 Several people in Baird have lost their grip, but C. A. Broecker has lost his. He made a trip east Christmas, but his grip has never shown up yet. It is still celebrating Christmas some where in East Texas it is supposed.
 Mr. E. O. Swofford, our local photographer, received a phone message Tuesday morning from Stillwell, Van Hook county, announcing the death of his mother, Mrs. E. J. Swofford, at that place. Mr. Swofford left Tuesday night to attend the funeral. This STAR extends sympathy to him in his sorrow.

A cattle thief of unusual boldness and magnitude was perpetrated six miles from Rensselaer, Ind., last week and the cattle were sold in Chicago before Alfred McCoy, the owner, was aware he had been robbed. The thieves visited McCoy's ranch in the evening and cut out 210 head of the cattle in the pasture. During them to where cars were awaiting Equitable shipments, the bunch was hurriedly loaded, shipped to Chicago and sold the next day. In the course of 24 hours somebody on the ranch came out of a dream and notified McCoy, who is a banker, of his loss. The cattle were checked up and a loss of some $8,000 worth of fine cattle was charged to profit and loss and a memorandum entered "no clue in this case." McCoy, due to the dexterity and nerves of the robbers so sure as manifest that any cattle were left on the place at all.—Exchange.

The following criticism of the Alba Heywood Company, which is to appear here on Jan. 10th is from the Fort Worth Register:
 "The largest house of the season greeted Alba Heywood and his excellent company at the opera house last night in the Y. M. C. A. Course. Nearly every seat in the house was occupied, and the audience was estimated at 1300 people. From the beginning he had his audience at his mercy, but it was soon evident that the audience had no mercy on him, as the scores were so on reply, that the Y. M. C. A. Course was completed for the third or fourth time to respond. His interpretation of "Pope's Ravens" was novel, his pathos work was good, but his pathos in "Billy Billy" was the most catchy of the evenings' work. As a character actor he stands ahead of any that has been heard in this city. Miss Gertrude Monroe was a favorite with the audience. It is safe to say no better violinist has been heard in Fort Worth. Miss Cole, the soprano, was exceptionally fine, and Mr. Ulrich, "cello soloist" was very much appreciated. Although it was a most thoroughly enjoyable evening's performance, it will provoke a smile with the patrons of the Lyceum to even suggest the probability of this company being in the regular course next season."

Tom King, is we regret to learn, still under the weather and not able to get out doors much. We hope he will soon be able to get again.
 Hon. J. N. Rashley, who has been sick for sometime with the grip, was not doing so well Wednesday. We hope to see him out soon.

MARRIED.
PHILLIPS—HUBERT.
 The marriage of Mr. George Willson Phillips and Miss Anna Clara Hubert took place at the residence of the bride's guardian, Mr. W. E. Hunter, Wednesday evening, Dec. 26th. The home had been decorated with bannings and halls, stairway and doors were wreathed and draped with its cheerful garb. Before the hour of the ceremony Mrs. Pignore rendered pleasing selections, and as she began the Mendelssohn the Rev. Bartow B. Hamage descended the stairs and seated the bridal party in the front parlor. The groom, with his brother, Mr. Harry Phillips, as they entered the parlor, faced the minister and then gave the bride on the arm of her guardian, preceded by the ring bearer, little Florence. The ceremony was the ritual of the Episcopal church, and as its impressive admonition fell from the lips of the rector, the blessings of love and affection found echo in every heart.
 The bride wore a cloth gown trimmed with self-licking on the skirt and the train having a tulle of white velvet set with gold embroidery, edged with blue panne velvet.
 Though only the relatives and a few intimate friends were present at the ceremony, a large number of presents were received.
 Mr. and Mrs. Phillips will be at home at 401 Louisiana avenue—Fort Worth Register.

"FOR HER SAKE."
 Close readers of newspapers for a few years back will recall that at one time there was in this country a strong sentiment against the Russian government because of the treatment of political convicts in the mines of Siberia. A diplomatic relation the United States and Russia have always been able to a certain extent, and it looked at that time as though the repugnance of a large section of our people for the penal system of the Czar would operate to produce a rupture of the estimate then existing between the two countries. The feeling of dislike for Russia was fostered by the revelations of Wellman and Kennan, the lecturers. Nobody has forgotten the scenes they described, and a play that deals with such subjects ought to produce an unusual interest. Such a one is FOR HER SAKE, a four-act melodrama which will be seen at Athletic Hall Thursday night, Jan. 24.

PREACHING.

ARMOUR IS DEAD.

The Noted Chicagoan Passes Away at His Residence

ON THE AFTERNOON OF SUNDAY.

One of the Leading Factors in the Ford and Best Industries and Interested in Other Enterprises.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 7.—Philip Danforth Armour, philanthropist, financier and multi-millionaire, head of the vast commercial establishment that bears his name, died at his home, 2116 Tremont avenue, at 5:45 Sunday afternoon.

Muscular affection of the heart, known to the medical profession as myocarditis, was the immediate cause of death. He had been suffering from pneumonia, that for three weeks had threatened his life. At 9 o'clock Sunday morning his heart gave way under the strain of his recent illness, his pulse running up to 102. That was the beginning of the end. Mr. Armour was surrounded by his family when he died. Those at his bedside besides his physician and nurses were his wife, Mrs. Philip D. Armour and Rev. Frank Gustafson. The millionaire retained consciousness until within an hour of his death.

During the day he had realized that death was near. To those around him he said: "I know I am dying, and I am ready for death when it comes."

Soon after luncheon, and just before the physician forbade his talking more, Mr. Armour in feeble tones said that he would like to hear the Lord's prayer read. One of the trained nurses who had been attending him drew a chair to the bedside and slowly read from the Bible the words of the Lord's prayer, and Rev. Frank Gustafson, in a low voice, read the Lord's prayer by sentence, and each was repeated by Mr. Armour. When the "Amen" had been repeated by him he sank back on the pillow and closed his eyes restfully. It was the last words the great financier spoke except feeble farewells to his family, and a little later passed away.

Dr. Frank Billings, who was at Mr. Armour's bedside when the end came and who had been attending him for some time in attendance upon the sick man, stated that he had heard Mr. Armour make no mention of his interest in or profits arising from the gigantic Milwaukee-Detroit Northern deal, by which he was reputed to have made $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 week before last. He looked upon such holdings of stock as "Billings' investments rather than from the speculative view point."

"We were not altogether unprepared for my father's death," said Ogden Armour. "All the members of the family had been since the relapse of Sunday morning in anticipation of the most serious turn of events."

While Mr. Armour's name was more generally associated in the public mind with the great packing and provision establishments which he owned, interested and which do an annual business exceeding one hundred million dollars, employing 10,000 people and having representative offices in every city of importance in the world, he was actively interested in many other big enterprises.

SUFFOCATED BY SMOKE.

Eight Men Lose Their Lives in a Building at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 7.—Eight men lost their lives in a fire at 115 Washington avenue, south of 10 o'clock Sunday morning, which had its origin in the rear of the Standard furniture store. The men were overtaken by an intense volume of smoke in the Harvard hotel, which occupies the second, third and fourth floors of the building, and death in every instance was due to suffocation.

The fire was discovered by Charles Hanson as he was about to go to his room on the second floor. He immediately apprised George O'Connor, the night clerk, and the two men set about to awaken the lodgers. O'Connor devoted his attention to the second floor, while O'Connor rushed upstairs. The men were all sound asleep, and it was with the greatest difficulty that they were aroused. In several instances it was necessary for O'Connor to break in the door.

In the meantime he gave the alarm, and the warning was heard. O'Connor was finally forced to beat a retreat, and the men were left to their fate. What took place in the dingy rooms and narrow back hallways will never be known. Was a case of each man rushing for his own life. The greatest of the twenty-seven lodgers were successful, but the others were unable to get their way through the smoke, which they were found by the firemen. Many of those who escaped came staggering out on the snowy sidewalk like drunken men, barely making their way through the deadly smoke and heat, and only partially clad.

London, Jan. 7.—Monday morning's news from Cape Town is a stark and ghastly. Martial law has been proclaimed at Malansburg, and would probably extend to other districts. But that the cabinet that the cabinet Saturday was unable to agree as to its advisability.

The information concerning the movements and position of the invaders has sent a fresh cold fit over the colonists, and Cape Town calls California, 1,648,629 men from Great England on the ground that the greater part of Lord Kitchener's available force is employed in protecting the lines of communication and the Hand mines, the latter extending a distance of fifty miles.

It is asserted by one Cape Town correspondent that unless the forces in Cape Colony are lifted they will be a desirable state of affairs may result as the signs in arms of the invaders, however slight, may be the signal for a Dutch rising.

As it is, many British residents have had to leave the Dutch settlements near Cape Town, their lives being unbearable.

According to a native report, 100 men, either Boers or local farmers, have just passed through the district in the direction of Malansburg.

Indian Killing.
Leeville, La., Jan. 7.—A fatal difficulty occurred on Sabine river Sunday morning, in which young John Murray was shot and killed by James Ferguson. The two parties were alone when the tragedy occurred, and the fact was established, which is in accord with his statement, was a case of self-defense. Ferguson came in town Sunday morning and gave himself up to the authorities, and is now in jail.

Frank L. Stewart, a well known theatrical agent, died at St. Louis.

Severe Cold.
London, Jan. 7.—Severe cold epidemics set in throughout Europe. In England it was accompanied by a northerly wind. At Dover a boat was capsized, four persons drowning. On the continent the weather is still most severe. Snow has fallen in Rome, Naples, and in St. Petersburg the damage so far has been that the police in the streets have had to be frequently relieved and the schools closed.

Will Soon Be Issued.
Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 7.—W. J. Bryan passed through from Galveston, Tex. He said that his last trip he killed seventeen ducks, "sit on the wing and one in the netter." Speaking of his paper, the Commissioner said the first issue would be out about Jan. 20. He said subscriptions were received from thirty-two states and territories within a week after he announced his intention of publishing a paper.

Flooded with 3 miles.
Guthrie, Ok., Jan. 7.—Barnes and the officials of the United States land office in the territory are being deluged with inquiries as to certain colonization schemes in Oklahoma. It may be well for people to know that all of the good agricultural lands in Oklahoma are taken up by his title except that in Indian reservations not yet opened to settlement.

Pierpont Morgan has added the La-high Valley to his system.

LONG STAR LEADS.

Producers More Mineral Wells Than Any Other in the West.

Mineral Wells, Tex., Jan. 8.—The annual report of the United States geologist for the year 1910 has been received here. The statistics reported the highest number of wells and springs are as follows: New Mexico, to the value of $89,064.

Virginia 39, with 96,849 gallons, value $24,769.

Massachusetts 29, with 4,639,941 gallons, value $29,794.

California 24, with 1,484,075 gallons, value $298,493.

Wisconsin 20, with 4,089,329 gallons, value $191,267.

Maine 26, with 1,850,132 gallons, value $179,450.

Pennsylvania 25, with 1,542,900 gallons, value $360,254.

Minnesota 21, with 3,045,000 gallons, value $268,245.

Illinois 18, with 858,950 gallons, value $107,697.

Ohio 15, with 2,494,473 gallons, value $117,135.

Texas 15, with 4,729,550 gallons, value $155,647.

Of the 4,729,550 gallons produced in Texas in 1910, Mineral Wells produced 3,500,000—almost three-fourths—to the value of $190,000.

New York with her 48 mineral wells and springs produced 375,893 gallons, less than Texas with her 15 wells and springs. Massachusetts comes next, with 39 wells and springs, and 298,590 gallons. Wisconsin next with 30 wells and springs, and 4,082,931 gallons less than Texas. Michigan next, with 27 wells and springs, and 1,648,629 gallons less than Texas.

The report shows that there are only three states either one of which produce more water than Texas. The wells in Texas are 1,648,629 gallons, only 193,259 more. This report shows that Massachusetts only 1,139,441 gallons more, and Wisconsin only 1,932,259 more. This report shows that Mineral Wells alone produced 2,035,295 gallons more than the state of California, 1,648,629 gallons more than England on the ground that the greater part of Lord Kitchener's available force is employed in protecting the lines of communication and the Hand mines, the latter extending a distance of fifty miles.

Such Enclosures.
Galveston, Tex., Jan. 8.—Small-pox has broken out in the Callisburg neighborhood to the north of Galveston, and the people in that locality are greatly alarmed, fearing that the pest may assume an epidemic form, as a number of the persons exposed to the disease have been attending the public school at Callisburg and on this account the schools have been closed and some sixty families quarantined. On Sunday night an old lady residing on the west side of Callisburg died of the disease and there are five more reported in her family. The county physician, C. R. Johnson, went to that neighborhood Monday to investigate the situation, which parties in from there report as very serious.

Three Lost Their Lives.
Galveston, Tex., Jan. 8.—The British steamer Domingo de Larrazar arrived in port with the report of an explosion of the main steam pipe, the accident resulting in the death of two firemen and a stowaway.

Two Spaniards, Jose Campos and Manuel Duosen, were taken out dead and horribly disfigured by the scalding steam. The third victim, a Dutch stowaway whose name was unknown, was taken out dead.

Cable System Crisped.
Houston, Tex., Jan. 8.—It is learned that the cable system that were cut Sunday night have severed the telephone relay system used by fully half the city, and in case of fire in certain localities big loss would surely result. The cables were those of the Southwestern Telephone company.

A report from a contractor inside the city limits is reported by inmates of the Southwestern Telephone company. No one is able to say more than that it was destroyed by a law and order. The most definite information is to the effect that eight cables of the company have been cut, and that no one is able to say who did it.

Senator Dubois charged himself in the senate.

New gold fields are reported discovered in West Africa.

Negro Arrested.
Texasark, Tex., Jan. 8.—A negro was arrested in a disreputable quarter on suspicion by the officers of being the one who assaulted a telephone operator in the city of Dallas on Dec. 3.

When arrested the negro became almost paralytic with fear, and it was fully twenty minutes before he was able to give any statement to the law and order of himself, and this was so contradictory it only made his captors more certain they had the right man.

FLAGMAN'S COLLISION.

By Bare Proximity of Mind He Averts an Awful Accident.

Temple, Tex., Jan. 4.—Soon after the departure of the north-bound passenger train on the Santa Fe, the 1910 had been received here. The statistics reported the highest number of wells and springs are as follows: New Mexico, to the value of $89,064.

Virginia 39, with 96,849 gallons, value $24,769.

Massachusetts 29, with 4,639,941 gallons, value $29,794.

California 24, with 1,484,075 gallons, value $298,493.

Wisconsin 20, with 4,089,329 gallons, value $191,267.

Maine 26, with 1,850,132 gallons, value $179,450.

Pennsylvania 25, with 1,542,900 gallons, value $360,254.

Minnesota 21, with 3,045,000 gallons, value $268,245.

Illinois 18, with 858,950 gallons, value $107,697.

Ohio 15, with 2,494,473 gallons, value $117,135.

Texas 15, with 4,729,550 gallons, value $155,647.

Of the 4,729,550 gallons produced in Texas in 1910, Mineral Wells produced 3,500,000—almost three-fourths—to the value of $190,000.

New York with her 48 mineral wells and springs produced 375,893 gallons, less than Texas with her 15 wells and springs. Massachusetts comes next, with 39 wells and springs, and 298,590 gallons. Wisconsin next with 30 wells and springs, and 4,082,931 gallons less than Texas. Michigan next, with 27 wells and springs, and 1,648,629 gallons less than Texas.

The report shows that there are only three states either one of which produce more water than Texas. The wells in Texas are 1,648,629 gallons, only 193,259 more. This report shows that Massachusetts only 1,139,441 gallons more, and Wisconsin only 1,932,259 more. This report shows that Mineral Wells alone produced 2,035,295 gallons more than the state of California, 1,648,629 gallons more than England on the ground that the greater part of Lord Kitchener's available force is employed in protecting the lines of communication and the Hand mines, the latter extending a distance of fifty miles.

Such Enclosures.
Galveston, Tex., Jan. 8.—Small-pox has broken out in the Callisburg neighborhood to the north of Galveston, and the people in that locality are greatly alarmed, fearing that the pest may assume an epidemic form, as a number of the persons exposed to the disease have been attending the public school at Callisburg and on this account the schools have been closed and some sixty families quarantined. On Sunday night an old lady residing on the west side of Callisburg died of the disease and there are five more reported in her family. The county physician, C. R. Johnson, went to that neighborhood Monday to investigate the situation, which parties in from there report as very serious.

Three Lost Their Lives.
Galveston, Tex., Jan. 8.—The British steamer Domingo de Larrazar arrived in port with the report of an explosion of the main steam pipe, the accident resulting in the death of two firemen and a stowaway.

Two Spaniards, Jose Campos and Manuel Duosen, were taken out dead and horribly disfigured by the scalding steam. The third victim, a Dutch stowaway whose name was unknown, was taken out dead.

Cable System Crisped.
Houston, Tex., Jan. 8.—It is learned that the cable system that were cut Sunday night have severed the telephone relay system used by fully half the city, and in case of fire in certain localities big loss would surely result. The cables were those of the Southwestern Telephone company.

A report from a contractor inside the city limits is reported by inmates of the Southwestern Telephone company. No one is able to say more than that it was destroyed by a law and order. The most definite information is to the effect that eight cables of the company have been cut, and that no one is able to say who did it.

Negro Arrested.
Texasark, Tex., Jan. 8.—A negro was arrested in a disreputable quarter on suspicion by the officers of being the one who assaulted a telephone operator in the city of Dallas on Dec. 3.

When arrested the negro became almost paralytic with fear, and it was fully twenty minutes before he was able to give any statement to the law and order of himself, and this was so contradictory it only made his captors more certain they had the right man.

GUIDED BY DREAMS.

A Texarkana Lady Discovers Money Lost During the Civil War.

Texarkana, Tex., Jan. 7.—Students of psychic matters will find food for thought and reflection in the following well-authenticated experience of Mrs. Rachel P. Moore, one of Texarkana's oldest residents, a lady of education, habits of neatness, wealth and of the leading members of the First Baptist church.

Before the civil war, Mrs. Moore and several years thereafter, Mrs. Moore, were visited by relatives of her former master, who near his beautiful country plantation near Alamo Mills, about twenty miles south of Texarkana. They had been large slaveholders, and in the former part of 1866 had many of their former slaves living on the place with them. About that time several robberies by slaves of the former master were reported in this section, the news of which occurred led to a consultation between Col. Moore and his attorney, to the proper action necessary for the safety of their own money. It was decided that the colonel go alone, at night, and bury the treasure, at some safe place. This was done. Eleven years later he died, and reached that night, and it was the night of the robbery. The money was gone, and the widow gave it up, after becoming convinced that it was lost forever so far as she was concerned. Some three or four months ago Mrs. Moore's residence, a fine structure, situated on State street, was burned, by reason of a fire which started in a heavy trunk of her dress, which she had placed in the trunk. She was very much affected, and she grieved continually. One night about a month ago she dreamed the handwriting as seen in a certain place, the old plantation, where it had been buried thirty-five years ago, and two nights later the vision in every detail.

She said nothing about this to ever her most intimate friends, though every few nights she saw dream visited her, each time describing vividly and in detail the place where the money was. Mrs. Moore was not a believer in dreams and omens. She had never been reckoned as superstitious, yet the persistent recurrence of this peculiar dream finally resolved on an investigation. Quietly and without acquainting any one of her purpose, she went about the work. She asked a male relative to go for a visit with her to the country, and about a week ago they landed at the old plantation. A negro man had employed. Mrs. Moore, three started out over the place, and after several hours of wandering, the handwriting as seen in Mrs. Moore's dream, were found in the ground. She was told to dig at a certain spot, and to work with a will under the promise that if she found anything, she was to be paid. After nearly an hour's digging he found it was no use. "The spirit" didn't never stir, she said as she dug. She was told to dig at a certain spot, and to work with a will under the promise that if she found anything, she was to be paid. Mrs. Moore offers no explanation so far as the dream is concerned other than that the place where the money was found was an exact picture of that which she saw in her dream.

Fatally Injured.
Paris, Tex., Jan. 7.—Wellington Bowling, colored, who worked on a farm east of Grant, I. T., was struck and fatally injured by the southbound Frisco fast passenger train No. 5 at Grant. The train didn't make any stops between Paris and Grant. It was passing through Paris, and the regular rate of speed the negro tried to go from a store on the west side of the track in the city on the east side. He did not realize the rate of speed of the train was making. When he reached the middle of the track the train was in the middle of the track. He stopped and looked. Instead of getting out of the way he became paralyzed with fear and remained standing on the track. The engine was reversed, but it was too near him to avoid the accident.
