March 27 from 2:30 p.m. to 4 p.m., in the main lobby at SMMC.

"Mental health is a stigma still in society, but it doesn't have to be. Working together on the front end, speaking up when we notice something might not be right, can save a life," Raymond George, PhD, MBA, MHS, RN, Director of Behavioral Health, said.

The 20-bed inpatient unit, located on the fourth floor at SMMC, provided mental health services to about 3,000 patients in the first year of operation, according to George. Admissions to the unit are typically generated through admittance from the emergency room or referrals through West Texas Centers – the local mental health authority – who provides outpatient services to 23 counties.

“We are planning to increase the number of people we are serving, and we want to place an additional focus on education in the community,” he said. “We want to reach out to the schools especially since there is an increase in suicide and depression, in that population lately. Our focus is going to be on ending the stigma associated with mental health and suicide prevention in the student population.”

During the celebration there will be refreshments and an opportunity to find out about services provided through the behavioral unit. There will also be information available coming out soon regarding Mental Health Month which is recognized in May.

“When people think about good health, they tend to focus on physical connotations – good cholesterol, blood pressures, cardiovascular strength and lack of diseases – however, mental health is part of that equation,” he said. “Mental health can be just as bad as those other ailments and can also be treated with well-defined professional mental help. Through the proper treatment individuals can attain good quality of life and be productive in the community.”

He continued, “ Sadly, for many help comes too late because of the lack of access and the stigma associated with mental health. It is important that we, as a community, learn to recognize the warning signs and when we noticed those signs, we take a stand and say something and offer help.

For those who are looking for access to services, they can call the Mental Health Crisis line at 1-800-375-4357 or the National Suicide Prevention Line at 1-800-273-8255. For those wanting more information on the Behavioral Unit at SMMC, call 432-268-4760.

disability, and this is a day to recognize those in our population with these disabilities.”

Not only will there be teams attending, but this entire day is focused on the IDD community. There will be cheer squads, and for those who can't participate in the basketball game, there will be other activities available.

“It's a day to celebrate them and those who work with that population,” Vidal said. “As the teams enter through the tunnel, they're escorted by the police, sheriff and fire departments, and they're just so excited about playing on this day. There's a lot of competition, and it's a lot of fun.”

Grand entrance is at 8:30 a.m., and tip-off is at 9 a.m. Vidal's biggest hope to get people to come out and cheer for the teams. In the past, local businesses have allowed their employees time to come cheer on the teams, and she hopes this will continue.

“These teams work really hard preparing for this event.” states Vidal. “We know it's hard for people to attend since it's during the week, but we really hope you can attend; and, it's free!”

The concession stand will be open if you'd like to grab a hot dog, during your lunch break and watch some amazing basketball.

Veterans relax at Granite

You have to go through somewhat challenged. They've the little village of Roosevelt to get to Granite Ranch near Junction. Roosevelt has a post office inside the only store in town and was established in 1887 as a supply point and ranch headquarters. It's named for Theodore Roosevelt.

Ronnie Rains of Odessa owns Granite Ranch, a beautiful 3,000-acre piece of property overlooking the Llano River. It has a 9-hole lighted golf course, a lake featuring catch and release trophy bass fishing, a old saloon and much more. He opens it up to wounded warriors.

"They sky dive, they kayak, they shoot long range rifles. We have about 20 different species of native and exotics here but we don't do any hired hunts for the public. People want to pay to go hunting on the ranch. We don't do that here. We spend money here. We don't make it. This ranch is for veterans who are

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

"They introduced themselves and they were with a group called Wounded Warriors Family Support. I'm currently on the board of it and a couple more veterans' organizations. We started going to a place in San Antonio called Center For The Intrepid. I was visiting with some Marines and asked what we could do for them on weekends and they said 'get us outa here.'" Ronnie makes his living by building gas plants.

"I started a little business and turned it into a big business and now I have about 250 employees. We do grass roots design, construction, start-up, pretty much anything to do with the gas and oil business."

He has an impressive car collection on the ranch.

"I've got about 90 cars now. Started out just doing Corvettes and developed over into some muscle cars and exotics. I've got Fords, Indy cars, Oldsmobiles, Corvettes, Chevilles, Mustangs, just a pretty good collection. Every spring we do a bluebonnet cruise where veterans take an old car and drive to Luckenbach, drink a beer, then go see if we can find some bluebonnets. It's a lot of fun."

The veterans inspire Ronnie.

"Just imagine being 20 years old and you're good at everything you do. You're very athletic and get into special operations and you're fighting Taliban every night. In half a second you went from being a trained warrior to being in a wheelchair. For those guys who go through that without losing their minds I tip my hat to them."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Responding to a letter

Dear Editor;

I am addressing the Letter to the Editor from Ms. Carmen Harbour on Sunday, March 17, 2019 regarding my candidacy for the office of Mayor of Big Spring. In that letter she asked me to address several questions of which I am more than willing to respond. I chose not to participate in an upcoming debate as I feel that the forums which are being sponsored by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce and the Big Spring High School Interact and Student Council Groups are a better place to present my platform. I will be participating in both of these events and I am both delighted and encouraged that the students of our community are getting involved!

Regarding my tenure with the Big Spring Convention & Visitors Bureau, I am very proud of the work that we did on behalf of our City during my 14 years of serving in that capacity. CVB Funds are generated from Hotel Occupancy Tax, and the expenditures of these funds are restricted by law as to how they can be spent and of what percentage can be spent. These requirements are outlined in the Texas Tax Code. CVB provides funding to various groups that plan events in Big Spring, and during my tenure we adopted a formula based on the hotel occupancy that the events would generate. These organizations submit their request to the CVB Board for approval.

I am very proud to have been involved in the Historic Spring Restoration. This project was funded not only by Hotel Tax Revenue, but also with Grants & Donations. No general property tax or sales tax dollars were spent on this project. Our historic spring and town's namesake is being recognized state wide because of this project. It has and will continue to bring visitors to Big Spring.

My husband is the Executive Director of the Big Spring Economic Development Corporation. He is not an employee of the City of Big Spring. He is employed by and is directly responsible to the Big Spring EDC Board, not the City.

I believe that my experience with the City of Big Spring, my years of community service in many areas and my years of supervisory experience will help guide me in this new leadership role.

I hope that I have answered the questions asked and we can move on and discuss the future of Big Spring.

Thank you,

Debbie Wegman

Candidate for Mayor, City of Big Spring

The adventure continues

They met in college at a time of comparative innocence. Father Knows Best was the rage on TV; Ken and Barbie weren't yet a couple.

The TV show and the famous dolls—one might suggest—were bookends for a real life romance that began 65 years ago on the campus of Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene.

A 1953 graduate of Fort Worth Poly High School, the former Sue Cherry spread her wings at H-SU. She, like millions of others, was caught up in the Father Knows Best series, and she was dead-solid certain that her dad, the late John Cherry, also knew best—usually. A repeated warning she tired of hearing as a college freshman was his "suggestion"—or maybe it was a borderline demand: "Don't you be dating any of those senior football players." Uh oh....

Before the end of her freshman year, she and James Cox were campus sweethearts. They qualified as real-life "Ken and Barbie," except the famous dolls didn't come along until half-a-dozen years later.

Cox, a football player at Cleburne High School, was a varsity football player at H-SU (1954).

He and Sue (H-SU, 1956) were married 62 years ago on June 16, 1956. Cheering them on were Sue's parents, whose respect and admiration was earned soon after James and Sue started dating....

And why would her parents approve? He was the gold standard, active in campus life, a leader on the football team and a "sponge" in soaking up the qualities needed by true coaches.

In addition to training for a career in school teaching, Sue was a member of the 1955 homecoming court and was president of the "Cowgirls," an athletic cheering group, during her senior year.

And the "school thing" they did long and well, with combined careers totaling 105 years, largely in Fort Worth Public Schools....

The couple retired in 1994, but James responded to a plea to return to teaching "for a year." They wouldn't let him go, and the additional year became 14, elevating his total years served to 59.

He was "coach" not only to players, but also to parents, friends and colleagues. It didn't take long for people who know him to realize he was every bit as committed to "teaching life" as he was to coaching football.

I've met no person on life's highway who has more integrity, dedication, ability and all-around Christian moorings than James. And, when I learned of his 88th birthday gift a few days back, I knew the account was "column material."...

Sue's middle name should be "volunteer," because she has responded to worthwhile causes since her early years. She continues to do so, and for several years has been a volunteer at Harris Methodist Southwest Hospital in Fort Worth.

In fact, that's where she was headed the other day when, in a flash, she'd know the perfect birthday gift for her hubby.

It was right after she realized she'd backed from the garage without benefit of an open door. She "gifted" James with one of his most expensive gifts ever—a new, $1800 garage door....

The couple has come a long, long way since James signed on to coach six-man football at now-gone London High School in the Hill Country. "There I was, coaching a team without ever having even seen a six-man game," he said.

Except for a two-year stint in the US Army, he "coached," whether on the football field or in the classroom. He was the first head football coach at Southwest High School upon its opening in 1967. Sue, from the same mold, was a "favorite teacher" for decades. They continue to serve at church, and to cheer on their only child, Kathy, who has a catering business in Fort Worth called "Cherry on Top." They cheer every bit as strongly for their grandsons, John Mills, 30, and Cameron, 25.

I join thousands of others expressing gratitude for top-shelf educators.....

Steers open district with an impressive win over Sweetwater at home

By JORDAN PARR
Sports Editor

BIG SPRING – The Steers jumped out to an early lead Friday night against the Sweetwater Mustangs and never looked back. Big Spring out hit the Mustangs 10 to 6 and turned those hits into runs to get the decisive 8-1 victory over Sweetwater to start district play 1-0. It was a great team win as every player on the team showed up and played well. The Steers were impressive at the plate while Jason Miramontes was great on the mound and the defense behind him was stellar as well.

In the first inning, Big Spring made the Mustangs go three up and three down in the top of the inning ending it in spectacular fashion on 1-6 double play in which Miramontes made a great catch and the mound and then Elijah Munoz made a highlight reel diving catch and bag tag on the relay from the pitcher to second to end the top of the inning. When the Steers came up to bat in the bottom of the inning they scored 2 runs on a 2 RBI single by Bryson Vanvleet to take a 2-0 lead heading into the second. Neither team had much success offensively in the second with each team going scoreless in the inning.

In the third inning, Miramontes struck out three Mustangs to keep Sweetwater off the scoreboard once again. In the bottom of the inning, the Steers found their timing at the plate and scored 3 runs on 3 hits off an RBI triple by Miramontes, and RBI single from Kade Wash and an RBI single by Kobe Gutterrez to go up 5-0 heading into the fourth.

Big Spring made short work of the Mustangs in the top of the fourth. Miramontes struck out 2 more batters in the inning and kept Sweetwater off of the scoreboard once again. In the bottom of the fourth, the Steers started right where they left off in the third. Big Spring scored 3 more runs in the inning on 4 hits to increase their lead to a comfortable 8-0. After back to back singles by the Munoz brothers, Michael and Elijah, Miramontes lined a ball left to left center that made it all the way to the way. With three guys who can really run, all on base at the same time, Miramontes was able to turn on the jets and get himself a 3 run in the park home run to put the game on ice.

In the top of the fifth inning the Mustangs did finally get a run, on an RBI double by the opposing pitcher Tyler Warner. However, that would be the extent of the scoring for Sweetwater in the game as the Steers and Miramontes tightened up on defense and held the Mustangs in check for the rest of the matchup. Both teams went scoreless in the fifth and sixth innings as both pitchers really did good work on the mound. The game ended in the top of the seventh on a great 5-3-2 double play to once again keep the Mustangs off the board with a play at the plate to end the game.

Miramontes was spectacular in the game. Not only did he pitch seven innings while allowing just 1 run on 6 hits and striking out 8, he also led the team with 4 RBIs on 2 hits and got on base all four times he came to the plate. Elijah Munoz made those signature plays in the field which we all love to watch him make, while he also got two hits and got on base in all four of his at bats. Kade Wash added two more hits to the Steers total and drove in a run as well as playing great on first all night. Bryson Vanvleet drove in 2 runs to round out the Big Spring offensive leaders.

After a great district opening win the Steers will travel to Greenwood next Tuesday looking to continue their success as the move forward in district play.

Lady Steers rely on the long ball to stay unbeaten in district play

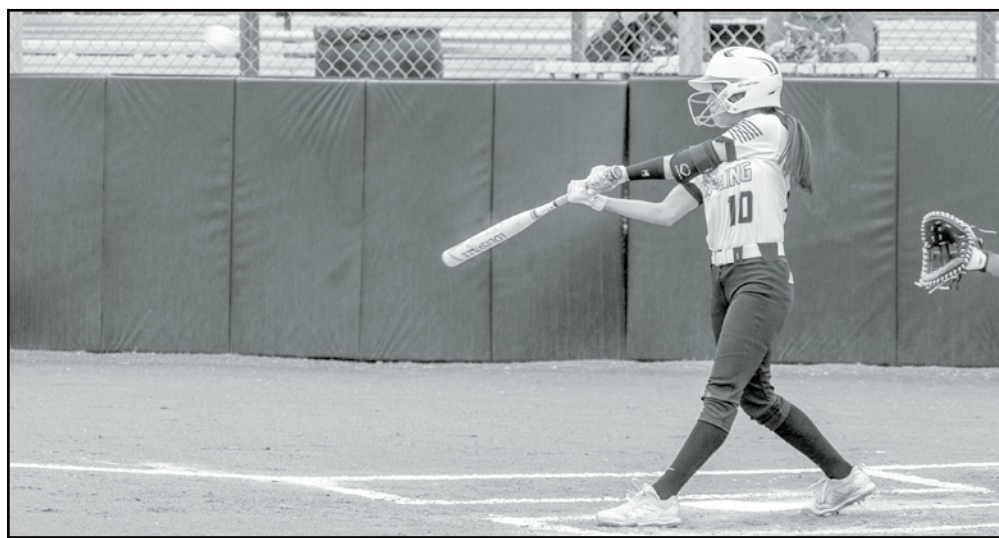

By JORDAN PARR
Sports Editor

BIG SPRING – The Lady Steers fell behind early to Sweetwater on Friday evening and had to battle back from a deficit two different times in the game to get the impressive 13-10 win, over the Lady Mustangs to stay unbeaten and go to 3-0 in district play. It wasn't just the comeback that made the game exciting, it was the way Big Spring came back that was the real story. The Lady Steers out hit Sweetwater 19-8 in the game and rallied behind an astonishing 6 home runs for the come from behind win.

In the first inning, the Lady Mustangs went up early with two quick runs on two hits to take a 2-0 lead.

Sweetwater held Big Spring scoreless in the bottom of the inning to go into the second still up by 2. In the top of the second inning, the Lady Steers played much better defense and Kynleigh Joy really showed her stuff from the circle to keep Sweetwater from increasing their lead. In the bottom of the second, after a double by Kalyn Whitehead, Belle Ramirez hit a 2 RBI double to left field to tie the game at 2-2.

In the third inning, the Lady Mustangs answered again with two more runs in the top of the inning. Not to be outdone, Big Spring fired back with three runs of their own on a three run shot by Joy to go up 5-4. Leah Davilla and Maddi Daniels both reached on singles before Joy drove them in with her deep shot to left field.

In the top of the fourth, momentum swung once again, the Lady Mustangs found their rhythm against Joy and scored 5 runs on 3 hits in the inning to take a 9-5 lead over Big Spring heading into the bottom of the inning. It was in the bottom of the fourth when the Lady Steers really started to show their power from the plate. Amber Martinez and Alexis Starr both hit solo shots in the inning and cut the Sweetwater lead to 9-7. Jocelyn Torres-Mendoza also had a triple in the inning as well but got left stranded.

In the fifth inning, Big Spring stepped up their defense and held the Lady Mustangs scoreless before Daniels went yard again to lead off the bottom of the inning and cut the lead to 9-8. Sweetwater tried to answer in the sixth with a lead off homer in their own from Moriel to go up 10-8. But Big Spring retired the side without any further damage and then with two runner on in the bottom of the sixth Alexis Starr hit her second dinger of the game. This time a 3 run shot to retake the lead at 11-10. Two batters later Leah Davilla drove in another run on an RBI double to give the Lady Steers a 12-10 lead. But Big Spring wasn't finished yet, with two outs and no one on, Joy hit her second deep shot of the game on a solo shot to left field to give the Lady Steers a 13-10 lead heading into the final inning.

In the top of the seventh, Big Spring made short work of the Lady Mustangs and capped off their impressive comeback win to stay unbeaten in district. Their great play at the plate makes these Lady Steers a dangerous team for anyone they come across.

Kynleigh Joy pitched Big Spring to victory. Joy lasted seven innings, allowed eight hits and 10 runs and struck out 12. Elli Lehnert took the loss for Sweetwater. Lehnert surrendered seven runs on 10 hits over four innings.

Big Spring launched six home runs on the day. Maddie Daniels had a four bagger in the fifth inning, Joy went yard in the third and sixth innings, Amber Martinez went for the long ball in the fourth inning and Starr had a homer in the fourth and sixth innings. The Lady Steers totaled 19 hits in the win with Starr, Daniels, Joy, Leah Davilla, Belle Ramirez, Jocelyn Torres-Mendoza, Kalyn Whitehead and Martinez each getting multiple hits in the game. Daniels and Starr each had three hits to lead Big Spring offensively in the district win.

Big Spring will travel to Greenwood next Tuesday looking to stay undefeated and keep their winning streak alive.

Harden ties career best with 61, Rockets beat Spurs 111-105

By JORDAN GODWIN

Associated Press

HOUSTON — After James Harden scored 61 more points Friday night to match his career high, Mike D'Antoni was asked the question just about everyone in the NBA is wondering this season.

Who can defend the league's most unstoppable scorer?

"Me. I can sit him on the bench," D'Antoni said. "That's about it."

Harden scored 27 points in the first quarter and went on a late scoring run to help the Rockets pull out a 111-105 victory over the San Antonio Spurs.

The Rockets trailed 100-94 with 4 minutes remaining when they went on a 13-2 run to regain the lead. In that stretch, Harden hit three straight 3-pointers and two tough jumpers to score all of Houston's points. He said his mindset was simple.

"Be aggressive," Harden said. "We were down so we had to make shots and get stops."

Harden topped the 50-point mark for the eighth time this season, compared with 10 such performances from the rest of the league combined. He matched his career-best total set earlier this season against the Knicks at Madison Square Garden.

The NBA's leading scorer surpassed the 30-point mark in the second quarter and the 40-point mark with 9 minutes remaining in the third.

"I just knew how important this game was," Harden said. "This was an opportunity for us to take care of our home so I wanted to come out with some aggressiveness."

Before Harden's late surge, the Spurs had overcome a 15-point half-time deficit to tie the game at 81 entering the fourth quarter.

"I was looking for someplace to throw up," D'Antoni said. "I felt awful. You knew they were going to turn it around. They churned us up and started making shots, but James wouldn't let us lose."

Harden was 7 of 10 from the field in the first quarter, including 3 of 4 from the 3-point line, and also went 10 for 12 from the free throw line. His 27 points in the period were the second-most in franchise history, trailing only Vernon Maxwell's 30 in 1991.

Harden finished 9 of 13 from 3, 19 of 34 from the field and 14 of 17 from the free throw line.

"You've got to appreciate it," Rockets point guard Chris Paul said of Harden's run this season. "What he's doing, that ain't easy. I don't care who you are."

Houston has won 13 of its last 15 games and eight of its last nine at home.

Bryn Forbes led San Antonio with 20 points, while Derrick White added 18 and DeMar DeRozan had 16.

DeRozan said Harden is arguably the greatest isolation scorer in the history of the game.

"He's been in the zone all year with the things he's been doing," DeRozan said. "He's been remarkable. You've got to tip your hats to him. When a guy gets going like that, it's tough to slow him down."

Houston led 36-24 at the end of the first quarter and 62-47 at halftime.

"We gave up a million points in the first quarter, they had 19 free throws in the first half and none in the third quarter," Spurs coach Gregg Popovich said. "You play with your heart but you play between the ears, also, so we played smarter and harder in the second half, but you can't do that against a good team like Houston or any team in the NBA."

Looking for answers

Dear Editor:

Just a few things that I would like to get some information on:

What time does Gregg Street turn into a racetrack or is it automatic when the sun goes down, all speed and loud pipes by vehicles that can promise more, bellow louder and deliver less.

Do the people in this town remember before interstate 20, when Third and Fourth Street were busy and Downtown was booming.

Do you remember when Gregg Street was changed to a four lane to help with north and south traffic into Big Spring.

Let us hurry to get the reliever route finished so more traffic can bypass the poinsettia capital of Texas and maybe all the Gregg Street racers can go out there and make our town safer and stay out of town and other people's way that have things to do.

Thank you,
Kenneth Carson

Sending thanks

Dear Editor:

Until recently I was the assistant circulation manager and a carrier for the Big Spring Herald. On Feb. 12, I was admitted to SMMC with several severe medical issues that required me to spend two weeks in the hospital. After being released I was taken to Shannon Hospital in San Angelo where I spent another week in an isolation room. My doctors are telling me it could take up to a year or more to resolve the problems.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the staff from housekeeping to nutrition to the ER staff, nurses and doctors who were involved in my care. Everyone was pleasant, caring and concerned. They have a difficult job and I am in awe at how well they handle it.

I also want to thank my wonderful customers who were patient with me before I became ill. I know your papers were often late and I apologize for it. Because of health problems I cannot return to work at this time. I know you all have new carriers and I hope you will be patient with them while they learn the routes. Also, I want to thank everyone for their prayers, cards and phone calls. They mean a lot to me. Please continue the prayers, I feel like I will need a lot of them. Being your carrier was one of the best jobs I have had, I will miss all of you.

Finally to the staff at the Herald you are all awesome and I have enjoyed working with all of you. Thank you for your texts and calls checking on me, your concerns and prayers mean a lot. I loved my job there and will miss everyone.

Thank you,

A little history, for future

Dear Editor:

As a youngster, unknowingly, I witnessed the aftermath of complete community economic devastation – a great place to grow up and depart. A daily trip typically passed a dynamited factory on the street to a former college building converted to elementary grades 1 through 8 – heated in the winter by wood stove and cooled in other seasons by open windows. The community had natural assets desired by a nearby city – yet it allowed almost all its offspring to vacate elsewhere. The loss must have been enormous creating mass depression and leaders left, I was told. Modest tax rates were little match to appeal. The product had been well known and sold in N.Y.

Arriving in Big Spring in the early 50s – its amphitheater, historic spring, refinery, VA hospital, new high school, new college, new rodeo bowl, city (now state park), etc. seemed metropolitan and awesome to a farm boy. But it wasn't just community features -- it was community leadership that was so impressionable. From Dora Roberts to Clyde McMahan, Mayor Dabney and many others it seems a unique place with substantial jobs and appeal. CRMWD celebrated the opening of its first lake (Thomas) and the refinery was extra special. Somewhere along the ages – that great pioneer spirit subsided. Now much older, I'm led to seek that kind of leadership again that will grow a community in unique and special ways – after all – those distinguish a community from all the others. There's one Mayor candidate by the name of Debbie Wegman who seems to have that ability in my opinion and Big Spring, strategically, needs plenty of leadership. Debbie is stepped in season and experience and city budgets won't be a mysteries to her. Before being handed the responsibility to manage and revitalize the Historic Spring – she first obtained donor financial resources saving the taxpayer pocketbook. A homeowner – she's affected and well aware of spiraling tax rates and evaluations. I strongly suspect she will strive to find a level of fairness in those matters.

In many travels – Corpus to Canada, Virginia to California is to pass through thousands and thousands of U.S. Cities all trying to change and grow their communities – some with the asset of water transportation – most with industrial parks. The unsaid thought is how few will be successful and it demonstrates the stree on ideas, the limits of population and resources place on a community. Combining an experienced Mayor with an experience Director who has purpose, a heart for the community and record of accomplishment with the taxpayer dollar is an equation for success. Perhaps we may yet get that Interstate 27 out on the West bypass and remain the crossroads of a route from Mexico to Canada and the jobs and all that will with that designation.

While its inspiring to an old volunteer to see interest in the Mayor's office, this is a time for seasoned leadership. For Mayoral candidates – win this time or not – start in the volunteer trenches. You'll learn how to be the best Mayor, ever, for a city destined to be unique and special. That's what Debbie did.

Roger's Review

The movie starts off with a credits sequence involving a commercial for “Hands Across America” – the May 25, 1986, fundraiser which raised money for local charities to combat hunger and homelessness – and an array of cages, each containing a rabbit.

After the credits, we’re taken to a carnival in Santa Cruz. Adelaide (Madison Curry as young Adelaide) is there with her parents Russell (Yahya Abdul-Mateen II) and Rayne (Anna Diop). Her parents are arguing. Adelaide wanders off the boardwalk down to the beach while her mom goes to the restroom and her dad plays Whac-a-Mole.

At the beach, Adelaide discovers a funhouse labeled with the line “Find yourself inside.” Entering, she’s initially entertained by spooky owls and crazy mirrors, but then the lights go out. When she can’t find the exit, Adelaide discovers another girl – apparently her exact duplicate – in an alcove.

Cut to later at the therapist’s office. Russell and Rayne are still arguing. Apparently Adelaide was gone only about 15 minutes, but now she won’t talk. The therapist recommends involving her in non-verbal communication: art, music, or dance.

Next we see Adelaide (Lupita Nyong’o), now grown up, with her husband Gabe Wilson (Winston Duke) and her kids Zora (Shahadi Wright Joseph) and Jason (Evan Alex). Jason habitually wears a red devil’s mask and plays with a non-functional lighter. Adelaide’s clearly still a bit troubled by her past experience, and sees hallucinations of the little girl from the funhouse, but she agrees to go on a beach trip (back to Santa Cruz, natch) with the family.

They meet up with their friends the Tylers: Kitty (Elisabeth Moss), Josh (Tim Heidecker), and twins Gwen and Maggie (Cali and Noelle Sheldon) and enjoy an uneasy day on the beach. In particular, Jason walks up to the port-a-potties near the same funhouse from Adelaide’s childhood. Standing outside, he sees a strange man with blood dripping from his fingers.

That night, power at the rented house goes out, and almost immediately Zora alerts Gabe and Adelaide that there is a “family in the driveway.”

Investigating, Gabe tries to talk to the family, and then warn them to leave, with no response. When he finally threatens them with a baseball bat, the family’s two children scamper off out of sight, while the man strides purposefully toward Gabe.

Roger Cline

Us

Gabe runs back inside and manages to hold off the intruder for a minute, but all four of the mysterious “family” soon get in, and we see that they’re all duplicates of the Wilsons, wearing red jumpsuits. And they don’t look happy.

I’ll go ahead and stop the summary, but believe me: It gets weird from there.

There are other characters in the movie, but the ones already listed are all of the notable ones. Of course, the same actors portray the doppelgangers of their main characters.

There’s a lot to process here – disparate elements that tie together to create a truly gothic horror for children of the ‘80s: The strange, doomed, meaningless gesture that was Hands Across America, the “evil twin” trope, “stranger danger,” etc.

And while the movie can be watched and enjoyed on that strange, uncomfortable horror feeling, Peele also makes a political statement with the two groups of people – one free and empowered, the other confined, imprisoned, and living desperate, trapped lives. Whether the intended division occurs along class lines or race lines (neither is the case in the literal viewing of the movie), the theme of identical yet fundamentally different people is a strong one.

Performances of all the main actors – switching between their “normal” selves and their doppelgangers – are pretty brilliant. Also, some of the interactions are simply laugh-out-loud funny.

I enjoyed “Us.” I think it’s probably the most unusual (original?) movie I’ve seen so far this year. Nine stars out of 10.

This week’s reviews include fiction, mystery and non-fiction.

Author Diane Chamberlain in “The Dream Daughter” (F CHA D), delivers a thrilling, mind-bending novel about one mother’s journey to save her child. When Carly Sears, a young woman widowed by the Vietnam War, receives the news that her unborn baby girl has a heart defect, she is devastated. It is 1970, and she is told that nothing can be done to help her child. But her brother-in-law, a physicist with a mysterious past, tells her that perhaps there is a way to save her baby. What he suggests is something that will shatter every preconceived notion that Carly has. Something that will require a kind of strength and courage she never knew existed. Something that will require unimaginable leap of faith on Carly’s part, all for the love of her unborn child.

Anne Ashburn is a woman consumed by her bitter family legacy, by her scorched career as a firefighter, by her obsession with department bad-boy Danny McGuire, and by a new case that pits her against a fiery killer in “Consumed” (F WAR J) by J.R. Ward. Strong-willed Anne was fearless and loved the thrill of fighting fires, pushing herself to be the best. But one risky decision at a warehouse fire changed her life forever, Anne had to reinvent not only her job, but her whole self. Shattered and demoralized, Anne finds her new career as an arson investigator a pale substitute for the adrenaline-fueled life she left behind. She doesn’t believe she will ever feel that same passion for her job again, until she encounters a string of suspicious fires setting her beloved city ablaze. Danny McGuire is a premier fireman, best in the county, but in the midst of a personal meltdown. Danny is taking risks like never before and seems to have a death wish until he teams up with Anne to find the fire starter. But Danny may be more than a distraction, and as Anne narrows in on her target, the arsonist begins to target her.

How do you choose between loyalty and the truth? In “In Too Deep” (M BLA L) by Lynn H. Blackburn, the Carrington County Sheriff’s office dive team is called in to recover a body from a submerged car. They are not prepared to find an encrypted laptop or an unsettling connection between investigator Adam Campbell and the dead accountant. Adam turns to his friend Dr. Sabrina Fleming to recover the files from the laptop. But the deeper they dig, the deadlier the investigation becomes. When evidence implicates members of Adam’s own family, he and Sabrina will have to risk everything to solve the case. The truth could set hundreds free, but someone is willing to do whatever it takes to silence anyone who threatens to reveal their secrets.

“If you don’t like to read, you haven’t found the right book.”

Taking control of your money is only 20 percent head knowledge, the other 80 percent is behavior. Dave Ramsey’s “Dave Ramsey’s Complete Guide to Money: the Handbook of Financial Peace University” (332.024 RAM D) will teach you how money works. In his twenties, Dave lost everything. As he put his life back together, he was determined not to make the same mistakes again and went out on a quest to find out how money really works. He read everything he could get his hands on, and interviewed dozens of wealthy people. Soon Dave realized that the key to winning with money was taking control of his behaviors with money. So he did. He has helped millions of people learn the same life-changing principles. “Dave’s Ramsey’s Complete Guide to Money” is easy to read and ultra-practical with the information you need, like how to save, budget, dump debt, invest, and plan for college and retirement. You’ll learn the truth about credit cards and credit bureaus, how clever marketing can sway your decisions, what insurance you need and more. These are the principles Dave learned, the same ones that have turned millions of people around. To go from debt and discontentment to financial peace will take some work, willpower and a plan.

A Texas longhorn, part of the State Herd of Texas.

By JUDY TERELETSKY
HSWCD District Clerk

Lean in body, long in horn and tough enough to thrive in Texas, the Texas Longhorn is one of our iconic images. However, by 1920 the Longhorn was nearing extinction until a soft-spoken man stepped forward.

The Texas Longhorn is thought to have developed from Spanish/Mexican stock which roamed northward for grazing in the 1500's. These "Texas cattle" increased in number as settlements grew and more escaped. They roamed as a wild and native species and during this time the species interbred with stray cattle from the eastern United States as settlers moved westward. A new breed of strong disease resistant cattle emerged and continued to increase in number. After the Civil War, the Texas veterans returned to a state with a devastated economy but one surprising marketable commodity- millions of wild longhorn cattle. Longhorn beef sold for approximately $1.50 a head in Texas but brought $30 to $40 a head in the east and west coasts of United States. Thus, the iconic cattle drives began with a new breed of men- the Texas cowboy. It has been estimated that between 1867 and 1880 nearly ten million cattle were driven north to places like Kansas City to travel by railroad to feed the large cities in the east and west. The Longhorn did well on these long harsh journeys and even gained weight as they travelled through areas with more plentiful grass than the arid west Texas. They could travel long distances, swim wide rivers and thrive on anything including cactus. By the 1900's the longhorn was gradually replaced with other breeds of cattle since railroads had expanded and European breeds that yielded more beef per animal became more popular.

Ranchers began breeding Longhorns with Herefords and this contributed to the declining numbers of purebred Longhorns. By 1920, the Longhorn was nearing extinction and this threat got the attention in the 1930's of a soft-spoken man by the name of Sid Richardson. With the help of western author J. Frank Dobie and rancher Graves Peeler, Mr. Richardson recognized the danger of losing the breed and took steps to stop their move to extinction. Native Howard County residents are sure to recognize the name of Sid Richardson from the carbon black plant near the oil refinery at the east side of Big Spring. Sid Richardson was a self-made millionaire born in east Texas. He attended Baylor and Hardin -Simmons. Borrowing money from a friend (and later business partner) in 1919, he hit oil and amassed a million dollars in one year. From that time on whether his fortunes rose or fell, Mr. Richardson donated to organizations and charitable causes throughout the country but never sought notoriety.

In 1936, Richardson purchased 33,000 acres near Rockport, Texas, and launched a breeding program for the Santa Gertrudis breed of cattle. While winning awards for the breeding programs he developed for his herd, "Mr. Sid" as he was called by his friends realized that the true Longhorn of early Texas history might become extinct. Richardson, Dobie and Peeler searched for "pure" Longhorns and gathered a small herd donating the animals to the Texas Parks Board in 1941 as the state herd of Texas. The herd was kept near Mathis in the Corpus Christi State Park. The unprotected Longhorns continued to decline in numbers so the group gathered a second herd in 1942 keeping it at Lake Brownwood State Park. In 1948, the herds were moved to their permanent home at Fort Griffin State Park under the care of the Texas State Parks and The Historical Commission of Texas. On May 14, 1969, the Texas Legislature designated the Longhorn herd at Fort Griffin as the Official State of Texas Longhorn Herd. The herd now numbering about 250 cattle can be seen at Fort Griffin (which is near Albany, Texas, about 50 miles northeast of Abilene- 141 miles from Big Spring) daily 8 am to 4:30 pm for a small entrance fee and special tours or programs set up by contacting the herd manager at 325-762-2356. (1)

Longhorns are viewed by some to be the most spectacularly colored of all cattle with shadings and combinations so varied that no two are alike. Reaching their maximum weight between 800 to 1500 pounds in about eight to ten years most cows and bulls have horns of four feet or less. However mature steers have an average of six feet or more with a 15-year-old steer often reaching nine feet. Our local Heritage Museum on Scurry Street in Big Spring has a room of mounted longhorns including a world record ten and one-half feet among them. They are known to use their horns for lots of odd things beside protection from backscratchers to opening gates. Longhorns have a natural resistance to the most common cattle diseases and eat a wider range of grasses, plants and weeds than other cattle. The Texas longhorn produces a very lean beef significantly lower in cholesterol than other breeds of beef cattle. Intelligent and easy to work with, the Texas Longhorn is often showcased in parades or school tours. (2)

Thanks to the efforts of Sid Richardson, Texas State Parks and the Historic Commission of Texas, the Texas Longhorn is still a living symbol of the Old West.

As beef cattle numbers rise, cull cow prices drop

Even though beef cattle numbers have been increasing steadily, prices for cull cows have tumbled, reaching their lowest amount since 2009.

COLLEGE STATION – Prices for most cull cows recently hit their lowest point since 2009, even as Texas' beef cattle numbers continue to increase slowly, according to a Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service expert.

Dr. David Anderson, AgriLife Extension economist, College Station, said Texas producers are adding cattle to their operations, and most classes of cattle were close to breakeven despite the lowest prices in a decade. However, some classes, such as cull cows, have seen prices tumble well below breakeven.

Texas has the largest beef cattle herd in the U.S. with around 4.6 million head in January 2018, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Anderson said the state and national herd continues to slowly build with relatively good prices and consumer demand.

"It's the largest cow herd since 2009, but we're also seeing the lowest prices at market since 2009," he said. "We're hoping to see that seasonal bump in prices that typically occurs between late fall and June. We've seen a little bit of an increase, which is positive, but not much."

Higher costs associated with high-priced hay to supplement winter feeding won't do anything to help profit margins, Anderson said. The summer drought followed by continuous rains placed a high demand on hay bales throughout the state this winter.

"We fed a lot of expensive hay to cattle this winter, so we need a price recovery to pay for that," he said.

However, beef and dairy cull cows have hit new lows, Anderson said. Cull cows are typically destined to become hamburger meat.

In Oklahoma City, which had the most comprehensive data, cull cow prices were $46.92 per hundredweight in December, which was the lowest price since $46.58 per hundredweight in December 2009. The highest December price for cull cows was $116.50 per hundredweight in 2014.

"The dairy industry has been struggling with weak prices and lots of dairies going out of business all around the country," he said. "That is sending so many cows to market that cull prices are seeing low to no profit."

AgriLife Extension district reporters compiled the following summary:

WEST CENTRAL: Conditions were warmer overall. They were cooler early in the reporting period, with high winds and storms before warming and dry conditions later in the period. Some wind damage to farm structures was reported. The district received some rain, which improved soil moisture levels and rangeland conditions. Winter wheat was in mostly good to excellent condition. Fieldwork continued in preparation for planting warm-season crops. Pastures were in good shape headed into spring. Some warm-season grasses began to break dormancy. In the cattle market, stocker and feeder steers and heifers were steady. Lightweight stocker steers sold $5 lower per hundredweight. Packer cows and bulls, pairs and bred cows sold steady.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Cosmic Communication Conjunction

One glorious idea that could befall you on this fine conjunction of Mercury and Neptune is the realization that you don't have to weigh in on everything. In this recommendation-ruled society, we mistakenly think opinions are required instead of optional. The wise will save their energy and their judgment for the important things.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). No need for formalities. Get to what matters. And don't be afraid to join in a conversation in the middle of it or, even better, to start there -- because today, the middle is the new beginning.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You're hearing the same advice from different, unrelated sources. It's a sign. It's not a sign that they're right; rather, it's a sign that there's value in doing a deeper dive. Look into it!

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). People appreciate a structure, and you're extremely structured in your thinking and doing today -- a boon to everyone around you. You model the behavior you'd like to see in others, and they catch on.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Remain vigilant if you can manage it, because it will count for double over the next 24 hours. You'll affirm to yourself and show others that you're serious about reaching your goals.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). There's no such thing as an ordinary problem when you've an extraordinary mind. As Isaac Newton proved, even getting hit on the head by a fallen apple can lead to unlocking a secret of the universe.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Maybe perfection can be achieved in such things as sandwiches and a few hours of fine weather -- but it can't in most other things. And in relationships, perfection is an impossibility. Reasonable expectations are the magic of life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). To look at the big picture of your own life, you'd probably have to be standing somewhere other than smack in the middle of it. So it's a good thing you have good people around who can help you get perspective. BY HOLIDAY MATHIS the feeling that a certain person enjoys pushing your emotional buttons? Who knows why? It could be that your attention is wonderful to obtain by any means. If you want it to stop, don't react.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You can trust in the power of groups today, especially groups with an excellent leader (such as you!). The best leaders listen about 90 percent more than they talk.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). The more living things you're in charge of (plants, pets, offspring) the more crucial it is that you consider your No. 1 responsibility in life -- your own survival and nurturance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Your plans will change according to cost and other factors. This will be an overwhelmingly positive occurrence, as living strictly according to one's plan isn't really living at all.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Do you get

You'll use this information to move into a life circumstance of your most wonderful dreams. Sagittarius and Aquarius adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 38, 1, 3, 28 and 9.

FORECAST FOR THE WEEK AHEAD: To keep cool -- to maintain your composure when the scene takes an unexpected turn or when circumstances get out of hand -- this is one of the most impressive social feats achievable, yet it's an opportunity that won't come up unless things go suddenly badly. So in a sense, when things go badly but you don't, it's actually a stroke of excellent luck.

Relax. There's nothing inherently negative predicted in the week. But it is a week of changes. Mercury changes direction. Venus and Mars both get sign changes. And the prevailing energy is one of Aries newness, which could also be translated into youngness. With youth come mistakes and awkward growth spurts. Roll with it! It's adorable at any age. Commend yourself for trying new things and becoming a new person, even if that requires you to stretch, be pretentious, make embarrassing moves; it's all part of being vital in this changing environment. Love yourself no matter what.

But if you do happen to keep your cool -- to miraculously skip the awkwardness as some people do or, more likely, to finally get to enjoy your own maturity after years of practice -- then thank your lucky stars for giving you the obstacles necessary to achieve this rare act of human grace.

CELEBRITY PROFILES: Harry Houdini was born on this day in 1874 and died on Halloween night in 1926. Every year since, the groundbreaking magician and escape artist has been called for in seance circles around the world, especially on his birthday and Halloween night. The high-energy Aries had Venus in this risk-taking sign, as well. His having Mercury in Pisces indicates he had strong intuition, and his having Uranus in Leo signifies he had a passion for show business.

Opening lead — king of clubs.

After ruffing the club return, a second trump lost to West's ace. West then returned a heart, exhausting the South hand of trumps. Declarer was thus unable to ruff dummy's last club, and later lost two diamonds and a club to finish down two.

At the second table, South gave a lot more thought to the situation, trying to visualize a lie of the opposing cards that would allow him to make the contract. He, too, led a heart after ruffing the opening club, and ruffed East's club return.

But at this point, there was a significant departure in the play. At trick four, declarer crossed to dummy with the ace of diamonds, then ruffed a third club in his hand. Next came the A-K-Q of spades, after which he exited with a diamond.

The situation South had hoped for now materialized. East won the diamond with the queen, but had to return a club or a spade. This allowed declarer to ruff with his carefully preserved last trump while discarding dummy's remaining diamond, and the contract was home, dummy's 10-8-7 of trump winning two of the last three tricks.

Declarer was surely lucky to find such a favorable lie of the opposing cards, but his was the type of luck that seems to follow those players who live by the credo "Never say die."

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Annie's Mailbox

Anger Stays With Sobriety

Dear Annie: I'm in a bit of a predicament here. I'm with a wonderful woman who is a few years older than I am. She is a single mom of a sweet 7-year-old daughter. She has worked hard to overcome some alcoholic issues and has recently made strides in becoming sober and a better mother for her daughter.

My problem is that she has an anger issue. Her temper isn't horrible, but she's got a short fuse, and I try not to bother her if I know she is in a bad mood. But I want to be able to do more to help her become a better person. She tells me that I help, but I feel lost because even though she's been sober for months, her anger is still the same. I thought it might dissipate after she became sober, but it's still there behind the closed doors, and I never know what I will do to make her angry. I love her so much, and I feel that she is the one I want to spend my life with.

I'm not willing to give up on her and her daughter, as I want to be a family someday. She still attends Alcoholics Anonymous meetings. She has a personal counselor and is in-involved in activities at her daughter's school. Is there something we're missing that she could do to help her anger? She can't reach out to family members, as they don't approve of her relationship with me (another woman). Please help! -- Hiding Behind the Doors in Kansas

Dear Hiding: Sobriety is no magic bullet. People's problems can follow them into recovery. But that's why it's called recovery. It's an ongoing process -- a journey and not a destination. Toward that end, it's wonderful that your partner is attending AA meetings, as well as individual therapy. Let's hope she will continue to do so and will work the steps, which will help her work through some of that anger.

With that said, I'm more concerned for you than I am for her. Your letter indicates an overextended sense of responsibility common among loved ones of people with alcoholism. You risk losing sight of your own mental health. I strongly encourage you to attend a meeting of Al-Anon (<https://al-anon.org>) or SMART Recovery (<https://www.smartrecovery.org>) or to seek individual therapy. If it helps motivate you, know this: Finding a support system for yourself is one of the most important things you can do for your relationship. It will help to ensure you're not playing a role in any dysfunctional dynamics, however unintentional.

Dear Annie: I just read the letter from "Cramped in the Cabin." I don't fly that much, but when I do, just before takeoff, I get up and politely approach the person in front of me so he or she can see me in all my 6-foot-2-inch splendor. I say: "Excuse me, but I just want to let you know before we take off that you will not be able to fully recline in your seat because my knees will prevent you from doing so. Perhaps the flight attendant would be able to find someone who is willing to change seats with you so you can have that comfort for the duration of the flight." I have yet to have anyone move, and no one has tried to fully recline. Civility is not dead. -- Ruth

Dear Ruth: And long may it live. Thanks for sharing your tip. Sometimes the best defense is a good offense.

Dear Readers: I received a great deal of helpful feedback for "Heartbroken on Valentine's Day." Thank you to everyone who wrote in.

Dear Annie: I also had a son who died on Valentine's Day. His name was Robert, and he was 11 1/2 years old when he passed away 28 years ago. He will always be a part of our lives. My heart goes out to all the families that had a child die on this day. The reminder is there right after Christmas. I just want to say that the word "lost" is not in my vocabulary when I speak of my son. I know he is in heaven.

There is a support group for parents whose children died at any age. It's called The Compassionate Friends.

I thank you for your column. I read it every day. -- Mother

Dear Annie: It would probably help that mother and her family if they would contact The Compassionate Friends. It is an international support group of parents who lost children. The meetings and the newsletter have greatly helped my husband and me cope with the deaths of our two sons. That family can check out TCF's website, at <https://www.compassionatefriends.org>. -- Mother

Dear Mothers: I am so very sorry for your losses. A number of readers suggested The Compassionate Friends. I'm printing both of your letters in hopes that they help others in a similar situation to yours.

Dear Annie: "Heartbroken on Valentine's Day," whose baby girl was stillborn on Valentine's Day, asked whether there was anything else she and her husband could do to get past it. May I suggest that she and her husband decide on doing something positive on Valentine's Day in her honor? It should be something that they feel connects to her spirit, whether it be a charity or a special cause, even something as simple as lighting a candle. It could involve their time, a good deed or a yearly donation, no matter how small. The thought that "this one is for Valentine" when doing something helpful for others might help them, too. -- E. Cristina

Dear E. Cristina: What a lovely suggestion. Thank you.

Dear Annie: I am a retired obstetrician-gynecologist. Over the years, I have counseled many women who have lost pregnancies through miscarriage or stillbirth.

One of the big problems these potential parents have is that their friends and relatives avoid them. Not because they don't care but because they are unsure of themselves and don't know what to say. Even worse, some people attempting to say something that is reassuring make the situation worse by saying the wrong thing. A simple "I'm sorry to hear about your loss" is often the best thing to say. "You can always have another" and "He or she is in a better place" are not helpful.

The book "How to Survive the Loss of a Love" is a great resource that has been around for many years. It is helpful not only for pregnancy loss but for the loss of a spouse, a parent or a sibling. I highly recommend it.

Also, I'd like to say that there is a special place in heaven for labor and delivery nurses. You won't find any more compassionate, caring people than labor and delivery nurses. Anyone can share in the joy of a pregnancy when everything turns out right. It takes a special person to be able to comfort a grieving mother. -- Donald J. Pansch, M.D.

Dear Dr. Pansch: Thank you for your very thoughtful letter.
