Bees attack 3, kill dog at Canterbury

By ROGER CLINE
Staff Writer

Three people were taken to the hospital for treatment of bee stings – and a dog was killed – by a swarm of bees near Canterbury South assisted living apartments in the 1700 block of South Lancaster Wednesday afternoon.

First responders received the call about noon Wednesday, and transported a Canterbury resident and two employees to Scenic Mountain Medical Center, where they were treated and released, according to Big Spring Fire Chief Craig Ferguson.

Patrick Gent reported the attack to the Herald by Facebook Messenger.

“My brother-in-law who lives (at Canterbury) was attacked while walking his dog and was taken to hospital...while the bees killed his dog,” Gent said. “People who witnessed and tried to help got stung also.”

A beekeeper was called to the scene to deal with the bees, and

Local artist discovers the beauty in rust

By AMANDA DUFORAT
Managing Editor

Where some see rust, others see art. Some are able to take that vision and turn it into art; Beth Henry is one of those people. While Henry may be a resident of Monahans, she is an honorary Big Spring resident with an eye for capturing the beauty in the community.

“I have always considered myself creative, but it wasn’t until recently that I stepped into mixed media art and began creating paintings like the one I am donating to the Hangar 25 Museum,” Henry said.

Big Spring residents first received a glimpse of the work Henry does, at the Silver Wings Ball earlier this year. Two of her pieces – one of Historic Hotel Settles and the other of Hangar 25 – were auctioned off in the live auction.

“My son – Arick Higginbotham - and his fiancé Tana Bradley – live in Big Spring and are involved in the community. However, it was when Stormy (Bradley) purchased a piece of artwork from me, that my paintings took a turn for historic attractions in Big

Trauma-Informed Care Community Resource Fair

By ANNA GUTIERREZ
Staff Writer

The Howard County Juvenile Probation Office is hosting a Trauma-Informed Care Community Resource Fair. The fair takes place at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum East Room on Saturday, May 4, from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m.; please use the South entrance of the coliseum.

“Most of the kids that we see have suffered some sort of trauma, and most of them do not even realize it,” says Brenda Tubb with the Howard County Juvenile Probation Office. “This fair will show you what trauma is, how to recognize it, and what resources are available. We want to keep these kids out of the criminal justice system.”

Discussion topics will include:

- What is Trauma-Informed Care?
- Types of Trauma
- Effects of early-childhood trauma
- What is my normal?
- How do I move forward?
- Training and employment opportunities, and more.

Tubb states that Danette J. Ross Watson from Solomon’s Way will be speaking. Community organizations and agencies from the surrounding Howard County area will also be available to promote awareness of their services and information. This fair is free to the community, and a light lunch will be served.

For more information, please contact Tubb at the Howard County Juvenile Probation office at 264-2240.

request a piece for permanent display.

“When the Hangar reached out requesting a painting for permanent display, I, of course, told them yes, but then I ended up creating two – one for them to auction and one for them to display,” she said.

Henry uses a rust transfer technique to create her artwork. Her creativity has transferred from scrapbooking, to drawing to her current mixed media platform, over the years.

“I contributed the birth of my art career to Big Spring. It was the Hangar 25 piece that really got me focused and now I want to do more paintings of Big Spring,” she said. “There is something about taking rust – where most people only see the rust – and turning it into a piece of art.”

She continued, “These pictures of Hangar 25 are a perfect representation of that. It was once a building that was ‘rust’ and has been given new life and is thriving as a thing of beauty. I tried to capture that in these paintings.”

In addition to the Hangar 25 and Historic Settles, Henry has also recreated the Potton House in one of her paintings. This particular painting was created and will be on display at the upcoming Art Show at the Heritage Museum, during May.

32, of 1429 E. Sixth St., for two counts of possession of a controlled substance (Penalty Group 1, less than one gram), both state jail felonies.

• Andres Tapia, 23, of 1624 Sunset Apt. #24 in San Angelo, for possession of a controlled substance (Penalty Group 2, four to 200 grams), a second-degree felony.

• The Emergency Services Chaplains Corps is seeking volunteer chaplains. The corps provides spiritual services to Howard County residents and visitors in crisis situations. Prospective chaplains don’t require any specific experience or education to qualify for the position, just a calling from God and a willingness to devote time to the program, which requires a 24- to 30-week training program and dedication of one day per week for emergency call-outs. Those interested should contact Senior Chaplain Joel Miller at 432-213-1221.

• Big Spring’s Centennial Lions Club is holding a drive to collect books for the Salvation Army Boys and Girls Club. Books for kids in kindergarten through about 10th grade will be accepted, with special preference for books for younger children in kindergarten through third grade. Cash donations to allow the Lions to purchase additional books are also appreciated. Books or donations can be taken to the Salvation Army, 811 W. Fifth St., or to the home of Lions member Ken Lawhon at 1707 E. 15th St. For more information, contact Lawhon at 214-998-9716.

• Each week Kindred offers free health checks from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. at the Yellow Rose Cafe at Scenic Mountain Medical Center, 1601 W. 11th Place.

• Seniors and mature adults are invited to a dance on the first, third and fifth Friday of each month at the Dora Roberts Community Center. Dances are from 7:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. with live bands. No alcohol or smoking permitted. There will be a pot luck as well so bring a dish if you want to eat. Cost is $8 per person.

BEEES

DAILY PRAYER

Dear Lord, may our hearts and minds be synchronized today with You.

Amen

Cindy's Bookshelf

Legend has it - A book review

It starts with an invitation. A simple message that includes a time and place. Caraval happens only once a year and only a select few are chosen to participate. The game begins at midnight. And once it has started, player beware, nothing is what it seems. Don't trust what you see or even the person next to you. Welcome to Caraval, where the stakes are high and the prize is not something that can be ignored.

Scarlett has waited her whole life for her invitation to Caraval. And her invitation couldn't have come at a better time. Her father has grown all the more cruel since her mother vanished and Scarlett has accepted a marriage proposal to someone she has only spoken to through letters. She hopes that her marriage will be a way for both her and her sister, Tella, to escape from their father's cruelty. With days before she is set to leave to meet her fiancé, Scarlett receives her invitation to participate in Caraval.

Caraval is a once in a lifetime experience that Scarlett has wanted her whole life. Caraval is a show where the audience participates. There are only a few rules to follow in order to have a good time. The most important one is: don't trust anything. The players are not able to know if the people they talk to are actors or other participants. Nothing about Caraval is what it seems on the surface.

CINDY PINCH

find Tella, is to win Caraval. As the game progresses, Scarlett finds it more and more difficult to discern the truth from the fantasy of the game.

With magic blurring her senses, Scarlett begins to doubt herself. The only thing that helps her continue through the game is the love she has for her sister. But is that enough to win?

Caraval, by Stephanie Garber, is an incredibly unique story about the love and lengths a sister will go to. The main character demonstrates her own independence and ability to take care of herself. Caraval features two very strong female leads, magic, and a hint of romance.

Stephanie Garber is the New York Times, and internationally, bestselling author of Caraval.

Her other published works include Legend, the sequel to Caraval. The duology has turned into a trilogy, with the final book in the series set to be released on Tuesday, May 7th. The last book in the series is titled Finale. Garber lives in northern California. When she's not writing her novels, she teaches creative writing at a private college. Caraval has been published in over thirty countries and the movie rights were picked up by Twentieth Century Fox.

Garber will also begin a book tour for Finale from May 7th through June 5th. She will travel across the country from New York to California and a few places in between.

Caraval has won several awards. Including being named as New York Times bestseller, #1 IndieNext Pick, Publishers Weekly Flying Start, Entertainment Weekly Best 1- YA Books of 2017, Ten Vogue Best YA Book of the Year, Amazon Best Book of the Year, Barnes & Noble Best Book of the Year, and BuzzFeed Best Book of the Year.

Trees capture carbon and dollars

The last Friday in April is National Arbor Day. You knew that, didn't you? Born in the Victorian era, Arbor Day began mainly as a gentle reminder to admire trees as things of beauty. As an environmental observance, it has been upstaged by the more comprehensive Earth Day (itself now almost 50 years old). But Arbor Day has been very much updated.

The status of trees as uniquely important environmental players has risen in recent years. Trees are now on the front lines in the battle against climate change. That's because forests absorb nearly 40 percent of human-made fossil fuel emissions every year. Burning wood and rotting trees release carbon dioxide into the air.

This makes massive deforestation a harbinger of doom for the environment as we know it. Fortunately, there are ways to head this off. Proposals to create a carbon-offset market for trees, if put in motion, could reverse the destruction. Right now, these cap-and-trade setups are open only to utilities and industrial companies. Adding trees to a cap-and-trade system would let owners of forested acres make real money by not cutting down trees.

The fate of tropical forests, particularly in Southeast Asia, is of greatest concern. The ranching, mining and timber industries have played a major role in leveling more than a billion acres of tropical forest over the last 40 years. The loss of these trees contributes an estimated 12 to 15 percent of the world's carbon dioxide emissions a year.

Here's a simplified version of how a market for trading carbon offsets now works: Company A reduces its emissions below a government-set cap. Company B's emissions, by contrast, exceed the limit. To avoid paying a penalty, Company B buys offset credits from Company A.

The price of credits is set by supply and demand. That these systems are market-oriented pleases conservatives committed to fighting climate change. Trade in these markets already totals billions of dollars a year.

Some 40 countries now put a price on carbon. Some do it via cap-and-trade. Others, such as Canada, place a tax on fossil fuels, with most of the proceeds going back to Canadians through reductions in their tax bills. The United States does none of the above, but California and nine Northeast states have established their own cap-and-trade systems.

Where do trees come in? Removing trees increases emissions. Letting them grow reduces them. Putting a price on leaving them alone would act as a powerful incentive to not cut them down.

There remains the dilemma that many locals in and around tropical forests currently make a living in ways that require their destruction. Under a proposal known as the Rainforest Standard, however, mechanisms would be set up to spend some of the money building new livelihoods not dependent on axing trees. Examples include ecotourism, fishing and harvesting tree products, such as nuts and palm fruit.

Ordinary homeowners don't have big forests to preserve but can nonetheless use trees to reduce their carbon footprint. Trees shading the house have a cooling effect in hot weather, reducing the need for air conditioning. And there is some money in this, of course, in the form of lower electricity bills.

So National Arbor Day is coming. Bear in mind that your state's Arbor Day may fall on a different date than the national one. Many states move their observance to coincide with the best times in their area to plant trees. The big news this year is that in addition to providing beauty and serenity, trees can play a major role in saving our world from catastrophe. Is there a poem for that?

Exchange programs change lives for decades

By
Colonel Allen M. Morris

Communications Director at Big Spring High

The students at Big Spring High were lucky enough to have a few different pieces of the world join them this last school year via exchange students. One was Philip Esser from Germany. As one who has personally grown from all aspects of the Exchange Program, I know just how enriching it can be for all concerned for decades to come. It was President Truman who said, "If we do not want to die together in war, we must learn to live together in peace," and the exchange programs help us do just that. The Fulbright Program helps us do this too.

Philip came to the Davenport family last summer. "It all started with a random thought," said Philip. "I wondered what school was like in America. Wouldn't it be awesome to just go there and make that life changing experience?"

"In the beginning, it was just a daydream," stated Philip, "which neither me nor the people around me took seriously, but when that thought came back to my mind more and more often, I started to realize that this was the next step in my life I had to take. So I started looking up things. How do I get there? Where do I apply? How much will it be? Are there any scholarships or loans to take?"

Philip had to deal with the normal dead ends and false starts, but he knew that success was on the other side of failure. The ticket was booked, everything else was settled. All he had to do was pack his suitcases and say goodbye.

When he arrived in Midland, the Davenports were awaiting. His first impression of Texas was that it's hot! "I'm talking about a difference of 20 degrees F for that day between Germany and Texas," claimed Philip. "The first thing we did together was going to eat, and I was pretty surprised by how different the food was. I mean we have "American Style" food in Germany too, but the difference to the original American food was huge."

"On the way "home," my host family literally bombarded me with questions. How is Germany? How are the people? What does it look like over there? And many more questions about me and my country. By far the most bizarre question I got asked was, if we have electricity in Germany."

"The first weekend was bad weather so we couldn't do much. The next weekend the weather was way better so we went out to the lake to ride our jetskis. It was my first time driving a jetski and it was a great experience. I'm looking forward to doing it again when the weather gets better and the water gets warmer again."

"The school here is pretty different from school in Germany," stated Philip. "In German schools there is little to no freedom about which classes to take. I wanted to try out new things so I chose classes like welding and auto mechanics. Another big difference is the available sports program. In Germany, the only form of sports I had in school was two periods of PE per week. My big sports passion is swimming, so I joined the swimming team here. From what I was used to, I didn't expect it to be as competitive as it was. Here I have about three hours of swimming practice including weight lifting every day Monday through Friday. School here is rather easy compared to the school back in Germany."

"During the week I normally don't do much since I have swimming practice after school. On weekends, we often go to friends' places for cookouts or shooting guns and stuff like that. Before I came here, I never shot a real gun since it's not so easy to get a gun and use it in Germany. When I shot for the first time, I wasn't expecting guns to have such strong recoil. With the first shot, the gun almost flew out of my hands and my ears were ringing for the next few hours."

"It was pretty easy to find new friends here. Since most Americans don't know much about other countries besides from what they see in the news or their history books, people here want to know about me and Germany. From what other people told me and my own experience, I can definitely say that exchange students are kind of famous at the schools they go to. Everyone wants to talk to them or do stuff with them. I would say I know about half of all the students at the school."

"The time passed by so fast. It feels like it was only a few days or weeks ago that I came here even though I'm already here for more than seven months now and I only have a little more than a month left before I go back. I miss my family and friends and especially now that it's not much longer till I see them again these feelings get stronger. On the other hand, I want to spend more time with the people from here. There is so much more I want to see or do in America. I want to visit other parts of the US, especially big cities like NYC, LA, and Miami. There are also some other things I want to do here. I want to visit a big amusement park like Six Flags. We have amusement parks in Europe, but from what I've heard they are way bigger here."

"I think that's all I can say about my time here. I definitely want to come back to the US later in my life."

"I want to thank everyone who made it possible for me to spend my time here. I really appreciate everything my host family did for me. I learned a lot not only about the country but I also developed new skills and interests for things that I never knew."

Academic Star Student of the Week Emily Garcia, Forsan High School

This week's student of the week is Emily Garcia. Emily is a senior from Forsan HS. Emily is involved in many aspects of the Forsan campus as a student, athlete, and leader among her peers. Emily recently competed at the Regional Track Meet where she qualified for the State Track Meet in the 200m dash. She has advanced to the State Track Meet in the 200m dash as a Junior and Senior. Emily has been a four-year member of the Forsan Band where she has helped lead them to four straight Sweepstakes awards while participating in three State Marching contests. Emily also played basketball where she helped lead her team to the Regional tournament, earned district Defensive MVP, All-Area, All-State, and TABC Academic All-State honors. She is a member of the National Honor Society, served 4 years on student council, and been a member of the chess and Spanish club. Outside her school day, Emily also serves her community. She has assisted at the Isaiah 58 food pantry, helped w/ the Hoops Dreams & Goals, as well as help raise money through a Christmas Angel program put on by the Forsan Basketball program. Emily plans to attend South Plains College before heading to Texas Tech. She will work towards a Degree majoring in Interior Design. Emily's proud parents are Laura and Uvaldo Garcia.

Congratulations, Emily!

The Buffalo Bulletin

Honoring 50 years of service

50 years in any profession is impressive, but to spend 50 years in the field of education is extraordinary.

Forsan ISD is pleased to honor Mrs. Eunice Thixton for doing just that. She has taught Physical Education at Elbow Elementary for many years, and has been a teacher favorite as a substitute ever since her "retirement".

The Buffalo Bulletin staff was privileged to spend some time with Mrs. Thixton to discuss her long time career as a mighty buffalo.

"When you believe in something and you have a good program you want to stay with it." Said Mrs. Thixton. "And that's the way I feel about Forsan ISD. I think it's a great school, and I love it."

Many students are going to miss seeing her, and felt that it would be different not having her around. Mrs. Thixton felt bittersweet about parting ways with her favorite school system.

"I have mixed feelings about it. I'm ready to quit. When you get to be my age, you get tired." Thixton said. "I'm going to miss the kids; I'm going to miss a lot of things here. I'm probably going to come back and volunteer."

To remain in any field for that amount of time requires dedication and passion for your work. Mrs. Thixton expressed just how much she was going to miss the children.

"I like little kids, I like to be around them." Thixton said. "I just like the things that they're learning, and all of the opportunities they've got."

Mrs. Thixton reflected on her time with the children of Elbow elementary, and all of the lessons she'd learned over the years.

"The way education is changing, the technology, there is just so many things, and all of the personalities that I've met, and just being able to relate to all of those personalities." Said Thixton.

Thixton said that her time wasn't always easy, and that being an educator required a lot of patience and organization.

"Scheduling, getting everything done" was the most difficult part of education said Thixton. "I was talking to some of the teachers in the lounge not even an hour ago, and they were saying, we've got to get this, and this done, and grades are due this day, and so forth. It's just getting everything organized."

Several of the 6th graders including Mrs. Thixton's grandson Colt Nichols expressed just how much they were going to miss her. Colt was proud of his grandmother, and excited to celebrate her at her reception yesterday afternoon. Bella Baker another past student of Mrs. Thixton's said that Mrs. Thixton really stood out.

"Mrs. Thixton is one of a kind!" said Baker. "I thought it was neat how she would make quilts and then have them at the fair."

Mrs. Thixton left many positive impressions to her students, another student Kodi Raye Gerling felt that Mrs. Thixton was really good at her job, and always looked forward to seeing her.

"She always explained things well to us, and we were excited when she was here." Said Gerling.

Forsan is proud to have had Mrs. Thixton serve our community and children, she will be dearly missed.

Dance Lab gives best performance of the year

Special to the Herald

This past weekend Dance Lab's competition cheer teams competed at their last competition of the season at Six Flags Fiesta Texas in San Antonio, TX.

The Junior Elite Level 2 team, consisting of girls ages 7-15, competed against seven other teams and ended up with a 3rd place finish. The team received zero deductions and scored their highest score of the year. The Youth Level 1 team, consisting of girls ages 6-10, also competed against seven teams and took home a 5th place banner. The team also scored their highest score of the year.

"Our goal coming into this competition was to improve our scores following our past competition, and both teams were able to accomplish that. These girls have put in countless hours in the gym and were finally rewarded by hitting their routines perfectly with zero deductions," said Head Coach Keelee Allen.

"Our goal for next year is to keep building on our foundation and really start focusing on technique to improve our scores even further."

The competition season will begin again in August, but in the mean time, Dance Lab Cheer will be offering a summer cheerleading program with the opportunity to perform at the Funtastic Fourth Celebration in downtown Big Spring. Cheer classes for the summer will open May 27th.

Please keep an eye out on their Facebook Page Dance Lab in Big Spring, TX or contact Keelee Allen at 325-642-5341 for more information.

Sports Briefs

HORSE RACING

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)

Favorite Omaha Beach was scratched because of a breathing problem, leaving a pair of Hall of Famers on the sideline — trainer Richard Mandella and jockey Mike Smith.

Churchill Downs oddsmaker Mike Battaglia revised the morning line to make Game Wanner the 9-2 favorite for the 1 1/4-mile race Saturday.

Improbable and Roadster were installed as the co-second choices at 5-1, giving five-time Derby-winning trainer Bob Baffert the top three choices in the 20-horse field.

Mandella told The Associated Press that Omaha Beach developed a cough and a subsequent veterinary exam showed the colt has an entrapped epiglottis. It's generally not life- or career-threatening and is typically corrected with minor surgery. The trainer said Omaha Beach will have surgery in Kentucky in the next few days and will be sidelined for two to three

Kluber was hit by a line drive off the bat of Brian Anderson in the fifth inning, and after a brief visit with a trainer, the Indians' ace left the game.

The Indians said the fracture was non-displaced, meaning the bone was still properly aligned. Kluber will be re-evaluated in Cleveland on Thursday, and the Indians will have a better idea at that point of how long he might be out.

Cleveland lost 4-2. Kluber, a two-time American League Cy Young Award winner, has struggled this season and is 2-3 with a 5.80 ERA.

TRACK AND FIELD

GENEVA (AP) — The sports world's highest court ruled that Olympic gold medalist Caster Semenya and other female runners like her with unusually high testosterone must take medication to reduce their levels of the male sex hormone if they want to compete in certain events — a landmark decision with far-reaching ramifications for other women's sports.

In a 2-1 ruling, the Court of Arbitration for Sport upheld proposed rules issued by track's governing body, the IAAF, saying that they are discriminatory but that "such discrimination is a necessary, reasonable and proportionate means" of "preserving the integrity of female athletics."

The IAAF argued that high, naturally occurring levels of testosterone in athletes like Semenya with "intersex" characteristics that don't conform to standard definitions of male and female give them an unfair competitive advantage, and it decreed a maximum level for females.

The court decision could open the way for similar rules in other women's sports where size, speed and power make a difference, such as weightlifting, boxing, swimming, rugby, field hockey and soccer.

Semenya — a 28-year-old South African whose sculpted biceps and super-fast, blow-away-the-competition times have led others to question her accomplishments — declared she will not be deterred.

The two-time Olympic champion in the 800 meters will have to lower her testosterone levels by such means as birth control pills or prostate cancer drugs if she wants to defend her world title in September in Doha, Qatar. Semenya is expected to race in the 800 on Friday at a track meet in Doha in what will be the last world-class event before the new rules apply.

Barcelona shows it can also thrive without ball possession

MADRID (AP) — The protagonist is the same as always, and much of the supporting players were there as usual.

The main difference for Lionel Messi and his Barcelona teammates this time was the coach.

Barcelona has reinvented itself under Ernesto Valverde, showing it can change its style when needed and still be successful.

The match against Liverpool in the Champions League semifinals on Wednesday was a perfect example. Barcelona was forced to relinquish its ball-possession game, but it still came away with a 3-0 victory that left the club in position to reach its first final since it won its last European title four years ago.

"They were able to impose their back-and-forth game and it made it difficult for us," Valverde said. "We tried to slow down the pace but they kept pressing. I liked how we knew how to suffer and how we came up with answers. We pulled off a victory against a very strong team."

Despite playing at home, Barcelona finished with less ball possession than Liverpool, 48% to 52%. It was the first time a team held more possession than Barcelona in the Champions League since the semifinals against Bayern Munich in 2015.

"We played their game, their physically demanding pace. It was counterattack against counterattack," said Messi, who scored twice to add to Luis Suarez's opening goal at the Camp Nou. "We aren't used to that. We like having possession of the ball and making the opponent run after the ball. We were exhausted, but that's what the match demanded. We had to compete anyway we could."

Liverpool also exchanged more passes than Barcelona (482-457), and ended with more attempts (14-11) and corners (5-3). Barcelona was pinned down on defense during parts of the game, needing 24 clearances against seven by Liverpool.

"I don't know if we can play much better, to be honest," Liverpool coach Juergen Klopp said.

Barcelona players celebrate after Lionel Messi scored his side's third goal during the Champions League semifinal, first leg, soccer match between FC Barcelona and Liverpool at the Camp Nou stadium in Barcelona, Spain, Wednesday, May 1.

Valverde had hinted even before the game started that ball possession might not have been the main focus for Barcelona, adding the more defensive-minded Arturo Vidal to the starting lineup in midfield instead of the more technical Arthur. The Brazilian has taken over the role of Andre Iniesta as the team's pace-setter, becoming the man responsible for controlling possession.

But although the back-and-forth game was supposed to favor Liverpool and its speedy attack, Barcelona ended threatening the most in the end, and it could have scored more goals if it had capitalized on a few late counterattacks.

The defense also played a key role, holding strong when Liverpool pressed forward, with goalkeeper Marc-Andre ter Stegen again coming through with a great performance and making a few important saves to keep the English team from getting an away goal.

Barcelona conceded that away goal in a 3-1 win over Roma in the first leg of last year's quarterfinals at Camp Nou, eventually being eliminated in Italy after a 3-0 loss.

"It's similar to last year, we also have a three-goal advantage, but look what happened then," Valverde said. "We still have to play well in the second leg."

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the SM ENERGY COMPANY, [RRC Operator No. 788997] has made application for a spacing exception permit under the provisions of Railroad Commission Statewide Rule 37 (16 Tex. Admin. Code section 3.37). Applicant seeks exception to the lease line distance requirement because the Applicant is less than the required Rule 37 lease line distance to an unleased or non-pooled interest within the subject unit for the AMENDED NEW DRILL permit in Sec. 13, Bk. 31, T&P RR CO Survey, A-183, SPRABERRY (TRENDR AREA) Field, HOWARD County, being 15.4 miles E direction from BIG SPRING, Texas.

PURSUANT TO THE TERMS of Railroad Commission rules and regulations, this application may be granted WITHOUT A HEARING if no protest to the application is received within the deadline. An affected person is entitled to protest this application. Affected persons include owners of record and the operator or lessees of record of adjacent tracts and tracts nearer to the proposed well than the minimum lease line spacing distance. If a hearing is called, the applicant has the burden to prove the need for an exception. A protestant should be prepared to establish standing as an affected person, and to appear at the hearing either in person or by qualified representative and protest the application with cross-examination or presentation of a direct case. The rules of evidence are applicable in the hearing. If you have any questions regarding the hearing procedure, please contact the Commission's Docket Services Department at (512)463-6848. If you have questions which are specific to the Application or the information set forth in this Notice, please contact the Commission's Drilling Permit Unit at rule 37 (512)463-6751.

IF YOU WISH TO REQUEST A HEARING ON THIS APPLICATION, AN INTENT TO APPEAR IN PROTEST MUST BE RECEIVED IN THE RAILROAD COMMISSION'S AUSTIN OFFICE AT THE ADDRESS, FAX NUMBER, OR E-MAIL ADDRESS SET OUT ABOVE BY Jun 4, 2019 at 5:00 p.m. IF NO PROTEST IS RECEIVED WITHIN SUCH TIME, YOU WILL LOSE YOUR RIGHT TO PROTEST AND THE REQUESTED PERMIT MAY BE GRANTED ADMINISTRATIVELY.

THIS NOTICE OF APPLICATION REQUIRES PUBLICATION

Assessing Relationship Expectations

Dear Annie: My boyfriend and I have been together for seven years. We have lived together for nearly five years and been engaged for the past three years. We are both in our late 50s. He has never been married and had no children. He has been very successful in his business. I have been married twice and have three children. We get along great. We go to movies, eat out, go on vacation together, and we laugh all the time. He treats me like a queen and my children as if they were his own. So here's the problem:

Everything we have is in his name only -- house, cars and motorcycles. If anything happens to him, I'm in trouble. His family would kick me out and take everything before his body was even cold! Every time I bring up setting a wedding date, he freaks out, telling me that we can't get married because I will lose my good insurance, and he can't afford to put me on his. He says that's the only reason for not getting married. Am I just kidding myself and waiting for something that my never happen? I can't keep going on like this. -- Hanging On By a Thread

Dear Hanging On By a Thread: The real question to ask yourself is, "What are my expectations in a relationship?" For many people, being in a relationship where you get along great, laugh all the time and he treats you like a queen and your children like his own would be the gold standard. He is probably a bit scared because he has never been married before. This will be your third time, so you have a bit more practice. Focus less on the potential loss of material items and more on your love and commitment. Coming from that world of commitment, you can figure out a way to both have insurance if you marry. And once you are married, it's reasonable to ensure the house is in both of your names. If he balks at this, then you have to decide if you want a great relationship without long-term prospects or if you want to start all over looking for Mr. Right. Dear Annie: The days of preparing for and staying on a career track are over. It's not even a choice as jobs are morphing at a hectic pace. Today's workers will change not only their employers but also their career paths multiple times over their working lives. Some project as many as five to six times. The "job" you retire from probably doesn't even exist yet.

It's never too late to change tracks, to grow and evolve. It requires a little sacrifice, though. You need to look at the changes happening in your desired field and start getting the training and experience you need to make the change to a better position. Whether you want to get "ahead" in your current field or change to a path that fulfills your dreams, it won't come to you; you have to take the initiative and leap into the future rather than staying in a rut! -- Call me Waiter-Teacher-Nurse-Purchaser-IT specialist-Retired zy as you make it sound. Yes, technology is making tremendous changes in our lives, and it is true that the more we adapt, the more successful we will be, but living in a state of chronic anticipation of losing a position is no way to live. We gain great self-esteem from mastering a certain skill and sticking to it. Of course, you are right that workplace change is inevitable, and training for new areas of development is always advisable. But make sure you don't become a jack of all trades, master of none.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). What gives the others a right to command your time? It's not a "what," it's a "who, and the "who" is you. Your time is yours and, arguably, among the most precious things you own. You'll deliberate before giving it away.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Where you want to be is not so different from where you stand, but great courage is still needed to rise up and make the few key changes necessary to get there.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Maybe it's not fair that people expect more of you than they do of others, but it's only because you keep doing such a fantastic job, raising that bar to new levels.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Happy relationships seem to come so easily to me. Then again, who really knows? Everyone has a public and private face. The only way to really find out what's going on in the inside of a relationship is to tend to your own.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Clutter isn't just a little mess to be cleaned up whenever; it's a representation of disorder and wonky alignment. Cleaning it up, even a little, will cause seemingly unrelated and magical good fortune.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You're starting to think of things in their broader context. You're seeing how they relate and affect their environment, what they are connected to and what they cannot do without. New insights come from this big-picture thinking.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Ask a scientist -- the act of observing changes what's observed. You can't interact without influencing the situation. But with a quiet, neutral approach, you might glimpse the version that was there before you arrived.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). One way to stop worrying is to write things down. Make lists. Make a list of things you can control about the situation and, just to remind yourself, another list of things you can't.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You made your choice. Or did you? It felt like a semiautomatic response to your environment motivated by basic human needs like survival, identity and belonging. Can you really be credited CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Like an elevator in a high rise, you have many buttons to push. And people who push a lot of buttons are going to have a very slow ride to where they need to go.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Because you're so creative, you can make sense of the illogical, find links between seemingly unrelated things and weave together disparate ideas -- all skills that will serve you well over the next three days.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You're not always inclined toward the spiritual advice to meditate, pray or seek enlightenment. There are practical ways to get to the same place. Anything that helps you grow as a person also expands your spirit.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (May 2). You'll heal your pain, overcome fear and create a different sort of daily flow. All this helps you manage the things that used to hold you back. By July, you'll feel so successful that you won't crave any exterior trappings to prove it, and yet they'll show up anyway. You'll get family together for fun and memory-making. Cancer and Taurus adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 46, 6, 7, 38 and 44.

Opening lead — queen of spades.

There are many hands where declarer has no choice but to rely on luck, but before resigning himself to the whims of fate, he is obligated to try to reduce the luck factor as much as possible.

Consider this deal where South is in six hearts and West leads a spade. At first glance, the outcome seems to depend entirely on a club finesse, but declarer found a way to improve his chances considerably with a minimum degree of risk.

After taking the spade ace, South led a diamond to the ace and ruffed a diamond. This was followed by a heart to the queen and a second diamond ruff. When both opponents followed to this trick, the slam became a heavy favorite.

South next cashed the king of spades and then ruffed a spade with the heart nine. Another diamond was led and ruffed, establishing dummy's eight as a trick. Declarer then played the A-K of hearts, drawing West's last two trumps, after which a club to the ace allowed South to discard a club on the diamond eight to make the slam.

By adopting this line of play, South added the chance of a 4-3 diamond division — about 62 percent — to the chance that West might have the king of clubs. Had the diamonds failed to divide 4-3, or the trumps 3-2, he would still have the club finesse to fall back on.

As it turned out, the finesse — which would have lost — became unnecessary. Thanks to declarer's willingness to seek a way to reduce the luck factor, the slam came sailing home.

Tomorrow: Test your play.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Advanced

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

WILLIAM, heart attack survivor.

THIS IS WHAT HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE LOOKS LIKE.

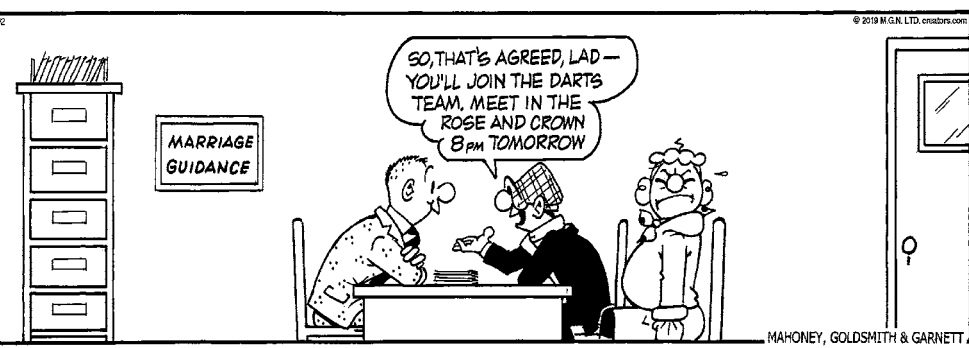

You might not see or feel its symptoms, but the results — a heart attack or stroke — are far from invisible or silent. If you've come off your treatment plan, get back on it, or talk with your doctor to create a new exercise, diet and medication plan that works better for you.

Stars switch top lines and beat Blues 4-2 to even series 2-2

AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The first-year coach for the Dallas Stars switched up his top two lines, a move that put rookie Roope Hintz skating with captain Jamie Benn and Alexander Radulov.

Tyler Seguin, the top-line center who had Benn and Radulov on his side, instead started with Jason Dickinson and Mats Zuccarello.

Hintz scored his fifth goal of the playoffs while Seguin, Radulov and Zuccarello each had two assists as the Stars beat the St. Louis Blues 4-2 on Wednesday night to even the second-round series at two games each.

"It's one of those things where when it happens it looks great, but if nothing happens tonight, then nobody even says anything about it," Dickinson said. "I think what it comes down to is personally guys elevating their game. If it took shaking up the lines to get guys to do that, then that's a great move by the coach."

Rookie coach Jim Montgomery told his team from the beginning of the season that he liked to switch lines. The latest switches sure worked in a crucial game for the Stars.

"They all rolled with it. And now because we've done it all year, they easily just assimilate with whoever they're playing with," Montgomery said.

The Western Conference semifinal series returns to St. Louis for Game 5 on Friday night, and then back to Dallas for Game 6 on Sunday.

Dickinson had an early tying goal after St. Louis went ahead 1-0 only five minutes into the game. Jason Spezza and John Klingberg also scored for the Stars. Zuccarello has six assists in this series, with helpers in every game.

"They were desperate and we didn't match that desperation in the first two periods," Blues coach Craig Berube said.

Vladimir Tarasenko had a power-play goal for the Blues, who lost for the first time in their five road games this postseason.

Dallas went up 4-1 late in the second period when Radulov and Benn assisted Hintz's third goal of the series.

About halfway through the second period, Dickinson forced a turnover at center ice. Zuccarello got the puck to Seguin, who made a cross-ice pass to Klingberg, whose sniper shot whizzed to the left of rookie goalie Jordan Binnington and into the net.

"They came out hard. That's going to happen. We just have to stay in control," Binnington said. "They switched up their lines a bit. That's expected. Whatever is thrown at you, you've got to handle it."

Binnington stopped 27 shots, including a backhand by Andrew Cogliano, a breakaway by Miro Heiskanen and another charge by the Dickinson-Seguine line on shifts before Klingberg's second goal of the playoffs — he had the overtime winner in Game 6 against Nashville that clinched the first-round series.

Ben Bishop, who had 27 saves, didn't stop Tarasenko's fifth goal of the playoffs that glanced off the Dallas goalie's left arm and into the net.

Dallas tied it at 1 with 8:38 left in the first period. Zuccarello took a shot that went left of the net and ricocheted off the board. Seguin kept the puck free, and got it to Dickinson, who was falling down in the crease when he scored his third goal of the playoffs. Dickinson, who had only six goals during the regular season, was then on his belly when he celebrated with his arms motioning in what looked like a reverse snow angel.

"This is exactly where we're supposed to be at this point, right? Supposed to be 2-2. Now it's a three-game series," Dickinson said. "The only thing I think we can take from that is confidence. I don't think we can read too much into how the last series went because it's a whole new thing now."

After going down 2-1 in their first-round series against Nashville, the Stars won three in a row and clinched the series in Game 6 at home.

Spezza scored on a power play in the final minute of the first period to put Dallas up 2-1, when Binnington was shielded by one of his teammates. It was the first lead change between the two teams all season — in this series and during the regular season when the Stars won three of the four meetings.

NOTES: At the end of the second period, Benn poked his stick at Binnington, who reacted with a forearm to the head of the Stars captain. Benn was assessed an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty, while Binnington was given penalties for roughing and slashing. Dallas started the third period on the power play, but didn't score. That came about a minute after David Perron hacked Bishop in his back behind the Stars net without a penalty. ... Perron had a shot in the second period that hit the left post. ... Ryan O'Reilly assisted on both of St. Louis' goals, including the one by 19-year-old center Robert Thomas in the third period. ... Dallas had been successful on 23 of 24 penalty kills this postseason before Tarasenko's goal. The Blues then failed to score on two more power plays.

UP NEXT

Game 5 is Friday night in St. Louis, where the Blues are 2-3 this postseason.
