Salvation Army angels ready to be adopted

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

Bells will be ringing and trees will be set out with angels adorning them; the Salvation Army is in full Christmas mode as we count down the final few weeks before Christmas Day. Angel Trees are being set out.

"This is our busiest time of the year," Lieutenant Charlsie Godwin said. "We are just trying to do the most good and support from the community is what we rely on."

The trees will be placed around town at participating businesses. There are a total of 365 angels this year and 130 of those are seniors.

Scenic Mountain Medical Center kicked off the Angel Tree season last year, taking the first angel from the angel trees. Families who are on the angel tree will receive their gift selections and a food box for the holiday season. Angel Trees are being placed and ready to have angels selected.

"Our community is such a huge support. Big Spring is filled with people with big hearts," she said. "There are several angels that have already been adopted and the Angel Trees haven't even been set out yet."

According to Godwin, while the angels tend to be taken care of each year, the kids typically go faster than the senior angels. Those wanting to adopt an angel can do so until Dec. 10.

"In the past we've struggled to get all the seniors adopted," Godwin said. Each angel - senior or child - will have a wish list attached so the community will know what they are wishing for this Christmas. There are

Tour of Homes returns through United Way of Big Spring and Howard Co.

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

The United Way of Big Spring and Howard County is gearing up for the first Tour of Homes, set for Dec. 5 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

"This is an idea that one of our board members brought to our attention. Leah Archuleta put the pieces into motion so that we could make this a possibility this year," Christian Fair, Executive Director of the United Way of Big Spring and Howard County, said. "She (Leah) has made it a tradition in her family to attend the Tour of Homes in Midland/Odessa and she offered to help us put this together for Big Spring to enjoy."

According to Fair, there will be six houses featured - Gloria Pierce, Pat Underwood, Christina Segundo, Jeanie Knocke, and Tommy and Laurie Churchwell home and office.

"These sweet families have graciously volunteered to open their homes and transport us to the North Pole,

Tommy Churchwell's office will be one of the featured stops for this year's Tour of Homes, in addition to several other decorated homes throughout the community.

even if it is only for one night," she said. "This is an opportunity to see some beautifully decorated homes and possibly even start a tradition with your family or just simply enjoy a girl's night out."

All of the homes will open their doors at 6 p.m. and those attending are welcome to begin the tour at any of the homes they choose. The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce will host the monthly Alive After 5 event at Hotel Settles that night as well. Members of United Way will be on hand selling tickets to the Tour of Homes

Bulldog Steel hosting Thanksgiving meal

By CINDY PINCH
 Staff Writer

Bulldog Steel will be hosting a Thanksgiving meal for the community on Wednesday, Nov. 27th from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"We are here to support you. We want everyone to enjoy this," Shayla Walisa, with Bulldog Steel, said.

The Thanksgiving meal is free to the public and is the company's way to give back to the community. Bulldog Steel was inspired to host the meal, which is free to the public, after learning about the Big Spring Herald's Thanksgiving baskets. According to Walisa, they wanted to reach out to the community in their own way and came up with the idea.

"It's all about the community, not us," she said.

Bulldog Steel is hoping to feed around 400 people. A seated area will be provided for people to enjoy the meal. To-go boxes will also be available for those who may not be able to stay to eat or for those who have family who can't make it.

"This isn't about us," Walisa said. "We want your company as well (for the holiday)."

Delivering meals, serving kindness

By CINDY PINCH
 Staff Writer

The Salvation Army will be delivering Thanksgiving meals around Big Spring on Thanksgiving Day, November 28th.

"Our mission statement is to meet human need in His name without discrimination," Charlsie Godwin said. "We'll serve anybody who comes through our door."

The meals are one of the many ways the Salvation Army gives back to the community. To sign up, individuals can call the Salvation Army office to give their name and how many are in their household. The last day to sign up to receive meals is November 27th.

"We want people to come together, to help those who are in need in the community," Godwin said.

Volunteers are needed to help prepare the plates and deliver the meals on Thanksgiving day.

The Salvation Army will need volunteers to help prepare the meals Monday through Wednesday leading up to Thanksgiving. They have shifts between 9:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. Those interested in volunteering can call the Salvation Army office to sign up.

"I know it's hard for people. Rather than give a handout, we give them a hand up to move forward," Godwin said.

Passing out Thanksgiving meals is something the Salvation Army does each year to give back to the community.

For more information on signing up to receive a meal on Thanksgiving or to volunteer, call the Salvation Army office at 267-8239.

After all the gifts have been dropped off, there will be time set up to organize the gifts by families and wrap the gifts before they are picked up.

"During the holidays there are several ways the community can get involved," she said. "Even if there are those want to help, but can't afford to purchase gifts they can come out and volunteer their time. All the help we can receive is valuable and is needed to ensure everyone gets to enjoy Christmas this year."

Families will pick up gifts on Dec. 21 from the Salvation Army. Those wanting to find out how to get involved or to volunteer with distribution, call 432-352-2027.

"Big Spring Ford has offered up two vehicles for us to use for the night which will allow us to offer a VIP Package. Those taking advantage of the VIP package will be provided a driver to take them through the tour," Fair said.

The proceeds from the Tour of Homes will go toward the annual campaign goal. According to Fair, United Way has raised about 60 percent of the goal for this year, which is set at $200,000.

"I am confident that we are going to blow the top off this year. We have some great fundraisers still coming up, and we have already had great success with the fundraisers that are under our belt for this year," she said.

Fair continued, "The Tour of Homes event has been a work in progress since last year. It's all coming together really well and it is shaping up to be a fun night. We encourage the community to come out and enjoy this festive evening to get in the Christmas spirit."

Tickets will be available at each of the locations or at the Alive After 5 event. To find out more information, call the local United Way office at 432-267-5201.

BSJH hosts Pay it Forward annual event

Last Tuesday, Nov. 19, around 65 of the BSJHS National Junior Honor Society, STUCO, and Seventh grade cheer students gathered in the cafeteria to pack meals for local food banks. Complex Community Federal Credit Union representatives first talked to the kids about doing good things for others and paying blessings forward. Then, the kids got to work. Through this huge team effort, the kids packed over 6,000 meals for our community! These kids are Steer Strong!

Big Spring Steers handle Lamesa 68-58

By SHAWN MORAN

Herald Sportswriter

The Big Spring Steers traveled to Lamesa High School on Monday Night to take on the Golden Tornadoes. From the opening tip-off, the Steers gained the lead and control of the game and never looked back.

Big Spring was led once again by sharpshooting junior Kyleer Seymore. The Steers offense ran through their high-scoring guard with him knocking down 10 shots from midrange and finishing the contest with 30 points. In the first quarter, Seymore accounted for 11 of the 19 points his team scored and helped the Steers jump out to a 19-14 lead.

"He works his butt off in every game," Steers head coach Kris Hise said. "Today he stayed an extra hour after practice. He deserves that and he gets a lot of people open. He had 30 tonight but he also had some assists and rebounded the ball well."

The extra practice time showed.

In addition to the midrange marksman, senior forward Abel Clark was a force on the board. The big man grabbed rebound after rebound to give his team the ball and came one point and one rebound short of a double-double in the third game of the season.

The Steers varsity experience is noticeable when they take the court. There never seems to be any sense of panic, but when Hise wants his team to step it up in a certain area, the team's urgency to improve is obvious.

Size was at a disadvantage for the Steers on Monday night. Lamesa had several tall, long-arm shooters who, at times, were difficult to contain. Without much size outside of "trash-man" Clark, who does all of the dirty work down-low, the Steers focus their offensive and defensive philosophies on their speed and quickness.

"I thought we played hard and played fast," Hise said. "That's going to be to our advantage every time. Really the only big guy that we had was Abel. Everybody else matched up pretty even and the guys played hard. Every time, that's going to be the biggest thing for us."

Lamesa gave their best shot to close the gap but never came within truly threatening distance of the Steers lead. Hise used his deep bench to keep legs fresh and sub-in whenever his team started to lag. When the Steers needed their best player the most, Seymore stepped up to the challenge and passed with flying colors. The junior drained his last four shots of the game, rebounded strongly, and found the open man on a long outlet pass down the court on multiple occasions.

While the Lamesa fans were attempting to give their team as much of an advantage as possible, the Steers blocked out the noise and finished with a 68-58 win.

Hise and his team will have a quick turnaround on Tuesday night when they face the Andrews

Mustangs at home. In what will most likely be the toughest competition they have faced so far, the Steers will need to hone in on rebounding and not allow the easy inside pass.

"Continue to rebound, continue to be faster than everyone else, and continue to push the ball," Hise said.

UP NEXT: The Steers will host Andrews on Tuesday night at 8:00 at Big Spring High School.

Coahoma Bulldogettes win close game with Forsan 42-40

By STEVE BELVIN

Herald Sports Contributor

The battle for Howard County supremacy goes to the Coahoma Bulldogettes as they came away with a narrow 42-40 win over the Forsan Lady Buffaloes Tuesday afternoon at the Coahoma gym.

The game was a true battle to the end as the game swung back and forth the entire time. Coahoma got off to a fast start as Macy Grant made a three-pointer to start the game, followed by a basket by Forsan's Aubrie Smith. Coahoma then reeled off the next nine points fueled by a three-pointer by Julia Cox, Caitlyn Corley dishing off to Cox for another basket and the Corley picking Rylee Evans' pocket and turning it into a layup. Coahoma led 12-2 with 1:40 left in the first quarter.

The Lady Buffaloes fought back into the game by going on a 6-2 run to end the quarter with Coahoma up 14-8.

The second quarter was a struggle for the Bulldogettes as they could only manage a three-pointer by Grant. Meanwhile Evans and Taryn Spivey heated it up for the Lady Buffaloes from the outside and Forsan took a 20-17 halftime lead.

Forsan stayed a step ahead in the third period. Coahoma took a short lead at 25-22 midway through the quarter thanks to a three-point play by Aby Lopez. Forsan out-scored Coahoma 7-3 the rest of the quarter to go into the final quarter leading 29-28.

Thanks to a three-point barrage by Evans and Spivey, Forsan took a 37-31 advantage with 4:30 left. Coahoma came back and Kate Johnson's basket tied the game at 38-38 at the 2:10 mark. Coahoma made two free throws and got a basket from Madison Rogers.

Trailing 42-40 Forsan still had a chance in the waning seconds. Spivey missed a contested layup and Evans missed a short jumper as time ran out on the Lady Buffaloes.

Forsan coach Lloyd Vedder said, "Both teams were trading blows. It felt like a video game and I was trying to push the right buttons. We made way too many turnovers in the first quarter and we fell behind early. But I did like having the ball at the end. I told the girls we wanted to attack the basket, but if they had a chance for a three - go for it."

Coahoma coach Jim Kinnear said his team got off to a good start. "We had a great first quarter. We kind of let them (Forsan) get back into it. We were not near as intense. But like our motto goes BFND (Bulldogs fight never dies), we didn't die. We got some steals off our press and it turned into points. In the past we would get down. This is a prime example of us not dying."

Corley and Cox paced Coahoma scorers with 10 and nine points respectively. Corley was a terror on defense coming up with five steals. Lopez had a strong game with eight points and seven rebounds.

Guards Evans and Spivey each scored 14 points to lead the Buffaloes.

Forsan falls to 3-6 for the season while Coahoma improves to 4-0.

COAHOMA - Julia Cox 3-2-9; Caitlyn Corley 3-3-10; Madison Rogers 2-1-6; Abby Lopez 2-4-8; Kate Johnson 3-0-6; Macy Grant 2-0-6 totals 15-10-42.

FORSAN -; Rylee Evans 5-3-14; Taryn Spivey 4-3-14; Katelin Colvin 0-0-0; Kaelo Woodall 1-0-2; Wila Hoff 1-2-4; Reagan Phillips 0-0-0; Aubrie Smith 2-0-4; Breanna Elliott 2-0-4; totals 15-8-40.

Full share for World Series champion Nats drops to $382,000

NEW YORK (AP) — A full postseason share on World Series champion Washington was worth $382,358, down from $416,838 for Boston last year and the record $438,902 for Houston in 2017.

The commissioner's office said Tuesday the Nationals voted 61 full shares, more than 14 partial shares and two cash awards. The Red Sox had 66 full shares, more than 10 partial shares and eight cash awards.

The players' pool was nearly $81 million, the third highest behind a record $88 million last year and more than $84 million in 2017.

A share on AL champion Houston was worth $256,030, down from the $262,027 for the Dodgers in 2018 and $259,722 for Los Angeles in 2017.

Full shares were worth $144,025 for St. Louis, $114,367 for the New York Yankees, $37,187 for Minnesota, $36,835 for Tampa Bay, $33,624 for Atlanta, $32,428 for the Dodgers, $18,919 for Oakland and $14,292 for Milwaukee.

The players' pool included 50 percent of the gate receipts from wild-card games and 60 percent each from the first three games of the Division Series and the first four games of the League Championship Series and World Series.

Jackson's 22 PTs leads UTRGV past Texas A&M-International

Tomorrow's Horoscope

BY HOLIDAY MATHIS

Neptune Urges Us Awkwardly Forward

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You have to be pretty secure to let your curiosity lead you out of the known world. Either that, or you have to be bored enough that you feel you don't have anything to lose.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Life is more amazing in the close-range view today. Zoom your lens in, because the best happenings will be so small that less attentive people would miss them. Not you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). There is no good reason to bother with people who are unreceptive to your proposal when there are so many others around who will be very interested in everything you have to offer.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You realize that what you do matters to others. Whatever position you take, they will to adjust to your new position. The reason you are trusted with influence is that you wield it with maturity.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Your pounding heart seems to be giving you the Morse code signal for "turn back now," but this is only ancient biology messing with a contemporary goal. Move through the fear. You can do this.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). In a situation where one person is trying to control the scene, your assertive communication will change the game, restore balance and let everyone know what will and will not be tolerated.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Creativity failing won't be because of a bad idea but a lack of commitment. A silly idea with a full commitment will go over brilliantly, whereas a half-hearted brilliant idea will fall flat.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Even though it's hard enough to reach a goal that can be achieved with a simple, straightforward plan, it's not what appeals to you. The strange problem that no one else wants to deal with will be just your speed today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21).

It's easier to hear "no, not today" than "no, never." It's kinder to sprinkle some spice of hope into the mix. You won't regret leaving the door of possibility open just a crack.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). There will be many benefits from pushing yourself physically. You'll get a rush of good chemistry, clear thoughts and pure energy. You'll be tired when your head hits the pillow, and you'll sleep soundly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You'll be surprised by people's behavior. Factor it into your judgment, but don't make any decisions based on one isolated instance. Who a person is in any moment isn't who they are all of the time.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). We can't cast every role in our lives, but we do get to have control over who goes into some of them. You'll remember why you chose someone, and then continue to choose them for these reasons and more.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Nov. 27). It will be a thrill to participate in privileges you didn't have and couldn't afford when you were younger. You'll pursue an idea that's been gestating for years. You'll enjoy friendly and loving company that also happens to challenge you. Taking part in a competition will motivate lifestyle improvements and travel. Libra and Leo adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 6, 39, 1, 8 and 30.

The bidding:
 West North East South
 1♠ Dble 3♥ 5♣
 Opening lead — four of clubs.

Some of the simplest plays in bridge turn out to be spectacularly successful. For a prime example, consider this deal from a national championship many years ago. West was Julius Rosenblum, one of the founders and for many years president of the World Bridge Federation. South reached five clubs on the bidding shown. As happens so often, the outcome hinged entirely on the opening lead. After considerable thought, Rosenblum chose to lead a trump. As a result, the contract had to go down regardless of how declarer proceeded. When Rosenblum shortly thereafter got on lead with a spade, he led another trump, and South could not score more than 10 tricks. Now let's suppose that Rosenblum had led one of his top spades initially, as most players holding the West hand probably would have done. In that case, South could not have been prevented from ruffing three spades in dummy, and he would have made the contract. Alternatively, had West led his singleton heart, declarer also would have made the contract. Actually, Rosenblum's trump lead was very logical. He reasoned that on the bidding, both North and East were relatively short in spades. This in turn meant that South had spade length and would most likely try to ruff his spades in dummy. So, to reduce dummy's potential ruffing power, Rosenblum decided to lead a trump, and from that point on, declarer was fighting a losing battle.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works:
 Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

ANSWER:

Supportive Sister Doesn't Want to Be Overbearing

Dear Annie: I have a sister who has had six surgeries to beat two types of cancer. She has residual complications but is working forward. I have been with her through all her surgeries and rehab. I live on the West Coast, and she lives on the East Coast. I have called her every day since her first diagnosis. Now that she has had a relapse, she is blocking me out. She is hostile and acts as if she is frustrated with me. I am not sure if I should stop calling and just express that I am here if she needs me. Yet, I don't want her to feel deserted, as she has no friends or family nearby. Not sure how to handle this, Annie. I would appreciate your advice. -- Just Love My Sister

Dear Just Love My

Sister: My heart breaks for both of you. This is a very difficult situation for your whole family. Sometimes hostile and frustrated people are really just scared people. And she is understandably very scared right now. Also, various illnesses, and their associated medications, can exaggerate feelings of anger and hostility. Try to remember the phrase, "Hurt people hurt people." Your sister is in pain right now and pushing you away. It has nothing to do with you and everything to do with what she is facing. Yes, you should absolutely express that you are here for her if she needs you. Ask her what she would like for you to do for her. If it's to limit your calls for the time being, then send her love quietly, either in the form of prayer or meditation. I know it is hard, but try not to take her actions personally. Just let her know how much you love her and that you are available for her in any way she needs.

Dear Annie: I overheard a young mother telling friends that she gives her 1-year-old melatonin at bedtime. She does this so that she can get a good night's sleep. I mentioned this to some other ladies, and they said they had heard of other mothers doing this. I was shocked. We all have natural melatonin that dissipates as we age; hence, age-related sleeping problems are not unusual. I was hoping you would print this and get some answers from medical experts.

I would think this could cause a lifetime of sleeping problems for these children. If the body is prematurely given sleep hormones, then could it stop producing them naturally early on? This is awful. Are medical professionals warning young parents about this? I am not a medical professional, but common sense tells me this is not good. -- A Mother's Intuition

Dear Mother's Intuition: Giving a 1-year-old melatonin -- or any supplements -- without consulting a pediatrician is not a good idea. If you are having trouble getting your child to sleep, then come up with a plan with your medical practitioner. Sleep-training techniques can include creating a bedtime routine, adjusting nap schedules or limiting exposure to light before bed. I would love to hear from pediatricians and children sleep specialists. Thank you for raising the issue.

This Date In History

Today in History
Today is Wednesday, Nov. 27, the 331st day of 2019. There are 34 days left in the year.
Today's Highlight in History: On Nov. 27, 1978, San Francisco Mayor George Moscone (mah-SKOH'-nee) and City Supervisor Harvey Milk, a gay-rights activist, were shot to death inside City Hall by former supervisor Dan White. (White served five years for manslaughter; he committed suicide in Oct. 1985.)
On this date:
In 1901, the U.S. Army War College was established in Washington, D.C.
In 1924, Macy's first Thanksgiving Day parade — billed as a "Christmas Parade" — took place in New York.
In 1942, during World War II, the Vichy French navy scuttled its ships and submarines in Toulon (too-LOHN') to keep them out of the hands of German troops.
In 1945, General George C. Marshall was named special U.S. envoy to China by President Harry S. Truman to try to end hostilities between the Nationalists and the Communists.
In 1962, the first Boeing 727 was rolled out at the company's Renton Plant.
In 1970, Pope Paul VI, visiting the Philippines, was slightly wounded at the Manila airport by a dagger-wielding Bolivian painter disguised as a priest.
In 1973, the Senate voted 92-3 to confirm Gerald R. Ford as vice president, succeeding Spiro T. Agnew, who'd resigned.
In 1998, answering 81 questions put to him three weeks earlier; President Clinton wrote the House Judiciary Committee that his testimony in the Monica Lewinsky affair was "not false and misleading."
In 1989, a bomb blamed on drug traffickers destroyed a Colombian Avianca Boeing 727, killing all 107 people on board and three people on the ground.
In 1999, Northern Ireland's biggest party, the Ulster Unionists, cleared the way for the speedy formation of an unprecedented Protestant-Catholic administra-tion.

In 2000, a day after George W. Bush was certified the winner of Florida's presidential vote, Al Gore laid out his case for letting the courts settle the nation's long-count election.
In 2003, President Bush flew to Iraq under extraordinary secrecy and security to spend Thanksgiving with U.S. troops and thank them for "defending the American people from danger."
Ten years ago: Tiger Woods crashed his SUV outside his Florida mansion, sparking widespread attention to reports of unfaithfulness to his wife, Elin Nordegren. (The couple divorced the following year.) Former President Bill Clinton and Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton announced to their friends the engagement of daughter Chelsea to long-time boyfriend Marc Mezvinsky (mez-VIN'-skee). Space shuttle Atlantis and its seven astronauts returned from the International Space Station with a smooth touchdown.
Five years ago: Reflecting its lessening oil clout, OPEC decided to keep its output target on hold and sit out falling crude prices. Mystery writer P.D. James, 94, died in Oxford, England. Frank Yablans, 79, a former president of Paramount Pictures who presided over the release of several groundbreaking pictures such as "The Godfather," died in Los Angeles.
One year ago: Mississippi Republican Sen. Cindy Hyde-Smith won a divisive runoff over Democrat Mike Espy, who had hoped to become the state's first African-American senator since Reconstruction; Hyde-Smith survived a video-recorded remark that had been criticized as racist. President Donald Trump threatened to cut off all federal subsidies to General Motors because of its planned massive cutbacks in the U.S.

NFL at 100: Ravens beat 49ers in lights-out Super Bowl 47

By DAVID GINSBURG

AP Sports Writer

The Baltimore Ravens were on their way to a Super Bowl blowout when things really got dark.

Literally.

Super Bowl 47 between the Ravens and San Francisco 49ers on Feb. 3, 2013, was pegged as the first between head coaches who were brothers. Jim Harbaugh stood on the San Francisco sideline and John Harbaugh guided Baltimore while their parents watched within the Superdome.

That story line was compelling, as was the fact that this would be the last game for future Hall of Fame linebacker Ray Lewis, who announced one month earlier that he would end his stellar 17-year career with the Ravens after the season.

Though two Harbaughs stood on opposite sidelines of each other, Jacoby Jones returned a kickoff for a Super Bowl-record 108 yards, Colin Kaepernick nearly orchestrated a miracle comeback and outcome was in doubt until the final play, this game — 4 hours and 14 minutes from start to finish — will be remembered as The Night the Lights Went Out in New Orleans.

Three first-half touchdown passes by Joe Flacco and Jones' electrifying kickoff return to start the third quarter staked Baltimore to a 28-6 lead. The Ravens were riding a crest of momentum that seemed certain to propel them to their second NFL title when the unexpected occurred: A huge bank of lights within the stadium went dark, bringing the game to an eerie halt.

For 34 minutes, the players, coaches and fans loitered in semi-darkness. Understanding that this astonishing delay could, ironically, suck the energy out of the team, John Harbaugh gathered the Ravens together and offered up an impromptu speech.

He said: "I'll remind you of that Motown song. There ain't no mountain high enough, and there ain't no valley low enough, and there's nothing that's going to keep us from winning this championship. Not this, and not nothing. We're going to win this game, no matter how long it takes."

Turns out, he was right. But not before Kaepernick almost brought the 49ers all the way back.

Operating a high-powered attack under the direction of offensive coordinator Greg Roman — who now holds the same job with the Ravens — Kaepernick rallied San Francisco with his legs and gifted right arm.

Running for 5 and 15 yards to open an 80-yard drive, Kaepernick completed an 18-yard pass to tight end Vernon Davis before connecting with Michael Crabtree for a 31-yard score to make it 28-13 with 7:28 left in the third quarter.

A touchdown run by Frank Gore and a field goal by David Akers made it 28-23, and suddenly, it was anyone's game.

After Justin Tucker kicked a field goal for Baltimore, Kaepernick responded with a 15-yard touchdown run. Though the 2-point conversion try failed, the 49ers were now within 31-29 with 9:57 to go.

Tucker made it 34-29 before Kaepernick took San Francisco from its 20 to the Baltimore 7 for a first down with 2:39 remaining.

A 2-yard run and three straight incompletions followed, though Jim Harbaugh probably still is livid that Ravens cornerback Jimmy Smith wasn't called for pass interference on a fourth-down pass to Crabtree.

Baltimore subsequently ran three times before Sam Koch lined up to punt out of his own end zone. He took the snap, shuffled around and ran out of bounds for a safety with 4 seconds left.

That led to a free kick, and Ted Ginn was tackled as time ran out.

As Lewis and the Ravens celebrated, Jim and John Harbaugh met in the middle of the field to offer congratulations to each other for getting through one heck of a Super Bowl.

Days later, it was determined that the power failure was caused by a device installed specifically to prevent the lights from going out.

The company that supplies power to the Superdome said the device had been installed to protect the Superdome from a cable failure between the company's incoming power line and the lines that run into the stadium.

Obviously, it didn't work. And neither did Baltimore's offense after the lights finally came back on.

The Ravens managed only two field goals following the power failure, but Flacco did enough beforehand to earn Super Bowl MVP honors. He completed 22 of 37 passes for 287 yards and three touchdowns with no interceptions.

That capped a playoff run in which Flacco completed 73 of 126 passes for 1,140 yards, 11 touchdowns and no interceptions, producing a 117.2 passer rating — the highest ever for a postseason since 1970, the year the AFL and NFL merged.

Soon after that, Flacco received the biggest contract ever for an NFL quarterback. But his stay in Baltimore ended last year, when rookie Lamar Jackson took over as the starter. Flacco was traded to Denver this past offseason and will finish the year on injured reserve.

Two other stars in that memorable Super Bowl had their careers take a turn for the worse.

Kaepernick made headlines for taking a knee during the Star-Spangled Banner before a 2016 preseason game. He participated in 12 games for San Francisco that year and has not played since.

Baltimore running back Ray Rice, who ran for 59 yards against the 49ers, was cut by the Ravens before the 2014 season after a video was released showing him striking his fiancée in an Atlantic City elevator. No team picked him up.

Anquan Boldin had six catches for 104 yards and a touchdown for Baltimore to earn his only Super Bowl ring over a 14-year career. He was traded to San Francisco during the following offseason and recently retired as a Raven.

Lewis, meanwhile, was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 2018. Teammate Ed Reed, who had an interception in that Super Bowl, was inducted this past August.

John Harbaugh still coaches the Ravens, but Jim Harbaugh left the 49ers after the 2014 season and now is the head coach at Michigan, his alma mater.

Both teams have changed dramatically since that February matchup in 2013, but each is playing exceptionally well this season heading into Sunday's game at Baltimore — suggesting that a Super Bowl rematch is possible.

Here's a closer look:

SAN FRANCISCO

The 49ers returned to the playoffs in 2013 but haven't been there since. Yet, following a run of four straight losing seasons, San Francisco currently owns the best record (10-1) in the NFC under coach Kyle Shanahan.

Unlike Kaepernick, Jimmy Garoppolo is a one-dimensional quarterback who wins solely with his arm. Garoppolo has thrown for 2,731 yards and 20 touchdowns, with a mere 41 yards rushing.

The defense pulled its weight on Sunday night in a 37-8 rout of the Packers.

BALTIMORE

The Ravens (9-2) have flourished with an offense designed by Roman that adheres to the exceptional skills of Jackson. The 2016 Heisman Trophy winner is on course to set an NFL record for yards rushing by a quarterback and has also thrown 24 touchdown passes with only five interceptions.

One of the few remaining players from that Super Bowl team, guard Marshal Yanda, has opened many holes for the most productive running attack in the league.

Baltimore has long been known for its defense, and while this team lacks stars such as Lewis and Reed, Smith remains part of a productive defensive backfield that features safety Earl Thomas on the back end.

Defensive coordinator Don Martindale, an assistant coach on the 2012 team, has put together an effective unit that relies on blitzes and shrewd schemes.

Harbaugh remains on the sideline, but the architect of that Super Bowl team, Ozzie Newsome, now serves as an adviser to first-year general manager Eric DeCosta, who was Newsome's assistant in 2012.

DeCosta has added several significant players — including Thomas and running back Mark Ingram — through the draft and free agency.
