Big Spring High hosting Howard County Sheriff's forum Saturday

By AMANDA DUFORAT

Managing Editor

The students at Big Spring High School are gearing up for the upcoming Sheriff Forum, set for Jan. 25 at 11 a.m. inside the BSHS library. The forum is open to the public and will be an opportunity to hear from both candidates who have placed their name on the ballot - Stan Parker and Tad Ellis. "Not only will our students learn, grow and mature by participating with this event, but the citizens of Howard County will get to see and hear what the candidates for the top law enforcement position have to say," Colonel Allen Morris, Forum Organizer, said. "The students will become more civic-minded and anyone listening will be able to make a better, more informed decision."

Big Spring High School CTE program preparing for the future

By SAVANNAH GEER

The Culinary program has been at the high school for many years, but did not have a designated commercial kitchen type lab space. It operated out of the original "Home Economics" foods lab/classroom. It has been time for an update.

Culinary Arts is part of the CTE program at Big Spring High School. This course is beneficial for career readiness as it is providing hands-on experience for jobs in this field. The students are able to take what they have learned and cook for their families.

"I have had several students do this with great feedback from parents," Jennifer Caudill, CTE Adviser said.

Culinary Arts focuses on more than just preparing food. Students are taught safety and sanitation, as well. In addition to preparing delicious foods they also provide knowledge on proper knife skills, measurements and conversions. The program currently only has four students in the Advanced Culinary Arts program which takes place in the Culinary Lab; Sa'Quan Fizer sophomore; Hannah and Hayden Bell sophomores; Naia Martinez, junior.

"I have three Introduction into Culinary classes as well that will assist in building the Culinary program as this is a prerequisite to the class," said Caudill.

These students will be competing in the High School BBQ Competition in Lubbock March 20 and 21.

Mrs. Caudill says the students representing the CTE program have been very receptive to this course and seem to be

According to Morris, both candidates will have an opportunity to speak to the community. Whether you have decided who you will be voting for or still undecided, the forum can be an educational platform to allow voters to make an informed decision regarding the position of Sheriff.

"In today's political climate I believe it is more important than ever to ensure your local representatives morals, ethics, and beliefs most closely align with your own. It is my hope that this forum will give the people the opportunity to make that determination by listening to the candidates' answers to each of the questions," Ellis said. Boy accused in killing 4 not cooperating GRANTSVILLE, Utah (AP) — A boy accused of shooting and killing four members of a Utah family and wounding a fifth surrendered peacefully following the Friday night slayings, but has since refused to speak with detectives trying to piece together a possible motive, police said Monday.

Police in the small town of Grantsville released the names of the victims, who ranged from 14 to 52 years old, and said the boy was related to them. But authorities declined to specify the suspect's age, his relation to the victims or release his name at the request of the district attorney until formal charges are filed. The father of the family was released from the hospital after being treated for a gunshot wound and was talking with investigators, said Police Sgt. Rhonda Fields. She added that the killings were the first homicides in two decades in the town of 11,000 about 35 miles (55 kilometers) west of Salt Lake City. "The biggest question everybody has is 'why' and, while we may not be directly able to answer that, we hope to be able to gather some information to be able to help people in future to be able to prevent something like this or offer support to those who may need it," Fields said. "We don't have a lot of crime," she added. "It's hard to accept that something like this has happened in our community

Investigators were trying to put together a timeline of the shooting to help figure out what happened, Fields said, adding that no other details were being released at this time.

Hundreds of people gathered Monday night for a candlelight vigil for the family where some expressed compassion for the boy arrested.

"On so many levels this is so tragic for our community," family friend Diane Passey said, according to the Deseret News. "Not just for the mother and the four lives lost, but also for the poor young man who was in such a dark place." Relatives of the victims asked for privacy as they awaited results of the investigation. Patty Deakin-Daley, a realtor who started a fundraising campaign to help cover the victims' funeral expenses, said she had been in touch with a brother and a son of the injured father, Colin Haynie, 50. A statement from the Haynie family that Deakin-

have shared together. We are finding for ourselves that as we mourn, it is beneficial - if not necessary to cheer our spirits with good memories, and even a bit of laughter," it said. Police responded to a call of shots fired inside the family's home at approximately 7 p.m. Friday. When officers arrived, they found the bodies of Consuelo Alejandra Haynie, 52, her daughters Alexis, 15, and Maylan, 14, and son Mathew, 14, Fields said.

The shooter and his father were gone, she said. Authorities later discovered that a person who are rived at the house after the shooting drove the suspect and the surviving victim to a nearby hospital, Fields said.

Authorities said they had not been called to the house in the past.

Officers arrested the boy at the hospital. He faces four counts of aggravated murder, one count of attempted aggravated murder and multiple firearms charges and was being held at a youth detention facility pending an expected court appearance.

Officials said he is the only suspect. The person who drove them to the hospital was not involved in shooting, she said.

It appears to be the largest mass shooting in Utah since 2007, when a shotgun-wielding gunman killed five people and himself at Trolley Square mall in Salt Lake City.

Tooele County School District officials will offer counseling to students this week. Counselors will also be at the city library for anyone else in the community who needs to talk about the killings, Grantsville Mayor Brent Marshall said.

Phoenix police: 3 children found dead, mother arrested

PHOENIX (AP) — A Phoenix woman has been arrested on suspicion of killing her three children after they were found dead inside the family home, authorities said Tuesday. The 22-year-old mother, whose name has not been released, "has admitted to harming her three children, which caused their demise," Sgt. Mercedes Fortune told reporters outside the home. "We are comfortable in saying now that the mother is responsible for the death of the children," Fortune said. The home is in a sparsely developed working class neighborhood of southern Phoenix. The area is mostly made up of small older wooden houses and mobile homes. There is also a white Spanishstyle church nearby. But there is some new construction, with a housing development of singlefamily homes priced at more than $500,000. The mother was in the process of being booked on three counts of first-degree murder. There was no information on whether she had an attorney who could speak on her behalf.

A relative who lives at the residence called police late Monday. Responding officers found a 7-monthold girl, 2-year-old girl and 3-year-old boy in a living room area, authorities said. The children were pronounced dead after officers administered CPR and fire officials provided first aid. Police were still interviewing the 30-year-old father and a 49-year-old relative who lives in the home, according to authorities. There was no obvious trauma to the children, and relatives indicated illness may have been a factor, police said. They said the family had recently moved to the area from Oklahoma. It's too early to determine how the children died, police said. The investigation remains ongoing.

Police fatally shoot man who held frying pan, cleaver DENTON, Texas (AP) — A police officer in north

Texas fatally shot a man at an apartment complex early Tuesday after the man refused to drop a frying pan and cleaver that he was holding, officials

One officer was stabbed in the melee but officials said the injuries aren't life-threatening.

The officers responded just before 3 a.m. to an apartment complex in Denton, about 35 miles (55 kilometers) north of Dallas, after several people called 911 to report a man was banging on doors and shattering light fixtures in a hallway of the complex, Denton city officials said in a press release.

Police used a Taser on the man but it was ineffective, so an officer opened fire, striking the man, the press release said. The man was pronounced dead at a hospital. Officials have not released the names of the officers involved or the man who was killed, but the city said the officer who shot the man had six years of service with the Denton Police Department.

Man arrested in San Antonio bar shooting argues self-defense SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A 19-year-old man arrested in a San Antonio shooting that left two people dead and wounded five others said he was acting in self-defense when he opened fire during a concert at a bar. Kiernan Christopher Williams is expected to face capital murder charges for the Sunday night shooting at Ventura on the Museum Reach portion of the San Antonio River Walk, police said Monday. As Williams was taken into custody Monday, he promoted his own Instagram account and described himself as "an upcoming artist." He told reporters that another person threatened to kill him because Williams had bumped into him at the bar. "I regret everything that I did, no lie," Williams

Jail records do not list an attorney who could speak on Williams' behalf.

The medical examiner's office identified the men killed as Robert Martinez and Alejandro Robles, police said. A 46-year-old woman and four male teens between the ages of 16 and 19 were hurt but are expected to survive their injuries, police said.

Police have said the shooting was "not a random incident" and that at least one of the seven victims knew Williams.

"It's nothing more complicated than an argument that occurred inside the club with someone pulling out a firearm," San Antonio Police Chief William McManus said Sunday night.

Robles, who was killed in the shooting, had gone to Ventura with his wife to support a childhood friend who was performing that night, family members told the San Antonio Express-News. His father, James Huff, said he did not believe his son knew Williams. A since-deleted Facebook event indicated

Sunday night's concert at the Ventura was "Living the DREAM," a showcase featuring multiple performers, and the Express-News reported that a flyer listed Williams as one of the scheduled performers. An email to the apparent promoters wasn't immediately returned. It was not the only shooting at an entertainment venue Sunday night. Two people were shot and killed and at least 15 were injured in a shooting outside a bar in Kansas City, Missouri, just before midnight. Police believe the shooter is one of the two who was killed

Iranian attending college in Boston is denied entry to US

BOSTON (AP) — An Iranian student attending college in Boston was denied entry to the U.S. and ordered to immediately fly back to his native country, despite a court order temporarily staying his removal, immigration lawyers and civil rights groups said Tuesday.

Shahab Dehghani, a student at Northeastern University, arrived on a flight into Boston on Monday with a valid student visa but was detained by U.S. Customs and Border Patrol at Logan International Airport, according to the American Civil Liber ties Union of Massachusetts, which is among the groups representing him.

The organization said customs officials insisted Dehghani, whose full name is listed as Mohammad Shahab Dehghani Hossein on federal court filings leave on the next available flight.

Dehghani's attorneys filed an emergency lawsuit Monday night seeking to hold off his removal which a federal judge approved, pending a court hearing Tuesday.

But Judge Richard Stearns on Tuesday said the case was moot and out of his jurisdiction since Dehghani had taken a flight out of the country that Dehghani's attorneys confirmed he had taken a flight to Paris but disputed the judge's assertion.

They also disputed federal prosecutors who argued that Dehghani was removed from the country before the emergency order was issued Monday night.

Kerry Doyle, one of Dehghani's lawyers, argued in court that he had not boarded his flight when the order was issued.

She and other supporters said after the brief hearing that they are weighing their legal options. Doyle and others also said customs officials in Boston have a "pattern" of ignoring court orders, citing other recent cases of people from Middle Eastern countries denied entry at Logan since President Donald Trump issued a ban on travelers from several predominantly Muslim countries in Northeastern University said it has been in touch with federal officials to try to help Dehghani.

Steers notch season-high in points in 85-78 win over Sweetwater Mustangs

SWEETWATER — In a high-scoring, high-intensity matchup between two district rivals on Tuesday night, the Big Spring Steers (17-9) came out with a 85-78 victory over the Sweetwater Mustangs

"I thought we could score, but I didn't think we'd allow them to get that many," Showtime Steers Coach Kris Hise said. "Our defense didn't look very good tonight. We couldn't keep anybody in front of

The Steers scored a season-high in points but also allowed the Mustangs to keep themselves in the game through great shooting from their starting five. The Mustangs had two players, guard Darian Carr and forward Damen Atkins, to score over 20 points. Four total players for the Mustangs scored in double-digits in a game that looked to never be out-of-reach for either team.

Big Spring was led by junior guard Kyler Seymore and senior guard Zeph Nelson. Seymore totaled 40 points in the game while Nelson made plays all over the court on both sides of the ball. Nelson grabbed four steals by being a menace throughout the Mustangs' passing lanes the entire game. On offense, the senior knocked down three shots from beyond the arc and scored 15 total points in the team's first district win in their first district game

"He's done that all year," Hise said. "He's a great senior for us this year. He stepped up big in big moments and hopefully continues to do that."

Nelson added, "I think I played great because of my teammates. They brought the energy so I brought the energy."

At halftime, the Showtime Steers led by a score of 43-39 after a second quarter which included a combined 49 points scored by both teams. It appeared to be a game of runs where the Steers would seemingly pull away before the Mustangs stormed back into the game. Seymore scored a stealthy 22 points in the first half by knocking down threes, midrange jumpers, and drives to the hoop.

"He can put a ball in a net at anytime so it's nice to have him," Hise said.

The Steers led the Mustangs by a score of 67-62 with eight minutes left to go in the game following another high-volume third quarter that included a combined 47 points from both teams. Big Spring continued to hustle hard throughout the game and it was not hard to see how badly they wanted to pull out the district win.

After closing out the game strong, the Steers headed home with a big win heading into Friday night's home matchup against Greenwood. After allowing the Mustangs to score at will on Tuesday night, Hise knows they must do better and will surely be working on defense in practice the next couple of days. Hise believes his group will have no problem scoring on the Rangers, but will want to see improvement out of his defense.

The next time these two district rivals meet next month, Nelson even threw out a guarantee that will firmly instill confidence in his

"We wanted to beat them by 40," Nelson said. "When they come to our home, we're doing it."

UP NEXT: The Showtime Steers will be hosting the Greenwood Rangers on Friday night at 8:00 p.m. at Big Spring High School.

Lady Steers win second straight game 46-33 over Sweetwater ing, and I thought she SWEETWATER — The Big Spring Lady Steers won their second straight district game on Tuesday night when they stormed into Sweetwater and left town with a 46-33 win over the Lady Mustangs. "There's still a lot of little things that we need to work on," Lady Steers Coach Krystle Jim said. "I thought our rebounding was good. There's a lot of little things, such as not turning the ball over so much, and just other little lackadaisical things that we need to get wrinkled out."

Both teams started off slow and combined for Pictured guard Tristan Smith win. scores four of her five points in the first quarter while the Lady Mustangs managed only two points on two free throws. With the Lady Steers leading 6-2 heading into the second quarter, the offensive production picked up for both squads. Turnovers plagued each team in the first half and it was a defensive battle throughout.

The Lady Steers came up with a pair of big blocks in the first half. Forward Madison Kuykendall notched one of her four blocks in the first half and was a force in the paint all-night long. Kuykendall led Big Spring with 16 points in the game and was able to consistently score on second-chance opportunities. "She's played big for us," Jim said. "She got rebounds, she concentrated on finish-

One way attempting to change a mediocre bridge player into a good one is to convince him that learning to reason things out is far more important in the long run than expending energy on trying to master complex bidding conventions or fancy plays that come up once in a blue this point and sees that he can score a 12th by taking a successful finesse in either spades or diamonds. But if that is as far as his thinking goes, he is not trying hard enough. The fact is that declarer is sure to make the slam if he plays correctly, and he does not have chance usually associated with a At trick two, South learns that

West started with seven hearts, and he also learns at the same time from East's failure to ruff the second heart lead - that West has all four missing clubs. Eleven of West's 13 cards are thus accounted for, and declarer's only remaining task is to find out how many spades and/or diamonds West holds.

Accordingly, South plays four rounds of trump and then cashes dummy's king of diamonds. After West follows suit, declarer next plays dummy's king of spades. When West follows suit again, the picture of his original hand is complete. He obviously started with seven hearts, four clubs, one spade and one diamond. The rest of the play is easy enough. Declarer cashes dummy's queen of hearts, discarding either a spade or a diamond, and takes a finesse in the other suit, knowing for

Fun By The

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so pencil and put savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Back Down, Mama Bear

Dear Annie: Every

December, my ex-mother-inlaw organizes a holiday party for all of the women from her side of the family. It's a fancy dinner, and they have a $15 Secret Santa gift exchange.

As a rule, all attendees must be 16, and my daughter was thrilled that she was able to attend for the first time. She asked that I bring her to an upscale gift store so she could buy (with her own money, I might add) a really nice gift. After hours of browsing, she wound up purchasing an array of lovely smaller gifts, which totaled slightly more than $15. She came home and wrapped it so beautifully; she was so proud of herself as she headed off to the party with her present in hand. I couldn't help but think about how much she reminds me of my ex-motherin-law, who is also very artistic and crafty and takes great pride in her gift-giving as well. My daughter is the definition of a chip off the old block.

Annie's Mailbox ®

When my daughter returned from the party, she said she had a nice time but that her gift was not well-received. Apparently, a few of the ladies were making fun of it.

According to my daughter, everyone was asking whose it was, but my daughter didn't speak up. At the time, we laughed about it and didn't really think of it as a big deal, until six months later. My daughter comes home from a visit with the ex-in-laws and tells me that my ex-mother-in-law, and a few other family members, figured out that the gift from the party was from my daughter, and, while at a family gathering in front of everyone, came right out and accused my daughter of "regifting" her gift. They had the audacity to accuse her of picking random stuff from her own bedroom, wrapping them up and regifting them. The whole family joined in and made a joke of it, and my daughter was crushed and extremely embarrassed. My daughter put a ton of thought and effort into her gifts and really felt that whoever got it would love them. Instead, she was humiliated and shamed into not wanting to be around that side of her family

Clearly, my ex-mother-in-law is in the wrong, and I desperately want to give her a piece of my mind. But my daughter has forbidden me from addressing it and said she just won't go to the annual party any more. This isn't OK with me. I am

Mom. I am supposed to protect my kids and stand up for them, but my daughter doesn't want me to, and I want to respect her wishes. However, it's harder than I thought, and I feel like I really should stick up for her. Annie, should I ignore

my daughter's wishes and confront my ex-mother-in-law about the regifting (with the receipt from the store), or should I just let it go? -- Feeling Useless in CT

Dear Feeling Useless

in CT: Wanting to protect our children and stand up for them is a natural motherly instinct. But the real gift you can give vour daughter is to help her develop her own ability to protect herself and stand up for herself. Encourage your daughter to talk with your exmother-in-law about how her accusations of "regifting" were hurtful. I doubt your ex-motherin-law would have participated in the teasing if she knew that her granddaughter would be so pained. If your ex-mother-in-law is still nasty about it to your daughter, remind your daughter that she knows in her heart that she did the right thing. It's her reaction to others, not what they say or do, that's important and how she'll find self-esteem and peace of

Luka Doncic had 36 points, 10 rebounds and nine assists for Dallas. He scored 24 points in the second half to help rally the Mavericks after they trailed by double digits from late in the second quarter through most of the third. Shamet helped the Clippers seize the game late in the fourth quarter. His 3 from the left wing to give Los Angeles a 100-98 lead with 2:48 to play. Montrezl Harrell added two free throws, then Shamet sank another 3 from straight-on to put the Clippers up by seven. He finished with 18 points. "We just kind of found a way to win," Shamet said.

"We'd loved to keep that lead the whole game, but that's not how it's going to be. It's a long season. We got to find different ways how to win like we did Leonard added 11 in the fourth quarter, including his only 3 of the game with 1:15 left, which put the Clippers up 108-100. But Dallas rallied, as Doncic hit a 3 and Maxi Kleber a dunk. After a Clippers turnover, Tim Hardaway Jr.'s potential tying 3 spun around and out. JaMychal Green missed two free > throws for LA, but then Doncic missed two — the second intentionally — and Leonard sealed it with two free throws. POWELL'S INJURY

Powell went down when he started to drive toward the basket but his right leg gave out. He fell to the ground and immediately slapped the floor in pain. He was helped to the locker room putting no weight on his right leg.

Powell's teammate J.J. Barea who tore his right Achilles tendon last season — was distraught as Powell was taken off the court.

Powell was averaging nearly 10 points a game in 39 games prior to the injury. With Porzingis out, Powell averaged 13 points over 10 games on 71%

With Powell out, Dallas got 16 valuable minutes from former Clipper Boban Marjanovic, who had 12 points and seven rebounds. His turnaround hook with 6:23 to play tied it at 90, capping a rally from a 14-point, second-half deficit.

KP RETURNS Porzingis scored 10 points on 4-for-17 shooting in his return after missing 10 games with right knee soreness. He added nine rebounds, but after the game, he blamed himself for the Mavericks' loss. "If I played just a little bit better, we would have won the game," Porzingis said. "This loss is on me. That's how I feel. I know it's my first game back but I have high expectations for myself and I'm disappointed I wasn't able to shoot the ball better." LEONARD STEPS UP

With teammate Paul George out over the last six games, Leonard has averaged 36 and at least 30 in

"We've been watching film together, seeing what mistakes we've been making," Leonard said. "So everybody's just giving the effort of their mind and body, wanting to compete, make winning plays and just be a better basketball team."

Spurs cough up big lead, recover for 120-118 win over Suns and capped 15-0 run. Ricky

By DAVID BRANDT AP Sports Writer

PHOENIX (AP)

Forbes lived a shooter's dream during the first half on Monday night, making seven 3-pointers as the San Antonio Spurs built a big early lead. The second half wasn't nearly as fun. But Forbes made one more from long distance and it was huge for the Spurs, who coughed up a 20-point cushion before rallying in the final minutes for a 120-118 win over the Phoenix Suns. Forbes' eighth 3-pointer with 2:33 remaining put the Spurs up 114-113, providing a pivotal morale boost right after they had lost the lead for the first time all night. San Antonio didn't trail again and won for the fifth time in eight games.

"It felt good, man. It felt good to see a big shot go down," Forbes said. "I think my teammates did a great job finding me, slashing and kicking. Just keep shooting. It should be the same mentality always ups, downs, keep shooting."

Derrick White scored a season-high 25 points and Forbes added 24, all on 3s. LaMarcus Aldridge scored 19 and DeMar DeRozan added 18. San Antonio led 78-58

midway through the third quarter and 96-83 going into the fourth, but Phoenix chipped away. Suns center Deandre Ayton made two free throws with 3:55 left that tied it 108-all

Rubio hit a layup while drawing a foul, adding the free throw to push the Suns ahead for the first time at 113-111 with 2:55 left. "The guys in our group fight until the end and I'm proud of that," Phoenix coach Monty Williams said. "That's a DNA that we're about every day." San Antonio coach Gregg Popovich wasn't surprised by the Suns' rally in the second half. He also wasn't surprised his team was able to recover. "It's called basketball, it's the NBA and it happens all the time," Popovich said. The Suns trailed 119-117 with 6.4 and Rubio had a chance to tie the game with two free throws, but missed the first attempt before making the second. Aldridge responded by making one of two free throws to leave the Spurs up 120-118 with 5.6 seconds left.

That set up a dramatic final possession, and Devin Booker missed a long 3 with about two seconds left that would have won it. Booker led the Suns with 37 points. He had 22 during the third quarter in a nearly single-handed effort to keep Phoenix close, but his final look wasn't particularly clean. He was forced far beyond the 3-point line and shot it from about 35

"I think the whole world knew it was going to Bookkilling it the whole night. Just tried to make it tough and contested."
