

Roundup Deadline

The publishers of The Roundup require copy submitted for publication be in their hands at certain times throughout the week in order to spread out the workload.

Those contributors who submit regular columns should have these in by 3 p.m. Friday preceding the following Friday's issue. Routine items, such as announcements of meetings, etc., must be submitted by noon Monday. Spot news, and late-breaking stories, will be accepted through noon Tuesday.

Blue Angels Schedule Reese Show Sept. 26

The U. S. Navy's version of the Air Force's famed Thunderbirds, the Blue Angels, will stage a 40-minute aerial show at Reese AFB Sept. 26 with the general public invited to attend the free show. The Blue Angels are appearing under the sponsorship of Reese and in cooperation with the Panhandle-South Plains Fair opening Sept. 23.

The precision flying team will appear at the 7:30 p.m. performance of the Pat Boone Show in the Fair Park Coliseum Sept. 25. The team will present its aerial show at the base starting at 2 p.m. Shortly after the Reese show, the team will make a double fly-over of the Fair Park as a final salute to the exposition. It will coincide with Armed Forces Day being observed Sept. 26 at the Fair, and throughout the day members of the armed forces will be guests of the Fair by presentation of their identification cards.

NCOA To Meet Monday Night For Election Of New Chairman

The Reese AFB Chapter of the Noncommissioned Officers Association (NCOA) will meet Monday in regular session with the main order of business being the election of a new chairman to head the 250-man organization.

The chairmanship was vacated with the recent resignation of MSgt. Roy E. Jump, who resigned for reasons of health. Since his resignation, Sgt. Laurence Diehl, vice chairman, has been acting chairman. Sergeant Diehl has indicated that the election to fill Sergeant Jump's vacancy will be the main order of business when the association meets at 7:30 p.m. at the NCO Open Mess. Because of the election, a turnout in excess of 100 is expected.

In addition to the election, a program has been planned for those attending. Plans for the program were not firmed up by news time, but it is believed to be a debate on important issues facing the NCOA.

In addition, Fair officials are offering military and

FMS Sergeant Receives VRB Totaling $5,034

An aircraft electronic navigational equipment repairman has reenlisted at Reese AFB, earning himself more than $5,000 in variable reenlistment bonus (VRB).

Sgt. John H. Wallace, Field Maintenance Squadron, reenlisted Aug. 23 in the career counseling office with the oath of enlistment being administered by 2nd Lt. John H. Wallace, communications officer for FMS.

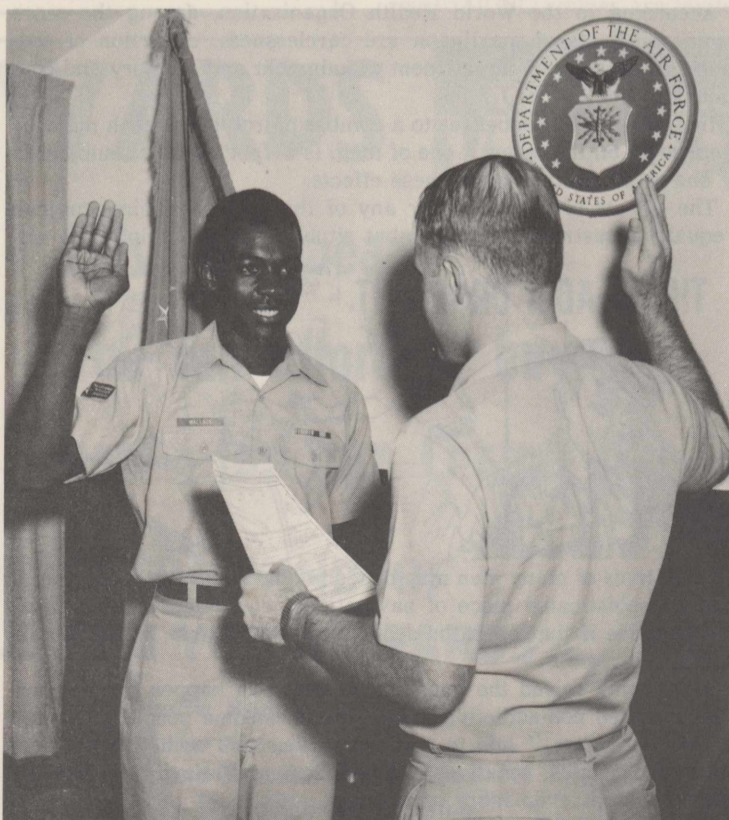

Sergeant Wallace's AFSC (30151) entitled him to a VRB of $5,034. He received about $2,000 of it upon reenlistment, and will receive about $1,000 annually over the next three years.

Also up for discussion will be the association's first social to be staged. This will be a dinner-dance at the NCO Open Mess on the evening of Sept. 27 featuring a dinner of prime rib at $4 per couple, and with the dinner speaker being W. D. Rogers Jr., mayor of the City of Lubbock. The subject of his speech has not as yet been disclosed.

All members and potential members have been invited to attend along with their wives.

civilian personnel at Reese a special discount for the Sept. 26 Pat Boone Show. Tickets for the show, in a choice location, which regularly sell for $3.50 will be offered to Reesites at a special $1 discount ($2.50) through Sept. 23 at Personnel Services on the base.

The Blue Angels are made up of eight pilots, a naval flight officer and 45 enlisted men. The pilots are regular Navy and Marine Corps pilots, all of whom are veterans of the Vietnam War. The team is beginning its 22nd year and has performed before more than 90 million spectators in countries throughout the world.

Reese 'Copters Aid In Rescue Of Vacationers

Helicopters from Reese AFB aided in the rescue of persons stranded in a flash flood Aug. 29 at Palo Duro Canyon State Park.

Two helicopters of Detachment 13 Western Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Center (MAC), based at Reese were dispatched to the park at the request of park officials who by telephone reported some 55 persons stranded at the park near Amarillo because of heavy rains Aug. 28-29.

Detachment commander Maj. John J. Ellif flew one of the craft. His crew was Sergeants Edward W. Mann and John A. Civic. Capt. Glenn T. Passey was the pilot of the other helicopter with crew members Sergeants Thomas C. Storey and Howard L. Mott. Also dispatched to the scene was a helicopter from Cannon AFB, N.M.

The Huskies were sent for in the wake of flash floods resulting from some nine inches of rain that fell in the area leaving motorists and vacationers stranded at camping sites at the park. Ground rescue attempts were thwarted when the rescuers encountered flood waters of nine feet and more at the entrance to the park. At this point, the helicopters were sent for.

The helicopters brought out 13 of the campers, including a seriously injured woman hurt in a fall. Forty-three others chose to remain in the park and drive out their automobiles.

The rescue effort drew wide praise from local authorities and news media.

Roundup Slates Birthday Issue

The U. S. Air Force officially comes of age Sept. 18.

It was on that day 21 years ago that the first secretary of the Air Force was sworn into office to officially become a separate branch of service as authorized by Congress only two months previous.

To commemorate the occasion, The Roundup will present a special issue next Friday and cordially invites those who have articles to contribute to the special issue to do so through the Information Division, building T-121, or phone ext. 578.

Vehicle Inspection To Begin Sunday

Those Reesites who like to get a jump on things will be able to have a field day next week.

The 1969 vehicle inspection period will begin Sunday and will run through April 15, 1969—the deadline for such inspections.

In the past, people have waited until the last minute to get their vehicles inspected and in the process have suffered inconveniences and even fines for having vehicles without the inspection sticker on State roads.

Those who like to get things done early will be able to have the required inspections stickers months in advance of the deadline.

Preventive Dentistry Needs Your Help

Col. Clyde J. Morganti
Wing Commander

By LT. COL. CHARLES A. ALLMAN JR.
Chief, Dental Services

Recently the writer was privileged to attend a course on methods of preventing diseases of the teeth and their supporting tissues. The remarkable thing about any dentist going to a professional course can be found in the root word "prevent". Too many dentists practicing today received a "fix it" education, practice "fix it" dentistry, attend "fix it" courses, and have "fix it" patients! After twenty-one years of "fix it" thinking, I left the course, and hope you leave this article, thinking "prevent it".

The course message I share with you is that all of us miss the mark thinking "fix it". Dental technology alone, fine as it is, has failed to eradicate dental disease. Nor has such a tremendous advance in disease prevention as water fluoridation been enough. An early 1960's Air Force study showed a work backlog of over three million defective teeth in our Service alone. With increased attention to periodontal (gum) disease, the current defective figure is

Col. Allman Jr. surely much greater.

What is the problem solution? Patients who desire an improved dental future for themselves must accept that, with few exceptions, the "secret" of dental disease prevention lies with proper diet and oral hygiene. Only the knowledgeable, self-disciplined patient can provide the daily mouth cleanliness necessary to promote healthy teeth and gums.

Increasingly we in dentistry must provide the instruction to support the patient's effort. This is why you should notice a shift in clinic and civic dental emphasis to the home care of your mouth. When it comes to dentistry, many of us are guilty of a "fix it" mentality. None of us can afford to be guilty of disinterest in, or faulty evaluation of, the "secret".

Thinking of buying or sell a home? Do you shudder when considering the legal complications involved in such a move? Would you like to know more about home financing, tax considerations, closing costs and prorated charges?

If your answer is "yes," then a legal booklet, "Advice on the Purchase and Sale of a Home and Lease of Dwellings by Military Personnel," should help you better understand these procedures and eliminate many frustrations normally associated with them.

The booklet is authored by Lt. Col. (since promoted to colonel) Norman A. Faulkner, chief of the civil law branch, Staff Judge Advocate office, Headquarters, Aerospace Defense Command, Ent AFB, Colo. It is available for study at legal offices throughout Air Training Command. Should you desire a personal copy, send 30 cents to the U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, and ask for: 8 AF JAG L. Ref. (Nr. 4) July-Aug. 1966.

The booklet contains a detailed explanation of all aspects of home buying and selling. It also includes a five-page commentary on leasing. Because laws vary from state to state, command SJA officials urge all personnel, in addition to reading the booklet, to contact their local base legal officer for assistance before signing a contract.

Stay On The Reality Team

(An AFPS Editorial)

Everyone in the armed forces knows how important teamwork is in military applications. Whether on a reconnaissance patrol or simply in the smooth flow of work through an office, it is readily apparent how teamwork makes for efficiency. Each person does his job; his efforts mesh neatly with those of others on the team, and the overall mission of the team is accomplished.

Drug abuse can destroy that effective teamwork. If one member is under the influence of drugs, the efficiency of the entire team is almost certain to be impaired.

According to the World Health Organization, among the more prominent effects of marijuana are carelessness, distortion of sensation and perception, impairment of judgment and memory and confusion.

Imagine the consequences to a combat patrol where each member is dependent on the other, if one of them is a "pot" smoker, subject to any one or a combination of these effects.

The effects of marijuana or any of the other hallucinogens can be equally disastrous in non-combat situations. On a ship or an aircraft that lives of many men may depend on how efficiently the operator of a sophisticated piece of navigational equipment does his job. What happens if that operator decides to "take a trip, while he's on duty?"

THE DEADLY DROP-OUT.

We've only raised the question of what can happen through use of the so-called non-addictive drugs—the ones some people might tell you are "harmless!" Add to this the serious and addictive physical effects of narcotics, sedatives, tranquilizers and stimulants, and the picture becomes even more appalling.

The cold, hard facts about drugs and their effects are available from many sources. We recommend that each service man and woman become well-informed on the subject.

Armed with this knowledge, we doubt that any real "team player" will want to experiment with drugs. Nor do we feel he will long tolerate on his team a member who has become what might be termed a "deadly drop-out."

Lifesaving Tip

(An ATCPS Editorial)

Following are excerpts from a letter to the editor of the Ridgefield, Conn., Press:

"Last week I saw a man die after five days and six nights of torture.

"Old friends had spent the weekend at his house and on Sunday night they were to have a giant steak, charcoal-broiled on his outdoor grill. When the coals did not flare quickly enough, he gave them another squirt from a can of fluid.

"As he released the pressure on the can, a tiny bit of flaming vapor was sucked back into the can. It exploded and the bottom blew out, drenching him with flaming fluid.

"He rolled on the grass, got up quickly, ran toward the river, stumbled and fell, got up and hurled himself in the water. It was over in less than 30 seconds. Thirty minutes later, bandaged like a mummy, he was in the hospital with second and third-degree burns covering 40 per cent of his body.

"Later, I went over to the ground and saw the burned grass and branches of the cedar tree above. I picked up the remains of the can, which bore a name familiar to all of us. It contained a fluid I have often used. One of the purposes for which it is sold is the starting of charcoal fires. The still readable directions were clear. If used on charcoal, wait before you light it. NEVER ADD MORE after the fire is started.

"How often have you followed these directions?"

Voting's Your Duty Cast Your Ballot For Election Day!

(An AFNS Editorial)

So you don't like the way the Government is handling this, that or the other thing? You complain to the people you work with and offer solutions to the problems at hand. Yet, come Election Day, you can't be bothered to vote.

Okay, so you're in the military and far from home. You say whoever is elected in your home state really doesn't affect you. You're wrong; it does. How about the state taxes you pay there on your income or that small piece of property in the old hometown? Not much guesswork involved in determining who sets the tax rate.

And what about the rest of your family and your relatives? They still live in your home state and before long, either through retirement or separation, you may choose to go back to live. You can't escape it—you are still directly affected by the lawmakers in your home state.

But you don't think your one vote will make a difference? In the 1962 Minnesota gubernatorial contest, the incumbent was re-elected by a scant 142 votes. There were many voters who reassessed the value of their single ballot that election night.

You vote for officials because you believe they are qualified to handle the job. Usually their views generally coincide with yours. Voting is the only way you can get the representation you desire.

See your voting officer today. Let him help you help yourself. Cast your ballot. It's not only one of the privileges you insure by the uniform you wear—it's your duty.

"Since we were chosen by God, as the heirs of the freedom that exists in these great United States, we should consider ourselves very fortunate, and strive to pass this gift on to our children and grandchildren." Awareness Of Everyday Life Vital Aspect Of One's Faith

By CHAPLAIN (CAPTAIN) LARRY D. MOSLEY

To me, the most vital and important aspects of one's religious faith are those that relate to the practical life—concerns of everyday life.

The true test of the validity of faith, to me has always been: Does it make me a better person? Does your faith make you a better citizen, a conscientious worker, a thoughtful husband or wife, and understanding parent?

In light of this, I found the following article in the September issue of "Guide Posts" magazine most appealing. Don't you agree that this kind of religious attitudes are what the world needs so much today?

Julia C. Mahon writes: "Because of a little piece of paper today is a very special day. This world suddenly belongs to me in a way it never did before. I also belong to it in a new way.

"That child pedaling his bicycle along the road . . . I see the years of love and sacrifice that brought him to this place. I realize the incalculable heartbreak if some accident should befall this child.

"The man approaching me in the pick-up truck is a very ordinary looking man. But doubtless he is the hear and mainstay of some nearby home.

"The old lady glancing about hesitantly before crossing the street is elderly and slightly stooped, walking with studied care. How precious these late September days must be to her.

"Today is a very special day for me. I hold in my hand a little piece of paper that is a passport to a broader world of freedom and discovery. God, grant that I use it only for good.

Today I received my driver's license."

Capsule Law

(An AFNS Feature)

A notary public is a public official who is given a commission by a state to perform certain official acts within the estate. The official acts allowed by most states are—the power to take acknowledgements and affidavits, to administer oaths, and to certify to the authenticity of documents.

A notary certifies that a signature on a document is genuine. This requires that the notary see the signature being made. Notaries are bonded to require compliance with the law.

Many legal assistance offices have a notary public as an employee. They perform their services without charge to servicemen and their families. Further, nearly all states allow a commissioned officer to act as a notary for military personnel under certain conditions.

Contact your legal assistance officer when you need to have a document notarized.

Base Survives Safety Drive

Labor Day marked the end of the 101 Critical Days Campaign, which was conducted so vigorously throughout the Air Force, and Reese emerged with the same fatality figure, one, it has had almost from the beginning of the campaign.

Safety officials made no secret of the fact that they were holding their breath during the crucial Labor Day holiday weekend period. However, there were no fatalities, and not even a serious accident to mar the weekend.

Shortly after the 101 Critical Days Campaign opened, more than three months ago, Reese recorded its first fatality—a car-pedestrian accident on Fourth Street—and it proved the last during the period the Air Force says is the most critical in terms of accidents, on the highways, at play and at work.

Col. Clyde J. Morganti, Reese wing commander, told a Tuesday wing staff meeting that he was thankful that Reese had passed the Labor Day weekend without a serious accident.

The wing commander also reminded motorists of the school zones which are back into effect following the Labor Day weekend, exhorting them to be especially careful while driving in those zones.

President Signs Bill Allowing Part-Time Vocational Training

"We care for all of them," were the words used by President Lyndon B. Johnson at a recent bill-signing ceremony in Washington that broadened and improved veterans' benefits.

The President signed into law three bills, two of which dealt with increased payments to state and community veteran's homes to assure higher standards of care for former servicemen.

The third bill, Public Law 90-431, permits veterans with service-connected disabilities serious enough to qualify for vocational rehabilitation training through the Veterans Administration to receive part-time training allowances. Previously, only veterans taking full-time vocational rehabilitation training were entitled to a training allowance.

Reese amateur and experienced photographers are invited to enter the annual photography contest, starting with the base level competition, ending at 7 p.m., Sept. 29, and extending through Air Training Command and the Air Force contest, which will be conducted at McClellan AFB, Calif. The winning entries will be judged for consideration in the 13th Interservice Photography Contest in 1969.

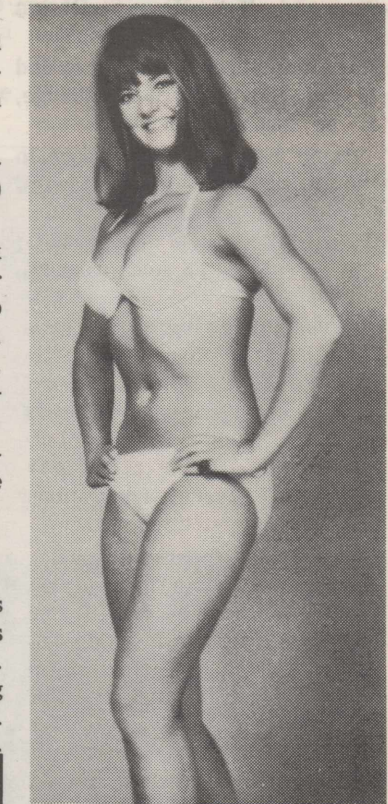

Any Air Force military member, who is on active duty for 90 days or more may compete.

Competition will be in black and white photographs and color transparencies. In each group will be seven categories: people, animals and pets, action, scenic, military life, still life and experimental.

Details of the contest are available at Mathis Service Club where the base-level show will be held.

Business Meeting Set

The NCO Wives Club announces that its regular monthly business meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the NCO Club dining room. All NCO wives are invited.

Mature 'Flicks' Grace Week's Film Marquee

Family entertainment is featured at the base theater today and tomorrow with Julie Andrews starring in "Thoroughly Modern Millie." A romantic comedy, set against the backdrop of New York in the "Roaring Twenties," the film features the music that took Academy Award honors as best music score.

Sunday the emphasis shifts to mature entertainment with Walter Matthau and Anne Jackson starring in the spoof, "The Secret Life of an American Wife," a comedy about a neglected suburban housewife.

Tuesday's fare at the theater offers the week's only western,

"The Ugly Ones." Rated for mature audiences, the film depicts how a man went to crime not because of bad luck, but because he was inherently bad himself.

Wednesday features another mature film, with Michael Caine returning to the screen in "Billion Dollar Brain." Also starring in the film are Karl Malden and Francoise Dorleac. Caine plays his usual anti-hero part in this film as an intelligence officer recruited back to spying again.

Kim Novak, Peter Finch and Ernest Borgnine head the cast of "The Legend of Lylah Clare," another mature film showing Thursday evening. Miss Novak plays a dual role in this drama about the film world, with Finch playing the part of the director and Borgnine in the role of studio boss.

VRB Changes Are Announced

Two major changes in reenlistment policies have been announced by the Air Force according to MSgt. Richard Elliott, base career motivation office.

One change eliminates 26 specialties from the variable reenlistment bonus (VRB) program and the other almost entirely suspends prior service enlistments.

A re-evaluation of Fiscal Year 1969 variable reenlistment bonus (VRB) program shows that certain specialties are programmed to be manned in excess of 101 per cent by Fiscal Year 1969 or that there are no established requirements for them.

Information on the specialties and their codes which will be eliminated from VRB can be obtained from Sergeant Elliott, ext. 402.

Those effected by the change may still qualify for VRB they previously would have received if they take an early out by the end of August. In order to qualify for an early out a person must have 30 months of service and have been selected for reenlistment. Those who qualify should contact Sergeant Elliott immediately.

The second charge suspends almost all prior service reenlistments. Previously a person had 90 days after separating from the service to try civilian life and then could reenlist with no penalty.

Now only persons with an Air Force Specialty Code (AFSC) of 27250/70 may return and get a worldwide assignment.

OJT EXCELLENCE—A1C Leland K. Young (center) and A1C Howard Harvey (right) are presented pen sets by Col. Clyde J. Morganti, wing commander, for achieving 95 percentile on their five-level specialty knowledge tests. Airman Young was also chosen Wing Airman of the Month for September. See story this page. Officer Records Clerk Named September's Top Wing Airman

A Reese AFB airman responsible for the complete in and out processing of the field personnel records of all base student officers has been selected Wing Airman of the Month of September.

A1C Leland K. Young, assigned to the 3500 Air Base Group's Consolidated Base Personnel Office, was praised by Maj. Joe G. Leewright, chief, Personnel Division, for outstanding performance of duties encompassing maintenance of all student records.

Approximately 500 students are assigned to the wing and with a new class coming in and one departing every six weeks, the volume of work is enormous reports Major Leewright.

"I have received many very complimentary remarks as to the services rendered by Airman Young," added Major Leewright. "I would rate Airman Young in the top five per cent of all airmen I have known with his experience and service."

In addition to student records, he also assists in the maintenance of permanent party officer records.

He recently achieved a 95 percentile score on his five level specialty knowledge test. (See picture above.)

The 24-year-old airman and wife Carol live at 2207-A 14th Street in Lubbock.

Promotees

Two members of the 2053rd Communications Squadron added an additional chevron to their sleeve Sunday. William E. Scifres, NCOIC of radio maintenance, was promoted to senior master sergeant while Steven D. Marcey, air traffic controller, join the NCO ranks as a new E-4.

'Press' Hole Headache

By KEN MCGUIRE
Reese Golf Pro

Hole No. 9, 130 yards, par 3.
The gamblers will tell you that this is the most important hole on the golf course. They say over and over again, if you can play this one well the least you can do is break even. That is, of course, because it is the press hole.

With the tees in the normal position, and with no wind, this is about an 8 or 9 iron shot for most with the long knockers hitting a wedge. What causes most of the run on Excedrin is the pond between the tee and green. And while admittedly, this is more of a mental hazard than anything, it is a hazard.

If I had to give advice on this hole, I would say that percentage-wise play your shot to the left. There is a hump on the extreme left front portion of the green for which you should aim. This way you are cutting across the water at its shortest distance and a fade or slice will work to your advantage. If you hit it straight, you probably will be on, but with a long putt. A draw will leave you with a not too unpleasant chip. A hook will put you in trouble, but nothing approaching going in the water, or having to negotiate that terrible chip from the right side going downhill. I would say to hit to the middle of green. Don't be long or to the right.

The best advice I can give on this hole is to pace off or find the exact distance from tee to center of green, then go over to the practice green and pace off the same distance. Find out what you need to negotiate this shot with the greatest percentage, and then stick with that club, compensating only for wind and such. You will find number 9 not as difficult as it looks.

More troubles arise when you get on the green. The experts say this is the toughest green to putt because of the rolls and pin placement. Think over your putt carefully with the thought in mind as to where you'd like to be in the event you miss. Most putts on this green are so-called "speed" putts—that is the speed of the ball is the important thing. It's something you can practice to improve your game.

Ken Lindsay's 290 Garners ATC Golf Win

LACKLAND AFB, Tex. (AFNS) Ken Lindsay of the Strategic Air Command shot a four-round total of 290 over the 6,648-yard base course here to win the open division of the 1968 Air Force Worldwide Golf Championship.

In the senior division, Col. Walter Davison, Air Training Command, took first place with 308.

Sgt. Malcolm Kirven, ATC, was second in the open division with 292. A 293 tie for third place between Sgt. John Kurzynowski of ATC and Capt. Ross Teter of SAC was resolved in favor of Sergeant Kurzynowski on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff.

Fifth place, and the final spot on the five-man open division Air Force team competing in the Interservice Golf Championship at Quantico Marine Corps Base Aug. 26-30, was earned by Amn. Jess Parry, ATC, with 296.

Also in the top 10 finishers were TSgt. George Lanning, Military Airlift Command, 297; Sgt. Robert Cleveland, Air Force Logistics Command, 298; Sgt. Tom Minger, Tactical Air Command, 299; Airman Tom Benson, Air Force Systems Command, 299; Sgt. Gary Campbell, Alaskan Air Command, 300; and Lt. Lloyd Watts, ATC, 300.

Golf Tee Times To End Sunday

Reese AFB golf pro Ken McGuire has announced that tee times on weekends and holidays will end effective next weekend.

The tee times were initiated this summer when play became extra heavy on the nine-hole course, but now Mr. McGuire feels that play has let up enough to throw the course open to open play on all days.

The tee times made tomorrow and Sunday therefore will be the last made until next summer.

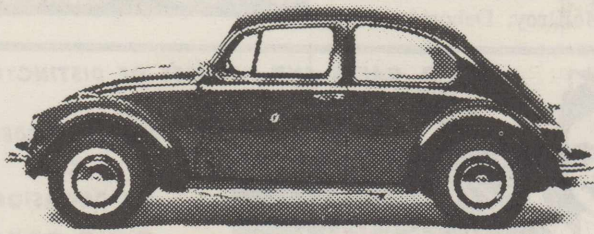

BRIDGE WINNERS NAMED

Reese AFB Duplicate Bridge Club met Aug. 27 with Wes and Fran Allen winning first place. Second place went to Mrs. Fern Harbison and Mrs. Martha Fowler while third place honors went to Maj. and Mrs. Hank Proctor.

Are you willing to go as low as $1802 for a new VW?

We don't sell status. Just a car. One that gets about 27 mpg, averages 40,000 miles on a set of tires, and hardly uses oil between changes. Of course, the fact that it's practical is no secret. And everybody is going to know that you're saving money. But that's the price you pay for Volkswagen.
