Area residents mingle at Big Spring's Star Dodge recently to promote CASA volunteerism. The organization provides advocacy for children in the court system.

 Building hope for the lives of children in

Howard County is the desire pushing CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocate) volunteers. With the increasing number of children needing services, the need is ever more present for a new facility, and as always, more volunteers, in Big Spring.

"We have a training coming up in Big Spring in July and it would be nice if we could get at least six in the class," Patty Pisklak, Executive Director, said. "It just seems that we can't keep up with the demand. We are always in need of volunteers so we can help serve the needs of the children."

Recently, CASA partnered with Star Dodge, for a Building Hope mixer event.

Big Red Band holds awards banquet

Special to the Herald

The Coahoma High School Big Red Band capped off another successful year at the band's spring concert follow by its annual awards banquet recently.

Over the competitive year, the band brought home its fourth sweepstakes trophy under the leadership of Band Director John Landin for earning both Division I ratings at marching contest held in the fall and concert contest held in the spring.

During the school year, four students earned a chair on the all-region band, one student qualified to area band, and 10 students will compete at state solo and ensemble on June 1-3.

The well-attended spring concert featured performances by the sixth grade, seventh grade, eighth grade and the high school bands.

The following awards were given out at the annual banquet:

Big Spring Community Chorale shines in Schubert Mass performance

In just their second performance ever Monday evening, the Big Spring Community Chorale sang the six movements of "Mass in G Major" by Franz Schubert, as well as three additional songs: "One Hand, One Heart" from the musical "West Side Story"; the spiritual "All My Trials," arranged by Ed Lojeski; and the reggae pop hit "Turn The World Around" by Harry Belafonte and arranged by Mark Hayes.

The event was focused around pushing out information about services offered through CASA, but specifically to let the community know how to get involved and make the new facility a reality.

"We had land for a new facility, but we are still shy on the funds," she said. "We have the plans designed and we are gearing up our efforts of raising awareness, but before we can break ground we need to find a few more who will stand with us and help make this a reality."

CASA provides advocacy to foster youth in seven widespread West Texas counties including Midland, Martin, Gaines, Dawson, Andrews, Howard and Glasscock counties. The mission behind CASA is to recruit, train and support quality volunteers who advocate for abused and neglected children.

"Our volunteers provide a constant for these children," she said. "They serve as an advocate for the children and allow the children to have a voice and offer hope for a brighter future free from abuse and neglect."

According to statistics provided by CASA, there are 96 children being served in Howard County by 34 volunteers. Several volunteers have more than one case that they are helping with, which is why more volunteers are needed.

"Due to the growth and need in the communities that we serve, the Big Spring CASA office has moved three times since 2011. Our CASA volunteers need a place to call home and with the donation of land, for this space, that dream is one step closer to becoming reality."

The Building Hope campaign is designed to help meet the need to provide quality advocacy in Howard County and surrounding communities. The new building will be 4,200 square feet and will provide exposure in the community, allowing an increased ability to recruit volunteers and provide the space for education on child abuse and neglect, for volunteers and the community.

"As part of the new facility there will be space for pre-service training, confidential meeting spaces and easy access for plenty of parking," she said. "Having this facility will fulfill CASA's mission to provide quality advocacy to youth in foster care and give hope the hopeless."

For those wanting to help build hope and support the new facility and/or CASA, donations of all sizes are being accepted and volunteers are being sought. Donations can be made at www.casawtx.org or for more information, call Staci Roseberry at 432-683-1114.

Migrant woman dies shortly after Border Patrol detention

EAGLE PASS, Texas (AP) — A 40-year-old female migrant has died in Border Patrol custody shortly after she was apprehended while crossing the border from Mexico.

A statement from U.S. Customs and Border Protection says the Honduran woman was apprehended at 6:20 a.m. Monday. The woman collapsed at 6:45 a.m. after arriving at the Eagle Pass South Border Patrol station. Authorities say first aid was administered until paramedics arrived and continued emergency care. She was pronounced dead after arriving at Fort Duncan Regional Medical Center.

CBP has not yet released the woman's name.

Acting CBP Commissioner John Sanders says the woman was the second migrant to die in a 36-hour period.

Recovery continues in Texas town nearly 2 years after Harvey

PORT ARANSAS, Texas (AP) — Federal officials say most retailers in a South Texas town decimated by Hurricane Harvey have reopened as tourism authorities seek to woo visitors back.

A Federal Emergency Management Agency statement Tuesday said Port Aransas (uh-RAN'-zuhs) continues to recover from the August 2017 hurricane.

Port Aransas, about 200 miles (321.85 kilometers) southwest of Houston, received more than $22 million from FEMA after Harvey. Much of the money was spent to clear debris, install temporary buildings and keep public institutions running. State funds also helped.

Jeffrey Hentz, with the Port Aransas Chamber of Commerce and Tourist Bureau, says 90% of restaurants and retailers have reopened, but only 60% of the lodging has reopened.

Officials estimate about 35,000 people in April attended Texas SandFest, a sand sculpture competition in Port Aransas.

2nd victim dies from shooting at East Texas plumbing company

CLEVELAND, Texas (AP) — Authorities say a second person injured during a shooting last week at an East Texas plumbing company has died.

Liberty County Justice of the Peace Ralph Fuller says David Grubbs died at a hospital Saturday after being shot at his brother's business near Cleveland, a city of 8,000 people about 50 miles (80 kilometers) northeast of Houston.

Fuller says the other person killed in the shooting was 61-year-old Toni Kelly, an employee, and that business owner Chris Grubbs was also wounded.

Police have said 65-year-old Pavol Vido shot the three before wounding a sheriff's deputy in a fire fight and taking his own life after evading officers for hours.

Fuller says Chris Grubbs and the deputy, Richard Whitten, continue to be treated for their injuries.

3 dead in San Antonio home; high levels of carbon monoxide

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — San Antonio police say a man and his two children have been found dead in a house where the electricity had been off since Friday and a generator was located inside.

Police say the homeowner stopped by the house late Monday after not being able to reach the 56-year-old resident or his daughters, ages 9 to 11.

Authorities say a fuel-powered generator was inside the home and turned on but not running. Emergency responders detected high levels of poisonous carbon monoxide, which can be emitted by generators.

Police found no signs of trauma. Causes of death were pending.

Names of the victims weren't immediately released. Officials didn't say why the electricity wasn't working.

Texas governor signs bill rape kit backlog bill

By CLARICE SILBER

Associated Press

AUSTIN (AP) — Republican Gov. Greg Abbott signed a measure into law on Tuesday that aims to eliminate the backlog of thousands of untested rape kits in Texas.

Abbott's approval comes as states across the country are using legislation to bolster testing requirements and attempt to clear their own buildup of untested rape kits.

The Texas measure mandates law enforcement agencies conduct an audit to determine the number, status, and location of all of the untested rape kits in the state and then set timelines to ensure they are analyzed. It also allocates roughly $50 million toward hiring more workers at the state's crime labs and expands access to sexual assault nurse examiners for underserved populations.

Abbott said at an afternoon press conference in Dallas the bill would better address and provide justice for survivors of rape and sexual assault.

"One of the best strategies is the forensic testing of rape kits, but thousands of these kits have languished untested for years," Abbott said.

We scored at least 10 runs at each game we played. We couldn't be prouder of these girls; the hard work and effort they put in this season" said Head Coach Clayton Mckinnon, of his team after the tournament.

Bregman, Astros beat Mariners 11-5 for 5th straight win

By TERRY BLOUNT

Associated Press

SEATTLE — Even without Jose Altuve, Carlos Correa and George Springer, the Houston Astros defeated the Seattle Mariners Tuesday night for its fifth straight win.

Alex Bregman had two hits and three RBIs, and seven other Astros drove in at least one run as Houston beat the Seattle Mariners 11-5 Tuesday night for its fifth straight win.

"We have good players and we know how to win, but we've had to win a little differently," Astros manager AJ Hinch said before Tuesday's game. "We've manufactured runs a little bit better."

That's exactly what the Astros did in coming back Tuesday, scoring three runs in the seventh inning and four in the eighth without the benefit of a home run. Houston had two sacrifice flies, three walks, five singles, one double and one steal by Derek Fisher on an overturned call during that seven-run stretch.

"This team is battling every at-bat," Fisher said. "We're winning games in a little different way right now and having a lot of fun doing it."

The Astros have won 9 of 11 and are 5-0 during this road trip. They moved 10 games ahead of second-place Texas in the division.

"We've always bragged that we have a deep lineup and we can rely on anybody on any given night to make a difference," Hinch said. "That's been tested with those guys out, but we like our depth. I'm happy with how we adjusted to a little more of a speed game."

The Astros are 5-0 this season against the Mariners, who have lost four straight.

"We've got a lot of areas that have been a struggle at times," Mariners manager Scott Servais said. "We're in a funk right now. And we're playing a very good team over there even though they're banged up. The guys that they have in spots filling in for them are playing very well."

Daniel Vogelbach's base-loaded walk with two outs in the sixth briefly gave Seattle the lead. Vogelbach pinch hit for designated hitter Tim Beckham after the Mariners loaded the bases, trailing 4-2.

Astros left-hander Reymin Guduan (1-0) was recalled for Triple-A Round Rock on Tuesday and came in to pitch against the left-hand hitting Vogelbach, who sent a liner off the wall in center to clear the bases.

Andrew Moore, making his first major league appearance since September of 2017, gave up four runs and six hits in 4 2/3 innings as the Mariners starter. Brandon Brennan (2-4) allowed three runs in the sixth.

Wade Miley started for the Astros and gave up three runs in five-plus innings. The Astros have won seven of his last nine outings.

"Our offense exploded in a different way and it's cool to see," Miley said. "We made some plays and got through it."

Jake Marisnick had two hits and two RBIs for Houston, and Tony Kemp and Robinson Chirinos each homered.

Mitch Haniger hit his 15th home run of the season for the Mariners.

ROSTER MOVE

Astros: RHP Corbin Martin was optioned to Triple-A Round Rock. Martin, who made his major league debut May 12, was a 1-1 with a 5.59 ERA, including 10 earned runs over 14 innings in his last four starts. LHP Framber Valdez (2-2, 3.12) will replace Martin in the starting rotation and start Saturday against the Orioles.

TRAINER'S ROOM

Mariners: Brandon Bishop, who started in center field, left the game in the fourth inning after feeling tightness in his neck. RHP Connor Sadzeck was placed on the 10-day IL (retroactive to June 3) with right elbow inflammation.

UP NEXT

Astros: RHP Brad Peacock (5-2, 3.17) is 3-0 with a 0.93 ERA over his last five starts, including 35 strikeouts in 29 innings.

Mariners: RHP Mike Leake (4-6, 4.71) allowed two earned runs in seven innings while earning the victory against the Angels in his last start. Leake has given up 18 home runs this season, the second most in baseball.

Severino hits 3 HR, makes saving play in 9th as O's beat Texas

Associated Press

ARLINGTON, Texas — Pedro Severino took three easy trips around the bases Tuesday night. It was a good thing he saved his energy — he needed those legs on a game-ending play in the ninth.

Severino hit a career-high three homers and thwarted Texas' ninth-inning rally with a wild defensive play, lifting the Baltimore Orioles over the Rangers 12-11.

Texas scored six runs in the ninth and had the tying run on base with one out when Mychal Givens replaced Richard Bleier on the mound. Givens struck out Delino DeShields and Elvis Andrus, but strike three to Andrus was a wild pitch that went to the backstop.

Severino scrambled to retrieve the ball, then delivered a perfect throw to first baseman Chris Davis a step ahead of Andrus for the final out. Severino said Givens couldn't see his sign on the final pitch.

"I didn't know what pitch was coming," Severino said. "I had to throw it really hard to first base to just get the out."

Dwight Smith Jr. had a career-high six RBIs for Baltimore, including a three-run homer and three-run double.

Severino never previously had a multihomer game in five major league seasons. He hit solo homers in the first and ninth innings and a two-run homer in the seventh.

As for his power surge, he said, "I don't want to say I don't have power. When I used to be a young guy, when I hit one homer, I just tried to hit every ball out."

Dylan Bundy (3-6) earned his first win since May 17, allowing three runs and six hits in five-plus innings.

"We didn't close out the game the way you'd like to close out," Orioles manager Brandon Hyde said. "I am going to try to stay positive."

Givens earned his fifth save, cleaning up a mess created by Josh Lucas and Bleier. Andrus led off the inning by reaching on shortstop Richie Martin's error, and Asdrúbal Cabrera and Logan Forsythe each hit two-run doubles during the rally. Cabrera had three hits to match his season high.

"It was good, but we still lost the game," Cabrera said of the late rally. "We have to forget about it and come tomorrow and find a win."

"Obviously beforehand, there were a lot of things we could have done better," Rangers manager Chris Woodward said, "especially on the pitching side."

The five Baltimore home runs equaled the most hit off Rangers pitchers this season.

After Smith's first-inning homer, Severino's first homer gave the Orioles a 4-0 lead five batters in against Drew Smyly (1-4).

Smyly gave up seven runs and eight hits in 3 1/3 innings as Texas ended a three-game winning streak. The eight hits included three homers, one short of Smyly's career high.

Hanser Alberto had four hits, all singles, to match his career high set May 20.

Keon Broxton hit his third home run in nine games with the Orioles and has hits in six games.

FIRST THINGS FIRST

The Orioles, with the majors' worst record at 19-41, won a series opener for the third straight series to improve to 6-14 those games this season. They haven't won consecutive games since April 23-24.

The Rangers dropped to 5-15 in series openers.

CHOO ACHIEVES MILESTONE

Shin-Soo Choo led off Texas' first with his 200th career home run. It was his third leadoff home run this season and 30th of his career. Choo has reached base in 25 straight home games.

"He's one of the most impressive players I've ever been around," Woodward said.

SHORT HOPS

Davis went 0 for 5 with two strikeouts after being reinstated from the 10-day injured day earlier in the day.

Choo's homer was the major league leading 123rd given up by Orioles pitching this season. ... Texas went 3 for 3 on challenges and is 14 for 17 on challenges this season. Baltimore went 1 for 1 and is 7 for 14. ... RHP David Carpenter, whose contract was selected from Triple-A Nashville last Friday, made his Rangers debut with his first appearance in the majors since July 2015. Carpenter allowed two runs in 2/3 of an inning.

TRAINER'S ROOM

Orioles: OF Mark Trumbo (knee) went 0 for 3 with a strikeout on Tuesday beginning a rehab assignment with Triple-A Norfolk.

Rangers: The Texas placed RHP Kyle Dowdy on the 10-day IL with elbow impingement and recalled LHP Brett Martin from Nashville.

UP NEXT

Orioles: LHP John Means (5-4, 280) has a loss and two no-decisions since winning four of five starts April 18-May 12.

Rangers: LHP Mike Minor (5-4, 2.74) is fifth in the American League in earned run average with one of the league's five shutouts.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Cancer Moon Gets Cozy

ARIES (March 21-April 19). It's said that people are the average of the five people they spend the most time with. Of course, people cannot really be "averaged." But there's still something to this theory that has you looking at your relationships a little closer now.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Thank goodness you're not in charge of teaching people a lesson. But if you were, they would learn it best by simply comparing themselves against a stellar example. Providing such examples is good leadership.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). If there's no one in need, no one gets a chance to be helpful. Generosity brightens moods. It's good for both the helpers and the helped. If you ask for assistance, you'll actually be doing someone a favor.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). It's not every day that the world is this intent on delighting us, though one has to ask... at what cost? The omens suggest you're in for a first-class seduction, amusement, temptation or indulgence. Go carefully!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You're not going to be brilliant all day long. One burst of brilliance is enough. The rest is the follow-through of ordinary, and completely necessary, work. Brilliance without ordinary work goes nowhere.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Maybe anyone can do it, but anyone won't. You had the idea. You should do it. If you don't, no one will -- at least not for a few years. Think about how you'll feel then if you don't act now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Even though there are a fair number of things that could possibly go wrong with this current pursuit, this amount of risk still may not be enough to thrill you. What would make it more interesting?

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You are fun, light-hearted and don't care to get mired in the dramas that don't concern you.

For these reasons and more, people will be drawn to you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Any task can be transformed into a spiritual practice. Not every job should be though. The sort of work that could benefit from such a transformation are the jobs that would otherwise have very little obvious reward.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Happiness is not a wish that gets granted. It's a process, a dance and often a retrospective analysis. If you're just not feeling it, take a breath, take a break, reset your expectations. You're doing OK. Really, you are.

By HOLIDAY MATHIS

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). There are those who will see you as an opportunity to make a sale, fill a role they've been trying to cast in their lives or deliver the labor they need. Stay aware. Patrol the boundaries of your life.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). You keep running into the same person. It certainly wouldn't hurt to believe that this is a sign that you're supposed to talk to, connect with or pay attention to the mysterious ways your destinies are connected.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (June 5). The happy times roll in. Accept that good, easy and wonderful things were meant to happen to, for and through you. Be sure and avoid trial and negotiation. Walking away from conflict makes you the winner, and the best deals are going to be such a natural fit that the back and forth won't be necessary. Virgo and Sagittarius adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 40, 9, 20, 4 and 8.

ASTROLOGICAL QUESTION: "I'm a Pisces and having trouble with my feet. I had a sprained ankle and it never really healed right. I keep falling off my shoes at inopportune times, not that there is any good time to fall off your shoe. Thank goodness I haven't been seriously hurt, but I've been scraped up, limping and embarrassed numerous times. I wonder if there's some spiritual reason I keep reinjuring myself. I know that Pisces rules the feet."

Feet are the lowliest parts of our body and yet they are magnificent strength and balance machines. Reflexology experts believe that massaging the feet can have a restorative effect on the rest of the body. In Asia, it is rude to point the sole of your foot at another person because it's such a humble and potentially filthy body part. And yet many Asians celebrate the footprint of Buddha as a holy symbol. In summary, the feet are more complex than they seem. Take that, brain and heart! As for your recent penchant for tripping yourself up in embarrassing ways, you can probably take it as a metaphor. The tripping problem can be fixed with shoes that fit and support you. The life problem can be fixed with people who do the same.

Divorce Is Tough on Adult Children

Dear Annie: I lived in a bad marriage for more than 25 years. There was mental, emotional and some physical abuse. I stayed for the sake of my children and planned to leave when they were out of the house. Now, my children are in their early 20s. I could not take it anymore, so I left their dad. My husband sought treatment for his anger, but I still am through with the marriage.

My son is completely on my husband's side and doesn't understand why I don't go back into the marriage. Granted, there were a lot of good times; if it had been 100 percent horrible, I would have never made it this long. Prior to my leaving, I had a great relationship with my son. What can I do to improve my relationship with my son without going back to his dad? By the way, my therapist informed me that divorce is harder on adult children than younger children. I wish I had known this earlier. -- Missing My Son

Dear Missing My Son: Living in a bad marriage for 25 years with emotional and physical abuse must have been tough. I am sorry that you had to go through that. The truth is that there is no right or wrong time to get divorced. And there is never a right time to endure emotional or physical abuse in a marriage.

Explain to your son that you were stuck between a rock and a hard place -- staying with an abusive man or getting divorced. At the same time, listen patiently to your son. Why does he blame you? Really listen to him. The fact that you see a therapist is very helpful. Consider having some sessions with your therapist and your son.

Life is filled with ruptures and challenges. The most important thing moving forward is to maintain a peaceful relationship with your ex-husband while continuing to reach out to your son.

Dear Annie: My wife and I are both Catholic, and we go to church for Mass every Sunday morning. But there is something that is driving me crazy -- the young parents who bring their babies or small children who then cry and scream during the service.

I can only imagine how the priests feel when they are in the middle of celebrating a sermon and the whole church is engulfed with the sounds of crying babies.

Last Sunday, there were two children screaming on opposite sides of the church. Those cries were about all I could hear. I found it totally distracting and did not want to go back the next week, but I did because my wife said it was very important to her that I show up. Of course, there was more crying at that service, though it was not as bad. The mom brought her kid outside as soon as he started to whine.

What is particularly frustrating is that I remember when our church was being remodeled 15 years ago, and we donated $100. Part of the remodel was to build a "cry room," which is a soundproofed room for parents with crying children. Why do these parents avoid the cry room and insist on letting their kids make noises that distract everyone else in church? -- Praying for Silence

Dear Praying: Cry rooms can be very helpful to the parishioners and to the parents of the noisy child and, of course, to the priests. At the same time, if many parents bring their children into the cry room, those parents and their children will have missed out on the Mass. Rather than "Praying for Silence," you might change that to "Praying for Tolerance." Young parents who want to attend Mass and to introduce their children to church at an early age should be accepted and encouraged. That said, if the wailing gets out of hand, we hope that Mom or Dad will bring the baby outside or to the cry room.

Declarer started off perfectly by going up with the ace of clubs at trick one. Next he cashed the spade ace and ruffed a spade, then cashed the heart ace and ruffed a heart. He continued by trumping a spade, a heart and dummy's last spade, producing this position:

South then led the heart queen and ruffed with dummy's king as West discarded the spade king. Declarer next led a club, but since West had only trumps left, he was forced to ruff his partner's trick. Even worse, he then had to lead from the J-9-4 into South's A-Q-10, handing declarer the slam.

Had West been more alert, he would have found the unusual but correct play of trumping the heart queen in the diagrammed position, even though dummy would overruff with the king. This would have allowed East to win dummy's club return as West shed his spade king, after which the jack of diamonds would have scored the setting trick.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

 In 1963, Britain's Secretary of State for War, John Profumo, resigned after acknowledging an affair with call girl Christine Keeler, who was also involved with a Soviet spy, and lying to Parliament about it.
 In 1967, war erupted in the Middle East as Israel, anticipating a possible attack by its Arab neighbors, launched a series of pre-emptive airfield strikes that destroyed nearly the entire Egyptian air force; Syria, Jordan and Iraq immediately entered the conflict.
 In 1968, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was shot and mortally wounded after claiming victory in California's Democratic presidential primary at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles; assassin Sirhan Bishara Sirhan was arrested at the scene.
 In 1976, 14 people were killed when the Teton Dam in Idaho burst.
 In 1981, the Centers for Disease Control reported that five homosexuals in Los Angeles had come down with a rare kind of pneumonia; they were the first recognized cases of what later became known as AIDS.

 In 2013, U.S. Army Staff Sgt. Robert Bales, accused of killing 16 Afghan civilians, many of them sleeping women and children, pleaded guilty to murder at Joint Base Lewis-McChord, Washington, to avoid the death penalty; he was sentenced to life in prison.
 Ten years ago: President Barack Obama, while visiting Germany, became the first U.S. president to tour the Buchenwald concentration camp, where he honored the 56,000 who died at the hands of the Nazis. Ex-CIA operative and Watergate burglar Bernard Barker died in suburban Miami at age 92.
 Five years ago: President Barack Obama said he "absolutely makes no apologies" for seeking the release of Sgt. Bowe Bergdahl in a prisoner swap with the Taliban, vigorously defending an exchange that caused controversy.
 One year ago: Fashion designer Kate Spade, known for her sleek handbags, was found dead in her Park Avenue apartment in New York in what the medical examiner determined was a suicide by hanging; she was 55. After it became clear that most players from the Super Bowl champion Philadelphia Eagles weren't going to show up, President Donald Trump gave the boot to a White House ceremony for the team, and instead threw his own brief "Celebration of America." Former TV mogul Harvey Weinstein pleaded not guilty in New York to rape and criminal sex act charges; he'd been indicted a week earlier on charges involving two women.
 The Miss America pageant announced that it was eliminating the swimsuit competition from the event; the new head of the organization's board of trustees, Gretchen Carlson, said on ABC, "We're not going to judge you on your appearance because we are interested in what makes you."

Doc is in: Emrick not slowing down in his dream job

By STEPHEN WHYNO

AP Hockey Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins and St. Louis Blues' morning skates are over and a handful of broadcasters have taken the ice to re-enact a play from this bruising Stanley Cup Final.

In the otherwise empty stands is a singular figure having a good chuckle at the retired players doing their best to go over the Xs and Os.

But Mike Emrick doesn't sit still for long. It's a rare moment of pause for a man seemingly always in motion. A car comes to take him back to his hotel seven hours before Game 2 so he can get a quick change of clothes for his on-air work. Then it's back to work.

The man known as "Doc" because he has a doctorate in broadcasting is working the 21st Stanley Cup Final of his illustrious career. He has been honored by the Hockey Hall of Fame and is the voice of the sport in America, a rapid-fire storyteller who is beloved from the Shark Tank to Madison Square Garden. Colleague Kenny Albert calls him the Vin Scully of hockey, and the admiration level in hockey circles is just as great.

At 72, still calling games on the NHL's biggest stage, Emrick is in his prime and showing no signs of slowing down or stepping away from broadcasting the fastest game on ice.

"I really wanted to do it from the time I saw my first game, but a lot of people really want to do something and they don't get to," Emrick said. "When you have a job like that, you're never working the rest of your life. So it's been 46 years. I don't know when it'll end. God only knows."

Emrick is so enthusiastic on the air during games that New York Rangers president John Davidson wonders when his former broadcast partner is going to come up for air. Not during the most important time of year for Emrick. This love affair goes back a ways, to when he was a kid sitting at Fort Wayne (Indiana) Komets games, practicing calls in the corner on Wednesday afternoons with his reel-to-reel, battery-operated tape recorder from the music store his dad owned.

Down time for Emrick comes mostly in the summer when he and Joyce, his wife of almost 41 years, go on camping trips to small towns, mostly in Michigan or visit his brother and stepmother who still live in his Indiana hometown. He does like to watch his beloved Pittsburgh Pirates. During the season, they like going to lunch and at night sit together in the living room with their two dogs Joybells and Liberty — he's watching hockey and she's watching veterinarian shows.

"That's a nice night for us," Emrick says. "It's probably not a life many people would find really exciting, but we enjoy it."

Joyce and dogs are the centerpieces of Emrick's universe that has plenty of room for the people who consider themselves lucky to call him a friend. That includes broadcast partners of various vintages — Eddie Olczyk, Glenn "Chico" Resch, Bill Clement and Davidson. He has helped many through difficult times by listening or simply lighting a candle in church for them.

"Just the support part of it from Doc is what is the most important thing," said Olczyk, who leaned on Emrick when he was battling cancer. "He doesn't even have to say anything, but if you just get a text or a picture or whatever, you know he's thinking about you. Having been through it himself, that's what friends do. I look at Doc as a friend."

Emrick is 28 years removed from prostate cancer. He got the call from Hershey Medical Center on a Friday night while he was on the road in Montreal doing play by play for the Philadelphia Flyers. He waited two days to tell Joyce in person — saying she was going to need to be a rock because he didn't know what to expect — but right away he told Clement, who considers Emrick as close as a brother.

Clement's admiration for Emrick as a broadcaster rivals only that for Doc the human being.

"When you listen to him on the air or see him on the air, he's a real person," Clement said. "He's a real person with an unbelievable gift that he grew himself to describe and to use the English language."

Ah yes, Emrick's style.

Hockey moves fast and all of its play-by-play announcers need to keep up. Doc loves his verbs — one fan famously counted 153 used in one game — and finding fun or interesting ways to describe the action. A pass isn't just a pass to Emrick — the puck was squibbed, rifled, wanded, even soccered and the puck isn't just stopped by a goaltender, it's waffleboarded, gloved or stucked away. Goals usually get a big "And he scorrerrrrrrrrres!" from Emrick to match the moment and his deep knowledge of the game allows him to get just as excited by the little things that can turn a game — a puck ringing off a post, an a oh-so-close pass, a jaw-dropping save.

"Doc pushes himself to reinvent things and to be the best and to try new things and be different and yet not be a caricature," Clement said.

Never is he off the rails. No less an admirer than the late Frank DeFord described Emrick as "a connoisseur" whose eloquence is somehow the perfect balance for the frantic, scrambling nature of hockey.

Albert was a statistician for Emrick for games in the 1980s and used to write down quintessential Doc phrases he'd eventually take pieces of and he sat behind him during the call of Sidney Crosby's golden goal at the 2010 Olympics. Whenever Doc and Joyce Emrick decide he should call it a career, Albert may be the most likely person to succeed him as the top NBC Sports hockey play-by-play guy. That day does not seem imminent.

The Emricks don't have kids but have raised several dogs always referred to as their canine children. He skipped the 2002 Olympics because one of their 4-year-old dogs, Katie, was sick; the Emricks have named two of their dogs Liberty after the veterinary surgeon who tried to save Katie. Emrick's love for dogs, minor league hockey and the Pirates is far better known than his faith and involvement with hockey ministries, a huge part of his life.

"He doesn't come across as super religious or come off as judgmental," Resch said. "But that's really what motivates him. He's got a calling on a lot of different levels. ... He doesn't want to let anyone down."

Emrick doesn't know when he was "destined" to do this but his place in hockey broadcasting is clear.

"He's a guy that's found a way to become a major part of sports in the United States," Davidson said. "He's worked for everything. He doesn't want to be treated like a superstar, but he is in his own field."

Emrick certainly gets the superstar treatment around the rink or at the airport when people ask for a photo or an autograph. As long as it doesn't keep him from his work, Emrick has always obliged. Now going year to year on the decision of whether to call another season, Emrick has so far kept rolling.

"I always do," he said, "because I'll miss it when it doesn't happen."

Ump Hallion leaves Giants-Mets game after hit by foul ball

NEW YORK (AP) — Plate umpire Tom Hallion was forced to leave the game between the San Francisco Giants and New York Mets on Tuesday night soon after he was hit in the mask by a foul ball off the bat of Todd Frazier with one out in the fourth inning.

Hallion was hurt on Madison Bumgarner's 3-1 pitch to Frazier. Hallion finished the inning as Frazier singled and Amed Rosario grounded into a double play, then was replaced behind the plate in the fifth by Vic Carapazza, who had been at second base. The game resumed after a 10-minute delay with a three-man crew.

Frazier fouled off a pitch in the second inning at

UCLA tops Oklahoma to win 13th national title

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — UCLA is back on top. Kinsley Washington's RBI single in the bottom of the seventh inning lifted the Bruins past Oklahoma 5-4 on Tuesday night, and UCLA won the championship series 2-0.

It is the Bruins' 13th national title, 12th NCAA title and first championship since 2010.

"The history is as old as dirt," said UCLA coach Kelly Inouye-Perez, who has been with the program in some capacity for three decades. "I'm so proud to be a part of it, player, assistant, head coach. This is about the here and now."

This is about UCLA softball in 2019.
