Virtual Lunch-n-learns featuring 14 local non-profit agencies

United Way of Big Spring and Howard County features supported agencies every Tuesday and Thursday, in an effort to inform community about local services

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

The United Way of Big Spring and Howard County is using virtual meetings to highlight the 14 supported agencies for the 2021 Campaign. As Howard County continues to do its part to slow the spread of the coronavirus, the United Way has opted to take much of their campaign launch to the virtual world. Over the next several weeks, those wanting to find out more about local non-profit agencies supported by the local United Way can join in Virtual Lunch-n-Learns every Tuesday and Thursday at Noon.

The YMCA was the first in a series of virtual lunch-n-learns hosted by United Way of Big Spring and Howard County in an effort to highlight supported agencies.

"We want to make sure our agencies aren't forgotten, especially at this time, when so many are in need of their services," local United Way Executive Director Christian Fair, said. "Our agencies are constantly pouring back into our community and that is only possible because of the support that is provided from the community. These lunch-n-learns are an opportunity to highlight these agencies for what they do, but also to educate our community in case they need their services or they know someone who might."

Each Tuesday and Thursday at Noon, for about 20 to 45 minutes, agency representatives will be able to educate the community on their history in Big Spring and what type of services are offered. A tour of the facilities is also being provided, along with any upcoming opportunities to support the agency, along with how to apply for services. The first two lunch-n-learns featured the Big Spring YMCA and was presented by Dathan Jones, CEO of the YMCA, and the Howard County Community Resource Center.

Big Spring Art Association gear up for September in-person meeting at Brushworks

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

Students are back in the classrooms, community events are slowly coming back and organizations who have put off face to face meetings are coming back together. The Big Spring Art Association is one of the many organizations who had placed in person meetings on hold when the pandemic swept in. Over the past few weeks, members have been getting together through creative ways to create art together, while staying safe. However, beginning in September, the Big Spring Art Association will be bringing back in person meetings.

According to Kay Smith, the group will meet on Sept. 19 at 10 a.m. at Brushworks Studio, located at 2106 Scurry.

"We typically meet at the Howard County Library, but due to the library being closed for meetings at this time, we will meet at my studio,"

The September meeting, according to Smith, will be the first meeting of the new year. Members will need to bring their annual dues to the meeting. Visitors and those wanting to find out more about the Art Association are welcome to attend the September meeting.

"We want visitors to come join us and see what we are about," Smith said. "We will observe CDC guidelines/precautions such as hand sanitizer, social distancing at six feet apart, masks, etc."

As per usual, there will be light refreshments available during the meeting and a short demonstration will take place. Each month the group meets a different art medium is discussed, an artist is highlighted, or a piece of art history is discussed. Members are also encouraged to bring at least one painting for display around town that is voted upon at the Tipping of the Brush.

"Each month we have a contest where our members vote on their favorite piece," she said. "Our art pieces are set up around town at a few different locations, as a way of sharing art with the community."

For those wanting to find out more about the Big Spring Art Association, contact can be made via the Facebook page or by calling Kay Smith at 432-213-1153.

Howard County Strong Local businesses stand together

Mario Dehoyos, representative of House of Tees, hands a Howard County Strong T-shirt to local resident Shiloh Salazar. The T-shirt promotion was an opportunity to let the community know the businesses located inside Spring Creek Mall, and encourage the community to stop in and visit with local business owners.

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

Businesses are opening back up, school has kicked off for a new year, and a sense of normalcy is coming back to Howard County. In an effort to show that despite the unexpected downturn, Howard County is known for being resilient and standing together in tough times, one local business took it upon themselves to make a statement. House of Tees - located in the Spring Creek Mall - is under new ownership and one of their first orders of business was push to encourage the community.

Last Friday afternoon, in an effort to promote local business, especially those located in the mall, House of Tees was handing out free T-shirts.

"We just want to let the community know we are still here," Mario Dehoyos said. "This was a joint effort from the different businesses in the mall as things begin to open back up"

House of Tees is now owned by Abraham and Olga Medrano, who also own Medrano's Oil off of Gregg Street. The family took over the business a couple months ago. According to Dehoyos, the family is just getting started in the T-shirt and printing business, but is looking forward to partnering with the community and giving back.

"We have already been reaching out to the school districts and

Ronald Shaw

Ronald Shaw, 78, went home to his heavenly father on Sunday, Aug. 30, 2020.

The youngest of 12 children, Ronald, was born to Willie Summerfield Shaw and Anna Angeline Peterson Shaw on April 26, 1942, and was raised in a loving Christian home in Knott, Texas. He was still in Howard County when he met and married the love of his life, Jennie Mckee Shaw, on July 16, 1965, in Big Spring.

They moved to Smyer with their two young children in 1975 when Ronald started working at Unocal Oil Co. and began building a life of farming and ranching for themselves and generations to come.

Ronald loved cattle and horses. In fact, he never met a horse he didn't think he could ride, bringing home several for him and his son that provided good stories and a few broken bones. The highlight of his later years was buying cattle for himself and others at the Big Spring and Lubbock cattle auctions.

Ronald's greatest joy in life was his family, and he dedicated his life to working hard for them, providing far more than their needs, and gifting them many lessons and laughter.

Survivors include his wife, Virginia "Jennie" Shaw of Smyer; daughter, Sherella Lewis and husband Clinton of Tulia; son, Shannon Shaw and wife

Reward increased to $4,000 for Texas Most Wanted Sex Offender

AUSTIN – The reward for Marco Antonio Toscano, a Texas 10 Most Wanted Sex Offender and this month’s featured fugitive, has been increased to $4,000 for information leading to his capture if the tip comes in during the month of September. Toscano, 34, is wanted for failure to register as a sex offender and a parole violation.

Toscano has been wanted since September 2018, when he absconded from his last known address in El Paso. He has ties to the San Angelo area, as well as southern California. In 2006, Toscano was convicted in Tom Green County of indecency with a child-sexual contact after an incident involving a 9-year-old girl. In 2015, he was convicted in Edwards County of unlawful possession of a firearm by a felon.

Toscano is 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighs approximately 195 pounds. He has tattoos on his abdomen, back, neck, left ear, left hand and both arms. For more information or updates in the event of his arrest, view his wanted bulletin.

nal Justice Division will generate additional tips. The higher reward will only be paid if the tip comes in the same month the fugitive is featured. So far in 2020, Texas Crime Stoppers has paid $20,000 in rewards for anonymous tips that resulted in arrests.

To be eligible for cash rewards, tipsters MUST provide information to authorities using one of the following methods:

- Call the Crime Stoppers hotline at 1-800-252-TIPS (8477).
- Submit a web tip through the DPS website by selecting the fugitive you have information about, then clicking on the link under the photo.

Submit a Facebook tip by clicking the “SUBMIT A TIP” link (under the “About” section).

All tips are anonymous, regardless of how they are submitted, and tipsters will be provided a tip number instead of using a name.

Lady Steers defeat C-City Lady Wolves in three sets, extend winning streak to three

By SHAWN MORAN
Herald Sports Writer

COLORADO CITY— The Big Spring Lady Steers (6-6) put together a superb night of volleyball on Tuesday where they were able to defeat the Colorado Lady Wolves in three straight sets (25-15, 25-11, 25-5).

Every Big Spring player that saw the court appeared to bring their 'A' game on Tuesday night. Overall, the Lady Steers improved as the game progressed and they were able to outscore the Lady Wolves 75-31 through their three-set match.

"I thought we did really well," Big Spring coach Kaitlyn Braswell said. "Anytime we can beat a team in three sets shows that we were all playing well and playing together."

The first set of the match was the closest one and C-City even jumped out to an early 3-0 lead. Big Spring followed Colorado's hot start by scoring nine quick points of their own before the Lady Wolves were forced to take a timeout while now trailing 9-4.

There were a couple of big plays made in the first set and it mostly showed how the rest of the night was going to go. Big Spring's Tristan Smith recorded one of her several ace serves that she was able to notch last night in the first set. She was a force serving the ball all night long and the Lady Wolves had no answer for her quick and accurate serves.

Ryen Terrazas was also an unstoppable force on the court on Tuesday night. Terrazas used her tall frame to make play after play at the net and was also able to include some violent spikes that impressed the crowd and as much as they intimidated her opponents.

Following the Lady Wolves best attempt at making it a close game, the Lady Steers were able to score the last five points of the first set for a 25-15 win.

The second set went even more in Big Spring's favor as they picked up right where they left off and continued to put together an impressive performance. A long scoring streak by the Lady Steers forced the Lady Wolves to take a timeout when they were trailing 9-2. Big Spring came out of that break and immediately were jumpstarted once again by an ace serve by Smith.

Jocelyn Gonzales also was in on the action and made one misdirection play over the net that had scrambled Lady Wolves on the ground as they scrambled to reach the ball before it touched the ground. Kortney Moore had her own success while serving the ball and added a couple of ace's to her stat sheet as well. The second set was ended by another ferocious Terrazas spike and Big Spring came away with a 25-11 victory with one set left to play.

The Lady Steers' awareness level on the serve-serve portion of the attack was notable during the entire game. Whenever a ball was headed out of bounds, the communication was prevalent and it was unlikely any Lady Steer was going to chase the ball.

"We've spent a lot of time focusing on that, so being able to show that and prove that on the court made a huge difference. We made a lot less mistakes because of it," Braswell said.

Big Spring was able to control the third set and made quick work of the Colorado volleyball team by stomping them 25-5 in the third and final set. C-City was unable to match-up with and defend Big Spring's size and power that seemed to increase as the game went along.

The Lady Steers are now on a three-game winning streak and will be looking to keep that alive this weekend when they take on Lamesa.

"I always expect great things from us and I know the potential that we have," Braswell said.

The Lady Steers will try to continue building on their big performance Tuesday night and get better every time that they step onto the court.

UP NEXT: The Lady Steers (6-6) will travel to Lamesa to take on the Lady Golden Tornadoes (10/11/12).

NFL faces tough times for 2020, then bright economic outlook

By BARRY WILNER
AP Pro Football Writer

Let's get this straight from the outset: If the NFL has no fans at any games this season — or doesn't have much of a season at all — it will not go out of business.

Sure, the 32 teams and the league itself will lose millions, very possibly billions of dollars. Its broadcast partners will take a hit harder than any that Von Miller has delivered on the field. Same for sponsors and advertisers who pinpoint pro football as the best way to reach fans (read: consumers).

And unless the coronavirus pandemic stretches beyond the 2020 season, the NFL will come out right where it has been for decades: on top of the sports world.

"The NFL is to the sports and entertainment industry the way Amazon is to the retail industry," says Marc Ganis, co-founder of Chicago-based consulting group Sportscorp and a confidant of many NFL owners.

"We need to look at this as an overarching umbrella: This has a likelihood of being a one-season problem. So as we get to the 2021 season, the problem will have gone away, so it is a one-year aberration.

"There's a semi-permanent impact (on other industries) I don't see for the NFL. I see the NFL coming back stronger than ever for two reasons:

— "The value of the NFL for non-attendance activity. Broadcasting, gambling, Internet, video gaming, those all need the NFL more than ever before. The kinds of people and consumer activities it attracts, it will come back more strong.

— "The new CBA with the players, the 11 years of labor peace. When it was approved in March there were a host of high-profile players saying they were against it, in large measure because they didn't see a rush to do it so quickly. They were as wrong as anybody could ever be. You just don't know what tomorrow will bring, so get it done when you can get it done."

Getting done the biggest chunk of NFL revenues, new broadcast deals, is on the horizon, too. From network TV to cable to satellite to radio to streaming rights, the NFL is likely to fill its vaults with untold riches even with the overall U.S. economy struggling.

First, of course, there is the COVID-19-impacted 2020 season, and the financials won't be pretty even if the entire regular season and playoffs go off as scheduled. Certainly not with empty stadiums across the nation — less than a dozen teams are likely to have fans on hand this season, barring a turnaround in the pandemic that no one in the medical community is predicting.

If games are canceled, or the playoffs and Super Bowl need to be moved back in the calendar, the monetary effect will be substantial — felt perhaps the most by NFL marketing partners.

"The general consensus is nobody is completely jumping ship right now," says Mark Reino, CEO of Merit Mile, a Boca Raton, Fla.-based advertising, PR and sports marketing agency.

"However, no one is signing the level of lucrative contracts they signed in previous years. They are still assessing and trying to understand how these dynamics will play out. We are not even sure where this is going to take us. Most of us expect the NFL to play a different turn, but it could take a different turn.

"Naturally, corporate sponsors need that visibility to drive a lot of initiatives ... but they're not eager to make the aggressive moves given the current situation.

"The fan base is hungry, and if the teams can figure out the right way to package up corporate sponsorship value and deliver unique ideas to the advertisers and corporate sponsors, they will be OK. This will be a unique year, and everybody will take hits, but those who have progressive thinkers likely will win. And teams with ownership interest in their stadiums will have much more opportunity to capitalize than those that don't."

That's a common theme. The Dolphins, who have announced plans to have about 13,000 fans at Hard Rock Stadium for their home opener in Week 2 against Buffalo, already have gotten creative.

Owner Stephen Ross and his staff came up with an idea that met with raised eyebrows: turning the stadium into a drive-in theater.

Similar to Ganis, Reino suggests there will be other potential programs in tangential areas of sports marketing, such as gambling and online betting — once taboo in NFL circles. "Rest assured all 32 teams have some sort of task force on how they will monetize online betting as soon as it is approved nationwide," Reino says.

Opening lead — jack of hearts.

In the normal course of events, you are a defender half of the time and a declarer or dummy the other half of the time. It follows, therefore, that a player cannot expect to be successful without becoming a competent defender.

To defend well is not always easy, though; in fact, there are times when it is extraordinarily difficult. For example, take this deal where West got off on the right foot when he led the heart jack in an effort to find his partner's long suit.

Declarer played low from dummy, losing to the king, and East returned a heart to dummy's ace. South then attacked diamonds, forcing out East's ace. East returned a heart to declarer's queen, and South eventually made 10 tricks after losing a club to West's ace. All told, South scored four diamonds, three clubs, two hearts and a spade, while the defenders scored only their two aces and the king of hearts.

The contract should have been defeated, however. East missed the opportunity for a fine play. He should have ducked the jack of hearts at trick one (signaling instead with the nine). Had he done that, the defense would have collected three heart tricks as well as two aces.

East should assume that West has precisely J-10-x of hearts. If that is West's holding, taking the first trick with the king may prove fatal, since East needs the king as an entry to his hearts after the queen and ace are gone and he no longer has the ace of diamonds. When West later gains the lead with the ace of clubs, his heart return sinks the contract.

It may be argued that ducking the jack of hearts would be a losing play if declarer had only Q-x. This is true enough, but that argument is not sound because it credits West with J-10-x-x — and with that holding, West would lead fourth-best initially rather than the jack.

Fun By The Numbers
Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Whatever judgment you are having about another person, chances are you have the same one for yourself, though more acutely so. It's a good reason to find something to like about each person you meet.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You'll bring something special to the task just by intending to give it your all. You don't have to go out of your way to be original -- just do what comes naturally. Originality is your birthright.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). We experience millions upon millions of words, many of which, however right for the moment they may be, are soon forgotten. To be memorable, do more than talk. Paint pictures.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Put your mind to it, and there's nothing you can't turn around. A relationship that used to be on shaky ground now has a chance to become steady -- if that's what you want.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You don't have to have it all together to help another person; you only have to be one step ahead. You'll give whatever resources you have and bring good fortune upon yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). There is no way to separate "best" from "worst" as they are just different ways of seeing the same aspect of a thing. So, delve into whatever is bothering you deeper. Find, acknowledge and leverage the advantage.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Distraction is a very effective way to avoid pain, though the avoidance of pain usually resolves nothing. Follow breadcrumbs left by your latest distraction to some truly worthy self-knowledge.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). There are actions you can very easily choose or not choose. Then there are compulsions, which you feel powerless to control if you are even aware of them. You'll have luck taking those on today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Feelings don't need to have some profound meaning to have value. The face value of a feeling is simply that it is feedback data. Feelings reflect your current position and point to possible next moves.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Maybe there are things that you would have understood if you had devoted more time to them, but your impatience has also led to many sound, fast and timely decisions. Accept all. Move on.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). If everyone says it's wonderful, it might be. Or, it might be dangerous, as things that take away critical thinking and the impulse for individual thought usually are.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). The more you learn, the surer you are about what you're learning. It's a sign -- not that you're right but that you have possibly become biased and will learn most from people who disagree with you.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Sept. 2). You are clear on what you want and also quite sponge-like, ready to soak in all you need to know to reach the next goal. In work, you'll take a methodical pace down a straightforward path, the predictability a refreshing change from the recent wild ride. Still, there are fun and revitalizing surprises in your personal life. Cancer and Leo adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 7, 20, 14, 33 and 16.

ASTROLOGICAL QUESTIONS: "My husband is an Aquarius, but his rising sign and Mars are in Cancer. I thought that this would make him much more protective and domestic than the usual Aquarian, but I am sorely disappointed. I was wondering if these tendencies are hidden in his chart because of his Mars position. Or should I just resign myself to his detachment? My date of birth is Aug. 22, 1961."

You are attracted to him because he can bring you out of your "shell" (Venus in Cancer) and highlight your bright adventurousness. Though you're a Leo, you are also ruled by a cool, calculating Capricorn moon and Mercury in no-nonsense Virgo. Do you ever get the sense that you frighten him? Do you suspect that he thinks, "Why bother trying to be the big-bad provider and protector when everyone here is so self-sufficient?" He appreciates deeply what you bring to the marriage, but can't always find the words to tell you. And he is afraid that if he did, you would know you have even more power over him and possibly leave. Get back in touch with the bold, quirky, future-thinking man you fell in love with by praising this side of him instead of expecting him to be good at everything that you're good at.

Crossing the Political Divide

Dear Annie: I'm having some issues with a friend.

We are polar opposites politically, and it is now causing problems. I dislike one side, which happens to be her side -- and she dislikes the other, which happens to be mine. I read many sources of news, including from overseas, and don't rely on one source only.

While on the phone, she railed against a prominent newspaper that I like, saying that she would "pray for them."

When I sent my friend an article in support of the paper's position, she refused to read it.

Her views are one-sided, and she refuses to read anything contrary.

Though I try to not talk about current events, she'll throw in her comments and will leave me so aghast, it's difficult to respond in any way, as I'm left speechless.

Do I pull the plug on this friendship? I wonder how we can continue as friends as I don't respect her views and we have many differing ideals. All I can feel is anger. -- Friends?

Dear Friends: You can certainly continue your friendship with her. If we all shared the same views on everything, then what a boring, robotic place we would live in. Try to examine why you feel so angry when someone doesn't share your views. The world could do with more understanding; why not start with yourself?

As for your friendship, make a pact with your friend that you will agree to disagree on world affairs and promise to stop bringing up politics to each other. If she refuses, or if she agrees and then keeps making cracks, then it is not the politics that separate you so much as her lack of respect for your request. Of course, this means that you can't initiate political commentary either.

Dear Readers: A great number of you wrote in with helpful tips for people experiencing loneliness later in life. Here are just a few letters.

Dear Annie: I read too frequently about seniors who feel alone and isolated. There is an organization called OLLI (Osher Lifelong Learning Institute) which operates classes for people 50-plus at colleges, junior colleges and other organizations in many cities around the country. They are great places to meet other seniors and to find people to relate to and talk about something other than the weather. They certainly have made a difference in my life. -- No Longer Isolated

Dear No Longer Isolated: Thank you for this suggestion. I will always pass on helpful ways to help people of all ages connect with each other. Many others wrote in about the same extraordinary program.

Dear Annie: I have been involved with the OLLI program at the University of North Florida for many years. There are about 120 around the country, and there are many other senior learning programs as well. Many friendships have started as a result of participating in such programs. It has been my experience that some people are a little intimidated about participating perhaps they are shy or didn't go to or finish college. Have no fear! You will be welcomed and know more than you think. Go for it! -- OLLI Love

Dear OLLI Love: Thank you for the reminder of how much we all have to contribute and the joy of being a lifelong learner.

Dear Annie: I read the letter about an older woman having trouble making friends. We have moved frequently and have found our best friends by joining a local church and by simply walking our dog around the neighborhood. Today, it is easier to get a dog than to join a church, given COVID-19. A dog would be her best friend and would improve her health by increasing her physical activity. -- Human's Best Friend

Dear Human's Best Friend: Our best friends can be furry friends -- or the owners of other furry friends. Great suggestion.

Today in History
Today is Wednesday, Sept. 2, the 246th day of 2020. There are 120 days left in the year.
Today's Highlight in History:
On Sept. 2, 1963, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace prevented the integration of Tuskegee High School by encircling the building with state troopers.
On this date:
In 1864, during the Civil War, Union Gen. William T. Sherman's forces occupied Atlanta.
In 1901, Vice President Theodore Roosevelt offered the advice, "Speak softly and carry a big stick" in a speech at the Minnesota State Fair.
In 1930, the first nonstop airplane flight from Europe to the U.S. was completed in 37 hours as Capt. Dieudonne Costes and Maurice Bellonte of France arrived in Valley Stream, New York, aboard their Breguet 19 biplane, which bore the symbol of a large question mark.
In 1944, during World War II, Navy pilot Lt. (jg) George Herbert Walker Bush was shot down by Japanese forces as he completed a bombing run over the Bonin Islands. (Bush was rescued by the crew of the submarine USS Finback; his two crew members, however, died.)
In 1945, Japan formally surrendered in ceremonies aboard the USS Missouri in Tokyo Bay, ending World War II.
In 1960, Wilma Rudolph of the United States won the first of her three gold medals at the Rome Summer Olympics as she finished the 100-meter dash in 11 seconds.
In 1963, "The CBS Evening News" with Walter Cronkite was lengthened from 15 to 30 minutes, becoming network television's first half-hour nightly newscast.
In 1969, in what some regard as the birth of the Internet, two connected computers at the University of California, Los Angeles, passed test data through a 15-foot cable. The first automatic teller machine (ATM) to utilize magnetic-stripped cards was opened to the public at Chemical Bank in New York. (Called a "Docuteller," it was developed by Donald C. Wetzel.)
In 1993, the United States and Russia formally ended decades of competition in space by agreeing to a joint venture to build a space station.
In 1998, a Swissair MD-11 jetliner crashed off Nova Scotia, killing all 229 people aboard.
In 2005, a National Guard convoy packed with food, water and medicine rolled into New Orleans four days after Hurricane Katrina. Scorched by criticism about sluggish federal help, President George W. Bush toured the Gulf Coast and met with state and local officials, including New Orleans Mayor Ray Nagin; at one point, Bush praised FEMA Director Michael Brown, telling him, "Brownie, you're doing a heck of a job."

In 2018, Sen. John McCain was laid to rest on a grassy hill at the U.S. Naval Academy, after a horse-drawn caisson carrying the senator's casket led a procession of mourners from the academy's chapel to its cemetery.
Ten years ago: Israeli and Palestinian leaders pledged in a first round of renewed peace talks in Washington to keep meeting at regular intervals. Seattle Storm forward Lauren Jackson was selected the WNBA's most valuable player for the third time in her career.
Five years ago: Overcoming ferocious opposition, President Barack Obama secured a legacy-defining foreign policy victory as Senate Democrats clinched the necessary votes to ensure the Iran nuclear agreement survived in Congress. President Obama crossed the Arctic Circle in a first by a sitting U.S. president, telling residents in the far-flung Alaska village of Kotzebue that their plight resulting from climate change should be the world's wake-up call on global warming. In one of the most haunting images from the Syrian migrant crisis, the lifeless body of 3-year-old Alan Kurdi was photographed lying on a Turkish beach after he, his 5-year-old brother and their mother died when their rubber boat capsized as it headed for Greece.
One year ago: A fire swept a boat carrying recreational scuba divers that was anchored near an island off the Southern California coast; the captain and four other crew members were able to escape the flames, but 34 people who were trapped below died. Hurricane Dorian unleashed massive flooding across the Bahamas as the fearsome Category 4 storm slowed almost to a standstill; the storm would leave at least 70 people dead and cause more than $3 billion in damage.

Today's Birthdays: Dancer-actor Marge Champion is 101. Former Sen. Alan K. Simpson, R-Wyo., is 89. Former United States Olympic Committee Chairman Peter Ueberroth is 83. Singer Jimmy Clanton is 82. Rhythm-and-blues singer Sam Gooden (The

Texas chases Big 12 title with Ehlinger and rebuilt staff

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Back when everything was still normal in college football, Texas coach Tom Herman did some house cleaning.

Tossed out were the offensive and defensive coordinators in favor of new assistants with past connections to Herman and the Big 12. By spring, four more new assistants were on staff.

Such a major rebuild after a disappointing 8-5 finish in 2019 would typically raise the temperature on a fourth-year coach who is 25-15 with the Longhorns and paid $6.2 million in expectation that No. 14 Texas will soon return to a Big 12 championship not won in more than a decade.

But the drastic shakeup largely got lost in the spring and summer of a pandemic. And while football was largely on hold for six months, the season is now rapidly approaching, pushing offensive coordinator Mike Yurcich, defensive coordinator Chris Ash and the others through a crash course of new plays and play calling.

Ash, who was an assistant with Herman years ago at Ohio State, was fired last season as Rutgers head coach. Yurcich was at Ohio State last season but also spent six seasons coaching against Texas at Oklahoma State.

Both at least have the luxury of inheriting a lineup mixed with experience, leadership and rising talent, even if there are some big holes to fill on both sides of the ball.

"It's been a great marriage thus far," Herman said early in Texas training camp. "They're all pros."

How long the honeymoon lasts will quickly be put to the test.

Yurcich has senior quarterback Sam Ehlinger to lean on as he tries to re-vamp a passing game missing big targets. Ash inherits a defense that was wildly inconsistent last year and will rely heavily on junior safety Caden Sterns and junior defensive end Joseph Ossai.

Texas opens the season at home against UTEP on Sept. 12, then opens Big 12 play at Texas Tech on Sept. 26.

STEADY HAND

Ehlinger enters his fourth season as a starter and his 8,870 yards and 68 touchdowns both rank second in program career passing records. Texas hasn't won a Big 12 title since 2009 with Colt McCoy. Ehlinger said he will leave it others to decide his legacy with or without a championship.

"I know for myself, my mission at the University of Texas is to leave the program better than it was when I got here," said Ehlinger, who joined the program after three consecutive losing seasons. "If I'm leaving and the program is better than I've been than it was when I first got here, three and a half years ago, then I would say that that was a success in my mind."

BREAK OUT PLAYER

Ossai should have a big season in a new position. A linebacker in Texas' old 3-4 scheme, Ossai led Texas in tackles, then switched to a rush end position in the Alamo Bowl and delivered three sacks in a dominant win over Utah. "He's got length, he's got speed, got long arms," Ash said.

"That's a fish to water situation," Herman said. "He belongs there."

SOLIDARITY ON THE SIDELINE

In a summer of upheaval amid protests over the killing of George Floyd, Texas players demanded and won changes from the university to rename several campus buildings that had been connected to former setate and school officials with ties to an era of Jim Crow laws and segregation.

But Texas refused to change the school song "The Eyes of Texas" a song traditionally sung by fans and the players at every game. It's still unknown how team cohesion will be affected if some players choose to sing the song while others don't.

VIRUS UPDATE

The Longhorns had three players opt out of the season because of the pandemic: reserve senior running back Daniel Young, junior college transfer lineman Willie Tyler and senior defensive end Marqez Bimage, who was expected to challenge for a starting position.

SCHEDULE SCRAMBLE

The Big 12 schedule change knocked out one of the marquee games of the season: Texas at LSU. A rematch of 2019's classic was supposed to be Sept. 14 and would have been Texas' first trip to Baton Rouge since 1953. Ehlinger jokingly said he cried when the game was canceled. The grudge match with Oklahoma is still scheduled to be played at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas in October, even though the annual Texas State Fair outside the stadium has already been canceled.

New coach at Baylor, where QB Brewer may finally slide more

By STEPHEN HAWKINS

AP Sports Writer

Baylor quarterback Charlie Brewer never spent a lot of time thinking about how beat up he was at the end of last season after a tough finish for the Bears.

But he just might slide a little more in his fourth year as the Baylor starter, when the Big 12 runner-up Bears hope to get a step farther with new coach Dave Aranda after he was part of a national championship last season.

"I'm not going to be asked to do kind of the same stuff I was asked to do last year, so I think the system is going to protect me a little bit in that way," Brewer said. "Obviously I could be smarter at times and go out of bounds, or slide and not take the hit. I've probably heard that a million times now."

Led by their hard-nosed quarterback, who threw for 3,161 yards and 21 touchdowns while running for another 11 scores, the Bears last year got to their first Big 12 championship game. They lost in overtime to Oklahoma, the only team that beat them in the regular season, though Brewer didn't play after halftime of the title game. He sustained a concussion after he delivered his own blow on a defender to finish a running play, and later took a hard sack.

Brewer's final play of the season came when he took a late hit that left him on the ground for several minutes after running toward the sideline in the fourth quarter of a Sugar Bowl loss to Georgia.

Days after the Sugar Bowl, the Bears lost coach Matt Rhule to the NFL's Carolina Panthers. He had taken Baylor from a 1-11 record in his 2017 debut to 11 wins last season.

Aranda, a first-time head coach, was the defensive coordinator for LSU's 15-0 national championship team. His staff in Waco, Texas, includes new offensive coordinator Larry Fedora, who long before being head coach at Southern Miss and North Carolina was a Baylor assistant from 1991-96, and who has gotten well-acquainted with his new quarterback.

"The thing that I can tell you is football is extremely important to him.

He wants to know everything about what we're doing," Fedora said of Brewer. "He's got great football savvy. ... He's a heck of a leader. He does not want to let anybody down."

FRONT LINE EXPERIENCE

Among seven returning starters on offense are four offensive linemen, a group that wants to improve after allowing 38 sacks last season.

"That's always a big topic," junior left tackle Connor Galvin said. "We're trying to keep him up and safe and playing for as long as possible."

Galvin said the changes in the new offense and with new line coach Joe Wickline are subtle, mostly small techniques and terminology.

JACK IS A KING

Baylor will no longer solely employ a three-man defensive front, not with the Jack position.
