, Carson Norris, Danny O'Neal, Brian W. Trammell, James E. Ashworth, Tony Givens, Newbyrhne Burns, Ricky J. Arbegast, Robin Walton, Patrick J. Snodgrass, David Hunt, George Malone and Don Kelso. Manger—TSgt. Robert P. Kelso.

CARDINALS — Kenny Kelso, William M. Skiles, James D. Kissinger, Stephen K. Shank, Harold H. Hance, Jack A. Gray, Arnold P. Miranda, Larry Hamilton, Jeffrey L. Schaefer, Brad Craven.

SEASON OPENI—The blur of a fast-moving arm indicates there was zip on the ball Col. Ernest T. Cragg, wing commander, tossed out to officially open the Reese Little League season.

Cancelled Project Saves $7,200 Here

A project to install cathodic protection on all mains and laterals in the underground water and gas distribution systems at Reese has been eliminated to save $7,200 in the base's Cost Reduction Program.

The project was funded for $9,000, but an engineering survey revealed the cathodic protection was not needed and the project was cancelled. The survey cost $1,800.

Director Asks Better Safety Mark On Base

A plea for Reese personnel to bring the base ground safety record every day up to weekend and holiday marks was made this week by Capt. Robert E. Jobe, chief of the safety division.

"Reese over the year has done very well on holidays, holiday leave periods and even on weekends," the captain said. "Frequently, as the rest of the country writes new highs in accidents, we at Reese don't have a single holiday accident."

He pointed out that between holidays and during the workweek, the record is far different.

"Last year, for instance," Captain Jobe said, "we had no reportable accidents for any holiday period. But between Memorial Day and July 4, we had five injuries which cut into our record."

"This year we already have an injury and cannot afford it or any others. It is hard to understand how we at Reese can do so well so often and then let caution go to the wind as we mark up accidents on the job which should never occur."

The captain said that Reese ranks 14th in ground safety among the 16 Air Training Command Bases this year and "there's no sense to such a low rank."

Volunteers Move SEA Donations

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — Requests for transport of donated goods for use in civic actions programs in Southeast Asia should be referred to volunteer workers registered with the Agency for International Development (AID), the State Department has advised.

While praising efforts by private organizations and individuals and encouraging their support, a State Department spokesman explained that military operations in Southeast Asia preclude use of Government airlift or sealift for delivery of the donated goods.

AID reimburses ocean freight costs for donated goods handled by its volunteer organizations. Stateside addresses of these agencies are available from AID overseas offices, or from AID, Voluntary Foreign Aid Service, Annex 10, 1711 New York Ave., Building C, Washington, D.C. 20523.

Work Started On Gymnasium

A new gymnasium for Reese was scheduled to be started Thursday with 285 calendar days permitted the contractor, the C. M. Pharr Construction Company of Lubbock, to complete the work.

Ground for the new gym, to go up on what has been used for tennis courts near the present gymnasium, was to be broken Thursday, with base officials participating.

When completed the new structure will contain about 21,000 square feet of space. The building is to be of masonry construction and will contain a large play area for basketball, volleyball, and badminton, along with handball courts, large exercise room, massage room, Sauna dry-heat room, office space and other features. The present gymnasium was constructed in 1941 as a five-year life building. Plans to replace it has been "in the mill" for several years.

101 Critical Days In ATC

ATC reports on 101 Critical Days: From May 26 through June 4 there was one fatality by drowning. The Air Force-wide total through the same period is seven fatalities; four persons died in traffic accidents.

Accurate Production Brings Top Rating To Young Airman

A3C Ronald S. Lewis, administrative specialist in the 3500th Student Squadron, has earned selection as Airman of the Month for June at Reese on the basis of "thorough and professional" performance.

During the past year, his commander, Lt. Col. Don E. Simmons, stated, the airman has been responsible for keeping flying training records for all permanently assigned pilots in the wing and his production has been such that Air Training Command teams and inspectors have praised him.

Airman Lewis is responsible for scheduling instrument refresher training, physiological training and ejection seat training for all pilots, it was said, and no discrepancies have been found.

The airman also was credited with dealing effectively with young and veteran officers, with keeping current on Air Force and current world events and with being active in church activities.

"The outstanding manner in which Airman Lewis has performed his job, with a minimum of supervision and minimum of errors, certainly makes him one of the most outstanding and deserving young airmen at Reese AFB," wrote Colonel Simmons.

Airman Lewis, of Darien, Conn., is a graduate of high school in Lansdale, Pa., and left a job as teller in a New York bank to enlist in the Air Force in May 1966.

Recognize Achievement? Yes, But . . .

Ask any supervisor if he believes in recognizing efforts of his men and you get a quick and vigorous "Yes!" Ask any hundred supervisors to recommend a man for a medal, a plaque, certificate or special award and most often you'll get "I have no one qualified."

Why the difference in response? Because most recommendations require that the supervisor take time to write a nomination documenting the facts. Faced with the requirements, far too many supervisors have second thoughts. It may be that many supervisors feel that recognizing accomplishment isn't really worth the effort.

How is it at Reese? In past years few nominations have been made from units for Outstanding Airman of the Year. This year, every unit was required to submit a nominee. Work was done and everyone nominated had earned the honor. From good men, the base selected its top airman. Result: for the first time in history of Outstanding Airman of the Year competition, Reese's man was almost named Airman of the Year in ATC. Work paid off.

Ten units may nominate for Airman of the Month here. Rarely are 10 nominations made. Why? "No one qualified." The Roundup would hate to think a supervisor or a first sergeant hasn't pride enough to put forth someone in the unit to compete for any award.

Air Force regulation (AFR 900-3) permits favorable communications for a wide range of action, achievement and service. A little effort by supervisors and recognition will go to officers and airmen continually.

Safety awards are authorized in ATC monthly. All military personnel and civilian personnel whose contributions by individual action or duty performance helps the Reese safety program are eligible. Awards may be made in operations, maintenance and support fields. Nominees could be plentiful. But are they?

There are many other areas where awards may be made. Gen. John P. McConnell, Air Force chief of staff, has called on all parts of the service to submit best nominees and to see that recognition comes to all eligibles. He has said he wonders if supervisors are familiar with awards available to their men and how to bring recognition.

It is apparent at Reese that many worthy individuals do not get the honors and spotlight they deserve. No one should be reluctant to expend needed effort to become familiar with awards and to see that they are presented.

QUOTE OF NOTE

"One of the best ways of encouraging interchange of ideas is permitting mobility of personnel. An articulate newcomer with fresh ideas can often do more convincing than a carload of manuals. Sometimes you may lose a man you want to keep, but you are likely to get better work from others in your organization if they know you won't hold them back."—Norman S. Paul, under secretary of the Air Force.

FOR THE COMMANDER

Leadership Built On Character

Col. Ernest T. Cragg

By Lt. Col. Charles E. Hammack
Chief, Operations Division, DCO

The past few years have brought many changes in the military profession. Advances in technology have resulted in centralized management and this trend has modified the traditional role of command.

Today, a squadron commander no longer maintains his aircraft, operates a mess hall, pays his men, keeps personnel records, schedules his own operations, or even inspects these activities. A computer schedules our flights, requisitions supplies, and screens personnel. Someone else maintains the aircraft, messes are consolidated, we are paid out of Denver, our records are at Randolph, and the IG inspects us.

The commander can no longer be an expert in all aspects of a modern weapon system. He must rely more and more on subordinates, and in many cases on technicians outside the chain of command. Technical ability in a specialized field is a virtue. Adaptability has become more important than experience, and the requirement to adjust to rapid changes has undermined some of the old customs and practices.

However, technical ability alone is not enough. There still remains a requirement for character of leadership. The character of an officer, or any leader, is reflected in his outfit. A good commander has an effective command, and a good team chief has a good team. Character, faith, and trust are essential to military operations.

An officer cannot be effective unless he has the complete trust and respect of his subordinates, peers, and seniors. Although there is little difference in many management techniques used by the military and civilian enterprise, there is a great deal of difference in organization structure and relationships. The tendency to imitate is more pronounced in military life.

Thus, the military today must be more intelligent, better educated, and more alert to changing requirements than ever before. But the basic requirement has not changed. The most important aspect of military professionalism is still unquestionable integrity and strength of character.

Reports Must Be Objective

Effectiveness and performance reports must be prepared objectively, accurately and carefully. The integrity of the Air Force is greatly dependent upon the honesty of these reports.

Emphasis must be placed on the importance of a critical review by indorsers. Persons who are rated as acceptable or unsatisfactory must have their reports subjected to the most critical review.

A person rated as merely acceptable or unsatisfactory must never be surprised. Such a rating must be the result of failure to improve after having received orders, advice and opportunity to do so.

An effectiveness or performance report must be a document of accuracy upon which the author is willing and able to stake his professional reputation.

The program of each separate command in breathing honesty and objectivity into the effectiveness and performance report system will be closely monitored; reports which are obviously inflated and erroneous will be rejected. (ATCPS)

On The Line

By Chaplain (Capt.)
Raymond J. Condren

One of the predominate failures of our culture is its emphasis on material things. The local drugstore bears testimony to this fact. One can buy anything from electric gadgets, to ball point pens, from cure alls to specific prescriptions for all known diseases and human complaints.

Sophisticated Americans present an amusing spectacle by putting the cart before the horse, treating the symptoms instead of the disease, and applying external remedies to diseases that are internal and spiritual.

Getting fat? Take reducing tablets. What about the virtue of temperance, the curbing of the appetites. Not too popular.

Can't sleep? Take sleeping pills. It would hardly occur to some insomniacs that the cause of their sleeplessness is rooted in laziness and apathy that some warped and immoral way of life pinches their conscience so that they leave no room for divine love, so that they are unable to rest.

The young woman is not satisfied with her success in attracting friends, so she buys new clothes, dyes her hair and changes to a more alluring perfume. Most people never dream that the cultivation of moral virtues has a far more glamorizing effect than exhaustive treatments at the beauty parlor or today's man in the barber shop that even puts curls in his hair.

Just as there are patterns of

ATC Officials Finish Careers

HQ. ATC (ATCPS) — Two key officials of Headquarters Air Training Command retired May 31 with a combined total of almost 64 years' military service.

They are Col. Harold C. James, the ATC deputy chief of Information, and Col. Neywood H. Roberdeau, the command's director of Administrative Services and executive to the ATC commander.

Colonel James, who started his military career in April 1937, assumed his position with ATC in August 1965. He was serving as commander of the 3720th Basic Military School, Lackland AFB, Tex., at the time of his assignment to the command headquarters.

Colonel Roberdeau has served in the Pentagon; as deputy base commander at Eglin AFB, Fla.; chief of staff, Headquarters U.S. Military Training Mission, Dhahran, Saudi Arabia; and as commander of Greenville AFB, Miss.

Both retirees plan to reside in the San Antonio area.

KEESLER AFB, Miss. (ATCPS) Fourteen Vietnamese air cadets received their wings May 11 at the first graduation of Keesler AFB's 3389th Pilot Training Squadron.

Chaplain Pilot Assigned To Reese; Formerly Served Parish In Alabama

Chaplain (Capt.) Larry D. Mosley, Methodist minister who holds a Federal Aviation Agency private pilot's license, has assumed duty as a chaplain at Reese.

The chaplain, native of Birmingham, Ala., earned a bachelor of arts degree at Birmingham-Southern College in 1957 and a bachelor of divinity degree in 1960 from the Candler School of Theology of Emory University. He completed the Air Force Chaplain's School in May.

Chaplain Mosley, prior to assignment to the Air Force, was minister of youth at Brookhaven Methodist Church in Birmingham a year and served 12 years as parish minister in the North Alabama Conference of the Methodist Church. During 1964 and 1965 he also was chaplain of the Muscle Shoals, Ala., squadron of the Civil Air Patrol.

The chaplain, in addition to an interest in flying, also devotes time to the study of archaeology and astronomy and plays golf.

His wife is the former Sarah Prosser of Jacksonville, Fla. They have three children, Larry Dee Jr., 10; Erin Lynn, 7; and Amy Jeanne, 6.

CHAPLAIN MOSLEY

Air Training Command, originally called Army Air Forces Training Command, was created at Fort Worth in 1943.

Communications Upgrades Seven Airmen En Masse

The 2053rd Communications Squadron at Reese exhibited its OJT program a few days ago by upgrading traffic controllers "en masse."

The squadron classification board, headed by Capt. William Hays, recommended three NCOs for upgrade to the 7-level and four airmen to the 5-level.

Going to "7s" are TSgt. Jack G. Davis, SSgt. Billie C. Davis and SSgt. Patrick Collins.

Moving to the "5s" are A2C Paul Hartford, A3C Pete Grygotis, A3C Steve Marcyes and A3C Alan Klein.

On the board with the captain are SMSgt. John Price and MSgt. Lee Carkhuff.

Captain Directs Weather Activity

Capt. Ronald S. Gauss has assumed duties as commander of Reese's Detachment 11, 24th Weather Squadron.

The weather field is not new to the 27-year-old captain. Captain Gauss received his BS degree in meteorology from the University of Utah in 1964 after receiving his commission from OTS in the spring of 1963.

He came to Reese from an assignment at Plattsburgh AFB, N.Y., as chief forecaster and wing weather officer for the 320th Strategic Aerospace Wing.

Captain Gauss, a native of Danbury, Conn., also possesses a BS degree in education earned in 1963 from Danbury State College in his hometown.

He donned his captain tracks March 4, 1967.

He is married to the former Jo Anne Hardin of Brookfield, Conn. The captain and his wife have two children, Susan Lenore, 2, and Michael Hardin born last month on May 6.

Academy Graduate Majority Turning To Flight Training

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AFNS) — Flight training for pilots and navigators will be the first order of business for 58 per cent of the Air Force Academy cadets of the Class of 1967 graduated June 7.

A total of 305 second lieutenants of the class of 525 will enter pilot and navigation training immediately after receiving their diplomas and commissions. Thirty-nine will go to navigation school and 266 receive pilot training.

An additional 36 have qualified for flight training but will delay this schooling until after they have completed requirements for masters degrees.

They will bring the flight and navigational training total to 65 per cent of the graduating class.

Pilot Graduate Named Chaplain

Chaplain (Captain) George T. Sturch, 1953 graduate of pilot training at Reese and later a tanker pilot, has reported for duty as Protestant chaplain at George AFB, Calif.

Chaplain Sturch, from Clarksville, Tex., is serving his first chaplain's assignment at George. He is a licensed minister of the Southern Baptist Church.

The chaplain was a USAF pilot from July 1953 to July 1956, flying more than 1,000 hours in the KC-97 Strato Cruiser. He was a member of the 100th Air Refueling Squadron at Robins AFB, Ga.

Williams Pilot Wins AF Cross

WILLIAMS AFB, ARIZ. (ATCPS) — Fire ate at the inside of the huge cargo aircraft high over Vietnam. In the cockpit a pilot on the verge of collapse from heat and fumes battled to save his crew and cargo.

Success of the mission meant lives saved. Failure was certain death for all. Today, Capt. Richard A. Nagel Jr., an instructor pilot here, wears the Air Force Cross for making his C-123 Provider fly under impossible conditions.

Presentation of the high honor, second only to the Medal of Honor, was made by Lt. Gen. Sam Maddux Jr., commander, Air Training Command, during a visit to Williams.

MARSHALS—Mayor Dub Rogers of Lubbock and Col. Ernest T. Cragg Reese wing commander, were honorary marshals of the Lubbock Loyalty Day parade. They await the start of the trek over city streets.

Reservations For Community Center Available To All Reese Personnel

Reservations may be made anytime at the Reese personnel services office for the new community center near the picnic grounds, 2nd Lt. Thomas E. Vincent, personnel services officer, has announced.

Moody Starts New Survival Training

MOODY AFB, Ga. (ATCPS)—A new method of presenting survival training to undergraduate pilot training (UPT) students has been activated here.

A one-mile survival trail, an adjunct to academic training, will be used to teach practical aspects of survival—the various methods of signaling; identification of natural foods safe for consumption; the use of parachutes, shroud lines and items from nature for shelter, and methods of obtaining food by using traps, snares, fish-hooks and nets made from items in any remote area.

The large building, formerly located on Buffalo Lakes, is available for use by 60 persons, it was stated, and may be reserved for $10 an evening. Rules for use are being drawn up and will be available soon, the lieutenant said.

The building contains a large ballroom, kitchen area, latrines and new furniture. Windows are draped, floors carpeted, and walls newly renovated. A patio provides outdoor recreation.

A fireplace is centered on a long wall.

In July 1946, the name Air Training Command replaced the three-year-old handle of Army Air Forces Training Command. The new name stuck.

Pentagon War Plans Officer Will Address 67-H Graduates

Col. Edwin W. Robertson of the U.S. Air Force War Plans Division in the Pentagon will be speaker for graduation of Class 67-H from undergraduate pilot training at Reese the morning of June 17. Col. Ernest T. Cragg, Reese wing commander, has announced.

Native of Columbia, S.C., Colonel Robertson is a 1947 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and has been a pilot since 1948.

He flew F-84s for a fighter group at Otis AFB, Mass., flew 128 combat missions in F-80 fighters in Korea and spent a year as operations officer for a Tactical Air Control Squadron in Korea.

In 1952 and 1953 the colonel was fighter pilot and maintenance officer of F-86s and F-89s for a fighter squadron at Presque Isle, Maine, and from 1953 to 1956 he was operations staff officer in Air Defense Command Headquarters.

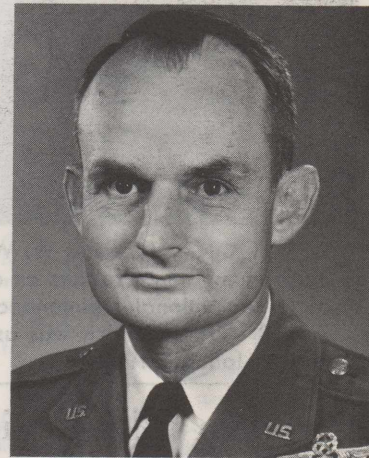

After completing the Royal Air Force Staff College in the United Kingdom in 1956, Colonel Robertson commanded a fighter wing field team of F-86s with the Spanish Air Force for three years, returned to ADC as operations staff officer and from 1963 to 1965 commanded a fighter interceptor squadron of F-101s at Suffolk County AFB, N.Y.

Following a year in the National War College, Colonel Robertson moved to the war plans division last year.

He holds many decorations, including the Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross, Air Medal with eight clusters and Commendation Medal with two clusters.

Colonel Robertson holds a master of science degree from George Washington University.

COL. ROBERTSON

During April 1946, the Army Air Forces Training Command (now ATC) recorded its first fatality-free month in flying training.

Specialists Attend PRIME Workshops, Ready For Start

HQ. ATC (ATCPS) — Selected supervisory specialists from three major commands were given three days of intensive training May 23-25 by Air Training Command's deputy chief of staff/Comptroller and deputy chief of staff/Materiel in the Secretary of Defense-directed PRIME-68 (primary management efforts) systems to be installed in the Air Force July 1.

The training was provided in a series of workshops conducted for Accounting and Finance, Budget and Supply personnel of ATC, U.S. Air Force Security Service and Air University. Also attending were representatives of the USAF Auditor General, USAF Military Personnel Center and the Department of Comptroller Training at Sheppard AFB, Tex.

PRIME-68 is the first major step in implementing the Department of Defense resources management systems Air Force wide.

Significant changes PRIME-68 will bring about July 1 include:

- (1) Installation of operating budgets which will require ATC to budget for total cost, including military pay.
- (2) Revision of the expense accounting system to compare actual cost to targets.

(3) Installation of two new divisions of the Air Force stock fund for general support and medical-dental supplies, and the inclusion of additional items in the existing fuels division of the stock fund.

Supervisory personnel attending the workshops reviewed in detail the procedures to be employed in each of the changes. Additionally, packages of training material were provided for use in training programs to be conducted by each organization.

Larson Offering Family Housing

LARSON AFB, Wash. (AFNS) — This former Air Force base is the latest Department of Defense installation to offer Government quarters as temporary residences for servicemen's families while their sponsors are completing unaccompanied overseas assignments.

Larson has 530 Capehart single and duplex family housing units. These include 130 four-bedroom and 400 three-bedroom units with rentals equal to the basic quarters allowance.

Like Stead AFB, Nev. and Lincoln AFB, Neb., Larson is being managed by a civilian group, although still the property of the Air Force.

Air Force Awards 1,559 ROTC Grants

MAXWELL AFB, Ala. (AFNS) — The Air Force has awarded 1,559 new financial assistance grants to junior and senior Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps cadets. The grants, awarded to 1,400 third-year and 159 fourth-year cadets, will be effective with the beginning of the fall term, provided selectees remain qualified.

Each grant covers the cost of full tuition, laboratory expenses, incidental fees, and an allowance for textbooks. In addition, recipients receive $50 per month during the tenure of the grant.

AFSC Forms Space, Missile Division

ANDREWS AFB, Md. (AFNS) Air Force Systems Command's Ballistic System Division at Norton AFB, Calif., and the Space System Division at Los Angeles AFS, will be realigned July 1 to form a new Space and Missile Systems Organization (SAMSO) with headquarters at Los Angeles AFS.

AFSC Commander Gen. James Ferguson said the new organization will combine, at one location, functional staff and technical support elements which contribute to the missile and space programs of the Air Force.

Teen Club Planning Semi-Formal Dance

The Reese Teen Club, composed of boys and girls 13 to 18 years old, is having a semi-formal out-of-school dance from 8 to 11 p.m. Saturday in the Youth Center. Boys will wear coat and tie, girls after five dresses. The Chaparrals will play.

Rattlers Tie For Third In Tourney; Open Industrial League Competition

In the rain plagued Lubbock Pre-Season Tournament the Reese Rattlers tied with First Methodist for third place. The Lubbock Hubbers and Holt's Raiders tied for first as rain cancelled the championship game.

Reese opened the tournament with a sound 9-1 victory over Lubbock Electric as Chuck Reed fashioned a neat two-hitter. The Rattlers tallied one run in the first on a single by Charles Westpoint, a fielder's choice and a single by John Kreideweis.

They added three more runs in the third on a single by Westpoint, and back-to-back doubles by Ken Hyde and Kreideweis. Reed was never challenged although he lost his shutout in the seventh on a walk and two fielders' choices. Kreideweis had a perfect night at the plate going three for three and Westpoint had two hits to spark the 10-hit Reese attack.

In the semi-final game Holt's Raiders revenged an earlier defeat by whipping the Rattlers, 4-0.

Pat Abbott was the whole story as he pitched a three-hitter while striking out 13 Rattlers. He walked one. The Raiders scored all four of their runs in the third inning off of starting and losing pitcher Ken Hyde. The big blow a two-run triple by Raider first-baseman Don Champion.

The Rattlers opened their Industrial League season this week and play Abernathy tonight at 9:15 p.m. in Mackenzie Park. Reese plays the Lubbock Colts Tuesday night at 7 p.m. also at Mackenzie Park.

LOWRY TO HOST
WASHINGTON (AFNS)—The Air Force tennis championships will be hosted by Air Training Command at Lowry AFB, Colo., July 23-27. Individual and team champions will be determined. Air Defense Command is defending team champion.

Slow down at night. Don't overdrive your headlights.

Clopton-Johnson Team Shoots Low

The team of A2C L. D. Clopton and 1st Lt. Mike Johnson won the Memorial Day partnership golf tournament on the Reese course, shooting a low net of 140. Thirty teams were entered in the one-day tournament.

Tied for second place at 143 were TSgt. John Smith and 2nd Lt. Robert Jahnke and 1st Lt.

Hugh Williamson and 2nd Lt. Russell Rinklin. Three teams shot 144.

The next Reese tournament is scheduled for July 6-9. It will be an invitational affair.

Family Service Spotlights —

SHIRLEY BARKER

Family Services wishes to give a farewell salute to Shirley Barker, who has been a volunteer worker at the Family Service Center for over a year. Shirley and her family are departing Reese this week for Incirlik, Turkey, where her husband, Ed, will be assigned to the Personnel Division.

While at Reese, Shirley kept busy as business manager of the OWC Breeze and was a part-time student at Texas Tech. Also as a Family Services volunteer, she found ample time to serve as assistant chairman of the welcoming committee and refreshment chairman for the April Dependent Orientation Program.

POOLS OPEN

Both Reese swimming pools are open from noon until 8 p.m. daily, seven days a week, until further notice, 2nd Lt. Thomas F. Vincent, personnel services officer, stressed this week. All personnel, he said, are invited to swim regularly.

Why gamble your life to save a few minutes? Slow down and live a lot longer.

Lackland Captures Own Golf Tourney

The Lackland AFB golf team captured the Lackland Invitational golf tournament last week without difficulty. Airman Jack Neville of Kelly AFB took first place, but Lackland players were in the second and third spots and the team compiled a score which won.

Reese started out strong and was tied for third at the end of the opening day, but illness of Bob Jahnke caused him to withdraw and the team seemed to slip thereafter. L. D. Clopton shot a 75 and 76 to lead Reeseites.

F-111A Flies Ocean To Paris Show

PARIS (AFNS) — An Air Force General Dynamics F-111A swing-wing jet fighter landed at LeBourget Airport recently, five hours and 54 minutes after leaving Loring AFB, Maine.

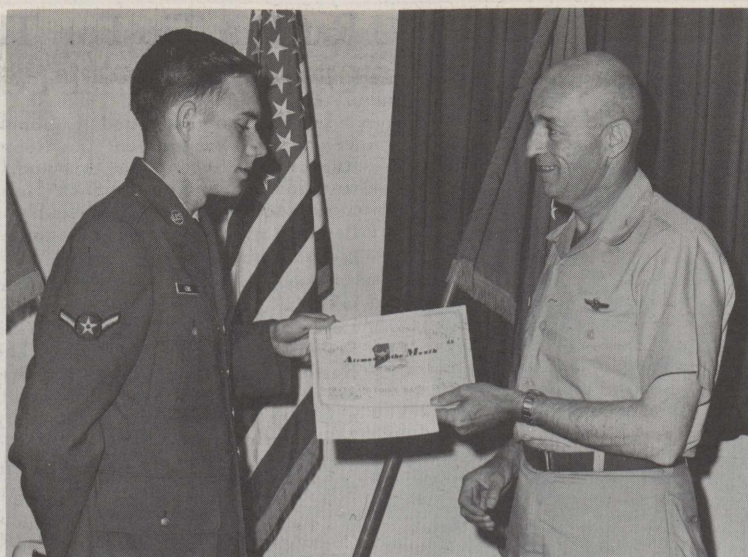

The F-111 participated in the 27th Paris International Air and Space Salon which ended Sunday. It was on display and participated in aerial demonstrations.

The F-111 made the trans-Atlantic hop during the 40th anniversary month of the 1927 New York-to-Paris flight made by Charles A. Lindbergh in the Spirit of St. Louis. A replica of the Spirit of St. Louis is on display at LeBourget.

Col. Ray O. Roberts, deputy director for Test And Deployment in the F-111 System Program Office at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, led two aircraft on the 3,000-mile flight in a dramatic demonstration of the unrefueled long-range capability of the new fighters. In the cockpit with him was Maj. Thomas Wheeler, Air Force plant representative at General Dynamics, Fort Worth, Tex.

The second F-111, flown by Majors Robert K. Parsons and John D. Phillips, assigned to the F-111 program at Edwards AFB, Calif., landed at Wethersfield AB, England, where the aircraft was used in operations briefings. Similar briefings also are planned at Ramstein AB, Germany.

The F-111 return flights will be made in short stages, with overnight stops at Lajes Field, Azores, and Kindley AFB, Bermuda, before landing at Fort Worth.

TOP AIRMAN—A3C Ronald Lewis is awarded a certificate designating him as Airman of the Month for June at Reese. Col. Ernest T. Cragg, wing commander, makes the presentation.

Vietnam Battle Report

Eight more MIGs were downed over North Vietnam by Air Force pilots during the week ending May 26.

The added MIG kills put the Air Force total for May at 21.

The war total is 56.

The week's total of kills was executed by McDonnell F-4C pilots flying protective cover for Republic F-105 Thunderchief fighter bombers.

America's leading MIG-killer of the Vietnam war, Col. Robin Olds, 44, of Washington, D.C., increased his score to four confirmed kills during dog fights on May 20 when he shot down two of six enemy jets downed that day.

Other crews from Colonel Olds' 8th Tactical Fighter Wing accounted for two of the enemy jets in an area 40 miles northeast of Hanoi.

To complete the May 20 total, Phantom crews from the 366th Tactical Fighter Wing were credited with destroying two MIG-21s, 66 miles north-northeast of Hanoi.

During the week Air Force pilots flew 326 missions over the North. Roads were cut in 87 locations, six bridges were blown up and eight damaged. Thirty-three AAA sites were silenced and 15 damaged; 18 barges were destroyed and 18 damaged; a total of 103 secondary explosions were set off; 87 secondary fires were ignited; 32 military structures were destroyed and 28 damaged; 55 rail cuts were inflicted; 46 boxcars were blown up and 119 others damaged.

Five Air Force planes were downed during the week.

In South Vietnam, Seventh Air Force fighter-bomber crews struck enemy base camps, logistic points, troop concentrations, infiltration routes and numerous other targets with 1,910 tactical strikes sorties during the week.

Boeing B-52 Stratofortress crews flew seven of 22 bombing raids in support of allied forces engaged in operation Francis Marion in Pleiku and Kontum Provinces. Other raids were staged against enemy targets in Thua Thien Province.
