Last Friday night in Big Spring was a rare opportunity to share in a piece of history. An opportunity to come face to face with a piece of history that many may never get, a rare moment, but one that is worth the deepest gratitude; a piece of history that wasn't draped in shiny lights or offered an alluring attraction, but an important piece of history that should not only be embraced, but extended sincere gratitude. Four members of Tiger Bravo - one of the battalions who fought in the Vietnam War - gathered for a reunion and offered an opportunity for the Big Spring community to meet a piece of history.

"I was truly honored to be able to get to know these four fine men," said Michael Cole, attendee at the book signing and Navy Veteran, said. "My dad served in Vietnam, but never talked about his service." Cole's father was an Army Veteran, and obviously carried the scars of his service all his days Cole recounted.

"Never really knowing the demons that plagued my dad," Cole continued. "Being able to share in this reunion, to spread the news about Seventy Times Seven Center; we need volunteers to go out in the community and spread the word - post flyers, get sponsors, etc, and help us get one step closer to finding a home."

Stopping abuse happens one person at a time. One new 501c3 - Seventy Times Seven Center, a shelter for battered and abused women - has made it a mission to raise awareness and draw support for those who feel they have no way out. On Oct. 24 inside Comanche Trail Park, the center will be holding their first fundraiser which will be a walk/run in the park.

"This is an idea that I have been working on for awhile, but this is the first fundraiser that we are having," Bella Nelles, Founder of Seventy Times Seven Center, said. "This is an opportunity for all ages to come out and support the cause. Domestic abuse doesn't discriminate; this is an issue that can happen to anyone regardless of age, gender or ethnicity."

The Walk/Run in the Park event will have registration open at 1 p.m. with the walk/run beginning at 2 p.m. Registration fees will benefit the building fund which will allow the center to find a home.

"Right now we don't have a home, but the goal is to find a building, purchase the building and be able to offer a safe place for those trying to escape the domestic abuse situation to go," Nelles said.

She continued, "We are in need of soldiers who are willing October is Domestic Violence Awareness Month and was the perfect time to host the first fundraiser and draw awareness to the issue. While many people may think domestic violence doesn't exist in their community, the fact of the matter is domestic violence is present in Howard County and across the nation. Raising awareness is the first step in reaching a point where it is not present, but it's also an opportunity to let victims of domestic violence know they are not alone.

"If you know someone, or you are someone, who is dealing with domestic violence, it's important that you know you are not alone. God will guide you through, just as he guided me through that situation years ago," Nelles said.

Updates and opportunities to get involved are listed on both and will have upcoming event notifications.

James Lynn Glass

James Lynn Glass, 82, passed to eternal life on Tuesday, Oct. 6, 2020, at his home, surrounded by family members and caregivers. Lynn was born in San Angelo, Texas on Oct. 1, 1938, to parents Willie and David Glass of Sterling City. He was the middle child, looking up to his big brother, Larry, and looking over his little sister, Willene. Lynn grew up on the Glass Lacy Creek Ranch in Sterling County, 15 miles west of Sterling City. He often spoke of childhood memories of hunting with his dogs on Lacy Creek, mischief with his cousins, and Sunday afternoon gatherings with family. Collecting Indian artifacts became his lifelong hobby. He learned the value of hard work beginning in junior high while digging post holes for fence construction, and spending days on horseback doctoring livestock for screwworms. Lynn attended Sterling City schools, graduating in 1957. He attended Texas Christian University and received his BS in geology in 1961. He served two years active duty in the US Army in the 35th Corps of Engineers, was promoted to First Lieutenant, then after his honorable discharge came back to Sterling County in 1963 to join his family in the ranching business.

In 1969 Lynn met and married Helen Irene Sisco from Water Valley. Helen and Lynn settled into their home on the Glass Ranch in northeastern Glasscock County, where they still reside 51 years later. Helen and Lynn have three children—Elizabeth and husband, Shelby Staggs from Lubbock, Wesley and wife, Ashley Glass from Sterling City, and Jamie and husband, Baylor Walker who also live on the Glasscock County ranch. Wesley and Baylor have partnered with Lynn in the ranching business for over 20 years. The Glasses have eight grandchildren: Mallory, Joelle, and Sawyer Staggs, Peighton and Carter Glass, and Shawn, Lyndee, and Mason Walker.

Lynn epitomized the values of the West Texas rancher: love of the land, love of family, and love of God the Creator. Lynn had a strong work ethic and a fierce determination to protect and care for his livestock, and to conserve and improve his ranchland. The Glass family received a Texas Family Land Heritage award in 1990 given to families whose properties have been in continuous agriculture production for 100 or more years. He was proud of his family ranching heritage and felt that ranching was his calling. He loved his wooled Rambouillet sheep and his Hereford/Angus black baldy cattle. He was twice named Conservation Rancher by the North Concho River Soil and Water Conservation District and served as President of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association in 2007-2008. Lynn also served as a director of the Glasscock County Underground Water Conservation District for 11 years. He was a member of the Glasscock County ISD board, serving in that capacity for 15 years. He also belonged to the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

Lynn was a faithful member and elder of the First Presbyterian Church in Sterling City. In 2005 he and Helen moved their membership to First Presbyterian Church of Big Spring and became active there.

Pallbearers are Lynn's eight grandchildren. Honorary pallbearers are Larry Glass, Dick Boger, Warner Phillips, Barney Sisco, Dennis Fuchs, Bill Stroman, John Phillips, Stan Garrison, Lee Bloodworth, Bob Bowlin, and Mike Baker.

Lynn had a deep respect and appreciation for the men who have worked for him for so many years: Charlie and Stella Carter, Vicente Guerrero, Santana Luna, Junior Luna, Jim and Lauri Spivey and Dustin Miller.

Lynn's family wishes to thank Home Hospice of Big Spring, especially Kimmy Teeters, Beverly Grant, and loving caregivers Chris Camacho, Hilda Martinez, Laura, Matthew, & Noemi Mojica, Cynde Musgrove, Virginia Bernal, and Anna Silva.

Graveside services will be at 9 a.m. Friday, Oct. 9, 2020, at Montvale Cemetery in Sterling City. A memorial service will be held at 11:30 AM Friday, Oct. 9, 2020, at First Presbyterian Church in Big Spring. The family will receive friends in the Courtyard following the service at the church. Due to the current pandemic, social distancing and masks are encouraged. He will lie in state from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 8, 2020, at Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

Arrangements are under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home. Online condolences can be made at www.npwelch.com

Jennifer Chesworth, Rebecca Otto, Rosie Lain, and Heidi Wagner.

Trustees then moved into Report Items where a Beginning of the Year Academic Report was provided. According to Assistant Superintendent of Academics and Assessment Raemi Thompson, it has deemed difficult to measure standards and improvements for students this year compared to the previous year due to the altered state of learning for most students.

"This has been a very challenging year to try to determine what we want to track this year. We really can't compare apples to apples kids to last year, so one of the things we decided to do is just track our kids this year. This year we are going to track standards," Thompson said.

Thompson noted that Big Spring ISD has identified several weak areas from the past and intend on comparing students to themselves for this altered school year. Due to the state of the country, data being taken since the beginning of the year to now will vary heavily and could also entail skewed data with virtual learners. With the school year just beginning, several assessments will take place throughout the remainder of the year that will continue focusing on required state standards and skill-sets, according to Thompson. Future measurements and data will need to be collected to provide thorough enough information as the current Academic Report simply holds as a starting point.

Afterwards, the Board of Trustees moved to approve regular agenda items such as: Sept. 10, 2020 Board Minutes Regular Meeting and Financial Reports.

Regarding the approval of Adjunct Faculty Agreement with Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service, this agreement would allow students attending Extension activities to be counted as "extracurricular" and eligible for school funding. Trustee Julie Harris moved to approve the agreement and was seconded by Trustee Maria Padilla. The motion passed unanimously.

Thompson then initiated discussion regarding the approval of the Adoption of Instructional Materials. According to Thompson, the State Board of Education's Proclamation 2020 called for the adoption of new instructional materials for courses identified within ELAR (English Language Arts and Reading) for grades 9-12. Instructional material funding is allotted to BSISD through the state. A motion was made by Trustee Melissa Miller to approve the instructional materials selected. Trustee Padilla seconded the motion and carried 5 to 0.

Big Spring ISD District and Campus Improvement Plans were also provided by Thompson. Thompson noted that due to the current pandemic and immediate restructuring of instruction in Spring 2020, many goals remaining in the 2019-2020 district and campus improvement plans were unable to be evaluated. Therefore, most, if not all, of the data and goals outlined in the 2020-2021 plans will need to be resembled by those put forth in the 2019-2020 plans in addition to remote learning needs as specified. Trustee Harris moved to approve the District and Campus Improvement Plans and was seconded by Trustee Miller. The motion passed unanimously.

Superintendent McWilliams then initiated the approval of personnel hires for the 2020-2021 school year. Hires included were: Maanami Bolton for School Psychologist; Nathan Tanguma for Secondary Teacher, Big Spring Junior High School; and Brandy Warren for Elementary Teacher, Marcy Elementary School. McWilliams also recognized a resignation from Jessica Hallford, a Secondary Teacher for Big Spring Junior High.

A Remote Learning Update was also provided by McWilliams stating 68% of virtual students in the high school have failed two or more classes alongside 85% of virtual students in the junior high having failed at least one class. The highest rate of failures derived from 6th graders with 79 out of 84 virtual students failing at least one class. Also noted, at this time, was 58% of high school seniors are currently not projected to graduate due to failing at least one class during the first six weeks.

"The honest truth is, a lot of them fail because they just don't log on and do the work," McWilliams said.

At this time, Big Spring ISD is 23% virtual overall with 2,915 students in-person and 883 students virtually, according to Big Spring ISD's website.

222 students have returned to in-person learning after the first six weeks, according to McWilliams.

Discussion was then held on taking possible action via three different options presented to the Board by McWilliams. The first being to completely remove remote learning and requiring all students to return to in-person learning. The second option would be only allowing students who are currently not failing one or more classes to continue with remote learning based on the premise that they do not fail one or more classes. The third option would be continuing on with the current learning measures that are already in place.

According to McWilliams, there are several districts that have completely removed remote learning from their campuses due to TEA no longer requiring virtual learning options to be available to students.

Discussion then ended with the possibility of having a special meeting Monday, Oct. 12, to decide what option would be best for Big Spring ISD.

During the meeting, a COVID-19 Update was also given by McWilliams and Assistant Superintendent for Operations George Bancroft.

According to Bancroft, Big Spring ISD's COVID-19 figures are sent to the Department of Health Services and a summary update is given to Chief Ferguson. Currently, there are 14 active student cases and 50 students in quarantine. Currently, there are 18 active staff cases and a total of 32 quarantined staff.

"This is about as severe as it's gotten with our 18 personnel cases," Bancroft said.

Discussion was also held on the amount of bus drivers currently out, with two of them currently with active cases, two quarantined, and two out due to other illnesses. According to McWilliams, several staff members have volunteered to drive bus routes in lieu of having no bus drivers, but impacts have been seen in student attendance due to the lack of bus drivers not being able to complete their routes, according to Thompson.

"That's on us as a district," Trustee Miller said.

According to Bancroft, 10% of Big Spring ISD staff is out beginning tomorrow.

"So at what point do we say, 'Okay, we're going to call it, we're going to disinfect, everybody take care of business," Trustee Miller said.

Superintendent McWilliams noted that, for Big Spring ISD, closing school in order to disinfect could soon be a valid option.

"That's not an easy decision. For me to shut down school, that's a tough decision, because I don't want kids not coming to school. But on the other hand, if it comes to a point where we can't service them the way we need to... That was a serious discussion we had two days ago," McWilliams said.

If Big Spring ISD decides to close several campuses for cleaning, online instruction would still take place for staff and teachers since the ISD currently has a 1:1 ratio for Chromebooks provided to students, according to McWilliams.

Before the meeting adjourned, an Enrollment Report for Big Spring ISD was also provided to the Board.

According to Big Spring ISD's Enrollment Report, located on their website, campus totals have maintained the same number of students as compared to the last report given on Sept. 18, 2020.

BOOK

and get a small glimpse into their war, was not just an honor for me, I truly believe it helped me become closer to my dad, even though he's gone now."

Tiger Bravo members Mike Tarpley of Big Spring, Chuck Limer and Steve Lyle from the Dallas Metroplex - both former Dove Hunt honorees, and Dan Bernard from Florida first gathered for the book signing before heading into their reunion weekend activities. For two hours, the men shared their history while signing multiple copies of the book Tiger Bravo with members of the community who attended the event.

"The men were truly amazed at how Big Spring turned out," Tarpley said. "Throughout the weekend we were able to make memories and the people in Big Spring were a big part of those memories."

Before the weekend was over, the group visited the Hangar 25 Air Museum, made a stop at The Historic Spring and honored their fallen brothers with Roll Call at the Vietnam Memorial.

"While we were making new memories, we are thankful that we had a group of people who were right there with us capturing those memories so they can be shared later with family, friends, loved ones and the younger generation," Tarpley said.

The veterans were honored with a customized metal art of the 101st Airborne Eagle underlined by the Tiger Bravo name from local metal artist Gerald King; a light blue Tiger Bravo shirt from Mike and Matt Bagwell; and a customized, commemorative plaque and 101st Airborne mask by Mike Tarpley. In addition to the souvenirs from their reunion weekend, the group along with their wives were treated to lunch by Al's and Sons Bar-B-Q.

"I was surprised by the outpouring of support we received from Big Spring, the community truly turned out and welcomed these men. The pride I had for Big Spring was amazing," Tarpley said. "I told these men we may not be Dallas or a larger city, but the heart here is big."

In addition to the wealth of history contained within the experiences of these four veterans and the stories their lives contained, sitting in a little room inside the Hotel Settles was a great display of heroism, as between the four there were six purple hearts.

"This was an opportunity for the community to see, to come face to face with those who lived through battle and see how they came out on the other side," Mike Tarpley, local Big Spring Veteran and member of Tiger Bravo, said. "There is a stigma associated with those who served in the Vietnam War and this weekend Big Spring residents had the rare opportunity to see how we turned out and turned into productive citizens, even after all that we saw and living through the things we experienced."

of us who didn't get to make it this weekend due to the pandemic and the upheaval it has caused across our nation, they missed the best reunion we've had. Those who weren't able to be here though will have an opportunity to see the journey we took this weekend through the pictures, the newspaper articles, and other souvenirs that we will be sending them."

These four men made the choice to share their story, along with so many others, in hopes that their history would never be forgotten. Thank you for your service, Thank you for your sacrifice. Your fight mattered; your impact, your story will not be forgotten.

Reflections: The Journey

I grew up in a small town in north-central Texas. Our family never traveled far. I sometimes tell people that my first visit to a foreign country was across the Red River into Oklahoma. But when I was 18, I started a journey that has taken me to places I never imagined: the Opera House in Sydney Harbor, the coast of New Zealand, fishing for piranha on the Amazon, volcanoes in Guatemala, a lighthouse at Banda Aceh, Indonesia, the pyramids of Egypt, Mozart's home in Salzburg, the Docu Zentrum in Nuremberg, the Pantheon in Rome, Lennin's Tomb and the Kremlin in Moscow. If someone told me in my youth that I would visit these places, I would have thought they were crazy.

Something about the human spirit is drawn to the journey. Maybe that is why On the Road Again remains one of Willie Nelson's most popular songs. We are mesmerized by the expeditions of Marco Polo, Columbus, Magellan, Lewis and Clark, Lindbergh, John Glenn and Neil Armstrong. We are drawn to the imaginary journeys of Hobbits seeking Mount Doom and Star Trek's quest to go where no man has gone before. Covid has caused many of us to cancel or suspend our trips. But we still hunger to travel. Journeys, both real and imagined, change the world and they change us.

God chooses to reveal himself through our journeys. Redemption starts with God's call to Abraham to leave his father's country and go to places he had never seen. Moses' journey out of Egypt produced the Ten Commandments which provide the basis for all moral understanding. No journey was ever more life changing than the journey Jesus started when he left Nazareth and gathered 12 men to follow him. Their travels on foot through the regions of Galilee, Judea and Samaria changed the world. The stories of their encounters with the lame, the blind, the rich, the poor, prostitutes and priests provide us the framework for understanding God and ourselves.

We are all on a journey. The journeys we choose, where we go, how we get there and who goes with us will shape us and change us for the better or the worse. Sometimes our journeys lead us to distant places, sometimes close to home. The most important decisions about any journey is how we trust in God and how we treat others along the way.

We like to think we will all arrive at the same destination no matter what we believe, what we do or how we live. But the fact of the matter is that different roads lead to different places. Jesus said "broad is the way and wide is the gate that leads to destruction and there are many who enter through it. For the gate is small and the way is narrow that leads to life and there are few who find it." (Matthew 7:13-14) He alone knows the way that leads to life and He continually invites us to join the journey that leads us there saying, "Come, follow me" (Mark 10:21).

Natural Born Rebel

"Thou hast ascended on high, thou hast led captivity captive: thou hast received gifts for men; yea, for the rebellious also, that the LORD God might dwell among them." Psalms 68:18

TOM
SLOAN

As a teenage son of fundamentalist missionaries, I had a big problem with authority. I have always been a black sheep, never finding the means wherewith to "submit" to the jurisdiction of those in command. It seems as if everything in me has always bucked the norm, the standard - that which was expected of a "normal" human being. Warnings don't work, threatenings fuel my stubborn resolve and I have experienced that the way of the transgressor is hard. Having observed those around me, happily prospering as a result of submission to their authority, I aspired to concede to some form of power somewhere that would not scorn me in my quest to "fit in". After many years of searching, I finally concluded that if being accepted meant allowing one's self to be controlled, then I would never be loved.

I came to understand that I didn't need an authority, I needed a Sovereign. Ironically, after searching for that "just-right" authority and not finding it, it came to me, softly and tenderly. And it was one that fit me perfectly - that of the risen Christ. As a natural born rebel, this is the only authority that my insubordinate heart has been able to recognize. My soul has no choice but to follow when I hear His words. Being dragged down the road of life shackled by the chains of rebellion is a tiring proposition. But Jesus says - come unto me and I will give you rest. I give Jesus the keys to my heart because I know that He will never abuse His authority.

What does God do about rebels? He dwells among them and brings them gifts. God knows that there is something special about rebels, something indomitable. And once the rebel has seen that he is violently loved by his Creator, his rebellion is taken as loyalty to his Master. His lawlessness was the cocoon that birthed him into the glorious liberty of the sons of God and he perceives that he was created for this. He knows that a place has been set just for him at the banqueting table of the One whom he once deemed as his bitter enemy. And he rests, knowing that it is ok to be a rebel. His humble rebellion is vindicated by Emanuel, the God who chooses to dwell with him.

The Christian and civil government

Every man is many things. The Christian finds his role as Father, Husband, Doctor, Farmer, Mother, Son, Daughter, and Friend all influenced by his commitment. The challenge of life lies not in separating our functions but in allowing them to compliment each other. This becomes especially true with the Christian as a citizen.

RALPH

The apostle Paul wrote to the Roman brethren to be in subjection to higher powers; for there is no power but of God (Romans 13:1). Christians can be happier and considerably more fruitful if we will accept the words of Paul in Romans 13:1-7 and Peter in 1 Peter 2:13-17. They seem to say three things:

1. Accept the government. Romans 13:2-5 If Paul could command the Roman brethren to be in subjection, then we can live as Christians under any kind of law. When we feel inclined to excuse ourselves because of restrictions placed on us by the law we need to understand that God knows about those restrictions and expects us to abide by them. always expects us to do what we can with what we have. He knows the limitations placed on our Christian deeds by taxes, war, etc. He also knows of the privileges and opportunities we have because we live under the present system of law and order. Paul explains to the Romans that they need to be on the side of the law so they will not live in constant anticipation of the government's wrath. Such a man is a poor disciple of Christ! The man who can live free from fear of punishment and free from goads of a guilty conscience is a man who can focus his attention upward and onward, rather than over his shoulder.

2. Pay the price of Government. Romans 13:6-7. The Christian is a giver. This in itself makes him a unique citizen. Christ performed a miracle in order to pay a tribute (Matthew 17:24ff). One wonders how much of the tax money was used to finance a drunken orgies frequented by the Roman rulers. God's justice would not make the tax payers responsible for the decisions of the rulers.

Paul clearly advocates that we become citizens who support a God-ordained government with not only our money but also our influence and encouragement. Those men of our city, state and national offices are due our respect and honor. They serve God, some as Christians and some not, but god uses them to fulfill His will. A few rebellious people who make the news so often today could learn this principle and be much better for it.

3. Use the Government. 1 Peter 2:15-16. Paul used the law of Rome to advance Christ. His appeal to Caesar allowed him opportunities to preach and teach he might have never enjoyed had he defied and rebelled against the authority of Rome. Peter admonishes Christians to develop such a reputation of well-doing that those ignorant men of the world can find no law with which to accuse. God is a God of love and it is His will that we manifest that love to all the world. How often we waste our time by looking for loopholes in law. We often expend our energy in avoiding detection of violations we feel are our "rights". Should we not rather become servants of God and uphold the law He has ordained?

Submit yourselves to every ordinances of man for the Lord's sake (1 Peter 2:13).

4. Pray for rulers and all that are in high places. So the conclusion is Accept, Pay, and Obey.

Just saying in our crazy world Paul probably has given us some very good advice is we would but listen.

Something to think about...

There were several kids and even some teachers walking around the school this morning wearing pajamas. As we entered the school, I thought we were lost and somehow ended up at Walmart, where pajamas in public is acceptable attire. In reality, it is just "spirit week" in our community. I'm not sure who came up with the idea, but our children wear "interesting" outfits to show their school spirit.

Normally we wouldn't send our kids to school in pajamas, but today is a special exception. However, it reminded me of the numerous times we've looked at our children and said, "You are not going out wearing that." They inevitably retort, "Why not! What's wrong with what I'm wearing?" Because... those clothes are dirty, you've been wearing that same shirt for four days, it is freezing outside so you can't wear shorts and sandals... well you get the idea. It is amazing how many battles we have over something as simple as clothing. The struggle is real. At the heart of it, we know what our children are wearing is a reflection on us and we don't want any calls from CPS because our children appear neglected.

I sometimes wonder if our Heavenly Father feels the same way. If we listen closely, I think we'll often hear Him say, "You're not really going out wearing that, are you?" Of course, He is not as concerned with our clothes as He is with our spiritual covering.

In Colossians 3, Paul tells us to "take off the old self with its practices and put on the new self, which is being renewed in knowledge in the image of its Creator." God has provided new clothing for us. We need to take off our old clothes; old attitudes, mindsets, priorities, and practices so that we can put on the new. As Paul goes on to write:

"Therefore, as God's chosen people, holy and dearly loved, clothe yourselves with compassion, kindness, humility, gentleness and patience. Bear with each other and forgive one another if any of you has a grievance against someone. Forgive as the Lord forgave you. And over all these virtues put on love, which binds them all together in perfect unity." (Colossians 3:12-14 NIV)

What are you wearing? We are connected to Christ. We represent Him in this world. May we stop trying to spiritually dress ourselves with those dirty old clothes we find lying around. Instead I pray that we put on the clothing that He paid for and picked out for us. We will look and feel so much better!

Haste makes waste

How many times do we hurry and scurry to get something done and then have to wait until after the deadline has passed us by to present our finished work?

Or we hast through something and have to back up and start over to do the job correctly? It happens all the time in our world of rapid communication systems.

Computers were supposed to be the one thing that changed the world to make things go faster. But - how many times have they shut down, or failed to save your work, or just plain stopped working - computer crash.

As a world out of our control right now - this is the time to stop hasting around like a chicken with its head cut off, and stop wasting the time of reflection on why this chaos is happening. Now is the time for God's people to stop. Stop doing. Stop our wicked ways. Stop ignoring the mandate to pray. Stop and find what God is trying to say to us.

He wants our fellowship, our fellowship, our friendship, and a relationship that lasts throughout all eternity. The only way to get on His "ship" is to slow down and wait for His direction in life. We have gotten off course, and become coarse in our actions toward others as well as our God. The Love or many has waxed cold. Only the warmth of His Holy Spirit actively working in our lives can melt the wax and bring us back to His leading.

So turn around and go His way. Let Him call the shots. Instead of trying to be the big shot in your realm of existence, call on Him to show you the way of non-haste so you can be in non-waste mode. You will be blessed if you do.

Coahoma JV struggles with field position, loses district opener to Idalou 34-8

By SHAWN MORAN
Herald Sports Writer

Coahoma's JV took the field on Thursday night for a home matchup against the visiting Idalou Wildcats in their first district game of the season. The Bulldogs would fall by a final score of 34-8 as they struggled with penalties throughout the game and the strong front seven of Idalou was consistently finding their way into the backfield.

The Wildcats also won the field position battle and started their drives inside Coahoma territory on multiple occasions. The Bulldogs will need to rebound when they hit the field next week on their trip to challenge the Stanton Buffaloes.

three total plays for the first time to find the end zone for the first time following the blocked punt. Dru Harrington jumpstarted the Idalou offense with a 24-yard run that got his team all the way down inside the 5-yard line. After one more short rush by Tyler Jack, Harrington dove into the end zone on a 1-yard scoring run that gave his team their first lead. The extra point was good and the Wildcats led 7-0 with 4:34 remaining in the first half.

On the next Coahoma drive, the Bulldogs were stringing together nice run after nice run but ended up facing a 4th-and-4 near midfield. Glidewell dropped back to pass and was intercepted by Harrington, who went on to return the ball to the Coahoma 6-yard line.

Facing a 3rd-and-Goal from the 15-yard line following a holding call, Idalou quarterback Cooper Ross delivered a perfectly-placed ball to the left corner of the end zone that was caught by Brycen Ladd for another quick Wildcat touchdown. This time, the extra point was no good and Idalou held a 13-0 lead heading into halftime.

Idalou could not have planned a better start to the second half when kick returner Jeter Garcia took opening kickoff of the second half 70 yards and into the end zone. The Wildcats ran a fake field goal for the extra point and converted to make the score 21-0 early in the third quarter.

Coahoma was trying to get their running game going but were struggling to find open holes for their playmakers to hit. The next Bulldogs' drive ended with a turnover on downs after Glidewell was tackled nine yards behind the line of scrimmage on a fourth down conversion attempt.

Idalou running back Malakhi Brisco started off the next drive with a 25-yard run that put his time in the red zone. A few plays later, when facing a 4th-and-7, Harrington passed to the right corner of the end zone where Garcia made a leaping grab over the Coahoma defender for another Idalou touchdown. The extra point attempt was good and the Wildcats held a 28-0 lead with 3:44 remaining in the third quarter.

Coahoma's offense once again could not get anything going and were forced to punt from their own 36-yard line.

Idalou took over at their own 32-yard line and put together another strong drive. Coahoma nose tackle Shane White had himself a strong second half stuffing the inside runs but the rest of the defense had trouble with Idalou's big running backs. After a long drive that ate up more than eight minutes on the game clock, Idalou running back Braxton Stephens ran 10 yards into the end zone for the last Idalou touchdown of the night. The extra point attempt was no good and the Wildcats had a 34-0 lead with just under three minutes remaining.

That is when Coahoma put together their only scoring drive of the game. After three straight rushes by Bandy, the Bulldogs handed it off to Eleda. He took the ball 28 yards and ended up inside the red zone and just outside of the Idalou 10-yard line. After three more runs by Bandy, Coahoma was facing a 4th-and-10 from the 11-yard line. That is when Glidewell found Boaz open for a Bulldog touchdown. The two-point conversion was successful on a pass from Glidewell to Perkins and the Idalou lead had been trimmed to 34-8 with just seven seconds remaining in the game.

Idalou took a kneel on their final play and it was official that Coahoma had dropped their first JV district game of the season.

UP NEXT: The Bulldogs will travel to Stanton to take on the Buffaloes next Thursday night at 6:00.

James A. Ragan Memorial Set for Oct. 11-12

CORPUS CHRISTI – The Legends Junior Tour will host the sixth annual James A. Ragan Memorial at Corpus Christi Country Club from Oct. 11-12.

“James’s experiences at Legends Junior Tour tournaments and the friends he made always meant a lot to him,” said Mecklin Ragan, James’s sister and co-founder of the unique foundation, Triumph Over Kids Cancer. “It’s incredibly humbling to see an organization continue to honor James’s memory and help Triumph Over Kids Cancer raise awareness for pediatric cancer by hosting the James A. Ragan Memorial.”

James Ragan was diagnosed with a rare form of bone cancer in 2006 at the age of 13. Despite undergoing a grueling treatment regimen of chemotherapy, surgeries, radiation and experimental drug trails, Ragan started playing in LJT events just two years after his diagnosis. He became not only one of the top junior golfers in the state, but also one of the most inspirational.

The Corpus Christi native recorded three top-25 finishes on the LJT and won the 2010 Jimmy Demaret Junior Classic. He was a member of the 2010 Jackie Burke Cup South Team and was awarded the LJT Sportsmanship Award. He played in more than 20 events on the LJT before playing collegiately for Rice University in 2011.

After two seasons competing in the Owls, Ragan’s battle with cancer drew to a close in February of 2014. Ragan’s foundation Triumph Over Kids Cancer continues to raise money for cancer research. Today, the fund exceeds $3 million and is dedicated to improving the lives of children with cancer.

In 2015, the LJT created the James A. Ragan Memorial to remember the legacy of Ragan and his character. Now in its sixth year, the championship returns for the fourth time to Ragan’s home course.

“The LJT is honored to host this event as James was a great golfer but an amazing person,” LJT Tournament Director, Kevin Porter said. “To team up with Triumph Over Kids Cancer makes this event special and gives players a chance to give back and help James’ cause.”

Last year, Austin’s Andrew Tan captured the Boys 15-18 Division after carding rounds of 68-68. His impressive 36-hole total of 6-under-par 136 was five shots clear of the field. Tan will look to defend his title this year and capture his first LJT victory of the season.

In the Girls 12-18 Division, Meagan Winans of Richardson claimed her first LJT title with rounds of 73-67, while Andrew Petruzelli of Dallas won the Boys 14 & Under division.

The LJT season has only one tournament remaining to earn points toward the race for Player of the Year. As the season comes to end, players are jockeying for the final few spots on their respective Jackie Burke Cup teams. The Jackie Burke Cup will consist of the top-12 players from North and South Texas. The teams will be made up of eight players from the Boys 15-18 Division, two players from the Girls 12-18 Division and two from the Boys 14 & Under Division. The teams will be based on the final Player of the Year Points Standings. Matthew Comegys of Plano leads the Boys 15-18, while Lauren Nguyen of Katy leads the Girls 12-18 and Trenton Mierl of Austin leads the Boys 14 & Under standings.

Contract Bridge

By Steve Becker

Multiple choice

1. The probability of being dealt a hand containing a five-card or longer suit is:

A. 75% B. 65% C. 55% D. 45%

2. The probability of being dealt at least one ace is:

A. 25% B. 50% C. 60% D. 70%

3. You are declarer in a notrump contract and hold A-Q-J-9 of a suit in which dummy has a low singleton. To make the contract, you must take three tricks in the suit. When you lead the singleton from dummy and the next player follows low, you should:

A. Play the nine; B. Play the queen; C. Play the ace.

4. When you and dummy together hold 10 cards of a suit, the probability of finding the missing cards divided 2-1 is:

1. B. A player is dealt 4-4-3-2 distribution 21.6% of the time; 4-3-3-3 10.5% of the time; 4-4-4-1 3% of the time. That covers about 35% of all deals. In the remaining deals, a player will hold at least one five-card or longer suit.

2. D. There are players who claim they never hold an ace and that this is why they always lose. Cold mathematics refutes this contention. All you have to do to silence such claims is offer these players odds of 2-1 per deal that they will be dealt at least one ace. If you find any takers (lucky you), you'll have even better odds in your favor than most gambling casinos!

3. A. Oddly enough, the nine is the right play. It will yield three tricks in the suit in about 52% of all deals, while playing the queen or ace will succeed less than half the time. You should therefore go with the odds and play the nine.

4. B. This knowledge would come in handy if, for example, you were considering bidding a grand slam and your only possible loser was in the trump suit, where you knew you held 10 cards in the combined hands missing the queen or queen-jack. In general, you should bid a grand slam when the odds are at least 2-1 in your favor. In the given case, therefore, you would undertake the grand slam because the odds are more than 3-to-1 in your favor.

Tomorrow: An unusual safety play.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Advanced

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

ARIES (March 21-April 19). No matter how dreamy an experience may be, there's going to be a point in which the fun becomes work. Also, work will get to a similar turn and become something you can't help but smile through.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You thought that if you didn't stay true to a certain belief, you wouldn't be you. But here you are, years later, having let go of the belief long ago and you're still somehow you -- simultaneously changed and unchanged.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). The hotter a relationship is, the more attention it needs. It's happening in a skillet, not a crockpot. There's no "set it and forget it" mode. It needs constant watching and stirring to keep from going up in flames.

enough. You have to be in love with the work itself for this to happen.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). The best ideas are not for everyone. Thankfully, you've a strong sense of purpose and do not have to feel understood or validated to feel good about who you are and what you're doing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Either you don't see your own strengths or you're just bored by them. This is why you need to be around new people. They'll see you as remarkable, and you should definitely let them fawn over you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Underserved things happen all the time. Those stuck in the model of "deserving" will be too busy making judgments to get results. It's better to think in terms of cause and effect -- of actions and consequences.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Art is highly subjective. If absolutely everyone likes it, it's probably not very good. The best art pushes boundaries. In many ways, you're an artist, and a particularly bold one right now.

have more or less control than they do. Good living depends on knowing what you have power over and focusing on that.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). The bottom line is that you feel more vital around certain people. Or, more to the point, there are people who seem able to drain your very essence, and they are to be avoided today.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Oct. 9). Once you decide that something is for you, you follow through with passion, creativity and commitment, qualities that eventually add up to experiences few in the world have been privy to. Friendship turns into a working arrangement, and most auspiciously so! You'll be able to help family in the ways you've dreamed of. Virgo and Scorpio adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 11, 8, 50, 23 and 16.

WEEKEND LOVE FORECAST: ARIES: Focusing on your love may not bring happiness, but relentless self-focus is a dependable route to unhappiness. TAURUS: Love has its seasons, and they can't be forced. The change is coming, so sit back and let it happen. GEMINI: The best thing you can do on a date is get comfortable and enjoy it. CANCER: You are trustworthy, loyal and resourceful -- qualities not to be taken for granted by you or by anyone. LEO: Riding the same emotional tone as someone is more important than matching up in other ways, such as meeting some sort of physical type. VIRGO: You'll make a positive impression and the ensuing connection shows promise. LIBRA: You'll summon the courage to do the thing that scared you. SCORPIO: Don't spend time with people who don't value your time. SAGITTARIUS: You forgive, not because it's deserved, but because it's what you need to do to move on. CAPRICORN: You'll do what you think will please someone and hit the bull's-eye. AQUARIUS: There is nothing better for a relationship than loving what is (instead of loving what could, should or might be.) PISCES: What's needed is more sweetness, kindness, playfulness and indulgence -- less talking about the relationship.

COUPLE OF THE WEEKEND: The Libra sun reflects off the shell of a Cancer moon, lathering this air and water couple into an effervescent state. They thrill each other's company. Libra gathers the beauty of the world into a bouquet to bring home to Cancer. Cancer turns the gift into something useful and fortifying. They play off each other's strengths and each brings a context to the other that couldn't be found anywhere else.

Love Me Tender

Dear Annie: I have been with my boyfriend for 15 years. He has been a great dad to my three sons. He cooks, cleans, changes diapers and takes care of my sons when they are sick. He has no children of his own. I am 20 years his senior. Our sex life was great for about 11 or so years. But it's gone downhill. He always wants to be intimate when I'm not in the mood, but I go along with it to make him happy, and I oblige all his requests. But when I am in the mood and he's not, he doesn't care. The tenderness is gone from our intimacy, as well as the excitement. I'd appreciate your advice here. We don't even kiss anymore because his breath smells like cigarettes and marijuana. -- Looking for Love

Dear Looking for Love: The last line of your letter is perhaps the most important one: If he's using marijuana excessively, it could be clouding your ability to share meaningful intimacy on many levels. So, express your concerns on that front -- with an attitude of caring, not blaming -- and see whether he would consider cutting back or taking a break.

And beyond that, be assertive about what you like and what you don't. In always indulging his wants, you're neglecting your own needs. If you find that there is a communication breakdown, I strongly recommend enlisting the help of a couples' counselor. It sounds as though on the whole this has been a loving relationship for you both, and it's worth putting in some work. The value of your relationship is worth more than the cost of the repairs.

Dear Annie: October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month. Please use your column to encourage people to be vigilant against breast cancer even if it doesn't run in their families. Although people who have had a relative with breast cancer are at greater risk for getting it themselves, only around 5 to 10% of breast cancer cases are hereditary, according to the American Cancer Society. There are many other risk factors besides genes. The following are a few suggestions from Stanford Medicine and the American Cancer Society to increase your protection from breast cancer.

--Maintain a healthy weight. According to Stanford Medicine, being overweight is a strong risk factor for breast cancer and "even a 10 percent weight gain can strongly increase the chances of breast cancer as well as a cancer recurrence."

--Eat a mostly plant-based diet rich in whole grains, legumes, fruits and vegetables. Contrary to what you may have heard, consuming soy does not appear to increase breast cancer risk. Stanford Medicine says that it is an "excellent source of protein, fiber, B vitamins, iron, calcium and isoflavones and that it can possibly help bind estrogen and may decrease the risk of hormone-related cancers such as breast and prostate."

--Avoid alcohol, which is a strong risk factor for many cancers, including breast cancers. According to the American Cancer Society, research has shown that, compared with women who don't drink at all, women who have two to three alcoholic drinks a day have about a 20% higher risk of getting breast cancer.

--Exercise regularly. These are just a few tips, and women should, of course, talk to their health care professionals about any concerns or questions they may have. I hope this information helps someone out there. -- Spread the Word

Dear Spread the Word: Thank you for sharing these tips to help readers reduce their risk of developing this disease. I encourage all women -- and men -- to talk to their doctors about the most prudent course for breast cancer screening.

Texas, OU set for most unusual version of Red River rivalry

DALLAS (AP) — No. 22 Texas and Oklahoma will meet with both the Red River rivals not ranked in the top 20 for the first time in the 21st century, in a mostly empty Cotton Bowl without the masses of burnt orange and crimson divided at the 50-yard line.

A masked Big Tex will greet the smattering of visitors in his usual slow drawl Saturday, but with the Texas Star ferris wheel and every other ride silent behind him. The pandemic shut down the state fair for the first time since World War II.

The five-time defending Big 12 champion Sooners (1-2, 0-2) have lost consecutive games for the first time since 1999, the year Texas won under circumstances similar to now in Bob Stoops' first season at OU when the No. 23 Longhorns rallied to beat the unranked Sooners.

Lincoln Riley sure isn't used to this after taking Oklahoma to the College Football Playoff each of his first three years since replacing Stoops. He has an unranked team for the first time coming off losses to Kansas State and Iowa State.

Texas coach Tom Herman doesn't think any of the above matters, nor does last week's 33-31 loss to TCU that knocked the Longhorns (2-1, 1-1) out of the top 10.

"This is in my opinion the greatest rivalry in college football," Herman said. "I know a lot is going to be different because of 2020, but this is still Oklahoma-Texas."

Sam Ehlinger is set to be the fifth Texas quarterback to start this rivalry four times, not counting the Big 12 championship game two years ago. He's 1-2 in the Cotton Bowl, and also lost the 2018 title game to the Sooners at nearby AT&T Stadium, home of the Dallas Cowboys. Talented Oklahoma freshman Spencer Rattler is trying to follow in the Heisman Trophy tradition of Baker Mayfield and Kyler Murray, who became No. 1 NFL draft picks after leading the Sooners to the playoff under Riley.

Rattler's first experience of running down the Cotton Bowl ramp won't be nearly what it was for Ehlinger and so many others before him because capacity is being limited to 25,000 in the 90-year-old stadium that now seats 93,000.

"It's hard to understand what it feels like to play this game," Riley said. "Now this year, there's definitely going to be some differences. It's still gonna be a great football game. That's not going to stop that."

STRANGE DAY INDEED

From the moment the buses reach the state fairground, it will feel different for players who have experienced the game before. Normally, throngs of people enjoying the state fair line up to welcome — or jeer — the caravan.

"Just the bus ride in is always one of the, other than the game, is one of the coolest parts of this," Riley said. "To pull into the fairgrounds without anybody there will be a little eerie."

times last season, battering him under a barrage of stunting blitzes and a defensive line that collapsed the pocket around him.

The Texas offensive line hasn't been nearly as porous through the first three games this season. The Longhorns didn't allow a sack last week against TCU, and Ehlinger leads the country with 14 touchdown passes.

UNEVEN RATTLER

While the former Arizona high school standout leads the Big 12 in yards passing and efficiency, he and Texas Tech's Alan Bowman are tied for the most interceptions with four. Rattler had chances to lead tying or winning drives late in both losses, but those hopes ended with interceptions both times.

TEXAS PASS RUSH

Texas had high hopes that a new defensive scheme using linebacker Joseph Ossai as an edge pass rusher would make a huge difference this season in getting to opposing quarterbacks. Not yet.

Ossai has just one sack and the Longhorns have just one total the past two games. They were close several times last week, but the biggest hit was costly when linebacker Juwan Mitchell was ejected for targeting.

COVID-19 RULES

State fair officials are requiring all visitors to wear masks, and game officials said security personnel will be in the stands to enforce the guidelines on masks and social distancing.

No. 24 Iowa St goes for 3-0 in Big 12 when Texas Tech visit

Iowa State fans celebrated the Cyclones' first home win over Oklahoma in 60 years deep into this week.

As for the team itself, once the postgame party ended in the locker room, it was on to Texas Tech.

"Whether it's a win or loss, we know the reality is you're judged at the end of the season, not from game to game," coach Matt Campbell said. "Sometimes that can be hard for everybody else. In our walls, our kids understand that. We're trying to get better one day at a time. We've never been result-driven. We've always been process-driven."

Wide receiver Xavier Hutchinson said he and his teammates know the win over OU won't mean as much if they stumble at home against the Red Raiders (1-2, 0-2 Big 12) on Saturday.

"We all relished the moment and enjoyed it all together," he said. "We have great leaders to remind us this is a new week and this is a new opportunity against a really good opponent."

The Cyclones (2-1, 2-0) are looking to open conference play with three straight wins for the first time since 2002 and only the second time since 1950.

All three of the Red Raiders' games have been close, starting with a 35-33 win over FCS Houston Baptist. They lost 63-56 in overtime to Texas after squandering a 56-41 lead with under 3 minutes to play in regulation. Last week, they led 21-17 at Kansas State early in the fourth quarter before losing 31-21.

"We're this close to getting it together," Tech defensive lineman Tony Bradford Jr. said, holding his right thumb and index finger an inch apart. "We just have to do a better job as a unit and as a team taking all the work we've done in practice and moving it to game day. When we do, man, watch out."

Second-year Tech coach Matt Wells said he's been impressed with how his players have handled the disappointment.

"Internally there is a lot of belief here," Well said. "I do believe we have to keep grinding, keep knocking on the door and at some point that door is going to open and hopefully we don't just stick our little toe in there and stop the door — we slam the door wide open and throw it open. And I do believe our time is coming, though. I've got a great belief and faith in that."

TECH QB SITUATION

Wells has not named a starting quarterback. Alan Bowman, who has started 13 straight games, was knocked out of the Kansas State game with an ankle injury. If Bowman can't play, Utah State transfer Henry Colombi would get the call.

SERIES STREAK

Iowa State has won four in a row over the Red Raiders, including 34-24 in Lubbock, Texas, last year. Breece Hall ran for 183 yards and two second-half touchdowns. Texas Tech and Kansas are the only Big 12 teams Campbell beat each of his first four years at Iowa State.

The last time the Red Raiders won in the series, in 2015, future Super Bowl champion and NFL MVP Patrick Mahomes threw for 428 yards and five touchdowns in a 66-31 win.

SACKING CYCLONES

Iowa State's 11 sacks through three games lead the Big 12 and are tied for 10th nationally. Will McDonald has 8.5 sacks in his last seven games, tied for first by an active FBS player since Nov. 16, 2019.

RAIDING THE RANKED

The Red Raiders will try to take down a Top 25 opponent for the third straight season, having beaten a ranked Oklahoma State team each of the last two years.
