Joining forces to serve Big Spring youth during COVID-19

By ALLEN MORRIS
 Herald Contributing Writer

The feeling of helplessness in times like these is a common one indeed, but it does not have to be and this is self-evident by the efforts of many in our community. It was Emerson who said, "The purpose of life is not to be happy. It is to be useful, to be honorable, to be compassionate, to have it make some difference that you have lived and lived well." Since the beginning of the Coronavirus pandemic began the helping hand of the community has been extended in many efforts. The school districts across Howard County have stepped up and continued to provide food services during this extended closure. Big Spring ISD and Food2Kids have joined efforts to ensure meals are not only prepared, but delivered to the students.

"We are handing out approximately 2,500 meals per day. Any student who comes to one of our locations in the morning receives two meals, a breakfast and a lunch. So it would be accurate to say we are feeding approximately 1,250 children each weekday. Food2Kids adds its weekend sacks to our meals on Fridays," BSISD Assistant Superintendent George Bancroft, said.

Big Spring ISD staff loads up buses each day of the week to ensure thousands of kids get fed while they are on extended school closures. Food2Kids has joined forces to help ensure those meals last through the weekend.

Coahoma registration open for 2020-21 school year

Special to the Herald

Planning for the upcoming school year at Coahoma ISD has kicked off. Due to COVID-19, Coahoma Elementary will be handling Pre-K3, Pre-K4 and Kindergarten registration for the 2020-2021 school year a little differently, as other area school districts are as well.

According to information released by Coahoma ISD last week, for safety precautions, district officials will only take registration by phone at this time. The phone registration does not guarantee your child will be attending CES for the 2020-2021 school year, but it will give the district a starting point until restrictions are lifted.

Pre-registration by phone will continue through Friday, April 17, from 9 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. Please note, CISD will be closed this Friday, April 10, and Monday, April 13. To register, please call 432-394-5000, ext 2 and speak to Jessica.

Pre-registration is only open for children who live in the district. Transfer requests will not be processed until after June 1. For those submitting kindergarten registration, students must be 5 years of age on or before Sept. 1, 2020. The following next steps will be completed once the COVID-19 restrictions have been lifted.

For pre-register, parents/guardians need to first bring proof of residency, such as a utility bill with an address on it, to the Raising awareness doesn't have to entail large gathering of crowds or grandiose events, it merely takes one voice with the desire to be heard. As the majority of the nation is sitting in their homes and adapting to a new way of life, it raises an opportunity to funnel efforts to a cause. April is National Sexual Assault Awareness Month and with that brings an opportunity to raise a voice for those who often don't have one or don't use it due to fear.

"This month is important for us to reach out and educate the community and the public. As horrific as this crime seems it does not happen in our community and us as the community it is our job to understand all aspects of this crime," Linda Calvio, Victim Services, said.

According to RAIIN reports, most sexual assaults happen by someone the victim knows and 19.5% happen by strangers. The most important thing to do to protect yourself and loved ones is to speak to your children and help them understand they can come to you and tell you.

"Teaching children about a good touch and a bad touch, what feels right and what doesn't is important," she said. "Always be

According to Bancroft, the school district is currently staffed with enough food service workers, bus drivers and bus aides to hand out the meals. As for those looking to volunteer, the possibility of Food2Kids needing volunteers could be arising soon. While volunteer efforts in Howard County have become limited as far as hands on efforts, but the need for support still exists, just in a different form.

"It's fair to say we've had quite a few changes recently that I didn't see coming. We're hopeful that we can continue operating in our current fashion, but I am concerned now that we have active COVID cases in Howard County that we may struggle to maintain the meal distribution," Bancroft said. "The Food Service and Transportation staff have been amazing in their ability to adjust and solve problems quickly. Those folks genuinely care about our students and are willing to do just about anything to make sure food is available."

The food service program is not only for students attending Big Spring campuses, but it is intended to ensure all children 18 and under are able to receive a meal throughout the week. Food is being distributed at 23 locations across Big Spring.

"We are very appreciative of the local media for helping to get the word out and to the retired teachers who have made for all of us masks," Kim Young, BSISD food service department representative, said.

In addition to the district's staff supporting the meal efforts, Food2Kids has extended their support to ensure students are able to receive meals over the weekend as well. Food2Kids, a Big Spring volunteer based non-profit.

"We do not have any employees. Every dollar donated to Food2Kids Big Spring is used to serve Big Spring students," Food2Kids President Pam Steel, said. "The mission of Food2Kids Big Spring is to identify and provide food to children who may not receive a regular meal between the school-provided lunch at their campus on Fridays and the school provided breakfast at their campus Monday morning."

During the school closings since March 16 - Food2Kids Big Spring has been able to partner with Big Spring ISD and get their weekend food sacks distributed to students in need while they are out of school.

"Due to our current situation and the fact we have to limit our volunteers at this time - the main way that people can help is to send a donation to Food2Kids Big Spring, P.O. Box 1641, Big Spring, TX 79720," Steel said. "We are meeting in very small volunteer groups for April and May. In September, we will let the community know about more volunteer opportunities."

In addition to the meals provided to the students daily, Food2Kids has been providing 960 sacks of food each week to the Big Spring ISD students.

For those looking for the locations and times of the distribution visit the school district's webpage at <https://www.bsisd.esc18.net/> or at 432-264-3600.

safe and do not go into places unknown, isolated and do not be occupied while walking, especially at night. Be aware of your surroundings. Buddy system is always the best."

Calvio said many times crimes are not reported until the person cannot live with it any more, which could be to 10 years after their 18th birthday. While some of the victims may not be able to verbally speak of what is happening to them, but with actions will show a trained forensic interviewer or SANE (Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner) nurse. SANE are registered nurses who have completed specialized education and clinical preparation in the medical forensic care of the patient who has experienced sexual assault or abuse.

In order to be a SANE nurse it is required to first be a registered nurse or advanced practitioner, preferably with two years or more experience in areas of practice that require advanced physical assessment skills, such as emergency, critical care and maternal child health.

"The program development for SANEs began in the mid-1970s in the United States. The need existed for a more comprehensive sexual assault exam that could produce better patient outcomes," Christine Everett, S.A.N.E. Nurse, said.

SANE nurses are specially trained in the medical, psychological and forensic examination of a sexual assault victim. Two different credentials available under SANE designation: SANE-A for adult and adolescent examiners, and SANE-P, which is specifically for pediatric victims.

To find out more about services offered by Victim Services or to find out how to support their efforts, visit vsob.org or call 432-263-3312. For those needing support, the number is open 24/7. Victim Services will be putting ads on our Facebook and social media in recognition of National Sexual Assault Awareness month.

district's administration building. If you have a child already enrolled and live in the district, you may skip this first step. Next, go to the elementary building to fill out a pre-registration form.

You must bring originals of the following documentation:

- The state sealed birth certificate. This is different from the one you received in the hospital with the footprints and can be obtained by going to the Howard County Clerk's Office located in the Courthouse if the child was born in Texas.
- The child's Social Security card
- Shot records
- Parent's driver's license

For those students who are needing to register for Pre-K# and Pre-K4, at this time you must live in the district. No transfers will be accepted. Please note, the following next steps will be completed once the COVID-19 restrictions have been lifted.

Parents or guardians must first bring proof of residency, such as a utility bill with an address on it, to the district's administration building. Next, go to the elementary building to fill out a pre-registration form.

You must bring the originals of the following documentation:

- The state sealed birth certificate. This is different from the one you received in the hospital with the footprints and can be obtained by going to the Howard County Clerk's Office located in the Courthouse if the child was born in Texas.

DAILY PRAYER

May we communicate with You, Lord, in the morning and watch for wonderful things to happen. Amen

Home Country: Double feature

Marjorie Pincus looked out the front window at her husband, Marvin, and smiled. No matter how old he gets, she thought, he'll always be the boy I remember, riding his bicycle through this town so many years ago.

Marvin had stopped picking out the nutgrass and was watching a small group of children across the street in the park. Two of them had kites, and the brisk wind of morning had them both up as high as string would allow. Soon, Marvin had ambled across the street and was standing behind the children, watching the taut dip in the string and listening to the rattle of the tight paper.

The first time Marvin Pincus flew a kite in this park, airplanes didn't go very far or very fast. The other side of the moon was a mystery in those days, and no one really thought man would ever go there and back. Not really.

And here these kids are, flying their kites the very same way, with the very same rag tails, and looking up at the earth-tied fliers climbing with the gusts and settling with the relaxation of the breezes.

Marjorie watched from across the street as the Herrera boy walked over to Marvin, whispering something as Marvin leaned down to hear, and then handed the stick with the kite string tied to it to the old man. His face beamed as he controlled flight once again. The kids smiled, too, probably not realizing kite flying was the same when Mr. Pincus was a kid, too.

But what about the dreams?

Marjorie thought about this. What goes through the minds of today's kite fliers who know what the surface of Mars looks like, who know what the far side of the moon looks like, who know there are human beings in a space station, living up there, right now? What will their dreams be as the kites dance?

What dreams will dance now as they stand there and hold the miracle of flight in their fingers?

SLIM RANGLES

Well, it's March again ... the windy month. And here in Home Country we have our very own variety that blows in to have coffee with us every now and then. Windy Wilson, of course.

His takes on the human condition, and history, and darn near everything else lack only accuracy. The entertainment and color are always there, and we're always glad to see the old camp cook and cowboy.

"Boys," said Windy, "I guess you all figured out what's comin' up here real soon. Yessir, it's the Ideas of March. Comes ever March 15, and it's an annual versary of the snuffin' out of one a-them famous Romans. Julius Caesar. The boys at the farm tool turns stabbin' him 'til he stopped givin' speeches.

"But the good part about them Ideas of March is, you ain't got to do nothin' about it. You don't have to sing songs or gather 'round the campfire or buy presents fer yer brother or nothin' I mean, you can jest sit back on yer own sacrolibrums and conjugate adverbs or watch teevies and pick scabs off the neighbor's dog.

"Now this was them days when Roman guys was a-runnin' over conquerin' stuff 'cuz they already had their irrigation ditches in and had planted the alfalfa. And ol' Julius Caesar well he got real famous for bein' the head conquerer. To this day he was so famous his face is on gold coins in old dead boats on the bottom of the ocean. And a course, you know they named a food after him. Yes they did. Thass right. We all heard of Orange Julius. Boy if I had a orange drink named for me, I b'lieve I'd open a coffee shop and call it the 'Et tu Buffet.

"And you can tell 'em I said so

The Postscript: Peppermint Ice Cream

"I love seeing all the people in the park," my sister told me on the phone the other night. "I can tell who is together because they are walking in little clumps!"

I love that idea: little satellites orbiting the park—usually with a dog—keeping a safe distance from the other orbiting clumps nearby.

My sister is in a clump consisting of herself, her husband, their two children, a dog and a cat. (I'm not sure if the cat considers himself part of the clump or not. Possibly not.) The kids are doing their homework in record time, sports are discontinued but music lessons continue. They are playing a lot of ping-pong and canasta.

My cousin, Dane, is in a clump of one so I was kind of worried about him and called him up. He seemed to be doing okay, all things considered. He's laid off but getting a lot of house projects done. I caught him when he was out walking.

"I'm on my annual walk," he told me.

"Annual?"

"No, I meant daily. I've been walking every day."

I was prepared to believe it was annual as I don't generally think of Dane as being big on exercise. But I'm glad to hear he's taking care of himself. I think that's what we all need to do, as best as we can.

I'm in a clump of three these days—it's just me, my husband Peter, and my anxiety. It wouldn't be crowded with just Peter and me but it's true what they say—three's a crowd. I get free-floating anxiety and these times seem to promote it. Peter is amazingly patient with me, although he gets anxious when I get anxious and the atmosphere starts to get a little electric in the house. That's usually when I go for a walk. A walk helps. But peppermint ice cream is what really works wonders.

My consumption of peppermint ice cream has shot through the roof. In the past, Peter has accused me of being an ice cream snob. I scrutinize the ingredient list. I try to buy ice cream with fewer thickeners and additives and more natural ingredients. But none of this matters if it's peppermint ice cream. There are no rules for peppermint ice cream. Everyone knows that.

I don't even read the ingredient list because, what do I care? It's peppermint ice cream! It's bright pink and has little pieces of peppermint candy right in it! No matter how bad the news of the day might be, a little peppermint ice cream is certain to make things better. No matter how anxious I might get, I can always eat peppermint ice cream.

Two days ago, we went to the grocery store. We are trying to minimize our trips and hoped to buy enough to get us through three weeks. We donned our masks, packed our hand sanitizer, and went together—I bought all the produce and Peter bought dairy and dry goods and we reconvened in the parking lot, feeling like we had just completed a major expedition.

Back at home, I was rinsing off the huge supply of fruit and vegetables while Peter unloaded his bags. That's when I noticed.

"You only bought one carton of peppermint ice cream?"

"Well, yeah, but we have one in the freezer."

"That one is almost gone."

"Oh. How much peppermint ice cream to do you think you'll need?" Peter asked me. This was a difficult question to answer. How much peppermint ice cream will I need?

I'm hoping not too much more.

*Till next time,

Howard Lady Hawks softball team has four players finish with a 4.0 GPA

By SHAWN MORAN

Herald Sportswriter

The Howard Lady Hawks softball team is one of the top junior college programs in the entire nation. Before their 2020 season was cut short due to the coronavirus pandemic, the Lady Hawks were ranked inside the Top 10. The team was comprised of playmakers, such as 2019 National Player of the Year Amanda Gonzalez, all over the field and big bats at the plate. Each player had put forth so much time and effort into preparing for this past season and were beginning to blossom as stars on the softball diamond.

They were also stars in the classroom.

Four players from the 2020 Lady Hawks team finished their academic year with 4.0 GPA's. Most of these players were used to making an impact on the field and they also made an impact in their studies. Daphne Gregory, Marin Musicant, Barbora Saviola, and Sarah Urrea each finished the year with the highest possible GPA.

Getting a semester in college with a 4.0 is a tough task for a normal student who does not spend hours and hours practicing the sport they are passionate about in addition to doing their homework. For several junior college athletes to achieve that illustrious goal is a great accomplishment not only for the players but for the college and softball program themselves.

The Howard coaching staff keeps track of their players' grades with a hands-on approach and Head Coach Kelly Raines could not be happier about their excellent grades.

"Them doing well in class is always the most important thing and not having to worry about those girls in the classroom ever is great" Raines said. "Four girls having a 4.0 is pretty good."

All four players are productive on the field and their determination to be the best possible student-athletes that they can be shows in the way they prepare for the game and the way they study away from the diamond.

Gregory is a freshman catcher from Buena Park, California who spent the majority of her first season in Big Spring in the dugout. She appeared in two games and had three at-bats where she went 3-for-3 with one double and one run batted-in (RBI).

With a shortened season, Gregory was not able to show off more of what she could do behind the plate this spring. In her case, she was able to make up for the low amount of playing time with a great work ethic in school. The catcher will be back in Big Spring next year and will look to make her mark on the Howard program not only in the classroom but also on the field during her sophomore season.

Musicant is a sophomore pitcher who produced both on the mound and at the plate during her two years at Howard. During her freshman year, she appeared in 38 games as a pitcher and started 19 of those games.

She compiled an out-of-the-park 18-3 record during her first season as a Lady Hawk and ranked fourth in the nation with those wins. The sophomore from San Diego also ranked fifth in the country in batting average (.493), fifth in home runs (16), and fourth in slugging percentage (.965) during her freshman season.

She followed up that outstanding first year on campus by going 9-1 through her first 10 starts in the 2020 season. Musicant was not as much of a factor at the plate during her second year in Big Spring and went 11-for-36 (.306) with one home run and seven RBI.

With her combination of skills on the field and intelligence in class, Musicant will surely be continuing her playing career at the next level. With the current pandemic, there is no commitment in sight and Musicant might be able to be eligible for another year of playing time at Howard.

Saviola burst onto the scene this past season as the freshman second baseman led the nation in home runs (12) through 20 games. The Czech Republic native had a sky-high batting average (.419) and led the Lady Hawks in RBI (35) and was second in runs scored (29).

"She has bought into Howard College hitting and has just been a tremendous freshman," Raines said during the season.

Of course, Saviola being an incredible freshman included more than her play on the field. She excelled while in the classroom so far away from her home and will look to repeat her all-around great year at Howard during the 2020-21 school year.

Lastly, Urrea is a sophomore outfielder who was never afraid to make a play on the ball at the wall. During her freshman season in 2019, the center fielder from Camarrillo, California played in 52 games. Her performance at the plate was solid as she finished the year 38-for-98 (.388) with 32 runs scored, 19 stolen bases, and 18 RBI.

The quick-twitched outfielder followed up her solid freshman year by playing in all 20 games during the shortened 2020 season and registered a middle-of-the-pack batting average (.267) while driving in two runs and recording six stolen bases. She is one of the best fielders on the team and also always got the job done in the classroom as well as she did on the field.

How does all of this intelligence help the Lady Hawks on the field?

"It makes it a lot easier to communicate with the players and for them to understand what's going on in the game," Raines said.

Next year, the Howard Lady Hawks will once again be one of the best softball programs in the nation. They will also continue to try excelling as student-athletes so that they will be able to continue their education at a four-year university. Gregory and Saviola will be returning next year and they already have a goal they can set their eyes on:

National Champions with a 4.0 GPA.

Annie's Mailbox

Ditch the Victim Mentality

Dear Annie: Good for Also Slender 50 Years Later. How nice that she has retired in Florida and has access to a pool. She is among those whose financial well-being allows them to swim a mile daily and maintain their appearance in ways that many others cannot.

This reminds me of the celebrities who give birth to twins and 90 days later are back in their size 2 jeans, tummy tucks intact, with personal trainers and chefs.

The working class cannot afford such perks, but the narcissistic Also Slender wants to ensure that we celebrate her success. Applause, everyone. -- Never Was Slender, Still Working

Dear Never Was Slender, Still Working: Your letter is made up of excuses and deflection. This might seem like tough love, but there are plenty of working-class people who are in great shape, and there are plenty of financially successful people who are in terrible shape. It is not fair to take away Also Slender's victory and chalk it up to wealth. People can choose every day whether or not to move their body and exercise. And every day, people can choose what foods they will eat to nourish their body.

Please stop seeing yourself as a victim of circumstances and instead see yourself as the beautiful person you are. The more you do that, the better you will feel about yourself and the less you will need to put down those who have found success.

Dear Annie: My experience 25 years ago with my wife, the mother of our two young sons, was similar to Betrayed by Soulmate's. She changed from being the best mother two little boys could ever wish for to the worst mother they could be cursed with. No need to go into details here. About 10 years after her change, and the end of our family unit, I read an article by the National Alliance on Mental Illness explaining the behaviors of people with bipolar disorder. I had never heard of this illness. My wife had 12 of the 15 behaviors. Fast-forward another 12 years and she took her life.

Bipolar disorder has the highest rate of successful suicide of the many mental illnesses.

It took me years to realize that I needed to educate myself about mental illness. Most of us don't know or realize how many people in our lives are impacted by a mental illness.

Thank you for your educational column, and for helping us realize we all have shared experiences. -- Anonymous

Dear Anonymous: Your story is sad but enlightening. Raising awareness of mental illness is very important. I am so sorry that you lost your wife and that she was taken by this disease. I hope your letter alerts those who find themselves in a similar situation and are suffering.

Send your questions for Annie Lane to dearannie@creators.com.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Aquarius Lunar Ice-breaker

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You may not do what you set out to do, but that is hardly the point. The more you try and accomplish, the better your skills get. Soon your ability will be so sharp that all connected work will be done in a fraction of the time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Gravity is invisible, though the proof of gravity is rather obvious to see. Love is the same way. Today, you'll witness the effects of love and feel its force on a visceral level.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You are coming back to a part of yourself that has been long abroad. It's not that you outgrew or rejected this aspect of you, but you have not been able to prioritize it. That will change.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Privacy is sacred. Your story is yours to impart or not. Keeping things on a need-to-know basis can be as much about self-respect and love as it is about image control.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Consider what it means to feel trapped. If a person believes there is a lack of options, it doesn't matter if it's true or not; limits are in place. Ask the question and repeat: What is really true here?

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Problems just get knottier when left to nature. The thinking -- or more likely the unthinking -- that created a tangle cannot also unravel it. You'll employ your higher mind.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You don't think it's anyone's job to be on your side, and that's what makes for the sweet moment when you notice that it's happening quite naturally. Your team is emerging.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You are enacting patterns that served another situation and no longer apply to the current one.

There's nothing to work on here. As you get used to the way things are now, the unnecessary things will fall away naturally.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). The historic cases of subjects falling in love with their biographers are numerous -- a natural progression, as there is nothing more seductive than interest. Use the concept to your advantage.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). To be true to yourself creates a power that the world will organize itself around. It will be well worth the courage you have to muster in order to make this happen.

BY HOLIDAY MATHIS AQUARIUS

ent is the power to create yourself, which you'll do in affirmations, actions, prayers, exercises, work and reflection. It's your own innermost feelings that will have the greatest bearing on who you become and what happens next. Practice self-love and faith in all you have to offer. Your Leo and Scorpio adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 8, 1, 44, 37 and 11.

ASTROLOGICAL QUESTION: "Do you believe in channeling? I sometimes think I'm working with an energy that is not my own. If this is so, how could I prevent bad energy from coming through and instead gravitate toward the good energy?"

Energy can be mysterious. Like water, it seamlessly connects, unconcerned with origin or ownership. Great lengths must be taken to divide it into territories -- dams are erected, tanks built, glasses formed to indicate "yours" and "mine."

With energy, the containers of "yours" and "mine" can come in the form of a personality. Do you feel like you're working with a personality other than your own, or are you referring to more of a sense of wattage, i.e. at times there are stronger or weaker currents coming through?

To answer your questions, I absolutely believe in channeling, and I agree with the theory that much of art, writing and music is accomplished through the practice of opening up to muses and energies that originate from different places, some of them outside of and others deeply inside of yourself.

There's not a lot you need to do to keep your energy pure, as protection is built into your system. It's sort of like a phone charger situation. You can only receive a charge from energies that are a good match with your own.

Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker Actions speak louder than words

Bridge hand diagram showing North, West, South, and East cards and bidding sequence.

Fast shifted to the ten of diamonds. South took his king and cashed the ace of hearts. West contributing the nine and East the three. Declarer's only chance for the contract now was to continue with the queen, hoping West had started with the doubleton J-9 and East with the K-x-x-x. When this proved to be the case, South lost only one trump trick and so made the contract.

Opening lead — ace of spades. Falsescarding effectively is just as much an art in bridge as the ability to execute. say, a complicated squeeze or endplay. The general purpose of the falsecard is to try to convince the opposition that a certain situation exists that in fact does not exist.

At the second table, South also got to four hearts, and again West led the ace and another spade. Here, too, East returned a diamond to the king and declarer then played the ace of trump. But at this table, West dropped the jack on the ace, thus posing an altogether different problem for South.

Consider this deal from a team-of-four match. At the first table, the bidding went as shown, with South ending up in four hearts. West led the ace and another spade to East's king, and

And so, having decided that West's jack at trick four was probably from the K-J, South led the seven of hearts at trick five. As a result, he lost a trump trick to the nine and later lost another to the king to go down one.

SUDOKU

Sudoku grid with some numbers filled in.

Fun By The Numbers Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

65+ years young?

You're at higher risk.

If you're 65 or older, you are at higher risk of getting very sick from the coronavirus. You must take extra care of yourself.

- Stay home if you can. Wash hands frequently with soap and water for at least 20 seconds. Avoid touching your face. Disinfect frequently touched objects. Wash up after being in public spaces. Stay about six feet away from others. If you're sick, stay home and away from others.

If you have symptoms of fever, dry cough and shortness of breath, call your health care provider before going to their office.

We are all at risk, and some more than others. In challenging times, the choices you make are critical. And their impact is significant. Help slow the spread of coronavirus.

Visit coronavirus.gov for the latest tips and information from the CDC.

Today in History

Today is Thursday, April 16, the 107th day of 2020. There are 259 days left in the year. Today's Highlight in History: On April 16, 1963, Martin Luther King Jr. wrote his "Letter from Birmingham Jail" in which the civil rights activist responded to a group of local clergymen who had criticized him for leading street protests; King defended his tactics, writing, "Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere." On this date: In 1789, President-elect George Washington left Mount Vernon, Virginia, for his inauguration in New York. In 1889, comedian and movie director Charles Chaplin was born in London. In 1917, Vladimir Ilyich Lenin returned to Russia after years of exile. In 1945, during World War II, U.S. troops reached Nuremberg. U.S. forces invaded the Japanese island of Ie Shima (ee-eh she-mah). In 1947, the cargo ship Grandcamp, carrying ammonium nitrate, blew up in the harbor in Texas City, Texas; a nearby ship, the High Flyer, which was carrying ammonium nitrate and sulfur, caught fire and exploded the following day; the blasts and fires killed nearly 600 people. At the South Carolina statehouse, financier Bernard M. Baruch declared: "Let us not be deceived — we are today in the midst of a cold war." In 1960, shortly before midnight, rock-and-roll performer Eddie Cochran, 21, was fatally injured in a taxi crash in Chippenham, Wiltshire, England (he died the next day). In 1962, New Orleans Archbishop Joseph Rummel excommunicated three local Roman Catholics for fighting racial integration of parochial schools. Bob Dylan debuted his song "Blowin' in the Wind" at Gerde's Folk City in New York. In 1972, Apollo 16 blasted off on a voyage to the moon with astronauts John W. Young, Charles M. Duke Jr. and Ken Mattingly on board. In 1977, Alex Haley, author of the best-seller "Roots," visited the Gambian village of Juffure, where, he believed, his ancestor Kunte Kinte was captured as a slave in 1767. In 1986, dispelling rumors he was dead, Libyan leader

Moammar Gadhafi (MOO'-ah-mar gah-DAH'-fee) appeared on television to condemn the U.S. raid on his country and to say that Libyans were "ready to die" defending their nation. In 2003, the Bush administration lowered the terror alert level from orange to yellow, saying the end of heavy fighting in Iraq had diminished the threat of terrorism in the United States. In 2007, in one of America's worst school attacks, a college senior killed 32 people on the campus of Virginia Tech before taking his own life. Ten years ago: The U.S. government accused Wall Street's most powerful firm of fraud, saying Goldman Sachs & Co. had sold mortgage investments without telling buyers the securities were crafted with input from a client who was betting on them to fail. (In July 2010, Goldman agreed to pay $550 million in a settlement with the Securities and Exchange Commission, but did not admit wrongdoing.) Five years ago: U.N. Security Council members were moved to tears as a Syrian doctor, Mohamed Tennari, an eyewitness to suspected chlorine attacks on civilians in Syria, gave a graphic eyewitness account of dying children during a closed-door briefing. The NFL reinstated Minnesota Vikings running back Adrian Peterson, clearing the way for him to return after missing most of the previous season while facing child abuse charges in Texas for disciplining his son with a wooden switch. One year ago: French President Emmanuel Macron pledged to rebuild Paris' Notre Dame Cathedral "even more beautifully," a day after a raging fire destroyed the cathedral's spire and roof; he said he wanted to see the renovation of the landmark completed within five years. France's richest businessman, Bernard Arnault, and his luxury goods group LVMH pledged more than $220 million for the reconstruction of Notre Dame; other French companies pledged aid totaling in the hundreds of millions of dollars. U.S. health regulators halted sales of a type of surgical mesh used to repair pelvic conditions in women, after years of patients' reports of injuries and complications. The Seattle Seahawks and quarterback Russell Wilson announced agreement on a $140 million, four-year extension that made him the highest-paid player in the NFL. Today's Birthdays: Emeritus Pope Benedict XVI is 93. Actor Peter Mark Richman is 93. Singer Bobby Vinton is 85. Denmark's Queen Margrethe II is 80. Basketball Hall of Famer Kareem Abdul-Jabbar is 73. Former Massachusetts first lady Ann Romney is 71. NFL coach Bill

Belichick is 68. Rock singer and former politician Peter Garrett is 67. Actress Ellen Barkin is 66. Actor Michel Gill is 60. Rock musician Jason Scheff (Chicago) is 58. Singer Jimmy Osmond is 57. Rock singer David Pirner (Soul Asylum) is 56. Actor-comedian Martin Lawrence is 55. Actor Jon Cryer is 55. Rock musician Dan Rieser is 54. Actor Peter Billingsley is

49. Actor Lukas Haas is 44. Actress-singer Kelli O'Hara is 44. Actress Claire Foy (TV: "The Crown") is 36. Figure skater Mirai Nagasu is 27. Actress Sadie Sink is 18. Thought for Today: "We think too much and feel too little" — Charles Chaplin, English actor-comedian-director (born this date in 1889, died in 1977).
