I. G. Inspection 'Order Of Day' In Late August

"Inspection," will be the order of the day here when a team from the Inspector General's office, Headquarters Air Training Command, conducts an annual general inspection of the base from Aug. 25 to 30.

ATC's annual inspection provides an overall evaluation of the effectiveness and efficiency of the installation's management systems. Basic reason for the inspection is to assist all elements in the development of the most efficient training possible.

The command inspection system is designed to determine the efficiency of command operations, and to place proper emphasis on those matters most vitally affecting the performance of assigned missions.

To Aid Commanders

Lt. Gen. Sam Maddux Jr., ATC commander, has emphasized that the Inspector General's mission is to assist commanders in determining the status of their commands. General Maddux stressed that the reported findings of the inspection team enable commanders to take prompt action to eliminate existing problems which detract from the performance of the installation's mission. He said these findings must be fully utilized in taking corrective actions.

Daedalian Award

Young Officer Honored

Reese AFB's nominee for the Daedalian Foundation Award is 2nd Lt. Douglas L. Batchelder.

The award is presented to the most outstanding student in the class throughout the command.

Lieutenant Batchelder's final grades were 96.57 in academics and 94.79 in flying training.

A graduate of Oregon State University, the lieutenant majored in civil engineering. While attending college he was active in the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) program and was recipient of the Chicago Tribune Award, as outstanding ROTC cadet at Oregon State.

Born in Miami, the lieutenant developed an interest in aviation at an early age when he accompanied his father, a commercial pilot, as he ferried an aircraft to the Republic of Panama.

Later, while attending school in San Jose, Calif., he pursued his interest by obtaining his private pilot's license during his senior year.

Other honors Lieutenant Batchelder received while attending college include the Society of American Engineers Award and the Sons of the American Revolution Award.

While undergoing pilot training he has been a starting player on the squadron football team. He also developed new procedures that led to greater service with less effort, while serving voluntarily as snack bar officer.

In his letter nominating Lieutenant Batchelder for the Daedalian honor, Col. Clyde J. Morganti, 3500 Pilot Training Wing commander noted, "He (Lieutenant Batchelder) is a highly dedicated and responsible person who has earned the right to compete for this award."

Labor-Management Negotiations Result In New Union Contract

The American Federation of Government Employees Lodge 1810 has been approved through the third successive contract to represent all eligible civilian employees at Reese in labor matters.

The contract was agreed upon following a lengthy session between lodge and Reese officials. Representing the base in the negotiations was Lt. Col. Clifton E. Wiswall, wing comptroller, assisted by Maj. Anthony F. Farina, staff judge advocate; Hthomas O. Harrell, Robert F. Evans and Tom F. Ireland Jr., chief, Civilian Personnel.

Representing Lodge 1810 was George Brock, lodge president; Floyd Rich, first vice president; Frank Youngblood, vice president; Dorothy Phillips, representative; and Zeldah Harris, secretary.

COMMANDER'S COMMENTS...

Safety Is Important To Everybody

In the one year I have been the wing commander there have been numerous occasions for being very pleased in our performance in certain area, but occasionally disappointed in others. Fortunately, the former outnumber the latter. However, as I assess our progress over the last year, it seems to me that one of our most important goals this year must be to improve our safety program.

Safety—both flying and ground—is of paramount importance to all of us. It is something that cannot be taken for granted nor left to chance. It requires our constant attention and interest. It is a command function, inherent in the basic responsibility of all commanders. But it goes beyond that, too. Individual responsibility is the basis for safety. This individual responsibility can be easily met if a safety attitude is instilled in everyone and practiced by all. We can direct, beseech, educate, preach and threaten in our safety program, but none of these are as effective as the individual desire to practice safety.

I do not place flying safety over ground safety in importance, or vice versa. Saving lives, or reducing injuries, is not assessed priority by area. We are equally concerned in all areas. It is interesting to note, I think, that we have had more ground than flying fatalities the past year, even though we have over 1,000 aircraft movements daily and flying operations are often considered as having the greatest potential for accidents. Our goal in both is zero, of course.

I will continue to press unit commanders for imaginative and aggressive safety programs and will judge their performance partially on their achievements in safety. They do need help from everyone, however, as unit safety records are merely a reflection of safety attitudes of individuals. I enjoin all of you, commanders and individuals, to think and practice safety. There is nothing in our mission at Reese that transcends safety. In fact, how well we do our mission depends directly on how safe we are.

On The Line

Faith Lifts A Burdened Life

By Chaplain (Capt.)
Larry D. Mosley

I guess all of us get burdened down with problems and trouble. You'd probably be surprised to know how many people around you every day are staggering beneath some load of care or guilt, virtually on the verge of despair.

But it is amazing how God can lift us up when we trust in Him and put our faith in His will.

The Rev. C. Oscar Johnson, in a sermon in "The Pulpit" told this story: "I remember years ago when, as a boy in the hills of east Tennessee, it was my job to keep the wood-box filled. Sometimes, when night would come, the box would still be empty. Well do I remember one Saturday night when the Sunday's wood had not been brought in; it was necessary to fill the box before we could have supper.

Father cut the sticks to the right length and I was carrying them in. I tried to carry in too much on the last load so as not to have make another trip. You remember how we did that—all we could carry and then some. The last stick was placed under my chin with great difficulty and I had risen and was walking toward the house, groaning and

Capsule Law

(An AFNS Feature)

Judge Advocate General Area Representatives (JAGARs) are Air Force JAG Reserve officers who have volunteered to provide legal assistance to active-duty and retired personnel and their dependents. In return they receive credit for retirement and promotion.

There are more than 250 JAGARs located throughout the United States. Not only do they render legal assistance to individuals, but they are also on call to aid reserve units and base staff judge advocates.

Like their active-duty counterparts, JAGARs cannot represent their clients in court. However, they can provide free office advice on such matters as allotments, income tax, casualty claims insurance, voting, motor vehicle laws and marriage and divorce problems.

Every Air Force base legal office has a roster of JAGARs. Military personnel or their dependents who need legal assistance away from a military installation may contact the nearest base staff judge advocate for the name of the nearest JAGAR.

Why Bother Voting? Defending Freedom Is Your Birthright

(A MACNS Editorial)

"Exercise your rights. Get out and vote." You've heard it a million times. But why bother? What's the point—unless you are going to become familiar enough with issues and candidates beforehand to make an intelligent choice?

To vote for the sake of voting—without taking the trouble to build a good foundation for your decision—could be worse than not voting at all. That's not exercising your right, it's abusing it.

If you participate in elections, make every effort to become familiar with candidates' records, promises, backgrounds and achievements. This way you will be able to cast your vote in the most intelligent manner.

Air Force Aid Society

Contribute To Our Own

Personnel at Reese AFB are being asked this month to contribute to the Air Force Aid Society—the Air Force's own version of the United Fund. Therefore, it is only natural that they should want to know the unvarnished facts of this organization.

The Air Force Aid Society (AFAS) is the official emergency relief organization of the Air Force. It was incorporated in the District of Columbia in March 1942 with the mission of helping to maintain the assistance in the form of non-interest-bearing loans and grants, and financial aid for higher education for Air Force dependents.

AFAS supplements the emergency assistance available through the American Red Cross and other welfare and assistance agencies, when such help is not within their policy.

The National Headquarters for AFAS is located in Washington, D.C. Under the Board of Trustees, and through the director of the National Headquarters, National Headquarters is generally responsible for all funds, including fund-raising and the overall operation of the society. The National Headquarters also administers the Henry H. Arnold Educational Fund and assistance to widows for vocational training.

The military headquarters of AFAS is located within the Directorate of Personnel Services, USAF Military Personnel Center, Randolph AFB, Tex. The military headquarters is responsible for administration, management and Air Staff direction of AFAS activities within the Air Force in accordance with policies and procedures of the Society.

Principal Air Force installations throughout the Air Force have designated AFAS officers to give emergency financial assistance to Air Force personnel and their dependents.

All funds for AFAS are in either the General Fund or the Educational Fund, which is reserved exclusively for assistance in financing the higher education of eligible children of Air Force personnel.

The General Fund contains money set aside to provide relief from "a condition requiring immediate attention; a condition that arises suddenly which is urgent." Some examples of these emergencies include non-receipt of pay, allotment or family allowances; emergency medical, dental and hospital expenses; payment of rent to prevent eviction; purchase of emergency food supplies; assistance to dependents upon the death of a sponsor; and many others.

No government funds are received or used by AFAS for assistance purposes. Voluntary contributions by Air Force personnel comprise the main source of funds. Additional funds are derived from special fund-raising activities such as through the Officers and NCO Wives Clubs, contributions from civilian firms; interest on investments and royalties from certain books and songs, and gifts and proceeds from special shows and athletic events.

But the big assistance comes from the personnel themselves. A point to remember during the remainder of this drive,

Labor Day

(An AFPS Editorial)

For the past 74 years, Americans have been celebrating Labor Day, honoring the working man.

Like so many of our other holiday observances, Labor Day's true meaning has become obscured. Where once there were parades of people marching down the main streets of cities and towns in honor of the working man, about the only parade you can now see on Labor Day is the parade of cars jamming the highways, taking families to the lakes, beaches and mountains for their last summer-weekend fling.

Labor Day has become just another day to get away from work. This is unfortunate when you stop to consider the tens of millions of working men and women who have played a major role in making this nation the richest and most productive country in the world.

The past, present and future strength of this country lies with the multitudes of working people who, by the sweat of their brows and skill of their hands, produce the commodities and services essential to the growth and development of the country.

Asking no more than an honest day's pay for an honest day's work, the American worker has met the challenges of wars, depressions, the atomic age and space age.

We in the military have a special debt to him. In times of war and national emergency he has joined us in meeting the threats of aggression—either by laying aside his tools and joining our ranks or providing us with the essential supplies and equipment to accomplish our mission.

In time of peace—or near peace—he has met the challenges of progress, supplying us with the latest and best weapons and equipment to combat the threat of world domination.

The American working men and servicemen are partners in making this the richest, most progressive, safest and greatest nation in the world.

Base Exchange--Silent Benefactor

(An AFNS Editorial)

The library . . . service club . . . day room . . . golf course . . . swimming pool . . . the various athletic teams.

These and many other base activities have one thing in common. They are financed, wholly or in part, by money earned by the base exchange.

In the last 12 years, the Army and Air Force Exchange Service provided more than one half billion dollars for recreation activities in the two services.

Every time an airman buys a package of razor blades or a tube of toothpaste in his BX, a part of the sale price is returned to him through recreation activities.

Although Congress appropriates some money for military welfare, the largest share comes from non-appropriated fund activities like the base exchange.

Annual earnings requirements are built into the exchange system's pricing structures. At the beginning of each fiscal year, the board of directors of the Army and Air Force Exchange and Motion Picture Services approves the annual financial plan.

The price of BX merchandise includes the cost of goods, operating expenses, and earnings.

When the directors declare a welfare dividend, the money is turned over to the Air Force and Army, which distribute the funds on the basis of military strength.

Quote Of Note

"The Air Force Cost Reduction and Management Improvement Program is now and will continue to be an indispensable part of every command's job. The continuing extraordinary demands of our operations today make it important that we continue to find every possible means of improving our effectiveness in ways that will improve our mission capability." Cadets Wind Up Week Of Training At Reese

Seventeen Civil Air Patrol (CAP) cadets are winding up a busy eight-day visit to Reese AFB this weekend.

The cadets are here as part of the CAP summer encampment which this year deals with familiarization with the Undergraduate Pilot Training (UPT) program. Similar encampments are being held at Vance AFB, Okla., Williams AFB, Ariz., and Perrin AFB, Tex. Each base is accommodating about 20 cadets.

Two of the cadets are from New Mexico: Richard J. Elder, Albuquerque; and Warren D. Harkins, Hobbs. Two are from Oklahoma: James W. Sheppard, Oklahoma City; and Norman W. Crowe Jr., Tulsa.

The other cadets are Michael B. Courville, Lake Charles, La., Glenn Shewmaker, Kimberly, Idaho, Jay L. Smith, Bountiful, Utah, Larry E. Ash, Casper, Wyo., and Cruz V. Quinones, Rio Piedras, P.R.

The mission at Reese was to provide the cadets an understanding of the UPT program, with the purpose of motivating the cadets towards a career in the Air Force.

The cadets arrived Sunday and began training Monday. It started with a briefing on the mission and greetings by Col. Clyde J. Morganti, wing commander, and Col. Clyde M. Livingston, deputy commander for Operations.

Other highlights of the week's training included a helicopter fire demonstration (Monday); physiological training (Tuesday); chamber flight (Wednesday); T-37 and T-38 academics and a helicopter ride (yesterday) and T-37 and T-38 Flight Line, including links, and a maintenance tour (today). This evening at (5:30), the cadets will participate in retreat ceremonies in front of wing headquarters.

Tomorrow, the cadets are due to be a part of the graduation day parade being held for Class 69-01, and will attend the graduation ceremonies at 10:30 a.m. at the base theater.

The cadets are due to leave Reese Sunday following church services.

Lackland Places Four On ATC Golf Team

Host Lackland AFB placed three men and a woman on the ATC golf team that will represent Air Training Comand in the Air Force-wide Golf Tournaent later this month, also at Lackland.

Reese AFB failed to place a man on the team, with a member of last year's ATC team, L. D. Clopton of Reese failing to make the team by a single stroke.

The team will be made up of medalist John Kuryznowski, Lackland, 296; Lloyd Watts, Chanute AFB, Ill., 298; Jeff Parry, Randolph AFB, Tex., 298; Mal Kirven, Lackland, 301; and Tom Schenke, Mather AFB, Calif., 303. Three were named to the Seniors Division: Walt Davison, Randolph, 303; Paul Spivey, Lackland, 319; and George Vogel, Williams AFB, Ariz., 320. Two women are on the team, Kay Huber, Sheppard AFB, Tex., 278; and Betty McAtte, Lackland, 287.

Reese was represented by Clopton, James V. Newendorp, Troy Gann, Charles Gaylord and James McIntyre. Also two senior division players, James Fraser and Marty Harbison.

The Reese team members suffered from a high humidity and temperatures, plus a super-tough golf course. Clopton, who many considered as the base's best hope for a place on the team, said he couldn't get his putting going.

The ATC team will rest up until Sunday at which time the Air Force-Wide tournament will get under way, running through Thursday. Survivors of that tournament will represent the Air Force in the Interservice Golf Tournament Aug. 26-30 at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Temporary Officer Shift For Aero Club

A temporary shift of officers has been announced by officials of the Reese Aero Club.

Accepting office as acting president of the club will be Robert L. Cannon, current vice president of the organization. The change of officers is a result of TDY orders for current president Stephen Dean.

Club officials also announced that Ralph Walters, a retired Air Force officer, has been hired as full-time instructor and manager of the Aero Club.

Taking over bookkeeping duties will be Lynn E. Stallings.

Next meeting of the club is Aug. 26 at 7:30 p.m. in building T-1168, located across the street from the Officers' Open Mess.

Three Airmen In Chess Win At ATC Meet

The ATC Chess Tournament was played off last weekend at Lackland AFB, Tex., with Lackland, Keesler AFB, Miss., and Chanute AFB, Ill., each landing representatives on the ATC team.

First place in individual high honors went to SSgt. Ross Sprague of Chanute while A1C Thomas H. Arnold of Lackland took second place and TSgt. Clarence Love of Keesler third. The three will represent ATC in the World-wide Championship, also to be held at Lackland, Sunday through Thursday.

Representing Reese AFB in the ATC meet were SSgt. Richard A. Tuberville and Sgt. Steven A. Bodie, both synthetic trainer specialists in the 3501st Student Squadron.

Stan The Man

Softball Pitcher Named As Athlete Of Quarter

The Reese AFB Athletic Council has named TSgt. Stan L. McKenzie, an analysis technician for the chief of Field Maintenance Squadron, as the base's Athlete of the Quarter for the second quarter of 1968.

The award is given to the athlete who contributes most in the given quarter towards the furtherance of base teams.

McKenzie was the pitcher for the Reese Rattlers, the base softball team, which garnered second place wins in the Lubbock City Parks and Recreation sponsored city softball league, the ensuing play-off in city league play, and in the highly regarded Lamesa Invitational Softball Tournament played in Lamesa, Tex., last month. Throughout the year, he pitched in all but two of the Rattlers' games winning 40 games and losing 13. Those wins included more than 10 shutouts and two no-hitters, one of them a perfect game.

His value to a team was dramatically illustrated during the base Intramural softball play-offs (July 19 - Aug. 1). McKenzie was released by the Rattlers, coached by Ray Vickers of the base gym, following the team's final city league play-off game on July 27. McKenzie joined his own squadron team, Field Maintenance, which had finished in fourth place in regular season play behind the 3501st Pilot Training Squadron, Hospital and the 3500th Pilot Training Squadron.

But with the addition of McKenzie, Field Maintenance swept through the play-offs, with McKenzie yielding but one run in three games to sweep the play-offs and take the base title.

The 31-year-old sergeant has been pitching softball for 16 years. He has appeared in Air Force wide softball tournaments twice (1964-65) with Air Force Systems Command teams, and has a host of enviable records with civilian teams. He pitched the Sacramento Merchants into the Northwest Championship at Medford, Ore., in 1957, and before that his hometown team of Shebyville, Ill., to the State Softball Championship finals in 1953. He pitched for North American Aviation Company for three years (1963-'64-'65) and won District Championship honors all three years.

Number 6 Hole Tough Par 4 But Plays Easier Second Time

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth in a series of articles by Ken McGuire, Reese golf pro, on how to play each of the holes on the Reese course.)

By KEN MCGUIRE
Reese Golf Pro

Hole No. 6, 390 yard, par 4 and Hole No. 15, 460 yard, par 5

Here again we have one green serving two tees, but unlike 5 and 14, 15 is only an extension of 6. We have a situation where number 6 is a fairly tough par 4, and number 15 is an easy par 5.

In both cases, you have the problems of avoiding the water on the right, the out of bounds on the left and to get the ball out far enough to give you a shot at the green, which bends sharply to the golfer's right.

The tee shot should be aimed to the left on the cedar bush on the right corner of the bend (150 yard from the green). If you are fortunate enough to get the hardpan and roll out into the fairway, you will have an iron shot into a broad, easy-to-putt green. If you miss this, then a wood will probably put you close enough for a five (a bogey on 6, a par on 15) or even a four if your chipping is working.

There are many pitfalls to avoid here. The lake on the right and the super tough rough on the right between the fairway and water. Also the out of bounds on the left, and one thing that very few even think of, the rough through the fairway, should you hit your tee shot too well, and too far to the left.

But the risk is worth the effort to go ahead and use the driver—or 2 wood. If the wind is to your back, or quartered to your left-rear, then use a 2 wood. The ball will go just as far, and possibly further. The added lift you get insures getting the ball up into the wind and will compensate for the normally more distance you would get from the driver. You might even try a 3 wood.

Annual Base Golf Tournament Gets Under Way Tomorrow

Play will open tomorrow on the Reese AFB golf course to determine the top golfers at Reese by flights for the year 1968.

The 72-hole medal play will be played tomorrow and Sunday, and Aug. 24-25 with entries limited to military members of the base only. Entry fee will be $1, payable at the time of entry. Entries will be taken through tomorrow.

Players will be placed in flights according to handicaps or qualifying rounds. Trophies will be awarded first-place winners in each flight, and entry fees will be put back into flights to make up merchandise prizes.

Also being held in conjunction with the annual tournament will be the putting contest, to be held on the putting green, and the hole-in-one contest, to be held on the driving range. Merchandise prizes will be awarded to winners in those two events.

General Olds 69-01 Speaker

Highlighting tomorrow's graduation ceremonies for Class 69-01, will be a graduation speech by Brig. Gen. Robin Olds, commandant of cadets, U.S. Air Force Academy.

General Olds, who gained fame on the West Point football field as an All-American tackle in 1942.

I. G....

ATC inspector general, said every assigned officer, airman and civilian contributes to the final results of the inspection . . . either positively or negatively. He emphasized that personal appearance, bearing, individual conduct and living conditions as well as job performance reflect on the total effectiveness of a base.

Major Function Rated

ATC's Inspector General pointed out that although only major functional or organizational areas are rated during the annual inspection, all elements within each area contribute to the overall rating, which may be "excellent," "satisfactory," "marginal" or "unsatisfactory," according to the findings of the team. He said individual activities, practices and procedures may be rated in the same manner by specific findings in the report.

Colonel Martin added: "Every member of the Inspector General's team fully understands that his job is that of assisting the command in its mission accomplishment through factual and impartial reporting. An inspection conducted by detached, impartial specialists represents the ideal circumstances for objective evaluation and enables responsible commanders to take prompt remedial action on problem areas that detract from their mission accomplishment."

To Present Findings

The inspection team will present its findings to the Center (or Wing if a flying base) Commander and his staff prior to leaving the base. Returning to ATC Headquarters, the team will brief General Maddux and his staff on its report, including corrective actions required at the base.

Unscheduled follow-up inspections will be made by the Inspector General as required to determine the status of corrective actions taken on reported deficiencies.

It's An ATC Fact . . .

The last pilot aviation cadet was graduated in Class 62-B at Webb AFB, Tex., on Oct. 25, 1961, ending aviation cadet pilot training, begun early in World War II.

will arrive at Reese at approximately 8:30 a.m. tomorrow, just prior to the graduation parade.

After graduation from the United States Military Academy and completion of pilot training in 1943, General Olds was assigned to the European Theater of combat, where he flew 107 combat missions and was credited with downing 13 enemy aircraft.

In October 1966, the general was assigned as commander of the 8th Tactical Fighter Wing, Ubon Royal Thai AFB, Thailand. While there he flew 152 combat missions, 105 of them over North Vietnam.

During his combat sorties he joined the elite group of MIG killers by downing four MIGs in aerial combat.

He was returned from Southeast Asia in December 1967 when he assumed his present position.
