New CASA volunteer swearing in

By ANNA GUTIERREZ
 Staff Writer

CASA of West Texas will have a swearing in ceremony on Wednesday, May 15. The Hon. Ellen Griffith of the Child Protective Court of the Permian Basin will swear in Pam Walker and Cara Hamblin as Court Appointed Special Advocates for abused and neglected children.

Walker will be assigned a case and will immediately begin advocating for children as a volunteer. Cara was recently employed by CASA of West Texas as a Volunteer Case Supervisor. In her new role, she will advise and support local volunteers.

According to Kathy Harmon, CASA of West Texas Marketing Specialist, there has been an influx of new cases in Howard County, and they are in desperate need of volunteers. CASA volunteers are asked to meet with the child regularly and are authorized to interview people in the child's life, such as social workers, attorneys, caretaker, and teachers. Volunteers attend court hearings with the child and report their findings and recommendations to the judge.

"Our volunteers pledge to stay with each child until the case is closed, and the child is placed in a safe, permanent home," says Patty Pisklak, CASA of West Texas Executive Director. "The advocate is often the only consistent adult presence in the child's life. With about 500 children in foster care in the seven counties served by CASA of West Texas, there are many more advocates needed."

There are no prerequisites for becoming a CASA vol-

Ryan Foundation gift opens doors for WTC

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

Downtown Big Spring has been growing over the past few years, through the generous investments and efforts of Brint and Chris Ryan. Renovation and new construction is about to take root once again through a generous donation of the Ryan Foundation to West Texas Centers. Soon, the Amanda and G. Brint Ryan Center will be planted in Downtown Big Spring.

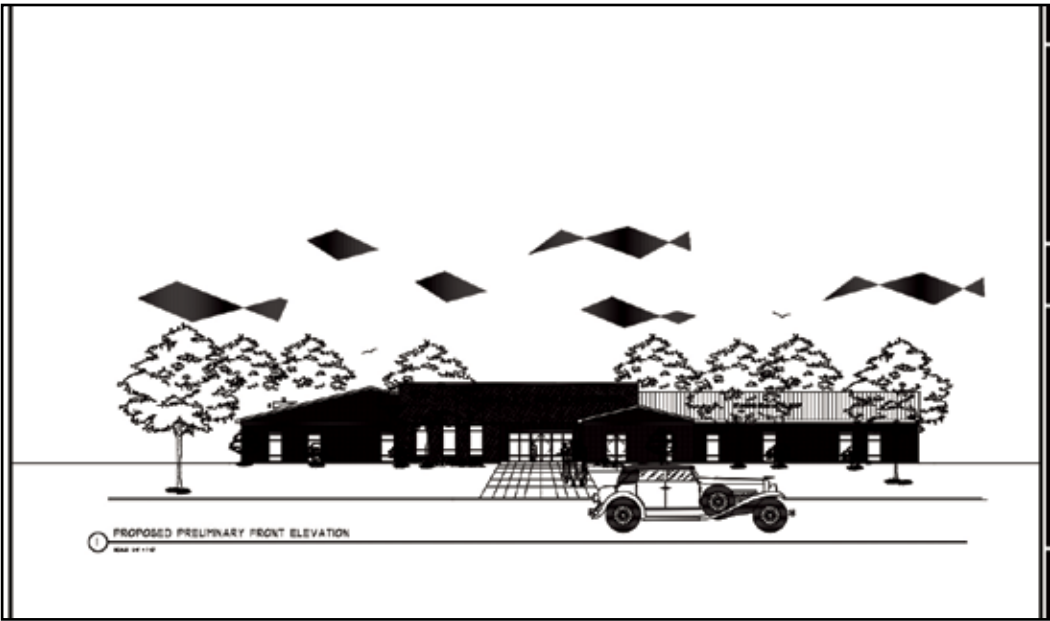

"West Texas Centers has been a great neighbor and important part of the community for the past 12 years. The organization has been a tremendous supporter of Hotel Settles and other investments in Big Spring," Brint Ryan, Chairman and CEO of Ryan and Big Spring native, said.

West Texas Centers has experienced sustained growth over the past few years, which created the need for the new facility. According to Shelley Smith, Chief Executive Officer of West Texas Centers, said.

The current building is a little more than 10,000 square feet and the new building is going to provide an additional 5,000 plus square feet, in which services can be offered out of.

"In 23 counties across West Texas, WTC serves those with Medicaid, the uninsured, and those often overlooked, with funds from state general revenue, a variety of grants, and other governmental payer sources. We combine those resources to stretch every dollar for the benefit of our patients and their families," said Smith. "With The Ryan Foundation joining us in our vision to reach people with mental illness and IDD, we are better able to provide services to those most in need in a more functional, productive, and contemporary work environment."

This investment in West Texas Centers allows the relocation of the facility and its services into a new, state-of-the-art building located along 4th Street, between Johnson Street and Nolan Street. The building will be developed by Caprock Holdings, LLC, a real estate development venture of G. Brint Ryan, which has been active with the reinvigoration of several businesses throughout Big Spring and beyond, creating economic development and growth opportunities for the county seat.

"West Texas Centers was running out of space to serve its patients and grow its team in Big Spring," said Ryan. "Supporting this important healthcare institution with a larger and modernized facility to serve the community means eligible residents of Big Spring who struggle with mental health issues will have local access to the care they need."

The idea for the new facility, according to Ryan and Smith, came as final design planes were being reviewed for Reunion Park. The needs for West Texas Centers were brought to the table and the possibility of acquiring the current location and constructing a new facility became part of the plan.

"We all loved the idea and committed to this new home for West Texas Centers to facilitate the overall development," Ryan said. "We are currently completing the architectural plans and drawings, now that we have acquired the property. We are estimating a groundbreaking for this fall and looking at about 14 months for project completion."

Ryan also mentioned the new WTC facility would be constructed simultaneously with Reunion Park. The build out will include a conference center as part of the development. Once the project nears completion a grand opening date will be set, but at this time, one has not been placed on the calendar.

According to Smith, the investment in West Texas Centers enables the organization to expand its outreach to veterans and people struggling with substance abuse issues in WTC counties.

"As a non-profit 501(c)(3) organization, virtually every dollar donated goes to the services for those in need, which is about 500 people with mental health needs and 65 with IDD issues in Big Spring every month," said Smith. "On behalf of my Board and my team, we can't begin to express the gratitude we have for The Ryan Foundation, Caprock Holdings, and people like Mr. Ryan who continue to care for those in their hometown. The Ryans' generosity and desire to help others with less will enable West Texas Centers to positively affect the lives of thousands and their families for years to come."

Some highlights of Harlingen

Harlingen has been recognized as one of the most affordable cities in the United States.

"That's one of the attractions because the dollar does go a lot further here," says Cheryl LaBerge, who formerly worked for the city of Harlingen as downtown coordinator and now conducts walking tours of downtown Harlingen. "Our climate is a big part of the reason that people are attracted here. You know Harlingen, we like to say, is the tropical playground of Texas because you can do so many things in the great outdoors year round: birding, golfing, fishing, you name it."

The tropical landscaping is a fairly recent development in the valley because it is located in a very arid region.

"So when you drive around and see all this lush bougainvillea and tropical plants, just know that all of that is here because early settlers brought water into this dry country. That made us the "Magic Valley" at the beginning of the twentieth century and early businessmen started inviting farmers to come down and they turned it into this agricultural mecca."

By the way it's really not a valley. You don't see any mountains nearby. This is flat country. Not even a hill. That was a marketing term to attract people to come to what the Spanish called the Wild Horse Desert. That's how the area was described on early maps.

The valley is famous for citrus, but as civilization creeps into farming land it's not as important as it once was.

"The valley lemons, grapefruit, oranges, they're all fabulous, second to none. Then we have sugar cane, grain sorghum, and we always produce the first bale of cotton in the nation."

Some famous people have called Harlingen home. Howard E Butt, founder of the HEB chain of grocery stores, moved to Harlingen in the late twenties because it was such an agricultural powerhouse.

"He had a big cannery on West Jackson Street and that building is still there. He loved tennis and had a tennis court next to his house. Our tennis facility is named the HEB Tennis Center."

Lincoln Borglum lived in Harlingen. He finished sculpting Mount Rushmore, a project started by his father, Gutzon Borglum. Perhaps the most famous Harlingen resident was Bill Haley the grandfather of rock and roll.

"We get people from Europe who come to Harlingen on a pilgrimage because they're big Bill Haley fans. A lot of the younger kids have no idea that in July of 1955 a world changing event occurred when ROCK AROUND THE CLOCK by Bill Haley hit the number one spot on the pop charts."

Majoring in majors

Administer friend-aware of ever-growing complications and mounting tonnage at the trough of trivia-often used the expression from the pulpit, in staff meetings and in conversation.

He felt strongly about "keeping the main thing the main thing." It was a serious challenge made so often that friends often referred to him as the "main thing minister."

It's pretty clear-no matter where our focus centers-that his admonition has been largely ignored. We live in a world awash in minors.

In the early going of my 40-year tenure in higher education, brief conversations with college-bound freshmen sometimes led to suggestions about which majors might best be pursued.

It wasn't "rocket surgery," and my suggestions were intended to be helpful. Maybe they served to reduce the number of possibilities. A Shakespearean quote-"To thine ownself be true"-was frequently offered as a building block in the foundation of preparation for life.

I'm not often asked these days, and that's fine with me, 'cause I'm running short on opinions to give anyone on almost any topic.

About the same time the calendar flipped over to usher in the 21st century, I joked with college-bound youngsters about majors in fields I felt to be in great demand as far as the eye could see.

"If I were you, I'd consider study in postage-and-handling or tattoo removal," I'd chuckle.

Little did I realize back then that postal service might be replaced by drones and assorted other delivery methods, and that tattoo application rates continue to exceed rates for removals. In such a fluid culture, I continue to reserve-as I have in the past-the right to be wrong.

No drum rolls or bugles are expected, but I am on the cusp of recommending, yet again, a course of study, mastery of which could assure multiple applications. "Sandbagging" is currently on my radar.

With increased flooding in our land, whatever new techniques with sandbags to keep us "in the dry" should be welcome.

Even more will be needed in Washington, where players in all political parties commonly use "sandbagging techniques..."

Enough of such rambling. It's refreshing in the "real world" to take note when someone's commitment to others goes unquestioned.

At a recent memorial service, a church sanctuary was virtually filled with former students who lauded their teacher, who taught "life first" and music second. Included among students in Sara Baker's 37-year tenure was gospel singer Cynthia Clawson, arguably her most recognized graduate.

Cynthia paid vocal tribute, and Gayle Moring, a businessman, provided a stunning revelation he was comfortable sharing only after Mrs. Baker's death....

His account reminds one of the movie, Mr. Holland's Opus. Folks who saw it remember the intensity of students' love for their beloved band teacher.

Moring, who provided transportation several times for her 45-minute ride from Granbury to Fort Worth for chemo treatments, was fascinated by her long-guarded secret.

Following graduation from Judson College in the early 1950s, she "signed on" as youth minister and children's choir director at Scottsboro, AL, First Baptist Church. About the same time, she entered the "Miss Alabama Pageant," the winner of which advanced to the "Miss America Pageant."

"She said the crown was hers," Moring said. "But another commitment conflicted with the national competition, so the first runner-up advanced."

Her church youth were excited about summer youth camp with her, and she didn't let them down.

Instead of millions of Americans applauding her marvelous vocal presentations, a few dozen church youngsters cheered her on. She led them in songs, games and Bible study at camp. After all, she'd made a commitment to do so when she began her church employment. Sara Baker "majored in majors." She didn't "sandbag," and to her "ownself" was true. She was the one-in-a-million teacher her students believed her to be. Though the 89-year-old had been retired for 20 years, former students remembered.

Curry, short-handed Warriors knock out Rockets in Game 6

By KRISTIE RIEKEN

AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON — After Stephen Curry helped lead the Golden State Warriors to a scoreless first half of his playoff career to score 33 points in the last two quarters and help the Golden State Warriors eliminate the Houston Rockets and advance to the Western Conference finals on Friday night, coach Steve Kerr stopped to talk with his star's parents.

He said he told Dell and Sonya Curry: "If that game didn't personally affect you, I don't know what does."

Curry's huge second half allowed the Warriors to overcome the absence of Kevin Durant and get the 118-113 win. He heard the chatter about how he'd struggled in this series entering this game and admitted that he was "pretty terrible" before halftime on Friday night.

"A night like tonight doesn't happen without belief in myself," Curry said.

Klay Thompson added 27 points to help two-time defending champion Golden State reach the conference finals for a franchise-record fifth straight year and eliminate Houston for the fourth time in five seasons. The Warriors did it with Durant sidelined by a calf injury sustained in the second half of their Game 5 victory.

"That was an absolute grind," Kerr said. "We're thrilled to be moving on and excited to have this one in our review mirror."

James Harden led Houston with 35 points, and Chris Paul added 27.

Harden's layup got the Rockets within three with less than a minute to go, but Thompson made a 3-pointer with 36.1 seconds remaining to extend Golden State's lead to 110-104.

Gerald Green then missed a 3 for Houston and the Rockets were forced to foul Curry. He made both shots before Harden's 3 got Houston within five at 112-107 with 24 seconds left.

Playing with a dislocated finger on his left hand, Curry made two more free throws before P.J. Tucker hit a 3 for Houston. But two more free throws by Curry made it 116-110 with 12.3 seconds left and Harden dribbled it off his foot for the last of his six turnovers.

Golden State Warriors' Draymond Green (23) and Kevon Looney (5) defend against Houston Rockets' James Harden (13) during the second half of Game 6 of a second-round NBA basketball playoff series Friday, May 10 in Houston.

"We've let a lot of opportunities slip away ... if you don't take advantage of opportunities you end up on the losing side," Harden said.

The Rockets failed to score for a big chunk of the fourth quarter and had to watch the Warriors celebrate a series victory on their home court for the second straight season after they won the conference finals in Houston last year. Harden was 11 of 25 from the field, going 6 of 15 from 3-point range, and 7 of 12 on free throws.

"This one's going to leave a mark," coach Mike D'Antoni said. "This is not something you just get over. This one hurts. We played our best and they played their best, and we didn't knock them out. It was like a heavyweight fight. We didn't land the blows to at least get back to Golden State."

Curry struggled early, failing to score in the first half for the first time in 102 career playoff games, and had just 10 points through three games. But he got going in the fourth, scoring 23 points.

"At halftime we're tied and I had zero points, you've got to like that situation," Curry said.

There were questions entering the game about how the Warriors would weather the loss of Durant — and his more than 34 points a game. But they didn't seem to miss a beat, getting 21 from Thompson in the first half before Curry closed it in the fourth.

"When you're missing one of the greatest players to ever play and the best scorer in the world, you can't collectively make up for what he does," Thompson said. "But you can step up in his absence and help out the point production."

The Rockets had a five-point lead to start the fourth and it was tied at 95 with about 7 1/2 minutes to go after three points by Golden State's Shaun Livingston.

Harden and Curry exchanged baskets soon after that before both teams failed to score for the next 2 1/2 minutes. Houston missed five shots in that stretch before Kevon Looney made a layup to put Golden State on top 99-97 with just under four minutes left.

A 3-pointer by Curry gave the Warriors a five-point lead before Harden ended a scoring drought by the Rockets of almost four minutes with a 3-pointer to cut the lead to 102-100 with about 2 1/2 remaining.

Harden was called for a charge after that before Curry scored all of Golden State's points in a 5-2 run that made it 107-102 with 90 seconds left.

TIP-INS

Warriors: Durant didn't make the trip to Houston, remaining in the Bay Area to receive treatment for his injury. The Warriors said he'll be re-evaluated next week. ... The Warriors started Andrew Bogut for Durant and he had three rebounds and zero points. ... C Damian Jones, who is out with a torn pectoral muscle, has been cleared for contact drills and could be available later in the playoffs if the Warriors advance.

Rockets: Tucker had 15 points and has scored at least 10 points in eight of Houston's last 11 games. ... Clint Capela had with 10 points and 10 rebounds.

THEY SAID IT

Kerr on the performance of Andre Iguodala, who made six 3-pointers and had 17 points: "That game was probably not winnable without Andre's contribution. Andre just does so much for us on both ends of the floor."

Rookie Trysten Hill building on 1st impression with Cowboys

AP photo

Dallas Cowboys rookie defensive tackle Trysten Hill runs through a drill during the NFL football team's minicamp in Frisco, Texas, Friday, May 10.

By SCHUYLER DIXON

AP Pro Football Writer

FRISCO, Texas — Trysten Hill spent part of his 21st birthday talking football with Dallas defensive coordinator Rod Marinelli, about a month before the Cowboys made the former Central Florida defender their first pick of the draft in the second round.

At the time, Hill was dealing with questions about his final season with the Golden Knights, when a coaching change resulted in the defensive tackle starting just one game after Hill was a full-time starter for two seasons under former coach Scott Frost.

Hill sold the no-nonsense Marinelli that night and in other conversations before the draft, and ultimately won over enough of the Dallas staff to get taken 58th overall by a team that didn't have a first-round pick because of a trade for receiver Amari Cooper last season.

Now it's time for Hill to build on that first impression, starting with rookie minicamp this weekend.

"I think that kind of got fueled the wrong way," Hill said of his relationship with the UCF staff under Josh Heupel, Frost's replacement following a 13-0 season in 2017. "I know what it's like to be coached by all different types of coaches."

AP Sports Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY— Oklahoma set a single-season Division I softball record with its 39th consecutive win, defeating Texas Tech 8-0 in six innings Friday in a Big 12 Tournament opener.

The Sooners (49-2) had tied the mark South Carolina set in 1997 with a victory over Oklahoma State on Sunday. They didn't make much of a fuss over the record — the program that has won two of the past three national titles has bigger things in mind.

Arizona holds the overall Division I mark of 47 straight wins that spanned the 1996 and 1997 seasons.

"We want to go out with a bang," Oklahoma senior infielder Shay Knighten said. "We have a goal in mind, and our mission is to complete that mission. And so I think every game is just another step to completing our mission."

The Sooners shut down a Texas Tech squad that entered the tournament second in the Big 12 with a .332 batting average.

Verlander allows 1 hit in 7 innings, Astros beat Rangers 3-0

Associated Press

HOUSTON — Justin Verlander continued his strong start to the season with arguably his best start of the year.

Verlander pitched one-hit ball for seven dominant innings, right fielder Josh Reddick made another leaping catch and the Houston Astros beat the Texas Rangers 3-0 on Friday night.

The only hit off Verlander (6-1) was a single by Asdrubal Cabrera to lead off the fifth.

"In a tight ballgame like that, you're kind of on edge the whole time," Verlander said. "One mistake could obviously lose you the ballgame. From the first inning through the seventh, it was a grind. The boys behind me did a great job."

Jake Marisnick homered in the third, and Yuli Gurriel and Robinson Chirinos hit back-to-back solo home runs with two outs in the seventh.

Astros star second baseman Jose Altuve exited in the first inning with left hamstring discomfort after beating out an infield single. He was listed as day to day.

Houston manager AJ Hinch said Altuve looked uncomfortable at first, and he was working to stretch his hamstring.

"He just said that he felt something in his left hamstring," Hinch said. "He's been evaluated. It doesn't seem serious. We don't know the extent of the injury until we get to tomorrow. He was frustrated, but he made the right decision to alert us of some soreness."

Verlander struck out eight, walked two and hit a batter.

"Big night for him," Hinch said. "He had command of his pitches. He had some stuff left in the tank, too. I think he could have gone out there for the eighth, so really encouraged that he was so in control yet so dominant."

Texas manager Chris Woodward said Verlander did a good job of mixing up his pitches.

"So many weapons," Woodward said. "He has command of all his pitches, he throws his slider off his fastball and can throw his curve at any time. He doesn't give you much to hit."

Ryan Pressly threw a perfect eighth. Roberto Osuna pitched around a single in the ninth for his 10th save, helped by Reddick.

A day after reaching over the wall to take away a go-ahead, three-run homer from Texas' Hunter Pence, Reddick leaped for a catch against the wall to rob Elvis Andrus of extra bases.

Carlos Correa helped Verlander in the third, making a diving snag of Ronald Guzman's hard grounder deep in the hole at short, popping up and getting the out at first.

"You don't know how that changes the game," Verlander said. "You don't know what happens after that. I know it's a big momentum shifter. A guy makes a play like that, and for me, against the other team, it's kind of deflating. It's just a huge momentum boost."

Lance Lynn (4-3) allowed three runs in seven innings, striking out eight. The three home runs Lynn gave up were as many as he had allowed in his previous seven starts combined this season.

"Everything but three pitches, and all three of those left the ballpark," Lynn said. "I gave up too many runs. You have to match Verlander, especially you saw early he was going good, so you knew you had to make pitches and try to keep them off the board."

MOVING UP

Verlander passed Frank Tanana for 22nd on the all-time strikeouts list by fanning Rougned Odor in the seventh. He now has 2,774 strikeouts in his career.

HE SAID IT

"You look at tonight and you get beat by a Cy Young Award winner. That's part of the game, especially when he's one." — Lynn on the loss to Verlander.

ASTROS POWER

Houston has hit 22 home runs in the last eight games. The Astros got home runs in the same game from the No. 7, 8 and 9 hitters in their lineup for the second time in franchise history. The other time was June 12, 2015, against the Mariners when Luis Valbuena, Chris Carter and Jason Castro connected.

UP NEXT

Astros RHP Gerrit Cole (3-4, 4.17 ERA) will make his ninth start of the season, seeking his third straight win after allowing four runs in 6 1/3 innings in his last outing Monday against the Royals. The Rangers will start RHP Jesse Chavez (0-1, 7.27) on Saturday as an opener.

LEADING OFF: Brewers streaking, Scherzer skid, d'Arnaud deal

Associated Press

A look at what's happening around the majors today:

SOMETHING BREWIN'

Zach Davies (4-0, 1.56 ERA) starts for the Brewers as they go for their eighth straight win. Ryan Braun homered as Milwaukee won the series opener 7-0 at Wrigley Field on Friday, pulling into a virtual tie with the Cubs for the NL Central lead. Chicago starter Cole Hamels (3-0, 3.38 ERA) is coming off three consecutive no-decisions.

MAXED OUT

The Nationals have lost the last five games that ace Max Scherzer has started. The three-time Cy Young Award winner is 1-4 with a 3.78 ERA overall this year. The most consecutive team losses in Scherzer starts is six, starting in 2009 when he played for Arizona and ending in 2010 when he pitched for Detroit.

Scherzer next starts at Dodger Stadium against Walker Buehler (4-0, 4.95).

SAVE SOME FOR ME

One night after busting loose for their biggest first inning in 30 years (eight runs), the Mets look to give Jacob deGrom (2-4, 3.60 ERA) some offensive support as well for a change.

The reigning NL Cy Young Award winner has lost four straight decisions, and New York hasn't scored in either of his last two games. It's a pattern that persisted last year, when deGrom went 10-9 despite a big league-low 1.70 ERA. This time, he takes on Sandy Alcantara (1-3, 4.93) and the major league-worst Marlins at Citi Field.

GIANT PAINS

The Reds will try again to tee off against Giants right-hander Jeff Samardzija. Eugenio Suarez, Jesse Winker and Derek Dietrich tagged Samardzija for three homers on three pitches in the first inning Sunday, though Samardzija settled to throw five innings of four-run ball and San Francisco rallied to win 6-5. The Reds have scored six or more runs just six times this season, and three of those came during a four-game split with San Francisco last week.

BIG BEEF

Yankees left-hander CC Sabathia faces the Rays for the first time since being ejected for plunking Jesús Sucre during a game last September. Sabathia was tossed two innings short of meeting a $500,000 performance bonus in his final start of the season, though New York later gave him the bonus anyway.

Sucre is no longer with the Rays, but Sabathia's gripe was with the entire team — he stood and yelled into Tampa Bay's dugout after the ejection, upset that Andrew Kittredge had thrown a pitch near the head of Yankees catcher Austin Romine.

MOVING MAN

Catcher Travis d'Arnaud joins his third big league team this month after being traded from the Los Angeles Dodgers to Tampa Bay. The Rays got him for $100,000 — the AL East leaders have catchers Mike Zunino and Michael Perez on the injured list.

D'Arnaud was traded a week after the Dodgers signed him following his release by the New York Mets. The 30-year-old d'Arnaud was 0 for 1 in one game for the Dodgers after going 2 for 23 in 10 games for the Mets.

COWBOYS

The emotional coach and the demanding coach. I respond well to both."

Hill, who showed displeasure with his playing time after a Fiesta Bowl loss to LSU that snapped UCF's 25-game winning streak, acknowledged that he could have handled the coaching transition better. But he said he went back to UCF after the draft and thanked the coaches for helping him mature and achieve his goal of reaching the NFL.

"I can't go back in the past and change that," Hill said. "Ever since then I have gone back to UCF and talked and been able to go out to practice. I know having my roots at UCF is really important and I want to keep establishing that."

Hill also said the coaching change helped him on the field, because of a switch to the 4-3 that gave the Cowboys a better glimpse of how the 308-pounder fits on the interior of their defensive line. He's a backup to three-year starter Maliek Collins — for now.

"It's unbelievable how hard he plays," Marinelli said. "You'd be hard pressed to see any guy playing that hard at just about every position. It's just about every down, his motor is running. When you see that, that reflects football character."

Owner Jerry Jones has no concerns about the rest of Hill's character, despite the mystery surrounding his junior season at UCF before Hill declared early for the draft.

"When you have a change in a coaching staff, especially if you have it at that critical juncture when you're getting ready to finish your college career, it's like losing a parent to some degree," Jones said. "And that's quite an adjustment for anyone."

Being a backup his final season at UCF didn't affect Hill's production. He had the best year of his college career, with three sacks and 10 1/2 tackles for loss. His 36 tackles also were his collegiate high.

"We're just a day into this, but certainly an impressive young man and that's one of the reasons we drafted him," coach Jason Garrett said. "He's like all of them. We're trying to get to know them and they're trying to get to know what we want in every opportunity we have together."

Hill is joining a defensive line led by DeMarcus Lawrence, who just signed a $105 million, five-year contract with the highest per-season average ($21 million) in club history. Robert Quinn, who had three seasons of double-digit sacks in his first four years, came in a trade with Miami.

Marinelli has high hopes that Hill can be a threat as a pass rusher from inside. The longtime coach considers that potential weapon the most important on his defense.

"I've always had a philosophy, you develop the man first and then you develop the player," Marinelli said. "It's important to me that I help him become the man he wants to be. That usually happens through the work that we do. Then we've got to help him be a good player."

Making an impression on Marinelli was important enough to Hill for him to spend a milestone birthday sitting at "two little chairs pulled up to a table," talking drills and other football matters.

"That's the experience that I'm happy to look back at and say that I spent my 21st with my coach," Hill said.

It helped the Cowboys believe Hill was coachable.

Teacher appreciation at Big Spring ISD

Courtesy photos

Teachers at Big Spring Intermediate celebrated with cake, in recognition of Teacher's Appreciation Week. Area schools held different celebrations throughout the week honoring teachers and their dedication to the students. Back in Motion even delivered cookies to teachers, as their way of saying Thank You. To all teachers and those in the education arena, we say Thank You for investing in our youth.

National Travel & Tourism Week

The Convention and Visitors Bureau is encouraging the community to get out and learn about the history planted, right here in our community. This is National Travel and Tourism Week and in an effort to bring awareness, members of the CVB are highlighting different areas of Big Spring. One of our interesting historical monuments is the Municipal Auditorium. Here is a brief history of the auditorium, from the CVB website.

The Municipal Auditorium was designed by Peters, Strange and Bradshaw Architects and constructed by C.S. Lambie and company, Amarillo, Texas. It was financed by a $200,000 bond election June 16, 1931 which also included in the complex along with City Commissioners L. L. Bugg, C. E. Talbot, J. L. Webb, H. Hinman, and Joseph Edwards, and City Manager R. V. White accepted the seating capacity of 1,412 became the center for cultural productions, both professional and local. Famous performers in the fields of dance, drama, opera, and symphony brought unforgettable entertainment to the Citizens of Big Spring. These personalities included Hank Williams Jr., Robert Merrill, Elvis Presley, Wayne Newton and many more.

In 1988, The Dora Roberts Foundation financed a complete remodeling of the building and also added Air-Conditioning.

In 2016 the Municipal Auditorium went through another renovation, retrofitting modern lighting system, sound system, and making the auditorium ADA accessible to the public. We want to continue providing a venue where we can entertain the Citizens of Big Spring and their visitors.

The Municipal Auditorium is located on 3rd Street. The Big Spring Symphony holds concerts there and adds a great ambiance to the building.

HSWCD honored with Outstanding Conservation District Award

Special to the Herald

The Annual Area II Conservation Awards Banquet was held in Wall, Texas, Tuesday night at which the Howard Soil & Water Conservation District was honored with the Area Outstanding Conservation District Award. It was announced Howard SWCD is also the state winner for 2019 receiving honors at this year's state banquet in San Antonio the last week of October. The HSWCD Board of Director positions are held by Glenn Ace Berry, Kevin Hamlin, Ed Miller, Mark Morgan, and Jimmy Sterling.

The Howard SWCD sponsors workshops, symposiums, and field tours that address the needs and interests of local producers.

Farm Tours discussing the latest news on no-till, irrigation, soil health, high tunnel technology and cover crops have been well attended. Sponsoring a Wildlife Symposium with Texas AgriLife Extension Service, NRCS, Howard College Agricultural Department, Howard SWCD helped to showcase ways of utilizing wildlife to diversify ranching operations. In partnership with Sterling Cattle Company, the HSWCD sponsored a Range Education Workshop with over 100 participants from Borden, Howard, Mitchell and Scurry counties. Each year the Howard SWCD holds their Local Work Group meeting to assess the concerns of local landowners and producers. In conjunction with the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), the HSWCD gathers information and helps to determine how the needs of the producers can be best served.

Howard SWCD Directors lead by example by utilizing the same conservation practices that the district encourages other producers to use in the stewardship of their land. They provide resources and opportunities for NRCS personnel to train others in EQIP practices. Prescribed burning, brush management, range planting, prescribed grazing, fence, livestock water development, and wildlife habitat management are some of the practices implemented by members. The HSWCD has been an active participant in the 503 Water Quality Management Program since the early 1990's. More recently under the Water Supply Enhancement Program, applications were submitted for the Morgan Creek and Willow Creek sub-basins to provide the landowners with another opportunity to cost share acres for mechanical brush work. The Howard SWCD was a cooperating entity in the effort to control the invasive species of Salt Cedar and its impact on the E. V. Spence Reservoir.

Howard SWCD has a long history of providing access to windbreak trees and grass seed to producers. The sale of these items provides for educational outreach such as Conservation Roundup magazine, field days, the annual poster/essay contest and Conservation Corner of Kids which is an educational pamphlet designed by District Clerk Judy Tereletsky for

The Howard Soil & Water Conservation District receives the 2019 Area Outstanding Texas Conservation District Award in Wall, Texas. It was announced HSWCD is also the state winner and will receive honors at the state banquet in October, during the State Convention in San Antonio. distribution to area students. Not only does the district provide for large seed orders but distributes seed packets to local area schools to promote Earth Day, World Soil Day and Soil Stewardship week. Each Spring the Howard SWCD holds its Annual Conservation Banquet honoring the winners of the year's poster/essay contest. The district also recognizes Outstanding Wildlife Conservationists, Friends of Conservation, Conservation Rancher, Conservation Farmer, and Friends of Conservation. The Howard SWCD is proud to say the district has received several Area II winners in past years including the Big Spring Herald winning "Friend of Conservation" in 2018.

Howard SWCD not only encourages participation in their yearly poster/essay contest but holds and sponsors outreach programs for area students. Some have field days at the NRCS/ARS/FSA/HSWCD facilities where they learn about the history of conservation, hands on experiments and career opportunities while other times NRCS and HSWCD visit local schools to have hands on learning of conservation methods and soil health. Earth Team Volunteer Dolline Budke works with Howard SWCD in preparations for the Annual Conservation Banquet and Earth Day/Soil Stewardship Week. HSWCD Technical Support Specialist Connor Steel provides technical support to Mitchell SWCD, Nolan SWCD and Middle Clear Fork SWCD as well as NRCS field offices in Colorado City, Sweetwater and Abilene.

District Clerk Judy Tereletsky provides monthly articles to the Big Spring Herald published in the Sunday Lifestyle section to remind readers who may not have agricultural ties of the importance of agriculture in everyday life. These articles introduce the public to the historical creation and impact of soil and water conservation districts and USDA agencies. They show the legacies and stewardship activities of local producers served by Howard SWCD. In addition to the historical impact of Howard SWCD, the monthly outreach articles highlight the current trends in agriculture and the importance of agriculture in our local economy and lifestyles. They relate areas of interest like the local state park, Christmas season, latest trends or new technology to show how agriculture impacts our everyday lives. Along with writing the monthly articles, District Clerk Judy Tereletsky publishes a quarterly Howard Soil & Water Conservation District newsletter to the local producers. It provides time sensitive information such as tree sales, program sign up deadlines, Conservation Corners tips and information from NRCS. Howard SWCD provides newsletters to over one hundred recipients in Howard County.

Howard SWCD is closely connected with the residents of Howard County with the directors participating in local activities beyond their directorship duties. Whether sponsoring 4-H activities, being inducted in the Big Spring Rodeo Cowboy Hall of Fame, serving as trustee on the local college board, or serving on the Texas A & M Agrilife Extension Howard County Range Committee, being an active member of the community, demonstrates the commitment of Howard SWCD board members to Howard County. From ordering seed and windbreak trees to sponsoring workshops, outreach programs to poster contests, Local Work Group meetings to Soil Stewardship activities, the Howard Soil & Water Conservation District strives to be a vital part of Howard County helping to pass on a legacy of stewardship and conservation to future generations.

Why Mother?

I often wonder why God designed the family as He did. He gave each of us a mother, a daddy, and some of us siblings to complete our earthly family, but why do you suppose He did it that way? I think He wanted us to know what He was like in the makeup of His Heavenly family.

The earliest recollection of my own mother seems vague today. I know she was there watching over me as an active three-year old, up until I was seventeen. Then I went away to college. Yet she was ever vigilante to make sure I could fly out of the nest and try my wings on my own. She called me at least once a week to make sure I had enough money to make it through the month.

While I was in college, I earned money working on campus a whole lot. When my mother called one day telling me because of Dad being let go from his railroad job, she couldn't send me any more money, I told her not to worry. I figured it out on my own and finished college debt free.

But still she hovered over my life, making sure I had what I needed. Then came the day I went against her wishes and did my own thing. Even though I was a Christian, I walked away from God's plan for my life. I stayed in Church, but that road away from my mother's heart was what almost did me in.

God had His hand on me, brought me back, and helped me walk with Him again. I think all of us go through phases like that, but again, my mother was always there praying for me and giving me the advice I needed.

Now she is in Heaven with the God she served. When I get there because of my belief in His Son, Jesus, I'm going to thank her for being my mom, my dad as well, and for guiding me to a close walk with Jesus.

Wish I could talk with her on this Mother's Day, but I'll just have to wait till I get up there.

Keep Big Spring Beautiful

The Keep Big Spring Beautiful May 6th meeting was called to order by President Peggy Skiles. She also led the group in the pledges. Londa Henry gave the invocation.

The Texas Trash Off has been rescheduled due to weather. The new date will be May 18, 2019 from 9:00-1:00. The trash containers will be located at the Howard College Parking Lot. There were several trash events in April. We had 199 adults and 244 kids (under age 18) cleaning up our town. Over 5,380 pounds of trash was collected.

Keep Big Spring Beautiful has participated in several educational programs. Janell Davis made a motion to allow the executive board to purchase educational handouts for the students. It was seconded by Gloria McDonald and all approved.

Two topics of interest to our group were the four dead shrubs in our downtown median as well as the tables at the Comanche Trail Park. These will be discussed later.

Susan McLellan made a motion to purchase an order of trash bumper stickers. This will be a great hand-out at the fair. Sandra Rhodes-Bartlett seconded the motion and all approved.

Janell Davis made the motion to adjourn and all approved.

Our next meeting will be June 3, 2019. We meet at Howard College in the Cactus Room. The meetings start at noon. Visitors are always welcome.

Submit your poetry, short prose, etc. to be featured in our Writer's Corner. Email editor@bigspringherald.com.

Roger's Review

Pokemon Detective Pikachu

My disclaimer for this review is that I'm not a huge Pokemon fan, and I don't know a whole lot about it.

I went into my screening of the newly released "Pokemon Detective Pikachu" - a film adaptation of the video game "Detective Pikachu" - with, well, let's just say "modest expectations." Those modest expectations were exceeded.

For those not in the know, in the Pokemon world, pokemon are strange creatures and/or weird animals with powers. They live alongside humans, who capture them and train them to fight in arena battles. But in "Detective Pikachu," Ryme City is a place where pokemon training and fighting are illegal, and pokemon commonly partner with humans in symbiotic relationships.

The movie starts out with some shadowy figures escaping in a car from a science lab. Inside the lab, things are going haywire as a catlike Mewtwo Pokemon bursts free from its containment unit. As the people in the car drive away, the Mewtwo follows them, and the car is blasted off the road.

Next we see Tim Goodman (Justice Smith), a young man, and his friend Jack (Karan Soni) stalking a pokemon. Apparently the pair were real pokemon aficionados in the past, with dreams of becoming pokemon trainers. Now grown, they're basically goofing around, but the pokemon is having none of it. It attacks, and chases them away.

Shortly thereafter, Tim receives word that his estranged father, Detective Harry Goodman, has been killed in a car accident.

Tim travels to Ryme City to meet with Harry's boss, Lt. Yoshida (Ken Watanabe). Through exposition videos and news reports, we also learn about Ryme City "visionary" Howard Clifford (Bill Nighy) and his son and president of Clifford Enterprises, Roger Clifford (Chris Geere). Yoshida confirms that Harry has died along with his companion pokemon, and gives Tim the address and key to Harry's apartment.

Traveling to the apartment, Tim meets Lucy Stevens (Kathryn Newton), a young intern reporter with a Psyduck pokemon companion. Apparently, Psyducks have a condition where they explode, sending out a wave of force, if they get too stressed. Lucy is staking out Harry's mailbox and confronts Tim when he checks his father's mail. Refusing to answer her questions, he proceeds to the apartment where he discovers a vial of purple gas marked with the letter "R", and a strange talking Pikachu pokemon (voiced by Ryan Reynolds). Pikachu is probably the pokemon most people are familiar with - the round, yellow and black pokemon with a lightning bolt shaped tail. Most pokemon make sounds reminiscent of their name - for instance, Pikachu say "Pika pika!" But Tim can understand this particular Pikachu's voice in English. Oddly, everybody else still hears the familiar "Pika pika!" Also, the Pikachu has amnesia, and only knows he is a detective. He has a Sherlock Holmes style deerstalker hat, and Harry's name and address are printed on the inside of the hat, leading Pikachu to investigate.

Tim originally thinks the weird purple gas has given him the ability to understand the pokemon. Together, the two begin to investigate Harry's death and the weird purple gas.

I'll stop the narrative there. Okay, so "Pokemon Detective Pikachu" is not a cinematic masterpiece. It's quite predictable, and has quite a few logical gaps.

That said, it's a lot of fun. The action is engaging, and Ryan Reynolds voice and character inhabits the little yellow fuzball, which makes for some hilarious scenes.

There are also a couple of opportunities I feel were missed. I don't know a whole lot about Pokemon, but one thing I do know is that there is a bumbling duo of bad guys known as "Team Rocket." While the movie has definite allusions to Team Rocket, they're not ever actually named in the movie. Also, while there is some romantic spark between Tim and Lucy later in the movie, that thread doesn't really pan out.

That said, I was pleasantly surprised. I'm giving "Pokemon Detective Pikachu" seven and a half stars out of 10.

Check this out; at the library this week

We wish every mom a very happy mother's day. Thank you for all that you do! With school break right around the corner, many programs are getting ready to receive students for the summer. One such program is the Howard County Resource Center summer school, which will be held Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. The resource center will have their Kick-off party on Saturday, May 18 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Join them for free hotdogs and giveaways for children, and see the Big Spring Police Department Safety Pup for more information about the Kick-off or their summer program please give them a call at (432) 263-2673. The resource center is located at 108 NE 8th St. Big Spring, Texas.

Also, the library's own summer reading program will begin soon; this year's theme is "A Universe of Stories," and it will run from June through July, ending with a celebration party on August 7th.

Parents/guardians are encouraged to register their children for the library's Summer Reading Program beginning May 15th. The planned activities include great stories and crafts. Please check our Facebook page for more details.

This week's reviews include western, fiction and mystery.

Samuel Patton lost his wife to lung fever two years ago in "Absaroka Valley" (LP W PAI L) by Lauran Paine. Now, suffering from lung fever himself and closer to eternity every day, he is traveling south through the mountains with his small son and daughter, hoping somewhere in this savage land he can find a good home for them before time runs out.

When the two kids find an unconscious man, the three tend to his wounds, care for his horse, and load him into their wagon. Samuel finds a cache of money in the saddlebags of the man the children have named Mr. Black, and he is certain they have taken an outlaw under their wing. When the man comes round, he tells them his name is Jess and he can guide them through the thoroughfare pass and on to the town of Hereford in Absaroka Valley, a cowman's paradise in the mighty mountain range, where he was born. Against his better judgment, Samuel agrees. Only a stone's throw from Hereford, Samuel is too exhausted to push on and so they make one last camp. It is a decision that nearly kills his daughter when a stampede runs through their camp that night. The Patton's find themselves taking refuge in the midst of the valley where ranchers have declared war on encroaching squatters.

Recognizing how common it is for crafters to start many projects and finish a few, a group of women join together to form a guild, Unfinished Projects Anonymous, in "Half Finished" (F SNE L) by Lauraine Snelling. They gather to keep each other on track and accountable. Three of the friends are tasked with the job of home visits for their guild. Laughingly called "the Cartel," they snoop around craft rooms and knitting baskets to report on progress for the members. They even expand their mission to include checking up on half-trained dogs and half-weeded gardens. As life unexpectedly changes for one of the members, this ensemble of women discover that much of life is half-finished; projects, friendships, the raising of children, even our very relationship with the Lord. And that may be perfectly fine.

Stolen sports cars, brilliant casino heists, and the brazen kidnapping of a prince: only the shadowy spy-for-hire Simon Riske can stop the mastermind behind it all in "Crown Jewel" (F REI C) by Christopher Reich. Monte Carlo's lavish casinos have become the target of a sophisticated and brutal team of professional gamblers, a casino dealer has been beaten to death and a German heiress's son has been kidnapped. Who better to connect the crimes and foil a daringly brilliant plot than Simon Riske, freelance industrial spy? Riske is part Bond, part Reacher and knows Monte Carlo well, it's where he was once a thrill-seeking thief himself. He robbed armored trucks and lead police on dangerous car chases across the Coted'Azur, until he was double-crossed, served his time, and graduated as an investment genius from the Sorbonne. Now Riske is a man who solves problems, the bigger and "riskier" the better. From the baccarat tables of Europe's finest casinos to the superyachts moored in Monaco's Port Hercule to a secluded chalet deep in the Swiss Alps, Riske will do what he does best: get in over his head, throw himself into danger, and find a way to outthink and outmaneuver villains of every stripe.

Doug Brock hasn't had it easy since his getting shot in the line of duty as a New Jersey state police officer in "Black and Blue A Doug Brock Thriller" (M ROS D) by David Rosenfelt. Between the amnesia and having to solve two murder cases, it hasn't been the most restful recovery. He is slowly earning back the trust of his girlfriend, Jessie, since he doesn't remember their breakup, and has focused on new crimes with his partner, Nate. But now an old case of Doug's has resurfaced and in order to solve it he has to retrace his steps, steps he can't remember. Eighteen months ago, Walter Brooking was shot through the heart. With no clear motive and no similar murders, the investigation stalled and became a cold case. When another man is murdered in the same fashion and the ballistics come back as a match, Doug begins to reinvestigate, and starts to question his own actions from the previous investigation, what Doug uncovers may be more dangerous than any case he's faced yet.

TxDOT reenacts crash to urge Texans to buckle up

AUSTIN – Approximately 42 percent of teens killed in Texas traffic crashes in 2018 were unrestrained in vehicles. To remind teens how the click of a seat belt can save a life, the Texas Department of Transportation is taking its annual "Teen Click It or Ticket" campaign on the road. The campaign will visit several high schools across the state with interactive education events convincing teens to buckle up.

"As teens start driving and gradually gain independence, some don't always make the best decisions regarding their safety. One of the safest choices teens can make is to buckle up every time they are in a vehicle," TxDOT Executive Director James Bass said. "We urge teen drivers and their passengers to make it a habit to always buckle up and save a life."

The "Teen Click It or Ticket" campaign will host interactive events at six Texas high schools this spring. The events feature the use of virtual reality game technology and an augmented reality experience to share the campaign's safety messaging in a highly engaging manner. The experience also includes the display of a mangled truck involved in a rollover crash. Thanks to using their seat belts, two Texas teens survived the crash with only minor scratches. The campaign's outreach to Texas teens will be enhanced by TV, radio and digital advertising and social media. During 2018 in Texas, one in five vehicle crashes involved a teen driver. Of the 262 teen drivers and passengers killed in vehicle crashes that year, 111 were unrestrained.

Texas law requires drivers and all passengers to wear a seat belt. Unbuckled drivers and passengers — even those in the back seat — face fines and fees of up to $200.

Seat belts prevent drivers and passengers from being ejected from a vehicle, which is almost always deadly. Wearing a seat belt reduces the risk of dying in a crash by 45%. That number jumps to 60% for pickup truck crashes.

The "Teen Click It or Ticket" campaign is a key component of #EndTheStreakTX, a broader social media and word-of-mouth effort that encourages drivers to make safer choices while behind the wheel. Since November 8, 2000, at least one person has died on Texas roadways every single day. #EndTheStreakTX asks all Texans to commit to driving safely to help end the streak of daily deaths on our roadways.

Escalating trade war pushes stocks to worst week of 2019

By DAMIAN J. TROISE
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — An escalating trade war between the U.S. and China pushed stocks lower for a fifth straight day Friday on Wall Street and put the market on track for its worst week of the year.

The U.S. pulled the trigger on higher tariffs on $200 billion worth of Chinese goods even as both sides continued to negotiate. President Donald Trump said in a tweet Friday morning that "there is absolutely no need to rush" on making a deal.

Technology and industrial stocks had some of the biggest declines as investors fled to lower-risk holdings liked utilities and real estate stocks. Several companies with substantial revenue in China fell. Apple and Micron fell 3%. Boeing shed 1.2% and Caterpillar fell 2%.

The higher tariffs from the U.S. and China's response that it would take "necessary countermeasures" rattled investors who had been hoping for a quick resolution to the dispute. Confidence in that outcome had eased invest-tors' concerns this year, along with a more patient Federal Reserve and solid economic data. It all added up to help push stocks to their hottest start to a year in decades.

The sharp decline this week also ramped up the volume on what has been a mostly muted year with no major market-moving news. Investors have been cautiously watching corporate earnings, but have been mostly surprised by solid results.

The trade war has already stressed consumers and companies with higher costs on goods. The latest tariff increase extends 25% duties to a total of $250 billion of Chinese imports. Trump has also signaled that he might expand penalties to all Chinese goods shipped to the U.S.

KEEPING SCORE: The S&P 500 index fell 1.3 percent as of 11:12 a.m. The broad index is on track for its worst week of the year and has given back all of its gains from April. It's still up 13% for the year.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 1.1%, or 294 points, to 25,533. The technology heavy Nasdaq fell 1.6%.

HELLISH WEEK: The market's gains this year had been slow but steady up until this week. Prior to this week, the S&P 500 only had four losing weeks this year, most of them minor. Other than that it's been mostly up. The benchmark index clocked five weeks of gains of 2% or more so far in 2019, and eight smaller weekly gains.

The slump this week has been especially hard on technology stocks, which have far outpaced the rest of the market this year. Those companies do a lot of business in China and would stand to lose greatly if the trade war drags on.

The Nasdaq index, which is heavily weighted with technology stocks, is on track to lose 4.8% for the week after an even stronger run this year than the S&P 500. The weekly drop would be only its third this year and the biggest since late December. The Nasdaq is still up 17.2%.

MANAGEMENT REBOOTING: Symantec plunged 15.5% after the CEO of the security software company resigned abruptly.

Indian company buys famous UK toy retailer Hamleys

LONDON (AP) — An Indian company says it has agreed to take over the famous toy retailer Hamleys.

Reliance Brands in Mumbai said in a statement Thursday that it would buy Hamleys Global Holdings, the owner of the Hamleys brand, from C Banner International of Hong Kong for an undisclosed sum.

The deal would include the flagship Hamleys store on London's Regent Street, which opened in 1881 and remains a tourist attraction in the British capital.

Hamleys was founded in 1760 and has 167 stores in 18 countries. Reliance Brands already had the franchise for 88 Hamleys stores in India.

Reliance Brands Chief Executive Darshan Mehta said the acquisition places the company in the "forefront of global retail." It is part of Reliance Industries, whose chairman is the Indian tycoon Mukesh Ambani.

Greg Clark has been CEO since 2016. He will be immediately replaced on an interim basis by Richard S. Hill, a current member of the board and a former CEO of Novellus Systems.

The company gave no explanation for the abrupt change in leadership. It also reported weak revenue for the first quarter and gave investors a weak profit forecast for the current quarter.

GOOD APPRAISAL: Zillow rose 7.7% after the real estate website operator reported a surge in first quarter revenue that narrowed its losses.

The revenue boost came mainly from the company's push into home purchases and sales. The results beat Wall Street forecasts.

WYNN LOSES: The casino operator fell 6.6% after its revenue fell short of Wall Street forecasts. Wynn reported a decline in revenue from its key properties in the Chinese gambling haven of Macau.

Mother's Day Moon Shift
ARIES (March 21-April 19). You'll deal with a system that's far from optimal, or you'll operate without a system in a situation that clearly needs one. This is a chance to use your organizational talents to make a difference.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20). If you take your whimsical ideas a little more seriously, you'll realize that they're actually extraordinary ways of fixing a scene that was in grave danger of becoming very boring.
GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Nonverbal communication will be the most direct (and perhaps the politest) way to communicate your boundaries. One great strategy is just to leave the room. Another great one? Don't enter the room in the first place.
CANCER (June 22-July 22). The critical moment of a project is in the final approach. To the airplane pilot or the marathon runner, this means the last five to seven miles. To you, it means the point you're coming to. Make a plan.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). In classic astrology, the planetoids were mostly unknown, and now we can delight in the nuances they add. You're getting more detailed in your work, too, recognizing the smaller things and using them to hone your style.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). As the corona crowns the sun, the halo crowns the head. Your aura extends like a crown, too. Though few can see this with two eyes, they'll sense it with the third and respond to your spiritual beauty.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Throughout your life, you have admired and modeled various people. The old influences remain in your pantheon as a new one comes into view, shining as the polestar of this next journey.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). In your area of expertise, you're a forward-thinker. You don't follow the trends in this area because trend-chasing would put you behind. All the opportunities are at the start of the wave.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Make the most of a beautiful thing.

Tomorrow's Horoscope
BY HOLIDAY MATHIS

If there are no beautiful things, make one. If you can't seem to, then find the next closest thing and treat it as though it's a beautiful thing and see what develops from there.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). What allows you to be brilliant is knowing that the mundane tasks, like personal accounting, groceries and laundry, are taken care of. It makes sense to catch up on that today and expect brilliance from yourself tomorrow.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). There are things you can say to a person and other things better left to those who have a closer relationship to the person. If you're on the innermost circle, there's a certain responsibility to deliver candor that comes with the position.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). There's really no such thing as a higher value person. Everyone is inherently the same value. However, within the context of solving a particular problem, there are more and less useful contributors.
TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (May 12). The trust you've built up with people over the years has earned you a level of comfort and support you will enjoy this year. As relationships are the true wealth of humanity, you're truly rich in this way, but it's not the only way you'll experience good fortune this solar return. There will also be gold. Leo and Sagittarius adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 8, 20, 1, 11 and 34.
FORECAST FOR THE WEEK AHEAD: Most scholars agree that the legend of Camelot and tales of the Arthurian Knights of the Round Table are the stuff of myth. However, some speculate that there may have been some factual basis for bits of the fantastical tales of enduring mystique. Certainly, the idea of magical swords, maidens in lakes, wizards, dragons and the like continue to inspire the fantasy realms of modern entertainment, perhaps as metaphors for the magic and power we believe might be inside of us, were we courageous enough to slay our personal dragons, and fearlessly wield our talents for such purposes as loyalty, romance and our heart's noble calling.

This week's astral lineup includes the movement of Venus into the realm Taurus, where she powerfully energizes and emboldens our passions. May you find the weeks ahead epically inspiring.
The other big change begins on Wednesday as Mars marches into a territory where he feels he has no business. Eventually, this transit through Cancer will strip Mars of his armor, leaving him far more vulnerable than a soldier cares to be. This is a test. As Mark Twain said, "It's not the size of the dog in the fight; it's the size of the fight in the dog."

One play can make all the difference in the success or failure of a contract. Declarer should therefore be careful not to play too hastily, even when a particular play may seem to be automatic.
Take this simple case where declarer gets to three notrump as shown and West leads the six of hearts. Let's say declarer plays the ten of hearts from dummy and East covers the ten with the jack.

SUDOKU
Fun By The Numbers
Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!
Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Love Letters to Mom

Dear Annie: Over the years, I've read a number of beautiful Mother's Day poems and notes in Ann Lander's column. One that stood out began with something about a "one-in-a-million Mom" from her kids. It reminded me of my mom. Another one talked about a mom and dad getting ready for bed. That one hit home for me! Can you find these letters in your archives? -- Sandra in St. Louis

Dear Sandra: Of course. Here's one of my favorites:
To a one-in-a-million Mom, to you, dear lady, for all the dreams you dreamed for us. Not one of us became the ballerina or vocalist or pianist or doctor or lawyer you were hoping for. The boys didn't become millionaires, and the girls didn't learn to speak six languages. Instead we are the children who forgot to say "thank you" when it probably would have meant a lot to you. We are the ones who talked when we should have listened. We are the little tykes who woke you before dawn to serve you the breakfast-in-bed birthday special: burnt toast, weak tea, unscrambled eggs and half-raw bacon swimming in grease. We gathered around your bed and sang "Happy Birthday, Dear Mommy." You pretended to be thrilled and tried your darnedest to eat the mess we brought to your bed.

Our childhood is over, and here are the "thank yous," many years overdue. Thank you for being there when we needed you. Thanks for being our tower of strength when you needed support yourself. Thank you for believing in us when we had trouble believing in ourselves. Thank you for saying what we needed to hear and for knowing when silence meant more than words. Your wisdom seemed to come from a place that none of us could ever figure out. Thank you, Mom, for allowing us to dream our own dreams, even though your dreams were more glamorous. And thank you, too, for never letting on when we disappointed you.

Most of all, Mom, thank you for giving us the room we needed to grow and the freedom to learn from our own mistakes. We hope we can do half as well with our kids. -- Your Loving Children

Dear Sam: Here's the second love note to all the moms out there. There are many fathers who do the same things, too, and your hard work is also appreciated:

Mom and Dad were watching TV when Mom said: "I'm tired, and it's getting late. I think I'll go to bed."

She went to the kitchen to make sandwiches for the next day's lunches, rinsed the popcorn bowls, took meat out of the freezer for supper the following evening, checked the cereal box levels, filled the sugar container, put spoons and bowls on the table and set up the coffee pot for brewing the next morning. She then put some wet clothes into the dryer, sewed on a loose button, picked up the newspapers strewn on the floor and the game pieces left on the table and put the telephone book back into the drawer. She watered the plants, emptied a wastebasket, hung up a towel to dry, wrote a note to the teacher and counted out some cash for the kids' field trip. She signed a birthday card for a friend, addressed and stamped the envelope and wrote a quick reminder for the grocery store. She put some water into the dog's dish and put the cat outside, and then made sure the doors were locked.

Mom washed her face, put on moisturizer and brushed and flossed her teeth. Her husband called, "I thought you were going to bed." "I'm on my way," she replied. She looked in on each of the children, turned out a bedside lamp, hung up a shirt, threw some dirty socks in the hamper and had a brief conversation with the older one who was up doing homework. In her own room, she set the alarm, laid out clothes for the next day, straightened up the shoe rack and added three chores to her list of things to do tomorrow.

About that time, her husband turned off the TV and announced to no one in particular, "I'm going to bed," and he did.

Over $23.3M in grants to 102 Veteran programs announced

Courtesy photo

AUSTIN, TX – On May 8, 2019, the Texas Veterans Commission (TVC) approved grant awards supporting 102 veterans assistance programs totaling $23,340,000 from the TVC's Fund for Veterans' Assistance (FVA) 2019-2020 grant program.

"The organizations awarded today provide a range of important services to our Texas veterans," said Commission Chair Eliseo "Al" Cantu, Jr. "Helping Texas veterans starts here at the Texas Veterans Commission and we look forward to partnering with these organizations to serve our Texas veterans, their families and survivors in 2019-2020."

FVA grants have supported a wide range of services for veterans such as housing, nutrition, financial aid, health care and transitioning into jobs.

Since 2009, the TVC has awarded over $114 million in grants to organizations, benefiting over 250,000 Texas veterans.

Funding for these grants is generated primarily by the Texas Lottery Commission's games designated for veteran support.

Other sources of funding for the grants come from individual donation options on drivers' licenses, licenses to carry a handgun, outdoor recreation licenses for hunting and fishing, and vehicle registrations.

Grant amounts and program details for each organization will be announced as grant contracts with each organization are executed. Grants are awarded in the categories of Veterans County Service Office, Veterans Treatment Court, Veterans Mental Health, Housing for Texas Heroes and General Assistance.

For more information on the 2019-2020 FVA grants and organizations receiving them, visit <https://www.tvc.texas.gov/grants/> and scroll to FVA News.

Veterans in need of services should call 1-800-252-8387 or visit <https://www.tvc.texas.gov/>.

Helping veterans starts here. The Texas Veterans Commission advocates for and provides superior service to veterans that will significantly improve the quality of life for all Texas veterans, their families and survivors. The TVC assists veterans with receiving their benefits, providing funding to agencies which provide direct services to veterans and administration of the Hazlewood Act education benefits.

Kunal Nayyar is among the stars in the series finale of "The Big Bang Theory" Thursday on CBS.

Going out with, yes, a bang: 'The Big Bang Theory' ends its CBS run

Here comes the last "Big Bang." A ratings powerhouse for most of its 12 seasons, and now the longest-running multi-camera comedy in television history, CBS' "The Big Bang Theory" concludes with a one-hour series finale Thursday, May 16. Created by executive producers Chuck Lorre and Bill Prady, the saga of lovably geeky geniuses Leonard, Sheldon, Howard and Raj (played by Johnny Galecki, multiple Emmy winner Jim Parsons, Simon Helberg and Kunal Nayyar) and their neighbor-and-later-more Penny (Kaley Cuoco) will live on in syndicated repeats. Before the finale was filmed, Nayyar talked about his "Big Bang Theory" experience.

Q: How have the final weeks on the set been?
A: There's been a real lightness. We've sort of climbed over the mountaintop and are just chilling. The pressure is off; for the finale, that's probably more on the writers than on the actors. We understand how grateful we are for this, and we want to enjoy every moment together.
Q: What do you remember about your audition for the show?
A: Originally, the character's name was Dave. I auditioned with many other different ethnicities - Korean, Japanese, Arabic - so there was a real sense that they wanted this diversity. There was a cadence in the language that felt very natural to me, and that's why I brought more of myself to the character.

Q: When did you first feel "The Big Bang Theory" would stay around for a while?
A: When the show went into syndication, I remember Chuck Lorre saying to me, "Your life is going to change forever." And I was like, "It already has." But what he meant was that with it being on different platforms, and people who had only heard of the show starting to binge-watch it, that was when my being recognized everywhere changed almost overnight. I realized this show had really touched people and could be at the level of "Friends" or something.
Q: Are you satisfied with the arc of Raj?
A: It's been really nice to play this character who has evolved, and that's a real testament to the writers. I'm going to miss Raj, and in the finale, I hope that he finds himself. I think that would be a really lovely moment for him.
Q: What will be your biggest takeaway from the show?
A: One of the things I'm going to miss most is seeing the kids from the Make-A-Wish Foundation, or the Sunshine Foundation, and having interaction with people whose time on this earth is really finite. Being able to make them laugh or to soothe their pain, those are the things that matter to me most. And make me the most proud of everything we've done.

"First Responders Live" (Fox — series premiere, June 12)
The brave men and women that include firefighters, police officers, EMS technicians and first responders are profiled here as they answer call of duty emergencies. Emmy Award-winning television journalist Josh Elliott hosts and gives live analysis and commentary, with the help of a team of experts, as cameras in multiple cities across the country document a night in the life of each rescue unit as they put their own lives in danger to save others.

"The Loudest Voice" (Showtime — series premiere, June 30)
Based on the best-seller by Gabriel Sherman, this limited series looks at the rise and fall of Fox News founder and former CEO Roger Ailes. Focusing on the past decade, many events of Ailes' life will be covered including his leadership role in the Republican Party, experiences with world leaders and sexual harassment accusations. Russell Crowe portrays Ailes, alongside co-stars Naomi Watts and Seth MacFarlane.

"Evel Live 2" (History — new special, July 7)
 Hoping to build on last year's success of Travis Pastrana's jump over the famous Caesars Palace fountain, Nitro Circus returns with Axell Hodges being the daredevil to put his life on the line to soar over more than 24 beverage trucks to break Evel Knievel's 1971 attempt and Evel's son Robbie's 2003 record. Freestyle motocross athlete Vicki Golden will also be featured, being the first female attempting to shatter the motorcycle firewall record set in 2006, by speeding through a series of flaming wooden boards.

New 'Bachelorette' Hannah hopes for luck in love

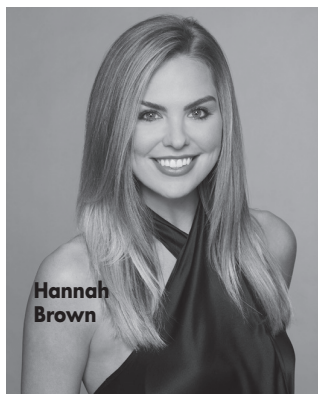

Once again, heartbreak on "The Bachelor" has led to hope for a "Bachelorette."

Former Miss Alabama USA Hannah Brown was in good company when she was let go by latest "Bachelor" Colton Underwood, since he ultimately rejected all of his choices ... until he backtracked and reconsidered in the case of Cassie Randolph. Now, Hannah gets to do the choosing as the center of the 15th season of ABC's "The Bachelorette" starting Monday, May 13.

One of two Hannahs on the recent "Bachelor" Season 23 (Godwin being the other), Brown is the only woman aiming to find love in the franchise now. "They all bring something different to the table, which is what makes it interesting," series host Chris Harrison reasons of the women who have filled the "Bachelorette" slot. "Hannah's season is going to be unique. She brings her own confidence, insecurities, sense of humor ... all of that."

"She wasn't really on "The Bachelor" as long as most 'Bachelorettes' are," Harrison adds, "so she may be one of the less experienced in what it takes to shoot the show. I'll be honest: When she appeared on the live show, I was scared to death. I wasn't sure what we had. She was nervous and not really able to articulate her feelings as well as I would have liked, but when she showed up for Night 1 (of 'Bachelorette' taping), I realized why we made the choice we did and why we all love her. When you get Hannah, you get all of 'Alabama Hannah.' What you see is what you get."

With "Bachelor in Paradise" also set for another season starting July 29, Harrison reunited with many of the previous "Bachelorettes" in an ABC special earlier this month. "It was just a special day," he reflects. "I hate to say this, but I'm starting to get sentimental. Not that this (franchise) is coming to an end, but I didn't expect it to be so emotional, or to be so grateful for having all these great women together. It was just this crazy, beautiful family that we've created."

JULIE BOWEN

Julie Bowen Luetkemeyer was born on March 3, 1970, in Baltimore. The middle of three sisters, she appeared in several stage productions while an Italian Renaissance studies major at Brown University, and she also made her first movie ("Five Spot Jewel") before she graduated.

Bowen began her professional acting in the early 1990s on the daytime serial "Loving." "Party of Five" and "Dawson's Creek" were among other shows on which she had early roles.

Her starring role opposite Adam Sandler in "Happy Gilmore" put Bowen's movie career on a fast track that also would encompass "Multiplicity," "An American Werewolf in Paris" and "Joe Somebody" soon afterward.

Weekly television has proven to be Bowen's career mainstay, with a recurring run on "ER" (as the girlfriend of Noah Wyle's Dr. John Carter) her first major claim to fame in that arena. She followed that with a four-season run on "Ed," in the pivotal role of the seemingly unattainable crush of the bowling-inclined title character (Tom Cavanagh).

On "Lost," Bowen had the recurring role of Jack's (Matthew Fox) ex-wife Sarah, and she also played attorney Denise Bauer on the spinoff of "The Practice" titled "Boston Legal." Additionally, she had a recurring part on "Weeds."

Unquestionably, Bowen's longest job is her current one, as Claire Dunphy on ABC's "Modern Family." She has earned two Emmy Awards for the show, which is slated to have one more year beyond the one now ending; that will give the series a total run of 11 seasons. Bowen also directed her first episode of the sitcom this past February.

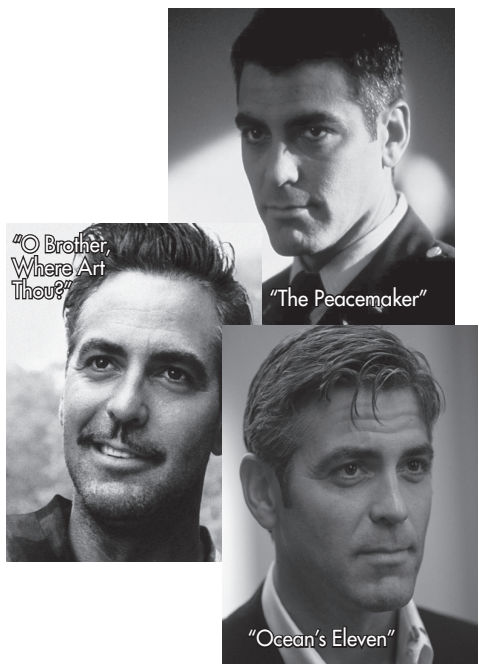

During "Modern Family," Bowen has moonlighted in guest roles on "Family Guy" (in voice only, of course), "Better Things" and "LA to Vegas." Last year, she also was in the movie "Life of the Party."

A cardiovascular condition has made it necessary for Bowen to have a pacemaker since she was in her 20s. In 2018, she divorced her husband of 14 years, with whom she has three sons including twins who turn 10 this month (and whom she was expecting when she filmed the "Modern Family" pilot).

"The Peacemaker" (1997) One of Clooney's earliest big-screen showcases was this involving thriller, about a military man's pursuit of terrorists, directed by Mimi Leder (whom Clooney had worked with often on television's "ER").

"O Brother, Where Art Thou?" (2000) In the hands of the writing-directing Coen brothers, Clooney leaves his sophistication behind to play a Depression-era convict on the run with a couple of cronies.

"The Perfect Storm" (2000) A rugged Clooney is thoroughly believable as the captain of the fishing boat Andrea Gail, which ran into rough waters quite literally in trying to get an especially good haul back to shore.

"Ocean's Eleven" (2001) It took someone with Frank Sinatra's brand of cool to spearhead a remake of the "Rat Pack" caper comedy, and Clooney proved he had that to spare as casino robbery mastermind Danny Ocean. A particularly easy repartee with co-star Brad Pitt helped greatly, to the extent that the update launched a franchise.

"Syriana" (2005) In an Oscar-winning performance, as well as one that reflects his well-known global concerns, Clooney transforms himself to play a ragged CIA veteran caught up in oil dealings.

"Michael Clayton" (2007) Clooney simply is great as a law firm's personally flawed "fixer" who steps in to see a lawsuit through. His scenes with Oscar recipient Tilda Swinton have particular sizzle.

"Up in the Air" (2009) A simply perfect Clooney performance finds him as a cynical, much-traveled expert in firing others' employees. He's well-matched with Anna Kendrick, playing an overeager efficiency expert.

"Fantastic Mr. Fox" (2009) Clooney channels his famously bemused, mildly sarcastic persona nicely into the voice of the title character in director Wes Anderson's animated comedy.

"The American" (2010) In what clearly was an experiment for him, Clooney tamps down his natural charisma to play a professional killer who wants out of the business as his last job takes him to Italy.

"The Descendants" (2011) Doing Oscar-nominated work, Clooney is excellent as a husband and father with a comatose, unfaithful wife and family-owned land he has to decide what to do about.

"Gravity" (2013) Clooney and Sandra Bullock make a compelling duo as astronauts stranded in space when debris wrecks their shuttle.

"Money Monster" (2016) Directed by Jodie Foster, this intense, underrated drama reteams Clooney with Julia Roberts - his "wife" in the "Ocean's" movies - as he plays a showy TV financial expert held captive by a studio intruder (Jack O'Connell) with big reason to regret having taken his advice.

A TV movie had a Tiger (Woods) as the tale

Q: Tiger Woods' recent victory at The Masters got me thinking. Wasn't there a TV movie about him some years ago? - Roger Main, via e-mail

A: Yes, there was, not long after he originally won that golf championship ... the first of his five wins of it to date, as it has turned out. Directed by LeVar Burton ("Roots," "Star Trek: The Next Generation"), the logically titled 1998 Showtime drama "The Tiger Woods Story" had several actors in the title role at various ages.

For most of the film, the part was covered by Khalil Kain (later of the sitcom "Girlfriends"), with Keith David as Woods' father Earl.

John Cho - who also would become a part of the "Star Trek" canon, as Sulu in the franchise's latest wave of feature films - had a supporting role as Jerry Chang, one of Woods' golfing teammates at Stanford University.

Tiger Woods

"Good Girls"

Q: I really enjoy "Good Girls," but I worry that it won't come back again. Will it have another season? - Pam Dowd, Buffalo, N.Y.

A: You can stop worrying, since there's already good news on that front. Christina Hendricks, Retta and Mae Whitman will keep scheming for at least one more round, since NBC has renewed the show for Season 3. A big factor in that undoubtedly is how it's performing on digital platforms, since the network says it's drawing two times the audience it did last season in that realm.

itself. I mean, who would have thought that I would wear this skin again? I certainly didn't.

Especially since it's been 14 years since you last played the role, how was it for you to revisit Harm?

The fun part about this for me is that it's a different Harm, an evolved Harm. He's taken a new career path, and that was important. I really felt we had run the gamut on Harm being in the JAG corps, so as the character rides again, he is an XO (executive officer) on a nuclear-powered aircraft carrier in the Pacific. He has a host of new possibilities, and the stakes are bigger.

How did you find it to combine Harm with such regular "NCIS: Los Angeles" characters as Callen and Sam (played by Chris O'Donnell and LL Cool J)?

It was fun. Those guys were great to work with ... and the whole crew. It was a really enjoyable experience, and they couldn't have made it any easier. They were very welcoming, and I hope it's only the beginning. I hope there are more adventures to come, but it certainly was fun to do a big arc and not just a one-off (a single episode).

Food issues come to the fore in Tastemade's 'Broken Bread'

Countless TV shows and documentaries demonstrate how food can bring people of diverse backgrounds and viewpoints together for a shared culinary experience. A new series that begins streaming this week on Tastemade shows how it can also transform communities.

In "Broken Bread," premiering Wednesday, May 15, chef, restaurateur and social activist Roy Choi introduces viewers to individuals and organizations that strive to make a difference in their communities through food. In each half-hour episode, Choi goes on a journey of discovery around his native Los Angeles that challenges the status quo and his own assumptions as he explores the problems facing our food system and industry, including food deserts, food waste, immigration and sustainability.

Wednesday's opener, "Transformation," finds Choi in the Boyle Heights neighborhood of East Los Angeles, where he visits with Father Greg Boyle of Homeboy and Homegirl Industries, which helps prepare former gang members for careers in the food services industry. As one cook flips sandwiches on a griddle, she tells of how the program has helped her find her calling in life.

"We never wanted the show to be this kind of like God-like figure, top-down approach," Choi explains. "So it was really important to hear it from the voices, from the inside out because that's where I come from, too. So the whole show weaves in and out from the leaders who started the program to the people in the program to everything.

"And then we move from that to talking with the mayor (of Los Angeles, Eric Garcetti), because if we are going to create a world of kinship and love, we can't ostracize people, we can't ostracize government and we can't ostracize activists. So it was really talking to the mayor and trying to get a point of view of, if government is the enemy or if systems and organizations are the enemy, then how can we figure out what to do together?"

Ensuing episodes address issues such as food access and waste and report on food programs in Watts and the emergence of a new culinary landscape in the wake of marijuana's legalization in California.

There is also an episode about the future of food, which the show argues must see us consuming less beef, pork and poultry and more of things like insects, worms and jellyfish.

For that, Choi admits, an attitude adjustment is obviously in order.

"If somehow we can take away that psychological triggering," he says, "and we can design a food program that revolves around sustainability and so you're eating more crickets and worms ... than you are pigs and chickens and cows, then obviously that's going to help the balance of the ecosystem. And the same thing with the ocean. If you're eating more jellyfish versus eating more tuna, it's going to help the balance of the marine ecosystem.

"But then right now the problem is you can't tell people to eat jellyfish and crickets because, like I said on the show, people are just going to go 'Ew!'"

It’s been a year since the trauma of being rejected by her family as “Fleabag” returns for Season 2 this week on Amazon. Premiering Friday, May 17, the fresh batch of six episodes finds Phoebe Waller-Bridge’s title character as angry and confused as ever as she goes toe-to-toe with the Almighty over the problems in her life and she meets a priest (Andrew Scott) who jolts her into seeing things in a different light. Meanwhile, there are still old wounds left to lick, especially ones regarding her sister Claire (Sian Clifford) and brother-in-law Martin (Brett Gelman), and new ones to tend to as she continues her turbulent journey. That that journey continued at all is somewhat of a surprise given that Waller-Bridge originally conceived the series as a one-season-and-done proposition, as she told a recent gathering of journalists in Pasadena, Calif. “The moment this character speaks to me is when I get surprised,” explains the London native. “I didn’t know that (Season 2) was going to be about religion or there was going to be a priest as the new main character, and I also didn’t know what was going to happen to these two. “I decided not to do a second season absolutely for sure, and I had great pride in my artistic integrity for not coming back,” she continues. “And then I had the idea for the second series, and then did that again, and I’ve now decided there should absolutely not be a third series. So,

Thomas told Hope they’re destined to be together. Sally and Wyatt had a breakdown in communication. A livid Sally told Thomas his efforts to get back with Hope have cost her dearly. Wyatt told Quinn what went down between him and Sally. Liam returned from Paris, determined to not allow Thomas to manipulate Hope. Flo struggled with keeping the secret about Beth from Hope. Things got heated between Liam and Thomas. Wyatt and Flo discussed Sally. Quinn and Sally argued about Wyatt.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES
Stefan was caught sneaking Gabi out of the mansion. Victor blamed Nicole for Holly’s disappearance. Rafe disobeyed Hope’s orders, resulting in tragedy. Hope, Nicole and Eric made a horrific discovery at the accident scene. Maggie found Kate in a close moment with Victor. John and Marlena celebrated their six-month anniversary at the pub. Nicole let Eric have it. Hope and Rafe’s marriage imploded. Ben and Ciara broke bad news to Stefan and Chloe. Maggie and Victor

I may be surprised again. I don’t know. But I had doubts all the way through, as I always do with my work, about whether or not it’s the right story to tell, but there’s something driving it with this character all the time, and I felt driven again by her.”

Full name: Phoebe Mary Waller-Bridge

had a huge falling out. On Election Day, Claire delivered the goods to Eve. Kayla had bad news for Sonny and Will. Jennifer returned from her trip and encountered Jack. Eve gave Haley an ultimatum. Xander walked in as Brady was comforting Nicole. Maggie was tempted to drink.

GENERAL HOSPITAL
Sonny was horrified. Laura saw Robert for the first time in years. Lucy set her sights on Kevin. Peter faced his fears. Alexis was overjoyed. Michael was grateful. Jason was surprised. Anna struggled to reconcile what she knows. Peter surprised Maxie. Sam expressed concern. Valerie offered advice. Lucas sought help. Willow made a confession. Curtis dropped in on Drew. Robert lost it. Sonny and Mike bonded over family. Michael underestimated the situation. Kim was grateful. Sam prepared for the worst. Kristina made her intentions clear. Sonny braced for the worst. Peter was interrupted. Finn had bad news. Ava and Kevin made their presence felt.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS
Summer continued to try to undermine Kyle and Lola’s relationship, manipulating him into joining her on a business trip to New York. Phyllis used Billy’s seed money to plan out an accessories line for the Jabot Collective, which Jack flatly rejected. Angry and embarrassed, she vowed to take Jack down. Rebekah joined the Jabot Collective as a consultant and reconnected with Nick. Tessa issued a challenge to Mariah’s stalker. Devon turned to Jett for details about Elena, who was angry that he went behind her back. Arturo tried to win back Abby but she made clear she wasn’t interested.

"Movie: Yardie"
Idris Elba directed this original drama movie about a young Jamaican man (Aml Ameen) dispatched to deliver a package of cocaine to a mobster in London, where he comes face to face with the man who shot his older brother to death 10 years earlier. (ORIGINAL) Premiere

May 15
"Movie: A Breath Away"
From France comes this 2018 sci-fi tale of a family struggling to survive when a toxic mist engulfs the city of Paris. Romain Duris, Olga Kurylenko, Fantine Harduin, Michel Robin and Anna Gaylor head the cast for director Daniel Roby.

May 17
"The Rain"
The Danish post-apocalyptic series returns for a second season and finds Rasmus (Lucas Lynggaard Tonnesen) dealing with the implications of the virus having mutated inside of him. Alba August, Johannes Bah Kuhnke and Mikkel Boe Følsgaard also return for the new season. (ORIGINAL) Season Premiere

"Ministry of Evil"
(Available now, Sundance Now)
This four-episode true-crime series chronicles the life and crimes of televangelist-turned-cult leader Tony Alamo, who with his wife enforced a code of silence and wielded unimaginable power over their followers while turning themselves into multimillionaires.

May 17
"Fleabag"
Season 2 of Amazon's very original comedy finds the title London singleton (series creator Phoebe Waller-Bridge) still angry and confused following the very painful rejection by her family last season. She also has a bone to pick with the Almighty over her problems, which she'll likely work out with the help of a handsome priest (Andrew Scott). Brett Gelman, Sian Clifford and Olivia Colman are cast returns. (ORIGINAL) Season Premiere

May 17
"Catch-22"
Christopher Abbott ("It Comes at Night") has the iconic role of World War II bombardier Yossarian, who goes to great lengths to have himself declared insane so he can get out of active duty, in this adaptation of the classic Joseph Heller novel. George Clooney (also an executive producer here), Kyle Chandler, Hugh Laurie, Graham Patrick Martin and Giancarlo Giannini also star. (ORIGINAL) Series Premiere

"Movie: The Last Summer"
William Bindley ("Judicial Consent") directed this original drama movie about a group of high-school graduates who grapple with love and friendship during their final summer together before heading off to college. K.J. Apa, Maia Mitchell, Norman Johnson Jr., Wolfgang Novogratz and Jacob Latimore head the cast. (ORIGINAL)

"Line of Duty"
(May 13, Acorn TV)
The fifth season of this BBC One cop thriller finds the anticorruption unit AC-12 investigating possible police collusion when three officers are shot to death during the hijacking of a seized drug transport.
