Council approves seeking RFPs for IP phone upgrade

By ROGER CLINE
 Staff Writer

The City of Big Spring took a step closer to a phone system upgrade at Tuesday night's City Council meeting that could save the city more than $150,000 a year.

During the council's regular semi-monthly meeting, Financial Director Don Moore outlined the benefits to the city of switching to an Internet Protocol phone system.

"This is something that most organizations with multiple phone lines have been going to for about the last 15 years," Moore told the council. "Fortunately for us, the price of the hardware has come down so much that this is a really good time. It used to take multiple years of the savings from going to an IP telephone system, because of the cost of the equipment. Now the equipment's come down to where it looks very feasible. It can all be done in one fiscal year. We received three quotes, just to get our feet wet and get a better understanding of it. These quotes would range from payback in about 8 to 12 1/2 months. The goal of this is to do what we need to do so we can receive the savings from the phone lines, which is $151,000 a year right now."

In addition, Moore said the upgrade is a good idea because the company that made the city's current phone system is out of business, and parts and repairs are hard to come by.

"We have a real problem," he said. "We had one day where it took 16 hours to fix. Some of the city offices were without phones for 16 hours. This will really eliminate all of that and put us on a new,

Geertje (Gert) Karwedsky

Geertje (Gert) Karwedsky, 88, of Big Spring, entered into the arms of our Heavenly Father on May, 11, 2019. The family will receive friends from 2 p.m. until 3 p.m. Saturday, June 1, 2019, at Myers & Smith Chapel, Big Spring, Texas. A memorial service will follow at 3 p.m. with Nathan Teeters and Al Yanke officiating.

Described by her family as... strong, determined, funny, caring, unique, cheeky, ornery, honest, spunky, sarcastic, honorable, straightforward, giving, bold, creative, brash, genuine, adaptable, lovely, matriarch and mom, Gert encompassed all of these characteristics and more. She had a fun-loving spirit, a beautiful smile, and was "mom" to many. She enjoyed volunteering, knitting, crocheting, crystal hunting, collecting shells on the beach, and fishing. Gert was a homemaker, but she also worked at B.S.S.H., Wal-Mart, Howard College and Webb Air Force Base. She also worked with her husband, Bob, at Kerr-McGee gas station and AAA Storage. Despite humble beginnings, Gert always had a positive outlook.

Geertje (Gert) Karwedsky was born in Amsterdam, Holland on March 31, 1931, to Hendrik and Redika Akerboom. Her earliest memories were of happy times spent with her parents and brother, Hank, and extended family as they road their bikes, their main means of transportation, for picnics by the sea shore. Gert enjoyed hiking and swimming with a youth club. In 1938, her family started the paperwork process to come to the United States. By the time that the papers were ready, Germany was invading Europe, and their visas were cancelled leaving them behind to witness the invasion of their country, and her once carefree, childhood become one of survival in a city ravaged by war. At the tender age of nine, Gert and her mother scavenged for wood and coal, stood in rationing lines, and traded household items to local farmers for potatoes and grain. With food supplies becoming scarce, the family resorted to eating tulip bulbs, and the decision was made to send Gert, then 12, on a boat with hundreds of other children, to farms in north east Holland. She left not knowing if she would see her family again. She was taken in by a family with five children and the young "city girl" loved all the new experiences of living on a farm. With the liberation of Holland in 1945, Gert was reunited with her family, and they again began the process of immigrating to the United States. In 1947, they sailed to the United States aboard the Gripsolm from Sweden. They were met by their already naturalized American relatives and traveled to Green Bay, Wisconsin, where their new life would begin.

Gert could not speak any English when she arrived in the US and was required to attend a vocational school. She also worked in a cheese factory. To socialize, she and her brother joined a square dancing club where she met her future husband, Robert (Bob) Karwedsky. Born and raised in Green Bay, Wisconsin, Bob, too, had lived through the perils of WWII as a seaman in the Navy aboard the battleship Wisconsin and the aircraft carrier USS Bennington CV20. Bob was in the active reserve after being released from the Navy in 1946.

Gert and Bob were married on Dec. 11, 1948. Two people from different parts of the world, speaking two different languages, united together for over 62 years until Bob's death in 2011. Bob joined the Air Force in 1951, and they started their military journey. They had one son and seven daughters and lived in seven states and Japan, always adapting and forever strengthening the bonds of their family. The family first came to Big Spring, Texas, in 1964. While serving in the Washington D.C. area in the late 60's and early 70's, Gert and Bob opened their home to foster children. With the love and support of their six children still living at home, they loved and cared for seven foster children.

In 1970, Gert was honored, along with nine other Washington area foster mothers, at a tea hosted by then First Lady Pat Nixon. They were blessed with their youngest son who came into the family at three weeks of age through the foster care system and became a forever member of the family at age eight.

Bob retired from the Air Force in 1970, and, in 1974, they moved back to Big Spring, Texas, and later to Colorado City, Texas, where they were active at the Wallace (senior) Center. Gert and Bob shared their love of the outdoors with their children, and the family often went for Sunday drives, family camp-outs, or a day at the lake fishing. Gert and Bob loved to travel; Bob driving and Gert journaling about their trip. They camped from coast to coast, and, if their campsite was next to a fishing hole, then you would find them side by side, poles in hand and HAPPY!

Geertje is survived by her children, Robert A. (Bobby, Rob) Karwedsky Jr. and his wife, Linda of Brentwood, Tennessee, Suzan Davis and her husband, Bill of Sand Springs, Texas, Cyndy Finnell and her husband, Don of Cleburne, Texas, Judy Yanke and her husband, Al of Big Spring, Texas, Karen Hines and her husband, Bob of Boyd, Texas, Lynda Peiper and her husband, Chris of Fayetteville, Pennsylvania, Ellen Kendrick and her husband, Roy of Rochelle, Texas, Laura Strickland and her husband, Ernie of Big Spring, Texas, and Ron Karwedsky of Lawrenceville, Georgia; her sisters-in-law, Fay Sterckx and husband, Darril of Green Bay, Wisconsin, and Mardula (Dodi) Secord and her husband, Reynolds of North Port, Florida; one brother, Hank Akerboom of Green Bay, Wisconsin; 25 grandchildren, 54 great-grandchildren, 5 great-great-grandchildren and one more on the way; numerous nieces, nephews and treasured friends.

In addition to her parents, in-laws, and husband, she was preceded in death by her brother-in-law, Donnie Karwedsky, and a son-in-law, Ed Berry.

For those wishing to make a memorial donation in Gert's name, the following were dear to her heart: The Wallace Center, P.O. Box 687, Colorado City, Texas 79512, Attn: Julie Erwin; Mobile Meals, P.O. Box 765, Big Spring, Texas, 79720; Happy Day Humane Society, P.O. Box 2009, Big Spring, Texas 79721.

Moore asked for, and the council unanimously approved, issuing a request for proposals to upgrade the city's phone system to an "IP Phone System," which would use Voice Over Internet Protocol (VOIP) to communicate rather than standard phone service.

In other business, the council recognized KDC Associates, the architectural firm that designed the recent renovations to Big Spring's namesake, the Historic Spring in Comanche Trail Park, as well as the plaza and scenic overlook surrounding it; and architects Kelly Cook and Johnathan Pruessner, for receiving the Merit Award of Professional Achievement from the American Society of Landscape Architects for Outstanding Achievement for their work on the Spring Project.

The council also:

- Held public hearings on three zoning issues before approving each one unanimously. The first two involved a tract of land near the 1000 block of East FM 700. The land was rezoned from Single Family (SF-2) to Light Commercial (LC), and height and distance variances were granted for the construction of a wireless communications tower. The tower will carry signal for Sprint, T-Mobile and Verizon wireless services. The third issue involved a zoning change from Single Family (SF-2) to Single Family (SF-4) for a tract of land immediately east of the northeast corner of the Fordham Avenue/Monmouth Street intersection. The SF-4 designation – the first in the city's history – is used for single-family residences such as twinhomes and townhomes.

- Approved granting City Manager Todd Darden authority to negotiate an agreement with the YMCA for aquatic activities. The council also appointed council members Doug Hartman and Camilla Strande to work with Darden on the negotiations. YMCA board member Raul Marquez was present and requested the negotiations.

- Approved granting the mayor authority to negotiate terms and conditions for the Big Spring Senior Center with the Health and Human Services Commission.
- Tabled a resolution amending tax abatement guidelines and criteria. The resolution would decrease administration fees for tax abatement applications.
- Approved the city's investment report for the quarter ending March 31, 2019.

On Sky Squares and Service

ARIES (March 21-April 19). A long walk has healing power for the body and mind. A few miles in, and what will start to kick in will be benefits that are better than could be brought through medicine, expert advice or special treatments.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You can't act on everything. It's fine to abandon some of the ideas. You're having so many, and they can't all be the best. But do keep track of them all. Record them in some organized way that will make it easier later to prioritize.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Bring up the positive. Build on what you're doing right. Make a good thing great. Your time is better spent in this direction than in the direction of trying to fix things. Start anew.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). And now for something new. You haven't experienced the phenomenon, so you might not see it coming or know what to do with it. That's what guides are for. They'll show up; you'll listen up.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Life gets instantly better when you widen your circle of compassion, and the improvements won't stop there. Note that being more compassionate doesn't automatically mean being more accommodating or compliant.

inner circle that do not extend to the outer rings.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). There is endlessly more to know, but knowing things never made anyone smarter. It's applying intelligence well that matters. Stop thinking about it and dive in to get physical proof of your ideas.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Most people need a reason, but you've been known to, unbidden by external need or encouragement, reach inside yourself to take stock of the resources available in the depths. And here you go again...

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). When people give easily, it implies they have much more to share, establishing a magnetic charisma. Those who give less freely are indicating their limits. The erosion of mystery renders the gift and the giver less attractive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). The amount of honesty each person is willing and able to accept has to do with ego and emotional need. If a person needs to feel that something is true, they will, despite any evidence to the contrary.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Generosity energizes you. Though the help you give is substantial and much appreciated, the act of giving it is still worth more to you than the considerable value of the help itself.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You'll be aware of how your individual daily operations reflect the world at large. Every small move you pull off will represent the coming together of an incomprehensibly large-scale dance number.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (May 29). The solar return fashions spiritual glasses for you, allowing your third eye a more vivid and vibrant focus. This enhances your sensual experience, enlivens your body and invigorates your personal life. You'll connect more meaningfully and often. Notable moment: when you gladly pay the way for a loved one in September. Virgo and Aries adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 33, 8, 18, 30 and 2.

Annie's Mailbox

Holding Out for Right House

Dear Annie: My boyfriend and I have been dating for almost five years now. He says that he wants to get married soon; however, he is almost 30 and we still don't live together. We have been living with our respective parents in order to save up money to buy a house.

During the course of our relationship, we have saved more than enough. Each time we see a house, he has a million and one complaints. I'm at the point where this just seems hopeless. I want to move out and live my life, but he keeps stopping me, saying that we have to get the "right house." Should I just give up and do my own thing, or wait it out? -- Desperately Waiting for a Change

Dear Desperately Waiting: Instead of waiting for a change, be proactive and make what you want happen. First, be honest with yourself because you're both making good points. Are you rushing to buy a house just because you want to get married? If that is the case, then your boyfriend has a point. On the other hand, if you truly feel that he is stalling because he doesn't want to get married or he is unsure about you, then by all means, take your hard-earned money and buy yourself a house.

Dear Annie: My wife and I went to our granddaughter's wedding recently, and it was the first time we witnessed something that we had heard about but never seen. After the cake was cut, the bride and groom shoved the cake into each other's faces. We were stunned.

The ceremony had been so elegant and beautiful, and the dinner was wonderful. But I felt like the entire wedding was spoiled by that appalling act. My wife felt the same way. When we got back to our hotel room, that's all we could talk about.

My brother is pretty formal, and I can only imagine how furious he was to watch his daughter having a piece of cake smushed into her face. He laughed as it happened, but I know him, and he was not laughing inside. I do not plan to bring it up with him when we are together -- not now and not ever.

Do you have any thoughts about this? Why in the world would a loving couple try to publicly humiliate each other on their night of glory? -- Dumbfounded

Dear Dumbfounded: We all know that some couples celebrate their marriage by smashing the wedding cake into each other's faces. It usually starts with the groom, but not always. Sometimes it begins with one person putting a dab of icing on the other's nose and then it escalates.

Some people justify it if both parties agree in advance, and they say it is all in good fun. But I'm with you and your wife. I think it can be degrading to the bride and groom. Publicly humiliating or mocking each other for fun is horrible, always.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♦	Pass	2♣	Pass
2♠	Pass	3♦	Pass
3♦	Pass	4♦	Pass

Opening lead — ten of hearts.

There are times when a 6-5 distribution can be described in just three bids. Whenever the six-card suit is lower in rank than the five-card suit, there is a standard procedure for identifying the 6-5 shape.

In the bidding shown, South's three-spade bid is the key to his 6-5 distribution. When South first mentions his spades at the two-level, North has every right to assume South has only a four-card suit.

But when South next rebids three spades, this assumption becomes invalid, as he would not rebid a four-card suit that has not been supported. Therefore, the three-spade bid implies a five-card suit.

Once this determination has been made, North asks himself why South bid one diamond initially rather than one spade. South cannot have five of each suit, in which case spades would have been named first. Since South did bid a diamond, North should conclude that South's diamonds are longer than his spades.

Proper play produces 11 tricks even though both the diamonds and spades break unfavorably. East wins the heart lead and returns a trump. Declarer takes the ace and ruffs a heart in dummy. This leaves dummy with the lone jack of trumps.

South is threatened with a possible diamond loser as well as a spade loser. If he cashes the diamond king and does not catch the queen, his hopes will then rest on losing no spade tricks.

Instead of subjecting himself to the whims of fate, South uses the jack of trumps in dummy for another purpose. The king and ace of spades are cashed, and a low spade is ruffed with the diamond jack as West discards a heart (it doesn't help West to ruff with the queen).

Only a trump trick can now be lost, since South's remaining spades are good. In effect, he telescopes his two potential losers into one.

Tomorrow: Now you see it, now you don't.

Mazara, Guzman homer, Rangers beat Mariners 11-4

Texas Rangers' Ronald Guzman follows through on a three-run home run during the fifth inning of a baseball game against the Seattle Mariners, Tuesday, May 28, 2019, in

By CHRIS TALBOTT

Associated Press

SEATTLE — The pitching staff of the Texas Rangers isn't sold on the idea of using an opener instead of a traditional starting pitcher — yet.

The evidence continued to mount in favor of using an opener for the Rangers in an 11-4 win over the Seattle Mariners on Tuesday night.

The Rangers used reliever Jesse Chavez as the opener and brought in former starter Adrian Sampson in the second inning. The result: Texas snapped a three-game losing streak and improved to 3-1 this season using the approach and 6-3 since September.

"I don't think it ever puts the debate to rest," Texas manager Chris Woodward said. "I love to debate. I love arguments when it comes to this game. There are so many things that are changing in this game on a daily basis. It's just something I feel like it gives us an advantage in the game I feel like. Nothing is black and white, but I think it has worked well."

So well, Woodward is emboldened to try it again Wednesday, sending Jose Leclerc to the mound with Drew Smyly scheduled to follow. And with success like this, why not?

Chavez struck out three of the four batters he faced, then turned the ball over to Sampson. The former Mariner worked five innings, allowing three runs and eight hits while striking out six. The two are thriving under the opener approach. Chavez has pitched 12 2/3 scoreless innings with six hits as an opener, with 16 strikeouts and three walks. And Sampson, a former Mariners pitcher, is 3-0 while following an opener. He also beat the Mariners 2-1 last week.

"My understanding is we're just trying to win a game and it's working," Sampson said. "I ask questions and they give me answers. Woody's always been up front with me. We have a lot of good communication and nobody's really caught off guard by anything."

Texas hitters backed up their pitchers with a seven-run fifth inning that included two-run hits by Hunter Pence and Asdrubel Cabrera and a three-run home run by Ronald Guzman that landed in the second deck in right field. The burst ended the night for Seattle starter Marco Gonzales (5-5), who gave up eight hits and eight runs (six earned) in four innings. The left-hander has lost five games in six appearances after starting the season 5-0. He also gave up a two-run home run to Nomar Mazara.

It was the third time the Rangers have seen Gonzales this year, but he doesn't think familiarity explained their success against him Tuesday. He was 1-1 with an ERA of 0.64 in his previous starts, but Texas seemed dialed in this outing with several balls off the wall.

"Pitching is a constant chess match," Gonzales said. "I had a couple good games against them early, the dice rolled their way today. I think it's as simple as that."

INJURY REPORT

Rangers: Woodward pulled center fielder Joey Gallo from the game with a sore wrist injured while swinging the bat. Gallo was originally scheduled for an off-day Wednesday.

Mariners: Shortstop J.P. Crawford was helped from the field after rolling his ankle late in the game. Manager Scott Servais said the injury was a "gut-punch to everybody." Crawford was undergoing X-rays postgame and the Mariners will know more Wednesday.

RARE REST

Seattle manager Scott Servais gave Mitch Haniger a day off, operating under the theory that even All-Stars need one occasionally. Haniger is top 10 in the American League in doubles (second), extra-base hits (fourth) and home runs (eighth), but the 2019 All-Star right-fielder has been in a prolonged slump and is batting .229. "Hopefully it helps," Servais said. "My guess is he's watching video or in the cage or doing something right now. But sometimes you sit and watch the game for a little bit. It does recharge the batteries."

UP NEXT

Rangers: LHP Drew Smyly (1-3, 6.15 ERA) will likely get the start in the series finale against Seattle, though Woodward said he was still looking at using a reliever as an opener.

Mariners: LHP Wade LeBlanc (2-2, 7.35 ERA) tries to stop an 0-2 skid with a 13.50 ERA in his third start since returning from the injured list.
