School zone safety as a new school year begins in Big Spring

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

The countdown is on until school is back in session. Big Spring ISD students will be heading into the 2020-2021 school year, on Aug. 19. With classes starting school zones - which have been stagnant and empty - for the past five months will be seeing increased traffic again, which means it's time to raise awareness for safety precautions.

School lights will once again start flashing serving as a reminder to slow down, be extra cautious, and adhere to school zone laws. School zones will be active Monday through Friday between 7 a.m. - 9:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. - 4:30 p.m. dropping the speed limit in those areas to 20 mph. The lights on School Zone signs will begin flashing again, and the Big Spring Police Department reminds the community while in a school zone the speed limit is strictly enforced during the designated hours.

"Our citizens need to remember during school time hours there will be more vehicle congestion around the schools and roads adjacent to the schools," Big Spring Police Department Chief Chad Williams, said.

In addition to the reduced speed limits in school zones, use of wireless communication devices is prohibited

Special meeting called for the Board of the BSEDC Thursday

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

The Big Spring Economic Development Corporation has called a special meeting for Thursday at 5:15 p.m. The Board of Trustees will convene and discuss the approval of Letter of Intent between Big Spring EDC and Howard County Community Health Center and authorize the board president to sign all necessary documents.

The board will also take care of routine business items, such as receiving the June Investment Report and Financials and approve minutes from the June 16, 2020 regular meeting and June 25, 2020 special meeting.

After the action items have been taken care of, the Board will take part in a budget work session and a goals work session.

Following will be the Associate Director's Report and the Executive Director's report, which will be delivered by newly appointed Mark Willis. Mr. Willis officially was accepted into the BSEDC Executive Director position last month.

The board will retire into Executive Session to discuss prospect activity, in accordance with Texas Government Code, Sec. 551.087 (1) to discuss or deliberate regarding commercial or financial information that the governmental body has received from a business prospect that the governmental body seeks to have locate, stay, or expand in or near the territory of the governmental body and with which the governmental body is conducting economic negotiations.

After the Executive Session wraps up the board will reconvene in regular session and take any action that resulted from the Executive Session.

Vehicle, pedestrian accident last Thursday results in one fatality

Special to the Herald

According to a report issued by the Texas Department of Public Safety, a pedestrian fatality crash occurred last Thursday in Howard County, near mile marker 188 just 9 miles east of Big Spring.

Around 10 p.m. July 30, a 1993 Chevrolet Pick-up - driven by James Baird, 46 years of age - was traveling east on the South Service Road of Interstate Highway 20 while a pedestrian, Tony Jetton, 44 years of age, was walking in the center of the roadway during a heavy rainfall. The vehicle struck Jetton as he was walking in the roadway.

At the time of the accident, the roadways were wet from the heavy rainfall. The accident was investigated by Trooper Bruce McRae, DPS Big Spring.

Looking at the homeschooling option as a new school year kicks off in a pandemic

By NATALIE PERMENTER
 Herald Contributing Writer

Area schools have released their plans for the new school year that starts soon with a twist no one saw coming this time last year. Parents of public school age children have been forced to decide whether to send their kids directly to school with heavy COVID-19 mandates in place or keep them at home for distance learning till the pandemic hopefully winds down. Educators and parents alike are trying to do their best to make the right choices under impossible circumstances and the uncertain future of this ongoing health crises that abruptly ended on-campus attendance for millions of students around the world this past spring.

There is a third option for parents whether they want to stick to the public school curriculum or switch to a regular homeschool curriculum. One of Big Spring's Homeschool groups is reaching out to provide assistance to the new group of public school students and their parents that was born out of the COVID-19 Pandemic.

Marisela "Mari" Arista is with the the Howard County Homeschoolers Group. "We love to socialize and our group is always changing," said Arista. "Prior to the pandemic, we met every other week. We've taken a more laid back approach to our co-op. Sometimes we have a set curriculum. Sometimes, we wing it. Public School Students are welcome to join us and keep their school's curriculum. Our meetings consist of play-dates, fun crafts and we take the occasional field trip. During the pandemic, we had to put our in-person meetings on hold. Our meetings will be held every other week, on Tuesdays at 1 pm (the time may change depending on the availability of the majority of our members.) I try to be as flexible as possible, so every child can participate. Our group in school zones. However, according to Chief Williams, wireless communication is allowed in school zones if a hands-free device is used or the vehicle is stopped. Patrol officers will also be watching to ensure seat belts are being worn as required by law.

“While Covid-19 has had an impact on numerous aspects of our lives over the past several months, and it could possibly have an impact on the traffic in the school zones, we are planning and anticipating the increased traffic flow,” Chief Williams said. “We want to remind our citizens to be vigilant while driving in and around school zones for children walking to and from school. Some children may be hard to see due to their size and may not be watching for cars, and as drivers we need to be cognizant of that.”

Drivers are encouraged to not only be on high alert when driving through school zones, but also to exercise patience as they travel through or around school zones, especially during the first few weeks back. During the first few weeks, parents and students may be adjusting to a new campus, new routine and/or new traffic routes which could lead to increased congestion.

“The community can help us as this new school year approaches by making sure they are giving themselves plenty of time when leaving for work, especially if their route includes traveling through one or more school zones,” he said. “Also, regardless if there are other vehicles or children around, adhering to the school zone speed limit of 20 and removing all distractions while driving through school zones to ensure everyone stays safe.”

According to Chief Williams, police officers will be patrolling school zones throughout the school year and drivers are expected to adhere to school zone laws while driving in the area.

“Each year we see traffic complaints from citizens as the new school year starts. Again, this usually works itself out within a couple of weeks,” Chief Williams said. “We do work with BSISD to assist with any traffic issues each year.”

The BSPD also offers a few safety tips for those students who will be walking to and from school:

Parents should plan a safe route for their children. Young children, if possible, should walk with an adult or older students

Children should not horseplay while walking to or from school including pushing or shoving each other or chasing each other when near the street

Children should be reminded not to take rides from strangers or anyone if it was not arranged with their parents first

Watch for cars while crossing the street, drive-ways and intersections. Children crossing the street should always stop at the curb or edge of the street, look in all directions for traffic and do not cross until the roadway is clear. While crossing, continue watching traffic.

accommodates special needs children. Both of my children are special needs, so I completely understand the lack of support, which is why I have the group and I share my contact information, so other families don't have to go through what we went through. For the month of August, we will have zoom meetings and in September, hopefully we can begin meeting in person. I plan sensory friendly activities and make sure there is room for lots of breaks for the children. Most of our meetings consist of socializing, support, and fun activities for the families and a judgement free place to gather. There is no fee to join although families are responsible for their admission fees/meals during outings. We also do things to give back to the community such as fill the blessing boxes or clean up the trails/parks. There are a few forms that need to be filled out before joining in on any activities.”

Arista continued, “What I'd like people to know about our group is that we're here, you're not alone and it's going to be ok, whether your child(ren) are special needs or not, there is a place for you to plug in. If this is the first-year you are homeschooling or you're a seasoned homeschool family, having a group of people who understand what you're going through is helpful and can make all the difference in your homeschool journey. Although we are not a strictly faith-based group, we ask that all of our members are respectful of each family's beliefs.” For

Dangers in the car: TxDOT's new augmented reality game urges drivers to never drive distracted

AUSTIN – Despite stay at home orders and less traffic the past few months, Texas has continued to see about the same amount of fatalities on our state's roadways. In an effort to reach drivers more creatively about the dangers of distracted driving, TxDOT has launched a new web-based augmented reality (AR) game that reinforces the importance of paying attention behind the wheel and reminds drivers to keep their heads up. Around 1 in 5 crashes on Texas roads are caused by distracted driving and all of them are preventable.

This new AR game "Dart Those Distractions" is designed to increase awareness about the dangers of distracted driving in an interactive, engaging way that resonates with all ages. Inspired by a classic carnival game, players will throw darts over a car windshield to hit balloons symbolizing driving distractions like eating, programming music or navigation and self-grooming. This is an important reminder that distracted driving isn't just about texting or talking from the driver's seat.

"Every driver and every passenger can be impacted by distracted driving and one death is one too many," TxDOT Executive Director James Bass said. "We are doing all we can to make sure every Texan knows the dangers of driving distracted. Distracted driving crashes are preventable and we hope this new AR game will help drivers realize there are more dangers than just your cell phone in the car."

TxDOT will promote the "Heads up, Texas" campaign and new AR game through social media, social influencers and digital advertising. These efforts are to raise awareness of the game and encourage people to share their results and recruit other players to dart those distractions. The AR game can be played on any smartphone or tablet by visiting www.darthosedistractions.com or players can visit the website on a desktop computer to access the game through a QR code. Players should never play while behind the wheel, don't add another distraction!

TxDOT's annual "Heads up, Texas" campaign officially launches August 4 and is a key component of #EndTheStreakTX, a broader social media and word-of-mouth effort that encourages drivers to make safer choices while behind the wheel, like wearing a seat belt, driving the speed limit, never texting and driving and never driving under the influence of alcohol or other drugs. Nov. 7, 2000, was the last deathless day on Texas roadways and #EndTheStreakTX asks all Texans to commit to driving safely to help end the streak of daily deaths.

Pet Talk: "Bee" aware of insect stings this summer Bee stings can be harmful to pet owners and their animals

Special to the Herald

COLLEGE STATION – The summer season offers many opportunities for pets and their owners to get outside and enjoy nature. These adventures can provide wonderful opportunities for enrichment, but blooming flowers, gardening and spending more time outdoors can increase a pet's exposure to stinging insects.

Dr. Christine Rutter, a clinical assistant professor and emergency and critical care specialist at the Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine & Biomedical Sciences, says pet owners may not always know when their animal has been stung by an insect, as bees are the only insect that actually leave stingers behind.

"A common sign that an owner can use to identify a sting is that a pet may have an acute lameness/pain or cry out for an unknown reason while outside," Rutter said. "Sometimes pets will have pain on their face, paws, or areas that may appear swollen. These signs can occur immediately after or within a few hours of a sting."

If an owner suspects that their animal has been stung, they should immediately seek emergency veterinary care. Most topical medications and home remedies aren't a good idea for pets, and a veterinarian should be consulted before administering any medications to your pet. With prompt treatment, the majority of stings can be managed, even if a pet is allergic.

"Pets that have facial swelling, severe itching, hives, vomiting, diarrhea and/or collapse after a sting could be allergic to stings," Rutter said. "It is uncommon for pets to have repeat episodes of life-threatening reactions after stings, but it does happen."

Rutter says pets are usually stung on their face or a paw, but that stings may occur anywhere.

"Most stings are isolated and the result of an overcurious pet annoying a stinging insect that was previously minding its own business," she said. "Keeping control of your pet and supervising them when outside is key—but it's easier said than done. Many stings (even for supervised pets) aren't witnessed."

Owners outside with their pets should keep an eye out for foraging bees on flowers, swarms of bees and beehives, especially if Africanized bees, a more aggressive version of the European honeybee, are present in their area. They should also be wary of wasp nests and yellow jacket burrows, which can be a source of multiple stings if a pet gets too close.

"A single sting is usually not a big deal, but multiple stings can be life threatening and potentially have long-term complications," she said. "Keep pets from investigating under porches/houses, in shrubbery, outbuildings or known locations of nests/hives."

For pets with a known severe allergy to stings, Rutter says that there are therapies available to desensitize them to insect venom. If your pet has more than one severe reaction to an insect sting, she recommends addressing the issue with your veterinarian to see what options are best to protect your furry friend.

Though insect stings are never pleasant—for pets or humans—prompt veterinary care can minimize the effects of insect stings and ensure your pet has a safe and pleasant experience with the great outdoors.

Pet Talk is a service of the College of Veterinary Medicine & Biomedical Sciences, Texas A&M University. Stories can be found on the Pet Talk website. Suggestions for future topics may be directed to editor@cvm.tamu.edu.

Houston to enforce masks with fines; Texas deaths top 7,000

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's mayor on Monday instructed police to begin issuing $250 fines for flouting statewide mask orders in hopes that August will stamp out a grim summer resurgence of COVID-19 that is now responsible for at least 7,000 confirmed deaths in Texas.

The move by Mayor Sylvester Turner comes one month after Republican Gov. Greg Abbott mandated face coverings in the midst of a massive outbreak. Since then, Texas as a whole has seen encouraging trends in hospitalizations and infection rates, but Turner described August as a critical month as schools approach reopening and fall flu season lurks around the corner.

Those caught not wearing masks in America's fourth-largest city would first receive a warning, followed by a fine on a second offense.

Turner said while hospitalizations for the virus are falling, they remain high. The positivity rate for the virus in the city is at 17%, down from a high of 25.9% on July 5. But officials would like the positivity rate to be at 5% or below, Turner said.

"Lives are at stake and so I'm taking this step to do our very best to drive these numbers down," said Turner, adding that the city continued to get complaints about street and house parties with many people and no one wearing masks.

Houston Police Chief Art Acevedo said people needed "to stop worrying about selfish interests and think about the collective interest."

"We don't want to write tickets. What we want people to do is the right thing," Acevedo said.

More than half the states have issued orders to wear masks in most public settings. But enforcement nationwide is spotty. Some police chiefs say they don't have the manpower to respond to every mask complaint, treating violations of the requirement as they would oft-ignored minor offenses such as jaywalking.

Texas reported more than three dozen new deaths from the virus Monday as the total number of deaths eclipsed 7,000, just two weeks after surpassing 4,000.

Big Spring ISD 2020-2021 Classes begin Aug. 19

Big Spring ISD students Pre-K through 8th Grade will be receiving school supplies on the first day of school. Thanks to a grant that was received by the school district students in those grades will not need to purchase school supplies. Families should buy a backpack to bring to the first day of classes and supplies will be provided at school, on the first day.

High school students at BSISD will receive their lists the first day of class as well.

Also, through funding provided through the state all elementary students will be receiving free breakfast and lunches for the upcoming school year. For those families with students in junior high and high school, applications for reduce and free lunches can be filled out before classes begin online or by calling the Food Services Dept.

Trayce Rodriquez takes home Area title, will advance to Championship in Dallas

By SHAWN MORAN

Herald Sports Writer

Trayce Rodriquez has been dominating the Northern Texas PGA (NTPGA) Junior Tour all summer long. He has won a total of 16 events out of 17 played and was able to lock up the West Prep Summer Area Championship at Ratliff Ranch Golf Links earlier this week.

"It feels great," Rodriquez said. "I shot the best score I have all summer to win the Area Championship."

The young golf phenom started off the day with an eagle on the first hole and did not look back. He was able to drive the ball around 170 yards straight onto the green from the tee box. To finish off the hole two strokes under par, Rodriquez needed to make a seven-foot putt following his tremendous drive to the green.

Rodriquez made it look easy and sank the putt before heading onto the second hole of the day.

He followed up his eagle on the first hole with a birdie on the second and before anyone knew it, Rodriquez was sitting pretty at three under par and ready to attack the rest of the course.

One of the favorite sayings that Trayce has on the course is, "I'm here. I'm coming for you. I'm the reaper." This is something Rodriquez in the zone and ready to dominate the competition. In Odessa, no one was going to be able to deny the Area Championship away from him and he maintained that laser-focused, reaper mentality his entire round on the course.

Rodriquez was able to hit par on the next three holes before he hit his last birdie of the day on Hole 6. A 200-yard Par 4 Hole, Rodriquez was able to power his way close to the green and sink the ball with one shot left to spare. He closed out the round with three more par's and an outstanding score of four under par (-4) to win the tournament by one stroke.

"I feel really confident because I feel like I am playing the best golf I've played during the Summer Series," Rodriquez said.

There is just one goal left to accomplish now: Winning the Summer Tour Championship.

The Championship will take place in a Dallas next Monday and Tuesday and will feature all of the top junior golfers from around the state. Rodriquez is hands down one of the favorites to win the whole thing and he is ready for the challenge.

"I would feel ecstatic to be able to hold that title and that's exactly what I'm working for," he said.

As long as he has his good luck charm, his sister Kynlee, by his side and the support of his fans whom he appreciates so much, there is nothing that can hold back the superstar young golfer. With one tournament left to go, Rodriquez has all the confidence in the world and is ready to bring the title back to Big Spring.

Big Spring Steers schedule update regarding 1956 team

By SHAWN MORAN

Herald Sports Writer

Big Spring ISD plans to honor the members of the 1956 football team, band, and cheerleading squad before their opening game of the season on August 28 at Memorial Stadium. That bunch was the first-ever team to play in Memorial Stadium and are all an important part of the history of Big Spring.

It has now been announced that all former players, band members, and cheerleaders should arrive at Big Spring High School for a tour of the school at 8:15 on the morning of August 28.

There will also be a pep rally before the game that all of those listening everyone is invited to attend. Principal Mike Ritchey is asking Steers to arrive at the South Entrance at 6:30 p.m. and all the members of that team from over 60 years ago will enter the game together.

All of those players, cheerleaders, and band members will be honored on the field before watching their Steers go to battle on the gridiron against the Vernon Lions.

Shawn Moran is the sports writer at the Big Spring Herald. To contact him, e-mail sports@bigspringherald.com or call 432-263-7331.

Arrington Statement on Passing of WBU Coach Harley Redin

Special to the Herald

WASHINGTON – Today, Rep. Jodey Arrington (TX-19) released the following statement:

"A WWII bomber pilot and women's basketball legend, Coach Harley Redin was a West Texas icon. In addition to coaching the U.S. women's teams in '59 and '71, he led the Wayland Flying Queens, in my hometown of Plainview, to 76 of their still national-record 131 consecutive wins," said Arrington.

"Earlier this year, Wayland Baptist University President, Dr. Bobby Hall, presented me with memento from the Flying Queens induction in the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame which is proudly displayed in my D.C. office."

"Coach Redin passed away Saturday, just shy of his 101st birthday. While this is a great loss for WTX, I know he is at peace in his Heavenly home. Please join me in praying for his wife, Wilda, and two sons" that his partner has the ace of clubs. In that case, a club to West's ace and a club ruff are sure to achieve the desired goal.

It might therefore seem automatic for East to return his singleton seven of clubs at trick two. West will win and give East a club ruff, and the ace of trump will provide the setting trick. But it's not quite that simple.

If a club is returned at the second trick, West has no way of knowing whether East started with a singleton or doubleton club. West has already concluded that unless his partner has the ace of trump, the contract cannot be defeated, but he cannot know for sure whether East has one or two clubs. If East started with a doubleton, West must duck the first club. Then, when East takes his presumed ace of hearts, he can return his second club to secure the ruff.

There is, however, a way for East to clarify the situation for his partner. To avoid any ambiguity as to the meaning of the club return, East should cash the ace of trump first before leading the club. This gives West no choice but to take the first club and return a club, since if he ducked, declarer could win and draw the remaining trumps.

This thoughtful play by East relieves his partner of having to make a potentially fatal guess and leaves him no room to go wrong.

Opening lead — jack of spades.

In most deals, defense is a partnership effort rather than an individual undertaking. Within this framework, it is the responsibility of each defender to prevent his partner from making the wrong play, if possible.

Consider this deal where West leads the jack of spades against four hearts. As soon as dummy appears, both defenders should focus all their efforts on formulating a plan to take the four tricks needed to defeat the contract.

From East's viewpoint after winning the spade lead, the only hope is

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Mercury and the Value of Story

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Maybe it seems counterintuitive, but exposing what you feel insecure about is the confident move. To those with a core belief of worthiness, vulnerability is less of a risk. They know they will not be crushed by the outcome.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). An interest in widening your circle suggests your values are changing, too. And when your values match with those of another, attraction naturally follows.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). It is impossible to give without giving to yourself. You will help someone heal and grow and, in the process, be helped, healed and elevated by the experience.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You've been thinking about what others get out of being in a relationship with you and what you get out of being in a relationship with others. This generates changes you'll implement throughout the month.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You make efforts not to commit the crime of being too nice, trying too hard, taking responsibility for another person's happiness -- all benevolent ways to impose on another person's autonomy.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You prefer to know what others want from you, and it is a hard thing to figure out without understanding where they are coming from. You'll make a quest out of it, and this leads to fascinating conversations today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). If someone doesn't seem to like it when you go about meeting your needs in your own way, that person might be trying to control you, which you're likely to resist with great might.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). No two people are completely alike, so to understand another person requires bridge building. Respect is the essential raw material this bridge will be built with.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Empathy helps you navigate relationships that would be impossible to understand if not for your ability to put yourself in the other person's shoes.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). There are so many things you want more than comfort. You are willing to spend the entire day in an uncomfortable state if it means you can finally get the result you deeply desire.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). When boundaries get crossed, you notice right away -- a sign of your health. You no longer hold yourself responsible for the actions or emotions usually figure it out, too. If everyone is acting out of their own selfish motives, is there really such a thing as love? I see a lot of people using each other. Relationships seem pretty conditional to me."

As the sign of life and death, you are the great realist of the zodiac, unafraid of asking the big questions. And you make an excellent point here. Is love to be trusted when the roots of relationships are embedded in a biological imperative? When people need each other for social status, economic security and familial structure, is it really fair to attribute their caring actions to something as intangible and mystical as the idea of romantic love? When being human comes with a psychological agenda that is so deeply embedded in the subconscious that many never become aware of it during their lifetime, what can anyone really trust about love?

Perhaps a better question is: What sort of world do you want to live in? You are the ruler of your skull-sized kingdom, and you get to make the magna carta of the land. How does not believing in love make you experience your world? Is there an alternative belief that can soften the edges and beautify your internal landscape? Truly, you are the only one who can answer here.

Fun By The Numbers
Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

COVID Family Feud

Dear Annie: My husband and I have been following the recommendations for protecting ourselves and others from COVID-19 in recent months. Although we've missed seeing our kids and our grandchildren, we've stuck to our guns on this, even as others around us have begun to take a more relaxed approach. We've only recently started to see our immediate family (kids and grandkids), per the reopening guidelines in our state.

I am in my 50s and have a health condition that makes me susceptible to respiratory illnesses. If I were to be infected with the virus, I would most likely not survive. My husband is on the borderline of being at an elevated risk due to his age.

My stepson and his wife recently hosted a first birthday party for our youngest grandchild. When they sent out the invitations, they said they understood if people didn't feel comfortable attending. Given that the party would involve a large group of people from different places, most of whom do not believe in wearing masks or taking other precautions, and co-mingling for a few hours in a small space, we elected not to go.

Now my stepson and his wife are angry with us and have gone so far as to post passive-aggressive comments on social media essentially putting down those of us who believe in this "hoax." My stepson is not speaking to my husband over this, and I'm willing to bet he and his wife are placing the blame on me. I feel really bad about the tension this has created, but I don't see what other choice we had in this situation. I am at high risk, and even if my husband went without me, his exposures potentially put me at risk through the close contact we share. Honestly, though, with the numbers going up instead of down, I probably wouldn't have felt comfortable attending even if I weren't considered to be at an elevated risk.

It hurts that they don't care about my health and safety, while I am the one wondering if taking precautions to protect myself and others is selfish. I don't think this is a situation where it's possible to compromise and please everyone involved, nor do I feel like the coronavirus is going away anytime soon. Do you have any suggestions for how to best deal with this? -- COVID Caused a Family Rift

Dear COVID Caused a Family Rift: You dealt with this wonderfully. You protected yourself and your husband. I would caution you not to bet or guess that your stepson and his wife are angry with you or blaming you. Communication is key here. Reach out to them via FaceTime, and let them know how sad you are that you were not able to be at your grandchild's birthday.

This is a very frustrating time for many families who cannot celebrate together. The important thing is to acknowledge that, rather than get angry over it.

Today in History

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 5, the 218th day of 2020. There are 148 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History: On August 5, 1974, the White House released transcripts of subpoenaed tape recordings showing that President Richard Nixon and his chief of staff, H.R. Haldeman, had discussed a plan in June 1972 to use the CIA to thwart the FBI's Watergate investigation; revelation of the tape sparked Nixon's resignation.

On this date:

In 1864, during the Civil War, Union Adm. David G. Farragut led his fleet to victory in the Battle of Mobile Bay, Alabama.

In 1914, what's believed to be the first electric traffic light system was installed in Cleveland, Ohio, at the intersection of East 105th Street and Euclid Avenue.

In 1936, Jesse Owens of the United States won the 200-meter dash at the Berlin Olympics, collecting the third of his four gold medals.

In 1953, Operation Big Switch began as remaining prisoners taken during the Korean War were exchanged at Panmunjom.

In 1961, the amusement park Six Flags Over Texas had its official grand opening day in Arlington.

In 1962, movie star Marilyn Monroe, 36, was found dead in her Los Angeles home; her death was ruled a probable suicide from "acute barbiturate poisoning." South African anti-apartheid activist Nelson Mandela was arrested on charges of leaving the country without a passport and inciting workers to strike; it was the beginning of 27 years of imprisonment.

In 1964, U.S. Navy pilot Everett Alvarez Jr. became the first American flier to be shot down and captured by North Vietnam; he was held prisoner until February 1973.

In 1966, the Beatles' "Revolver" album was released in the United Kingdom on the Parlophone label; it was released in the United States three days later by Capitol Records. (Songs included "Eleanor Rigby" and "Yellow Submarine," which were also issued as a double A-side single on Aug. 5 and 8.)

In 1981, the federal government began firing air traffic controllers who had gone out on strike.

In 1984, actor Richard Burton died in Geneva, Switzerland, at age 58.

In 1991, Democratic congressional leaders formally launched an investigation into whether the 1980 Reagan-Bush campaign had secretly conspired with Iran to delay release of American hostages until after the presidential election, thereby preventing an "October surprise" that supposedly would have benefited President Jimmy Carter. (A task force later concluded there was "no credible evidence" of such a deal.)

In 2002, the coral-encrusted gun turret of the Civil War ironclad USS Monitor was raised from the floor of the Atlantic, nearly 140 years after the historic warship sank during a storm.

Ten years ago: The Senate confirmed Elena Kagan, 63-37, as the Supreme Court's 112th justice and the fourth woman in its history. BP finished pumping cement into the blown Deepwater Horizon oil well in the Gulf of Mexico. Thirty-three workers were trapped in a copper mine in northern Chile after a tunnel caved in (all were rescued after being entombed for 69 days). Ten members of a Christian medical team from the International Assistance Mission were gunned down in Afghanistan by unknown attackers.

Five years ago: In a speech at American University in Washington, President Barack Obama assailed critics of his Iran nuclear deal as "selling a fantasy" to the American people, warning Congress that blocking the accord would damage the nation's credibility and increase the likelihood of more war in the Middle East. Actor Jennifer Aniston secretly married actor-director Justin Theroux at their home in Bel Air, California.

One year ago: In the wake of deadly shootings in Texas and Ohio, President Donald Trump called for bipartisan solutions to gun violence and said he wanted legislation providing "strong background checks" for gun users. The online message board 8chan was effectively knocked offline after two companies cut off technical services; the gunman responsible for a mass shooting in El Paso, Texas had been linked to the site. The Trump administration froze all Venezuelan government assets in a dramatic escalation of tensions with Nicolás Maduro. Cesar Sayoc, a Florida amateur body builder who had sent pipe bombs to prominent Democrats and CNN, was sentenced to 20 years in prison by a judge who concluded that the bombs were not designed to explode. The U.S. Treasury Department labeled China a currency manipulator after China pushed down the value of its yuan in an escalating trade conflict with the United States. Toni Morrison, the first Black woman to receive the Nobel literature prize, died at 88 in New York;

her novels included "Beloved" and "The Bluest Eye."

Today's Birthdays: College Football Hall of Famer and former NFL player Roman Gabriel is 80. Country songwriter Bobby Braddock is 80. Actor Loni Anderson is 75. Actor Erika Slezak is 74. Rock singer Rick Derringer is 73. Actor Holly Palance is 70. Pop singer Samantha Sang is 69. Rock musician Eddie Ojeda (Twisted Sister) is 65. Actor-singer Maureen McCormick is 64. Rock musician Pat Smear is 61. Author David Baldacci is 60. Actor Tawney Kitaen is 59. Actor Janet McTeer is 59. Country musician Mark O'Connor is 59. Basketball Hall of Famer Patrick Ewing is 58. Actor Mark Strong is 57. Director-screewriter James Gunn is 54. Actor Jonathan Silverman is 54. Country singer Terri Clark is 52. Actor Stephanie Szostak is 49. Retired

MLB All-Star John Olerud is 52. Rock musician Eicca Toppinen (EYE'-kah TAH'-pihn-neh) (Apocalyptica) is 45. Actor Jesse Williams is 40. Actor Brendon Ryan Barrett is 34. Actor Meegan Warner (TV: "TURN: Washington's Spies") is 29. Actor/singer Olivia Holt is 23. Actor Albert Tsai is 16. Actor Devin Trey Campbell is 12.
