Big Spring Pride Drive takes Sweepstakes

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

Big Spring band adds another one to the list.
 The Big Spring High School Band and Junior High School honor Bands competed in the Andrews competition Tuesday. The high school band brought home a Division 1 ranking in concert performance. The band was able to add that ranking to the Division 1 Ranking received in the fall for the marching contest and brought home Sweepstakes.

The Big Spring Steer Band competed in the annual Concert and Sightreading Contest in Andrews on Tuesday. The band earned Division 1 Superior Rating and qualified for Sweepstakes. Congratulations to the High School Honor Band.

"We are so proud of our Steer band," Dana Rodriguez said. According to Gabe Martinez, Big Spring Independent School District band director, when the band received the Division 1 ranking back in the fall, they fulfilled the requirements of Divisions 1 rankings which allowed the possibility of bringing home a Sweepstakes. "Bands participating in the University Interscholastic League Concert and Sight-reading are required to prepare three selections," Martinez said. "Selections come from the prescribed list set forth by the UIL. The third selection is required to be in the classic march style." In addition the high school band bringing home Sweepstakes, several individuals on to the State Solo & Ensemble Festival. Gage Davidson, Joseph Doll, Armand Martinez and Ethan Yarbrough will advance as saxophone quartet; the clarinet trio of Karliegh Moor, Korn Siritwang-santi and Jayden Torres; the french quartet made up of Emily Kocak, Mateo Rodriguez, Luke Thibeault, and Zachary Whitehead; trumpet trio consisting of Fransisco Zermen, Chris Grisham and Elijah Flores; trombone quartet of Sean Tan, Tomas Tino, Robert Sotelo, and Gia Ortega; and alto saxophone soloist Joseph Doll will be moving on in competition.

Bid error creates tough decision for county commissioners

Special meeting set Monday to vote on solution

By ROGER CLINE
 Staff Writer

Howard County Commissioners will hold a special meeting Monday morning to decide what to do about a mistake on a bid for road base material and work. At their meeting Wednesday, commissioners heard from County Road Administrator Brian Klinksiek about the bid on "inverted prime" material and labor to pave about eight miles of county roads. "I got a call back from our low bidder on the inverted prime project," Klinksiek told the commissioners. "I got this statement: 'Brian, I don't know what happened. We

Don't forget to spring forward this weekend

Daylight Saving Time Begins March 10

By ANNA GUTIERREZ
 Staff Writer

Don't forget to "spring forward" Saturday night before you go to bed as Daylight Saving Time begins Sunday, March 10 at 2 a.m.

 A little history about Daylight Saving Time:
 • It is officially spelled without an "s" at the end of "saving", though most people spell it and say it as "savings".
 • Daylight Saving Time was originally proposed to save fuel needed to produce electric power, but that was at a time before air conditioning. Now it just seems like air conditioners need to run longer into the night due to increased daylight, so we do not really see any energy savings on electric bills.

 • DST was not formally adopted in the U.S. until March, 1918 when "An Act to preserve daylight and provide standard time for the United States" was enacted. This act not only established DST but also standard time zones for the U.S. This law was very unpopular at the time, mostly because people rose and went to bed earlier, and was repealed in 1919. DST became a local option at that time and continued in only a few states.
 • During WWII, President Roosevelt implemented year-round DST, called "War Time", from Feb. 9, 1942 to Sept. 30, 1945.
 • DST was officially signed into law on April 12, 1966, by President Lyndon B. Johnson, with wrote down the wrong number. We wrote $1.90. We don't cover costs at $1.90; it should have been $2.90. I was asked at that time if we would consider releasing him out of the bid because the bid does not cover his costs. That brings us to where we are...a fork in the road."

The original low bid of $1.90 per square yard would have totaled out at $294,680.50; while the second low bid came in at $449,775.50. Klinksiek declined to name the company that submitted the erroneous bid.

Klinksiek presented the commissioners with three potential options. "He requested, and his term was that he was going to 'throw himself on the mercy of the court' and ask you to let him out. So Option A is, we don't let him out. He turned in a bid, he signed a bid, he gave us a bid. I wanted you to understand that we can. He's done this enough, and he knows that we can. The quality of the work we will get out of that, I know will suffer, no matter how much I try to sit on top of them and watch things as it goes on, the crew here will be doing everything they can to cut costs. That brings us to the second option."

Klinksiek's second option is to release the low bidder from the contract and accept the second-lowest bidder.

"There are some budgetary issues," he said. "(County Auditor) Jackie (Olson) and I have looked at those and believe that they will dissipate and aren't quite what I think they are today. I also would mention, on some level, I think it opens a door to take the second option. We basically let the guy who was the apparent low out for 'Oops, a mistake.' I don't know if the second place will want to do the work. They may want to do the work. And I haven't talked with Mr. (County Attorney Josh) Hamby to see if there are any legal issues that come out of this. I think it's a possibility."

The third option Klinksiek offered was to let the low bidder out of the contract, and then perform the road work with county crews.

"In which case, I am going to need permission from you to immediately go to a materials bid to replace the material that were part of the contract," Klinksiek said. "The downside to going this route is this one: We put a tremendous amount of stress on myself and my 22 people to go and get this done. I am going to take a group of men and equipment that, today, is not battle-tested, right into the heart of it. I don't think it's going to be easy, but I think we can do it."

After some discussion, Commissioner Craig Bailey offered a fourth possible option: Hold off on the road work for a few months, save the money that has been slated for the project, and see whether the funds could be parlayed into a larger sum by applying for a state infrastructure matching grant, which would then cover the increased cost of the roadwork.

The downside to that possibility, raised by Bailey himself and echoed by other commissioners, is that it's unknown at this time what grant programs will be available and whether Howard County's project would be eligible for them.

Commissioners voted to table their decision until the special meeting at 10 a.m. Monday to give Bailey time to try to contact state officials and try to get some feel for whether the grant option would be viable.

In other business, the commissioners approved an extension of the current countywide burn ban for another three months. The current burn ban was set to expire March 12, so the extension will run through June 12.

Commissioners also:

• Voted to approve the Annual Texas Library State Report, which was presented by Howard County Librarian Mavour Braswell at the previous meeting two weeks ago.

• Voted to table a decision on approval of Howard County tax abatement guidelines and criteria.

• Approved invoices, purchase requests, payroll, and the monthly payroll report.

Pet Talk:

Conquering the Silent Killer – Hypertension

COLLEGE STATION, March 4, 2019 – High blood pressure, also called hypertension, affects pets as well as people. Pet owners are often unaware that their pets may be at risk for this condition, and that it can be very dangerous if not treated.

Dr. John N. Stallone, a professor at the Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine & Biomedical Sciences, studies hypertension and other cardiovascular diseases in pets. He discusses the common causes and symptoms of hypertension, as well as the methods used to treat this disease and bring blood pressure down to normal levels.

In people, high blood pressure is usually diagnosed as essential hypertension, which is when the cause of the elevated blood pressure is unknown. In contrast, high blood pressure in pets is most likely a result of other diseases and health conditions.

Most people are unaware that their pet has hypertension until it is detected during a visit to the veterinarian.

"In general, high blood pressure does not have any symptoms, which is why it is often called 'the silent killer' by the American Heart Association," Stallone said.

If symptoms do appear, they are usually during advanced stages of hypertension.

He said that in these stages, vital organs such as the kidneys, eyes, brain, and heart may be damaged. Symptoms of organ damage include renal failure, blindness, stroke, and shortness of breath. In extreme cases, paralysis and heart failure may occur.

Additionally, Stallone said that some of the most common causes of high blood pressure in pets are diseases of the kidney, adrenal gland, and thyroid gland. This could include renal failure, renal infections or tumors, adrenal hormone abnormalities, and an overactive or underactive thyroid gland.

If you suspect that your pet has a disease that puts them at risk for high blood pressure, visit a veterinarian for diagnosis and treatment.

"Treatment of high blood pressure in your pet will depend upon the cause of the hypertension, but most commonly, medications would be used to lower blood pressure directly," Stallone said.

Besides direct treatment with anti-hypertensive drugs, veterinarians may also suggest treating the underlying cause of the high blood pressure. For example, drugs may be given to block an overactive thyroid gland, if that was found to be the cause of the hypertension.

"If these underlying problems are treated successfully, then blood pressure can return to normal and anti-hypertensive drugs can be discontinued," he said.

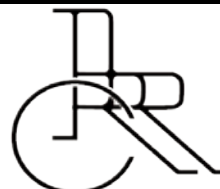

Pets with hypertension will need frequent visits to the veterinarian for blood pressure checks and treatment of the underlying disease, but after treatment they should be able to return to a normal routine.

Like with any other medical condition, the first step is visiting a veterinarian to identify the problem and create a treatment plan best suited for your pet's needs.

TxDOT urges young drivers to plan ahead

Plan for a sober ride ahead of Spring Break

AUSTIN – Spring Break is a dangerous time on Texas roads, with hundreds of impaired driving crashes involving young drivers occurring each year. As college students and young adults head to Spring Break destinations in the coming weeks, the Texas Department of Transportation's

"Plan While You Can" campaign reminds them to make a plan for a sober ride before the party starts.

"Drinking alcohol and driving can severely impact a young person's future. Many promising lives are cut short due to the poor decision to drink alcohol and drive," said TxDOT Executive Director James Bass. "We urge young drivers to make responsible choices during the Spring Break holiday. Before heading out, please plan ahead for a sober ride to ensure you get to and from your destination safely."

During last year's Spring Break* in Texas, there were 444 crashes involving young drivers who were driving under the influence of alcohol. Those crashes killed 11 people and seriously injured another 37.

The "Plan While You Can" campaign includes a statewide tour featuring the new "Plan to Win" virtual reality game where participants are a part of an immersive trivia game which poses questions related to drinking alcohol and driving, and also demonstrates the consequences of drunk driving. Players avoid "jail" by answering questions correctly, and winners progress to a waiting taxi to receive a safe and sober ride. The experience will visit 10 Texas cities during March.

While drivers under the influence of alcohol risk killing or seriously injuring themselves or others, they also face up to $17,000 in fines and fees, jail time and loss of their driver's license. Visit SoberRides.org to find alternatives to drinking alcohol and driving, such as:

- Designating a sober driver or calling someone for a sober ride home
- Contacting a cab or ride-share service
- Using mass transit
- Spending the night

"Plan While You Can" is a key component of #EndTheStreakTX, a larger grassroots effort that encourages drivers to make safer choices while on the road. Since Nov. 7, 2000, at least one person has died on Texas roadways every single day and that's why #EndTheStreakTX asks all Texans to commit to helping end the streak of daily deaths on our roadways.

Forsan students participate in Howard County Day

By Razyl Yanez
On Wednesday Feb. 27, Brenna Lindsey, Jordan Enriquez, Kaylee Morgan, Caden Williams, and Brandon Freitag participated in Howard County Day at the State Capitol in Austin, Texas. These five kids were the select few that got the opportunity to represent Forsan and acknowledge Howard County Day. "I had a lot of fun; Austin has such a different environment from Big Spring. It felt a lot more lively," said Brandon Freitag, a Senior at Forsan High School. "The only thing I would say that I didn't like was the traffic." The students and the sponsor, Ms. Jones, the Freshmen world geography teacher, left at around 8 a.m. Tuesday. The first day's activities included visiting a museum to learn about the history of Texas and watching a historical movie.

Yanez

"The second day, we went to the capitol where Mr. Johnson gave us a tour of the capitol," said Freitag. "We also got to meet and talk to a member of the House of Representatives, Drew Darby." The group also sat through both the Senate and House of Representatives' meetings. After they toured some of the other rooms, they left the bustling metropolis of Austin, Texas, for the rural community of Forsan, Texas. The students that went to participate in Howard County Day at Austin enjoyed the experience. "I go to experience something I never thought I would experience, so it was a fun and enjoyable experience," said Freitag. Kaylee Morgan, another senior at Forsan High School said, "it allowed me to expand my knowledge on the capitol and what takes place there. We also got to meet Kel Seliger, so it was a very neat experience, especially since it was my first time to go to the capitol." Morgan also talked about how different the House of Representative and the Senate's meetings are. She said that the Senate's meeting was very polite, organized, and calm, but the House of Representatives meeting consisted more of people talking over each other and chaotic. Only a select few students got the opportunity to experience what goes on behind the scenes at the capitol. They got to experience things not many high school students get to experience. Besides being educational, the trip also helped students realize just how far they still had to go before becoming influential men and women of the future.

Ex-Trump campaign boss Manafort to be sentenced in tax fraud

In this Nov. 2, 2017 file photo, Paul Manafort, President Donald Trump's former campaign chairman, leaves Federal District Court in Washington. The 69-year-old Manafort is scheduled to appear Thursday in U.S. District Court in Alexandria, Virginia, where he could get 20 years under federal guidelines but his lawyers have sought a shorter sentence. Manafort was convicted of hiding from the IRS millions of dollars he earned from his work advising Ukrainian politicians.

By MATTHEW BARAKAT

Associated Press

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — When former Trump campaign chairman Paul Manafort is sentenced for tax and bank fraud, U.S. District Judge T.S. Ellis III will likely issue the same lecture he gives to drug dealers and bank robbers.

"You write the pages to your own life story," Ellis routinely tells defendants before pronouncing sentence. He also tells those who appear before him that "life is a series of choices and living with the consequences of those choices."

Manafort's choices leave the 69-year-old with the very real possibility he will spend the rest of his life in prison.

Under federal sentencing guidelines, Manafort could receive a 20-year sentence Thursday, though most observers expect he will receive less than that.

Last year, a jury in U.S. District Court in Alexandria, Virginia, convicted Manafort on eight felonies related to tax and bank fraud charges for hiding foreign income from his work in Ukraine from the IRS and later inflating his income on bank loan applications. Prosecutors have said the work in Ukraine was on behalf of politicians who were closely aligned with Russia, though Manafort has insisted his work helped those politicians distance themselves from Russia and align with the West.

After his conviction, Manafort pleaded guilty to separate charges in the District of Columbia related to illegal lobbying. He faces up to five years in prison on each of two counts to which he pleaded guilty. In the District case, prosecutors say Manafort has failed to live up to the terms of his plea bargain by providing false information to investigators in interviews.

US productivity up modest 1.9 percent in fourth quarter

In this Jan. 4, 2019, file work continues on a plan of new homes in Franklin Park, Pa. On Thursday, March 7, the Labor Department issues revised data on productivity in the fourth quarter.

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER

AP Economics Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. productivity grew at a rate of 1.9 percent in the fourth quarter, a slight improvement over the third quarter. Labor costs rose 2 percent, the strongest gain since the beginning of 2018.

The Labor Department reported Thursday that the result from the October-December period was slightly better than a 1.8 percent rise in the third quarter. For the full year, productivity rose 1.3 percent, a small improvement from a 1.1 percent gain in 2017. It was the best showing since a 3.4 percent percent annual gains.

Economists attribute the solid gains before the deep 2007-2009 recession to the increasing use of technology in the workplace. But they have been stumped in trying to explain why productivity has slowed so much since the recession.

Without a significant improvement in productivity, analysts say that the Trump administration will not be able to achieve its goal of pushing overall economic growth to sustained annual gains of 3 percent in the gross domestic product. GDP growth is determined by two major factors: growth in the labor force and growth in productivity.

The 2 percent rate of increase in labor costs in the fourth quarter followed a 1.6 percent third quarter gain. Labor costs rose 1.4 percent for the year, lower than the 2.2 percent increase in 2017. The government reported last week that GDP grew at a 2.6 percent rate in the fourth quarter, a slowdown from the previous two quarters. For the year, GDP grew 2.9 percent, the best showing since 2015. However, analysts are forecasting growth to decelerate to just above 2 percent as the boost from the 2017 tax cuts and increased government spending begin to wane.

In a separate report, the Labor Department said Thursday that the number of Americans filing for unemployment benefits fell to 223,000 last week, a drop of 3,000 from the previous week. Benefit applications, a proxy for layoffs, have been at ultra-low levels for an extended period, underlining the strength of the U.S. labor market. The government on Friday will release the February unemployment report. Many economists believe it will show unemployment edged back down to 3.9 percent, from 4 percent in January.

Town calls for hefty fine, jail time for barking dog owners

SADDLE RIVER, N.J. (AP) — A New Jersey town is putting some bite in an ordinance that could result in hefty fines and even jail time for owners of barking dogs.

The Saddle River council is amending a one-sentence noise rule by placing time restrictions that would prohibit dogs from barking, howling or yelping for more than 20 minutes between 7 a.m. and 10 p.m. or for more than 15 minutes between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m.

Violators would face a fine of up to $1,000, up to 90 days or up to 90 days of community service.

Saddle River Borough Administrator Jerry Giannis says there was one incident in particular that prompted the change. He says he couldn't elaborate on what the incident was.

A vote is scheduled for March 18.

Virginia Tech women beat Wake Forest 85-63 in ACC tourney

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Taylor Emery scored 26 points on 8-of-14 shooting and Regan Magarity had her 21st double-doubling of the season to help No. 10 seed Virginia Tech beat Wake Forest 85-63 on Wednesday in the first round of the ACC tournament.

Magarity finished with 22 points and 14 rebounds and Trinity Baptiste scored 12 with 15 boards for Virginia Tech, which also beat the Demon Deacons 69-57 in Sunday's regular-season finale. The Hokies (20-10) will play seventh-seeded Clemson in the second round Thursday.

Magarity scored nine points, including the first seven, in a 20-2 run over the final five-plus minutes of the first quarter to give Virginia Tech a 17-point lead and her layup with 7:21 left in the second made it 36-16. Wake Forest trailed by at least 22 points the rest of the way.

Alex Sharp had 18 points and 12 rebounds for No. 15 seed Wake Forest (10-20). The Demon Deacons finish the season on a 10-game losing streak.

The Hokies hit 11 of 27 (41 percent) from 3-point range and 18 of 21 (86 percent) from the free-throw line. Wake Forest made just 2 of 9 from behind the arc and 11 of 22 from the stripe.

Turf Paradise to soon give pre-race vet exams to all horses

PHOENIX (AP) — Turf Paradise plans to start giving pre-race veterinary examinations to all horses on a given day in an attempt to curb a recent rise in fatalities.

According to a recent study by the Arizona Department of Gaming, 50 horses were euthanized during the 2017-18 season at the Phoenix track, mostly after they suffered leg or ankle injuries during a race.

That number is twice the national equine death rate at tracks.

Turf Paradise officials announced Wednesday that starting March 18, about 65 horses will be examined on race days.

Previously, about 15 horses received pre-race exams per day based on selections by the stewards.

Turf Paradise has 131 live racing days per year from mid-October to early May.

The thoroughbred and quarter horse racetrack opened in January 1956.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR NON-COMMERCIAL OIL AND GAS WASTE DISPOSAL WELL PERMIT

Trilogy Operating, Inc., P.O. Box 7606, Midland, Texas 79708 is applying to the Railroad Commission of Texas for a permit to dispose of produced salt water or other oil and gas waste by well injection into a porous formation not productive of oil or gas. The applicant proposes to dispose of oil and gas waste into the San Andres Formation, Saylor Lease, Well Number 1D SWD. The proposed non-commercial disposal well is located 4.8 miles North East of Garden City in Glasscock County, Texas. The waste water will be injected into strata in the subsurface depth interval from 2520 to 3020 feet.

LEGAL AUTHORITY: Chapter 27 of the Texas Water Code, as amended, Title 3 of the Texas Natural Resources Code, as amended, and the Statewide Rules of the Oil and Gas Division of the Railroad Commission of Texas.

Requests for a public hearing from persons who can show they are adversely affected, or requests for further information concerning any aspect of the application should be submitted in writing, within (15) fifteen days of publication, to the Environmental Services Section, Oil and Gas Division, Railroad Commission of Texas, P.O. Box 12967, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711 (Telephone 512/463-6792).

Basics of the Sun/Neptune Conjunction

People behave better when they feel better. This conjunction of the sun and Neptune has some of us so in our own minds that we might forget that the brain is a part of the body and in need of the same basic care that helps the rest of the body thrive -- plenty of water, sleep, nutrition, sunshine (if you can find it), fresh air and exercise.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Strategy will be required. Tending to all the little things that come up could distract you from what you really need to do. Step back and choose the tactics that line up to support your larger goal.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). People who talk a lot don't necessarily communicate a lot. But you know the difference between talking and saying something, and will find people with a similar style. Together you'll get things done.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). No one said human dynamics were logical. It is possible to admire someone you don't agree with, love someone you don't like and be attracted to someone who's totally not your type. It's complicated!

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Common courtesies are often not as "common" as you might think. You'll find people to be either unaware of their infringement of the social rules, or going by a completely different set.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). It may feel as though you and a certain gatekeeper are adversaries. You're not. You're two people addressing individual needs that may or may not coincide. You have to discuss it to find out.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Even if there's more pressure than usual, and a few other things going against you like, say, the weather or a lack of funds, it will still be a good day. In fact, these are just the sorts of obstacles that allow you to shine.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You'd rather be the bright spot in someone's day than the reason for their stress. Unfortunately, not everyone feels this way. Some people enjoy causing others stress. Avoid them!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). It doesn't matter if the group is large or small, diverse or unified, you know who you are and it is right to be exactly that person and no one else. You'll aim for the best version, of course.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Like water in a glass, everything in your life is moving toward a natural equilibrium. So you don't have to worry about the extremes, or even consciously moderating yourself. Relax. All will settle in.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). In case you need another reason to be kind, nurturing and supportive of yourself, consider that when you're not good to yourself, everyone around you gets a lesser version of you, if they get you at all.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Even though plenty of people in the world work harder and struggle more than you have to right now, the only struggle you can feel is your own. Take it seriously, but take your ability to rise above it even more seriously.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You're so accustomed to doing that not doing may be much harder for you. However, inaction is a key part of your success cycle. Growth will happen in a state of rest. Pause and let success catch up with you.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (March 7). You will accomplish amazing feats in the following manner: An enthusiastic start followed by boredom and an urge to stop, followed by a conscious decision to muscle through. Tenacious, you'll find the next level -- accomplishment, fortitude, character development, power, mastery and rich reward. Kudos! Aquarius and Gemini adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 5, 39, 2, 35 and 17.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Beginner

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

ANSWER:

More on Tipping and on Drinking and Driving

Dear Annie: I saw the advice about tipping a hairdresser and the shampoo person. Thank you! What if your hairdresser also owns the salon? Does one tip the owner/stylist the same amount, 20 percent? -- Salon-goer in North Carolina

Dear Salon-goer: After the column about what to tip hairdressers, several people posed this question, and it's a good one. Previously, the wisdom held that you shouldn't tip salon owners, because salon owners would often charge premium amounts for their services. However, that's been changing. More and more, salon owners are charging the same rates as other stylists at their salons. With that change, it's become more standard to tip salon owners. When in doubt, tip if the person did a good job. Not only is it a kind thing to do; salons will remember that you're a generous customer and may be likelier to make accommodations for you when possible.

Dear Annie: I am writing this letter in behalf of the 10,874 people killed by drunken drivers last year. Your answer to "Trying to Do the Right Thing" reflects a common attitude toward alcoholism that confuses moral obligation and Alcoholics Anonymous theory.

Most people now accept that alcoholism is a disease, but that fact does not keep alcoholics from killing others when they drive. Though it is true that a spouse cannot usually threaten an alcoholic into certain behaviors, it is not true that a spouse has no responsibility. If a woman found out that her husband had a gun in his car and he was going to use it, would you advise her to turn her back and go to a meeting? No, because you would acknowledge that one has an obligation to the rest of society to interfere in behavior that endangers people's lives.

If you know that your spouse, son, daughter, grandparent, etc., is driving while drunk, you have a moral obligation to call the police. Yes, your family life will be disrupted. But if your family member were to kill someone, your life would also be disrupted. You would share in the guilt because you chose to believe you were powerless.

Every time a drunk person walks out to the parking lot and drives away, all the people around the person chose to sacrifice someone else's family for their own comfort or because of a false sense that they couldn't have done anything. Each person has a responsibility to help protect innocent lives! Just because you have no control over the drinking does not mean you are helpless.

Most alcoholics do not want to kill someone but have impaired judgment. The sober family members, friends and co-workers have a responsibility to protect society. Please use your platform to explain how to logically separate the two issues, power over the drinking and power over drinking and driving. This confusion costs all of us! Thank you. -- Elizabeth

Dear Elizabeth: Thank you so much for this important letter. In my response to "Trying to Do the Right Thing," I focused on the impact of her husband's drinking on her marriage, not on the fact that her husband is drinking and driving and endangering lives. Though I don't think we should seek to lay blame at the feet of family members and friends (that belongs squarely with the person who chooses to drink and drive), being powerless to control another's drinking does not mean being powerless to pick up the phone and call 911 if you know that a person is getting behind the wheel of a car while intoxicated.

Looking for Affordable Skin Care

Annie's Mailbox

Dear Annie: I'm in my 20s, and I just recently had a facial for the first time. I'll admit I was skeptical about its potential benefits, but my skin has never felt smoother! I'd love to go back for regular monthly treatments, but facials are quite expensive, and I can't afford to get them more than twice a year or so.

My concern is that my skin will never be as good as it would be if I were able to get facials as often as I imagine celebrities do. Is there anything I can do at home that will help me achieve professional-level skin care results without breaking the bank? I feel as if I just learned what I've been missing out on. -- Beauty on a Budget

Dear Beauty: Congratulations on your first facial. Taking care of your skin when you are in your 20s is a great gift to give to your future self that will pay benefits for the rest of your life. Facials are also a great natural way to look and feel your best.

There are ways to keep up with your beauty routine on a budget, especially by doing facials at home. The how-to website wikiHow has a helpful step-by-step guide called "How to Make an All Natural Facial at Home," and the internet at large is full of such tutorials; just do a search for "DIY natural facials."

You can try Groupon and similar sites, which may offer spa deals. In addition, you could ask your spa whether there are packages with discounted rates there. And ask to be put on your spa's mailing list for special promotions. Lastly, you can look for beauty schools where up-and-coming aestheticians are trying to fulfill their hours before they receive a license to practice.

Remember, though, that beautiful glowing skin starts from the inside out. Try to limit your alcohol, sugar and caffeine intake. In addition, lots of exercise, sunscreen and sleep do wonders for your skin. Good luck, and keep glowing.

Dear Annie: Recently, you published a letter from a young girl who blushes easily and asked how to overcome this problem. As you mentioned, gaining self-confidence may be the best remedy. When I was her age and in the business world, I was very reserved. My father, a successful businessman, recommended that I join Toastmasters as he had done. This wonderful club helped me overcome my fear of speaking in public. The other members of the club encouraged me along the way. Each meeting was a challenge but a very rewarding one. I went on to become the club's president, got our club involved in speaking contests with other clubs and actually won a humorous speech contest. Who would have ever thought this could happen?

Later, when my new job required me to speak to groups of company employees, I was not so bashful and actually enjoyed it. I would encourage "Bashful" to use the internet to find local clubs near her. We have several in our city. If she were to share with the other members her reason for attending, I bet they would be her cheerleaders in overcoming her problem. -- Not So Bashful

Dear Not So Bashful: Though I already printed the same recommendation from another reader, I couldn't pass up printing yours, as it brought a smile to my face. Congratulations on winning the humorous speech contest, but the true winning happened the second you signed up for Toastmasters and took a step toward overcoming a major fear.

Send your questions for Annie Lane to dearannie@creators.com.

finesse, losing to East's now-singleton king. East then shifted to the jack of spades, and declarer eventually finished down one.

The play started the same way at the second table, where the contract was also three notrump. A club was led, and the jack of diamonds was overtaken with the queen, East refusing to win the trick just as his counterpart had.

However, the declarer here, endowed with a more suspicious nature, was not convinced that West had the king merely because the queen won the trick. He knew East was capable of holding up the king if he had it, and that there was no reason to stake the outcome solely on the location of the king of diamonds.

Accordingly, at trick three he led a heart from dummy and finessed the queen. When the finesse won, the complexion of the hand changed entirely. South now had nine sure tricks without bothering to take any further finesses.

So he cashed his clubs and the two major-suit aces, bringing him to eight tricks, and then led a diamond to the ace for his ninth trick. As matters turned out, the ace caught the king, and South scored all 13 tricks.

Clearly, the declarer at the second table played the hand better than the first declarer because he gave himself two chances to make the contract instead of only one.

Opening lead — ten of clubs.
This hand was played in a team-of-four match. At the first table, West led the ten of clubs against three notrump. Declarer won with the jack and played the jack of diamonds, overtaking it with dummy's queen.

However, East, who had been to the wars before, followed with the three without batting an eyelash. East had decided as soon as dummy came down that the only real chance of beating the contract was to play South for a doubleton diamond and refuse to take the first diamond trick.

The ruse succeeded to perfection because South returned to his hand with a club and repeated the diamond

THE LASSO

BSHS's weekly update

Joshua Wilson returns to BSHS to Encourage students

Courtesy photo

2009 Big Spring High School grad Joshua Wilson, shown here, is now a professional actor and host of the podcast "Don't Take It Personal." Wilson returned to BSHS recently to offer words of encouragement to the current set of Steer theater students.

By ORLANDO MARTINEZ
BSHS Class of 2021

It was homecoming day for Joshua Wilson at Big Spring High. This 2009 graduate returned to his roots to share with the theatre students how he launched himself from the very stage on which they are now honing their skills and talents. This proves that "You Can Get There From Steer!"

Mrs. Moss the director of the Theater Department asked Joshua to share some insight on what the program had done for him and how the entertainment industry works. In the beginning of his talk, he recounted his days of being in the BSHS theater. He stated that he follows Mrs. Moss' advice of "You're always on audition." He even recounted that by the age of sixteen, he had already wanted to be an actor and a director. With a decade behind him since high school, he has worked on entertainment projects that make him proud. These include independent projects, his own shows, script writing, and he even runs a podcast called "Don't Take It Personal." A YouTube search on Joshua Wilson will turn up much of his work; Joshua's views on YouTube exceed 100,000.

Joshua told the students that it hasn't been an easy journey because he had to take risks to accomplish many of his goals. For example his independent project almost made him bankrupt but he was able to finish it and showed it to a crowd of people who enjoyed it.

The next half of his speech was him giving advice about the industry. His first one is to start as soon as possible. He told us that things like YouTube and social media can really help us to show our work but to also get our name out so we can start getting criticism to improve ourselves.

Next is to research the job or parts we want and to look at colleges that are most beneficial to you. Finally the best advice is to never hold back. To quote Joshua "It's not a matter of if you can do it; it's about when you will do it" You can do anything as long as you don't hold back your skills and talents because that is what gets you the part you want or the job you have wanted. Listening to his story was aspiring which helped the students learn some valuable lessons and about dedication to what they love.

BSHS Theater director Mrs. Moss said, "it's important that our current students have former students discuss their experiences here at BSHS with them and show them how successful they too can be and also discuss the hard work and determination that it took for them to achieve and continue working towards their goals.

Principal Mike Ritchey said, "Joshua is and will always be a great Steer. He was a very talented young man and was over the top with character. However, he truly excelled in making a huge difference with those who were and are a part of Josh's many successes."

Academic Star Student of the Week Maddie Miller, Big Spring High School

Maddie Miller, class of 2021, is this week's Star Student from Big Spring High. She is the daughter of Will and Melissa Miller and she has lived in Big Spring all of her life. Maddie states, "Something that is important to me is how I impact others. I don't like to be the center of attention, so I try to push others and change their life for the better, whether that be in school or in life. I have put myself into leadership opportunities to try and lead others to be the best possible version of themselves that they can be."

Maddie's ultimate goal is to be in law enforcement, "I want to get a degree in Criminal Justice and pursue a career in law enforcement. I want to contribute in saving lives and making communities better," she claimed in a recent interview.

Maddie likes the quote from Gary Allen: "Life ain't always beautiful, but it's a beautiful ride." This quote reminds Maddie that life can be tough at times but when looking back we won't remember all the heartaches, we will remember the positives to life. Maddie also emphatically stated, "I LOVE country music."

When asked about her inspiration to study Criminal Justice, Maddie stated, "My dad was actually a police officer when I was younger, and the stories he tells about people makes me want to help others. My dad also came out of the department with life long friends who feel like a second family to him. I want to experience that family environment in a workplace, because put into difficult situations you have to have trust in your family. I also think it's really interesting how you can prove someone guilty of a crime by a single hair or fingerprint. The forensics behind crime are very interesting to me."

Maddie's youth pastor Cameron Crow at College Baptist Church said, "She is an incredible student with a passion to see her peers come to know Christ as their personal Lord and Savior. Through First Priority she has seen and led many students to repent of their sins and follow Jesus. She is not only a leader, but she helps students become leaders as well. I am very proud of her."

High school counselor Kristin Tubb said, "Maddie is a great friend to everyone. Her drive to be successful will get her far in life and I can't wait to see what she does."

Congratulations, Maddie!

Multiplication facts...for ice cream!

Courtesy photos

Mrs. Cole's third grade class has been working very hard on learning their multiplication facts. Mrs. Cole made a deal with her students: if they learned all of their facts they earned an ice cream sundae party!

Students practice at school and are asked to practice at home too. In class they play different multiplication games to help them master this very important skill.

"I'm so proud of all of their hard work!" said Mrs. Cole.

Manchester United stuns PSG 3-1 to reach CL quarterfinals.

PARIS (AP) — Marcus Rashford's injury-time penalty sent Manchester United through to the Champions League quarterfinals on Wednesday, securing a 3-1 win at Paris Saint-Germain to overturn a two-goal deficit from the first leg.

Referee Damir Skomina awarded the penalty after a lengthy video review that showed defender Presnel Kimpembe jumping up to block Diogo Dalot's shot with his elbow. Rashford kept his nerve, blasting the ball past Gianluigi Buffon to send the United fans to his left into raptures.

As United's players sprinted to celebrate with their fans at the final whistle, Kimpembe lay flat on the ground for several moments as a stunned Parc des Princes crowd looked on in disbelief.

United had only a slim chance after losing 2-0 at home in the first leg of the last-16 match, with coach Ole Gunnar Solskjaer's task made even harder by the fact that 10 of his players were either injured or suspended. That included midfielder Paul Pogba, who was sent off at Old Trafford.

"Everything seemed to be against us, but we're used to that," Rashford said. "We showed what we're about today and got the result we needed."

But Solskjaer, who scored an injury-time winner when United won the tournament in 1999, oversaw more late drama 20 years later. It was the first time in Champions League history that a team lost the first leg at home by a two-goal margin and still went through.

United was handed an immediate lifeline when PSG gifted United striker Romelu Lukaku a second-minute opening goal, before equalizing through left back Juan Bernat in the 12th. He turned in a cross at the back post after Kylian Mbappe got behind United's static defense.

United scored from its first attack when Lukaku intercepted a back pass from Thilo Kehrer, rounded Buffon and slid the ball in from a tight angle.

Then, the hugely experienced Buffon spilled a low shot from Rashford and Lukaku turned in the rebound.

"We agreed that when Marcus steps out on the press that I would follow," Lukaku said. "I told him every time he shoots I'll follow the ball, and that's what happened."

Sensing Buffon's uncertainty, Rashford fired another shot just wide as United finished the first half strongly.

PSG's defense was having another one of its bad nights, a recurring theme during the knockout stages of a competition it has never won. Three years ago, PSG also made history by going out after winning 4-0 at home, then 6-1 away to Barcelona.

PSG played tentatively during the second half, knowing United needed only one goal to qualify on the away goals rule. PSG winger Angel Di Maria scored with a delightful clip over the advancing De Gea after being put through by Mbappe's clever flick in the 56th. But he was adjudged to have been off-side when receiving the ball.

Mbappe remained PSG's biggest threat, and his pace took him clear through on goal with six minutes left only for the France star to stumble and for Bernat to smack the loose ball against the post.

United sat deep, waiting to hit PSG on the break. Lukaku had a chance to put Rashford clean through, but got the ball tangled in his feet. At the other end, Mbappe remained PSG's most dangerous player with his ability to get behind United's defense.

MLB '19: College draft picks on rapid rise to big leagues

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Joey Bart already looks like a big league hitter in his first major league camp, especially when the San Francisco Giants catcher sends a misguided pitch soaring over the centerfield fence.

The same with White Sox shortstop Nick Madrigal every time he makes a spinning stab deep in the hole, or Tigers pitcher Casey Mize when he leaves an unsuspecting batter befuddled, or the four young arms the Royals selected among the first 40 picks of last year's amateur draft.

All have a couple things in common: They played college baseball rather than turning pro out of high school, and they are all expected to help their clubs sooner than later.

Whether it's the beginning of a trend toward selecting less risky, more advanced college prospects over raw, high-ceiling high school stars remains to be seen. But there are undeniable benefits to stocking a farm system with college players as opposed to an 18-year-old fresh off the prom, including the chance to provide more immediate help — not unlike what is expected of NBA and NFL picks.

"Yeah, that's all high school players versus college players. The risk is lower," explained J.J. Piccolo, the Royals' assistant general manager in charge of scouting and player development.

"Some would make the case the reward is greater with a tooly high school player," Piccolo said, "but that's a case-by-case basis. You have a track record, three years playing against college competition. They're playing against more advanced players, and the predictiveness of what they may do falls in line a little better. You know what to expect."

None of which is necessarily new. Baseball scouts have been mining the college and prep ranks with equal fervor for years, and the maturity gap — physically and mentally — has always existed.

Some things have changed, though.

Some baseball officials believe kids chosen right out of high school are more inclined to pass up a modest signing bonus in favor of a few years in college these days, gaining not only an education and experience but also the opportunity to be drafted higher down the road.

Others believe patience has grown short in this modern, fast-paced world. Investing five years developing a first-round pick out of high school is no longer as palatable for ownership and fans alike. They'd rather see their first-round picks slipping on a big league jersey and playing in front of thousands of fans than toiling away in some baseball backwater.

"Everybody develops at their own pace. It's hard to put a date on when that's going to be," Royals manager Ned Yost said. "We didn't know when (Alcides) Escobar or Salvador Perez were going to develop and become All-Stars. We just knew they would. I wanted to take Salvy out of A-ball, because I knew he was going to be a great player. I wanted to get him going in the big leagues."

Perhaps as a result, the first five picks of last year's first-year player draft came from out of the college ranks. There were only 10 college kids picked in the first round in 2016, but there were 15 the following year and 13 first-round selections last summer.

One of them is Madrigal, the pint-sized second baseman picked fourth overall by the White Sox out of Oregon State. He rocketed through three minor league levels last summer and wowed scouts in big league camp before getting assigned to the minor league camp this week.

Even though that's where he will begin the season, Madrigal may not be there long.

"They drafted me for a reason," he said. "I'm going to show up every day and give everything I can to this organization. When you're wearing this uniform, you can't take that lightly."

So far, two selections from the 2014 draft have developed into All-Stars: Phillies pitcher Aaron Nola and Mets outfielder Michael Conforto, both chosen out of college.

The only All-Star from the 2015 draft is Astros shortstop Alex Bregman, a product of LSU.

Bart, the No. 2 overall pick out of Georgia Tech last year, joined the Giants in big league camp and has been pounding Cactus League pitching. Mize, the Auburn hurler picked first overall by Detroit, left manager Ron Gardenhire gushing when he was reassigned to minor league camp.

"The ball, he can make it do a lot of things," Gardenhire said. "Some guys you would say when you go down there, 'Don't big league it,' you know, the whole package. You don't have to say that to that guy. He's going to work. He'll get after it. He'll get it done."

In other words, Mize is mature enough to handle pro ball after his time in the SEC.

The same with the quartet of pitchers the Royals selected among the first 40 picks in last year's draft. Brady Singer and Jackson Kowar pitched in the College World Series for Florida, Daniel Lynch was the star of Virginia's rotation, and Kris Bubic dazzled during his Stanford career.
