HC 'non-suited' from TCEQ lawsuit

By ROGER CLINE
 Staff Writer

Howard College has just been released as a defendant in a lawsuit brought by the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality for dealings with a company more than 25 years ago.

Howard President Dr. Cheryl Sparks broke the good news to the Howard College Board of Trustees at their meeting Monday.

"There was a company in San Angelo that had been around for many years that had a problem with environmental waste," Sparks said. "Their name was 'SESCO,' (San Angelo Electric Service Company) and they ended up filing bankruptcy because of the situation they had with the environmental problem. What ended up happening, TCEQ literally got all the invoices of all the companies...anyone that had purchased anything from them. Because TCEQ was trying to recover the cost of the cleanup at the site, anyone that had used SESCO – and we're talking 1993, that's how old – you were pulled into the lawsuit. So we had to go back and look through old files, went down in the basement and looked at old information, and we didn't have anything on the site. We purchased a transformer from SESCO and it was installed on-site."

Sparks said Howard has been "non-suited," meaning TCEQ has removed the college from the list of defendants in the lawsuit.

"There was a hearing about two months ago," she said. "I attended the hearing along with others, and our attorneys were with me. Basically the TCEQ lined out what they were doing, and then each individual defendant had to present their own individual case. That's what our attorneys did, and based on the evidence that we found from going through the files, they non-suited us."

The board responded to the announcement with elation and a round of applause.

In other business, Sparks told the board about special recognitions for a couple of Howard student athletes.

Lady Hawk Amanda Gonzalez has won the 2019 Schutt Sports/NFCA NJCAA I National Player of the Year.

"Amanda, she got the Division I National Player of the Year," Sparks said.

"She was selected by their All-American Committee. They choose one of 16 first-team All-Americans for the honor. We're very proud of her."

While the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo was going on locally this weekend, a Howard College rodeo star was up in Wyoming competing at nationals.

"Dalton Kasel, he is our rodeo student that got second in the nation," she said. "We're very proud of him. That was in Casper, Wyoming. He did great."

Kasel competed in the 2019 College National Finals Rodeo over the weekend. The event drew more than 400 competitors from more than 100 two- and four-year colleges and universities from around the country. An article by Howard College and a video of his final 81.5-point ride can be found at www.hchawk.com/#!/dalton-kasel-competes-in-the-2019-cnfr.

In other business, the College Board:

- Held a planning workshop Monday morning.
- Discussed year-end budget expenditures for Big Spring, Lamesa, San Angelo and SWCD campuses.
- Heard an update on bathroom renovations recently undertaken at the Lamesa campus.
- Approved a bid for safety and security cameras and a door access system at the San Angelo campus.

Star Dodge helps Fill the Boot with local firefighters

Star Chrysler Dodge Jeep Ram of Big Spring partnered with the Big Spring Firefighters Fill the Boot Campaign in May. Star CDJR pledged to donate $100 for every vehicle sold during the month of May, and the donation check was presented last week to the firefighters. According to General Manager Clint Fox, the total donation made was $6,400. Pictured are members of the Big Spring Fire Department and MDA Ambassador Shylah Cutbirth.

Commissioners to meet Wednesday

By ROGER CLINE
 Staff Writer

Howard County Commissioners will meet Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. in the second floor conference room of the Howard County Courthouse, 300 S. Main St.

During the meeting, commissioners will:

- Discuss, and possibly request pharmacy service bids for the Howard County Detention Center, and for the County Indigent

Health Care/Welfare and Juvenile Probation programs, for fiscal year 2019-20.

- Discuss and possibly approve invoices, purchase requests, and budget amendments.
- Discuss and possibly accept the monthly financial report.
- Accept the presentation of an unemployment reserve refund check from the Texas Association of Counties.
- Consider granting approval to send the quarterly unemployment payment.

- Consider personnel considerations.
- Discuss and possibly take action on roadway maintenance updates.

If you would like to address the Howard County Commissioners' Court, plan to arrive a few minutes before the meeting begins to fill out a brief form alerting the commissioners to your intent to speak. Contact County Judge Kathryn Wiseman at 432-264-2202 for more information.

Komen North Texas and Komen West Texas joins forces, expands to serve Greater North Texas and Panhandle area

PLANO, TX – June 11, 2019 – Susan G. Komen® North Texas (based in Plano, Texas) and Susan G. Komen® West Texas (based in Amarillo and Lubbock) announced today that they are joining forces and will operate moving forward as one entity. As part of this effort, the new Susan G. Komen® North & West Texas will also expand their reach to include sixteen additional counties that previously were not served by a Komen Affiliate.

“We are excited about the potential for improved support and increased focus on fulfilling our mission this merger provides,” said Mary Frances Hoover, executive director of the new Komen North & West Texas. “Together, our two Komen Affiliates have provided funding for breast health education, screening, and treatment services for area women and men for the past three decades. During that time, we have enabled thousands of Texans to receive life-saving access to breast health programs, saving hundreds of lives. As proud as we are about what we have accomplished separately, we are confident that working together we can increase that impact.”

During the past year, Komen North Texas and Komen West Texas have worked closely together, along with community partners, on a plan to increase efficiencies and better serve women and men who desperately need the support of Susan G. Komen. As a result of those discussions, Komen North Texas (serving 13 counties) and Komen West Texas (serving 62 counties) have agreed to join forces under the name Susan G. Komen North & West Texas.

In addition to the counties currently served by the two Affiliates, the new Komen North & West Texas will expand its support to women and men in 16 additional counties (see service area map). Breast health services are extremely limited in these counties and were not previously supported locally by a Komen Affiliate. While the Komen Affiliates did provide educational and informational resources to women and men in these counties, by adding these counties to the new Affiliate service area, Komen North & West Texas can now provide life-saving breast health services, such as screening, treatment assistance and patient navigation, for the women and men who live there. Additionally, by modifying its existing rural outreach programs, Komen North & West Texas can immediately impact education and awareness in these communities, with the goal of increasing early detection.

“We strongly believe that by taking this step, we are better serving our communities and doing the most good for the most people,” said Hoover. “We know we cannot do any of this without the generosity of our sponsors, donors, and fundraisers. We’ve taken measures to ensure that this operational consolidation doesn’t change the things that matter most to our supporters.”

For example: Donations will still fund local breast health programs and organizations.

Innovative local mission initiatives and programs, including breast health education, screening, and treatment programs, will continue to be central to our mission. Funds will be invested in high-impact programs targeted to increase screening rates and early detection rates, improve access to treatment, reduce barriers to care through patient navigation and treatment assistance, and provide community resource navigation.

We will continue to invest in groundbreaking breast cancer research through Komen’s national research grants program.

The unified Affiliate will continue to hold its signature events: North Texas Race for the Cure, Wichita Falls Race for the Cure, Amarillo More Than Pink Walk, and Lubbock More Than Pink Walk.

The Komen grants review process will remain the same: an independent panel of community leaders will review grants applications and determine the best way to fund Komen North & West Texas’ priority areas for where breast health program funding is most needed.

“Each Susan G. Komen Affiliate was started by a few caring people who wanted to make a difference in their communities. Built on this foundation of generosity, strength, determination and passion for the cause, we look toward a bright future in which we expand our pink footprint to help everyone in North Texas and the panhandle fight breast cancer,” concluded Hoover.

ABOUT SUSAN G. KOMEN® AND KOMEN NORTH & WEST TEXAS

Susan G. Komen is the world’s largest breast cancer organization, funding more breast cancer research than any other nonprofit while providing real-time help to those facing the disease. Komen was founded in 1982 by Nancy G. Brinker, who promised her sister, Susan G. Komen, that she would end the disease that claimed Suzy’s life. Komen North & West Texas is working to better the lives of those facing breast cancer in the local community. Through events like the Race for the Cure®, Komen North & West Texas has invested nearly $20 million in community breast health programs in its 91-county service area and has helped contribute to the more than $988 million invested globally in research.

Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board to Receive $150 Million for Flood Control Dam Infrastructure Projects

TEMPLE – Projects to repair and rehabilitate flood control structures across Texas will now be funded thanks to a $150 million appropriations bill legislators passed this session. The Governor signed the bill into law on June 6, 2019. These structures serve as a critical protection for our state’s infrastructure, private property, and lives. The State appropriated the funds to the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board (TSSWCB) to administer through grants to the local sponsors of Flood Control Dams, including Soil and Water Conservation Districts (SWCDs).

“The primary purpose of these Flood Control Dams is to protect lives and property by reducing the velocity of floodwaters, thereby reducing flows to a safer rate,” said Barry Mahler, TSSWCB Chairman.

The Texas Legislature also addressed statewide flooding issues with the passage of Senate Bill 8, authored by Senator Charles Perry, which creates the first State Flood Plan for Texas. Partnering with the Texas Water Development Board, TSSWCB will incorporate earthen dams as part of the bigger picture for flood mitigation strategies, establishing a ten-year plan to have all high-hazard dams meeting high-hazard safety standards.

Senator Perry has been an advocate for addressing the State’s earthen dam funding saying, “The funding of the earthen dam program is a responsible, and proactive measure to ensuring the safety of the citizens of the state as we continue to grow into areas which once had little development.”

Currently there are 2,041 dams which were originally built by the United States Department of Agriculture - Natural Resources Conservation Service (USDA-NRCS) through federal programs in Texas with the understanding that local sponsors would supply operation and maintenance. Local sponsors include Soil and Water Conservation Districts (a subdivision of state government), cities, counties, water control improvement districts, river authorities, and other special purpose districts.

“TSSWCB recognizes the monumental importance in the upkeep of flood control structures and is proud that the Legislature chose to make a significant investment to safeguard a critical element of the State’s infrastructure,” said Rex Isom, TSSWCB Executive Director and current Chairman of the National Watershed Coalition.

There are 622 dams that are classified as high hazard, meaning there is a potential loss of life if the dam fails; however, only 123 of these meet high hazard criteria. That means that currently 499 dams need rehabilitation and upgrade to meet safety criteria that will adequately protect lives downstream totaling over $1.5 billion, including anticipated federal and local match over a ten-year period.

Established by the Texas Legislature in 1939, the TSSWCB is governed by seven board members, all of which are actively involved in agriculture or silviculture. Five of the board members are voted in by a delegation of their local peers, and two board members are appointed by the Governor of Texas.

TSSWCB works in conjunction with local SWCDs across Texas to encourage the wise and productive use of natural resources. TSSWCB is the lead agency for planning, implementing, and managing coordinated natural resource conservation programs for preventing and abating agricultural and silvicultural nonpoint sources of water pollution. TSSWCB also works to ensure that the State’s network of over 2,000 flood control dams are protecting lives and property by providing operation, maintenance, and structural repair grants to local government sponsors.

Desiree "Dirty Dez" Yanez improves to 5-1 in her MMA career

Courtesy photos

BSHS graduate Desiree "Dirty Dez" Yanez continues to impress as she moved to 5-1 as a fighter with a third round technical submission of her opponent Paulina Vargas this past weekend for her fourth straight victory. With the win Desiree moved up the rankings in a big way. Yanez is now ranked as the #1 pound for pound women's fighter in the state of Texas as ranked by Tapology and has moved up to the #5 fighter in the Southwest as well as the #16 fighter in the United States. Congratulations to Desiree on another great win!

Tomorrow's Horoscope

LEO BY HOLIDAY MATHIS SCORPIO

(July 23-Aug. 22).

You'll make it about the other person, not because it's generous or friendly, but because it's the smartest way to go about getting what you want. Everything is a trade. Find out what the other person would like to get out of it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). What you have is perfectly suited to solving another person's problem. Your effort is better spent finding that person with whom you share compatible needs than trying to change yourself for someone who's a bad fit anyway.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You see yourself as an advisor who wants to help. From this position, you can go so many more places than a person who's only on a mission to fulfill his or her own agenda.

(Oct. 24-Nov. 21). A single cloud can hide the whole of the sun. One wrong or unhelpful thought could be the equivalent of such a cloud. Recognize dark ideas. Flood them with light or entreat the winds of change to blow them away.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You'll do well to choose your mode and stick with it, as today is all about establishing trust. People will appreciate knowing what to expect from you. Settle into a tone, and then play it through to the end.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). It's certainly not difficult to convince you to do a good deed. In fact, you feel quite acutely the need to serve and be helpful. Just be careful to give to people who need it instead of people who just enjoy the feeling of being served.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). When you dedicate a certain amount of time and attention to self-care, it's not really for vanity's sake. When you look good, you make everyone you associate with look good, too.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). No one else can tell you what beauty is, though many will try. You'll be bombarded with images that suggest that one way is preferred and other ways are out. Don't believe them. Trust your own eyes and heart.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (June 25). This year represents a magical crossing. You start out in one territory and end up in an altogether foreign realm, a changed person. There's an August priority shift, brought on by a period of greater financial ease. You'll change your style and enjoy relating to a new group. Family success will be a rising tide that carries all boats. Libra and Aries adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 8, 3, 19, 20 and 4.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

ANSWER:

Annie's Mailbox

Feeling Obligated to See Grandfather

Dear Annie: My grandfather was violently abusive to his wife, and then his daughter (my mother), and then to me. He was also very racist -- he punished me for having a black friend in grade school -- and just generally cruel.

Now, his health is not so good, and his old age has mellowed him out considerably. He can still have temper rages if provoked enough, but most of the time he is calm.

The problem is that everyone in my family keeps urging me to spend more time with him "before he's gone." Everyone else is content with sweeping the way he treated us under the rug and brushing it off as "that's just how he is." Even my mom adores him, despite the things he did to her.

The thing is that I have no desire to see him again. I've visited before out of familial obligation, and I was uncomfortable the whole time. He's never apologized for his behavior or the way he treated us, and he still thinks everything is either his way or the highway. I don't wish him any ill will, I just don't want to see him. Am I wrong to feel this way? -- Guilted Granddaughter

Dear Guilted:

The answer to the question "Am I wrong to feel this way?" is always no. Feelings, in themselves, are never wrong. It is our actions that fall under the categories of right and wrong, actions such as behaving cruelly and abusively toward vulnerable people. What your grandfather did -- not just across years but across generations -- was wrong. And it's easier for your family to engage in collective amnesia than to acknowledge that it happened.

It sounds as though you've made peace with this traumatic history and aren't harboring any anger toward him -- that you've made the decision not to see him out of love for yourself, not hatred for him. I commend you for doing all the emotional legwork it must have taken to reach that point. Hopefully, your mom will understand and meet you where you are eventually. In the meantime, know that you are not wrong.

Dear Annie: I read with interest the letter from the brother whose sister has Obsessive-Compulsive Personality Disorder. My husband has that diagnosis. He was motivated to change because, although he had no insight into his behavior, he wanted to keep our marriage intact. He had therapy with a fantastic therapist (I went with him sometimes) with no appreciable change, over two years. The therapist referred him to an excellent psychiatrist, who diagnosed him with OCPD.

The only way to treat this disorder is with medication. My husband takes an anti-depressant, not for depression but because it's an off-label treatment. And it works! It's not perfect; he still is stubborn and compulsive/rigid sometimes, but it changed the whole dynamic for the better. And he has some insight into his behavior, best of all. Our marriage has been terrific for many years now.

I realize the sister is not motivated, but perhaps all her unpleasant consequences could motivate her to go to a psychiatrist. Hope so! -- Been There, Came Out the Other Side

Dear Been There:

Changing the dynamic from rigid to a little more relaxed is wonderful, and I congratulate you and your husband for keeping at it and finding a good psychiatrist who really helped. Thanks for sharing your story.

Dble

Opening lead — jack of spades.

The night Sylvia played in her first duplicate tournament was a night to remember. She had been a member of the club for only two or three weeks, but even in that short period of time the membership had become aware of her extraordinary exploits.

It wasn't that Sylvia was a poor player — we had lots of them — it was just that her thought processes were so different from those of any other player. Her mistakes were so far removed from ordinary human error that it was clear her approach to the game was totally unique.

Despite this, Sylvia's frequent misadventures occasionally resulted in a sensational triumph, and it was these victories that made her the most talked-about member of the club.

A few of the members were opposed to allowing Sylvia to play in the duplicate for fear she would spoil the game, but most were in favor of the idea. They were curious to see what would happen, and they didn't have long to wait. On the very first board, Sylvia became declarer at six spades on the hand shown, and West led the jack of spades.

It is hard to explain what happened next. I don't know whether it was the excitement of playing in her first duplicate that caused her to do what she did, but the fact is that Sylvia played the two from dummy!

This astonishing play was greeted by a strange and eerie silence on all sides. West then shifted to a club. Sylvia took the ace, cashed the ace of diamonds, played a spade to the queen, ruffed a diamond, played a spade to the king and ruffed another diamond, establishing dummy's last three diamonds. She then led a spade to the ace and discarded three clubs on the 10-7-6 of diamonds to make the contract.

Of course, if she had won the opening lead with one of dummy's honors, she would have gone down!

Tomorrow: The better way.

Teary-eyed Antetokounmpo wins NBA MVP honors

By BETH HARRIS

AP Sports Writer

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — The Milwaukee Bucks fell two games short of the NBA Finals.

They won big at the NBA Awards.

A tearful Giannis Antetokounmpo earned Most Valuable Player honors, Mike Budenholzer won Coach of the Year, and Jon Horst took Executive of the Year on Monday night in Santa Monica.

Antetokounmpo, a 24-year-old forward from Greece, beat out Paul George of Oklahoma City and James Harden of Houston, who won last year.

Antetokounmpo was a resounding winner. He received 941 points and 78 first-place votes in the balloting — 165 points more than Harden.

Harden finished second with 776 points and 23 first-place votes.

"MVP is not about stats and numbers, and obviously James Harden had unbelievable numbers and Paul George also, but obviously it's about winning," Antetokounmpo said backstage. "We created great habits throughout the season and were able to stick by them, and that's why we were able to have a chance in every single game we played and were able to win 60 games."

The show had an international flair, with three international players besides Antetokounmpo winning.

Antetokounmpo averaged 27.7 points and 12.5 rebounds while earning All-NBA first-team honors this season, his sixth with the Bucks. He led the franchise to the best record in the regular season and the Bucks reached the Eastern Conference finals.

Tears rolled down his cheeks as Antetokounmpo thanked his mother Veronica and brothers in the audience at Barker Hanger. He credited his late father for pushing him toward his goals and his teammates and coaching staff for their help.

"We started from nothing as a family," he said, "and we are going to be in every stage that we can be as a family."

Antetokounmpo said backstage that he had vowed to his family he wasn't going to cry.

"When you hear your name up there on the stage and then you realize these years of hard work, what you did in the past, then you start getting emotional," he said.

Budenholzer also got choked up while thanking his family after his second coaching honor. He earned the trophy for the first time with Atlanta in 2015.

He guided the Bucks to a 60-22 record in the regular season in his first year with the franchise, leading them to the Eastern Conference finals, where they lost to eventual NBA champion Toronto.

"What they did on the court this year, including the playoffs, was special," Budenholzer said backstage. "We weren't good enough in the end, but we certainly feel like we have enough talent, we have enough character to be a team that's playing in the finals and winning a championship."

Budenholzer also coached Team Giannis in the All-Star Game last season.

He beat out Denver's Mike Malone and Doc Rivers of the Los Angeles Clippers.

Horst was honored in voting by his fellow NBA executives, while the six biggest awards were determined in voting by a global media panel.

Lou Williams was voted the Sixth Man of the Year for the second season in a row and third time in his career, tying former Los Angeles Clipper guard Jamal Crawford.

The guard won for the first time in 2015 with Toronto.

Williams beat out teammate Montrezl Harrell, with whom he formed the highest-scoring bench duo in NBA history last season, and Domantas Sabonis of Indiana.

Williams became the career leader in points off the bench during the season.

"This one was different because I kind of went into the season wanting this one. In years past I always just played and lived with whatever happened," he said. "I felt like this one was going to be a legacy piece."

Rudy Gobert of the Utah Jazz won Defensive Player of the Year for the second straight season.

The 26-year-old center from France beat out Antetokounmpo and George.

"I never thought I would be able to do that when I started basketball playing in France," Gobert said backstage. "I didn't know an NBA player, I didn't know nothing about basketball. I was just having fun."

Pascal Siakam of the NBA champion Toronto Raptors earned Most Improved Player.

The 25-year-old from Cameroon averaged 16.9 points and started 79 of 80 regular-season games for the Raptors in his third year with the team.

Siakam had 26 20-point outings after scoring 20 points in a game only once in his first two seasons. He then scored 32 points in Game 1 of the NBA Finals.

Siakam beat out De'Aaron Fox of Sacramento and D'Angelo Russell of Brooklyn.

Luka Doncic of the Dallas Mavericks easily won Rookie of the Year.

The 20-year-old small forward from Slovenia accepted his trophy from RJ Barrett, who went to the New York Knicks as the No. 3 pick in the NBA draft last week.

Doncic was the No. 3 pick last year.

The other finalists were DeAndre Ayton of Phoenix and Trae Young of Atlanta.

Larry Bird and Magic Johnson shared the Lifetime Achievement Award.

The former rivals took turns holding their trophies while each other spoke.

Bird said the NBA is in good hands with today's talented athletes and he urged them to keep the game the same so it continues on for future generations.

Johnson starred for the Los Angeles Lakers and Bird with the Boston Celtics.

Mike Conley Jr., newly traded to the Utah Jazz, claimed trophies for Teammate and Sportsmanship of the Year.

Conley earned the awards for his 12-year tenure with the Memphis Grizzlies.

Bradley Beal of the Washington Wizards received the NBA Cares Community Assist honor.

Surprising 1st half for Rangers: 'Totally on us' to sustain

By STEPHEN HAWKINS

AP Baseball Writer

ARLINGTON, Texas — Chris Woodward loves that the expectations are higher for the Texas Rangers.

They are certainly higher than they were when the first-time manager took over a team coming off consecutive losing seasons.

"Whether that lasts and we sustain that, it's totally on us," Woodward said. "Do we have a team that we feel like can win every game? We do, and they truly believe that."

After 21 games in 20 days, the Rangers got to their first day off in three weeks Monday. The are 42-36 and have lost only one of their last 12 series since a five-game losing streak that dropped them five games under .500 in mid-May.

While three games shy of the midpoint of Woodward's first season, and still a bit early to talk about playoffs, the Rangers were only a half-game behind the American League's second wildcard.

"There's no question there's a lot of room for growth in every player in that locker room, but the overall belief is that we're going to win a game every time we step on the field," he said. "That's the start to changing the culture of, 'Hey, we're a winning organization, we're a winning team, we're going to be here for a while.'"

The Rangers open a three-game series Tuesday at Detroit, where the finale Thursday will mark the 81st game of their 162-game regular season.

Slugger Joey Gallo (.276, 17 home runs, 41 RBIs) is expected to be activated from the injured list and play in the opener for the first time since a left oblique strain on June 1. Veteran right-hander Jesse Chavez, who has been a valuable reliever, moves into a starting role — and not like other starts this season, when he pitched the first inning or so as an "opener" before another pitcher came in the game.

The Rangers will be without third baseman Asdrubal Cabrera, who will serve a three-game suspension for throwing equipment on the field that hit an umpire after he was ejected from a game last Thursday. He initially appealed after getting a four-game suspension from Major League Baseball, but will now miss the Tigers series.

Elvis Andrus said Woodward has had a huge part in the resurgence for Texas, which went from consecutive AL West titles to a 78-85 record in 2017 and then 95 losses last season. The 30-year-old shortstop and longest-tenured Ranger in his 11th season described Woodward "a really good upgrade for the team."

Woodward spent the past three seasons as third base coach for the Los Angeles Dodgers, who went to the World Series each of the past two years. The 42-year-old manager was a utility player during 12 seasons as a big leaguer with Toronto, the New York Mets, Seattle, Atlanta and Boston, playing for 11 different managers.

"His personality goes along with our team. He feels like another player here in the clubhouse more than a manager with his presence. He communicates really well with each player. He talks to a lot of guys," Andrus said. "He knows how it feels if you're struggling, if you're doing good. So I think he's really a detail person. He's always looking around, trying to find a way to help whoever needs it. He's so positive."

Those 21 games included their first winning road trip of the season, when the Rangers split a four-game series in Boston before winning two of three at Cincinnati.

They followed that by splitting four games at home last week with the Cleveland Indians, the team a half-game ahead of them for the second wild card. Nomar Mazara then hit three homers, including one measured at 505 feet by MLB, and two doubles while the Rangers took two of three from the Chicago White Sox at home over the weekend.

"Our belief doesn't have to change. We've withstood a five-game losing streak. We've withstood three or four four-game losing streaks. Everybody wrote us off at some point here and there," Woodward said. "We don't get wrapped up in everything else. We just say, 'How do we beat this team today?'"

If the Rangers keep doing that at the pace they have been, they could be a real surprise in September.
