NCOA Seeking Needy Families To Give Help

The Kuykendall Chapter of the Noncommissioned Officers Association of America has undertaken the task of seeing that no Reese family goes without a Thanksgiving meal Thursday.

At its last regular monthly meeting, Nov. 12, the chapter voted to take on the project with its own chaplain, SSgt. Hiram Moseley, in charge of the project. A total of 17 chapter members immediately signed up to financially aid the project.

Sergeant Moseley is now looking for the names of families at Reese which first sergeants, squadron commanders and supervisors feel are in need of help Thanksgiving day. He has asked these key persons to help him locate needy families which will be sponsored to Thanksgiving meals through the base dining hall. The offer is open to the airman and his immediate family.

Those key persons knowing of needy families within their respective organizations or sections are asked to contact Sergeant Moseley at the base chapel, phone ext. 538 by Tuesday. All names and information will be held in strict confidence.

Operation Homesafe Contest

Wednesday Deadline For Safety Displays

Operation Homesafe displays will be judged Wednesday with the winning squadron to receive its award at a kick-off luncheon Dec. 2 at the Embers Steak House in Lubbock.

Reese ground safety officials said displays must be in place by Wednesday in order for them to be judged. A four-man team made up of Bob Blon, president of the Citizens Traffic Council in Lubbock, Harold Carrico of TIME Motor Freight, Inc., David Collier of the Lubbock National Bank, and Bill Parker of the Lubbock Independent School District, will do the judging.

Last year, the 3500th USAF Hospital won the contest, using a "Snoopy" type display.

The luncheon will serve to kick off the homesafe campaign formally in the city of Lubbock. The luncheon will be hosted jointly by Col. Clyde J. Morganti, Reese wing commander, and Mr. Blon representing the Citizens Traffic Council.

Also at that time, Lubbock Mayor W. D. Rogers, Jr., will officially proclaim the month of December as "Homesafe Month" in the city, setting in motion the machinery for the concentrated safety campaign involving both the city and the base.

The idea of a joint safety campaign involving Lubbock, Reese and Texas Technological College began last year. It proved highly successful, and is apparently being made into an annual affair.

The campaign at Reese began Nov. 8 and will run through Jan. 1. Its aim, of course, is to cut out, or down on traffic mishaps by those who take to the highways during the holidays.

Request For Blood

Volunteers to aid a leukemia patient in Lubbock, are being sought by Chaplain (Lieutenant Colonel) Isaac M. Copeland, base chaplain.

Blood donors who are willing to help the patient, who has an acute need for blood, are urged to contact chapel officials at extension 538.

Webb AFB Wing Commander To Address Longhorn Scouts

Col. William C. McGlothlin Jr., wing commander at Webb AFB, will be principal speaker at the Longhorn District Boy Scouts of America Recognition Dinner Dec. 10 at the Reese AFB NCO Open Mess. The dinner will start at 7 p.m.

More than 100 persons are expected to attend the function, an annual highlight among scouting officials and scouts themselves. Highlighting the dinner will be the presentation of awards to the many scouters from the Longhorn District and from Reese AFB for their contributions to scouting over the past year.

Master of ceremonies for the dinner will be Paul Beane, news-director for KSEL radio and television.

The speaker, Colonel McGlothlin, is no stranger to Reese. He was the deputy commander for Operations at Reese until his assignment to Webb as wing commander earlier this year. He is active in scouting activities at Webb, just as he was at Reese.

Tickets for the banquet may be obtained from Lt. Col. William E. Moore, 3501st Pilot Training Squadron commander, or from any of the Reese scouters for $2.00 each. They must be obtained by the evening of Dec. 9.

Gen. Maddux Honored Guest At Chamber Dinner Tuesday

Lt. Gen. Sam Maddux Jr., commander, Air Training Command, will be at Reese AFB Tuesday. General Maddux will be honored guest at a dinner at the Lubbock Country Club sponsored by the Armed Services Committee of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

There are also indications that General Maddux will personally administer the oaths of enlistment to two or more first-term airmen who are reenlisting on that date, but no firm plans had been made at the Roundup's deadline.

General Maddux will be honored at a reception at the Country Club beginning at 6:30 p.m. The dinner will begin at 7 p.m.

Chairman of the Armed Services Committee is L. E. "Jack" Davis.

FOR THE COMMANDER

Wet, Icy Weather Means Bad Roads

By Capt. Denis Moreno
Commander, Weather Det. 11

It is now late November and Reese has already had its first taste of winter weather. With the program of "Holidays from Danger" in effect, it might be wise to review some of the weather hazards winter brings to the Lubbock and Reese area.

One of the most hazardous and dangerous conditions that will affect every driver is icy roads. Since the average daily high temperature is above freezing during the winter months, the Lubbock area does not usually get large amounts of snow.

It does get rain and light snowfalls which tend to melt during the afternoon hours, with the water collecting in low areas such as dips in the roads. This is usually of little concern to the motorist.

However, during the night when the temperature dips to below freezing and the traffic is light, the water freezes, causing glaze to cover the roads. This is the most dangerous form of ice because it is patchy and frequently invisible to the unsuspecting motorists. This condition is most common during the night-time and mid-morning hours.

The second hazard is temperature, or more correctly, the equivalent chill temperature (ECT). Wind speed and temperature combine to cool the body; therefore, it is important to know how much cooling effect the wind has on the body. For example, if the temperature is 20 degrees and wind is calm, the ETC is 20 degrees; if the wind speed is 15 miles per hour (m.p.h.), ECT is -5 degrees; if the wind speed is 35 m.p.h., the ECT is -20 degrees. This situation is not uncommon at Reese during the winter months.

Icy roads conditions and cold temperatures are not the only hazards that winter brings to the Reese area, but they are two of the most hazardous. By recognizing the extra hazards winter brings, we can make this period a much safer one on the roads and around the base. For the period that the "Holidays from Danger" safety program is in effect, the base Weather station will have a forecast of hazardous driving conditions within 500 miles of Reese on the automatic answering service, extension 212.

First Sergeant Does Job With Horns Or Halo

(Staff Editorial)

In every Air Force organization, large or small, at any location in the world, there is one man whose very presence provokes a mixed reaction from all whom he comes in contact. This man is the first sergeant.

This one man represents all things to all people. To the airmen, he may one day be half-devil or half-angel; barking commands one moment and signing a three-day pass the next.

He is father, mother, uncle, aunt, boss, chaplain and big brother to hundreds of happy, sad, confused and sometimes wily airmen. He has an answer for every excuse ever invented and a reason for every action.

He has his fingers on the pulse of his organization, keeping the unit functioning smoothly and efficiently.

Most airmen consider only the surface of this individual, noting only the discipline, demand for cleanliness and obedience to orders. Very few of his men note the long hours, middle-of-the-night calls and heartbreak which are a part of this thankless job. Each problem of every man in his organization is his problem; and he feels these as keenly as if they were his own.

Family, friends, recreation — these all take a secondary role to his primary job; and he never forgets it. In all, this man of many parts, including horns and halo, is truly as the title reads, a first sergeant.

Using Common Sense Is Good Security Rule

(An ATCPS Editorial)

The challenge of Air Training Command's mission calls for each of us not only to maintain all security rules but to use security "common sense," as well.

Many practices used in our daily routines should be reviewed in the light of using security common sense.

Do you use a hard pencil or ball point pen to jot down notes during a conference or telephone conversation? Most of us are security conscious enough to destroy the top sheet containing the information. How many of us realize that the pencil or pen makes an easy-to-read impression on the pages below? An amateur detective could read them. What could a professional do?

What could the same professional learn from the contents of the wastepaper basket next to your desk? Of course, he won't find anything with a security clearance, but what about notes or discarded pieces of work sheets?

In some unguarded offices, people put a lot of faith in a locked desk. How secure is a locked desk? Not at all. Any locksmith can make a key to fit your desk for 50 cents and most prowlers don't need a key. If you have something you think needs safe-

Traditional Day Honors Blessings

Thursday is the day the nation traditionally pauses to give thanks for the bounty provided its citizens.

Our first American Thanksgiving was held in December, 1621, when Governor Bradford of Plymouth Colony proclaimed the day as one for "feasting and giving of thanks" at the end of the first year in the new colony. It came in the wake of a severe winter, followed by a summer in which Indian Chief Massasoit had befriended the colonies and had given them seed for the crops that provided the bountiful harvest of that fall. Chief Massasoit and 90 of his followers were invited to that first Thanksgiving, so starting the custom of having friends over for Thanksgiving.

But then for more than 240 years the custom hung dormant, despite the ceaseless campaigning of one Sarah Hale who wrote editorials in her paper calling for a day to be set aside as a national holiday of thanksgiving.

In 1864, President Lincoln now firm in his belief that the Union had been saved, proclaimed Nov. 26 as Thanksgiving Day, starting a custom that has endured ever since. It has since undergone such changes as to the third Thursday of November, but the basic substance of the holiday remains the same—a time of celebration for a bountiful harvest.

And while America moves rapidly toward urban development with its citizens turning to the cities, Thanksgiving remains our contact with rural America, and a reminder that the United States produces more food than any other country in the world today.

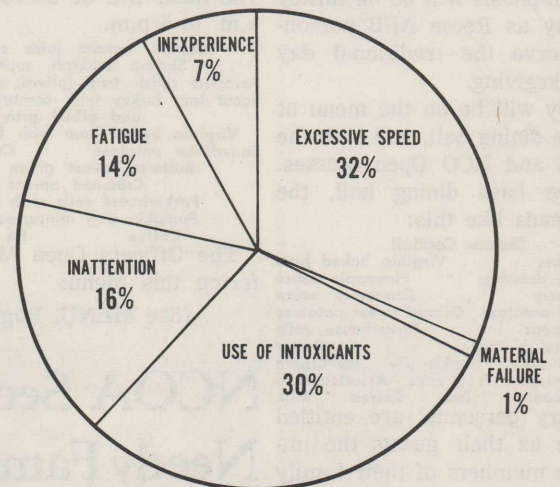

There is more for which to give thanks. Our gross national product is also the world's highest, and our standard of living is the same. It is true that things are not all perfect in this land of ours, but then what country can say it is? This Thanksgiving Day, let us take, during our giving of thanks at the dinner table, a positive rather than a negative approach by thanking our God for providing us with the things we have rather than recriminations for what we have not. And above all, let us give thanks for the most precious of all gifts provided by our country — our freedom.

Is Your New Auto Covered?

(An AFNS Feature)

Automobile insurance policies have an "automatic insurance" clause. They cover new autos which the insured and his wife buy if the new car is a "replacement" and if he tells the company within 30 days of getting the new car. If it is another car, the policy may still cover it for a short time, if the policy covers all other cars of the insured.

Never take car insurance lightly. Under the automatic 30-day terms, you must meet important conditions. For example, a car bought by a family member who is not a husband or wife is not covered.

A "replacement" is a car that takes the place of one disposed of, or which can no longer be driven.

An insurance agent can also issue a "binder" to cover a car, even after the 30-day period. This will insure the car until the owner gets permanent insurance. But make sure the binder is effective. Get it in writing, any kind of memo will do.

Deal with a reputable agent. A "binder" is meaningless if the agent has no right to bind his company or to give any "oral insurance."

Unlike life insurance, there is usually no "grace period" to pay premiums. Late payment may cause car insurance to lapse.

When you buy a new car on time, the sales contract contains an insurance clause, which usually covers the car only if it is damaged. This protects the lender, but may not cover public liability of the driver who gets into an accident and hurts someone.

YOUR CONDUCT while driving is a mark of your personality. Don't be a heel at the wheel.

guarding, it belongs in the safe, not in a locked desk.

There is no rule which says not to make detours on trips between offices when you are hand-carrying material but intermediate stops often are not wise. You may mislay your paper or pick up other materials with your papers when you leave. In any case, the material may be read by persons who have no need to know.

Loss or disclosure of information while you have stopped to chat with a friend or arrange a game of golf would be very embarrassing to explain.

A good rule to follow is "think first about security." If you do, you will be using good security common sense.

Warm Puppy Can Open Way For Relaxation And Happiness

By Chaplain (Captain)
George J. Dabrowski

A book published with the enticing title "Happiness is a Warm Puppy" achieved the status recently of a best seller. There are, of course, any number of ways that the warm furry delight of a tiny puppy can be a source of happiness. Such happiness is kindled in children first, for they have best preserved the sense of wonder; but it can also be kindled in adults.

A puppy through playful, animal impishness and sheer exuberance distracts a person pleasantly from thoughts about self. The sight of a mischievous puppy helps to allay the pangs of consciousness. It can draw a person away from his cares and this is one of the essential prerequisites for happiness. More so, preoccupation with self is one of the great enemies to happiness.

Aristotle in his "Ethics" makes no mention of a warm puppy when he discusses happiness; yet quite surely Aristotle would not dismiss the idea that contemplating a puppy could tend toward happiness at least in a small way.

A child lost in wonder is quite surely a gay and happy child. A woman lost in adoration of a new dress is a happy woman. Contemplating a warm puppy is hardly the sum total of human felicity, but it can constitute a very modest step toward happiness.

Maintenance Tops Nonrated Careers In OTS Increase

WASHINGTON (AFNS)— Aircraft maintenance leads a list of 13 Air Force nonrated career fields assigned quotas in an increase of 700 spaces for Officers Training School in Fiscal Year 1969.

The increase, announced last month, boosts programmed graduates from 3,728 to 4,428 by the end of June. In addition to 330 nonrated spaces, the increased quota includes 183 pilot and 183 navigator candidates and four from the Airman Education and Commissioning Program (AECF).

Previously, the FY 1969 non-rated entries were limited to applicants with certain engineering skills, meteorologists, geodesists, Women in the Air Force, and Bootstrap Commissioning Program candidates.

The additional 330 spaces removes the restriction on academic disciplines and all eligible college graduates can compete. Local Personnel offices have complete application information.

The nonrated fields and quotas for each are aircraft maintenance 105; communications-electronics 66; missile operations 53; missile weapons director 33; munitions 28; aircraft control 17; avionics, civil engineering and security police, 6 each; transportation and supply management 3; and procurement management and logistics 2.

Security Policeman Cited For Courage By DPS Officials

Amn. Bernardo Vargas, a Reese AFB security policeman, was cited recently by the Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) for courage and discipline while rendering assistance at the scene of an automobile accident, Nov. 3.

According to a DPS letter to Col. Clyde J. Morganti, 3500 Pilot Training Wing commander, Airman Vargas, who was off duty, came up on the site of a one-car turnover.

"Without regard to his personal safety and in the highest professional manner, Airman Vargas detained an intoxicated motorist at the scene," wrote Burt Sinclair, DPS officer at the scene.

"Had this belligerent person," continued Officer Sinclair, "been allowed to leave the scene, he would have no doubt done great harm to himself and others before the night ended.

"Airman Vargas rendered a very fine service to the state of Texas and the local community by his actions," concluded Officer Sinclair.

NCOs Aim At First-Termers Airey Praises New Program

WASHINGTON (AFNS) —Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force Paul W. Airey has praised the Air Force's new first-term reenlistment effort, called "Top Three."

In announcing the program earlier this month, Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. John P. McConnell said he believed that the noncommissioned officers, "particularly the top three grades, can significantly improve the Air Force reenlistment program."

First-term reenlistments in Fiscal Year 1968 showed only a moderate increase over the previous year. This year Air Force seeks to retain 26,000 first-term airmen to provide a balanced career force.

Sergeant Airey believes the senior NCOs can do much in improving the retention rates. "The top three grades represent a resource whose collective efforts can bring about the necessary emphasis and influence to meet Air Force objectives," he said.

"The chiefs, seniors and masters will sponsor this program, providing the appropriate emphasis and direction, working closely with unit career advisors and first-line supervisors at each base and exerting their influence to spark a successful reenlistment program," Sergeant Airey said.

"With the finest noncommissioned officers the Air Force has ever had," he continued, "this program will provide them the opportunity to demonstrate clearly their high order of professionalism. The onus is on us. It is we who must assert the leadership. It is we who must guide by example. It is we who must get to work now to help build our career force — the career force of the future."

Broadcast Specialists Needed Overseas

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — Volunteers for broadcast specialist course training are needed for assignment with Armed Forces Radio and Television Service outlets in overseas areas. Applicants must be stationed in the United States and not already alerted for overseas assignments.

Minimum requirements are a general aptitude score of 80, be able to read aloud with clear articulation and without pronounced regional accent, and be able to type 15 words per minute. The prerequisite for 72150 AFSC has been waived.

Two Civilian Employees Divide $770 Cash Suggestion Award

A cash award of $770 was granted two Reese AFB field maintenance civilian employees to highlight action by the Military-Civilian Incentive Awards Committee meeting Oct. 31 at the civilian personnel office.

The award went to Robert B. Davis, 3309 Emory, Lubbock, and to Edgkar M. Davis, 4421 47th St., Lubbock, for a joint suggestion entitled "Local Manufacture of Flexible Hose Assembly." The committee ascertained that the saving in material at Reese would amount to $23,523.84. The suggestion was submitted as a cost reduction item and forwarded to Air Training Command for further consideration. Each man received $385.

Other cash awards went to SSgt. Joseph Mekosh, Civil Engineers, for a suggestion on "Reporting Fire Vehicles Out of Service," and to Louise B. Fowler, Transportation, for a "Form for Inventory of Household Goods." Both received $15.

A suggestion submitted by 2nd

Lt. Gary T. Hewett, 3501st Student Squadron, on "Safety Improvements on War Highway" won for him a suggestion certificate.

Cost Reduction Data Indicates Slow Start

The current Air Training Command Cost Reduction Newsletter of Nov. 15 reveals cost reduction accomplishments of the ATC bases for first quarter of Fiscal Year 1969 and the FY 1969-1971 periods.

ATC started FY '69 with an unparalleled first quarter accomplishment of 36 per cent of the Command's FY '69 program and 41 per cent of the FY '69-'71 goal.

Reese AFB's per cent accomplishments are well below the Command totals. For the current fiscal year Reese has accomplished 10 per cent of its goal of $196,000 or $18,900. As for the FY '69-'71 goal, Reese has accomplished 13 per cent of its $394,500 goal or $50,800. These DoD, AF figures include the ATC Liaison Auditors validated savings reported to Headquarters U.S. Air Force for the first quarter of FY '69.

Art Show Termed 'Excellent'; Hamann Places Three Firsts

Winners were announced in the base art contest Sunday at the Mathis Service Club.

Judged by Dick Cheatham Jr., the winning entries were picked from a field of 56 works. The winner in Category I—Painting (Traditional) was A1C James A. Upperman, 3500th Supply, with "The Apprentice and the Master." Second place in this category went to 2nd Lt. Arnold L. Julich,

3501st Student Squadron, with "Man's Face."

In Category I—Painting (Contemporary), 2nd Lt. James R. Aubrey tied with 2nd Lt. Thomas A. Hamann for first-place honors. Lieutenant Aubrey's entry was in oil, "Life of Sensual Disillusionment in the Land of Spiritual Discontent." "Old Woman With Pipe" was the block print entry by Lieutenant Hamann.

Sgt. Lee R. Barrett, Headquarters Squadron, 3500 Air Base Group, copped first-place recognition in Category II—Sculpture (Traditional) with "Little Brown Flower Jug." Second place award went to A1C Barry M. Hutto, Headquarters Squadron Section, 3500th Air Base Group, with his cellulay entry, "Stoned Turtle."

In the final category, Category II — Sculpture (Contemporary), 2nd Lt. Thomas A. Hamann captured both first and second place honors with sterling silver entries, cuff links with inlaid ebony and abstract design pin.

In commenting on the show, Mr. Cheatham said that "the show was small but excellent. I am always gratified to see work of this caliber on display. I know how difficult it is to paint and sculpt in the service due to limitations of time and space, so perhaps it is doubly important for these artists to produce. Congratulations!"

The winning entries will be sent to Randolph AFB for entry in the 1968 ATC Art Contest to be held Dec. 2.

3501st Names IP Of Month

First Lt. Lynn H. Jackson, C Flight, has been chosen as Instructor Pilot of the Month for the 3501st Pilot Training Squadron.

In nominating Lieutenant Jackson for the honor, his squadron commander, Lt. Col. William E. Moore said of him: "His enthusiasm toward his job and his determination to learn as much as possible about flying have made him one of the most effective and dependable officers in this organization."

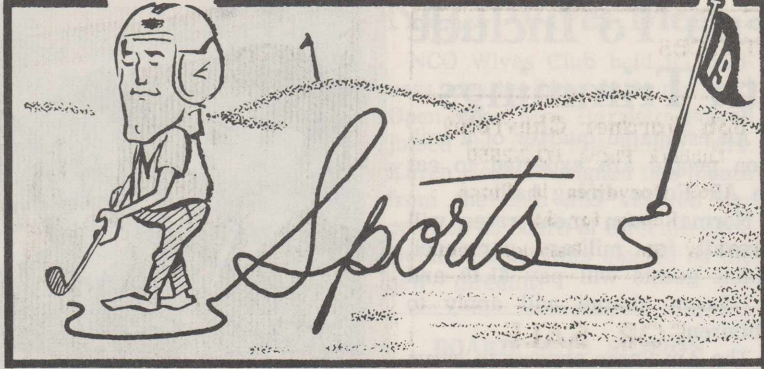

"Lieutenant Jackson always insures that his students are prepared for their role as future pilots. To achieve this, he spends many off-duty hours working in their behalf. Consequently, he has often been assigned those individuals who are having trouble completing the program," said Colonel Moore.

In addition, Lieutenant Jackson has volunteered for such tasks as squadron supply officer and the task of renovating the squadron snack bar.

Randolph Entries Capture Honors

RANDOLPH AFB, Tex. (ATCPS) — Randolph amateur photographers recently captured first place in the 1968 Air Training Command Photography Contest hosted by the Arts and Crafts Center here.

Amassing 69 points, Randolph took six first places, six second places and seven third places. Chanute AFB, Ill., was second with 43 points; Webb AFB, Tex., was third with 42 points, and Keesler AFB, Miss. fourth with 28 points.

The fact that sports presents more of a paradox than most endeavors is dramatically illustrated by two graduates of neighboring Texas Technological College of a few years ago.

The case in point surrounds the activities of Messieurs Donny Anderson and Mac Percival.

Both attended Tech together, with Anderson far and away the star of an otherwise mediocre football team, while Percival, a member of the starting five in basketball, played well in the shadow of such stars as Harold Hennig, Harold Huggins and Del Ray Mounts.

When their collegiate playing days were over, Anderson was signed to what has been described as the fattest prize ever offered a collegiate player in history. It was with great fanfare on the part of the otherwise conservative Green Bay Packer organization that Anderson was signed at a figure reputed to be close to a half million dollars. Even the normal scowling Vinny Lombardi managed a face-splitting smile for the TV cameras covering the event.

Meanwhile, Percival passed into the oblivion that is usually the fate of basketball mediocrosy. And while Anderson was being groomed by the mighty Packers as the man who would make partisan fans forget Paul Hornung, Percival busied himself with such things as making a living for himself and his lovely wife in his chosen hometown, Dallas.

Two years ago, the Dallas Cowboy organization, eyeing aging Danny Villanueva, hit on the idea of a "Kicking Caravelle", half as a publicity stunt, and half hoping to find a replacement for Danny.

Percival's wife literally talked her husband into trying out as a kicking specialist. Lo and behold, Percival won the contest and gained the tacit approval of the Cowboy organization to try out. Thus Percival, who never played a day of college football, stepped into the pro ranks, although on somewhat shaky ground. Although Percival did a creditable job with the Cowboys, he was eventually released. The Cowboys later hit paydirt by acquiring Mike Clarke, who has served them well.

Percival, about to shuck it all and go back into the routine of selling for a living, was pleasantly surprised to be offered a "chance" to try out with the Chicago Bears. To say that Percival has made it good would be putting it mild. He is probably second only to the great Gale Sayers in value to the Bears, and is credited with the Bears' current standing after a miserable start.

The paradox came with the showdown between Green Bay and Chicago Oct. 27 in Green Bay. After a little more than 59 minutes of playing time, the score was tied 10-all. Anderson was forced to punt for the Packers and came up with a 28-yard effort. With the ball at mid-field, the Bears put all their hopes on Percival and under the ruling asked for a free kick. Percival booted it through the uprights — his second of the day — to hand the Bears the win.

It's no secret that Green Bay's biggest problem is a field goal kicker. They have a wealth of running backs in Elija Pitts, Jim Grabowski and Travis Williams. One can't help but wonder if Green Bay wouldn't be willing to part with Anderson for the likes of Percival. That would make the paradox complete.

Reesites Near End Of School

Bowling Action Picks Up Pace

Independent League

The NCO Club nosed into first place in the Reese Independent Bowling League last week by taking the measure of Daily's Crew, which had held the league lead since it started play.

By virtue of its loss, Daily's Crew fell into a tie with Personnel for second place, each with records of 21-15, and 3½ points behind NCO Club. Next in the order of their standings are Q.C., Ground Power, C.E. #1, C.E. #2 and TMO.

Junior-Senior Bowling League

In Junior-Senior bowling activity, the Purple Lips continues its tight hold on the lead with a 19-9 record with the Dinkleberries and Alley Airdales tied for second with 17-11 records. The Pin Pirates have now fallen to fourth place.

Stars in the past week's bowling were Dee Dee Holtgrewe with games of 148, 182 and 162 for a 492 series, and Clairice Copeland, who managed a strike in the 10th frame of the first game to give the Dinkleberries a win over the Pin Pirates, 742 to 733. It was the only mark she got in the game.

Reese Riders Plan Fox Hunt

It's "Tally Ho" and off to the hunt as some 50 members of the Reese Riders ride to the hounds Nov. 30 in a simulated fox hunt near the base.

The so-called "paper hunt" is to give the recently organized group of Reese riding enthusiasts a taste of fox hunting, but minus the fox and the hounds. A touch of realism will be added with the addition of hurdles and other obstacles which will be placed over the six-mile route of the hunt.

The hunt will get under way at 1 p.m. at a point just east of Reese Village and move through open fields around the base out to the Winchester Gun Club and return.

In place of a fox, the organizer of the Reese Riders, MSgt. Michael J. DeRosa, will wear a fox tail and ride some 150 yards in front of the riders. Between him and the riders will ride his daughter, Scarlett, and Miss Laura Pitts, both of whom will act as the hounds.

There will be a vehicle caravan for parents and observers. No special dress is involved.

Refreshments will follow at the Reese Riders stables on Fourth Street.

Rod, Gun Club To Hold Shoot

Reese sharpshooters will have an opportunity to get themselves a turkey for Thanksgiving at a turkey shoot being sponsored tomorrow by the Reese Rod and Gun Club.

The shoot is scheduled at 10 a.m. at the Rod and Gun Club skeet range located beside the main firing range. Entry fee is 50 cents and guns and ammunition will be provided. Persons may enter as often as they like. A total of six turkeys will be given away.

It's An ATC Fact . . .

The meeting will be held at 5 p.m. Tuesday at the youth center. Boys who have reached the age of 9 and who have not reached the age of 13 by Dec. 1 are eligible to play. The games will be played at the Lubbock YMCA with play scheduled to begin next month.

Awards Presentation Climaxes Reese Youth Football Activities

Youth League Football for 1968 came to a close Tuesday night with a banquet honoring the players and their coaches in the NCO Open Mess.

Highlights of the evening were special awards to Maj. Ronald E. Gauger, 3501st Pilot Training Squadron and Sgt. Terry Tyler, 3500th Field Maintenance Squadron, and a talk to the assembled guests by Burl Huffman, Texas Tech freshman football coach.

Coach Huffman, speaking from 40 years of coaching experience, advised the players, in a humor-laden talk, that it wasn't whether you won or lost that counted, but how you played the game.

"Football's greatest lesson," emphasized the coach, "is that you won't win them all and you're going to get knocked down quite a bit. But if you can rise to the occasion, get up and keep fighting back, you'll be a success in life."

Major Gauger, founder of Reese AFB Youth Football, received a special plaque for his work with the team over the past three years. Sergeant Tyler, a coach for three years with the team, received a special "Atta Boy," award signed by Col. Clyde J. Morganti, 3500th Pilot Training Wing commander.

In addition, all football players, their coaches and the cheerleaders were presented trophies.

Base People Invited To Attend Lectures

Reese personnel have been invited to attend a series of lectures to be held in Lubbock next week—free of charge.

The well-known motivational lecturer, John Zahn, has offered to conduct a series of 10 lectures on the subject of "Think and Be Successful." Mr. Zahn describes the lectures as "the rules or steps that direct the way to individual success regardless of one's occupation, hobby or goals in any area—personal or otherwise."

The lectures will be held beginning at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Hodges Community Center, 41st St. and University Ave.

AIRMAN REENLISTS—Lt. Col. Howard J. Pierson, 3501st Student Squadron commander, gives the reenlistment oath to Sgt. Thomas L. Lipham, simulator maintenance specialist, DCO, for another 30 months' active duty. Completing 31 months of active duty Sergeant Lipham reenlisted for another four-year term, which will actually amount to an added two and a half years on his original enlistment. Under the VRB program, Sergeant Lipham will receive $4,780 for his enlistment decision. (USAF PHOTO BY A1C LARRY KERR)

NCO Aid Asked In Retention

WASHINGTON (AFNS)— Seeking to further improve the first-term airmen reenlistment rates, Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. John P. McConnell has directed major commands to call upon their top three noncommissioned officers for increased support.

"I believe that our noncommissioned officers, particularly the top three grades, can significantly improve the Air Force reenlistment program," General McConnell said.

Accordingly the Military Personnel Center has implemented a unit-level retention program, called "Top Three." It is aimed directly at the first-term airman and will be carried out by chief, senior and master sergeants.
