County Commissioners hear report of kids' cooking class success

By ROGER CLINE
 Staff Writer

Kids cooking up a storm at the Salvation Army Boys and Girls Club was the topic of discussion Wednesday afternoon at the Howard County Commissioners Court meeting.

At the meeting, Howard County's Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Agent Sandy Taylor and Salvation Army Boys and Girls Club Director Duane Shackelford reported to the commissioners on a successful collaboration between the two groups to bring a cooking class to the kids at the Boys and Girls Club.

"This is something that we did back in August for part of our summer program," said Taylor. "I just wanted to let you guys know that we're working together, going in and teaching the kids basic cooking skills. You all know how I feel about that, how important it is to get kids cooking, because I've stated it a million times: 28 percent of adults over the age of 25 don't know how to cook. I think it's important that they know how to cook and know about the nutrients for their

Free breast exams

By AMBER MANSFIELD
 Staff Writer

It is a pretty well-known fact that one in eight woman develop invasive breast cancer. Odds are, that the average risk of a woman in the United States to develop breast cancer sometime in her life is about 12 percent. Pretty high right? It is so vital to be proactive and make time for breast exams. Sometimes time isn't the only issue though. With some, money can be the issue, as breast screenings aren't always cheap.

This is why the Howard County Community Health Clinic under South Plains Rural Health Services, in honor of Breast Cancer Awareness Month, are hosting free breast exams to the public all day on Thursday, Oct. 25. The screenings will take place at the

Just to name a few, we have several Home Health's, SMMC, Hospices, the Retirement Homes, Nalley-Pickle & Welch, the Veteran's Home, and the Texas Department of State Health Services will also be giving out flu shots while supplies last."

Guadalupe "Lupe" Porrás Garcia

Guadalupe "Lupe" Porrás Garcia, 88, of Waco, Texas, passed away on Sunday, Oct. 14. Funeral services will be noon Friday, Oct. 19 at St. Louis Catholic Church in Waco. Visitation will be from 5 p.m.-8 p.m., Rosary at 7:00 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 18 at Connally-Compton Funeral Home in Waco.

Lupe was born in Chihuahua, Mexico to Jose Porrás and Narcisa Flores on Feb. 9, 1930.

Grandma was a legacy of her own. She was a person that gave so much and asked for so little in return. She was always willing to help anyone in need. She had so much patience. She taught the grandchildren how rewarding it is to do something for someone when it is done out of love. Humbleness was her nature.

Grandma was a link to the past, with a heart of gold. She was our sunshine on a rainy day. Grandma was a bridge through time full of information and wisdom. Her mind was intact that she could tell a million tales of history that taught us so much about Family. Grandma was a security blanket with a stern connection on Family. She always made sure that her family was well and had everything.

Grandma was the cornerstone of the family, especially when there were tough times within the family. Her strong belief in God was implemented within her children, grandchildren and great grandchildren. She had a loving, remarkable personality that made everyone feel like she was their grandma. She had several nephews and nieces that she loved and prayed for every day. She loved her sister, Pilar Yanez, with all her heart and even they were far apart she thought of her daily. To many of her grandchildren, she was their best friend. Her facial expressions were priceless. Her laughter was so full of life. Grandma was 88 but her age would not hold her back. Grandma was the start of the day. She would give you a blessing when you would leave and wouldn't lay down until you came home. She greeted everyone with a smile and also would give them a blessing if they wanted one. Barry and Renee Hand, Barbara White can attest to this. Grandma would always find the best in you when others wouldn't see it.

Survivors include a sister, Pilar Yanez; son, John Garcia and his wife, Irene; her daughters Maria Lourdes Smithwick, Rosie Garcia, Marisa Soliz and her husband, Robert Jr.; twelve grandchildren, Myra and Joe Zarraga; Lorenzo, Juan, Cecilia, Ramon and Pascual Garcia, James Smithwick; Robert, Alexis, Serenity and Victoria Soliz; great grandchildren, Javier, Ariana, Juan, Jose, Angela Camacho; Elijah and Matias Zarraga.

Grandma was one of a kind that educated and gave us everything she could to the best of her ability. These teachings will always be instilled within us like she will.

Grandma, WE LOVE YOU! CON TODO EL CORAZON!

blood sugar levels, poor circulation, immune systems issues, nerve damage and infection may contribute to a diabetic foot ulcer.

With America's diabetic population expected to nearly double by 2030, it is important that people understand the risks and know the facts associated with diabetic foot ulcers. Approximately 25 percent of people living with diabetes will develop a foot ulcer. As many as 40 percent of people with a healed diabetic foot ulcer will develop a new ulcer within a year. An estimated 14 to 24 percent of people with foot ulcers will experience an amputation. An amputation results in decreased quality of life, increased medical costs and a significantly higher risk of mortality. The five-year mortality rate following a lower extremity amputation is 50 percent.

Early detection and intervention can help to mitigate the possibility of limb loss. The Wound Healing Center at Scenic Mountain Medical Center recommends the following to help prevent diabetic foot ulcers:

- Stop smoking immediately
- Comprehensive foot examinations each time you visit your healthcare provider (at least four times a year)
- Daily self-inspections of the feet, or have a family member perform the inspection
- Regular care of the feet including cleaning toenails and taking care of corns and calluses
- Choose supportive, proper footwear (shoes and socks)
- Take steps to improve circulation such as eating healthier and exercising on a regular basis

Proper wound care is imperative to healing diabetic foot ulcers. The Wound Healing Center at Scenic Mountain Medical Center offers a number of leading-edge treatments including Total Contact Casting (TCC), Negative Pressure Wound Therapy and Hyperbaric Oxygen Therapy. These specialized wound care therapies can aid in wound closure, new tissue growth, wound tissue regeneration and much more.

Contact the Wound Healing Center to learn more about diabetic foot ulcers or if you have a wound that will not heal. To schedule an appointment, please call 432-268-5370.

About the Wound Healing Center

The Wound Healing Center offers a comprehensive wound management approach to healing through our clinic's interdisciplinary team approach. As an outpatient, appointment-based program, the Wound Care Center's staff is committed to providing each patient with an advanced, individualized treatment plan for their chronic, non-healing wounds. These wounds are defined as sores or wounds that have not significantly improved from conventional treatments. Typically, a wound that does not respond to normal medical care within 30 days is considered a problem wound. Associated with inadequate circulation, poorly functioning veins, and immobility, non-healing wounds tend to lead to lower quality of life, as well as potential amputation. When wounds persist, a specialized approach is required for healing. This is where the Wound Care Center can help.

About Healogics

Headquartered in Jacksonville, FL, Healogics is the nation's largest provider of advanced wound care services. Healogics and its affiliated companies manage a network of Wound Care Centers® throughout the United States and the United Kingdom. Healogics technology-enabled wound care model supports the critical connection between patients with chronic wounds and multi-disciplinary teams for continuous, collaborative, patient-centered care. health and well-being."

Shackelford said the program has been a hit with the kids and their parents.

"I can tell you, our partnership since Ms. Sandy has joined with us at the Boys and Girls Club, it has been a very, very positive influence on our children," he said. "Our children come from all works of life. I generally tell my staff as we're training: 'What you see is what you get.' From A to Z we're going to teach, and we're going to make sure they're equipped with what they need for everyday purposes. During the summer, the average daily attendance is about 150 kids, so for Ms. Sandy to come in and work with us and provide basic cooking skills for our kids, I think that is a wonderful, wonderful thing."

Commissioners reacted favorably to the report and commended Taylor and Shackelford on their success.

In other business, the commissioners:

- Approved renewal of the routine Breath Alcohol Testing Program with Midland College for $12,540.
- Awarded the annual bid for fuel for county vehicles to Parks Fuels for 15 cents per gallon over the cost of the fuel from the refinery.
- Voted to voice no objection to a City of Big Spring zoning change at the intersection of FM 700 and Wasson Road in order to allow an electronic billboard to be installed.
- Voted to approve a 10 percent rebate to an oil company located on County Road 25 in exchange for rebuilding a portion of the road.
- Voted to table a request from Delek

Remainder of the exclusive Trump interview continued from Wednesday's edition of the Herald:

AP: Would you prefer to have an in-person interview or do it this way?

Trump: We'll see how that works out. You know that's in process. It's a tremendous waste of time for the president of the United States. To think that I would be even thinking about using Russia to help me win Idaho. We're using Russia to help me win the great state of Iowa or anywhere else is the most preposterous, embarrassing thing. And I will say that the Democrats know it and they wink. They're all laughing. And you know if I often hear that Russia likes to sow discord. The word is sow, an old English term. They like to sow chaos and discord. Well, if that's the case, you gave it to them on a silver platter because this is ridiculous. This was an excuse made by the Democrats for the reason they lost the electoral college, which gives them a big advantage — a big advantage. Very different than the popular vote. The popular vote would be much easier to win if you were campaigning on it. You know, it's like running the 100-yard dash versus a 10-mile run. You train differently. Nobody explained that to Hillary Clinton, by the way. Someday she'll figure it out. But winning the electoral college is a tremendous advantage for the Democrats. And this was an excuse for how they lost the election. How they lost an election they should have won. And one of the reasons they lost because I happened to be a great candidate. And another reason they lost is that Hillary forgot to campaign in Wisconsin, Michigan, Pennsylvania and I guess she needed a lot more time in North Carolina, a lot more time in South Carolina and a lot more time in a place called — a beautiful, sunny, wonderful place— called Florida.

AP: If I could turn to immigration and the families separated at the border.

Trump: Sure.

AP: There are children who have now been reunited with their families who are now showing signs of trauma from their separation experience.

Trump: By the way, many of the children — and this is unfortunate, I covered it so nicely on '60 Minutes,' but they only put on pieces of it, and they were fine but you know they cut, cut, cut because I guess they have so much time, although I heard that they did very nicely on the show. Did they do well?

AP: They just put out some ratings.

Trump: So congratulations to them, but I wish they would have left the entire answer. When people enter our country illegally, there are consequences to pay. But despite the consequences, you have many children that, sadly, are there without parents. Then you have people that grab children and use them as a prop and it's a disgrace. And they come in with a child and they don't even know who the child is five hours before. And that's a shame. That's a terrible thing what they do.

AP: There are also children whose parents have been deported.

Trump: They take children and they use them to try and come into our country. There are many, many bad things going on on the border. We have the worst laws in the history of the world on immigration, and we're getting them changed one by one. We've made a lot of progress in the last couple of weeks even, but we're getting them changed one by one. But you have children that we're taking care of, that don't even have parents at least anywhere within hundreds of miles of the border, and we're taking those children, caring for those children, and in many cases sending them back to their parents in countries where their parents didn't even make the journey up with them, incredibly. And some of those children are really young. And we are, actually, in fact, today there was a beautiful statement put out by the Washington Examiner congratulating us on the great job we do with children. Now President Obama had the same law; he did the same thing. And, in fact, the picture of children living in cages that was taken in 2014 was a picture of President Obama's administration and the way they handled children. They had the kids living in cages. They thought it was our administration and they used it and then unbeknownst to them and the fake news, they found out, 'Oh my God, this is a terrible situation.' This was during the Obama administration.

AP: Do you have any regrets or any remorse about how this has impacted children, though?

Trump: Here's the thing. I think we've done an incredible job with children. As I just said, we've taken children who have no parents with them standing on the border. We've taken many children, and I'm not talking about a small percentage, I'm talking about a very large percentage where they have no people, no parents. In addition to that, we're separating children who are just met by people that are using them coming into the border, not their parents. They are using them coming into the border. The one thing I will also say is that when a person thinks they will not be separated, our border becomes overrun with people coming in. So that's another problem. With all of that being said, we're getting the laws changed so that catch and release, so that visa lottery, so that chain migration and every other form of incredible stupidity can be taken out of our system.

White House Press Secretary Sarah Huckabee Sanders: I'll send you guys the DHS report that has the numbers that show that, like, 75 percent of the kids were actually self-separated. Their parents chose to go back and signed the paperwork to leave their kids behind.

Trump: The parents would sometimes come up with their kids, leave them at the border and go back. So we're in this position where we have an innocent young child at the border; there are no parents. We take them in, we care for the child and then we get horrible publicity. We should be getting great publicity, and the Washington Examiner did a great piece today on the fact that we've done a great job. And President Obama had the same law. And, by the way, he separated children and there are many pictures of jail cells where the children were separate from the parents.

Trump: We should be getting credit for the job we've done.

AP: Turning to foreign policy, you ran the campaign on bringing American troops home and the America First policy.

Trump: Yes.

AP: But today there are more American troops serving in Afghanistan and in Syria and Iraq, in Africa, in harm's way than when you took office. How do you explain to people at home?

Trump: The main thing I have to see is, I have to see safety at home and — not a vast difference, by the way — but a little bit more. But it's not a lot more, it's a little bit more. I have to see safety at home. And if I think people are likely to do some very bad things in faraway places to our homeland, I'm going to have troops there for a period of time. But we've done an excellent job. We've defeated ISIS. ISIS is defeated in all of the areas that we fought ISIS, and that would have never happened under President Obama. In fact, it is going the other way. And I think we fought extremely effectively on everything I've wanted to do. Now there will be a certain point where that takes place.

AP: John Bolton, though, told us, told my colleague Jon a couple of weeks ago that troops aren't going to come out, aren't going to leave Syria, until Iran is fully out of Syria.

Trump: We're going to see what happens. We're going to see what happens. I want, No. 1, the safety of our country. And if that means knocking the hell out of them, of terrorists, long before they can ever get here, that's OK with me. And if I could help Europe and other places by doing it, that's OK with me. And they're starting to pay us for that, by the way, much more substantially than they ever paid before. You understand that's an important thing because it's unfair that the burden is all on us. As it has been. But we are ... we've made ... we've had tremendous success there. We've had tremendous success in North Korea, tremendous success in North Korea.

AP: On the subject of American soldiers and military overseas, why have you not yet visited a military base in a combat zone like in Iraq and Afghanistan?

Trump: Well, I will do that at some point, but I don't think it's overly necessary. I've been very busy with everything that's taking place here. We have the greatest economy in the history of our country. I mean, this is the greatest economy we've ever had, best unemployment numbers. Many groups are, you know, we've never even been close to these numbers. I'm doing a lot of things. I'm doing a lot of things. But it's something I'd do. And do gladly. Nobody has been better at the military. Hey, I just got them a pay raise. I haven't had a pay raise in 11 years. I just got them a substantial pay raise. 'They' meaning our military people. I just got them new equipment. They have stuff that was so old that the grandfathers used to fly it. I have done more for the military than any president in many, many years.

AP: Can you give us any update as to the plans for your next meeting with Kim Jong Un?

Trump: Yeah, we will have one, but it is going to be after the midterms because I want to stay around here.

AP: Will it be here, in the United States, sir?

Trump: I want to stay around and help people get elected.

AP: Do you think that meeting would be here? In the U.S.?

Trump: No, I don't think so. I mean, we haven't set it up yet, but I would think not yet. At some point, that will happen, too.

AP: You saw the numbers, the coverage in the last couple of days about deficits. That the projected deficit is a trillion dollars. You railed on President Obama over deficits.

Trump: Excuse me. No. 1, I had to take care of our military. I had no choice but to do it, and I want to take care of our military. We had to do things that we had to do. And I've done them. Now we're going to start bringing numbers down. We also have tremendous numbers with regard to hurricanes and fires and the tremendous forest fires all over. We had very big numbers, unexpectedly big numbers. California does a horrible job maintaining their forests. They're going to have to start doing a better job or we're not going to be paying them. They are doing a horrible job of maintaining what they have. And we had big numbers on tremendous numbers with the forest fires and obviously the hurricanes. We got hit in Texas, Florida, Puerto Rico, Georgia. Georgia was hit very hard this time. Nobody even, you know, treats that one fairly. The farmers got hit very, very hard.

AP: Mitch McConnell said he wants to consider entitlement reform.

Trump: Wants to consider what?

AP: Entitlement reform — changes to Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid.

Trump: That I haven't heard.

AP: OK.

Trump: I haven't heard that. I'm leaving Social Security. I'm not touching Social Security.

AP: I know we are quite short on time. We were looking to do kind of a lightning round.

AP: You've spoken about security clearances. Do you have any plans to take any more clearances away any time soon?

Trump: Yeah, I do.

AP: From whom?

Trump: People I don't trust.

AP: Any updates on the White House counsel?

Trump: Yes. I've made a decision. He's ... you've been reading a little bit about it. A very fine man, highly respected by a lot of people: Pat (Cipollone).

AP: And for the U.N. perm rep? For Ambassador Haley's job? Have you made a decision?

Trump: I have many people that want the job. I have such a good relationship with Nikki. And I've talked to her about it, too. I will be talking to her about it. But I have many people that want the job, and I would say I'll be making that decision over the next week or two. They're going to work with Nikki for a little while. She's going to go till the end of the year, and they'll be working with Nikki.

AP: You've been very critical, the last year or so, of the NFL. This year, actually, ratings are up a little bit. What do you make of that? What does that say about ...?

Trump: Hey, look, I did the NFL a big favor. You know that, right?

AP: By calling attention to it?

Trump: No. You didn't know this? You didn't know this?

AP: Tell us, sir.

Trump: So the NFL was having a tremendous problem with Canada on the Super Bowl and advertising and all sorts of things — very complicated subject. And in about two seconds, I got, in about 30 seconds, I got that one fixed up for the NFL. They're going to make a tremendous amount of additional money because of what I did for them. It was a favor for them and it wasn't for NFL, it was that this is a great American company. I was negotiating against

Canada. And one of the things, I said 'I want the NFL fixed,' because it had to do with them keeping revenues from advertising and for not allowing the NFL to advertise in Canada. And it was very unfair and everybody knew that and Canada knew it, too. And Canada plays a very tough game. So I said I want that fixed and nobody wrote a story about it because why would they ever write about it? And, by the way, Commissioner Goodell called me last week and he, 'thank you very much.' But I settled that for the NFL. It took me literally about a minute because that's a small deal compared to the big deal. And Canada knew it was the right thing to do. So I helped a great American corporation. You have to understand, I like the NFL. I want the NFL to do well. I have many friends that are in the NFL, owners and others. I want them to do very well. I also want them standing for the American flag, not kneeling, but I just helped the NFL settle a problem that they couldn't settle for 15 years or something. This has been going on, a vicious battle with Canada, for years. I settled it. And not one person has written about it. Why don't you call what you call Commissioner Goodell and ask him. Roger. He called me last week. I thought he was calling me about the flag to say 'ceasefire.' But he didn't. He called me just to thank me, and I said, 'That was very nice.' It was a very nice phone call. You should do something about it if you want.

AP: Do you plan to pardon Paul Manafort?

Trump: Who?

AP: Paul Manafort.

Trump: I never even was asked about it. I haven't thought about it. But, you know, I think it's a very sad, sad situation. And there's another thing that had nothing to do with me. That was from years before. You do understand that, right? Do you understand that? Do you know these Russian hackers you're talking about from Moscow? They have nothing to do with me. How many people are they? Only 28 people? They have nothing to do with me. They were hackers from Moscow. Some of them supported Hillary Clinton. They had nothing to do with me. You look at all the stuff, it's just nothing to do with me.

AP: Knowing what you know today, is it still appropriate for Secretary Mnuchin to be going to Saudi Arabia next week?

Trump: Well, it depends on what we find out over the next couple of days. He doesn't have to make that determination until Friday, and I think we'll also be guided by what other countries are doing. You know, we'll look at that.

AP: What's your responsibility?

Trump: I do think this. I do think that they have ordered billions, one of the largest military orders in the history of the country. I think that we hurt ourselves far more than we hurt Saudi Arabia when we cancel an order like that.

AP: You've seen American business leaders, though, pull out of that conference. Do you endorse that move?

Trump: Too early to say. I have to find out what happened. Once they find out what happened, I'll be able to tell you exactly.

AP: Would you only serve one term, Mr. President, if you felt like you had done everything you set out to do?

Trump: No. Because the other term ... first of all, there's always things to do. Actually, it's a very nice question because I have done so much. People have said that, 'You've done so much. You may have it all put back together. And our country: Make America Great Again.' And they do ask me that question. So if you do all of the things that you're doing and you're given another two years, which is a lot of time because I've done this in far less than two years, and those papers pretty much say it, they do ask that question. There's always something to do. And you know, the new motto is Keep America Great. I don't want somebody to destroy it because I can do a great job. But the wrong person coming in after me sitting right at this desk can destroy it very quickly, if they don't do the right thing. So no I'm definitely running.

AP: Is there someone in particular you'd like to run against?

Trump: So far, all of them. So far, all of them. I don't see any talent. No talent.

AP: No one you're worried about?

Trump: I see no talent.

AP: Vice President Biden? Or Sen. Warren? Or anyone?

Trump: Well, Biden ran twice and actually a lot of people think he really ran a third time, but he was so low in the polls that he never registered. But he ran twice. And I call him One Percent Joe because you know he did very poorly and then Obama took him off the trash heap and made him vice president. And in a sense he did a good job as vice president, in my opinion, because Obama liked him, and if President Obama didn't like him, you would have been hearing about it. So in that sense, he, I think, he did actually a nice job because the president of the United States felt very comfortable about him. Like, I like my vice president very, very much. That's an important function.

AP: Thank you very much, Mr. President.

Trump: Thank you all.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Mars and Shifting Goals

Under the lunar conjunction of Mars, goals could change without warning. Just when the prize is within reach, the excitement drops out as though part of us has already moved on. But where to? What's next? All of this is a good reason to slow down. If you don't know where you're going, there's no sense in setting a speed record to get there.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

You'll be happiest while in the process of learning something new. Embark on an educational venture to spark your creativity and reignite your sense of wonder.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Being grateful is not just something you do; it's something you are. No matter what you take on, you're coming from a place of appreciation and that's what makes this day great.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21)

Are your actions working toward the goal you have in mind? You'll want to know how you're doing. There's nothing wrong with just asking. The question might actually be charming and disarming.

CANCER (June 22-July 22)

Extra energy and vitality is yours to play with. It's as though you've tapped into an energy field and are being compelled, not by your own volition, but by the very force that fuels the spinning of the planets.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Others may do things in a way that clearly works great. Still, never discount what you know or reject your own roots. To accept and love where you came from is essential to feeling comfortable in the world.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Write it down so you don't have to worry about remembering. Set a timer so you won't procrastinate. Lock the door and turn off the Wi-Fi so you won't get interrupted or distracted. The best solutions are simple and obvious.

LIBRA

(Sept. 23-Oct. 23). It used to be that people believed the answers were blowing in the wind. Now they believe the answers are trending on Twitter or Reddit. Just to be safe, check everywhere.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21)

In the name of getting things done, you might have to limit your mental scope. There will be enough to do with what's actually happening without also worrying about what might happen or what could happen.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Your heart may cherish your friends, but it's the rest of you that really lets them know. Your deeds speak volumes. They'll be warmed by your actions.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22-Jan. 19). By simply sharing your honest appraisal of a situation you'll do more good than you could possibly know. If this sort of thing also happens to be your job, the result will make you money today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

Not everyone wants to be famous, and you'll be living proof of this today as you choose to do your thing without taking a picture or otherwise submitting some representation of it to the eyes of the world.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

You'll do a thing and then cross it off your list. But don't let that be the only reason to cross things off. If you know you'll never do it, that's as fine a reason as any to put a pen slash through it.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

FACT CHECK: Cruz, O'Rourke claims cite taxes, immigration

U.S. Sen. Ted Cruz, R-Texas, takes part in a debate for the Texas U.S. Senate with U.S. Rep. Beto O'Rourke, D-Texas, Tuesday, Oct. 16, 2018, in San Antonio.

A look at claims made in their debate Tuesday in San Antonio:

O'ROURKE: "Ted Cruz invested more than $5 million in Cambridge Analytica, which is the very company that helped to undermine our democracy, to feed false news and false opinions to our fellow Americans."

THE FACTS: Cruz didn't personally invest $5 million in Cambridge Analytica, the campaign consulting firm that was accused earlier this year of misusing data from 87 million Facebook accounts to target voters during elections. But Cruz's 2016 presidential campaign did spend millions of dollars purchasing the group's services.

Federal campaign finance reports show Cruz's presidential campaign committee spent $5.8 million with Cambridge Analytica between July 2015 and June 2016. The firm's work for the campaign included voter targeting, digital media and survey research, according to the Federal Election Commission's records.

In 2016, Cambridge helped the Cruz campaign send direct messages telling Iowa residents who live near red light cameras that the senator opposes their use.

Allegations that the firm improperly accessed personal information from Facebook users surfaced in March of this year, when the New York Times and The Guardian reported on the breach and Cambridge's work with Trump's campaign. Facebook suspended the firm and its CEO Mark Zuckerberg testified before the Senate on the privacy missteps. A Cambridge Analytica whistleblower said the firm identified voters and targeted them with messages that were true or untrue.

The now defunct company denied allegations that it used Facebook data to develop fake news or that the improperly accessed data was used to help Trump's campaign.

CRUZ: "Congressman O'Rourke voted in favor of a $10 a barrel tax on every barrel of oil produced in the state of Texas."

THE FACTS: Cruz's claim sparked a strong reaction from O'Rourke, who said the senator was being dishonest. But Cruz was correct. O'Rourke did cast a vote in the House in favor of such an oil tax that never became law.

The vote in June 2016 was on a symbolic resolution opposing President Barack Obama's proposal to tax $10 on every barrel of crude oil. O'Rourke voted against the resolution, which put him on the record favoring the tax. The Republican-controlled House passed the measure.

O'ROURKE: "When the Senate voted to move forward on debate for (young immigrants) Dreamers, 98 Senators showed up that day, 97 voted to move forward. Only one senator voted no."

THE FACTS: O'Rourke is correct. Cruz cast the lone vote against advancing an immigration measure for debate on the Senate floor in February of this year. The debate was over a route to citizenship for young immigrants brought to the U.S. by their parents who were shielded from deportation as part of the Obama-era Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals program. Recipients of that program are commonly called "Dreamers."

In a speech to Congress, Cruz said he was "flabbergasted with my own party" for considering an agreement that would allow some immigrants living in the U.S. illegally to apply for citizenship.

"I do not believe we should be granting citizenship to anyone here illegally," Cruz said during his Feb. 15 statement on the Senate floor.

While Cruz's Republican colleagues agreed to engage in an immigration debate with Democrats in February, days later the Senate rejected bipartisan proposals to strengthen border security while establishing a permanent solution for Dreamers to avoid deportation.

For years, Cruz has criticized policies that create citizenship pathways for anyone living in the country illegally. In 2016 he said he would work to deport the estimated 12 million immigrants if elected president.

CRUZ: "Congressman O'Rourke is the only Democratic Senate candidate in the country who has explicitly come out in favor of impeaching President Trump."

THE FACTS: At least one other Democratic U.S. Senate candidate has publicly supported Trump's impeachment. But other Democratic U.S. Senate candidates have not gone as far as O'Rourke's statement that he would vote to impeach Trump.

California state Sen. Kevin de Leon, who is challenging U.S. Senator Dianne Feinstein in the November election, told The Associated Press earlier this year he would vote to impeach Trump.

On the campaign trail in July, O'Rourke said that he would vote to impeach the president. He made the comment to the Dallas Morning News, a day after Republicans and Democrats alike rebuked Trump's statements about the U.S. intelligence community in a press conference with Russian President Vladimir Putin in Helsinki, Finland.

"Standing on stage in another country with the leader of another country who wants to and has sought to undermine this country, and to side with him over the United States — if I were asked to vote on this I would vote to impeach the president," O'Rourke told the newspaper.

Prior to that, O'Rourke had avoided calls to impeach the president. He twice voted to table a House resolution, introduced by fellow Democrats, to impeach the president in December and January.

Big Spring High School enters the forensics world

By COLONEL ALLEN M. MORRIS

BSHS Communications Dept. Instructor

A crime can't be uncommitted, and clues are left behind by even the most experienced criminals. Crime Scene investigators then have time and experience on their side. Experienced and trained detectives know what to look for and how to collect it. These are the things that students are learning in Meghan Whitford's Forensics class at Big Spring High.

According to Whitford, "My hope is to inspire students to consider science as a career. This new science class offers even more opportunities for our students. This new class allows students a chance to explore the area of Forensics. For the students who do not appreciate science in general, this class ties together so many branches of science, and it allows the students to see how they interconnect."

According to Vonnie Anderson, College, Career & Technical Education Director, "Forensic Science is a dynamic career field with many opportunities for students to pursue for their future. This is the first year that Big Spring High School has had the Forensic Science course available, and it has gained a lot of interest. Students are enjoying the content, activities, and are looking forward to upcoming competitions and events related to the course."

Colonel Allen M. Morris

Additionally, Anderson also stated "We are also very excited to partner with industry leaders right here in Big Spring, such as the Big Spring Police Department Crime Scene Unit, to make these experiences for students more hands-on, so that they can get a glimpse of what it would be like to pursue a career in Forensic Science."

One team of students is designing the crime, and thus the crime scene, and the other team is working on solving the crime. This pattern will happen multiple times throughout the school year as the teams prepare for state and even national contests with Skills USA. The teams are being helped by local law enforcement experts and Howard College.

"It was great to hear how I too could explore being employed in this branch of science. Besides, it's just fun to make crime scenes that others have to solve," crime scene creator and student, Kailyn Talemantez said.

Academic Star Student of the Week Kynleigh Joy, Big Spring High School

Kynleigh Joy is in the class of 2020, and she has an eye on her future where she fittingly wants to be an Ophthalmologist. She is the daughter of Jeremy and Honey Joy, and she is a lifelong Big Springer. The important things in her life are God, family, friends and softball, though she also spends time being class president and she serves on the Student Council.

A few things that Kynleigh's teachers have to say about her include:

"Kynleigh is amazing! She has a caring heart for those in need, she has never met a stranger, she gives 110% effort all day long and is always spreading the good word of Jesus," stated Science Teacher and StuCo Adviser Porsha Bryant.

"Kynleigh Joy is truly an outstanding and compassionate young lady! She is highly goal-driven and dedicated. This is evidenced by her numerous and well-deserved/well-earned academic, athletic, and personal achievements. She has exemplary leadership qualities and is always willing to put others' needs before her own. I, like many others, appreciate how Kynleigh is a constant reflection of God's love to everyone she encounters. Knowing Kynleigh is a true blessing!" exclaimed Texas History Teacher, Volleyball & Track Coach Tabatha Barbee.

According to Vice Principal Bert Otto, "Kynleigh leads by example with her words and actions. She is an asset to anyone who is lucky enough to come in contact with her."

Kynleigh stated that one person who truly impacted her is my cousin, Brayden Sizenbach, who passed away last summer. He always had my back and loved getting to hang out with me. He was my best friend, and I am so thankful for the close bond that we had.

"If you fear anything other than God, you're giving it too much power in your life. I love Psalm 46:5. 'God is within her, she will not fall,' claims Kynleigh.

Congratulations, Kynleigh!

Texas FFA Greenhand Creed speaking state champion Julia Cox, a CHS sophomore, is heading to national competition in Indianapolis during the 91st FFA Convention and Expo set for Oct. 25-27.

In fact, the Coahoma FFA chapter will be well represented this year. Micah Worley, a senior at CHS, was elected as one of 75 Texas delegates and Bailey Wells, a CHS junior, was selected to the FFA national band.

All three will join more than an expected 67,000 attendees to participate in the one of the largest student conventions in the world.

Cox qualified for the competition as a freshman when she won the Texas state championship in the 2017 LDE competition. She will be competing against 49 other state champions at nationals. She is the secretary for the Coahoma FFA chapter.

Worley is a senior at CHS and is the Coahoma Chapter president. She was selected to be a delegate at nationals through a lengthy election process. First she was interviewed by a nominating committee, took a quiz to show her FFA knowledge and gave a speech in front of an audience around 450 to 500 of her peers. She was then elected by her peers.

Wells, a junior, is a trumpet player in the high school band and is the Coahoma Chapter Chaplin. She will join musicians from around the nation who were all selected through a video audition process to play during the convention.

Although not attending the convention, Emilee Custer will be the only FFA member from Texas who will be featured at We are FFA booth at the national convention. Emilee's photo and biography will be shown with students across the nation to show off FFA's model members. Custer is the Coahoma Chapter 1st vice president.

This is the largest representation of Coahoma FFA members to attend the national convention under the 17-year tenure of advisor Aaron Custer. Since joining Coahoma ISD, Aaron Custer has seen the FFA program grow tremendously. Currently, 120 students are members of the Coahoma Chapter up from 100 last year.

Besides boasting a state champion in the 2017 LDE competition, the Coahoma Chapter had two teams place in the top 10 in the state their division - Radio Broadcasting and Ag Advocacy.

FFA - Future Farmers of America - is a national program designed to bring about personal growth, leadership skills, and community mindedness in young people through agricultural education.

"We try to teach them to sell themselves and pave the road for the future where they can be productive members of society," Aaron Custer said. "They understand what it is like to vote, they understand parliamentary procedure, they can hold offices, they can do all these things and more."

Tag, you're it!

Forsan journalism students play a sneaky game of tag

By TY MOORMAN

FISD Journalist

Tag is the most widely recognized playground game in the world. Literally anyone you meet can tell you both what tag is and how to play it. It's so popular in fact, that a comedy film about the game, starring award winning actor Jeremy Renner, was released earlier this year. Consequently, the members of Forsan ISD's own Journalism team decided to initiate their very own game of tag.

The game was played during school and extra-curricular activities such as band and football for two weeks, from Oct. 1st through Oct. 12th. There were only two simple rules: the Journalism classroom was a safe zone, and no tag-backs.

For the most part, the game remained under the radar of the rest of the campus. Word did get out to some of the students eventually, but luckily the few that knew about it kept it to themselves. School staff, besides the Journalism supervisor Mrs. Irwin, had absolutely no idea that the game took place at all.

After the first day, with a total tally of 21 tags, many of the players still remained untagged. The day after the game started, a new transfer named Cara Wilson came to Forsan, and by joining the class landed amidst the tooth-and-nail game of tag. By Oct. 4th, everyone had been tagged, including Wilson. The tag tally was then at 44.

Slowing down marginally, the tally after the next day was 49 tags, only gaining five tags from an entire day. After an uneventful weekend, the tally on Tuesday stood at 60, picking up on a bye-week for football.

During most of the morning Wednesday, and all of Journalism class, most juniors and many sophomores participated in a PSAT, so the tally was picked on Thursday. The increase was unbelievable: 50 tags being dealt in only two days, the tally rose to 110 tags.

The final tally was 115 tags, with a three-way tie for first between Cara Wilson, Brandon Freitag and Razyl Yanez.

The only solution to the problem; sudden death! Unfortunately Cara was absent, so Brandon and Razyl spent the rest of the day escaping the rest of the class, whose assignment was to tag either one of them until a victor emerged: and one did, ultimately.

The official tag champion is Brandon Freitag! Second place finishers include Razyl Yanez, Ty Moorman, Cara Wilson, Ilona Lorenz and Eva Zollner.

The player that was "it" had to be determined at the beginning of class everyday, and the classmate with the most "it" titles under her belt was Kyndel Lawdermilk with a grand total of 3 out of 8 places.

The label of most days without being tagged during the entire day went to Brandon Freitag, not including sudden death. He had eleven days counting the week-

The little Buffs had so much fun building their own burgers and describing the different textures they used to create them.

The loser, which is the person who was tagged the most, was Ally Aguilar. She was tagged a staggering 23 times.

Overall, the game was received well by the participants, and the members of the Journalism class can only imagine what other exciting games their instructor, Mrs. Irwin, has in store for later.

FRIDAY NIGHT UNDER THE LIGHTS

Buffs open up district play at home versus Ozona

By JORDAN PARR
Sports Editor

Coming off a bye week last week the 1-5 Buffs will kickoff their district play this Friday at home against the 1-5 Ozona Lions. With their best game of the year coming prior to their bye week, Forsan has a lot of momentum on their side headed into this Friday's matchup with Ozona. The Buffs have a great opportunity this week to ride that momentum and draw from their tough pre-district schedule to get an early district win against the Lions. Ozona enters Friday nights contest coming off a lopsided 41-16 loss to Stamford in their first district action last week. This game is a pivotal game for both of these two teams as they try to avoid falling behind early in the really competitive district 1-2A. Each week Forsan has shown vast improvements on both sides of the ball as the season has progressed, culminating in a big 25-24 win over Wink before their bye week. Offensively the Buffs have become a very balanced team with multiple threats in the backfield and out wide. Quarterback Kobe Richardson has emerged as a true duel threat for the Buffs and has increased his production on the ground each week as teams try to take away the passing game. In the backfield Jonathon Gabehart, Trey Brockman and Chris Mendez have each played key roles in both the run and pass game as well. The trio of backs have contributed greatly to that balance that the Buffs have found on offense and will look to continue that trend this week against the Lions. With the increased balance and consistency Forsan has developed on offense, look for the Buffs to take advantage and score early against a Ozona' defense that is giving up 29 points per game this year. If the Buffs can get their run game going early it should open up the passing game for Richardson as the Lions start coming up to stop the run.

Brysen Kirby, No. 22, breaks away from a couple of Wildcats during the Coahoma/Idadlou varsity football game held Friday, Oct. 12, 2018, in Idalou.

By JORDAN PARR
Sports Editor

The 2-4 Bulldogs are coming off a tough 35-0 road loss to Idalou in their first district contest last week. For the first time all season Coahoma had a hard time establishing the run game against Wildcats this past Friday. If the Bulldogs want to avoid a similar outcome this week against a 5-1 Abernathy team that is only giving up 15 points per game, Coahoma will have to show multiple dimensions on offense to keep the Antelopes from stacking the line of scrimmage. On the flip side the Bulldogs will have their work cut out for them trying to stop the dangerous Abernathy offense as well. The Antelopes are putting up an astounding 42 points per game this year and are coming off a 59-7 drumming of Stanton last week to open their district play. The key for the Bulldogs offense this week will be establishing some sort of passing game early to soften the Antelopes tough defense and open up some opportunities inside for Schneider and Murillo. If they can't establish the pass they may have to use pre-snap motion and empty sets to get favorable numbers inside the box. Coahoma' quarterback Zack Schneider has done an impressive job stepping into that role as a former running-back, but he will have to find a way to be more successful through the air as district play continues if the Bulldogs want to achieve their team goal of making a deep post season run in such a tough district. If Coahoma can get more balanced on offense they can be as dangerous as any team on their schedule. The Bulldogs ability to run the ball and control the clock and tempo with a lead makes them a scary team to face no matter what the records say. Look for Coahoma to try to get the early lead in this weeks game and then shorten the game by controlling the time of possession with Schneider and Murillo. On defense the Bulldogs will have to play their best game of the season to stop the high flying Antelope offense.

Steers head into bye week looking for answers

By JORDAN PARR
Sports Editor

The 2-5 Steers head into their bye week this week coming off a huge 55-0 loss on the road to the Dumas Demons last week to end their pre-district schedule. Big Spring will look to use the extra time off to prepare for their first district matchup of the year versus rival Andrews on October 26. The additional week will also give the Steers some much need recovery time to try to get as healthy as possible before kicking off their district schedule. With the offense and defense both struggling over the past few weeks, Big Spring really has to take advantage of this additional week of preparation to get back to the things that made them successful in their two wins this season. Namely their ability to have balance on offense and their commitment to limiting big plays on defense. The Steers have had a tough pre-district schedule throughout the early part of the season. Big Spring has faced off against and beaten the only two teams they have played so far that have losing records. The Steers ended their pre-district run with three really tough match ups in consecutive weeks against Wall (3-2), Canyon (7-0) and Dumas (5-2), dropping all three but getting valuable in game experience against really good competition. The talent level of this Big Spring team is really impressive but they have struggled to get that talent to gel and to get all their pieces working and moving together consistently as a complete unit. On the Steers' offensive squad the speed and athleticism they bring to the table have yet to be matched by an opponent and still somehow they just haven't been able to turn that advantage into points averaging just 16 points per game so far this year. With a young quarterback in his first year as a varsity starter taking the snaps for the Steers there is definitely a learning curve, but he has done a great job considering the position he has been put in this year.

Look for the Buffs to stay on the throttle even if they get the early lead in this contest.

Defensively the Buffs have been stout up front and flying around on the back end all season. As this young team has gelled they have become a real force to reckon with. The Forsan defense has't made anything easy for opposing offenses, especially over the last couple of weeks as they have really come together as a unit. The Buffs technique over scheme theory of defense is doing exactly what that type of defense does; get better with time and reps. As this defense continues to develop and come together they may well be the key to Forsans success moving into district play.

With standout defensive tackle Caden Williams setting the standard for their defense both physically and mentally, this unit has responded and raised not only their level of play but their level of expectations for how they play as well. The Buffs have become stout against the run and opportunistic against the pass as the season has unfolded. If they continue this upward trend they may yet have something to say when its all said and done against a Lions offense that is averaging just 19 points per game.

Head coach Jason Phillips' patience and trust in his players, staff and ultimately his process have proven to be exactly what this young team needed headed into a tough season. Now, with district play upon them, the Buffs look like a completely different team than the team that lined up against Coahoma in week one. Credit to the players for believing in themselves and their coaches despite early disappointments and getting to where they are now. That type of commitment, character and heart isn't easily found and these kids embody the true spirit of this great game in every way, win or lose. The Buffs and the Lions are set to kickoff this Friday night at 7:30 p.m. in Forsan. So bring the family and friends out and show these Buffs we are all behind them!

Coahoma has played great defense in spurts this year but will need to limit big plays with more consistency this week if they hope to keep Abernathy for putting up big numbers. If the Bulldogs can get some early stops and force the Antelopes to start throwing the ball that will play right into their strengths of their defense. The more times the opposing quarterback has to drop back to pass the more opportunities that gives Coahoma to get pressure and force turnovers and other big splash plays. Look for 'Bulldog' defensive end Keegan Dobbs to have a big game this week and make a big impact against the Antelopes.

Last weeks game versus Idalou was a good measuring stick for this defense. The lessons learned and adjustments made during and after that game should play a major factor this Friday at home against another tough district opponent in Abernathy. The Bulldogs have been great all year at making adjustments on the fly. I suspect it will be no different this week as Coahoma looks to get back to even in district play after a disappointing start against Idalou last week. This is a Bulldog' defense that has a lot of pride, heart and talent. I would be surprised if they didn't put forth one of their best games of the season this week against the Antelopes.

Trailing early in district this game is very important for the Bulldogs as they look to get back in the mix at the top of district 2-3A. There is little doubt that Coahoma is capable of doing just that so long as they play smart, fundamentally sound football. Head coach Chris Joslin will have his team ready for this contest and these Bulldogs always play hard and with heart so there is no reason to believe they can't take home this much needed win.

The Bulldogs and the Antelopes are set to kickoff at 7:30 p.m. this Friday in Coahoma. This will be the Bulldogs first district home game so come out and show these kids your support as they try to get their first district win.

Running a spread style offense, like the Steers do, puts a lot on the quarterback and the success and failure of that style of play is heavily dependent on the QB's ability to make the right reads and keep the offense out of bad plays and bad down and distances. Cortez has done a good job protecting the ball for Big Spring and has shown real promise with his ability to make the right reads, his arm strength and his ability to run as well.

Where the Steers have really struggled on offense is giving up the big negative plays. Far too many times during this pre-district the Steers get into scoring position and then have multiple plays for a loss that have ended promising drives. If there is one spot Cortez could improve it would be in getting rid of the ball when a play breaks down. That said, it is a double edged sword because you don't want your quarterback giving up too early on plays, while at the same time you want them to prevent as many negative plays as possible. That is a lot to ask of a sophomore quarterback at this level no matter how gifted they are, especially when they are under constant pressure like Cortez has been.

On defense, just like on offense, there are very few teams that can match the athleticism that the Steers have on the field. With speed off the edge and in the secondary, on paper Big Spring looks like they would be able to match up with and stop anyone they face. But what has happened more often than not is blown assignments leading to huge splash plays down the field. The Steers have given up a disappointing 31 points per game so far this year despite showing great promise at times in almost every game.

It's hard to pinpoint exactly what has led to Big Springs' struggles on defense, but the offense putting them in bad positions has certainly had something to do with it. There has also been some poor tackling at times especially against power run teams and at least one blown coverage deep in the secondary in each of their losses. Mental mistakes have cost the Steers big this pre-district and they will have to clean up those mistakes as they welcome in the high flying Andrews' offense to start district. Blown coverages against the pass oriented Mustangs can put the game out of reach early if the Steers aren't careful.

It has been a tough pre-district for Big Spring, there is no denying that. But with two wins already this year and with talent on both sides of the ball there is no reason why this Steers team can't put it together now and make a push for the playoffs. When district starts everyone is even at 0-0 and Big Spring need only to capitalize on their potential to make this new season their own and show everyone what they are truly capable of.
