NUMBER 38

BASE PASSES GOAL 12TH

has exceeded the goal set by U.S. Air Force Headquarters for participation in the Air Force Suggestion Program.

For 1967, the base has been advised, Reese exceeded the participation rate in the first full fiscal year of the new joint military-civilian suggestion program. The goal was 30 per cent participation per base; Reese hit 30.24 per cent. In preous years the civilian program alone nit more than 30 per cent to earn a certificate of achievement.

The program was started in 1956. Reese won that year and every year

Reese also is recognized again for an adoption rate of 20 per cent or higher in Air Training Command. The command had an adoption rate of 16.72. The command participation rate was 28.96.

Also winning USAF awards in ATC were Sheppard, Mather, command headquarters, Keesler, Amarillo, Craig, Webb and Lackland AFBs and ATC Headquarters. Praised for high adoption rate also was Mather, Lowry, Laughlin, Vance and Williams AFBs.

'The nearness of several other bases in meeting the goal shows that the 30 per cent participation figure is not unattainable," said William A. Owen, command director of Civilian Personnel. "It simply points out that greater effort must be put forth by our people at all

Quality Sought

Mr. Owen also expressed concern over the wide variance between command participation and adoption rates. "While we put the emphasis on participation this past year," he noted, "now is the time for each installation to review its program on the basis of quality.

"It doesn't matter if an installation has 50 per cent participation if only 10 per cent of the suggestions are actually being put into use. The base with only 20 per cent participation but 18 per cent of its suggestions adopted has a far better program," declared Mr. Owen.

Saving Asked

"We should not lose sight of the fact that the primary purpose of the suggestion program," he continued, "is to effect savings to the Government, either tangible or intangible. If each of us were to take the time to fully develop an idea before submitting it, I'm sure the command would greatly exceed the estimated $2,637,315 in estimated first year savings reported for FY 1967.

Continuing emphasis on the responsibilities of management in support of the suggestion program will be stressed command, Mr. Owen said, noting that the success of the suggestion program, as reflected in savings to the Government, should be everyone's

First Lt. Carl E. Franklin of Flight E-2 has been named Instructor Pilot of the Month for August in the 3500th Pilot Training Squadron at Reese through sustained high performance as an instructor and production in extra duty.

'Lieutenant Franklin has demonstrated sustained outstanding performance as an instructor pilot," said Lt. Col. Albert S. Martin, his squadron commander. "He is eager to excel in his work and very willingly devotes long hours to his students to give them full advantage of his superior job knowledge. His outstanding knowledge of the aircraft, normal and emergency procedures, and instructional techniques combined with an almost boundless supply of energy provide a highly stimulating challenge to fellow instructors as well as graduate Pilot Training program. students."

Mathis Takes Top Scrapbook Contest Prize

Mathis Service Club has been selected winner of Air Training Command's 1967 Service Club Program Contest and will receive $1,000 for its achievement.

The ATC Personnel Services Achievement Award for winning the service club competition was presented at wing staff meeting this week. Accepting from Col. Clyde J. Morganti, wing commander, was 2nd Lt. Thomas E. Vincent, Reese Personnel Services Officer.

The letter accompanying the award and praising Reese was signed by Col. Clyde W. Bradley Jr., ATC Personnel Services officer, who in the early 1950s was commander of the Student Squaddron at Reese. At that time he was a captain and major.

Command service clubs submitted scrapbooks containing clippings of highlights of their activities during the Fiscal Year 1967. The scrapbooks were evaluated by a panel of professional recreation experts.

Miss Eleanor Carr, club director, said that "the award was won because of increased activities and attendance at the club. The prize money will be used for club equipment and supplies."

Second-place was awarded to Arnold Hall Service Club at Keesler AFB, Miss., which will receive a $600 prize while third-place and $300 will go to the club at Moody AFB, Ga.

Honorable mentions (first and second) went to the clubs at Randolph AFB, Texas, and Keesler (Vandenberg Hall) along with $100 which will accompany each award.

All military members and dependents who are entitled to commissary priviledges are aware of the convenience and savings afforded them through this facility.

At Reese Air Force Base we have young families who may be using this facility for the first time. The commissary officer has prepared an excellent shopping guide that is helpful and informative. If you are a new patron of the commissary it is to your advantage to avail yourself of this information, which Girls in the second and third grades are can be obtained at the store managers office and at the family services center.

Do you know why you pay a surcharge on your total bill, or to what use this surcharge is put? Why you must show your ID card at all times, whether in uniform or not? How you can

Football Adds Hazards

School Days are here again and the familiar yellow school buses are back on streets and highways, Reese safety officials warn local drivers.

Rules for driving near school buses require drivers to stop vehicles before passing buses loading or unloading children. Vehicles started moving again must proceed at 10 miles per hour or less in passing a bus.

School days also bring other hazards-especially at night as crowds move to football games. The South Plains is a football hotbed, it is pointed out, and thousands of cars are on the move weekends, carrying fans to games between high schools and junior highs, as well as colleges. Rivalry between teams near Lubbock is intense in all conferences and traffic dangers grow as the fans follow their teams.

In Lubbock, Texas Tech football adds to the high school traffic as college grid games are held in the stadium.

"Reese is on the way to the stadium for hundreds of autos," cautions Joe Lopez, ground safety director. "Caution is needed more than ever. Let's not have any Reese persons injured in traffic because of football."

That seems like sound advice.

"Our bet with history has been that Southeast Asia does matter, that the independence of South Vietnam crucially affects Southeast Asia, and that non-Communist nationalism in Southeast Asia and in Vietnam has in it the seeds of a peaceful, progressive and stable area that can take its place in a world at peace." -William P. Bundy, assistant Secretary of State.

"Southeast Asia surely matters more than ever. A region which may have held as few as 30 million inhabitants in 1800-and which is carried under the heading of 'peripheral areas' in some textbooks on East Asia-now holds more than 250 million people, more than Latin America and almost as much as the population of Western Europe. The resources of this area are large, and its people-while not yet capable of the kind of dramatic progress we have seen in the northern parts of Asia-have great talent, intelligence and industry. Its geographical location-while it should not be in the path of great power collisions—is crucial for trade routes and in other respects."—William P. Bundy, assistant Secretary of State.

"From the standpoint of our own security, and the kind of world in which we wish to live, I believe we must continue to be deeply concerned to do what we can to keep Southeast Asia from falling under external domination and aggression that would contribute to domination."—William P. Bundy, assistant Secretary of Labor Day weekend and summer accident fatalities in the Air Force dropped materially from 1966, the Directorate of Aerospace Safety has announced.

Five deaths were reported over Labor ay, four from water sports and one by sphyxiation. This compared with seven private vehicle deaths, one drowning and a private aircraft fatality during the 1966 Labor Day period. Air Training Command contributed a drowning to the 1967 Labor Day figures.

For the 101 Critical Days period, extending from Memorial Day through Labor Day, the Directorate of Aerospace Safety reported 152 Air Force ground accident fatalities, a total eight per cent lower than for the same period of 1966.

Air Training Command experienced
16 fatalities during 101 Critical Days, a
15 per cent drop from 1966.
"The reduction in fatalities during the campaign period is most commendable and congratulations are extended to all commanders and personnel who made this significant achievement possible," said Lt. Gen. Sam Maddux Jr., ATC commander.

In addition, they have announced the existence of an information technician vacancy. The team is seeking a 72170 (staff or technical sergeant) who will be eligible for a Feb. 1, 1968 reporting date.

The airman selected will serve a 24month stabilized tour of duty with a 12-month extension option. The selection will be based upon the experience and qualifications of the volunteers to meet squadron needs.

Application procedures are outlined in Chapter 3, AFM 39-11.

Much TDY

Interested airmen should submit an Air Force Form 109 (Application for Special Assignment) stating their reasons for desiring duty with the Thunderbirds. Futhermore, he, and his wife (if applicable) should indicate an understanding that duty with the team involves extensive temporary duty and that dependents have no problems that would preclude such travel. 'Also to be included are thermo-fax copies of the last three per-formance reports, one copy of Air Force Form 7, and an 8 x 10-inch black and white photograph of the individual, shown full length and dressed in allseason blue uniform with cap.

Forward the original application to the Commander, USAF Air Demonstration Squadron, "Thunderbirds," Nellis AFB, Nev., 89110. An information copy of the application should be sent to Headquarters ATC (ATPAP-A-A), Randolph AFB, Tex., 78148.

Airmen Third Given 'Break' In Promotion

The Reese Personnel division Nov. 1 expects to start promoting airmen third who became eligible during October and thereafter the first of each month to promote to airman second class all those who became eligible during the previous month.

Air Force Headquarters advised major commands of the new promotion policy last week, giving promotion authority to wing commanders.

A spokesman explained the new policy seeks to stabilize the point in service at which the majority of enlisted men are promoted to airman second class. The move also is expected to afford increased opportunity for these men to advance to grades airman first class and, in some cases, to staff sergeant during their initial enlistments.

Minimum requirements for promotion consideration to airman second class are: possess a three-skill specialty code level or a satisfactory formal school record; five months service in present grade; and recommendation by unit com-

The action is expected to have a favorable effect on first-term reenlistments. At the same time it will simplify administrative procedures for promotions to airman second class since promotion boards are eliminated.

In other enlisted promotion developments, officials released the Oct. 1 promotion quotas for grades staff sergeant through chief master sergeant and the selection objectives for grades staff, tech and master sergeants for December through May.

The October selections will be effected from the consolidated lists announced in June. Chief master sergeants will increase by 131 and there will be 327 new senior master sergeants.

Secretary Recalls Success, Looks To Air Force Future

WASHINGTON (AFNS) - Harold Brown, Air Force secretary, recalls successes in commemorating the Air Force's 20th anniversary, which fell Monday. In a message to all Air Force people he said, "On the occasion of the 20th anniversary of the United States Air Force it is, of course, fitting for us to recall our successes. There have been many such successes-in deterring nuclear war, in combat and operations, in pushing back the frontiers of science and tech-

"But we must do more. We must relate to accomplishments and lessons of the past to the needs of the future. Each member of the Air Force has an obligation to look at his profession, to examine its roots and its future.

"The fine performance of the Air Force, and of individuals and units, is a matter of record. We must know that record and the circumstances in which it developed. But we can never afford to become engrossed in the past. We must stay alive to the changing world environment and the national objectives which airpower must support.

"At the present time we are deeply engaged in a new sort of conflict. We are faced with a struggle containing both military and political components. In this conflict, the enemy both exploits the civilian population and uses it as a shield in combat.

"The Air Force has learned how to meet this threat and how to adjust operational methods to changing require-

"It is through looking to the pas for traditions of human accomplishments and professionalism, looking to the past and present for better ways of accomplishing our mission, and looking with imagination to probable future challenges that the Air Force-the youngest service-can provide dynamic leadership in assuring our national security."

Just a car. One that gets about 27 mpg, averages 40,000 miles on a set of tires, and hardly uses oil between changes.

Of course, the fact that it's practical is no secret. And everybody is going to know that you're saving money. But that's the price you pay for Volkswagen.
