Census 2020 deadline is approaching, Oct. 1

Howard County is sitting at self-response rate of 48.7%

By AMANDA DUFORAT
 Managing Editor

The time to be counted is now. The U.S. Census 2020 is currently taking place and will be wrapping up on Oct. 31. As of Sept. 3, Howard County is sitting at a self-response rate of 48.7% and Big Spring is at 49.2%, and Texas is sitting at a 60.5% self-response rate.

can be filled out and returned as well.

“As part of its Nonresponse Followup Operation (NRFU), the U.S. Census Bureau is visiting every household that has not already responded to the 2020 Census to ensure a complete and accurate count,” MacDonald said. “Census takers are scheduled to visit the non-responding households from now until Sept. 30, 2020 to ask a few questions and will enter the answers on their secure Census Bureau smart phone. If a family member is not home when the census taker visits, they will leave a notice of their visit with information about how to respond online or by phone. Additional visits will be made to the household if contact is not made the first time.”

takers will follow social distancing protocols and all applicable state and local requirements with regard to health and safety.

Until Sept. 30, 2020, households can continue to respond online or by phone.

According to MacDonald, a higher self-response rate means fewer people are likely to be missed or counted inaccurately and fewer households will have a visit from a census taker to be counted in-person. The communities with a higher self-response rate also have a better chance at receiving their fair share of services and political representation.

“The 2020 Census impacts how billions of dollars in federal funds are allocated to communities each year. Funds are used for critical programs and services such as food assistance, including SNAP and WIC, new roads, infrastructure improvements, and area hospital and clinics,” she said.

In the Lubbock ACO region – which covers to Amarillo, Big Spring, Lubbock, Abilene, and San Angelo there are 790 census takers or enumerators and visits are made from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. each day. While some may be leery about identifying a census taker correctly, the Census Bureau’s website offers information on how to identify a census taker and how to report suspected fraud.

“It is not too late to get counted and every person counts,” she said.

Vicki S. Dahmer

My Heavy Heart. I wanted to share with you that Aug. 31 at about 5:45, our beloved sister, mother and friend to so many of you went home to be with her Heavenly Father. She began by having a catastrophic, stroke-like episode at about 3 p.m. and died in a hospital in Oklahoma City at about 5:45 p.m.

We loved her so much and we know that so many of you loved her as well – and we will all miss her. She is no longer in pain from the cancer she so valiantly fought on her terms.

Vicki grew up in Big Spring, Texas. She served and volunteered for many Big Spring and Howard County organizations. She was a co-founder of Dahmer's Antique Store on Main Street in Big Spring. She enjoyed antiques, yard sales, art, and helping with good causes. Vicki was Driven by her adventurous spirit, value of hard work and loyalty to her family and community; Cindy lived a life of simple wonder. Her perpetually flexible character made it easy to add to her collection of friends along her path in life. She was an adventurous and vibrant woman who loved sky diving and dancing. She worked to draw nature closer to her by making nectar for the hummingbirds, and planting flower garden. Cindy was known for saying that "she loved playing in the dirt." She was also known to replant little plants that had shed. No work of love was too tiny for her attention. Cynthia believed that love was hard work and that work is worthy of your best effort.

Cynthia loved her grandchildren dearly and a very compassionate person and a great friend to so many in the Big Spring area. Though Vicki never had children of her own, she helped the love of her life, Tony, in raising his children.

Vicki and Tony were married for 30 years before she lost him in 2003. Tony and Vicki were preceded in death by their son, Mark in 2000. Vicki was born Patricia Lynn LaBarre and was adopted by Dorothy and James Salmon of Big Spring. Later in life she found her biological siblings, Aloma (LaBarre) Anderson, Lanny LaBarre, and Curtis LaBarre and moved to Oklahoma to be closer to them. She was preceded in death by both her biological and adoptive parents. She leaves behind her biological sister and brothers, and her son Matthew Dahmer and Cory Bishop of Big Spring; her grandsons Justin Dahmer, Nick Dahmer and granddaughter Amy Dahmer, her daughter-in-law, Tonya Dahmer and great grandsons, Anthony and Hunter. lineman, noting all of their hard work during last week's win against Vernon.

"These guys are the guys that do a lot of the dirty work and yet don't get a lot of the headline. Without these guys, none of that stuff you saw on Friday would have been possible. Overall, these guys take care of a lot of the stuff that other people don't want to handle and because of them we were able to be successful on Friday night and hopefully the same thing will happen tomorrow," Steers Head Football Coach Cannon McWilliams said.

As a part of the Consent Agenda, Big Spring ISD Trustees approved Board Minutes from the Special Meetings held on Aug. 27, 2020 – public hearing and special meeting along with the Financial Reports.

Superintendent McWilliams also initiated discussion on recommending approval of the Staff Development Minutes Waiver. According to McWilliams, this waiver allows the district to train staff on various educational strategies designed to improve student performance. Trustee Maria Padilla motioned to approve the waiver and was seconded by Trustee Julie Harris. The motion passed 6 to 0.

Also on the Action Items list, Trustees began to review the Employment Recommendations recommended by McWilliams. According to McWilliams, the three recommended Elementary and Secondary teachers are in good shape and ready for the classroom.

"All of our teaching positions are filled. We're in good shape as far as teachers in the classroom, but we've got a ways to go getting them all certified. There are 16 lined up in the fall and summer and, doing the math, if we get those 16 set up, that will be 10% of our teaching staff. So, that's very promising," Assistant Superintendent of Operations George Bancroft said.

Trustees then began discussion for the School Board of Trustee Notice of Election for the Nov. 3, 2020 Election. Earlier this year, the Trustees May election was postponed due to the altered state of the country and is now going to be held in November. A motion was made by Trustee Melissa Miller to approve the notice and was then seconded by Trustee Harris. The motion passed unanimously.

Regarding the Synchronous and Asynchronous Attestation and Plan, Assistant Superintendent of Academic and Assessment Raemi Thompson provided a detailed update on the current situation Big Spring ISD teachers are currently dealing with being back in the classroom.

"The state is allowing us the first semester to figure it out and to put a plan together. We're learning. We're learning everyday that we go. We've got different setups going on and I think we've set up our kids in the best way possible," Thompson said.

The BSISD Board of Trustees recognized members of Steer Nation football, at the beginning of the Trustee meeting on Thursday evening. Coach Cannon McWilliams spoke highly of the effort the boys at the meeting, along with the rest of the team have brought to the new season.

According to Thompson, remote asynchronous instruction does not require having an instructor and student engaged at the same time. This method would allow students to learn from instruction that is not necessarily being delivered in-person or in real time. Also according to Thompson, remote synchronous instruction is two-way, real time/live, virtual instruction between teachers and students when students are not on campus. The deadline for the Attestation Plan is Oct. 1, required by the state. Big Spring ISD has also provided flexibility to parents with their extension on enrollment. The deadline for parents and students to declare whether or not they will continue with virtual learning or decide to partake in in-person learning is Friday, Sept. 18.

"We're communicating with our parents that this is the same as being in class. We've got some things in place to ensure that are kids are learning and are participating and that we're making some contact. We're trying really hard to make it just like school," Thompson said.

A motion was made by Trustee Miller to approve the Attestation Plan and was then seconded by Trustee Harris. The motion passed unanimously.

During the Superintendent's Report, McWilliams discussed Resignations and Retirements. According to McWilliams, 2 teachers provided their resignation in the summer and one in early September.

McWilliams also informed Trustees with new information regarding the TASA/TASB Convention. McWilliams stated the convention will be held through a virtual conference from Sept. 20 through Oct. 2.

Before the regular meeting was adjourned, Superintendent McWilliams provided an updated Enrollment Report for Sept. 9, 2020 in which he stated the enrollment is up with 56 new students for lower levels alongside the high school with 17 new students totaling 1,176 students. According to McWilliams, Moss Elementary is the only school with a loss of enrollment with a total of 470 students.

"We're still behind enrollment from last year. We've talked to people around the area, and pretty much everybody is either hovering about the same or below. A lot of people with the economy left. But, it's amazing people are coming in from out of state and our enrollment is actually still going up which is a good thing for us," McWilliams said.

McWilliams also made a note to remind the public of tomorrow's Seniors Night Steer's game where they will recognize first responders before the beginning of the game in honor of 9/11.

Something to think about...

“The Lord is my Shepherd, I shall not want.” Those words begin one of the most beloved songs ever written. I think we resonate with David’s song because we recognize that life is a journey. In our busy days, we need someone to “make us lie down in green pastures, lead us beside still waters and restore our souls.” In the confusion, we long for someone to guide us along the right paths. One who will lovingly lead us through the unfamiliar and dangerous territory we inevitably encounter. Having a protective Shepherd provides comfort and peace through the ups and downs of life. If we follow the Good Shepherd, He will guide us all the way home.

I heard about a Sunday School teacher who was having her class memorize different passages. She gave little Ricky Psalm 23. He had a month to memorize the Psalm and then they were going to recite their verses in front of everyone on a Sunday morning. Ricky was excited, but he just couldn’t remember the whole verse. He practiced and practiced, but he just wasn’t getting it. Ricky had a bit of a teflon mind because nothing would stick to it. On the day they were supposed to get up and recite their verse in front of the whole congregation, Ricky got really nervous. When it was his turn, he stepped up to the mic and said loudly, “The Lord is my Shepherd, and that’s all I need to know.”

Do you know that the Lord is your Shepherd? In John 10:27, Jesus said: “My sheep listen to my voice; I know them, and they follow me.” There are many voices we can listen to through life. The one we follow will determine our direction and our ultimate destination. What voices are influencing you today? Who is guiding your life? Following the Good Shepherd comes with an amazing promise, “Surely goodness and love will follow me all the days of my life, and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever!” May His Word guide us on the journey this week.

This Sunday

“Everyone who calls on the name of the Lord will be saved.”

“How, then, can they call on the one they have not believed in? And how can they believe in the one of whom they have not heard? And how can they hear without someone preaching to them? And how can anyone preach unless they are sent? As it is written: “How beautiful are the feet of those who bring good news!” ~ Romans 10:13-15 NIV

We are on a mission right here in our community. We are sent to share God’s love and His Word with all that we encounter. This week we will engage all kinds of people – at home, at work, at the store, on the road, at the park – they may be family, friends, neighbors, or even strangers – as we are led by the Spirit we look for every opportunity to boldly share our faith in Christ through our words and our life.

Join us this Sunday as we learn to live with Beautiful Feet & Bold Faith.

of that failure, however, God “repented” that He had set Saul up to be king. He withdrew the high privilege He had conferred upon Saul, but did not “lie or repent” in doing so. Something of the sorrow of God in the defections of

Strength

Most interesting title is ascribed to God by Samuel - “The strength of Israel” (2 Samuel 15:29). Commentators differ widely in their view of its significance in this passage. Some of the suggestions are “The Glory of Israel,” “He that gives victory to Israel” and the Changeless One of Israel.” The last is a rendering in keeping with the thought of duration, which is one of the meanings of the word. The context is the story of Saul’s disobedience in the divine command in sparing Agag, and the consequent rebuke by Samuel, and intimation that “the Lord hath rent the kingdom of Israel from thee...” Samuel proceeds to emphasize the irrevocability of this judgment for “Strength (or changeless One) of Israel will not lie or repent...” He is the Eternal, the Changeless One. He knows the end from the beginning; but in the outworking of His eternal purpose He sometimes appears, according to our human judgment to repent or change His mind. It is not He who changes but men. He does not deal with any as with automations, but according to their response to His purposes and grace. Saul had his opportunity and failed, but He was not denied his opportunity because God foreknew that he would fail. Because

His children is conveyed by the word-- a sorrow nonetheless real because the defections are foreseen and foreknown.

This is another of the several titles which express the severity and goodness of God’s complementary aspects of His Character. How comforting it is to know that the Eternal is the Changeless One! But to the wayward, like Saul, it is an awesome realization that He knows beforehand the outcome of all our decisions and doings and has determined our destiny accordingly. Yet in His severity there is goodness, for all like Saul have their opportunity. No one is predestined by God to rejection. But HE IS NEVER TAKEN BY SURPRISE; NEVER CAUSED TO “REPENT” AS MAN DOES. HIS TENDER GRACE IS REVEALED IN THAT HE SEEMS TO REPENT. He truly sorrows in our failings and failures. But even divine grace has its limits. There is no escape. It is a judgment in accord with His Character as the Changeless One. Stern as that word may seem to the guilty, it is nevertheless the foundation of eternal security; for if His judgments were subject to a whim, or to any of the considerations which sway our human reactions to facts and situations, then we could never be sure of our standing before God. But James declared long afterwards, with Him is “no variableness, neither shadows of turning.” Despite its context of judgment, therefore, this title has its deepest note the comfort and assurance of those who “trust and obey.”

The Lord our Strength.

I pray you have a good week. Until next time...

Reflections: Jesus Communities

We have been dodging the Coronavirus for more than six months. In the early days, when we first came to grips with the pandemic sweeping our world, we literally shut down our cities and our neighborhoods. At first, we hunkered in our houses refusing to venture outside except for the bare necessities. Some stood in line for toilet paper. Our brave grocery store staff continued to work, stocking shelves, cheerfully shuttling grocery orders to the parking lots where they loaded food into the trunk of our car. Drive-through and fast-food restaurants remained open with masks and gloves. Other “essential services” kept us afloat. Churches closed their doors and learned to stream on Facebook and the Web. We zoomed in until we were zoomed out. For the last month or more, we have been cautiously re-opening and re-connecting. Restaurants have learned how to isolate and distance their tables. Wait staff have learned how to “smile through a mask.” Outside dining has been expanded into sidewalks and streets. Shops are re-opening. Masked students are re-entering classrooms. We are even starting to move about the country, albeit cautiously and slowly.

Churches have started to re-convene, attempting to refrain from impulsive hugs and handshakes that are integral to Christian fellowship. Some, who have the option, are choosing to meet inside, scattered six feet apart among empty chairs and open pews. Others are meeting in the open air as long as weather permits.

Since my wife and I are in the high-risk group, we have chosen the open-air option for worship, taking advantage of the opportunity to visit different churches that are meeting in open space. We take our folding chairs, look for shade, or open an umbrella against the sun’s rays and find a space at least six feet apart from other families. I have found my heart warmed by these “Jesus communities,” as I like to call them, gathering in parks, parking lots and open spaces for worship. I love to see small children running barefoot through the grass looking for their friends; families gathered in the shade where children play on blankets while their parents sing songs of praise and the preacher preaches.

It reminds me of the first century when Jesus walked in Galilee and people sought him in the open fields, when churches sprang up without buildings and places to meet. Surely God is up to something through all the global suffering, heartache and struggle in 2020. Surely, He wants to draw us to Himself for comfort, encouragement, healing and a reminder that we are all his children. We were all created in His image and His greatest desire is that we love one another regardless of our racial, cultural or national differences.

As the Scripture says, “May the God who gives endurance and encouragement give you the same attitude of mind toward one another that Christ Jesus had, so that with one mind and one voice you may glorify the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Accept one another, then, just as Christ accepted you” (Romans 15:5-7).

The Rest of the Story

Teach in a Christian school here in Big Spring. We have a story for each sound and letter of the alphabet that the students in Kindergarten hear every morning. In the story many times they leave a suspenseful question to peak the students interest for the next day. They are really disappointed that they can’t know the answer right then.

We live in an instant society where we have been almost programmed to demand an answer to any perplexing problem “right now.” Even though we probably know we will have to wait for the answer we get impatient and displeased to the point of indignation that the answer isn’t forthcoming, immediately, if not sooner.

So, why are we so impatient? We are human, and that’s just a natural reaction to counteract when things don’t go our way.

So, how do we overcome it? First, acknowledge the fact that the world wasn’t made for my center of the universe.

Then go to the Source of patience. That would be

God. He is the Source of everything we are. He Created us for His glory. When we acknowledge that we will have the rest of the story. Things will begin to make sense that we never understood before this time.

His incredible love for His Creation sent His Son to the Cross. His incredible power caused Jesus to rise again. There is no impatience in anything God does. So when we get impatient, Remember the God who has everything under His Sovereign control and ask Him for guidance through anything life hands us.

We will not know the rest of the story until we get to His Home in Heaven where He is preparing a place for His children. It will be exciting to find out the ending—or the beginning.

9th Grade team prevails, JV falls big on the road against Monahans

By SHAWN MORAN

Herald Sports Writer

MONAHANS — The Big Spring Steers took a trip out west on Thursday night for the 9th Grade and Junior Varsity teams to take on the Monahans Loboes.

In the 9th Grade game, the Steers overcame four first-half interceptions from quarterback Gavin Padron and relied heavily on the playmaking ability of Kavian Ford en route to an 18-6 win. Following the big season-opening loss to Canyon last Thursday night, the Freshmen Steers were able to redeem themselves and pick up their first win of the season.

On the other hand, Big Spring's JV dropped to 0-2 on the season after a penalty-riddled 38-8 loss to the Loboes. The Steers' JV was able to find the end zone for the first time this season but were otherwise out-matched by the power and speed of the Monahans offense.

Here is a recap of each game:

9TH GRADE TEAM

Following a week where he was one of the Big Spring's only consistent performers, Padron threw an interception on one of the Steers' opening drives that gave Monahans solid field position.

This was followed up by an interception of their own when Ford was able to slip in front of the intended receiver and pick the pass off. However, the Steers were unable to do anything with the ball following that turnover and the first quarter came to a close without any points being scored by either side.

Early in the second quarter, Padron tried to go to an intended receiver deep down the left sideline on another pass that was intercepted by the Monahans' defense.

On defense, Ford once again said not so fast and picked off another pass that he was able to return to Big Spring's own 39-yard line.

Ford then made his presence felt on the offensive side of the ball by taking a swing pass on third down 20 yards and into Lobe territory. On a fourth down and short just outside of the red zone, Padron was able to find receiver Tyree Brawley for a first down at the 14-yard line. Two plays later, Padron took a shot for the end zone and was once again intercepted by a Monahans defender. This time, wide receiver Jacob Cantu chased down the Monahans defender and forced a fumble that the Steers were able to recover.

Big Spring now had the ball at the Monahans' 12-yard line midway through the second quarter. On first down, Ford took a carry up the middle where he trucked a Monahans defender at the goal line and found himself in the end zone for Big Spring's first lead. The extra point was a failed two-point conversion attempt on a trick play pass by Ford that fell incomplete and the Steers lead 6-0.

Monahans followed up the Big Spring scoring drive by going three-and-out and gave the ball back to the Steers with under two minutes remaining in the first half.

The Big Spring drive was jump started by a 28-yard change of direction run by Brawley where he went from the left side of the field to the right while also hurdling a Monahans' defender in the process. The Steers were now inside enemy territory and had the ball at the 43-yard line with time winding down.

Padron hit Donavyn Hillario for an 18-yard gain and then was able to connect with Joseph Murrillo for a 20-yard gain that put the Steers at the 15-yard line with 15 second remaining in the first half. Padron fired a pass inside the 5-yard line for an intended receiver that was once again intercepted by Monahans.

The Loboes then ran out the clock and the Steers held a 6-0 halftime lead.

The third quarter started off slow and was scoreless through most of the 9-minute period. Monahans was able to put together a tremendous drive that began at their own 33-yard line and ended with a 14-yard touchdown run where the Monahans running back was able to break what seemed like six tackles on his way to the end zone. The Loboes failed the two-point conversion attempt and the game was tied 6-6 with under two minutes left in the third.

On the next four combined drives, each one ended with a punt away to the other team.

Then, with about four minutes remaining in the game, the Steers started with the ball at their own 10-yard line. Cantu was able to catch an under-thrown ball from Padron on a deflection that went for 32 yards and jumpstarted the Steer offense. On the very next play, Cantu took a sweep that he took for another 32 yards and put his team at the Monahans' 31-yard line.

On a 4th-and-5 from the 26-yard line, Padron found Brawley for what turned out to be the game-winning touchdown. The extra point was unsuccessful and the Steers held a 12-6 lead with just over two minutes left in the game.

On the ensuing Monahans drive, their quarterback tried to look for an easy completion on a screen pass that was read perfectly by Murrillo. He jumped in front of the pass and returned it untouched to the house for a game-sealing Steers' score.

Monahans fumbled the kickoff following the Steer touchdown and Big Spring ran out the clock for an 18-6 victory.

UP NEXT: The 9th Grade Team (1-1) will host Brownfield next Thursday evening at 5:00 p.m.

Chiefs begin title defense with 34-20 victory over Texans

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Just about the only thing that looked familiar about the NFL's long-awaited return Thursday night was the sight of Patrick Mahomes effortlessly leading the Kansas City Chiefs up and down the field.

The Super Bowl MVP threw for 211 yards and three touchdowns, Clyde Edwards-Helaire ran through the rain for 138 yards and another score, and the Chiefs began defense of their first championship in 50 years by beating the Houston Texans 34-20 on Thursday night before a socially distanced crowd of about 17,000 due to the coronavirus pandemic.

Travis Kelce, Sammy Watkins and Tyreek Hill each caught TD passes for the Chiefs. They have won 10 straight dating to last season. That run includes a come-from-behind 51-31 victory over the Texans in the divisional round of the playoffs.

"I'm proud of our players but I'm also proud of our fans. They came out there. They were loud," said Chiefs coach Andy Reid, who claimed he didn't notice some booing from fans during a pre-game moment of unity involving both teams.

"Obviously, our players, both sides of the ball and special teams, I thought they were solid," Reid continued. "For the first game there were some good things that were done, some great individual performances."

The Texans' Deshaun Watson threw a touchdown pass and ran for another score, but he was under relentless pressure and was intercepted once. David Johnson provided the biggest bright spot for Houston, running for 77 yards and a score.

"There's a lot to fix," Texans coach Bill O'Brien said. "It's only one game. We have to improve pretty quickly. But it's only one game. We have to get back to work pretty soon and fix these things."

The world has changed dramatically in the seven months since the Chiefs hoisted the Lombardi Trophy in Miami.

Within six weeks, the term COVID-19 had become a part of everyday life, the disease killing more than 900,000 people around the globe. The death of George Floyd at the knee of a white Minneapolis police officer in May touched off the Black Lives Matter movement, which in turn has led to a summer of social unrest that has gripped the country.

Against that backdrop came an NFL opener unlike any other: masks worn by everyone from fans to the coaching staffs; a series of videos raising awareness of social justice initiatives and encouraging the public to vote; and ultimately both teams locking arms in a display of unity prior to the coin toss.

To the relief of many, kickoff finally brought 4 hours of normalcy.

The Texans, who blew a 24-point lead against Kansas City in the the playoffs, struck first when they marched 80 yards for a touchdown. The elusive Johnson finished it off by scampering 19 yards to the end zone for a 7-0 lead.

But just like that cold January day, the red-hot Chiefs quickly overcame their slow start.

They tied it moments later when Mahomes threw a short touchdown pass to Kelce, then took the lead when they forced a quick punt and Mahomes found Watkins in the end zone. Harrison Butker capped the first half by kicking a chip-shot field goal that sent the Chiefs to the locker room with a 17-7 lead.

Edwards-Helaire, their first-round pick, padded the lead in the third quarter. After ripping off an 11-yard gain early in the drive, the pint-sized dynamo out of LSU unleashed a wicked stutter-step before running 27 yards for another score.

Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker
Bidding quiz

Partner opens with One Heart. What would you respond with each of the following four hands?

- ♠ 9754 ♥ 102 ♦ AQ76 ♣ J82
- ♠ K94 ♥ KQ3 ♦ AQ ♣ KQ632
- ♠ KQ872 ♥ 10954 ♦ Q5 ♣ J4
- ♠ K863 ♥ 73 ♦ J7 ♣ KJ985

1. One spade. Since you must respond with six or more points, the only problem is whether to bid one spade or one notrump. The spade response is clearly better, since partner might have four spades, and you might miss a good spade contract if you respond one notrump.

The one-spade response does not promise more points than a response of one notrump. Both responses indicate six or more points; the big difference is that the spade response has no upper limit, while the upper limit of one notrump is normally 10 points.

2. Three clubs. With 19 high-card points facing presumably 13 or more, you are obviously in the slam zone. The usual way of alerting partner to this situation is via a jump-shift. True, your clubs are not robust, but that is a minor consideration compared with the advantage of putting partner on notice that the strong possibility of a slam exists.

The hand is too strong for a direct response of three notrump, which would portray your distribution fairly accurately but would understate your high-card values by two or three points.

3. Two hearts. It is tempting to respond with one spade, but that would be the wrong bid. Your hand fits the description of a raise to two hearts: adequate trump support and six to 10 points in high cards and distribution.

A response of one spade might easily create a bidding problem later on that would be difficult to solve. For example, if partner were to rebid two diamonds, and you were to make a preference bid of two hearts, partner would never expect four-card trump support, and a sound game contract might be missed. And if you were to bid three hearts instead, partner would expect a somewhat better hand. The easiest way to avoid such difficulties is to raise partner at once and let him take it from there.

4. One spade. Here you have three bids to consider: one spade, one notrump and two clubs. The best response over the long haul is one spade. As usual, the emphasis is on seeking a major-suit fit. The one spade response also leaves room for a low-level notrump contract, while a one-notrump response bypasses the opportunity to find a spade fit. A two-club response must be ruled out because it would promise 10 or more points, which you don't have.

Divided Kitchen Table

Dear Annie: My wife and I have just celebrated our ninth wedding anniversary. Two years ago, she decided to become a vegan for moral and dietary reasons. I respect her greatly for that, though I didn't love constantly hearing about it. I have also adopted many of the same eating habits, but I do still eat meat. We have both learned to prepare very nice vegan dishes that the other enjoys. Lately, however, she has decided to adopt a whole-food, plant-based diet, she also has decided to use a lot of spices in her foods that I cannot eat. For the past two years, I have not cooked meat in our house nor have I fired up my barbecue out of respect for her. Now, I find myself wanting to again cook dishes for myself that I feel are healthy but that include lean meats: chicken fajitas, turkey chili, etc... Do I have the right to cook in my house and if so, how do I approach the subject with her in a way that she doesn't "flip out"? -- Omnivore Husband in Oregon

Dear Omnivore: Your wife wouldn't appreciate it if you told her how to eat. She should respect your right to decide what you'd like to eat, too. However, I have a feeling that you may want to take a leaf from her book once you see the effects of a whole-food, plant-based diet. It's one of the healthiest ways to eat and has been shown to be effective against many common chronic diseases, including heart disease and Type 2 diabetes. (Check out "Prevent and Reverse Heart Disease" by Caldwell Esselstyn, M.D., and "The China Study" by T. Colin Campbell, Ph.D., for more information.) So, keep an open mind.

Dear Annie: I am going through a really hard time right now. My husband is dying with stage 4 non-Hodgkin's lymphoma in the pancreas. His doctor told me that it's getting to be time to call in our family. I'm with him 24/7. We have been married for 23 years and have three wonderful children together ages 17 through 21. My husband asked me to tell the hospital that he doesn't want anyone in the room with him except for me, our kids and three other family members. This doesn't include any immediate members of his family of origin, and they are blaming me for this. I am doing what my husband asks. His family has not been around us at all this whole time that he has been sick, and now they are wanting to act like they really care. Don't get me wrong; I really do love my in-laws, but how do I honor my husband's wishes while not hurting his family? I'm the one with him day and night, never even once leaving the room from him. I don't want to hurt anyone! -- Wife in the Middle

Dear Wife in the Middle: I am so sorry that your husband is dying.

There are no good options here, but the best option available is to honor his wishes, just as you've been doing. These are his final days, and he deserves agency over how he spends them. If he can comfortably speak, you might try gently encouraging him one last time to consider seeing his family members, if for no other reason than to say his piece to them. But if he reaffirms his stance (or is incapable of doing so), let these relatives know it's out of your hands. Then set aside their anger, and focus on your husband, you and what you need during this excruciatingly painful time.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Neptune Amplifies

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You may feel sympathetic to someone's plight but try not to indulge the emotion of pity. When you see strength in people, you help them to see the strong parts of themselves.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). If you undervalue your contribution, then you could get into a situation in which you're doing and giving more than is sustainable or healthy for you. That's a recipe for resentment. Be generous but cautiously so.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Small gestures often mean more than anyone realizes at the time. There are exchanges that occurred over a decade ago that you still think about today. Your mind is a beautiful mystery.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You'll build up the people around you. It's different for everyone. You have to feel out each situation as a standalone, and this is why you're excellent at relationships. You know how much work they really are.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You can afford to be honest and direct. Some cannot do this without the requisite amount of charm. Some have too much baggage to do it without causing harm with the impact. Not you. You're light today. Just say what you mean.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Opportunities will come to you in the form of complaints. Wherever there is an unhappy person, there is a chance at providing something lucrative, useful or healing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You take nothing and no one for granted. Unlike most people, you don't have to lose something in order to recognize the value of it. You realize what you have, and you do what it takes to keep it perfectly intact.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). The thing about peace is that it can't be peace all the time or it wouldn't be peace. Peace, like all things, needs a contrast. Is this any comfort -- knowing that times of disharmony help you spot peace when it comes?

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). People who are actively on their way to other places do not have the capacity to sit and enjoy one another, which is the glory of being a passenger and the magic of road trips and airplane rides. Some-day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). The Snow Patrol song asks, "What if this all the love you ever get?" and though you can be assured that it's not, posing the question could make you dig in a little deeper.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Does it seem like an agreement you made is turning into a much larger responsibility than you bargained for? Stand up for yourself. Your actions need to show that you know your own value.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). There are helpers around and the job gets done. As long as there is good communication, all goes well. And if there's not, then it still might go well, but who's going to know?

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Sept. 11). You find the group in which your particular skill set is very valuable, and you make the most of that. This is the true gift of living -- to contribute powerfully at what you do best. You will soar. Sweet music comes in many forms: relationships and finance particularly. It's all about doubling down on what's working. Scorpio and Capricorn adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 7, 20, 11, 4 and 17.

WEEKEND LOVE FORECAST: ARIES: Do what's right for you, even if it means displeasing the other. TAURUS: If you can think your way out of love, you can think your way back into it, too. GEMINI: Sometimes it takes someone believing in you to foster belief in yourself. CANCER: You know who and what you want, but others want it, too. Charm and diplomacy finesse the competition. LEO: Don't let your obsessing derail a good relationship. VIRGO: Just say it. Say what you want. That will be your best chance at getting it. LIBRA: Once you introduce the family, everything changes. SCORPIO: Sure, you're a person, but you're also a universe. How much of it can they understand? SAGITTARIUS: The superficial things may seem inconsequential, but they speak to your overall confidence, which is everything. CAPRICORN: You are always honing your skills. Relationships are a skill. AQUARIUS: You enjoy controlling your own environment and that is the main concern about letting another person in. It will totally be worth the inconvenience. PISCES: How hard can you privately, in your own head, love someone before they feel it?

COUPLE OF THE WEEKEND: Once upon a time, romance was a dangerous and exhilarating sport, and flirting, an art form of wit, intelligence and prowess. If romance were genotyped, the Aries and Libra partnership surely share the same DNA. Two strong-willed independent individuals teasing out the differences between man and woman, yin and yang. And with a shared spirit of mutual conquest, all's fair in love.

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Today in History
Today is Friday, Sept. 11, the 255th day of 2020. There are 111 days left in the year.
Today's Highlight in History: On September 11, 2001, nearly 3,000 people were killed as 19 al-Qaida hijackers seized control of four jetliners, sending two of the planes into New York's World Trade Center, one into the Pentagon and the fourth into a field in western Pennsylvania.
On this date:
In 1777, during the American Revolution, forces under Gen. George Washington were defeated by the British in the Battle of Brandywine.
In 1789, Alexander Hamilton was appointed the first U.S. Secretary of the Treasury.
In 1814, an American fleet scored a decisive victory over the British in the Battle of Lake Champlain in the War of 1812.
In 1885, author D.H. Lawrence was born in Eastwood, Nottinghamshire, England.
In 1936, Boulder Dam (now Hoover Dam) began operation as President Franklin D. Roosevelt pressed a key in Washington to signal the startup of the dam's first hydroelectric generator.
In 1941, groundbreaking took place for the Pentagon. In a speech that drew accusations of anti-Semitism, Charles A. Lindbergh told an America First rally in Des Moines, Iowa, that "the British, the Jewish and the Roosevelt administration" were pushing the United States toward war.
In 1972, the troubled Munich Summer Olympics ended. Northern California's Bay Area Rapid Transit system began operations.
In 1973, Chilean President Salvador Allende (ah-YEN'-day) died during a violent military coup.
In 2006, in a prime-time address, President George W. Bush invoked the memory of the victims of the 9/11 attacks as he staunchly defended the war in Iraq, though he acknowledged that Saddam Hussein was not responsible for the attacks.
In 2007, a new Osama bin Laden videotape was released on the sixth anniversary of 9/11; in it, the al-Qaida leader's voice is heard commemorating one of the suicide hijackers and calling on young Muslims to follow his example by martyring themselves in attacks.
In 2008, presidential candidates John McCain and Barack

Obama put aside politics as they visited ground zero together on the anniversary of 9/11 to honor its victims.
In 2012, a mob armed with guns and grenades launched a fiery nightlong attack on a U.S. diplomatic outpost and a CIA annex in Benghazi, Libya, killing U.S. Ambassador Chris Stevens and three other Americans.
Ten years ago: Speaking at the Pentagon, President Barack Obama appealed to the nation to honor the memory of the September 11 victims by heaving to the values of diversity and tolerance. In New York, a morning ceremony of remembrance gave way to an afternoon of protests and counter-protests over a proposed Islamic center near ground zero. A gunman in rural eastern Kentucky killed five people before turning the shotgun on himself. Kim Clijsters won a second consecutive U.S. Open championship and third overall, easily beating Vera Zvonareva (zvahn-uh-RAY'-vuh) 6-2, 6-1. Actor Kevin McCarthy, 96, died in Hyannis, Massachusetts.
Five years ago: A crane collapsed onto the Grand Mosque in Mecca, killing 111 people ahead of the annual hajj pilgrimage. Former Texas Gov. Rick Perry ended his second bid for the Republican presidential nomination, becoming the first major candidate of the 2016 campaign to give up on the White House. Roberta Vinci stunned Serena Williams to end her Grand Slam bid in one of the greatest upsets in tennis history; the 43rd-ranked Italian won 2-6, 6-4, 6-4 in the U.S. Open semifinals.
One year ago: The Supreme Court allowed nationwide enforcement of a new Trump administration rule preventing most Central American migrants from seeking asylum in the United States; the policy was meant to deny asylum to anyone who passed through another country on the way to the U.S. without seeking protection there. Oil tycoon T. Boone Pickens died at his Dallas home; he was 91.

"He's just another weapon I have in this offense," Mahomes said. The Chiefs put the game away when rookie L'Jarius Sneed picked off Watson's jump ball in the closing seconds of the third quarter. Mahomes was bailed out of a fourth-down interception by pass interference in the end zone, then he zipped a dart to Hill streaking across the field for a 31-7 lead early in the fourth quarter.

"We just trust whatever Coach Reid is dialing up," said Kelce, who finished with six catches for 50 yards. "They do an unbelievable job preparing us and scheming up defenses and we just trust what they're doing."

Watson threw a touchdown pass and ran for a TD later in the quarter to make the final score a bit more respectable.

"It was a little different but the fans did what they did for their home team and that was pretty much it," Watson said. "We just got to continue to do our job, find the rhythm, get guys on the same page and that's pretty much it."

UPON FURTHER REVIEW

The Chiefs had a touchdown on their opening series brought back when the officials determined Demarcus Robinson failed to control a 36-yard pass from Mahomes in the end zone. They had another overturned when Watkins caught a 9-yard pass in the second quarter, though he wound up catching a screen pass for a TD two plays later.

SOCIAL JUSTICE

The Chiefs lined up along the goal line about 30 minutes before kickoff and watched Alicia Keyes perform "Lift Every Voice and Sing," which is often considered the Black national anthem, in a video designed to address racial inequality.

The Texans had already left the field when the demonstration occurred.

They remained there until R&B duo Chloe x Halle finished a virtual performance of "The Star-Spangled Banner," then ran onto the field to a chorus of boos from fans.

Some fans were still booing when the teams met at midfield and shook hands. The teams then stood together in a line that stretched from one end zone to the other for a moment of silence before the coin toss.

"Listen, I didn't really notice it," Reid said of the booing. "I thought that was kind of a neat deal, both sides coming together for a cause. The story was told there. Whether it was the national anthems and how those were presented, the singers — Alicia Keyes was phenomenal — and then guys joining hands together for a cause. Really just to make us all better and a stronger country than we all are. We have a chance to be unstoppable when we all come together."

SUPER CELEBRATION

In a relatively muted celebration, the Chiefs unveiled their Super Bowl banner and presented the Lombardi Trophy to their fans — along with a 20-foot replica that was wheeled onto the field — about 15 minutes before the game began.

INJURIES

Chiefs: DT Khalen Saunders (elbow) left in the first quarter with an elbow injury. DE Alex Okafor hurt his hamstring in the third and did not return. CB Charvarius Ward left in the fourth quarter with a hand injury.

Texans: RB Duke Johnson left in the fourth quarter with a leg injury. He did not return.

UP NEXT

The Texans play their home opener against the Ravens on Sept. 20. The Chiefs visit the Chargers the same day.

The remainder of NFL teams will be taking the field this Sunday for their first games of the 2020-21 season. The Dallas Cowboys are slated to take on the L.A. Rams on the road for the first Sunday Night Football game of the year.

It was another rough performance from the Big Spring JV in a game that was filled with penalties, miscommunications, and missed opportunities.

Big Spring received the opening kickoff of the game but were unable to do much with it. They turned the ball over after a failed fourth down conversion and gave the ball to Monahans inside Steer territory.

The Steer defense had a total of three offsides penalties called on them during their first drive on the field and it helped put Monahans in great position to score. The Loboes' running back had one nice carry for 19 yards that put the ball inside the 15. A few plays later, the Monahans quarterback rushed his way nine yards into the end zone for the first Lobe score of the game.

Big Spring then turned the ball over on their next offensive possession and gave Monahans even better field position. But on a fourth-and-long, Monahans took a shot for the end zone on a pass that was broken up by Phillip Martinez.

The next Steer drive was highlighted by a 29-yard catch by Conner Andrae from quarterback David Rios. However, the drive stalled out shortly thereafter and the Steers turned the ball over on downs.

With under five minutes remaining in the first half, Monahans had the ball and were driving. Then, the Lobe quarterback launched a beautiful pass downfield that was caught by a wide-open receiver and taken into the end zone on a 39-yard score. The two-point conversion was unsuccessful and the Loboes held a 14-0 lead.

Rios was then intercepted on the next Big Spring drive and Monahans had great starting field position once again. After a few plays, the Monahans running back shrugged off a tackle and made his way nine yards into the end zone for another Monahans touchdown. This time, the two-point conversion was successful and the Loboes led 22-0 going into halftime.

The JV Steers had now gone the first six quarters of the season without a single point scored and were looking to change that in the second half.

Monahans got the ball to start off the third quarter and quickly charged their way down the field for another touchdown. This time, their quarterback slipped in for a score from two yards out and gave his team a 30-0 lead following a successful two-point conversion.

On Big Spring's first drive of the second half, they used a balanced attack to work their way down the field and deep into opposing territory. On a 2nd-and-3 from the 24-yard line, Martinez took a carry off left tackle all the way to the end zone for the Steers first touchdown of the year.

With less than five minutes in the game, Monahans had the ball once again and their shifty running back was able to take a carry for a 27-yard touchdown. The two-point conversion was successful and the Monahans Loboes JV finished out a dominating 38-8 winning performance over the visiting Steers.

UP NEXT: Big Spring's JV (0-2) will travel to take on the Greenwood Rangers next Thursday night at 6:30 p.m.
