CISD taking extracurricular activities online during pandemic

Special to the Herald

With UIL extracurricular activities halted across the state as a precautionary measure to the COVID-19 pandemic, CISD students and their coaches continue to prepare for what they hope is an eventual return to competition.

“We are working with the goal of finishing out the season,” said CISD Athletic Director Chris Joslin. “We are taking the stance that we are coming back to play until they (UIL) tell us we are not. We have a plan of action for the summer months ready to start the moment we can.”

Texas school district campuses closed in March and all UIL activities were cancelled to encourage social distancing and help slow the spread of COVID-19. Texas public schools are currently closed until May 4.

The UIL governing body announced all activities have been suspended indefinitely, but have said it still intends to complete state championships for all sports.

Since then, students have continued their course of study through virtual learning and extracurricular coaches are using that same technology, following UIL guidelines, to help prepare their students to return to competition once restrictions are lifted.

“We have set up a Google Classroom for junior high and high school kids in athletics,” Joslin said. “They have worksheets, and videos to watch and comment on. We post a workout for them for the week. Coaches are meeting with their teams on Zoom. We are reaching out to the kids anyway we can.”

Academic coaches are in a holding pattern until they can get more direction from the UIL, said CHS Principal John-Michael Leggett.

“We have not been told anything past the suspension,” he added. “I am hoping for more guidance in the coming weeks.”

If the restrictions are lifted by May 4, the UIL governing body said it plans to provide an acclimation period for rehearsals and practices to occur before resuming contests and games.

Recognizing area students: Julianna Nava-Willborn

By ALLEN MORRIS

Herald Contributing Writer

The Big Spring Herald has been recognizing Star Students each week as part of the education page. Due to distance learning being implemented for the past several weeks, students and teachers have been adjusting to this new way of “normal.” However, the accomplishments these students have achieved still deserve to be recognized, and this week the recognition goes to Star Student Julianna Nava-Willborn.

She is in the BSHS class of 2022 and positively impresses all who are lucky enough to come in contact with her. She is a lifelong Big Springer and is the daughter of Natalie Nava and Isaac Willborn.

“My family and friends are important to me,” Julianna said. “They help me when I am lost and confused. No matter what is happening they would be there for me. As well, I will be there for them no matter the occasion. They will move mountains for me and I will do the same for them.”

When asked what she wants to accomplish with her life she said, “I want to have a good job where I can support my family when they need it the most. I also want to accomplish getting my PhD in pharmaceuticals.”

Julianna said she was inspired to pursue this line of education and work because her family is in the medical field.

“I would really love to be a part of it. There are many different ways to be in the medical industry and this is a different way that I wanted to take,” she said. “I also think of it this way, there is more than one way to help save a life. Perhaps I could make a change to it too which is why I want to get my PhD in pharmaceuticals.”

Her favorite quote is: “What three things cannot long be hidden? the Sun, the Moon, and the Truth” by Buddha “Julianna is such a hard working student. She is a great student, dedicated learner, and she always lends a helping hand! I truly appreciate that she takes the time to help her peers,” Meghan Whitford, BSISD teacher, said.

Brooke Everett, one of the teachers at BSISD helping students learn general business practices added, “It’s been a pleasure getting to know Julianna this year. Although I haven’t had her in my class, Julianna has been a strong leader within the Interact Club. She is always willing to help others within our community which is what Interact is all about. This year alone, Julianna has helped to sack food for students in need at Food-2Kids, ring the Salvation Army Bell during Christmas time, work the concession stand at our Valentine Dance fundraiser, and most importantly, Julianna helped to spearhead Interact Club’s Christmas party for children for the second year in a row. Big Spring High School and the community of Big Spring are blessed by Julianna’s caring heart and her desire to make a positive difference.”

Assistant Principal, Elissa Bancroft said, “Julianna is such a sweetie! She has a heart for serving others, and she is a great member of the Interact Club. I know she works hard at balancing extracurricular activities as well as her classwork. Julianna will make the world a better place one smile at a time.”

The 1900s were the century of physics, but this century will be the century of medicine and a big part of that will be pharmacology.

The average person responds to problems. The smart person solves them, and the genius prevents problems from happening... Julianna will be in the latter group.

Spreading a little bit of hope in the neighborhood

Community Report Photo/Sue Keller
Cali, Grace, Bella and Bree joined together this past week and did their part to share a little bit of positivity through their neighborhood. The group of girls put together their artistic and creative sides to make a sign encouraging those who drove by and those who live in the neighborhood to not forget there is hope and together we will get through this. One of their neighbors, Sue Keller, was encouraged and inspired by the sign, she wanted to share the hope the girls were sharing with the community.

Big Spring's Dillan Guzman set to take on his next challenge following graduation

By SHAWN MORAN

Herald Sportswriter

Preparing for high school graduation can be nerve-racking for students who must decide what they plan to do with their future, usually before even getting their diploma.

A large group of students will choose to go the college route and continue their education for two-to-four more years and possibly even more. Some students will go straight into their careers and skip the college experience. Finally, a few brave souls will choose to join the military upon graduation and will go directly into training to learn how to defend their country.

Big Spring's Dillan Guzman falls into the latter category.

"The first recruiter that I talked to was from the Army," Guzman said. "He told me all of the benefits and told me all of the stuff that I could have and what would be possible if I chose to go into the Army as my career. He really convinced me and I wanted to go forward and serve my country."

Serving your country is one of the most honorable things that a United States citizen can do and Guzman is already prepared for the challenge.

After talking to a recruiter last year, Guzman took it upon himself to enlist early and he will be leaving for boot camp in late June. In the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic madness, Guzman has been preparing himself for his new career that starts in a little over two months.

After coaching him for the past several years, Steers baseball coach Daniel Carrillo believes that Guzman will have no issue making the transition to the Army. The senior played on both the baseball and basketball teams and always gave one hundred percent effort every time that he took that hardwood or the baseball diamond. On the court, Guzman was a tough defender who had the ability to knock down shots from beyond the arc. And on the baseball diamond, he was one of the most consistent batters at the plate this past season. In both sports his coaches always knew what kind of effort and energy they were going to get out of Guzman.

"He's just a grinder," Carrillo said. "He practices so hard. He just works really, really hard and doesn't say much but he leads by example."

Guzman, who describes himself as an underdog, will be entering training for the Army in the intelligence analytics field and will need his "grinder" work ethic to adapt to his new role and learn as quickly as possible so that he can excel at his job. After years of taking coaching from Carrillo and Steers basketball coach Kris Hise, Guzman should have no issue adapting to his new environment or learning how to do his job.

How does Carrillo think his versatile player will adapt?

"For Dillan going into the Army, the biggest hurdle is 'Can you get yourself up and can you do what you have to do everyday?' I think he can do that and I think that's why he'll do great in the Army."

Guzman added, "I'm really competitive and I think my competitive side will Guzman (30) runs to celebrate a last second win over Monahans with his teammates back in early January.

stick with me and I'll always want to be better than the next guy. I feel like I'm going to be the next competitive guy in the Army that I was in high school."

During this past shortened baseball season there was something interesting that would happen from the dugout whenever Guzman would get a hit. After Guzman had safely made his way on-base, a group of his teammates would yell and holler from the dugout phrases such as "Army Strong!"

While there was definitely some kind-hearted ribbing from his teammates about his decision to join the Army, Guzman knew that, at its core, their shouting was to show how much they support him.

"Whenever it first started out it was all just joking around," Guzman said. "But whenever I would actually get a hit and was leading off base I would hear them from the dugout. It made me feel really good and it made me feel like they have my back and they're supporting me on this journey that I'm going to go through."

After not playing baseball during his junior year, Guzman regretted the decision and was back on the field this spring. Unfortunately, the season lasted only one month and he was unable to finish out his senior year the way so many athletes about to graduate across the country were also unable to.

Guzman's final high school sports season was cut short because of the coronavirus pandemic but he is not dwelling on what he cannot control. For him, it is almost time to put high school in the rearview and begin to focus on his future in the Army. Although his senior year is not ending the way he would have wanted, Guzman is handling it in stride.

His underdog mentality is sure to stick with him and no one expects anything other than success from Guzman down the road.

That includes himself.

"If I want to do something, I'm going to do it and no matter how long it's going to take me or how hard it's going to be, I'm going to do it."

This Date In History

Today in History
Today is Wednesday, April 22, the 113th day of 2020. There are 253 days left in the year.
Today's Highlight in History:
On April 22, 1915, the first full-scale use of deadly chemicals in warfare took place as German forces unleashed chlorine gas against Allied troops at the start of the Second Battle of Ypres (EE'-preh) in Belgium during World War I; thousands of soldiers are believed to have died.
On this date:
In 1616, Spanish novelist Miguel de Cervantes, author of "Don Quixote," died in Madrid. (The date is according to the New Style Gregorian calendar that was adopted by Spain in 1582.)
In 1864, Congress authorized the use of the phrase "In God We Trust" on U.S. coins.
In 1898, with the United States and Spain on the verge of war, the U.S. Navy began blockading Cuban ports. Congress authorized creation of the 1st U.S. Volunteer Cavalry, also known as the "Rough Riders."
In 1954, the publicly televised sessions of the Senate Army-McCarthy hearings began.
In 1964, President Lyndon B. Johnson opened the New York World's Fair.
In 1970, millions of Americans concerned about the environment observed the first "Earth Day."
In 1994, Richard M. Nixon, the 37th president of the United States, died at a New York hospital four days after suffering a stroke; he was 81.
In 2000, in a dramatic pre-dawn raid, armed immigration agents seized Elian Gonzalez, the Cuban boy at the center of a custody dispute, from his relatives' home in Miami; Elian was reunited with his father at Andrews Air Force Base near Washington.
In 2003, President George W. Bush announced he would nominate Alan Greenspan for a fifth term as Federal Reserve chairman.
In 2004, Army Ranger Pat Tillman, who'd traded in a multi-million-dollar NFL contract to serve in Afghanistan, was killed by friendly fire; he was 27.
In 2005, Zacarias Moussaoui (zak-uh-REE'-uhs moo-SOW'-ee) pleaded guilty in a federal courtroom outside Washington, D.C. to conspiring with the Sept. 11 hijackers to kill Americans. (Moussaoui is serving a life prison sentence.)

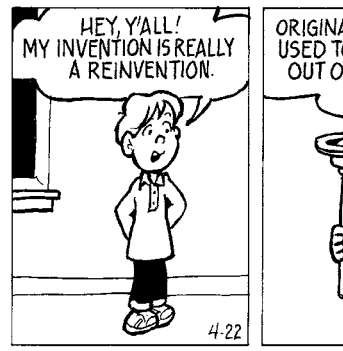

In 2013, a seriously wounded Dzhokhar Tsarnaev (joh-HAHR' tsahr-NEY'-ehv) was charged in his hospital room with bombing the Boston Marathon in a plot with his older brother, Tamerlan (TAM'-ehr-luhn), who died after a fierce gunbattle with police.
Richie Havens, 72, the folk singer and guitarist who was the first performer at the 1969 Woodstock festival, died in Jersey City, New Jersey.
Ten years ago: The Deepwater Horizon oil platform, operated by BP, sank into the Gulf of Mexico two days after a massive explosion that killed 11 workers. The NCAA announced a 14-year, $10.8 billion deal with CBS and Turner Broadcasting under which every game during an expanded March Madness schedule would be broadcast live nationally for the first time in the tournament's 73-year history.
Five years ago: A federal judge in Philadelphia approved a settlement agreement expected to cost the NFL $1 billion over 65 years to resolve thousands of concussion lawsuits. A federal appeals court in San Francisco overturned home run leader Barry Bonds' obstruction of justice conviction, ruling 10-1 that his meandering answer before a grand jury in 2003 was not material to the government's investigation into illegal steroids distribution.
One year ago: Democratic presidential candidate Elizabeth Warren proposed the elimination of existing student loan debt for millions of Americans as part of a sweeping set of education funding proposals. The Trump administration said it would no longer exempt any countries from U.S. sanctions if they continued to buy Iranian oil. A federal court in Detroit declared it unconstitutional for police to mark a car's tires with chalk in order to enforce parking rules; the court said the practice was like entering property without a search warrant. (The ruling applied to Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee.)

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
3 ♠	Dble	Pass	4 ♠
Pass	Pass	Dble

Opening lead — king of clubs.

How a player fares in bridge over the long haul is largely a matter of how many mistakes he or she makes. The luck factor may be important in the short term, but in the long run, it is the mistake factor that determines how well or poorly a player does.

Take this case where East doubled four spades on the bidding shown. It was a dreadful double because East had no reason to think his side could score four tricks after his partner had opened with a preemptive bid.

Even worse, the double was disastrous because it helped declarer make the contract by revealing that the missing trumps were bunched in the East hand. Declarer then proceeded to put this information to maximum use.

West led a club and continued the suit. Declarer ruffed with dummy's eight and played a low heart to the ten. After the finesse succeeded, South cashed the A-J of diamonds and A-K of hearts, scrupulously avoiding any trump leads.

He then cashed dummy's king of diamonds, discarding a club, and continued with the queen. East, now down to the K-J-10-3 of trump and the queen of hearts, ruffed with the ten. He then returned the queen of hearts, ruffed by declarer with dummy's nine.

The nine-of-diamonds lead compelled East to ruff with the jack and return a spade from the K-3 into dummy's A-Q. As a result, South made four spades doubled.

Without the double, declarer would almost certainly have led a trump earlier in the play, after which he could not have recovered.

Tomorrow: Sylvia stages a neat recovery.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Tomorrow's Horoscope

New Moon, New Earth

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Don't be too quick to align with the common opinion. It's often reductive. One person's weed is another person's gourmet salad or the star of their Pinterest-worthy bouquet.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You will receive transmissions on an energetic level. You'll think of someone and then cross paths, or you'll have an idea and then be contacted by just the person to help.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). When you get into a relationship, you hope it will lead to a more expansive life, not a more constrained one. This was once your subtle wish, and now it's a conscious criteria.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Give your reality a good shake. Imagine what your life would be like without the current content. Imagine a different home, work and relationship, and you'll appreciate what you have. Or you'll see where things could change.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You may have a plan, but don't worry if you veer off. It just wasn't Velcro enough to keep your creative spirit fixed to it. You will thrive in the in-between moments of unstructured time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You'll connect with your tribe, essentially having the same experience as your ancestors did 20,000 years ago when they sat around a fire and shared stories and dances under the stars.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You may hear yourself paying lip service to an idea that your heart is not totally backing up. Your awareness of this conflict is most fortuitous. Work it out. Save yourself from fully committing to a bad fit.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). In his poem "Truth is the Person Who is There" Geoff Bouvier suggests, "The sky meets the mountain with no further obligation." You'll be the sky. You'll be the mountain. Both are grateful positions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You'll be negotiating in some way. It may feel uncomfortable to ask for what you really want, but it's important to do it anyway. Definitely don't cave to the other person's stance. Meet in the middle.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You're in a circumstance that's very much like a game and yet there are at least 20 more important things than winning at stake. Top three: the people you get to meet, the honing of skills and team spirit.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Like a shaman, you will have your foot in two different worlds today, forming a bridge between those who would otherwise find it very difficult to communicate. You'll carry messages from one side to the other.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Everyone prefers environments where they feel large and in charge. Going where you know you'll be out of your element -- whether it's an actual place, relationship or other realm -- takes guts. You have guts.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (April 22). Your cosmic birthday gift includes a bundle of transcendent moments. You define yourself in new and unique ways, claiming a path that's all your own. From matters of spirituality to relationships, you are recognizing your own needs and customizing approaches and systems that bring precisely the experience you crave. Aquarius and Libra adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 7, 40, 28, 13 and 9.
