cap in order to have two other vehicles arrive to commit the unknown

Thankfully to good instincts by the female complainant and by being vigilant regarding her surroundings, she was able to leave the area unharmed and without an offense being committed.

The Big Spring Police Department has obtained the surveillance video in regards to the incident which was of poor quality due to the distance of the vehicles and low light but we were able to substantiate the female callers story of helping another female with a gas cap issue when two other vehicles are seen meeting on the property. It was not able fundraiser idea, Peyton decided to create a book and the idea blossomed from there."

Peyton, in just a short time, wrote The Fox and The Butterflies while her grandmother provided the illustration. According to Monette, the book is about a fox who is playing in the meadows and gets injured. After being injured the fox has to spend some time in the hospital, where she receives a stuffed animal. Once recovered Fox ends up back in the meadows chasing butterflies again. "Last year they were able to raise a couple hundred dollars and donated it to the hospital," she said. "This year, her goal is to raise enough money to donate between 100 and 150 books and stuffed animals to the children at the hospital." The fundraiser began Sept. 15 and will continue

Jeremiah Ybarra lit up the score board with three passing touchdowns and one rushing touchdwon. Jayden Burciaga had a great day chiming in with 100-plus receiving yards and a touchdown. Jose Munoz Caught a 10 yard touchdown. Michael Munoz made a great read on a 40-yard

The 8th grade A Steers started slow and finished strong, but came up short 28-35 to Wall. Key players were Keyshaun Woodruff with a receiving touchdown and Bailey Simpson and Ezekiel Carreon, both with a touchdown catches. The team played lockdown defense.

Kyle Gay made a game-changing play by forcing a fumble to keep the Steers in the game. Jimmy Johnson put the team in great field position with a 40-yard fumble return, and Gavin Padron showed off his arm and athletic ability with touchdown passes.

Cowboys find yards harder to gain in 12-10 loss to Saints

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Dallas' dominance of overmatched opponents in its opening three games didn't seem to prepare the Cowboys well for a prime time road matchup with an NFC contender.

New Orleans limited running back Ezekiel Elliot to 35 yards on 18 carries, quarterback Dak Prescott failed to connect on big plays and the Cowboys made too many costly mistakes, losing 12-10 to New Orleans despite holding the Saints without a touchdown.

"They've got a good front and that's a good defense, but we simply didn't execute," Prescott said. "We just continued to step on our own feet and hurt ourselves."

The Cowboys had scored at least 31 points in wins against the New York Giants, Washington and Miami, teams with a combined record of 2-10.

Against the Saints, who improved to 3-1, they barely reached double digits.

Prescott blamed himself for a pair of bookend errors. Scrambling to his left in the first quarter, he led receiver Randall Cobb too far on a third-down throw after Cobb broke free in the back of the end zone. The Cowboys settled for a field goal.

"I have to make that pass," Prescott said. "We just left a lot of plays out there tonight, and it showed."

left, Prescott was sacked on the opening play,

When Dallas got the ball at its 14-yard line with 1:39 left in the game and zero timeouts costing the Cowboys too much time.

"That was a terrible decision taking that sack," he said. "That's rule one on two-minute drives, especially without a timeout."

The Cowboys also coughed up the ball on back-to-back possessions in the first half.

Tight end Jason Witten lost a fumble when he was stripped by linebacker A.J. Klein near midfield after catching a pass over the

"That was a terrible turnover on my part," Witten said. "It's a basic, fundamental play. Line one for playing tight end is catching the ball over the middle and securing the catch. You have to be able to protect the ball. When you have one like that, it's hard to overcome."

Elliot then fumbled on a fourth-and-1 run from the Dallas 43, leading to a New Orleans field goal on the last play of the half.

Elliot's 1.9 average per carry was the second-lowest of his career, beating only the 0.9 he managed on eight rushes against Denver in 2017.

"It was a tag-team deal," center Travis Frederick said. "On one play one person had something wrong and everybody else was good and the next play somebody else took a turn making a mistake.'

Prescott remained perfect for the year in the third quarter, going 6 of 6 on the Cowboys' lone touchdown drive to extend his mark to 28 of 28 for 457 yards and three touchdowns though four games

Dobbs places 11th at ACU Invitational

ABILENE — Serena Dobbs raced to 11th place at the Abilene Christian University Invitational cross country meet held on Saturday.

Although she just missed out on a medal, her performance at the competition was impressive considering this was the first time the Coahoma High School freshman competed in the 5K competition instead of the regular two mile race. She clocked in at 22 minutes, 20 seconds.

The CHS boys also show improvement in their performance. Overall, the team placed fifth at the meet.

"Our times are getting better from week to week, and we are getting better as a team," said Cross Country Coach Joe Mire-

Leading the way for Coahoma was Hector Colon-Rivera. He placed 26th with a race time of 19 minutes, 45 seconds. Following close on his heels was teammate Ethan Biddison who crossed the line in 27th place with a time of 20 minutes, 1 second. Tanner Atkins was just 15 seconds behind Biddison with a time of 20 minutes, 16 seconds. He ended the race in 28th.

Rounding out the results for the CHS boys team were Madson Hudgins in 39th place with a time of 21 minutes, 27 seconds and D'Kota Harrison in 42nd. Harrison clocked a time of 23 minutes, 20 seconds. Next: The cross country team will compete at the O'Donnell

The bidding: West North East South 1 🛊 Dble

Opening lead — king of spades. This deal was played in an international pair championship. With Walter Avarelli and Massimo D'Alelio of Italy North-South, and Kenneth Konstam and Maurice Harrison-Gray of England East-West, the bidding went as shown Harrison-Gray, West, led the king of spades, on which Konstam, East, played the nine! Ordinarily, the nine an unnecessarily high spot card would be regarded as a request for West to continue the suit. That's how almost everyone plays, and that's how Harrison-Gray interpreted the nine. But when he led another spade, D'Alelio ruffed and made the contract, discarding a diamond on dummy's fourth club. A diamond shift would, of course, have done South

Obviously, Harrison-Gray and Konstam were operating on different wavelengths. Konstam intended the spade nine as a signal for a diamond shift — the higher-ranking of the two side suits (clubs and diaremaining monds). This was consistent with the suit-préference signals Konstam normally played in situations of this

It can be argued that Harrison-Gray should have led a diamond at trick two anyway — despite what he thought was a come-on signal in spades — because he could gauge from the bidding that declarer probably had no more spades.

The answer to this, if we accept Harrison-Gray's contention that there is no such thing as a suit-preference signal at trick one, is that Konstam was requesting a spade continuation simply because he did not want any other suit led.

However, a more practical answer is this: Once two players agree to play together in an important event, they should discuss in advance any and all methods of defense they plan to use. One cannot expect harmonious results when the trombone is playing Sousa and the cello is playing Beethoven.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Unmatched Gifts Causing Resentment

Dear Annie: My son is in his mid-40s, and his wife is in her early 40s. Every year, my wife and I send them a generous check on their birthdays, anniversary and Christmas. They both are successfully employed, so this is not a financial issue. On our birthdays, anniversary and Christmas, we are lucky if we get a greeting card acknowledging the occasion. No flowers for my wife -especially on our anniversary or birthday -- nothing, nada, zilch. I used to remind him that his mother's birthday or anniversary was coming up. Eventually, I realized that he was a grown man and not a little boy anymore. (Sometimes, it takes me a while to realize things!) Recently, my wife and I had an argument concerning this situation. My feeling: We should send a card but forget the check. My wife still wants to send our hard-earned money to these two middle-aged people who, in my opinion, don't appreciate what we have been doing all these years. -- Frustrated

Dear Frustrated Father: Are you giving gifts to your children because you expect something in return or because you want to give to them? Ask yourself whether it feels good to send these presents to your son and daughter-in-law. No matter the age of the person receiving the gift, it is nice to be a contribution. That is my guess as to why your wife still wants to send the check. You are correct that in a perfect world, a son and daughter-in-law would always acknowledge their mother's and father's birthdays. But who knows what is going on in their lives. Instead of reminding him that it is his mother's birthday, directly tell your son that he should get your wife a present or send a card for her birthday. Or have a frank discussion on gift expectations. Remember, no one is perfect, and sometimes even grown children need gentle reminders from their parents on the right way to act.

Dear Annie: I know there are a lot of people who are receiving calls from scammers. I was one of them. It was so frustrating to get up to six calls a day from these people. Finally, I came up with a phrase that has (at least for the last two weeks) stopped the calls. I simply told them that I knew this was a scam call and that they would not get anything from

I hope that other people will be able to use the same phrase and put a stop to these annoying calls. -- Darlene M.

Dear Darlene: This is a massive problem in desperate need of a comprehensive solution. Answering the phone and asking them to stop calling you seems reasonable. It can't hurt, right? Except, apparently, it can: If a scammer (or a robocalling software) randomly dials a number and detects a voice, it has confirmation that that is a working phone number. The same thing can happen if a spammer is sent directly to your voicemail. Then you might end up getting even more spam calls.

I've heard that playing a recording back that says the number has been disconnected can be a crafty way to trick spammers into removing your name from their list. It's crafty but takes a lot of time and effort. Short of that, several apps have arisen as weapons in the battle against robo-spam. They include RoboKiller (which won a prize from the Federal Trade Commission), Truecaller and Hiya. If I hear of any other good tips, I'll print them here.

Today in History

Today is Monday, Sept. 30, the 273rd day of 2019. There are 92 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History: On Sept. 30, 1777, the Continental Congress — forced to flee in the face of advancing British forces - moved to York, Pennsylvania.

On this date:

In 1399, England's King Richard II was deposed by Parliament; he was succeeded by his cousin, Henry of Bolingbroke, who was crowned as King Henry IV.

In 1846, Boston dentist William Morton used ether as an anesthetic for the first time as he extracted an ulcerated tooth from merchant Eben Frost.

In 1938, after co-signing the Munich Agreement allowing Nazi annexation of Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland, British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain said, "I believe it is peace for our time."

In 1939, the first college football game to be televised was shown on experimental station W2XBS in New York as Fordham University defeated Waynesburg College, 34-7.

In 1949, the Berlin Airlift came to an end.

In 1952, the motion picture "This Is Cinerama," which introduced the triple-camera, tripleprojector Cinerama widescreen process, premiered at the Broadway Theatre in New York.

In 1954, the first nuclear-powered submarine, the USS Nautilus, was commissioned by the U.S. Navy.

In 1955, actor James Dean, 24, was killed in a two-car collision near Cholame, California.

In 1962, James Meredith, a black student, was escorted by federal marshals to the campus of the University of Mississippi, where he enrolled for classes the next day; Meredith's presence sparked rioting that claimed two lives.

In 1972, Roberto Clemente hit a double against Jon Matlack of the New York Mets during Pittsburgh's 5-0 victory at Three Rivers Stadium; the hit was the 3,000th and last for the Pirates

In 1988, Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev retired President Andrei A. Gromyko from the Politburo and fired other old-guard leaders in a Kremlin shake-up.

In 2001, under threat of U.S. military strikes, Afghanistan's hard-line Taliban rulers said explicitly for the first time that Osama bin Laden was still in the country and that they knew where his hideout was located. Ten years ago: A powerful earthquake rocked western Indonesia, killing 1,115 people. A Soyuz spacecraft carrying Canadian circus tycoon Guy Laliberte and two crew mates lifted off from Kazakhstan, headed for the International Space Station. Five years ago: Under withering criticism from Congress, Secret Service Director Julia Pierson admitted failures in her agency's critical mission of protecting the president but repeatedly sidestepped key questions about how a knife-carrying intruder penetrated ring after ring of security before finally being tackled deep inside the White House. U.S. and Afghan officials signed a long-delayed security pact to keep nearly 10,000 American forces in Afghanistan beyond the planned final withdrawal of U.S. and international combat forces at the end of the year. The first case of Ebola diagnosed in the U.S. was confirmed in a patient who had recently traveled from Liberia to Dallas. Jerry Brown signed the nation's first statewide ban on single-use plastic bags at grocery and convenience stores.

One year ago: U.S. and Canadian officials announced an agreement for Canada to take part in a revamped North American free trade deal with the U.S. and Mexico; the new agreement would be called the United States-Mexico-Canada Agreement, or USMCA. As part of a new one-week investigation, FBI agents interviewed Deborah Ramirez, one of the three women who had accused Supreme Court nominee Brett Kavanaugh of sexual misconduct. With more than 800 already confirmed dead from an earthquake and tsunami in Indonesia, rescuers struggled to reach additional victims in several large coastal towns.
