Area schools remaining closed, ensuring students still fed

Special to the Herald

The COVID-19 virus has been a fluid situation sweeping the world over the past few weeks. With Spring Break in west Texas drawing to an end, school officials were analyzing the situation closely and issuing statements providing guidance for students, staff and parents. While a decision was originally made to return to school on Monday, the decision was overturned after hearing more information. Big Spring ISD, Coahoma ISD and Foran ISD have all chosen to extend Spring Break for another week and to monitor the situation and reevaluate as the week progresses.

While students will not be returning to classes on Monday, Big Spring and Coahoma ISD will be providing meals to students. Following are the statements that were issued this past weekend regarding closures and meals provided:

The Big Spring ISD will be providing sacked meals for students while its campuses are closed. Meals will be available at three locations from 9 a.m. to Noon, Monday through Friday.

Student meals can be picked-up for any Big Spring ISD student at any of the three designated pickup locations, Moss Elementary, Marcy Elementary, or Big Spring Junior High. The pickup area at Moss and Marcy will be the bus lane behind each campus. At the junior high, the pickup area is door number 5 on the east side of the campus.

Individuals retrieving meals for students will receive a bag containing both a breakfast meal and a lunch meal. Food service or school district personnel will be outside and ready to hand the sacked meals to drivers.

Coahoma ISD issued the following statement this past weekend extending Spring Break: Coahoma ISD leaders have been closely monitoring the situation with COVID-19, and based on new information, the district will close for the week of March 16-20.

While schools will be closed, Coahoma ISD leaders are now working on plans to continue teaching and learning for all students, meal service, counseling, graduation requirements, course selection for next year's students, and business operations including payroll and hiring.

Toasty Tuesday kicks off for 2020

Clean up this week focusing on FM 700 around Game Stop

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

Keep Big Spring Beautiful joined with staff at Big Spring Veterinary Diagnostic to kick off the 2020 Toasty Tuesday Twilight Trash Off efforts. The group met in front of Big Spring Vet and cleaned the area around the clinic for an hour.

Spring is around the corner, warmer temperatures are on the horizon and Daylight Saving Time recently came through. With all those changes also comes Toasty Tuesdays and the community effort to keep Big Spring clean.

The 2020 season for Toasty Tuesdays kicked off last week at Big Spring Veterinary Diagnostic Hospital. The staff joined with Keep Big Spring Beautiful to clean up the area surrounding the hospital.

According to Peggy Skiles, Keep Big Spring Beautiful President, the group picked up 16 bags of trash in the hour. This week, the clean up will continue on the other end of FM 700 near Game Stop and Walmart. Those who want to take part are encouraged to attend and meet in the Game Stop area. The clean up will take place from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Trash bags, gloves and a few grabbers are available for those wanting to help out. Local businesses,

The Wisdom of History: Lecture 10: Athenian Democracy and Empire

Due to COVID-19 History Lectures have been suspended until further notice

By ANNA GUTIERREZ
 Staff Writer

We have reached Lecture 10 in this lecture series, and this is also the first lecture in the next group of three that will show how the Founding Fathers of the United States were influenced by Greek thought.

Dr. Fears states, "The Athenian democracy was not only the first democracy in history, it was the first government based on the idea of a greatest good for the greatest number of citizens. For example, the Persian Empire was not destined to fall, but Xerxes made decisions that ultimately led to its downfall. Again, we are reminded of our lesson of history that empires fall because of individual decisions made by it's leaders."

Pericles ruled the Athenian Empire from 462 to 429 B.C. Although born an aristocrat, he was completely devoted to

BSEDC to hold regular meeting Tuesday

Herald Staff Report

The Big Spring Economic Development Corporation will have a regular meeting Tuesday at 5:15 p.m.

The meeting is set to open with public comment and then proceed to routine agenda items, including approving minutes from the Feb. 18 meeting and March 3, special meeting.

The board will also look at awarding a bid for construction of reliever route access roads and authorize the Board President to sign all necessary documents to include the contract; contingent upon City Council approval of the final reading of the resolution, approving a project and loan for Reliever Route Access Roads. Consideration will also look at approving an amendment to the Employee Benefit Policy.

Before the meeting concludes, Executive Director Terry Wegman will give the Director's Report providing follow ups on existing projects.

The board members will have an opportunity to offer comments before the meeting adjourns.

“Coahoma ISD officials are closely monitoring the situation on a daily basis and tracking information provided by local, state, and national healthcare providers for any changes. To that end, district officials are advising parents to prepare as if the closure could last longer,” the released statement said. “The District does not take the decision to close lightly, however, in light of recent information, we believe this is the best course of action for now.”

As we (CISD) continue to monitor this ongoing situation, CISD will use this opportunity to explore new forms of learning. We appreciate all efforts from parents and students to help us move forward. Individual campus updates regarding special services and instruction will be provided on Monday.

In addition to the closure notification, Coahoma issued a statement informing families that meals will be provided during this time for students. The release stated:

CISD will provide a take-home lunch to our students beginning Monday between the hours of 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Lunch can be picked up at the back door of the cafeteria.

All extracurricular activities have been postponed until April 1. All facilities are closed during school closure. CISD administration appreciates your understanding and support.

democracy and democratic freedom. Dr. Fears says that Pericles had an unswerving moral compass, a sense of absolute right and wrong.

Athens was just one of the independent states of Greece. Sparta was another of those independent states. Although both were independent democracies, there were differences. Sparta had a balanced democracy where decisions of the people could be overturned by a supreme court, much like the United States today. Sparta had two kings, strong commanders-in-chief, along with an educational system which instilled patriotism in its citizens. Athens didn't have a supreme court; majority rule was absolute. Both built empires, but by different means.

Athens believed in majority rule and a government by the people for the people. Athenians also believed hard work led to freedom and luxuries. Athenians had rights guaranteed by the law, but they also felt freedom carried responsibilities. Only men could vote, and in order for men to vote, they had to have served in the military. Athenians also had slaves, just as many of our founding fathers did.

Athens and Sparta lived in uneasy peace from 446 to 435 B.C. But Athens began to interfere with other states, Coeyra particularly, which wasn't part of either the Spartan or Athenian alliance. Corinth got involved, and they were an ally of Sparta. Of course, things escalated from there. Athens wouldn't back down. Sparta persisted.

Pericles wanted war so that Athens could dominate Greece. He believed Athens could win because of the advances in technology, and they had more money. But as we have seen throughout history, advances in technology lead to the same mistakes that have occurred throughout history. Athens' downfall came from to plague, typhoid, which hit hard because the citizens had been brought inside the city walls to protect them from the Spartans.

The history lectures are on hold at this time, out of an abundance of caution. Please watch for an announcement on our Facebook page and website to let you know when the lectures will resume.

Ryan Tannehill agrees to four-year, $118 million extension with Tennessee

By SHAWN MORAN

Herald Sportswriter

The Tennessee Titans got their man. After his breakout season in Nashville, former Big Spring star quarterback Ryan Tannehill re-upped with the Titans on a four-year, $118 million deal that includes $62 million guaranteed.

The deal was announced on Sunday; one day before the start of the legal tampering period that allows other teams to speak to free agents.

Tannehill's new contract also came on the one-year anniversary of his trade from the Miami Dolphins to Tennessee.

Tannehill served as the backup to incumbent starter Marcus Mariota for the first five games of the season before stepping in against the Denver Broncos in Week 6.

All the Texas A&M-product did from that point was throw for 2,742 yards, 22 touchdowns, and only six interceptions. He also threw for an NFL-high 9.6 yards per attempt. In three playoff games, Tannehill was methodical in throwing for 369 more yards, five touchdowns, and rushing for one more.

After the season, Tannehill was awarded the NFL's Comeback Player of the Year award for his superb bounce-back year in his fresh start away from Miami.

Tennessee Head Coach Mike Vrabel was impressed enough with the performance from Tannehill to want to make him his unquestioned, full-time starter.

A large amount of national media had made the connection of Tom Brady-to-Tennessee during the lead up to free agency. But on Sunday morning, it was reported by ESPN's Dianna Russini that the Titans were not interested in Brady and were closing in on extending Tannehill.

A few hours later, the deal was finalized and the former Steer was solidified as the Titans franchise quarterback.

He also became a much, much richer man.

Big Spring boys regional powerlifting meet ends strong season

Special to the Herald

Big Spring's boys' powerlifting season came to an end over the weekend at the Regional meet in Sundown. While no Steer powerlifters advanced to the state competition, there was a strong performance from each lifter over the weekend that they should feel happy with.

With another Big Spring powerlifting season coming to a close, let us run through the performances from over the weekend:

Mattox Evans was 5th in the 114 lb. class
Cruz Martinez was 4th in the 123 lb. class
Kenny Richardson was 6th in the 132 lb. class
Leroy Johnson was 9th in the 132 lb. class
Connor Andrae was 10th in the 132 lb. class
Josh Lopez was 4th in the 148 lb. class

Shawn Mendoza was 7th in the 148 lb. class
Rogelio Cervantes was 8th in the 181 lb. class
Isaiah Rodriguez was 8th in the 220 lb. class
Andrew Roberts was 4th in the 275 lb. class
Daniel Roberts was 6th in the Superheavyweight class

Coaches Chris McWilliams and Sawyer Roberts said, "We are very proud of the accomplishments of our Steer Powerlifters this season. Out of the five regular season meets we attended this season, our boys won three of the meets, and were 2nd in the other two meets. We tied the school record of 11 lifters qualifying for the Regional Meet. We want to thank all of the parents, volunteers who helped us put on our meet in January, and our great administration for supporting us this season. It was a very successful powerlifting season, and we look forward to continued success in the future."

Athletic Support: "Coronavirus? We've got games to play!"

By ELI CRANOR

Special to the Herald

Dear Athletic Support: It seems like every time I turn on the television or check my Facebook page, there's another sporting event cancelled due to the Coronavirus. Both of my kids are athletes, and we have multiple tournaments scheduled for the spring. So far, I've only heard rumors of their tournaments being cancelled, but I must say I am a little hesitant to pack my family into a gym or sit too close to the other parents in the stands. Am I overreacting at this point? Or not reacting enough? — Corna-fied Mother

Dear Corna-fied: With basically all major sporting events cancelled for the foreseeable future, your question couldn't have come at a better time. Before I go any further, let me make one point clear: I'm not a doctor. I'm a former football player and coach. My family is, however, taking certain steps to remain safe. Here's a look at our daily life:

Ours is a world of hand sanitizer and Clorox wipes. A fog hangs thick over our living room from an endless stream of Lysol spray. My 3-year-old daughter strips out of her clothes when she comes home from preschool, and anyone who wishes to hold our infant son must wash his hands (actually, scratch that; nobody's holding little for the next couple weeks). We don't go over to friends' houses anymore, and our kids definitely aren't going to be playing in the Chic-fil-A playplace anytime soon.

At this point, we're wary too say the least, but we're not holed up in a bunker surrounded by cans of green beans. My biggest worry is the panic that comes as a result of COVID-19 will do far more damage than the disease itself.

There are already reports of people around the country hoarding vast quantities of hand sanitizer, bottled water, and toilet paper. Some have even gone so far as to steal medical facemasks and other equipment from places that really need it, like hospitals.

This sort of behavior makes me worry far more than the actual virus. Even if this pandemic dies out sooner than expected, people's reaction to it could cause far more damage than COVID-19. No matter what, remember we're all on the same team.

Looking ahead, I'd be willing to bet your kids' upcoming tournaments will get cancelled. Many schools across my home state of Arkansas have already begun to shutter their doors. If your forthcoming athletic events don't get cancelled, remember you still have a choice. Sports are important, sure, but as we've seen from the decision makers at both the collegiate and professional levels, nothing is more important than player safety.

And, please, don't feel like your son or daughter's athletic careers will be in jeopardy if they don't play ball for the next couple weeks, or months (hopefully this all blows over by then). In the meantime, wash your hands and carry a few extra bottles of hand sanitizer, if you can still find any.

Dallas Cowboys Corner

By SHAWN MORAN

Herald Sportswriter

CBA Approved

The NFL players approved the vote for the new Collective Bargaining Agreement that will run through 2030. This means that there will be no NFL work stoppage for at least the next 11 seasons.

With the new CBA, there will now be seven teams from each conference to make the postseason and only the one-seed earning a first round bye. Another change is that beginning in 2021, NFL owners will be able to decide to increase the regular season to 17 games.

Prescott and Cooper still remain unsigned

A decision will be made Monday in which Cowboys star offensive player they will decide to assign the franchise tag. The Cowboys will not be able to use both the franchise tag and the transition tag because of the new CBA, so that means one of these players will be able to speak to other teams at the start of the legal tampering period on Monday afternoon.

Cowboys will play in Hall of Fame Game

It was announced last week that the Cowboys will face the Pittsburgh Steelers in the first postseason game of the next season.

This is the fourth time in the past 11 years that the Cowboys will play in the game. Both Dallas and Pittsburgh have participated in the game six times. The game this year will be played on Aug. 6 in Canton, Ohio.

The game has a deeper connection this season with two former Cowboys set to be enshrined into the Hall of Fame. Former Head Coach Jimmy Johnson (1989-1993) and Safety Cliff Harris (1970-79) will be inducted into the Hall this year. Johnson's induction will take place two nights after the game. Harris will be inducted on Sept. 18 with the Centennial Class in celebration in 100 years of the NFL.

Cowboys get one compensatory selection

Dallas now has seven picks in the draft after being awarded a fifth-round compensatory selection for the loss of wide receiver Cole Beasley last offseason.

Offseason legal trouble

Wide receiver Ventell Bryant was arrested in Tampa, Florida, last week. The reason for the arrest was a DUI after Bryant, 23, was pulled over for driving without his headlights on. He was released from jail on a $500 bond later that morning after his blood alcohol content was measured at .102 and .099.

The second-year player out of Temple is mostly a special teams player who played in 12 games last season. He recorded six tackles and is best known for his 15-yard touchdown reception on Thanksgiving Day this past season. That is still the only reception of Bryant's career.

Performance-based pay handed out

Xavier Woods ($615,755), Chidobe Awuzie ($402,903), Michael Gallup ($380,891), Darian Thompson ($355,842), Jourdan Lewis ($333,474), Blake Jarwin ($322,269), Connor Williams ($255,912), Dorance Armstrong ($236,916), Dak Prescott ($234,019), Antwaun Woods ($202,746), and Cooper Rush ($2,879) all were awarded performance-based pay for this past season. These players played much more than their contract expected them to and in turn, were awarded an extra end-of-the-year bonus.

UTPB spring sports cancelled

Special to the Herald

The Lone Star Conference announced today the cancellation of all competition for the remainder of the spring season.

The decision was reached by the LSC Council of Presidents with the health, safety and wellness of student-athletes, coaches, administrators, athletic staffs and fans as the top priority.

The announcement aligns with the recent NCAA decision to cancel all spring championship events due to the evolving COVID-19 outbreak.

Over the past week, we have seen almost every professional sports league across the globe either cancel or postpone their current seasons.

A ruling came down from the NCAA late last week that will allow athletes who participate in spring sports to gain one extra year of eligibility.

With the cancellation of the entire rest of the spring schedule, the Lone Star Conference will look towards next year.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). People will misestimate their own capabilities in one direction or another today, and you can compensate for this by giving yourself wide margins in case of error or exceptional success.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). If you make a mistake that wouldn't even be counted as such under different circumstances with other people, is it really a mistake? Just because someone takes offense doesn't mean you're being offensive.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Being the different one in the group isn't bad, but it does mean you'll have to acquire more credibility and skills than the others. This will be a piece of cake for you once you accept the injustice of it.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Someone who tries to sell everyone will try to sell you. Someone who flirts with everyone will flirt with you. Someone who fools everyone... well, fooling you, not so much.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Maybe there's a time for everything but not necessarily a (SET ITAL) convenient (END ITAL) time, or one that's under your control. If you needed an argument for doing instead of waiting, let this be the one.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). While they relax, you decide. While they rest, you push forward. While they sleep, you work. Eventually you'll have to close your eyes, but right now is all about progress.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You're not trying to put forward an image other than that which you are, and yet you cannot control what people want to see in you. Your life gets easier once you get savvy about their projections.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). There are choices to be made about how open or closed you should leave your heart. True, you usually make these decisions unthinkingly, but now is the time to think deeply on the subject.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You'll be like the moon, influencing from afar, not having to force or even touch anything to affect it, moving and changing everything about life on Earth by simply obeying its own

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). People under a little pressure will likely go faster, flow freely, achieve to a level that surpasses the one they could do on their own. People under a lot of pressure tend to freeze.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You're mild-mannered when appropriate, and that's appropriate for most of the day until brief moments of intense emotions help you go at your purpose harder.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Much good will happen once you release the need to be right. Right is never an absolute. This experience is subjective. There might be a consensus to shoot for, though popularity has little to do with correctness.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (March 16). The next 12 months bring intermittent drips of magic, a heavenly sign that you're needed, loved and on a good path. Truly, decisions matter beyond what you can comprehend. Family bonds strengthened through honest communication. You've the courage to put bright ideas in motion. A December project will help many. Scorpio and Virgo adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 10, 4, 44, 42 and 19.

Sick of Talk of Being Sick

Dear Annie: We have a friend whose spouse has many medical concerns. They are serious and can be life-threatening. However, in my opinion, the biggest concern is that every time we are with them, the conversation turns to these medical conditions. My own view is, "What a wonderful world!" But they see it in totally different terms. We listen to the same health problems again and again and again. We understand it's a horrible thing to live with these numerous health issues, but these medical problems could be lessened if the spouse would be more responsible. What can be done to stop the constant conversation about health problems? -- So Tired

Dear So Tired: It is important that, as a friend, you have lots of empathy for your friend's spouse with a serious, life-threatening condition. At the same time, part of being a good friend is having fun with them. Next time the conversation shifts to his medical issues, listen for a short amount of time to show that you care, and then change the subject to something more joyful. If they try to bring it back to a tale of illnesses, explain that you are not an expert and she should save the details for her next visit to the doctor.

Dear Annie: I read with interest the letter from Karen in Kansas City about mice. Last winter, I noticed evidence of mice in our pantry: holes in bags of birdseed, herb stuffing and chocolate. Being a completely sappy animal lover (yes, even mice -- they are so cute), I bought two Havahart traps and captured 12 mice over a two-week period. Or maybe it was one mouse 12 times, but I'm convinced it was the former as there has been no evidence of mice since then.

To be sure the mice don't return, you must release them at least one mile away so that they can't find their way back. Luckily, we have a field about that distance from our house, so no one else should have visits from "our" mice.

I'm an artist and occasionally put a mouse in my paintings. -- Mad About Mice

Dear Mad about Mice: I love the image of a sweet little mouse sneaking into one of your paintings. What a clever idea! Thank you for sharing your tips to humanely trap and release mice. As a fellow animal lover, I welcome your kind and thoughtful wisdom.

Dear Annie: I just read the excellent letter from "Florida Fan" about people ill-equipped to handle problems related to family tragedies. The local Rockbridge Area Hospice in Lexington, Virginia, conducts a series of workshops entitled "Ducks in a Row," which deals with most of the situations mentioned in the letter. This is a monthly, 6 1/2-hour meeting with a workbook included, to enumerate and outline what to do, who to contact over a wide range of situations and how to get in touch with them. My wife and I are engaged in this workshop now. It certainly makes planning for that inevitable date much easier. -- Still a While Before We Go

Dear Still a While: I hope it's a very long while indeed before you go -- but your letter raises the importance of preparing now nonetheless. I've heard good things about the "Ducks in a Row" workshop. Thanks for suggesting a helpful resource.

The bidding:
East South West North
Pass 1♦ Pass 1♥
Pass 1NT

Opening lead — six of clubs.

This is one of the more unusual hands ever played in a world championship. It occurred in the Thailand-U.S. match in 1964 and featured an extremely rare play — a double squeeze against declarer. Squeezes are nearly always executed by the declarer, not by the defenders.

The contract was one notrump played by Bob Hamman of the U.S. West (Dr. Manoo Veeraburud) led a club, on which dummy and East (Benno Gimkiewicz) followed low.

After winning the first two tricks with the K-J of clubs, declarer led a low heart to the jack, which held, and next finessed the queen of diamonds, which also held. By now, East-West had had four chances to win a trick and had rejected them all!

Hamman then repeated the diamond finesse, at which point the defenders brought their big guns into action, and South never got another trick! West won the diamond with the king and played the A-Q and another spade. East won the third spade with the king and cashed the ten of spades and ace of clubs, producing this position:

North
♣ Q

West
♥ A 10

East

South
♥ K 9

When Gimkiewicz next cashed the seven of spades, South could not spare the diamond ace, which would make West's six a trick. So he discarded the nine of hearts.

Veeraburud then discarded his diamond, and now dummy was squeezed. A club discard would make East's nine a trick, so Hamman discarded the heart three from dummy. East thereupon led a heart, and West took the last two tricks with the A-10 of hearts to put the contract down three!

Fun By The Numbers
Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Today in History
Today is Monday, March 16, the 76th day of 2020. There are 290 days left in the year. Today's Highlights in History:
On March 16, 1926, rocket science pioneer Robert H. Goddard successfully tested the first liquid-fueled rocket at his Aunt Effie's farm in Auburn, Massachusetts.
On this date:
In 1521, Portuguese explorer Ferdinand Magellan and his crew reached the Philippines, where Magellan was killed during a battle with natives the following month.
In 1802, President Thomas Jefferson signed a measure authorizing the establishment of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, New York.
In 1850, Nathaniel Hawthorne's novel "The Scarlet Letter" was first published.
In 1935, Adolf Hitler decided to break the military terms set by the Treaty of Versailles (vehr-SY) by ordering the rearming of Germany.
In 1945, during World War II, American forces declared they had secured Iwo Jima, although pockets of Japanese resistance remained.
In 1966, NASA launched Gemini 8 on a mission to rendezvous and dock with Agena, a target vehicle in orbit; although the docking was successful, the joined vehicles began spinning, forcing Gemini to disconnect and abort the flight.
In 1968, the My Lai (mee ly) massacre took place during the Vietnam War as U.S. Army soldiers hunting for Viet Cong fighters and sympathizers killed unarmed villagers in two hamlets of Son My (suhn mee) village; estimates of the death toll vary from 347 to 504. Senator Robert F. Kennedy of New York announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.
In 1987, Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.
In 1991, a plane carrying seven members of country singer Reba McEntire's band and her tour manager crashed into Otay Mountain in southern California, killing all on board. U.S. skaters Kristi Yamaguchi, Tonya Harding and Nancy Kerrigan swept the World Figure Skating Championships in Munich, Germany.

In 1994, figure skater Tonya Harding pleaded guilty in Portland, Oregon, to conspiracy to hinder prosecution for covering up an attack on rival Nancy Kerrigan, avoiding jail but drawing a $100,000 fine.
In 2003, American activist Rachel Corrie, 23, was crushed to death by an Israeli military bulldozer while trying to block demolition of a Palestinian home in the Gaza Strip.
In 2004, China declared victory in its fight against bird flu, saying it had "stamped out" all its known cases.
Ten years ago: Attorney General Eric Holder told a House Appropriations subcommittee that Osama bin Laden would never face trial in the United States because he would not be captured alive.
(The al-Qaida leader was shot dead by Navy SEALs in Pakistan in May 2011.) Lance Mackey won the 1,100-mile Iditarod Trail Sled Dog Race to become the first musher in the event's 38-year history to win four consecutive races.
Five years ago: Los Angeles prosecutors filed a first-degree murder charge against real estate heir Robert Durst in the killing of his friend, Susan Berman, who had acted as Durst's spokeswoman after his wife, Kathleen, disappeared in 1982. (Durst is now on trial in Los Angeles.)
One year ago: Relatives waited for authorities to release the remains of the 51 Muslim worshippers killed in massacres at two mosques in the New Zealand city of Christchurch. Dick Dale, whose power-chord instrumentals on songs including "Miserlou" and "Let's Go Trippin'" earned him the title King of the Surf Guitar, died at the age of 83.
