United Way conducting economic impact survey across Texas

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

COVID-19 swept across the nation in early March and is still making waves. While Howard County has been one of the counties to not see a large number of cases – as of yet – there has still been a significant impact on the community, local business and families.

The United Way of Big Spring and Howard County has joined forces with United Way of Texas and is conducting a survey to assess the economic impact the pandemic has had on families. All Texas families are invited to complete the United Way Texas COVID-19 survey here: <https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/txcovid19impact>. The survey will remain open through June 24. Individual responses are confidential.

“Every Texas family has felt the impact of COVID-19 and even though much of our state has re-opened, life remains uncertain. This survey represents an opportunity to better understand the impact that COVID-19 has had on Texans, to help inform state and community leaders in how best to support Texans in need,” Adrianna Cuellar Rojas, United Ways of Texas President and CEO, said.

Recently, in an effort to extend support locally, the United Way of Big Spring and Howard County conducted a T-shirt fundraiser that raised enough funds – through the support of local businesses and individuals – to distribute 300 care packages.

“Giving back to our community is the driving force behind what we do year-round,” Christian Fair, United Way of Big Spring and Howard County Executive Director, said. “As we began looking around at all the blows that had hit Big Spring, with the pandemic, collapse of oil prices, and shutdown of the economy, our board felt we could offer some immediate assistance. Our agencies make an impact on this community daily and while we are able to support them year-round, we wanted to do something that would help alleviate that burden away and impact the people in our community directly.”

The Wash Your Hands, Fill Your Trunk fundraiser was a unique opportunity to bring the community in and embrace the immediate needs. That fundraiser led to more ideas and ignited the idea of another project that would help support the agencies, in addition to the original annual allocations. The survey that is being distributed now through June 24 will help pinpoint exactly where that support is needed.

BSPD issues statement on peaceful assembly

Special to the Herald

One of the most fundamental constitutional rights granted to all citizens of the United States of America is the right of the people to peaceably assemble. Over the past several days, there have been a group of citizens exercising this constitutional right in the area of Gregg and Martin Luther King in a peaceful manner. It has come to the attention of the Big Spring Police Department that there are individuals not respecting this peaceful assembly and that these individuals are driving by expelling exhaust, yelling obscenities, racial slurs and exhibiting obscene gestures. CHS seniors donate $800 to Food2Kids

Special to the Herald

The Coahoma High School Class of 2020 missed their last prom and senior trip. Instead, they left a legacy to their community by donating funds that would have gone to those end-of-year traditions to organizations that support students in their county.

“One of their gifts went to the Food2Kids organization in Big Spring,” said Katie Valencia, senior class sponsor. “They donated $800 to help with their program. They chose this organization because of the work Food2Kids does with local students to help keep them fed. Our seniors felt this was especially important during these uncertain times.”

Food2Kids provides a weekend food sack during the school year to Big Spring ISD students, who live in food-insecure households.

Before the pandemic hit, more than one-in-four Texas households were already struggling, led by workers that were unable to earn enough to cover the basics or to save for an unexpected life crisis or loss of a job. For many Texans, the economic crisis has stripped away family assets and abruptly repositioned families into unfamiliar financial positions. The survey seeks information on a wide range of topics, including the most pressing concerns, job changes, childcare challenges and economic changes that Texas families are navigating.

“On a daily basis, United Ways across our state are focused on helping Texans thrive. With COVID-19, the needs of Texas families, many who were already struggling prior to the pandemic, have been amplified, with disruptions in workforce, childcare, school and overall life,” said Cuellar Rojas. “The information gathered from this survey will help inform United Ways and others as we work to respond to both the immediate needs of Texans, and as we look forward to the next phase of recovery and what will be needed most to help get families back on track.”

The survey takes about 10 minutes and includes questions such as: What are you concerned about in the weeks and months ahead? (Check all that apply)

- You or a loved one getting COVID-19
- Paying rent/mortgage
- Paying other bills
- Medical issues other than COVID-19
- Mental health issue
- Children’s well-being

- Supporting my child/remote learning
- Adequate childcare
- Getting food and other things I need
- The economic health of my community
- Attending church or other social gatherings
- Other. Please specify.

“We (United Way of Big Spring and Howard County) are constantly looking for ways to support our community in a way that is beneficial and relevant,” Fair said. “Our agencies do a wonderful job and being able to support them is an honor. As we continue to make our way through this pandemic, our board will continue to reach out to the community to provide support where we can.”

This discussion could result in a Closed Session under the Texas Government Code 551.074: for the purpose of considering the appointment, employment, evaluation, reassignment, duties, discipline, or dismissal of a public officer or employee or to hear complaints or charges against a public officer or employee.

As part of the Superintendent’s Report an update will be provided regarding employments, resignations and retirements and the Summer Leadership Institute which will now be a virtual conference. Discussion will also take place about TASA/TASB Convention.

Other agenda items include:

- Financial Reports
- Approval of May 14, 2020 board meeting minutes

Pam Steel, Food2Kids board president.

After campuses closed in March as a precautionary measure to help slow the spread of COVID-19, the organization more than doubled its efforts to provide 960 week-end food sacks.

“The way Big Spring ISD delivered daily meals was by bus at locations around the city,” Steel said. “We knew the meals were going to children, but we didn’t know if all the meals were going to children who fit into the age group we normally provide. So we knew there was a need, and we tried to step it up. We took a leap of faith and God provided.”

Although Food2Kids purchases groceries from the West Texas Food Bank at a discount rate, the additional meals did increase expenses.

Steel said the organization’s board felt it could take on the extra expense thanks to past financial contributions from the community. However, Steel said donations such as the $800 gift from the Coahoma High School seniors help to continue its mission.

“We are very appreciative of Coahoma and everyone who donated,” she said.

Besides Food2Kids, the senior class donated money to the Coahoma ISD Life Skills program.

“All their donations went to programs and causes they feel help students and their education,” Valencia said.

BBB tips for parents choosing summer camps as Texas reopens

Serving the Heart of Texas on choosing a summer camp in COVID-19

Special to the Herald

Due to the uncertainty surrounding the COVID-19 pandemic, many parents have delayed their search for summer camps. On Monday, May 18, Governor Abbott announced summer camps would be among the next organizations to open in Phase II of reopening Texas. Now, many parents will decide if and where to send their children to camp this summer.

On May 31, both day and overnight camps will be allowed to begin operating under increased safety regulations. While individual camps will decide when they will accept campers, they must all adhere to new safety standards.

The YMCA of the USA (Y-USA) and the American Camp Association (ACA) have teamed up to provide educational resources for summer camp staff on supporting camp safety. The document includes guidelines for subjects such as communication, transportation, food services and screening for COVID-19.

Better Business Bureau serving the Heart of Texas offers these tips to parents searching for the right summer camp:

Check for accreditation. Regardless of pandemic-related issues, the safest way to ensure your child's safety is to send them to a trustworthy camp. ACA accredited camps must meet the 32 national summer camp standards, and BBB accreditation requires the organization meet eight standards of trust. Search for camps in the ACA and BBB directories to check for accreditation.

Know required safety standards. Texas is requiring all camps to follow minimum health protocols, and camps may choose to implement additional safety procedures. These protocols include measures such as monitoring health of staff and campers, limiting visitor access to campgrounds, adapting meal distribution and providing sanitation products to staff and campers. Minimum health protocols can be found on the office of the governor's website.

Use references. Physical visitations may be difficult or not allowed at all. In lieu of visiting the camp, ask if they have a list of references or past campers you can contact. You may also want to consider asking trusted friends or family their recommendations for summer camps. Reviews and complaint histories can also be found on the camp's business profile at BBB.org.

Assess medical resources. Camps should already have resources for treating sick and injured campers. Ask about the camp's normal medical facilities and how those resources have changed to accommodate potential COVID-19 situations. You may also want to ask how the camp and staff are following minimum protocols and what additional measures they are taking.

Review contracts and fees. As always, you should review contracts before you sign them. Find out the total cost and if a deposit is required. See which activities or services require additional fees. You should also check for details regarding refunds, especially in the event of cancellations related to COVID-19. If that information is not outlined in the contract, ask a camp employee.

To learn more about choosing trustworthy summer camps, visit us at BBB.org. Find more information about the ACA and Y-USA's joint efforts at ymca.net.

UIL announces changes to high school summer workout protocol coming soon

By SHAWN MORAN

Herald Sportswriter

The University Interscholastic League (UIL) allowed summer workouts to begin for high schools across the state starting just this past Monday. Now, following just a few days of coaches and student-athletes working together in-person, the UIL has announced further changes to the workout requirements. The changes are as follows:

Beginning on June 22, the indoor workout capacity can be increased from 25 to 50 percent. Instead of each group consisting of roughly 15 athletes during outdoor workouts, they will be able to increase to 25 athletes but still must keep a safe distance between themselves and the next group. During indoor workouts, those groups will now be expanded to 15 student-athletes.

In strength and conditioning workouts, any equipment that has been used has been downgraded from the staff MUST having to disinfect it. Now, the requirements state that the program SHOULD thoroughly disinfect each piece of equipment before and after each use. Finally, the last adjustment to the restrictions is that the 20:1 student-to-staff ratio has been removed effective immediately.

"UIL will continue to work with state officials and monitor CDC and other federal guidance to determine any potential modifications," UIL said in their press release. "Schools should take their local context into account when deciding whether to offer summer strength and conditioning on campus by monitoring the situation on the Texas Department of State Health Services dashboard. Schools should follow all local and state requirements when considering strength and conditioning activities."

Coaches around Howard County had been patiently waiting for the return of athletics and they may now begin to expand their workout regimen and come up with new drills that are suitable for a bigger group. There have been no setbacks in Big Spring or Howard County when it comes to the coronavirus, so each local high school should be able to increase their team workout size later this month when the restrictions ease.

The long list of requirements each coach and athlete must follow in order for those summer workouts to change to those other rules.

Schools must continue to follow all requirements of state and local authorities. Here is a list of some of the rules that will still need to be followed:

-Attendance at workouts must be optional for students and in compliance with the rules for Summer Strength/Conditioning Programs & Sport Specific Skill Instruction noted below. In addition to on-campus workout options, schools should consider providing students guidance for working out at home or remotely away from school. This can include virtual workouts, emailed or otherwise electronically delivered workout instructions, or any delivery model approved by the local school district.

-Attendance records shall be kept, however, students shall not be required or asked to make up missed days or workouts.

The remainder of the rules and guidelines can be found on the UIL website.

Restrictions are slowly but surely being eased and it would not be a surprise if workouts were operating at 100 percent capacity by mid-to-late July. Each local high school has been hard at work for three days of workouts so far and the hard work will continue throughout the summer. There have been no setbacks with students or coaches feeling ill and the workouts seem to be a positive for everyone involved.

After three months of no sports, things are beginning to go back to normal. The Big Spring community can only hope that these workouts continue without a hiccup and that the UIL continues to ease their restrictions. As of now, things are moving in the right direction and all sports are on track to begin on time this fall.

Lady Raider basketball mourns passing of Noel Johnson

By TEXAS TECH ATHLETICS

LUBBOCK, Texas – Texas Tech Lady Raider basketball legend and 1993 NCAA Champion Noel Johnson passed away Tuesday at the age of 47 after losing her battle with ovarian cancer.

"I am heartbroken today," Hall of Fame coach Marsha Sharp said. "Noel Johnson was one of the most decorated and beloved players in the history of Texas Tech Lady Raider Basketball. Her teammates and coaches respected and loved her greatly. We all send our heartfelt thoughts and prayers to her family, her friends and her Midwestern State family. Rest in peace, Noey! We will miss you everyday."

"We've lost a great member of our Texas Tech family," Texas Tech director of athletics Kirby Hocutt said. "Noel's affection for the school and the Lady Raiders was genuine. She was a great player but an even better person. She brought the same fight she had on the court to her battle with cancer. She will be missed, and our thoughts and prayers go out to her family."

"We are deeply saddened by the passing of Noel," head coach Marlene Stollings said. "Her determination, grit, and willingness to give back to our team even while fighting for her life will forever serve as an inspiration to all of us. She was a passionate leader who played a pivotal role in winning the 1993 national championship changing Texas Tech sport history forever. We know her legacy will continue to shine as a beacon of hope forever in the hearts of everyone who knew her."

Johnson was Texas Tech's starting point guard for the Lady Raiders' 1993 run to the NCAA Championship, and was instrumental in the program winning four-consecutive Southwest Conference titles and reaching four NCAA Sweet 16's during her career in Lubbock. She played at Texas Tech from 1991-95.

A three-time All-SWC selection and a member of the All-Time Lady Raider SWC team, Johnson remains one of the most prolific three-point shooters in program history, with her name still smattering the Texas Tech record books 25 years after her final game in scarlet and black. Johnson shot 51.1 percent from long range during the 1994-95 season alone, which still stands as the top single-season average ever by a Lady Raider.

Johnson shot 41.1 percent from three-point range for her career which ranks sixth in school history, and her 256 career three-pointers rank second in program history with 1,210 career points, while her 410 career assists ranks seventh all-time among Lady Raiders.

As a junior during the 1994 season, Johnson was named Team MVP by head coach Marsha Sharp. That season, she also was named the Texas Tech Jeannine McHaney Athlete of the Year, which goes annually to an athlete who displays excellence in the classroom, courage on the athletic field, and a never-ending commitment to excellence. During her junior season, Johnson also earned a selection to the SWC All-Tournament Team.

Last fall, Johnson was inducted into the Southwest Conference Hall of Fame, which followed enrollment in the Texas High School Basketball Hall of Fame in 2018 and the Texas Tech Hall of Fame in 2005.

Johnson spent the last 12 years as head coach at Midwestern State, where she became the winningest coach in the program's history in 2017. She led the Mustangs to one Lone Star Conference regular season title and another LSC Tournament championship. She guided the Mustangs to three postseason appearances during her career.

In 2013, Johnson was named the Small College Coach of the Year by the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches. She was named the Lone Star Conference Coach of the Year in 2012.

Johnson began her coaching career as an assistant coach at Texas State, where she served from 1998-2007 and helped the Bobcats capture a Southland Conference title in 2003. She also served as an assistant coach at North Texas from 2007-08 before taking over as head coach at Midwestern State.

Johnson graduated from Texas Tech in 1995 with a bachelor of Exercise and Sports Science degree with a minor in English. She went on to earn her master's degree in Education from Texas State in 2002.

THSCA Convention & Coaching School comes to San Antonio

Special to the Herald

The Texas High School Coaches Association, Visit San Antonio and the Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center are excited to announce that the 88th Annual THSCA Coaching School and Convention will be held on July 19-21 at the Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center in San Antonio.

"There is NO better opportunity of bringing Texas back together than through our Coaches and the 'Miracle of the Huddle', said THSCA Executive Director Joe Martin. "Along with our valued partner Visit San Antonio, we continue to create opportunities that will enhance your experience as we celebrate our 90th Anniversary."

"The connection between the Texas High School Coaches Association and San Antonio extends all the way back to 1933, when the organization held its first coaching school here," said Casandra Matej, President & CEO of Visit San Antonio. "We're elated that more than eight decades later, that relationship is as strong as ever. After these past few difficult months, it's exciting to open our doors again to welcome the association to a safe, comfortable destination. San Antonio is open for business again, and together we'll play a winning role in Texas' economic recovery."

"We're so pleased to be hosting the Texas High School Coaches Association again at the Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center," said Patricia Muzquiz Cantor, the City of San Antonio's Executive Director of Convention & Sports Facilities. "Attendees at this year's school will experience a facility that has taken the extra, extensive steps necessary to ensure the welfare and comfort of our guests and staff. Coaches recognize and value great preparation, and that's what they're going to enjoy when they return to San Antonio."

THSCA has been monitoring local, state, and national protocol for safety during COVID-19 and will be following all the recommendations for health and safety for all attendees and staff.

An updated agenda will be released this week. Due to the COVID-19 protocols that are in place it is not possible for us to host the Hall of Honor banquet this year. The banquet will be moved to February 21 at Esports Stadium in Arlington, Texas in conjunction with our annual Texas Coaches Leadership Summit. We will, however, recognize all Hall of Honor award winners and state champions at the General Meeting on Tuesday, July 21 at 11:30 am in the Stars at Night Ballroom. State champions will be able to receive their ring at the General Meeting.

We encourage all coaches to pre-register and plan to attend our 88th annual Coaching School. We will conduct elections in the Regional meetings for which you have to be present to vote and to be considered a nominee. In our General Meeting you will vote in a new President-Elect and you must be present to cast your vote.

THSCA is developing options for those who are unclear regarding their plans to attend and for coaches experiencing school district imposed "Travel Bans". Please go to www.thsca.com on June 15 for updates regarding access to the 2020 "Virtual Coaching School" platform for Pre-Registered attendees.

Opening lead — three of hearts.

Cards that are seemingly unimportant insofar as making the contract is concerned are often played indiscriminately, but there are hands where very careful handling of such cards is required.

Consider this deal played some years ago by Rafael Bufill, a well-known Spanish expert. There seemed to be nothing to the play when he took West's heart lead with the ace, but a complication arose when he cashed the king of spades and West showed out. Bufill continued with a spade to the ace, finessed the ten and then extracted East's last trump with the queen.

At this point, the 10-8-3 of diamonds appeared to be of little consequence, since they were destined to be played on dummy's A-K-Q. But Bufill, anticipating potential danger ahead, made the precautionary move of leading the ten toward dummy.

West followed low, and Bufill went up with the queen. This did not prove fatal, however, because he returned to his hand with a club to lead the eight of diamonds through West.

West covered with the nine, taken with the king, but was helpless when Bufill next crossed to his hand with a club and led the three of diamonds toward the A-7-4-2, trapping the jack and thus making the grand slam.

Observe that South would have gone down had he made the mistake of leading the diamond three initially instead of the ten. After West followed low and declarer put up the queen, there would have been no way to recover.

West would have covered the next diamond lead of the ten with the jack, but later would not have covered the eight with the nine, thereby blocking the suit.

It should be noted that if East had doubled seven spades to request a diamond lead (a Lightner double, asking West to lead dummy's first-bid suit), and everyone passed, the grand slam would have been defeated.

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Solar Square to Neptune

ARIES (March 21-April 19). The more honest you are, the better you know yourself. And the better you know yourself, the easier it is to choose your next transformation.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Today's luck and bounty will make you smile. Even so, it's not why the day is great. Your perfect day will always involve giving to others and helping without expectation of something in return.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Love is a superpower you were born with and you use without thinking about, just like you use your sense of touch or smell. The time you're most aware of your natural gift to love is when something is standing in the way of it.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Looking for signs to point you to your next move? They will be ever-present. In fact, you will find them wherever your eyes land. Of course, it's the interpretation that matters. Trust your inner knowing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). The whole world is interesting to you, and your curiosity about it makes you brave and unselfconscious -- a powerful combination and, arguably, your most natural state.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). The reason there aren't a lot of award ceremonies in superhero movies is because heroes don't need accolades. You should know. You're the hero of the day, at least to yourself, and likely to the one that you lift and love.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). It will be lucky to ponder your relationship with food and make some experimental adjustments. It's not just about what you eat; the why and how matter, too, especially the role of emotion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You seek deals that are mutually satisfying, but different things satisfy different people. To make the most appropriate and effective bid, first find out what others desire.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Children play make-believe games all the time to try out different roles. You pretend, too. Instead of thinking of pretense as false, think of it as the early stages of becoming.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). There's a great deal of satisfaction on offer today, mainly because you feel good about what you've done so far. In short, you keep showing up to fulfill your own plans. It's working for you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Breath

cleanses. Water cleanses. Loving feelings cleanse. Just as you wash your hands to prevent the spread of germs, you wash your spirit so that you may share only the highest and best of yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). It is possible to busy oneself with a million tasks and still have a million left. For just a moment, slip into the sublime state in which there is nothing to do and no one to be. When you come back, ask: What is necessary here?

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (June 11). This world is your world, and you take personal responsibility for what happens in it. You'll be involved and connected with a vast network of like minds, doing what you can to fix something you did not break. The noble effort will not be all seriousness. Your year will be filled with friends and games, adventures and love. Leo and Aquarius adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 13, 2, 10, 14 and 5.

ASTROLOGICAL EVENT, THE SUN AND NEPTUNE SQUARE

OFF: The Gemini sun and Neptune in Pisces throw a foggy filter on our self-concept. This is a tense aspect that settles its low cloud in the valley between who we think we are and who we want to be.

How well do you know yourself? Social scientists suggest that most people have predictable blind spots that prevent them from seeing themselves clearly. On personality questions having to do with assertiveness, creativity and more, studies show that our colleagues, friends and sometimes even total strangers can often predict behavior with twice the accuracy as the self-predicting individual. We have intimate access to our own psyche, but that doesn't mean we understand it any better than we understand the inner workings of the phone or computer we use every day.

The smart move is, therefore, to seek out and rely somewhat on the feedback of others. This is not the same as wanting validation or putting too much stock in what others think of you. It's the different points of view and not the feelings and opinions that surround them that matter here. It is one experience to see yourself in a mirror or in the lens of a camera phone. The brave will also want to see what the security camera next door has picked up -- the view of you from further away, walking down that old familiar street.

Annie's Mailbox

Looking for a Real Connection

Dear Annie: Would you happen to know a dating site that isn't crazy expensive and that would allow me to find someone who's not fake? I'm looking to meet someone real, preferably someone who loves animals like I do. I'd appreciate any help you can offer. -- Just Me in Germany

Dear Just Me: There are plenty of dating websites that offer free basic memberships and affordable premium memberships, such as OkCupid (which is free to join, and $5.95 per month for six-month premium subscription) and Plenty of Fish (also free to join, with premium memberships available for $5 to $10 a month). Though it's not a dating site, MeetUp.com offers opportunities to meet people who share similar interests, and you might consider volunteering somewhere that allows you to work with animals and meet like-minded folks.

As for verifying whether someone's the real deal, a few practical tips: Look them up on social media; FaceTime, Skype or Zoom with them rather than just messaging; and, of course, always, always meet in a public place.

Dear Annie: I am a 92-year-old lady, and have outlived my child, immediate family and many dear friends. Sadly, I'm writing you after hearing of a 90-year-old friend who tried to commit suicide but was saved.

This friend no longer has family. She has a lot of back pain and age-related problems that most of us get in later years. We are all isolating ourselves due to the pandemic, and sometimes our loneliness is more than we can bear. I'm writing to let people know to please, please remember to call often to these lonely souls or stop by to say, "Hi," or send over a few cookies or a flower from your yard. Just keep in touch to give them a sense of worthiness.

I've talked to other elderly persons going through this, and some have admitted crying themselves to sleep at night or just sitting all day doing nothing. Please remind folks to check on the elderly, especially those living alone. -- Soon to Be 93

Dear Soon to be 93: This is heartbreaking. I am so sorry to hear that your friend felt such despair that she tried to take her own life. And I'm deeply sorry to hear that you've lost so many, including your child, over the years. Your letter is a powerful reminder to check up on older relatives, friends and neighbors, even if just to say, as the great

John Prine put it, "Hello in there." It takes so little effort to pick up the phone, and yet it can mean so much.

Call the Suicide Prevention Lifeline at 1-800-273-8255 for guidance and resources to help your friend.

Dear Annie: I donated my $1,200 to our local museum. All museums have been closed for the past months with no income but still have utilities to pay and usually at least one staff member.

Not being considered essential, museums have been ignored. But saving history is important, too. We will regret it if the museums have to close forever. -- Shirley in Rochester, IN

Dear Shirley:

According to MarketWatch, 90% of museums around the world closed during the pandemic, and 1 in 8 may never reopen. We should all consider financially supporting museums in our communities if possible. As artist and writer Maira Kalman said: "A visit to a museum is a search for beauty, truth, and meaning in our lives. Go to museums as often as you can."

Today in History

Today is Thursday, June 11, the 163rd day of 2020. There are 203 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History: On June 11, 1776, the Continental Congress formed a committee to draft a Declaration of Independence calling for freedom from Britain.

On this date:

- In 1770, Captain James Cook, commander of the British ship Endeavour, "discovered" the Great Barrier Reef off Australia by running onto it.
- In 1864, German composer Richard (REE'-hard) Strauss was born in Munich.
- In 1936, Kansas Gov. Alfred "Alf" Landon was nominated for president at the Republican national convention in Cleveland.
- In 1947, the government announced the end of sugar rationing for households and "restaurants and hotels" (e.g., restaurants and hotels) as of midnight.
- In 1955, in motor racing's worst disaster, more than 80 people were killed during the 24 Hours of Le Mans in France when two of the cars collided and crashed into spectators.
- In 1962, three prisoners at Alcatraz in San Francisco Bay staged an escape, leaving the island on a makeshift raft; they were never found or heard from again.
- In 1970, the United States presence in Libya came to an end as the last detachment left Wheelus Air Base. (The anniversary of this event is celebrated as a holiday in Libya.)
- In 1985, Karen Ann Quinlan, the comatose patient whose case prompted a historic right-to-die court decision, died in Morris Plains, New Jersey, at age 31.
- In 1993, the U.S. Supreme Court unanimously ruled that people who commit "hate crimes" motivated by bigotry may be sentenced to extra punishment; the court also ruled religious groups had a constitutional right to sacrifice animals in worship services. The Steven Spielberg science-fiction film "Jurassic Park" opened in wide release two days after its world premiere in Washington, D.C.
- In 2001, Timothy McVeigh, 33, was executed by injection at the federal prison in Terre Haute, Indiana, for the 1995

Oklahoma City bombing that killed 168 people.

In 2007, Sen. Larry Craig, R-Idaho, was arrested at the Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport in a restroom sex sting. (Craig, who denied soliciting an undercover police officer, later pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and paid a fine.)

In 2009, with swine flu reported in more than 70 nations, the World Health Organization declared the first global flu pandemic in 41 years.

Ten years ago: Twenty campers in a southwestern Arkansas gorge died in a pre-dawn flash flood of the Little Missouri River. The FIFA World Cup opened in South Africa to the joyous sound of vuvuzelas; it was the first World Cup to be played in Africa.

Five years ago: Gen. Martin Dempsey, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said the U.S. military's reach could extend even further into Iraq if the anti-Islamic State campaign were to gain momentum, and held out the possibility of a greater role for U.S. troops on the ground. "Free jazz" pioneer Ornette Coleman, 85, died in New York.

Country singer-songwriter Jim Ed Brown, 81, died in Franklin, Tennessee.

Actor Ron Moody, 91, best known for playing Fagin in the 1968 film "Oliver!", died in London.

One year ago: Nizar Zakka, a Lebanese man and permanent U.S. resident, was released after spending years in an Iranian prison on espionage charges; his release came amid heightened tensions between the U.S. and Iran over Iran's nuclear program. At a House committee hearing, comedian Jon Stewart scolded Congress for failing to ensure that a victims' compensation fund set up after the 9/11 attacks never runs out of money. (A measure ensuring that the fund would remain permanent won final approval the following month and was signed into law by President Donald Trump.) In a landmark case for Africa, Botswana became the latest country to decriminalize gay sex; the country's High Court rejected laws punishing it with up to seven years in prison.

Today's Birthdays: Former U.S. Rep. Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., is 90. Comedian Johnny Brown is 83. International Motorsports Hall of Famer Jackie Stewart is 81. Singer Joey Dee is 80. Actor Roscoe Orman is 76. Actress Adrienne Barbeau
